

O Summoner 1291

Chapter 1291 Side Story: Fairy Dragon I

Before the guild war, Peridot has been meaning to find a way to evolve as she managed to read something about a special ancestor of the Ryujin. It was an existence that is said to be a Ryujin that came from the moon as they have the power of the moon.

The power of the moon does not necessarily mean that they are drawing power from the moon but have powers that constitute to the natural abilities of the moon. It is also known that the moon is connected to the Faekin as they are said to be descendants of the very first being that was created by the moon itself.

Since the Faekin and the moon are synonymous to one another in ancient times, the dragons that have the same power as the moon are called Fairy Dragons. Dragons that have the ability to alter nature itself with their own will just like how the moon influences the waves or the light during the night.

Peridot knew that stories like these are not untrue as some are based on what really happened. Adrian told her that the folktales that she hears often have some truth to them which is why he likes to learn of the lore of Pandemonium. Also, Peridot saw the words Fairy Dragon and she immediately thought that she would become cute.

"Master Nu Wa, can you tell me about the Fairy Dragons?" Peridot asked as she was incredibly interested in them.

Nu Wa did not expect that her child will be interested in such an old legend. In her long life in the mortal realm, she has only encountered one Fairy Dragon in her life. She might have been a goddess in her past life, but she knew that the Fairy Dragon is a special existence on par with the Genesis Dragon.

"Why do you wish to know about them? Even in my long life, I have only encountered one and have talked to them." Nu Wa stated as she looked at Peridot.

"I am interested in them because I want to evolve into one." Peridot stated as she knows that all other beings could increase their Persona and some beings need to evolve in order to do that.

"You are already a Ryujin that is about to become an elder. You just need to diligently practice, and you will be able to evolve just fine. Why are chasing something that is very difficult to attain?" Nu Wa asked Peridot.

"I want to become stronger for my friends as I feel that I barely help them when it comes to combat." Peridot stated.

"You are still a young Ryujin which is why you cannot deal powerful attacks. Once you become an Elder Ryujin, you will be able to make the elements bow down to you. You are very rare as you have the talents to control the four natural elements just like me. Ryujin like us two are very rare and are the symbol of race's pride." Nu Wa stated.

"I know that but in the book that I have read, it is said that the one of the ancestors of the Ryujins was a Fairy Dragon. I want to become one if that is a possibility." Peridot stated.

Nu Wa knows why her child wants to become a more powerful Ryujin because she is getting overshadowed by her fellow friends. She wanted to tell Peridot to not compare herself to her monstrous Asmodian demon friend but did not. She is glad that her daughter wants to become someone stronger and wants to catch up to her peers.

"This is why I do not want her to hang out with that Asmodian demon that has the blessing of the Twin Gods. If only I was back in the divine realm, then I would definitely give my blessing to my favorite child. If only the Peach of Immortality was still available in the mortal realm, then I would get enough energy to repair my divinity." Nu Wa thought to herself.

Nu Wa is the creator of the Ryujin but it is widely spread that it was the Goddess Tiamat was the one that birthed all dragons but that is not entirely true. The Goddess Tiamat and the Goddess Nuwa were the ones that birthed the dragons.

The Goddess Tiamat was responsible to what people call the western dragons as they were born in her image. The western dragons as they call it have more powerful and large bodies with wings on their backs. They also have powerful arms and legs that could be used for catastrophic damage. The Goddess Tiamat created two of what was called the Progenitor of Dragons.

These western dragons were typically more ruthless and greedier as they boasted power rivaling the Goddess Tiamat. The Goddess Tiamat might be a goddess of life, but she is also a very boastful goddess which might have been passed down to her creations as the western dragons tend to act as overlords. They act like overlords because they like to wave their strength to others.

The Goddess Nuwa was responsible for the creation of what people call the eastern dragons as they were also born in her image. The eastern dragons are serpentine in appearance as they are described being more elegant and graceful. The Goddess Nuwa created two of what was called the Progenitor of Dragons.

The eastern dragons tend to be more elusive and calmer unlike their western counterpart which is taken from the Goddess Nuwa's composed personality. They also tend to be treated as guardians as they revered their mother goddess as a creator of life thus hold life as precious. Although, they also have a fearsome and ruthless personality when slighted which is why one should never offend an eastern dragon.

The people of olden times learned to never take advantage of the kindness of the eastern dragons because they will become demons that spread flood and calamity if angered. There is a reason why the Ryujin are called the tranquil because they stay that way unless angered. Should they lose their tranquil state then they become bringers of calamity. It is also the reason why Peridot immediately got the Bringer of Calamity title when she became a Ryujin.

"I should tell you truth about the dragons which will tell you why it might be impossible for you to become a Fairy Dragon that you want to be." Nu Wa stated as she relayed the information to Peridot.

Nu Wa told Peridot that the Ryujin are basically dragons that were the weakest of what the people call as eastern dragons. The more powerful ones were killed in the war between the dark gods as they valued the life on this earth and sacrificed themselves when their mother goddess died fighting the dark gods. Nu Wa also told her that the Fairy Dragon is like the Genesis Dragon which is a Progenitor of the Dragon Species.

Becoming a Fairy Dragon is almost impossible because it was an existence that she personally crafted when she was the Goddess Nuwa. She made the Fairy Dragon with her own blood and a few special things in the mix. Water that was blessed by the Elemental Kings of Nature and a stone made of pure Moon Rock bathe with the light of the sun for more than a thousand years. She also added a few things but these two were the most important.

"It would not be easy for you to get these two items as the path to the world of the Elemental Kings are already cut off. They are also very antagonistic of each other which is why you will have a difficult time getting at least one to bless pure water that has already been blessed by one. For the Pure Moon Rock, you will have to get one through pure chance which is also close to impossible as even going to the moon is not enough." Nu Wa stated.

"Should I tell her that the Elemental Kings are in another world called Alfheim where the Faekin are also located? Nope. I just need to keep it to myself as I already know the two things needed." Peridot thought.

"I hear your sound reasoning my beloved master, but I shall at least try because I will regret if I do not. Should I get those two items like you said, what should I do with them?" Peridot asked her master.

"If you get those items then all you need is to bring them to me as I will create a pill that might induce this evolution." Nu Wa replied as she could just whup up that pill since she has enough powers to do so.

She also now has a base compared to before where she created everything from scratch. She would just need to create a catalyst to trigger the evolution since the blood of the Fairy Dragon runs deep in the Ryujins. She has this odd feeling that her daughter might do so which is why she is not actively stopping her.

Chapter 1292 Side Story: Fairy Dragon II

With the knowledge of gaining the chance to evolve into a Fairy Dragon, Peridot immediately approached Levin Cloud and Kabrakan as she knew that they would help her in getting those items. She wanted to ask Adrian for assistance, but he is not in Avalon for some of his own business.

"You need us to help you gain something called Pure Water Blessed by the Elemental Kings and a Pure Moon Rock bathe in sunlight for more than a thousand years. I can help you with the water thing as we can go to Alfheim, but the moon rock is a different matter. Have you asked the demons about the moon rock?" Levin Cloud asked.

"I have asked them, and they said that Pure Moon rocks are quite rare and one bathe in sunlight for at least a thousand years is even more so. I did get a description of how this Pure Moon Rock looks like though. It looks like a miniature moon that is radiating small pulses of light." Peridot stated.

"Do you have a drawing of this rock?" Kabrakan asked.

"I have it here in a scroll." Peridot stated as she showed the appearance of the Pure Moon Rock.

"I think I have seen it before." Kabrakan stated.

"Where!" Peridot stated in excitement.

"In the village of the Rabbit Beastmen. This is one of their treasures, but I doubt they will give it to you though." Kabrakan stated.

"At least, we have an idea. Let us get that water first! I may not be thirsty, but my soul is!" Peridot stated.

"Why is she suddenly pumped up?" Kabrakan whispered to Levin Cloud.

"Do not even ask. We might get a ten-page essay. Just do as she says as she helped us a lot of times already." Levin Cloud stated and Kabrakan agreed.

"Let us go to Alfheim!" Peridot stated in utter excitement.

Levin Cloud touched the ground below him and uttered some sort of incantation. A small magic circle appeared on the ground as a small bud sprouted. The small bud then grew until it turned into a flower that has rainbow-colored petals that are still closed up. The flower then opened up and swallowed the three that were standing still.

The three of them got swallowed by the plant as the flower became smaller until it regressed into a bud then into the magic circle. The next thing that the three knew is that they were spat out by the flower into the world of Alfheim. A place filled with nature's mana that makes it look like the world is bursting at the seams. A place filled with numerous flora and fauna that cannot live in the main world.

"What was that?" Peridot asked as she thought she would use a portal or something.

"That was my skill called the Bifrost Flower. It is a special plant that can traverse the universe as long as they have a Tree of Life and I have been there before. It is not a combat skill though which is why we cannot use it as a means to escape when in battle.

"Wow! Are Asmodian descendant races able to traverse the universe freely or something?" Peridot asked which shocked Levin Cloud and Kabrakan because they have not thought of this before.

"I am not sure, but I think we have the ability to given certain conditions, but the Daemos are the outliers since they have time and space at their feet. The Faekin could traverse any world that has either a Tree of Life or a Tree of Death. What about the Selvaggians?" Levin Cloud stated.

"For the Selvaggians, we can also traverse to worlds as long as there is a shrine that has a relic of The Wilde Spirit. Not all could do this though as one would need the Blessing of the Wilde Spirit to be able to do this." Kabrakan stated.

The three are talking about an interesting thing because what they speculated is true. Any of the Asmodian Descendant Races have special means of traversing the universe because it was their ancestors that separated the completed world in the first place.

"Does that mean the Erebian could traverse the universe using darkness? What about the Jotunns then?" Kabrakan asked as neither Solstice nor Lycan seem to have that ability.

"I do not know as we have yet to see them use it, but we do know that the Solstice and Lycan can use the darkness around them. For Jotunns, we will not know because there has yet to be a player to become a pure blooded one. There is a half Jotunn player, but one needs to be pure. Maybe something will happen when all five races already have a representative." Levin Cloud stated as they suddenly arrived at a lake with clear water.

The water of the lake did not even have any form of dirt as it was extremely clear. Not even fishes or any type of water plants could be seen in this lake. It is extremely beautiful but there is a powerful presence hiding within the lake that makes any being stay away from it.

"Shall we take the water? This should be the Pure Water, right?" Peridot asked Levin Cloud but before the latter could answer a large presence suddenly floated atop the lake.

"Leave while I am still being nice, Envoy of the Twin Gods and his friends." A large blue catfish stated.

"It is nice to meet you again, King Adamsale." Levin Cloud stated as he bowed to show his respect to the Water Elemental King that appeared before them.

Name: Adamsale

Title: Water Elemental King of the Pure Waters

Race: Elemental

Species: Water Elemental King

Level: Unknown

Health: Unknown

MP: Unknown

Description: A Water Elemental King that purifies any body of water that he inhabits. He is very territorial but will not immediately kill any being that trespasses in his territory. Be careful as he could blast you with a powerful torrent of water that can send you flying for thousands of meters.

Chapter 1293 Side Story: Fairy Dragon III

"Please do not say that to us, King Adamsale. We did not come here because we want to cause trouble. We have come here for a good reason." Levin Cloud stated with great respect which made King Adamsale calm down a bit.

"And what is this reason? You even brought a Selvaggian and a Ryujin with you. Do not think that you can defeat me with these three." King Adamsale stated.

"I wish to acquire a bottle of your Pure Water. I wish to get it because I need it in order to evolve." Peridot stated with all honesty.

The Water Elemental King looked at Peridot with scrutinizing eyes and he could tell that the Ryujin before him is speaking the truth. Unlike the ones that approach his lake with bad intentions or even asking for permission, these youngsters have respect, and he should at least hear them out.

"Explain why my Pure Water makes you evolve?" King Adamsale asked Peridot.

"According to my master, I will need Pure Water Blessed by the Elemental Kings in order to become a Fairy Dragon." Peridot answered truthfully which shocked the Water Elemental King as he suddenly remembered something long ago.

"What a cute fish. You make any water around you inhabit clean which is why I shall take care of you until you are strong enough to defend yourself. You make nature clean which is why you are the most beautiful thing that I have gazed my eyes with." A beautiful voice that came from a woman that has a bead on her forehead stated.

"King Adamsale? If you do not like to help us, then what can we do to have you give us the item?" Levin Cloud asked but he was suddenly sprayed with lake water.

"You are very harsh child! You think I will not help you when such a pure being like her is asking something from the bottom of her heart. Tell me, Ryujin...what is your name?" King Adamsale asked.

"I am called Peridot." Peridot answered.

"Well, Peridot. I have seen your intentions. I just need you to answer my question. What do you think about my appearance?" King Adamsale asked.

"Your appearance?" Peridot asked to verify if she heard it correctly.

"Yes, my appearance." King Adamsale stated.

"If you mean, appearance wise...you look normal. You are a bit unique, but you do not look bad." Peridot answered honestly as she used the basis of what a catfish looks like.

She called him unique since she has yet to see a blue catfish in the real world. Levin Cloud was about to scold Peridot for saying that because he forgot that the Water Elemental King Adamsale is very sensitive about his appearance, but he got surprised. King Adamsale suddenly laughed out loud which made the lake shimmer.

"Is there something funny with what I said?" Peridot asked as she did not know why King Adamsale began laughing.

"Nothing! I just thought you resemble someone that I know from long ago. I shall give you a bottle of my Pure Water and I shall bless it as well." King Adamsale stated.

"Thank you very much!" Peridot replied in excitement as she jumped.

"You are lucky that you answered honestly without hiding anything or else I would have blown you away. If you want, I can tell you where to get the blessings of other Elemental Kings. I am sure you already know that Elemental Kings are not that fond of each other but the ones I will tell you will help you as long as you pass their tests." King Adamsale stated as he told them of the locations of the remaining five.

"Thank you very much! You are already helping us so much. We cannot impose in you any more or else we would be overbearing. Ah! Please have these sweets as compensation." Peridot stated as she gave King Adamsale a pouch of sweets.

When the three left, King Adamsale turned into a humanoid appearance that looked like an extremely regal looking man. He picked up the pouch that Peridot gave him and opened it up. The stoic expression of the Water Elemental King suddenly curved into a smile as he suddenly cried tears that became pearls when it landed on the grass.

"Here, Adamsale! I got your favorite Moondrops! Better eat one or two a day or else you will finish them in a day." The voice of a beautiful woman in King Adamsale memory stated as he remembered her first master who was the Fairy Dragon.

"To think that I met someone that shares the master's personality. What will the others think when they see her?" King Adamsale told himself as he went back into the lake and vanished.

Levin Cloud did not think it would be that easy because it was never that easy when talking to the Elemental Kings. Even the elders of the Faekin told him to be wary of the Elemental Kings because they are moody. The Elemental Kings that are very sociable with the Faekin are not sociable with their fellow Elemental Kings.

Each of the Elemental Kings that Levin Cloud knew are either recluse or hate other Elemental Kings. King Adamsale, who he thought would be the most difficult to handle, basically gave Peridot what they need without much effort. He only attributed it to Peridot's personality of being truthful and sees the beauty of anyone.

"That was easy. I thought that we were going to fight but we got the item that we need." Kabrakan stated.

"It was only easy because of her but I am not sure about the other Elemental Kings as I have not heard of them or barely heard of them." Levin Cloud stated.

The names given by King Adamsale are Elemental Kings that are unfamiliar to Levin Cloud, but he knows where they are. From what the Water Elemental King stated, the five remaining elemental kings will bless the Pure Water as long as they answer their tests.

Chapter 1294 Side Story: Fairy Dragon IV

The next destination that they went to is a place where there are things called lava lakes. They are not really lakes but a collection of large bodies of lava running deep in the earth. The Elemental King living here is the Fire Elemental King Salvo. A Fire Elemental King that has the appearance of a flaming snake.

The Fire Elemental King Salvo was not very friendly at first, but he did become a bit more welcoming when they showed the Pure Water blessed by the Water Elemental King Adamsale. When Peridot stated what she was there for, the Fire Elemental King Salvo softened up and gave her a test to describe what is fire.

"Fire for me is a bringer of life because life made it possible for any living being to fight against the cold. It also made it possible to cook food to destroy anything harmful within it. Also, food taste better when cooked!" Peridot answered which made the Fire Elemental King Salvo laugh.

"You pass my test. I shall bless that Pure Water." The Fire Elemental King Salvo stated as he breathes fire into the bottle containing the Pure Water. The Pure Water is now swirling in a blue and red color compared to its pure blue color from before.

Kabrakan and Levin Cloud thought that they are getting it easy. Levin Cloud is even dumbfounded that these Elemental Kings are friendly to one another. They are usually destroying parts of Alfheim with their fights to show off as this world will just be restored after an hour or so.

The next Elemental King that they visited is the Wind Elemental King Flatus. She did not have a humanoid appearance just like the other two as she looked like a five-meter-long hummingbird. Just the flap of her wings created wind blades that made others have a difficult time standing near her.

The test that she gave Peridot was to survive ten laps around Alfheim in her back. This made Levin Cloud and Kabrakan worried as Wind Elemental Kings are notorious for racing with each other by circling around Alfheim for at least a hundred times. Even ten times would be difficult as she moves at such a fast speed that balancing oneself on her would be difficult.

Peridot did not shy away from the challenge and accepted. She easily passed onto the ninth lap, but she started getting sick at the tenth one. Seeing that she could not hold on in her humanoid form, Peridot transformed into her Ryujin form and coiled around the Wind Elemental King Flatus.

"You have passed my test remarkably. I did not expect such a tight hug on the last lap, but you still pass." The Wind Elemental King Flatus stated as she blessed the Pure Water that Peridot held.

"Thank you." Peridot stated as her face turned pale while carrying the vial of Pure Water with three swirling colors.

The next one to be visited by the three is the Earth Elemental King Marl. The Earth Elemental King Marl had the appearance of a naked mole rat. Levin Cloud and Kabrakan thought he looked funny, but Peridot shouted cute when he appeared. With just one sentence, the Earth Elemental King Marl blushed and blessed the Pure Water that Peridot held.

The blessing was given when Peridot was hugging the huge body of the Earth Elemental King Marl. She liked the feeling of hugging the Earth Elemental King Marl because he felt like a cute and comfy cushion. At this point, Levin Cloud and Kabrakan thought that they are useless, but Peridot reminded them that they are the ones responsible for keeping her safe.

The two boys are the ones protecting her so that she will not be pressured when it comes to her tests. They did everything to make sure that she does not do anything strenuous that may warrant her to fail the test. The next test came from the Darkness Elemental King Gloam who had the appearance of a large black owl.

The test given by the Darkness Elemental King Gloam is that of solitary confinement. Peridot was to spend about six hours in a place full of darkness and she must not use any source of light. She easily passed this test as she did not even know that six hours was up.

"How did you not lose your mind?" Kabrakan asked as people usually lost their minds when in solitary confinement.

"There is a thing called sleeping." Peridot answered with confidence which left Kabrakan dumbfounded.

The last test that Peridot did is of the Light Elemental King Gleam. The Light Elemental King Gleam took the appearance of a white swan that calmly swims in a lake made of pure light. Levin Cloud did not think that a place like this existed in Alfheim, but this seems to be a secretive spot that only those with the Blessing of the Darkness Elemental King Gloam could enter.

"To think that the Darkness Elemental King Gloam will take interest in a Ryujin. Tell me what do you came for?" The Light Elemental King Gleam stated as she listened attentively to Peridot and nodded.

The Light Elemental King Gleam gave Peridot the test to scoop up light. She did not give any other hints other than to use anything at her disposal. Peridot tried to use an empty mana stone to fill it with light elemental energy, but the Light Elemental King Gleam rejected it because she did not 'scoop' it.

"How do I do it?" Peridot asked herself as she did not have an idea to scoop light. She knows how to make it, but she does not know how to make it physically touch it. She almost surrendered to helplessness, but she still had friends which is why she asked in their group chat.

"Create a vacuum that in your hands. You can do that by manipulating wind pressure to the utmost." Adrian replied which made Peridot gain inspiration.

Chapter 1295 Side Story: Fairy Dragon V

Peridot tried what Adrian told him and create a vacuum in between her two palms by manipulating air pressure. She did not immediately get the hang of it as she took at least two days before she made it work. She was able to scoop up light, but it only looked like it was a few drops.

"Congratulations. You have passed my test. To think you are able to achieve something like this in a span of two days. You are very talented. As per our agreement, I will now stabilize the elements in the Pure Water with my blessing." Light Elemental King Gleam stated as she spread her wings and the whole area became bathe in such a powerful light that made the three close their eyes.

When the three opened their eyes, the Light Elemental King Gleam was nowhere to be found nor the lake of light that she resided on. What they did have is the vial of Pure Water circulating the six elements. It is a sight to behold because it is an item of the Mythical Tier.

Item Name: Pure Water Blessed by Six Elemental Kings

Tier: Mythical

Type: Consumable

Effect:

- It is said that this vial can turn any one trick elemental mage into an elemental mage that can control all six elements.

- It has uses that are still unknown.

Description: A vial of Pure Water that has been blessed by Six Elemental King of different elements. It is a great mystery on how the one bearing this item succeeded in such a feat, but they are very formidable. It is said that destroying this bottle by accidentally dropping it could erase an entire continent.

"The description is scary. Better put it inside my bag immediately. There is no time to waste! We shall head to the Rabbit Beastmen clan to get the Pure Moon Rock!" Peridot stated as she dragged the two tired people behind her.

Kabrakan took a totem from his inventory that looked like a meditating bull and placed it on the ground. He then bowed three times and clapped his hands three times before saying an incantation. When he did so, the eyes of the meditating bull suddenly opened as a pulling force took hold of their bodies.

When the pulling force let them go, they are suddenly transported to The Wilde. They are transported near the Bull beastman settlement where a small mediating bull could be seen being housed in a small shrine. This is the Wilde Spirit that Kabrakan got the blessing of which made him able to travel freely from the main world to the Wilde.

The three did not waste time as they immediately went straight to the Rabbit Beastmen Settlement. It is a small village that is located near a tall cliff within a deep part of the woods. The Rabbit Beastmen were a race that preferred to live by themselves and rarely interact with the outside world.

This is not due to them hating other people but the fact that they want to live a quiet life without the meddling of others. They also believe that they were descendants of the Jade Rabbit which is now part of the Wilde Spirit. The priestess of the Rabbit Beastmen also worships the moon as they believe that they were once living in the moon with the Jade Rabbit.

The way to get the Pure Moon Rock was not easy because the Rabbit Beastman Priestess refused to give it to Peridot despite her grand wish. The Rabbit Beastmen treasures the Pure Moon Rock as they believe that this was given to them by the Jade Rabbit when the moon cried, and dozens of stars came down from it but this one was sent to them.

"Should we just steal it? It is very easy to steal as they are said to be only reliant on their speed. We can take them down easily." Kabrakan whispered to Levin Cloud.

"I think we should. Let us tell her but never speak like that again. You are starting to pick up things from the demon lord." Levin Cloud stated.

"Can you tell me how the moon blessed you with this special rock?" Peridot asked.

"If you wish to hear the tale of how we were given this blessing then I shall gladly inform all of you." The Rabbit Beastman Priestess stated as she recounted the event that was the turning point of their lives.

It was a night that had a vast full moon, and it was a time where the Rabbit Beastmen were starting to lose faith on the moon. The rabbit priestess described it as divine retribution for their unfaithful ways as the moon cried and its tears were sent to their village as punishment.

During this time, the previous rabbit priestess protected the clan with her powers and asked for forgiveness to the great moon. As if her cries were heard, a stone that looked like a miniature moon that glowed with a thin membrane of light appeared before her and she used that to power up the barriers that she erected.

The priestess managed to save the clan but their whole village was destroyed. The priestess back then told the clan that they need to move to a location where the sadness of the moon did not reach. The Rabbit Beastmen agreed and settled in this new area where they prayed to the great moon and the Jade Rabbit ever since.

"They are quick but not quick witted." Kabrakan whispered as Levin Cloud nodded because the faith of the rabbit beastmen were a product of unfortunate events that coincidentally happened at the same time.

"Can you please tell us where your previous village was located?" Peridot asked the rabbit priestess.

"Why would you go there when that place is filled with misfortune?!" The rabbit priestess replied.

"Please! We want to solve the mystery of the Wailing Moon!" Peridot stated with conviction.

"Mystery? Is it not just a meteor...Aw!" Levin Cloud stated as he suddenly got kicked by Peridot to shut up.

Chapter 1296 Side Story: Fairy Dragon VI

The rabbit beastman priestess told the trio the location of their former village. Kabrakan knew of it as it was called a certain name, but he did not expect that the name came from that. The name of that location is called the Fallen Moon Craters as a result of numerous moon rocks being hurled into that area.

The sadness or crying of the moon that the rabbit beastman priestess is telling is definitely a real event that took place a long time ago. Kabrakan only knew of the name, but he has yet to go there because the monsters there are described as weird. Even for the standard of the beastman, the monsters at the Fallen Moon Craters are out of this world in their sense of normalcy.

"Let me just tell you expect something out of this world when you meet the beasts in that area. I have heard stories and I actually have seen one of the monsters there when they captured one." Kabrakan stated as he proceeded to show them the way.

The way to the Fallen Moon Craters is not that far from the current rabbit beastmen settlement. It took the three about two hours of walking to reach the designated area that they needed to go. They moved at a quick pace as it would take a normal player at least three hours to reach it.

"Why did you not just let us steal the Pure Moon Rock that they held?" Levin Cloud finally asked the question that has been plaguing his mind.

To him, it was just a decorative rock for the rabbit beastmen settlement, and they would not need it. Even Peridot would have jumped at the chance, but she has a keen eye when it comes to rocks and minerals which other players do not have. She has a passive skill called Mineralogy which gives her a detailed view of any precious stone that she sees.

"It is not that I feel bad to take that stone, but it does not serve my purpose. Let me show you what I saw when I viewed the stone." Peridot stated as she sent an image to the party chat.

Item Name: Pure Moon Rock (1000 Years Type – Degraded)

Tier: Mythical (Degraded – Epic)

Type: Mineral Ore / Consumable

Effect:

- Contains powerful light energy that can be used to cast spells of the light element without using mana.
- Amplifies the effects of skills that call upon the power of the Moon by 20%
- Lost due to energy lost
- Lost due to energy lost

Description: A Pure Moon Rock that has bathe in the light given by the sun for at least one millennium. It previously had powerful energy inside of it, but it has now been used up. It has degraded to the point that it can only be regarded as an Epic Tier item.

"I see. No wonder you were not having it earlier. You were already thinking of a second way." Kabrakan stated as he knew that a depowered stone will not make Peridot evolve.

"That is right. Which is why... the both of you needs to start digging." Peridot commanded as she pointed at the spots.

The two did not complain as they started to dig at the spots that Peridot pointed at. She could pinpoint locations that have special ores because of her maxed-out Mineralogy skill. When she was at the gnome kingdom, she just spent all her days mining for stones for her job class. She even had the nickname 'The Unrelentless Digger Gnome' as she would mine for three days straight.

Each of them dug the soil in different ways as each of them are different races. Kabrakan used his purely physical body to dig up the soil using a shovel that Peridot gave him. He unknowingly got the Digging skill due to it, but he did not expect that his Earth Elemental Mastery would increase by digging soil. He suddenly started to get pumped up due to this as he became something akin to a rear actor.

Levin Cloud dug the earth like a Leshy would and that is to make the earth soft. He would then use the trees nearby to lift the thing that he is digging for using the roots. He did not sweat like Kabrakan but he did lose mana and needs immense concentration. He also started to gain small increases of mastery to his Nature Elemental Mastery by doing this action.

Peridot used spells as well, but she used her Create: Clay Soldier skill to literally dig the earth by making it animate. The clay soldier that she would create will then dig the earth with her which made her the quickest to dig the earth. She literally had about fifty clay soldiers in under ten minutes, and it is still steadily increasing.

Peridot's Mineralogy skill is not that busted because she is not able to know what kind of special ore or rock is being dug until she unearths it. All she knows is that there is a special mineral or rock in that location as even the tier list cannot be determined as all she sees is a sparkling light.

Just as the three were digging the strange monsters that Kabrakan is talking about started to show themselves. Strange is already a term which the Selvaggians should not be speaking since they are not normal by any standard. The strange monster that approached them is called the Pyon.

The Pyon is a hairy fuzball monster that is only one foot in size. It has cute arms and legs paired with googly eyes that can put a puppy to shame. The reason why the Selvaggians call it strange is the fact that this small creature is extremely durable as it cannot be damaged greatly by either physical or magic attacks.

The Pyon also has no way to counterattack which is why it is an oddity to the Selvaggians on how it lives in a danger infested world. Nevertheless, the Pyon seem to keep their distance from the trio and went away when they were bored. Peridot wanted to cuddle one, but she resisted the urge as she has more pressing matters.

After two straight days of digging, the trio got a surprising number of precious stones and minerals. They even got some Pure Moon Rocks, but they were not of the millennium category. Seeing that Peridot could still see numerous reactions from below her feet despite unearthing a lot, she decided to use more brute force.

"Make the soil as soft as you can. Sand would be much appreciated." Peridot told Levin Cloud as he nodded.

Seeing that he needs greater power in doing this, Levin Cloud shifted to his true form and touched the ground below him. The soil that was filled with moisture and could sustain life suddenly turned barren and dry like sand. Levin Cloud sucked the life out of the soil below them which made it turn into sand.

When Levin Cloud turned the soil into sand, Peridot then continuously blasted it with gusts of wind which blew the sand to the other side. In no time, the whole area was dug up and the large hole that they created went up to ten meters in depth. Just as the twenty-one-meter depth has been achieved, a large boulder that is the shape of a sphere greeted them.

Peridot was getting a reaction from this spherical boulder. She touched the boulder and tried cracking it, but her mana was unable to penetrate its shell. The thing inside the boulder was radiating energy that protected the exterior shell. This something that cannot be broken by being half baked.

"Let me try." Levin Cloud stated as he was still in his true form.

With the power of twenty trees, Levin Cloud commanded them to strike the boulder simultaneously but not even a crack appeared. He commanded the trees to whack the boulder until a crack formed but it was the trees that got ruined in the process.

"Let me try. I am very good at destroying earth." Kabrakan stated as part of his passive ability is Earthshaker where his attacks create shockwaves on the earth.

Using his two shields, Kabrakan slammed it with all his might. He rammed at the boulder a couple of times, but no dent is seen. In fact, it was his shields that got damaged. He did not believe that a boulder is actually sturdier than his shield.

"I will try my hardest then." Peridot stated as she took out the Legendary tier Elemental Shards that they unearthed earlier. She bombarded the boulder with Elemental Apocalypse, but it only produced a small crack. It might be a small crack but that was hope for them because they eventually opened the boulder after one week of hard work. They were blasted with a powerful blinding light but it was worth it.

- Contains powerful light energy that can be used to cast spells of the light element without using mana or cooldown.
- Amplifies the effects of skills that call upon the power of the Moon by 50%
- Recharges when the light of the moon shines upon it.
- Able to use the spell Moon Caller

Description: A Pure Moon Rock that has bathe in the light given by the sun for a very long time. It would have transformed into a divine rock if it was bathe for a much longer time. It is said to carry a powerful force that could make the moon obey.

They did not unearth a Pure Moon Rock but a Purest Moon Rock. It gave off powerful energy to those around it as it is close to becoming a Transcendent Tier ore. Peridot could not even begin to describe how beautiful it is as it is the most powerful gem that she has seen.

They thought that the stone should only be of the Mythical Tier, but they did not expect that it almost jumped to the highest realm of items. They now know why the attacks that they are doing barely dealt anything. It was to only continuous attacks that they were able to destroy the hard exterior protecting it.

"It has a powerful force of nature inside of it. I can feel that it could influence the very nature itself by just injecting some mana in it." Levin Cloud stated as he could feel the power radiating from the Purest Moon Rock.

Kabranken cannot feel the immense energy, but his instincts are telling him that the stone that Peridot is holding is very dangerous. The Selvaggians might be unable to detect energy to the most minute details, but their instincts are very sharp when it comes to potential dangers. His instincts are going ballistic to tell him that the stone in front of him is not an ordinary item.

"Now that we have it, can we go now? We only have about ten days left before the guild war." Kabrakan stated as they do not know how long it will take for Peridot to evolve.

The trio agreed that staying there would prove to be a deterrent to their mission as night is coming. The powerful monsters of The Wilde might come to them with the Purest Moon Rock as a beacon of energy. Powerful monsters tend to gather around powerful things that can make them evolve such as special stones and rare herbs.

The only reason why the Purest Moon Rock is not yet taken by any other powerful monster is the fact that it encased itself in a protective shell. Any type of energy radiating from it could not be leaked because of this thick shell. Levin Cloud hurriedly casted Bifrost Flower once more and they were sent all the way to the eastern continent near the mountain where the Ryujin live.

Peridot summoned Moksha to serve as their mount to climb the mountain. Moksha is now bigger than ever before as it seems to be spoiled by Peridot's master. Moksha is now able to easily carry three adult size people on its back without difficulty.

"It seems that Moksha here is getting fed too well. It is getting fat." Levin Cloud stated which made him get shocked by a small bolt of lightning.

"You are just jealous because you do not have a mount yet. My Moksha is very healthy and powerful. Do not listen to him." Peridot stated.

"I will find my mount! Somewhere. I just like to feel the warmth of the soil with my feet that is all." Levin Cloud argued.

"Okay." Peridot stated as they entered the mountain where they were greeted by Nu Wa.

"Greetings, my child and her friends. Has your adventure been fruitful? You know, it is not bad to rest when you are having difficulty in find the items that you need. I would not blame you if you surrendered in your pursuit as you have a very probable path of evolution that I have already laid out." Nu Wa stated as she thought that Peridot was returning because she needed the aid of the Ryujin or wanted to rest.

"Master, I actually gathered all the items that I needed in order to evolve." Peridot stated which made Nu Wa's ear perk up as she could not believe it.

"You got them all?" Nu Wa asked to clarify, and Peridot began telling the story on how she achieved it.

As Nu Wa heard the story from Peridot, her eyes started to widen as she could not believe that Elemental Kings were that kind. She even looked at Levin Cloud and he answered with a shrug of 'I do not have an explanation myself'.

When she was shown the Purest Moon Rock, she almost fainted because that is an item that cannot be found just about anywhere. Even Nu Wa herself would want that item for herself as that could increase her divinity. She would not dare steal an item that her own daughter has painstakingly dug with her own hands, but she thanked the heavens for her luck.

The results of the search for the evolutions items might be luck but coincidence and timing also played a part in it. Peridot would have blown off the idea from the first day if she did not have a way to communicate with the Elemental Kings. For the Pure Moon Rock, she would also forget about looking for it because it will never happen if she did not know Kabrakan.

Levin Cloud made it possible for her to obtain the Pure Water Blessed by the Elemental Kings as he gave access to Alfheim. Kabrakan made it possible for her to obtain the Purest Moon Rock as he gave access to The Wilde where the rabbit clan lives. She did not think for a second that she accomplished everything on her own because she has the help of people that she cared for along the way.

"Since you have successfully gathered everything, I shall now commence the creation of the pill. Come with me child. You can also bring your friends with you." Nu Wa stated as she floated towards the center of the mountain where a stadium is present.

The stadium is more like a small pavilion where Nu Wa rests. This small pavilion has four pillars that equate to the four cardinal directions with the statue of the Four Divine Cardinal Beasts resting on top of them. If one focused, then they would be able to see a thin veil surrounding the small pavilion as if it is a sacred space.

"This is my sacred space located in this pavilion. I think it is time that I become completely honest with you, my child. I am not just a Ryujin but I was once the Goddess of Life Nuwa. The creator of the ones the world calls the Eastern Dragons." Nu Wa stated.

The three were shocked to find this out but Peridot had suspicions way before. Peridot thought that her master knew too much of the world before the dark gods arrived as she often told stories that were very vivid. If she was alive back, then they she would have ascended to godhood by now with her power, but she did not.

"It does not change anything, master. Even if you are just a normal Ryujin or a normal lady. You will still be my master because you have taken care of me when others turned a blind eye." Peridot stated which warmed Nu Wa's heart.

"Since you are using the Purest Moon Rock, I do not know how powerful the pill will be, but I know it will help you greatly." Nu Wa stated as she motioned her hands to make the Pure Water and Purest Moon Rock float.

With all her might, Nu Wa directed the Pure Water to come out of the bottle and soak the Purest Moon Rock. The Purest Moon Rock collided with the Pure Water Blessed by the Elemental Kings. A powerful energy erupted from both items as Nu Wa forcefully fused them together to make a spherical pill that took looks like the moon radiating rainbow-colored lights.

"Eat it, my child." Nu Wa stated and Peridot did not even hesitate as she gulped the pill straight away without second thoughts.

The moment Peridot swallowed the pill, her body started to transform into her Ryujin form as she coiled around herself. She coiled herself into a sphere until she formed an outer shell that made it look like it was the moon. Her spherical shell even started to float which made it look like Nu Wa summoned a moon in her courtyard.

The shell cracked a few minutes later which revealed Peridot's new form. The second Fairy Dragon has been born to the world.

Chapter 1298 Side Story: Necronomicon I

Creepysoo knew that he could not forcefully increase his overall ability within a month. What he needs is a proper way to channel his immense power as the Prince of the Undead. He has been using the Staff of Undeath for a long time, but he needs something stronger that could sustain the undead.

He was sweeping the halls of the mansion owned by Baron Samedi when he overheard some of the undead talking about the Necronomicon. A special book that could conjure up undead without even having the body of a fallen being. It is the Book of Undead Summoning that defies the established rules of undead summoning.

Creepysoo had to get that item no matter what, but he needs to have the permission of at least three Gods of Death in order to gain a chance to earn a lesser copy. The Necronomicon that Creepysoo wanted is something like a copy as the real one is in the ownership of the God of Death Abaddon.

"Give you permission to handle a copy of the Necronomicon? Do you know what you are asking for Child?" Baron Samedi asked Creepysoo.

"I want to become stronger, and a Necromancer has very limited resources when it is a fresh battle. I am not always in an area where lots of corpses are present. The Necronomicon gives me an even playing field when it comes to situations like that." Creepysoo argued as he knows his deficiencies in combat.

Creepysoo would often rely on his undead knights that vowed loyalty to him and the addition of curses and hexes but that is not enough. His undead knights can only handle so little and if they die then he will be left alone. A necromancer is a powerhouse that controls legions of undead at their whim, but an undefeatable necromancer uses every undead at their very best ability.

"Access to the Necronomicon is not forbidden especially for one such as yourself but you need the approval of at least three gods of death. Of course, if you could get the approval of the main boss then you will not need approval of us lesser gods of death." Baron Samedi explained.

"Will you give me the approval of an esteemed persons such as yourself then?" Creepysoo stated as he looked at Baron Samedi with an expression that should be cute but an undead is not cute in any sense.

"This is regarding the Book of Undeath which is why I cannot afford to get soft on you even though you are my favorite." Baron Samedi stated.

"I am like the only person that you can directly contact from the mortal realm. I am pretty sure I am the only favorite because of that." Creepysoo stated.

"Do not be so sure as we have contractors in the mortal realm that could act in our behalf." Baron Samedi stated which shocked Creepysoo as he thought the gods of death do not concern themselves that much with the problems of the living.

"I did not know that but what do I need to do to get approval from you?" Creepysoo asked.

"A trial should be on session, but I have already been giving you trials ever since you landed on my care. You get my approval once you finish sweeping the halls." Baron Samedi stated as he left the area to go do his duties.

Creepysoo did not expect that he would get the approval by sweeping the halls, but he remembered the spine chilling tasks he did before. If the things he previously did like play with a Cerberus or punish the evil souls were not trials, then he might have ignored the Baron Samedi already. He finished sweeping th halls of the gigantic mansion and got the approval of Baron Samedi.

[You have been given the approval of Baron Samedi for the use of the Necronomicon.]

[You need at least two more to unlock the Inferior Copy of the Necronomicon.]

"You have my approval, child. Where will you get two more?" Baron Samedi asked.

"Can Maman Brigitte give me another approval?" Creepysoo asked.

"Unfortunately for you, you need to get the approval of different rulers of the underworld. You already have mine so you can no longer get the approval of another god of death residing in this realm." Baron Samedi stated.

"If that is the case then I need to go to Mitnal to meet with the God of Death Ah Puch." Creepysoo stated as he knows that the God of Death Ah Puch has a favor that needs to be repaid.

"Good luck with that. Getting there would be a trial in of itself." Baron Samedi stated as he told Creepysoo to be careful as he might get lost in another death realm.

As Prince of the Undead, Creepysoo could travel to underworlds that deal with any undead. This is one of the blessings that the undead royal family could use as they have a covenant with the God of Death Abaddon. The Undead King Arthur usually goes to the underworld to train as nothing in the mortal realm could give him much of a fight and he could resurrect in the underworld.

Creepysoo gulped as he drew the magic circle portal that will send him to Mitnal. Mitnal is a death realm found on the ninth level of the underworld which is ruled by Ah Puch. He is not the most welcoming god of death as he is very smelly and Mitnal is not good for the nose which is why only undead could bear going in that underworld.

Creepysoo stood in the magic circle as it glowed in eerie purple and green lights. A purplish green gas could be seen coming out of the magic circle as the door to Mitnal has opened. Creepysoo poured more mana into the magic circle and the ground below him suddenly turned into a hole which he fell through.

"Somebody put flowers near that area because it stinks!" Baron Samedi ordered as he got a whiff of Mitnal.

Chapter 1299 Side Story: Necronomicon II

Creepysoo dropped from the first layer of the underworld all the way down to the ninth layer. He arrived in a putrid world where rotting bodies of the dead are seen. The smell would be unbearable for any normal person as you could see people getting punished trying to gasp for clean air but all they get is foul air.

Just inhaling the foul air makes them taste it and one could see that they do not enjoy it. They could taste it with their receptors and all of them are gagging all the time. Some of these unfortunate souls even clung to Creepysoo's cloak but he just swept their hands away because this is their punishment.

Anyone being sent to the ninth layer of the underworld is not someone that innocent by any means. Creepysoo went to the cave dwelling of the God of Death Ah Puch. This is the only cave dwelling in this death realm, and it is made of the corpses of all the unfortunate souls sent there.

"Welcome, Prince of the Undead. To think that you will easily reach my dwelling. It seems that my ghouls need some obedience training once more." A shrill and creepy voice stated which came from a very skinny deathly pale corpse adorned like a god.

"Greetings, God of Death Ah Puch. Ruler of Mitnal." Creepysoo stated as he bowed.

"As humble as ever. Tell me...why did you come Prince of the Undead? Do you wish to get that favor now?" The God Ah Puch asked.

"I did come for that. I want you to give me approval to use the Necronomicon." Creepysoo stated which made the God Ah Puch laugh hysterically as he is really amused by the wishes of the Prince of the Undead.

"What do you wish to obtain from being able to use the Necronomicon?" The God Ah Puch asked with a sinister grin.

"To become stronger. I need to be on par with my friends which is why I need a powerful relic to summon undead." Creepysoo answered honestly which made the God Ah Puch look at him.

"You are no fun at all. I thought you intend to flood the mortal realm with undead." The God Ah Puch stated in a grumbling tone because he thought that his influence on the Prince of the Undead has set in.

"You say that but you diligently fulfill your duty as a god of death. You are just mad at the mortals that they become too depraved and land here in the ninth layer of the underworld. You like your peace and quiet after all." Creepysoo stated as he already knows the real attitude of the God Ah Puch.

"I cannot give my approval just like that little boy. I have a reputation to keep which is why I need to impose a slight trial to you. Go and tame one of my undead servants. If you do so, then I will gladly give my approval without using up that favor that I owe you." The God Ah Puch stated.

"If you say so. Just do not cry when I easily do your trial." Creepysoo stated as he left.

"You think my servants will easily follow you?! I made sure to have them obey me always without a hint of defiance." The God Ah Puch stated as he laughed because he is confident that Creepysoo will not finish the trial.

A few minutes later...

"I am done. I tamed this big guy right here." Creepysoo stated as he walked inside the cave abode once more with a Patchwork Zombie in tow.

The Patchwork Zombie that Creepysoo managed to tame is a mixture of different beings. It is also the lowest level one in this realm which is level 300. It is currently following his orders as long as Creepysoo stays in Mitnal. The God Ah Puch could not believe that Creepysoo accomplished such a feat in just a few minutes.

"How!" The God Ah Puch stated in both anger and disbelief.

"I made a Fury submit once. This guy is a piece of cake. Plus, he looks cute with that droopy face. The way he drools because he might just be a child adds to its aesthetic." Creepysoo replied.

The Patchwork Zombie is not cute and the God Ah Puch even doubted the ears of the Prince of the Undead as no one ever describes zombies like that. One might even puke at the mere sight of the Patchwork Zombie that he tamed. The God Ah Puch knows that the Prince of the Undead is not lying because he already saw the memories of the Patchwork Zombie.

"You have passed my trial. I did not expect it to be this easy, but it seems I forgot to add a functioning brain on that one." The God Ah Puch stated.

"Do not say that. He will be very disheartened. Look at his face...he is already sad. There...there." Creepysoo stated as he patted the Patchwork Zombie.

"If you like it that much then why not make it one of your knights?" The God Ah Puch stated as he suddenly thought of something.

"Is that acceptable to you? It is one of your workers here." Creepysoo replied.

"It is just one zombie. I have millions here and I have lots of material. You can take that one as it has bonded to you...apparently." The God Ah Puch stated as the Patchwork Zombie could be seen hugging Creepysoo.

"If you gave permission then I shall do so." Creepysoo stated as the God Ah Puch was smiling as his connection with the Patchwork Zombie will not be erased.

Using the Patchwork Zombie, he will be able to see what the Prince of the Undead does. It is not because he is bored but he wants to survey the mortal realm. The God Ah Puch is smiling sinisterly as Creepysoo named the Patchwork Zombie.

"You will be Frankie." Creepysoo stated.

[You have been given the approval of Ah Puch for the use of the Necronomicon.]

[You need at least one more to unlock the Inferior Copy of the Necronomicon.]

Chapter 1300 Side Story: Necronomicon III

"The last approval will be the most difficult. Should I pray to the God of Death Abaddon? I cannot visit his realm because all of the death realms belong to him. I am not like Big Bro Adrian that can just nonchalantly go into the Nether Realm. I will die with just one step in there." Creepysoo stated as he knows that the Nether Realm is the most special death realm.

A death realm that even the other gods of death dare not to traverse. A place so desolate and empty that can even drive greater gods mad and lesser gods injured if they make a mistake of traveling there. Creepysoo has thought of the next best thing as he was once invited with the Undead King to a banquet by this god of death.

"One of the most powerful and respected death gods which a death realm is named after. It is time to go to Hades despite not having an invitation." Creepysoo stated as he created a portal that will transport him to the eighth layer of the underworld.

Creepysoo finished drawing the magic circle and stood inside of it. The magic circle glowed as it erupted like a geyser, but it was not water. It was geyser made with blood, flesh and bones which sent Creepysoo upwards to the eighth layer of the underworld.

Creepysoo arrived at an expansive castle palace that is surrounded by cliffs. The bottom of these cliffs are rivers of blood with the screams of the tormented echoing. The unique thing about the death realm called Hades is that it smells like a flower garden. One might not attribute this to a death realm but this one is the most pleasantly smelling death realm.

[You have arrived at the Death Realm, Hades.]

[The God of Death governing this realm has taken note of your presence.]

"As expected of the God of Death Hades, he has full coverage of everything in his realm." Creepysoo thought as he approached the gates of the castle.

When he approached the gates of the castle, undead knights blocked his way, but the voice of the God of Death Hades told them to let Creepysoo approach. When the undead knights heard the commands of their monarch, they let Creepysoo in without any problems. The Prince of the Undead waltz right into the castle and saw the long line of souls getting sent to the center of the castle to be judged by the God of Death Hades.

"Greetings, Prince of the Undead Creepysoo! What brings you to visit our realm?" A god holding a quill and a scroll stated as his bed floated towards Creepysoo.

"It is nice to see you too, God Morpheus. Have you been checking up on the happiness of the souls lately?" Creepysoo stated as he met the God Morpheus when he went to Hades for a banquet. He also clicked with the God of Sleep as they seem to have the same personalities.

Creepysoo thinks undead are cute while the God Morpheus thinks of souls as cute. If the God Morpheus does not survey souls, then he tends to just sleep on his bed. The God Morpheus is the twin of the Aspect of Death Thanatos.

"It is always interesting to see all kinds of souls. I am also captivated by the unique soul of the Champion of the Twin Gods, but I cannot go out of this realm because of strict reasons. My brother can come and go because he is the one reaping the souls and he even said that the champion has a very special soul.

I really want to know what his soul is. You are friends with the Champion of the Twin Gods, right? Maybe you can tell him to visit me so that we could have a great conversation about souls. You said he could see the colors of souls, right?!" The God Morpheus stated but he was soon calmed down by a beautiful lady draped in all colors of the seasons.

"Calm down, Morpheus. The Prince of the Undead is considered a guest so it might be quite rude to bombard him with questions like that. Give him time to reply." The Goddess Persephone stated as she went to escort Creepysoo to the God Hades.

"I just got a bit excited, Lady Persephone. I shall be reminded of that the next time and observe proper etiquette. Talk to you next time! I need to interview the dead that are coming in." The God Morpheus stated as he floated his bed back to its original position.

"I did not even manage to ask him if he could gain approval for my request." Creepysoo grumbled.

"If you wish to gain approval for the use of the Necronomicon then you must gain my husband's approval, little prince. Morpheus might be the son of the God Abaddon and the Goddess Nox but he does not have authority over the dead as he is the God of Sleep and Dreams." The Goddess Persephone stated.

"Aw! I thought he could give me authority since he is the son of the God Abaddon." Creepysoo grumbled as he was escorted to another room filled with all ornaments and gold fixtures.

The God of Death Hades is special when it comes to the Gods of Death because he is one of the most powerful that he could rival the Goddess Nox in her peak power. He was also one of the major gods worshipped by powerful empires back then.

He has enormous wealth because he was a god that owned everything beneath the earth which meant he owns all precious stones and metals found beneath the earth. He is the wealthiest among his brothers when it comes to treasures, but he is also the most overworked while his two brothers played with mortals.

After a few minutes of waiting, a powerful presence entered the room full of treasure. It was a man adorned with numerous treasures and silk that made his presence so dignified. It was none other than the God of Death Hades.
