

O Summoner 1831

Chapter 1831 Kimat's Past

Kimat opened his eyes and saw a very familiar place which is the place where a lot of his kind are present. He was in a cage and was picked by an adventurer just like his master now, but this master was not friendly. The first master that picked him only showed some form of compassion when Kimat manages to defeat monsters.

He also does not have any bonding time despite Kimat circling around his feet and cuddling it. All Kimat received was a kick on the body, but he tolerated it as his master might warm up to him eventually. Kimat was a normal monster cat back then and was mostly using physical attacks to deal damage.

When Kimat became somewhat of an adolescent monster cat, he thought that his first master would be happy that he was growing well but he was not. The first master that he had was always grumpy and mad that the other soulbounds were not performing well. Kimat performed rather well but his good performance was not enough to please the first master.

Kimat would try to win his first master's affection, but he ultimately failed which is why he stopped trying after a while. When Kimat no longer looked at his first master with rose tinted lens, the bad behavior that his first master was showing came to light on his very eyes. The other soulbounds would be whipped when they fail while he just gets fed even if he does exemplary work.

In the end, Kimat decided that he no longer wants to serve this master. He broke the contract forcefully which resulted in him and his master receiving backlash. Only a soulbound that has the same power as its master can destroy the contract forcefully which separates the connected soul of the two. Kimat lost half of his accumulated power (which is his levels) and his master was severely weakened for three months by losing a few levels.

Kimat did not care what happened to him, but he immediately ran towards the forest to disappear. His former master tried to hunt him down and kill him as he is now regarded as a monster. Fortunately for Kimat, the other soulbounds also made noise and raised their resentments which weakened his former master even more.

Some of the soulbounds were able to break the contract and his former master was left with just the weak soulbounds under his care. As soon as Kimat knew that he is no longer being pursued, he became a renegade and wandered around. This is the case for all soulbounds that get released or escape the contract.

Since Kimat lost his original name, he was no longer a named monster as soulbounds are considered as named monsters after all. Kimat did not fret his original name as he forgot it as soon as he destroyed the contract. Rejecting the name and erasing it from your very soul is the way to escape from a summoner contract after all.

This was taught to them by the shopkeeper that kept them in his pet shop. He did not know why the shopkeeper taught them this, but this was engraved into their minds. It seems that the shopkeeper has some sort of sympathy for them despite giving them away to adventurers.

Kimat just became a normal monster cat with no name and little strength. Fortunately for Kimat, he was small and agile which made escaping much easier. He managed to survive and find a piece of thunder crystal. He absorbed this thunder crystal which made him transform his very essence to that of an elemental cat with lightning attribute.

With his newfound power, he was able to easily come and go. He was also able to hunt down prey with his new elemental powers. He was also glad that he changed because he was able to truly forget what he was when he started. He thought that he would become a mighty monster on his own, but he was caught by a terrifying entity in the end.

He thought that he would become the food of this terrifying entity, but it actually sent him to the terrifying entity's master. The master of the one that caught him was not like his former master that was human. The terrifying entity's master was a demon which is a being that a lot of monsters stay away from.

Kimat thought that he would be sacrificed as he was placed inside of a magic circle. It was then that Kimat felt the familiar magic circle working that he learned that this was a sealing magic circle. The demon was attempting to have him become his soulbound.

At first, Kimat did not immediately agree as he has disliked becoming a soulbound. His memories of being a soulbound was not happy and he did not feel like a partner but a servant. Kimat intended to reject fully but he saw the terrifying entity and what power it has.

The terrifying entity, Sirius, was powerful beyond belief and he could catch Kimat easily. Kimat also felt that Sirius was not like him that looked down in shame but proudly standing tall. This was the confidence of a powerful beast that their master cherishes. Kimat suddenly saw himself as that powerful monster and his dream to have a bond so powerful.

==

The light that erupted from the last pillar of lightning finally died down and Adrian could now see Kimat clearly. He saw Kimat lying down on the magic circle and immediately rushed to his side. He felt if Kimat was breathing, and he was which made Adrian incredibly grateful. Adrian felt that he was partially disconnected from Kimat for a moment which is why he needed to see what happened to him.

Kimat might have fainted, but he was able to survive the last lightning blast. The most important thing is that Kimat has successfully gotten the divine beast body that he needed to continue his evolution. Adrian cannot return him back to the soul chamber right now as his soul was also impacted by the lightning strikes earlier.

"Kimat! Are you fine?" Adrian asked as he hugged and checked if Kimat is starting to wake up.

Kimat could be seen sleeping so deeply that even Adrian's pinching of his ears does not elicit a reaction. Kimat hates getting his ears pinched which means that this sleep is not normal. Adrian suddenly feared that Kimat might not wake up as this was a very low chance of happening which the Vermillion Bird has warned him about.

"Call for him with all your emotions." The voice of the Vermillion Bird stated which resounded inside of Adrian's mind.

Adrian started to call Kimat with different types of emotions. He called him with great love and affection then great sadness and fear. He even became angry just so that he has a full spectrum of emotions to cover all of the bases. Despite Adrian's calls, Kimat did not wake up easily as if he was drifting in the land of dreams forever.

Deep Lethargy is the status of a monster that is trapped in a dream world that it has created because of sudden trauma. Adrian does not want to believe that Kimat is experiencing something like this as this would render him incapable of living. Monsters that have this status die without even knowing that they have died.

"Kimat! If you do not wake up, then I will make Sirius discipline you thoroughly!" Adrian shouted in fear and frustration.

As if responding to the name of his would be being to discipline him, Kimat's ears suddenly twitched as if he feared something. Adrian was able to catch this and called Sirius to come over. He then proceeded to tell Sirius that he is giving him permission to punish Kimat if he was being a bad cat.

Kimat started to toss and tumble as if he was having a nightmare. This reaction made Adrian smile as he now found a way to wake Kimat up. Adrian then told his other soulbounds to come near Kimat and whisper in his ear. He told them to say the things that they will do to Kimat if he does not wake up.

As if the other soulbounds enjoyed this, they suddenly started to form a line with the youngest one first. Wisteria whispered something but all she got was a snort. Dodu did not even whisper anything and just slapped Kimat. Dodu must have heard wrong which is why it went for the slap. Charon was next and whispered something in an eerie tone which made Kimat's fur tremble.

Saena followed and the reaction she got was a sudden jolt from Kimat. Kanlaon tried but it seems that he was too kind in nature as he did not get any reaction. It was Sirius that whispered something that made Kimat suddenly jump up and roar out loud.

"Kimat! You are awake! Thank goodness." Adrian shouted as he hugged him.

Chapter 1832 Rush for Power

Kimat finally woke up and he looked like he was about to cry out loud. Kimat then nudged his large head towards Adrian in a very affectionate manner. Adrian responded in kind by stroking Kimat's head gently and with much love. Kimat then froze as his brother and sisters were looking at him intently, but he did not dare to give them any attention.

Kimat knew that he would be in a world of loving pain and teasing if he were to acknowledge their presence. Kimat savored the moment that all of his master's affection is directed towards him. Although Kimat does not know why that is the case as he was just napping for five minutes based on his body clock, but he liked the affection.

[Your soulbound, Kimat, has succeeded in completing all of the requirements for his evolution. Do you wish to make him undergo the evolution process?]

==

Evolution Requirements for Tempest Lodestone Kaiser Tigris

1. Soulbound must be at least level 250. (Completed)
2. Soulbound must have absorbed lightning filled with divine energy (Completed.)
3. Soulbound must integrate the item called "Lodestone Heart" (Complete)
4. Soulbound must integrate the item called "Tempest Core" (Complete)
5. Soulbound must fuse the Lodestone Heart and the Tempest Core to create the item called "Storm Bringer Core". (Complete)
6. Soulbound must devour five "Eye of the Storms". (Complete – 100%)
7. Soulbound must turn its mortal flesh into a divine flesh body. (Complete)
8. Soulbound must have the blessing of a Greater God of Wind. (Complete) (Blessing of a High God)

==

Adrian suddenly heard and read the notification that has just arrived. He completely forgot that Kimat was not yet evolved as he is still in the preparation phase. Adrian is a bit overwhelmed by what happened that he did not even agree immediately. He just stared at the requirement list that was glowing in front of his face.

"Master, I can now evolve." Kimat stated but Adrian just smiled.

"I know but that are too many events happening in just a span of a day. You should rest for a while before we attempt it." Adrian replied as he was actually feeling fear that Kimat might not wake up if they push through it now.

"I know that I can do it master. I will now start evolving!" Kimat stated as he felt his body itch if he does not pursue the power that he wants to obtain.

[Your soulbound, Kimat, has started his evolution process without your approval.]

Kimat suddenly roared and it made the entirety of Avalon vibrate due to the sheer force of power that he exuded. Even the trees that were sturdy vibrated and all of the beings that live in Avalon know that the trees here are stronger than steel. A powerful flash of lightning did not come from the skies but the source being Kimat himself.

Kimat's Storm Bringer Core suddenly appeared on top of his head along with the five Eye of the Storms that he has devoured. A powerful tornado then spawned with Kimat at the very center of it. The tornadoes were the result of the five Eye of the Storms being assimilated perfectly with each other.

Kimat is fusing all the energies of the five Eye of the Storms which created a powerful wind that swept through Avalon. If there was no barrier protecting Avalon, then they would have a lot of things suddenly flying away. Still, the barrier around Avalon cannot truly block all the wind as it just lessens the effects of the natural things that are happening outside.

Kimat perfectly controlled each Eye of the Storm to fuse one by one. He cannot just fuse all of them in one go or else a powerful wind blast might destroy Avalon if he does not control it perfectly. He took his time as he knows that he will succeed even if it took him long. The confidence that Kimat has is not just something that he got from being Adrian's soulbound, but it came from his blood.

Kimat did not know how to describe it, but he could feel an inner instinct inside of him screaming to do it because he can. Something engraved in Kimat's blood is telling him that he has the ability to master the wind and lightning element. It was screaming loudly at Kimat which made him get excited to start the evolution process without the agreement of his master.

Half an hour has passed, and Kimat managed to fuse two Eye of the Storms with only winds blowing towards Avalon. The moment he tried fusing the third one with the previous one, two large tornadoes are created outside of Avalon. The two tornadoes were coming towards Avalon as if they have a mind of their own. It is not something that Adrian has expected but he immediately commanded Kanlaon to deal with them.

Kanlaon has some control over natural phenomena as dragons often create them when they are in temper tantrums. Kanlaon could feel the energies inside the two tornadoes, but they were magical in nature and not natural. The two tornadoes were created by the Eye of the Storms that Kimat is trying to fuse as if they were attempting to stop him.

Kanlaon reported the status of the two tornadoes coming and Adrian made a decision. Since the two tornadoes were magical, Adrian commanded his soulbounds that could affect magic more. Kanlaon and Charon handled one while Saena and Wisteria handled the other. It was a good thing that Adrian has summoner privileges in his own territory which lets him summon all his soulbounds.

Kanlaon and Charon helped one another by using magic spells. Kanlaon used wind magic that has a counter rotation towards the tornado he is facing. Charon created chains of magic that can catch magic beings which is actually effective against the magic tornado. The two worked together and actually made the tornado halt its movements but they were unable to dispel it.

Saena used her pure force as the guardian of the Tree of Life and Death by forcefully beating his wings to create a wind wall that blocked the advancement of the magic tornado. Wisteria used her earth abilities to create a large hole which can destroy the momentum of the magic tornado. Just like the other two, they were only able to halt the tornado and not dispel it.

Kimat roared as his will penetrated the Eye of the Storms into fusing together. The two Eye of the Storms that were reluctant to fuse suddenly clashed against one another to create a powerful Eye of the Storm. It took the appearance of a wind vortex crashing down in on itself. As soon as the two Eye of the Storms were fused, the magic tornadoes also vanished like they were never there to begin with.

Adrian is now sure that Kimat's evolution process has a vast influence on the surroundings. Even if he devoured the Eye of the Storms, the act of fusing them together is like going against nature itself. Adrian is afraid that such intense power might devour Kimat but he cannot stop him now or else he might fail. Kimat failing would be the worst thing to ever happen right now.

Kimat gave a valiant roar once more and this time, the wind vortex Eye of the Storm is now fusing with the Coldburn Eye of the Storm. Adrian does not know what will happen if already fused Eye of the Storms mix but he immediately gave orders to all the Daemos Corps and guards to prepare for natural disasters to happen.

The sudden alarm that a natural disaster might happen would have been odd to the guards as the climate today was very ordinary. They would have thought that their lord has lost his mind, but they have already witnessed magical natural phenomena suddenly spawning. They had already experienced it which is why they can only agree.

Kimat concentrated fully on the fused Eye of the Storms mixing together as any mishap might create a powerful natural explosion of energy. As soon as the two fused Eye of the Storms started to clash, an unnatural heat wave blew from the south while a frosty air blew from the north. The sudden change in temperature suddenly made the citizens change their outfits.

One would say that having two different temperatures in one place would be illogical, but Avalon is now experiencing that. The proof is even in the clothing as those in the north looked like they were dressed for winter while those in the south part are dressed for the summer. Two different temperature settings for a single location.

"At least there are no tornadoes." Adrian stated but it seems that he jinxed it.

A large tornado spawned from the east of Avalon and its size was massive enough to swallow the floating islands. Adrian slapped his mouth as he should not have said something that could endanger him even further.

Chapter 1833 Vanished in a Cloud

A giant tornado is now heading its way towards Avalon which alerted all of the beings. Adrian immediately issued emergency communications to evacuate everyone in the pocket dimension for evacuation purposes. All the players, NPCs and even animals that live in Avalon is immediately transported away.

All of those in Avalon suddenly vanished as if it became a ghost town. The three elders then appeared before Adrian to see what is happening. They saw that Kimat was trying to fuse powerful natural energy which resulted in the creations of natural disasters.

"Fascinating! It is as if the world itself is trying to make him fail." Koronn stated as he was intrigued by the unusual phenomena.

"Now is not the time for that when our new home is about to be hit by a giant tornado. All the things that we have built cannot withstand a hazard like that. I even landscaped the outside of the elder hut and I do not want my hard work to go to waste." Ascalor stated.

"We told you to recuperate not enjoy yourself with all the free time doing pointless stuff." Bronx stated.

"Can all of you handle that thing?" Adrian stated.

"We can but that would indirectly destroy all the dedication that the young cat has done. Destroying that giant tornado will also destroy his chances of fusing those two things." Koronn stated as he can detect the connection between the giant tornado and the fusing Eye of the Storms.

Adrian is shocked upon learning of what was really happening and is thankful that his soulbounds earlier were not able to destroy the two smaller magical tornadoes. If they were able to destroy it, then the fusion of the earlier Eye of the Storms would have ultimately failed. Adrian did not think that being weak would actually be something that he would be thankful for.

"We cannot let it ravage Avalon though. All the things would get destroyed even the fields and the medicinal fields as well. The vineyard would be the one that will be most affected by a powerful tornado like that." Adrian stated as a small smile could be seen peeking out of his face when he uttered the last sentence.

"That must not happen." Ascalor stated with much bravado.

"I agree." Bronx stated with vigorous energy.

"I actually concur this time even though I do not like you both." Koronn stated with a cough.

Adrian almost snickered when he heard the three actually agreeing because all of them have the same hobby when they do not do their duties. The three Daemos elders love to drink the wine created from the Holy Vineyard hidden near the Tree of Life and Death. The golden grapes that it produces was so delicious when turned to wine that exporting it was the unanimous illegal act in Avalon.

"I guess having alcoholic enthusiasts is becoming an advantage for me." Adrian stated as the three Daemos elders would lend their hand.

"We cannot destroy it but that does not mean that we cannot freeze the giant tornado in time." Ascalor stated as he nodded at Koronn and Bronx.

"All at the same time then." Koronn stated as he was the one that will lead the spell since he has better mastery over time magic.

"Freeze even disasters in place! Chrono Halt!" Koronn stated as he and the other two elders returned to their true forms to release a powerful burst of mana.

The giant tornado that was moving towards Avalon at a fast speed suddenly came to a stop. It could be seen suspended in time itself as the winds that were swirling stopped moving. Usually when this happens, the tornado would have unraveled itself, but the target of the spell is the actual tornado. Even if it was magical in nature, the giant tornado did not get destroyed even if it became frozen in time.

It was such a majestic yet terrifying sight to see a gigantic tornado frozen in time. Even Adrian gulped at the mastery of such precision using temporal magic. Unlike spatial magic and force magic, temporal magic is the most volatile of the origin magic series. You would need a deep understanding and keen sense of time when using magic like the one that Koronn used.

"We can stop it for half a day at most if all three of us support the spell. Since that thing is not a living being, the duration is longer to maintain. If it was a living being, then we might be only able to stop it for an hour. Life is the greatest variable of time magic after all." Koronn stated.

"Thank you, elders." Adrian stated as he bowed since such a spell is not easy to cast even though they are Daemos Elders. He could even see beads of sweat being formed on Koronn's forehead which mean that immense concentration is needed to sustain the spell.

Adrian did not want to rush Kimat, but he did tell him that he needed to force it if he is really confident. Kimat smiled as if he was just waiting for the confidence boost of his master as he roared so loud that it might have reached the heavens above. The two Eye of the Storms that were not even touching earlier started to clash thoroughly against one another.

There was no reaction at first but a powerful Eye of the Storm that was filled with incredible power is suddenly created when the energies stabilized. Kimat once again roared but this time he created an aura field around him that took the form of a larger Kimat. With his proud fangs, the aura body Kimat devoured the fused Eye of the Storms.

A powerful lightning suddenly came down from the heavens which suddenly covered Kimat and Adrian in a thick cloud. The worldly presence of the two suddenly vanished but his other soulbounds were still left in Avalon. The Daemos Elders were a bit shocked that such a unique space was suddenly created but they know that the youngest is safe.

Chapter 1834 The Seal Cracks

In the place where the Silver City used to be located, a large magic seal could be seen etched on the very sky itself. This was the seal that the Goddess Nemesis has implemented that also made her immensely weak and go into slumber. The dragons were the ones that are guarding the seal as they were not yet finished with their revenge against the angels.

The dragons learned that the incident of poisoning them was all because of the Goddess of Light Luminaria's scheme. They would have let it go after wiping out a majority of the angels and their leaders, but they were told that it is the plan of the actual goddess herself. This made the dragons go ballistic as they do not like to be looked down upon even if it is a goddess.

Just because the Goddess Tiamat and a majority of the dragon gods have been in slumber does not mean that the dragons would like to be bent over. The dragons knew that the return of the dragon gods is almost there because the Mother of Dragons has been born in this generation. They do not care if they have to wait a year or a decade for the revival of the dragon gods but that does not mean that they will tolerate being bullied by other gods.

The Dragon Kings even declared the area as off-limits as one of them would always guard it per day. They were also waiting for the seal to be undone as the Goddess Nemesis has stated. They will make sure that the Goddess of Light Luminaria will taste the fury of the dragons.

A sudden cloaked figure appeared before the dragons, and they all felt the disgusting energy that is inside of that being. The dragons immediately knew that it was a demigod due to the slight divinity that they have felt from the being. Without even a warning, the dragons all launched their dragon breath on the cloaked being.

They did not need to warn anyone of the danger of trespassing because they have given their resolution to the world. Anyone that comes until the specified date inside the border drawn by the dragons will be executed without mercy. The armies sent by the other kingdoms may be able to stay near the seal, but they should never step foot on the boundary that the dragons have created.

One would think that the cloaked being would be immediately destroyed from the numerous dragon breaths that were aimed at him, but a powerful barrier is suddenly erected by the cloaked being. The dragon breaths that were supposed to vaporize him were all blocked by the strange barrier that had multiple magic circles weaved into it.

"Die, insolent demigod!" The Darkness Dragon King shouted as he released his dragon breath.

Dark flames suddenly came out of the Darkness Dragon King's mouth which made the cloaked demigod panic. The cloaked demigod suddenly started to burn its own life force to protect itself from the combined dragon breath that included the one from a dragon king. A hidden figure smiled as it took out a golden shard of some sort.

The hidden figure raised their hand and aimed the sharp part of the shard towards the seal. The hidden figure was about to laugh when a dragon breath made of pure light suddenly came towards them. The hidden figure which wore a cloak and a mask immediately jumped back to evade the dragon breath.

"Who are you, vile intruder?!" The Light Dragon King stated.

"Tch!" The intruder reacted as they suddenly vanished.

The Light Dragon King knew for a fact that this intruder will not retreat or stop their attempt. The Light Dragon King suddenly bend the light around the seal which made the intruder emerge. She then proceeded to create a hundred light ray magic circles which are all aimed at the intruder.

The masked intruder knew that it could no longer use invisibility as the Light Dragon King was present. Their plan was to destroy the seal when it was not the turn of the Light Dragon King. They also picked the time when it was the darkness dragon king as they knew that the two dragon kings have some aversion to each other.

The light ray magic circles activated and all of them released beams of light that were all aimed towards the head of the masked intruder. Knowing that they cannot easily evade the beams since the Light Dragon King could literally bend the light ray while it was traveling, the masked intruder used a skill. The masked intruder suddenly created copies of themselves.

The Light Dragon King tried to detect which one is the true body, but all of the copies had the same energy signature. The Light Dragon King knew that she was dealing with a trickster god as the being before her had the aura of a lesser god. Knowing which one was real is no longer her priority as she created more magic circles to target all the copies.

The copies of the masked intruder did not try and fight the Light Dragon King but headed towards the seal. The masked intruder was more determined to slam the strange crystal on the seal created by the Goddess Nemesis. Feeling something terribly wrong would happen if she does not stop it, the Light Dragon King released her powerful dragon breath.

The dragon breath destroyed a majority of the clones in just a moment. Still, there were clones that are left and maybe the real one as well. She suddenly turned her body into particles of light which made her speed break the sound barrier. She destroyed all the masked beings that she saw but the real body was not one of them.

Fearing that she might have overlooked something, the Light Dragon King released her breath attack directly at the seal. The masked intruder suddenly panicked as his invisibility was unveiled. The masked intruder knew that he would not be able to dodge which is why he threw the strange crystal as hard as he can, but it was only able to tap the seal. Yet...that was enough.

[A crack has appeared on the Seal of the Silver City. The destruction of the seal will be sooner.]

Chapter 1835 Light Seeping Out

?The seal that is supposed to be untouchable by normal means has formed a crack. The crack was not large, but it was noticeable as light started to seep out of it as if the brilliance of the Goddess of Light Luminaria cannot be hidden. The masked god laughed wildly as its body was hit by the Light Dragon King with a powerful light spell that disintegrated the body.

"A small sacrifice to pay for the absolute win in the war." The masked god stated as his essence was destroyed by the dragon breath of the Light Dragon King.

The Darkness Dragon King is also done with his side as the demigod that he bathed in his dragon breath has also disintegrated. The two dragon kings knew that a crack forming would inevitably speed up the process of the seal becoming undone. They hurriedly informed all the gathering armies to now march to the location as the Goddess of Light Luminaria will be unleashed far sooner than expected.

==

Back in a large castle made of gold, a certain trickster god suddenly woke up and screamed in pain. It was none other than the God Loki that screamed as the pain he felt being disintegrated by dragon breath is very real. Even in he can create numerous clones that can act on his behalf, the pain and feeling is all connected.

"You scream too much." A god that had ravens on his shoulders suddenly stated.

"Brother Odin, how about doing what I did and create a copy of yourself to be destroyed? Do you think that dragon breath is something that can be taken without even wincing in pain? Even if they are not divine beings, dragons were birth from the same primordial source of gods." The God Loki stated.

"I told you that you should have used a demigod that you can possess instead. My pawn was able to do the job well and all I did was use some of my own power." The God Odin stated.

"I do not have immense mastery over magic like you brother. The fact that you are able to control a demigod that should have great resistance to the influence of gods is a testament to how powerful your magic is. What is important is that we have finished the job." The God Loki stated.

"Finished the job? You made a scratch on the seal. You should have destroyed it." The God Odin stated as their original plan was to unleash the God of Light Luminaria early.

"I did what I can given the situation. The good thing is that the seal has cracked and that her escape will be faster compared to the actual date. All we need for her is to rampage fully to the point that the walls of the mortal realm will crumble." The God Loki stated.

"I hope she does. I am counting on her immense hubris because we have sacrificed a lot to make sure this happens." The God Odin stated as he looked out towards Asgard to see that the once shining city started to become pale.

"We will succeed, brother. If one can determine the path that leads to great chaos then that would be me, Loki. She is also easy to manipulate as she is too blinded by her own standards even though she is a goddess of light." The God Loki stated as his face suddenly twisted into an evil grin.

"We will be the ones that rule the new world." The God Odin stated as he suddenly burst into numerous crows.

==

The seal getting cracked made rounds to all those that will participate in the subjugation of the Goddess of Light Luminaria. The armies knew that killing a goddess was incredibly difficult but sealing them is always an option. The only thing that they needed to do is to make sure that they weaken the Goddess of Light Luminaria.

The seal cracking might have pushed their agenda earlier, but the armies were almost ready. The demons started teleporting the armies to the site while also reinforcing the space around it. The demons knew that they should seal the Goddess of Light Luminaria in the battlefield so that she may not be able to flee should she start getting sealed.

The seal cracking is not their only problem though as creatures made of light suddenly started to form from the light that seeped out. The creatures took on the form of large, winged beasts that had the shape of large birds. The dragons did not know how this came to be, but they know that the Goddess of Light Luminaria was not idle on the other side of the seal.

The dragons were correct as the Goddess of Light Luminaria is indeed not wasting time. She grumbled for the first day of being sealed but she looked back to see that she barely had an army with her. She started to create beings made of light that she called Luxera. The Goddess of Light Luminaria created more powerful warriors to be under her service as days passed.

She was able to create more concrete beings that were close to the existence of angels. She wanted to create angels, but she does not have the ingredients for them. She was also banned by the Gods of Death because she has disrespected them. She was glad that the angels found a way to create more of their own but that also came at a cost that the newly created ones were weak.

"The stronger newly created angels betrayed me already. I will just need to recreate another pawn for my plans. I have all the time in the world after all and the gods that can stop me are not able to even touch me." The Goddess of Light Luminaria stated.

Just as she was creating more humanoid Luxera, she suddenly felt the entire seal tremble. She felt the entire dimension quake and some of the energy from the mortal realm started to enter. She then saw cracks on the dimension which made her laugh in pure unbridled joy.

"It might not be enough, but I can send my first creations down to whittle at their forces. By the time that I am released, they will all be exhausted beyond belief and wiping them out will not be a problem." The Goddess of Light Luminaria stated.

She might be disconnected from the mortal realm and sealed but that does not mean she is fully excluded. Even though there might not be many, but she still has some followers that pray to her. She was able to learn that the central continent is trying to band together to seal her permanently.

"Fly my creations and lay waste on the armies that dare to oppose me. If you can, destroy the seal from the outside!" The Goddess of Light Luminaria stated as she commanded her first creations to slip out of the cracks.

==

The sudden arrival of light beasts became the official start of the battle. The dragons were the first ones to deal with the beasts made of light, but they were not easy to handle. Normal elemental attacks were not as effective against them, and physical attacks barely deal damage.

The ones that can handle them were the light dragons and the darkness dragons. The light dragons can forcefully mess with the element that they are born with which is why they can damage the Luxera at full power. The darkness dragons had a much easier time as just one breath attack can destroy three at most.

Still, the dragons were not enough as the Luxera poured out of the crack like ants. Some even pecked at the seal but their very forms cannot even increase the crack or make a dent. Seeing that they cannot influence the seal, the Luxera charged towards the army that has formed to seal the goddess of light. They were carrying their initial command which is to lay waste on the enemies of their creator.

The Luxera charged at the waiting armies that were far from the seal. The sudden appearance of light-based monsters created some confusion, but the armies were able to rally. The armies started to kill as much of the Luxera as possible.

The Luxeras were like pests that were difficult to exterminate but they were not unkillable. The reinforcements started to arrive which as well made it easier for the first ones that fought to have some breathing room. The burden was shared but that does not mean that everything will be easy. As the days passed, the crack on the seal became much bigger.

The Luxera that came out became even more powerful than the first ones that arrive on the day before. The stronger ones started to bang on the seal to try and destroy it, but they cannot as well. Still, the effort that the stronger Luxeras did had not go unnoticed. The Goddess of Light Luminaria could feel the space holding her weakened as more of her creations pounded on it.

Chapter 1836 The Sealed Light Breaks I

The Luxera that the Goddess of Light Luminaria started to flood out of the crack. She was already initially sealed for eight days when this happened. The crack started spewing light monsters at the ninth day. It would have been fine if this was just the case, but the crack became bigger which spewed bigger and more powerful Luxera.

If the Luxera that came out did not try and make the crack bigger, then it would have been fine. Even if the effect of a small crack was unnoticeable, the fact that multiple Luxera pounded on the crack meant that the seal cannot hold its structure until the intended date. The crack became unstable to the point that even the dragons cannot tell when it will be released.

The Luxera also came out in swarms as if they were created in the thousands because the Goddess of Light Luminaria was bored. The armies hastily arrived at the scene and battled with the Luxera while the dragons still maintained the seal. The Darkness Dragon King and the Light Dragon King were making sure that all of the Luxera do not bombard the seal, or it will break it and release the Goddess of Light Luminaria as soon as possible.

"I am inevitable, mortals! Bow down to me while I am still in a good mood or face bright annihilation when I am freed!" The voice of the Goddess of Light Luminaria could now be heard from the crack.

The fact that the Goddess of Light Luminaria can now be heard meant that the seal is weakening so much that it was only a matter of time it breaks. They were only on the tenth day but now they fear that the Goddess of Light Luminaria will be released at the twelfth day at the latest. The crack grew bigger and bigger with each passing day, and they estimate that the Goddess of Light Luminaria can start destroying it by the next day.

"Never vile goddess!" The Followers of the Gods of War shouted as they were assaulted by the angels and joined the fight.

"With the guidance of justice! The Temple of Nemesis shall make sure that you shall be permanently sealed!" The High Priestess Galatea stated as she and her blind warriors came out with swords and scales.

One would have laughed to see blind beings wield dangerous weapons, but they were the ones that they should fear the most. The Followers of the Gods of Justice are different compared to other gods as they would be the smallest in number. They are the smallest in number because not a lot of mortal beings can uphold justice.

The Followers of the Gods of Justice also have special abilities that are feared even by the most menacing of mortals. Their attacks always strike true and would hurt more against enemies that have committed more injustices. This is also the reason why their temples are almost loners because they can smell even the smallest injustices but mainly it is due to their strikes hurt a lot.

"Try as you may mortals but even the other gods will not be able to stop me!" The Goddess of Light Luminaria stated as she laughed.

The battle against the creatures that the Goddess of Light Luminaria raged on. The scene became chaotic as time passed by because more Luxera came out while more armies were transported. By the eleventh day, all the armies that have volunteered to participate have arrived even the Pantheon Guild.

"Is the guild leader still not out from the dimension?" Pana asked Levin Cloud.

"He is still inside that weird thing. The cloud itself is like a separated dimension upon the inspection of the Daemos Elders but he is safe. He also messaged us that he was just finishing things up and will come as soon as we can." Levin Cloud stated as he is now the one in charge of the guild for now.

"It would have been better if he was here though. His presence is a bit comforting whenever we deal with world ending threats." Creepysoo stated.

"He always does make it seem that everything will end up fine, but we must make sure that we can hold off the goddess or defeat her even if he does not arrive." Peridot stated as their base of operations is the central continent.

"Time for battle but make sure to have shifts when fighting! As long as the Goddess of Light Luminaria has yet to be released, we shall maintain our stamina and gears." Levin Cloud stated as the first group of fighters stepped forward along with him.

All the guilds from the game made sure to participate in the defeat of the Goddess of Light Luminaria. A lot of good stuff will come out if they do seal a High God. They would be rewarded handsomely because a High God should not have been able to descend unto the world as of now. A lot of hidden demigods also came as they thought this might be a chance to steal some of the Goddess of Light Luminaria's divinity.

Each group came for their different gains but all of it was mostly personal. This also meant that the army is disorderly and would not work together with one another unless agreed upon. A lot of players are actually amazed that no one started killing each other yet as if it was agreed upon to at least avoid that. It also helps that the dragons and the demons that were there are maintaining order.

The demons are now in full battle mode as well because they actually intend to kill the Goddess of Light Luminaria. Even the dragons also have that intention because of what happened in their most sacred place. This is actually one of the rare times that the dragons and the demons have agreed on the destruction of another being. If that does not tell you that the Goddess of Light Luminaria's personality is trash, then no one know what will.

The eleventh day came to pass, and the crack became bigger than before which made the light inside the seal seep out even more. The seal started to rumble and the space around it started to shake as well. The rumbling was not made from outside the seal but inside of it as the Goddess of Light Luminaria knew that she could severely weaken it and come out today at the peak hour of the day.

The armies outside could feel the tension as with each rumble of the seal meant that the Goddess of Light Luminaria released some powerful force. The beings outside the seal can feel that powerful energy even though they were not the intended targets. A small fear crept in the hearts of the mortals, but they knew that they would become slaves to a goddess if they do not seal her back.

"Temporal Return!" The voice of a demon suddenly echoed as numerous clocks suddenly appeared outside of the seal.

The numerous clocks locked in on the space of the seal and started to move backwards. With each clock moving backward, the cracks on the seal started to reverse as well. The banging from the other side of the seal started to become erratic as if the one on that side was extremely annoyed.

"You demons dare! I shall start with your race and torture you for eternity! My creations! Kill that demon!" The voice of the Goddess of Light Luminaria shouted as the seal started to revert back to a few hours ago.

The demon that reversed time was none other than Koronn and he did not even pay any attention to the Goddess of Light Luminaria. The Luxera that she created started to swarm towards Koronn as they were commanded by their creator. As long as Koronn was reversing the state of the seal, the Goddess of Light Luminaria will not be able to forcefully get out today. Even if he only delayed the inevitable, some form of breathing room would be the best for the armies as they can feel the exhaustion rolling in.

"Watch out!" somebody shouted as numerous Luxera suddenly flocked towards Koronn.

"Daemos Time!" Koronn stated as he suddenly summoned a scythe made of gears and clock hands.

As if the whole field became pale violet, Koronn suddenly became extremely fast that he created after images of himself. From the eyes of a mortal that is what happened but not to those sensitive with time fluctuations. Koronn did not speed up, but he slowed down time to a great degree that even light creatures looked like they were not moving.

"I did not know that I will have to do exercises today." Koronn stated as numerous Luxera suddenly popped as he defeated all of them in a span of one second.

The onlookers could not believe that an old demon like Koronn was actually that powerful because they always thought that he was the weakest of the Daemos Elders.

Chapter 1837 The Sealed Light Breaks II

There has always been a debate online with players on who would be the weakest of the Daemos Elders. There was even a poll that the community voted on and all of them were in agreement that the weakest was Elder Koronn. They based this on their observations on the feats that each Daemos elder has done. Still, they know that each of the Daemos Elder is more powerful than the normal NPC.

The players saw Elder Ascalor move entire armies in a split-second while also using spells that destroys his enemies via a powerful space vacuum. Elder Bronx is the next strongest via voting as they saw how he is basically destruction incarnate when he gets serious. They voted Elder Koronn as the weakest because no one has seen him do anything and he is regarded as a shut-in and a bookworm.

This was the first time that the players have seen what Elder Koronn is capable of as he is destroying hundreds of powerful Luxera by himself. The most terrifying thing is that the Luxera could not even counterattack as they were basically frozen in time or Elder Koronn moved extremely fast. The players did not even believe a post that the Demon Equinox believes that the most terrifying elder to battle with was Elder Koronn.

Time bent at the will of the Time Demon. The title, Time Demon, is something that Elder Koronn got when he was very active in his duties in the Daemos Corps. He was actually the most feared of the demons back then because of his influence over time itself. He can even defeat a demon with temporal magic which made every demigod afraid of him even though he was just a greater demon then.

"Ah! This will really hurt my back later." Elder Koronn stated but he is actually just saying that because he is really not in the mood to fight.

As if his personality was affected by his mastery over temporal magic, he really likes to waste his time doing his hobbies and not being useful to the world. He was the one that perceived time as nothing more than a tool which is why he rarely goes out unless he is interested. He only went out to battle this time because Ascalor was still recuperating, and Bronx was preparing the Daemos Corps.

"Still, the fact that my own temporal magic cannot fully restore the crack meant that something divine made that crack. The best that I can do is hold the seal and destroy all these pests that are flying around me." Elder Koronn stated as he actually expected to restore the seal with his magic.

Elder Koronn thought that he could restore the seal in one go but something blocked him from doing so. Something was mixed into the cracks that made sure that deterioration would be its normal state. As if the enemies already expected that a demon would reverse time to fix the seal. He knew that only extremely rare things can do this as interfering with time itself is also a natural process for Koronn like breathing.

Koronn views turning back time as a state where the target just reverses into its natural state. Living and non-living things have the same process as all of them have states. As long as the registered state of the exploded rock for example is a large boulder then he will be able to revert it to that. The seal that he is trying to reverse has registered that its natural state is that of numerous cracks.

The best that Koronn could do is to make sure that the seal will be maintained at its less cracked state. Still, he cannot force this as always reversing time would drain a lot from him as temporal magic drains the most mana among Origin Magic. He also cannot delay the inevitable which is the release of the Goddess of Light Luminaria. He just made the logical choice of holding it as long as he can while the armies below defeated all the annoying light monsters.

"You cannot hold the seal forever, demon!" The voice of the Goddess of Light Luminaria shouted as she can still feel the seal weakening even if it slowed down.

"Just pipe it down, you old hag! We would have let you do anything, but your minions dare kill demons. We shall make sure that you will be sealed for at least a millennium. I bet that will weaken you thoroughly as you will be forgotten by then." Elder Koronn stated.

The Goddess of Light Luminaria knew that demons do not bluff as the demons would definitely seal her when they have the chance. She also did not plan to have the demons killed because that was really not in her plan. She even warned her minions to just let the demons do their task of maintaining the world.

She knows the real reason why the demons exist, and she did not want to have them exterminated. She actually never advocated for the eradication of the demons as it was only her radical believers that did so. She only told her believers back then to never trust a demon as they are beings of destruction and told them to stay away. She did not expect that the radical followers that she had would twist it to spread that she wanted the demons exterminated.

She did not want to admit it, but she was swept away by these radical ideologies as well because it brought her great faith. Her power rose when radical ideologies from her faith risen as well. Even if she knew that the demons are the ones maintaining the world and the universal barrier just by existing.

"Since threats do not work on you then I shall give you some useful things. I can tell you about your father, Demon Koronn." The voice of the Goddess of Light Luminaria stated without any aggression.

Koronn might not have replied but he could be seen to have reacted strongly to the words of the Goddess of Light Luminaria. The Goddess of Light Luminaria was able to see Elder Koronn's reaction even though she can only peer through the cracks. She held this information because she believed this was valuable to deal with the demons should they stop her from taking over.

"You want that don't you? I know that you have been looking for your father. You were famous back then for being only born from one demon parent." The Goddess of Light Luminaria stated as she knew of Koronn's identity.

"I no longer need such a thing because I already have a new family. You have touched that new family which is why you will pay dearly for it." Elder Koronn stated as he started to no longer entertain the Goddess of Light Luminaria.

The Goddess of Light Luminaria is shocked to learn of this as this was her trump card against the demons. She held vital information that an Arch Demon was searching for his whole life. What the Goddess of Light Luminaria did not know is that Elder Koronn has greatly changed since his last experience with the River of Time. If the Goddess of Light Luminaria offered this information before that happened, then she might have gotten a deal from the demons.

"WahHHHHH!" The Goddess of Light Luminaria screamed as she no longer has anything that she can use against the demons.

She believed greatly that the information about the father of Koronn would be enough to make the demons turn a blind eye as long as she promises not to destroy the stability of the world. She started to rampage inside the sealed dimension as her plan has failed. She then started to wrack her brain on why that is the case as demons are known to be stubborn and held to their personal beliefs.

"That damned, young demon! Equinox!" The Goddess of Light Luminaria stated as she remembered the demon that humiliated her.

The Goddess of Light Luminaria knew that the changes within the psyche of the demons are due to him. He was the greatest variable that entered the fray which almost made her plan blow into smoke. He was the reason why the demons cared more for the world now than before when they only cared about making sure that it is maintained.

"Make sure to kill that young demon and erase him from existence! No... I shall personally do it myself or else my grudge will not cease." The Goddess of Light Luminaria stated as her whole body started to glow.

The Goddess of Light Luminaria noticed that her humanoid form started to get disintegrated which is why she calmed herself down. She was almost about to release her true celestial form and vaporize some of her creations in the sealed dimension. She had to be careful as she will find it difficult to revert to a humanoid form should she release her true form as she will become vulnerable to being killed in that form.

Chapter 1838 The Sealed Light Breaks III

The Goddess of Light Luminaria knew that she must be calm since she just needs something more to even the playing field. She needed to have chaos to ensue that the demons will no longer pay attention to what she is doing. She needed a distraction for the demons as she can wipe out the other beings that dared to raise their weapons against her.

"Gods of Light! I shall give you an ultimatum! Help me and I shall give all of you amnesty and shall never step on you ever again. I swear this on the First Light!" The voice of the Goddess of Light Luminaria stated as her speech crossed all over the world.

Those that heard her voice would have been bewildered on what help she wanted but her intent was veiled in the light that escaped. The gods of light that have hid themselves in the corners of the world heard the call of the Goddess of Light Luminaria. Some rose to action while others did not even think about doing the Goddess of Light Luminaria a favor.

Koronn would have thought that the Goddess of Light Luminaria has gone crazy as she did not even say what she wanted help on, but he suddenly felt numerous reverberations on the world. Parts of the world started to generate rifts that made the barrier that separated the mortal and divine closer. Koronn could not believe that the Goddess of Light Luminaria would think of such a thing.

Elder Koronn now had the choice of keeping the Goddess of Light Luminaria sealed or fixing the damages that the gods of light are doing on the world barrier. He did not have to think that deep on the choice that he needed to do. He picked the latter as keeping the Goddess of Light Luminaria would be meaningless if the world would be overrun by unknown entities.

"Heroes! I will need to leave. I need to leave this area up to you as the henchmen of the goddess has turned to destroying the world barrier. I shall give all of you my last gift, but I shall hurry back once I have done my duties. The Gift of Time!" Elder Koronn stated.

[You have been afflicted by the Gift of Time.]

[Speed has been increased by 20%]

[Reaction Speed has been increased by 30%.]

A powerful flash of light suddenly covered the area as all the Luxera that were currently flying about froze in time. That was not the only effect that Koronn has left as all the warriors that were there are gifted with a speed buff. The buff was insane because it sped up what all beings need in battle which are speed and reaction speed.

Koronn vanished as soon as he cast the spell, but the warriors were not mad that he suddenly left. The spell that he used on the seal were still affecting it which meant that they might have enough days left. The enemy monsters were also frozen in place even though they do not know for how long. Still, the players did not let such a prime opportunity got to waste.

A loud battle cry echoed in the area as the Followers of the War Gods started their rampage on the enemies that are frozen in time. The enemies that were frozen in time were not completely frozen though. Once the enemy is attacked, the enemy monster would then slowly recover their speed. The slowness in recovering their normal speed made it easy for the army to destroy the Luxera though.

The armies created strategies of killing the Luxera with one hit by bombarding them with powerful attacks all at once. The mages were the ones that are happy with this because they could just freely chant their spells and they will kill monsters. The entire place became an experience farm site just because of one spell from an Elder Daemos.

The spell was not permanent though as the Luxera started to slowly recover their movement after twenty minutes. This was enough time for the armies to get their movement straight and precise. The Luxera that were in the thousands suddenly started to drop into mere hundreds. The killing rate was so fast that the Goddess of Light Luminaria scowled.

The armies managed to defeat the Luxeras in a matter of two hours which made them have time to rest. The buff that they were given by Koronn also wore out as they suddenly felt sluggish. The aftereffect of the skill is that the people that have gotten it will need to have some time to adjust to their normal thinking capacity.

"The demons have gone but all my lesser creations have been destroyed. I shall just wait my time for two days are all I need. In two days, this world shall know what true light is." The Goddess of Light Luminaria muttered to herself as she was enveloping her remaining five angel leaders with a cocoon made of light.

==

Adrian opened his eyes and saw a different place than Avalon. The place was full of clouds and rumbling thunder. He could even see that it was not in the mortal realm as if his body transcended it. This place was some sort of pocket dimension that Kimat has created.

"Find me, master!" The voice of Kimat suddenly echoed inside of Adrian's head.

Adrian did not know why he was sent here but he knows that it might not have been a coincidence. The place that he is right now is something that Kimat has created, or it might have been a place Kimat's dormant power has created. Adrian knew that with each powerful thing Kimat swallowed meant a change in his body.

The change might be subtle, but it was not subtle enough as Adrian could feel it from his connection with Kimat. Something fundamental has changed within Kimat as his very soul was also transformed into some extent. This is now a place that Kimat's soul has manifested and pulled Adrian's entire being inside. It was as if Kimat's Soul Chamber suddenly manifested into another dimension.

"Master! Find me! Anchor me to you!" The voice of Kimat once again trailed off but this time it did not echo in his head.

"No other soulbounds and no Paradox to lead me as well. It seems that it is time for me to do this the old-fashioned way and call upon his soul." Adrian stated as he started walking.

Adrian could hear Kimat's voice trail off in the distance as if he was near. He followed the call as fast as he could, but the distance did not seem to become smaller. In fact, the distance seemed to stay the same and did not even change. The same trailing voice can be heard even if he walked a hundred meters from where he came from.

"Kimat! Where are you!?" Adrian shouted expecting an answer, but the calls were still the same.

All the trailing voice had the same things that they said which would then trigger a rumbling thunder sound once Kimat's voice can no longer be heard. Adrian walked around in circles, but every word and sense of distance was the same. He even tried just walking straight but the loudness of Kimat's voice did not change.

"What is happening? It is as if I am walking but staying at the same place at the same time. I am not walking around in circles nor moving forward. As if my vision itself is being obscured." Adrian thought to himself as walking did not get him anywhere.

"I am here, master." The voice of Kimat stated as he then heard the rumble of thunder.

"Kimat?!" Adrian stated but this time he did not move at all.

Adrian did not move forward but instead looked down on his feet where he stood. The dark clouds that he thought were clouds are actually not. Each rumble from thunder did not come from the clouds itself but to the being that was talking. Kimat is indeed calling out to him, but he was already near Kimat.

"Master!" the voice of Kimat stated.

"I have found you." Adrian stated as a large head of a gigantic tiger suddenly rose up from the clouds, but the clouds were actually parts of Kimat's body.

The dark clouds laced with white clouds was none other than Kimat himself. His entire body looked so enormous that he was monstrous in size just like that of Kanlaon. The appearance was different though as Kimat is supposed to be white, but his gigantic form had black fur with white stripes. He did not know why this is, but he believed it is due to the fact that a notification has appeared before him.

[You soulbound, Kimat, has perfectly fused with the Qlipoth Essence that you have chosen for him.]

[Your soulbound, Kimat, has perfectly resonated with Gha'agsheblah.]

[Beware for you have created a Living Natural Disaster.]

Chapter 1839 The Light Breaks Free

The armies were all exhausted from the continuous battles yesterday. Thanks to Elder Koronn, all of them were able to destroy the Luxera that have been released from the seal. They were all resting as they have wiped out each enemy that the Goddess of Light Luminaria has created.

The armies expected a fight the next day as well since more powerful Luxera have seeped out of the crack the following day. They waited in anticipation for the next wave of enemies to appear, but they were surprised that nothing came out. The armies would have been much more enthusiastic if powerful light monsters came out because they know that nothing seeping out is no good.

All the beings in Pandemonium knew that experiencing a calm after such turbulent times is not a good omen. They already know that sealed inside that space is the Goddess of Light Luminaria. They would have liked it more if she struggled and expressed her wrath by creating more monsters.

"I do not like this feeling. It is so eerie as if the end is coming." One of the players stated as they felt a chill in their spine.

They know that the Goddess of Light Luminaria is not a being that takes offense lightly. A lot of players have seen the video of the Pantheon guild offending her and they knew that she was a vengeful goddess. She would not take kindly to any offense that is thrown at her which means that being quiet is not in her nature when thousands of beings are destroying her creations.

Each of the armies did not want to idle which is why they started to prepare for advance formations when the Goddess of Light Luminaria breaks free from her seal. Just because they are fighting a goddess does not mean that they will not use everything in their arsenal to defeat her. Some religious orders even took out items that can deal damage to dark gods or distorted gods even though they do not know if it will work on a god of Pandemonium.

The Church of Light have started to crumble as there are not many followers left from the people. All their misdeeds throughout the years have started to circulate in every kingdom of the central continent. They may be others that still worship the Goddess of Light Luminaria but those are the people that cannot be reached from word of mouth.

"What is she doing?" Levin Cloud asked as he was very unnerved at the fact that the Goddess of Light Luminaria suddenly became silent.

"Whatever it is, we know that she will not go down without a fight. She is not a goddess that will back down especially against mortals. Make immediate preparations as we will need to be ready when she breaks free." Solstice stated as she also observed the seal.

The seal was getting more and more cracks by the hour which means that the Goddess of Light Luminaria might get released sooner rather than later. A lot of the churches prepared for the second advent of the Goddess of Light Luminaria. They knew that working together is the only way to defeat a High God that has descended.

"Any news from the guild leader?" Kabrakan asked.

"Not really. It seems that he is out of commission as of the moment. He would have given us a heads up if he was already done." Levin Cloud stated.

"How about the demons? They suddenly vanished from the battlefield like Elder Koronn." Lycan asked.

"It is the other gods of light that have descended. Some of them created rifts in space or in the world barrier. They diverted the attention of the demons away from this area as per the command of the Goddess of Light Luminaria. She seems to know the real essence of the demons which is why she wanted them out of here." Creepysoo stated as he received news from the wraiths that pop out of the ground that came from the Undead Citadel.

"Will the Undead King come to the fight?" Levin Cloud asked as he knew that powerful undead would be welcomed against the Goddess of Light Luminaria.

"Unfortunately, one of the gods of light that have scattered seemed to have gone face to face with my father. The Undead King will not be able to join us because he is currently fighting against one of the greater gods of light. There will be a detached force that will come but I doubt that they can go against the angels." Creepysoo stated.

The undead are much weaker when there is light which means that they will be weakened just at the mere presence of angels. They might be able to overcome such a thing, but they have to have high personas for that to happen. Ordinary undead will just get vaporized by any angelic attack as their magic contains holy and light elements.

"The elves in Avalon cannot leave as well because the gods of light are roaming about. With the Daemos Elders fixing the rifts and the world barrier, the elven elders cannot leave Avalon as they might attack the Tree of Life and Death." Levin Cloud stated.

"Is that the reason why the Evergreen guild only has their vice guild leader? Anastasia must be guarding the world tree that they have grown in fear that the gods of light might become greedy." Solstice stated as she wanted to have another person that can revive dead players in this fight, but they do not have one.

"Having a territory means that they should always leave some fighting force or else they might get attacked. If there were no stray gods, then they might be able to move freely." Peridot stated as not all of the elite forces of the guilds present are here.

The next day came, and they thought that everything would be just like yesterday, but they are mistaken. A powerful cracking sound echoed in the distance as the seal has been broken prematurely.

"I AM FREE!" The Goddess of Light Luminaria stated as a bright light covered the area once she was free.

Chapter 1840 The Terror of Light

The Goddess of Light Luminaria did not release more Luxera out of the seal as they would just get destroyed without her there to empower them. She swallowed her pride and muttered to herself that it is all for her greater good. She knew that sending senseless monsters out once more will just empower her enemies.

She looked at the five angels that were left by her side. The five were angels of the first generation that did not leave her. They were the angels that were not tempted by the seducer she has created. She always felt bitter that her mere creation was able to demand things from her, but she was the one that became victorious in the end.

Mikhail was her most prized creation as he was the most beautiful being that she has created. He was also the most flawed of her creations since he had free will. She did not know why that happened, but Mikhail was the most lifelike among her creations since she could not force him to do anything.

"If you had only remained loyal to me then I would have had you ruling by my side. He was even created with some essence of the Asmodians even though I made sure to erase much of the Asmodian identity in it. I would have ruled by now if he was not foolish and just stayed as my puppet." The Goddess of Light Luminaria muttered as she oversaw the cocoons of light that she covered her angels with.

The Goddess of Light Luminaria knew that she alone might not be enough to cover the entire central continent. Unlike before when she was in her divine realm, she cannot look at the world from an observer's perspective. She now had to use her divine sense to feel and see things in the world which made her feel very mundane.

The reason why she wants to rule the central continent is due to the fact that any believers will become her eyes. She believed that converting all the humans to her side would make her the real ruler of the central continent. She was reliant on humans that believe her to be able to manage the vast territory that is the central continent.

As of now, the Goddess of Light Luminaria cannot see other places because she is losing followers by the second. The angel raid was not something that aided her in getting more followers. She could no longer see much as her followers were either hiding or from places that are isolated.

The gods of light that escaped her grasp also cut her ties with her as soon as they were able to break free. Their followers no longer counted as hers which is why she cannot see using them as well. The Goddess of Light Luminaria is now left with a few thousand people and her angels.

"No matter because they will all revere me in the end. I have already activated my divine shards that I have embedded on the angels to ensure perfect control over them. When they wake up, I will have four angels that have the power of a lesser god under me and one that has the strength of a greater god." The Goddess of Light Luminaria stated as she felt the sealed dimension ripple.

The Goddess of Light Luminaria felt the entire sealed dimension suddenly become weaker. The spell that reversed the cracks finally stopped as the demon that cast it is not here to maintain it. If the demon was here, then he might have been able to slow down the seal so that it breaks at its specified time, but the Goddess of Light Luminaria did something about that.

The Goddess of Light Luminaria did expect that some of the gods of light would follow her request as long as she promises to reward them. She believed that they would want to side with her because she is the most powerful goddess that has descended. She will be the one to top rule the world and it was only a matter of hours before that starts.

"Rest well mortals! For I shall have my reckoning!" The Goddess of Light Luminaria thought to herself as she poured more power into the light cocoons.

A powerful shattering sound suddenly spread all throughout the area as the seal of the Goddess of Light Luminaria has been destroyed. The Goddess of Light Luminaria was released from her seal two days in advance. She appeared in a bright flash of light that blanketed the entire area to the point that all living beings had to close their eyes.

The Goddess of Light Luminaria appeared with five light spheres around her and a couple hundred Luxera. The armies might have not bothered with the Luxera as they have beaten a lot of them but the ones that appeared with the Goddess of Light Luminaria are different. The Luxera surrounding the Goddess of Light Luminaria looked completely humanoid and had wings just like angels.

The only difference with the present Luxera from the angels is that they look more golem or doll like. The wings on their backs are more like streaks of light instead of actual feathered wings. The Luxera also held spears made of light as their weapons. They look more like automatons than actual monsters since they moved like magical machines.

"I SHALL SHOW YOU THE TERROR THAT COMES FOR GOING AGAINST ME!" The Goddess of Light Luminaria stated as she suddenly created a small star that suddenly expanded.

The star that the Goddess of Light Luminaria created looked small like marble at first, but it expanded at the blink of an eye. The small marble now looked a few hundred meters in diameter as the Goddess of Light Luminaria created a small sun. The Goddess of Light Luminaria hurled this small sun towards the army as she revealed her intent to wipe out all the beings here that dared to oppose her.