

O Summoner 1871

Chapter 1871 Two Gods of Death in World of the Living II

[You have died.]

[You have summoned the God of Death Ah Puch into the mortal realm.]

[You have summoned the God of Death Hades into the mortal realm.]

[Due to the world restriction, the God of Death Ah Puch will only have the strength of a greater god.]

[Due to the world restriction, the God of Death Hades will only have the strength of a greater god.]

[You cannot use Revive while the God of Death Ah Puch and the God of Death Hades are in the mortal realm.]

[Your soul is maintaining the link of the God of Death Ah Puch and the God of Death Hades in the mortal realm.]

[Duration of the summoning for the God of Death Ah Puch and the God of Death Hades is 15 minutes.]

[You have gained the hidden achievement of 'Certified God Summoner'.]

[You have gained the Random Summon skill.]

[Due to having the achievement of 'Certified God Summoner' you now have a 0.1% chance to randomly summon a god when using the Random Summon skill.]

Adrian was barraged with notifications, but he got the gist of it. His soul was basically the bargain to maintain the stability of the realm. He would be able to revive after the summoning of the two gods of death is undone. What he did not expect is to get a hidden achievement and receive a skill in return.

Adrian is shocked to see an incredibly unique skill that can only be learned by him. Even if he spread the news on how to obtain the skill, no one will ever be able to get it because he was alive. The skill might have been unlocked by him because he was able to summon more than three gods at this point.

"The skill is great but not always useful. I better focus on the fight in the mortal realm. I guess it is a good thing that I am able to see what is happening from two perspectives." Adrian stated as he has the same sight as the two gods that he summoned.

"Impossible! The Gods of Death are not welcomed in the mortal realm! You have given the oath to never stand on mortal soil!" The Angel of Humility Mikhail stated with emotions as even the restricting goddess fragment could not hide his shock.

"We are merely summoned beings. A loophole in the oath if I may say so myself. Your goddess should have reviewed the terms of the agreement carefully. Is that not right, Hades?" The God of Death Ah Puch stated.

"Just do your duty, Ah Puch. We must kill the two Neo Angels with the time that we are given. Although the body of a demigod is much easier to move in, the power of a greater god is very restricting." The God of Death Hades stated.

"I guess that is true. I shall face the shining one with the shields. I always love to destroy things after all. Is that my servant, Creepysoo?! Come here boy! We will have so much fun." The God of Death Ah Puch stated.

"Have mercy on the boy. But we should change our appearance first. We still look like the dead bodies we inhabited." The God of Death Hades stated.

"I guess you are correct." The God of Death Ah Puch agreed.

A staff with the horns of a ram, the wings of a bat and the teeth of a tiger suddenly manifested beside the God of Death Ah Puch. Upon touching the staff, the body of the demigod started to change into a sickly being with purple skin tone. His head is suddenly covered with a Mayan headdress with blood red feathers. A mask made of animal bone covered his face, but his red glowing beady eyes could be seen eliminating the dark eye sockets.

The ground beneath the God of Death Ah Puch also changed as if it became filled with diseases. With each step that he took, the ground looked lifeless. On some instance, the ground would suddenly have creepy maggots crawling out which made anyone that sees it give him distance.

For the God of Death Hades, a helm made of all the metals of the earth appeared on his right hand. A powerful dark energy could be felt from the helm itself as if darkness itself is sealed inside of it. The God of Death Hades wore the helmet and the atmosphere around him suddenly changed.

Upon wearing the helmet, the God Hades is suddenly covered in an armor made of shadows, but it was not actually shadows when one looked closely. His armor and his cape were made of the wailing evil spirits that the God of Death Hades have punished. The eerie voices of the death could be heard asking to be free.

"It has been such a long time since I have gone to battle. I might be rusty and might move like a corpse." The God of Death Ah Puch stated.

"Just kill the angel and be done with it. Remember to not endanger other mortal lives." The God of Death Hades stated as he drew a blade made of stygian iron.

"I will not make promises because mortals are opportunists even if there are great risks." The God of Death Ah Puch stated with a sinister laugh.

Chapter 1872 The Boy Carried by the God of Death

Creepysoo thought that he was finally done from the menial chores from the Gods of Death. He already got lots of buffs from them as each menial task gave some enchantment to the undead that he summoned. One time he even got the 5% resist from holy damage which was something difficult to obtain. His undead are no longer affected by the Turn Undead spell that the holy priests use.

He was practically using all the things that he got from doing chores for the gods of death. He was the most useful player in this battle right now as his undead have 50% resistance to light damage which should usually be impossible. The undead and light-based creatures are basically enemies for life as undead are not good against light.

Creepysoo was decimating the Luxera with his undead knights when he suddenly felt a chill and looked towards his big brother guild leader. He saw that his big bro summoned gods of death and one of them is someone that he did not like to see. The God of Death Ah Puch was summoned to the mortal realm, and he immediately felt the gaze of the god but decided to ignore it.

Creepysoo always used the God Death Descent skill when he is almost at the point of losing. Using the skill makes the user indebted to the God of Death that answers his call. Some gods of death do not bother him as they usually get bored and wanted to play in the mortal realm by possessing his body. Gods that only want to have fun would usually only task him with cleaning their castle, but the God of Death Ah Puch was different.

Creepysoo did not know why but the God of Death Ah Puch usually answers his call all the time. When it comes to return the favor, Creepysoo would always get the short end of the stick as he becomes the jester of the god of death. He would often be ordered around to do silly things like fix a decaying zombie or find the missing head of a Dullahan.

Creepysoo would always do insanely difficult tasks for the God of Death Ah Puch to the point that he would choose other gods of death over him. Now, the God of Death Ah Puch has basically manifested in the mortal realm. Creepysoo would usually only have them possess them which they would share some thought or emotions, but this is his first time talking to a god of death in the land of the living.

"Oi! Where are you going, boy!" The God of Death Ah Puch stated as he chased the running Creepysoo.

The scene of an undead boy being chased by a god that also looks like an undead became a unique scene in the battle. Creepysoo tried to run but the bodies of dead people are scattered everywhere. He was about to pick up some distance when the hand of a corpse suddenly grabbed him by the ankle. He fell to the ground face first as the God of Death Ah Puch finally caught up to him.

"Why were you running, boyo?" The God of Death Ah Puch asked.

"You were chasing me that is why." Creepysoo stated but he did not want to admit that he did not want to deal with the God of Death Ah Puch.

"Is that why? Why do I feel like you were avoiding me for some reason?" The God of Death Ah Puch stated as he moved his face closer to Creepysoo as he interrogated the latter.

"If you did not chase me then I might have not run." Creepysoo replied.

"Might? Bah! We have no time. I need your help as I also have limited access to my real powers due to the world restriction. You have something that I can use to amplify my power." The God of Death Ah Puch stated.

"The Necronomicon." Creepysoo stated.

"Correct. I need to use some of your power so that we can defeat that shining angel there." The God of Death Ah Puch stated as he pointed towards the Angel of Patience Gabriel.

"You're a greater god in terms of power. Why do you need my help?" Creepysoo asked as the power emanating from the God of Death Ah Puch is not weak by any means.

"Gods of Death are not welcomed in the land of the living. We have heavier restrictions compared to other gods. If I raise these fine bodies of the demigods here, then they would just have the power of a weakened demigod. If we use the Necronomicon, I might be able to at least make them have the power of a lesser god." The God of Death Ah Puch stated.

"Okay then. I also tried raising them into undead, but it takes too much power to create demigod undead for my current state. What do I have to do?" Creepysoo stated as he reluctantly agreed.

"Come here then." The God of Death Ah Puch stated as he actually carried Creepysoo on his shoulders.

The God of Death Ah Puch might look like he is not strong since his appearance is sickly and extremely thin, but he has the power of a greater god in this offered body after all. As soon as Creepysoo is on the shoulder of the God of Death Ah Puch, he immediately knew what to do as the god shared his thoughts with him.

"Come to me my domain! Mitnal!" The God of Death Ah Puch stated as a powerful death energy suddenly escaped his body which covered the entire area around him.

"Necronomicon Three Star Spell: Greater Undead Rise!" Creepysoo shouted as the energy from the God of Death Ah Puch supplemented the power he lacked in reviving the demigod undead.

"Good! Form your swords and fight for your new master! Despairing souls of Mitnal inhabit the undead that is prepared!" The God of Death Ah Puch stated as the wails of spirits suddenly echoed in the area and possessed the undead that was just risen.

Chapter 1873 Lesser God Undead

The souls despairing in Mitnal flowed to the mortal realm under the command of the God of Death Ah Puch. This is possible because he called upon a piece of land from his death realm. This is the domain skill of the God of Death Ah Puch or any other death gods as their domain is their respective death realm.

[You have managed to create demigod tier undead.]

[The God of Death Ah Puch enhanced your demigod tier undead.]

[All demigod tier undead that was raised are evolving to a Lesser God Variant of Undead.]

[You have achieved something difficult. You can now summon undead with 10% less mana as a permanent reward.]

Creepysoo almost shouted with extreme ecstasy, but he remembered that he is sitting on the shoulder of the God of Death Ah Puch. He knew that this god of death will not let him have free reign over these undead. He was only there to kickstart the spell as he also knew that raising demigod undead required large amounts of mana.

Creepysoo was able to recover all his mana by drinking a mana potion, but he was all out just from reviving all the demigod undead. This was also possible because of the death energy supplied by the God of Death Ah Puch as well and the Necronomicon. He is now even more astounded about learning that the Necronomicon could actually negate the world restriction. This information came from the God of Death Ah Puch himself which is why it is credible.

"He might be incredibly sadistic, but the God of Death Ah Puch is not someone that will tell lies." Creepysoo stated as he hid the Necronomicon as he learned that it was more valuable than he initially thought.

The players and the allied army were incredibly appalled by the appearance of undead. Some with the holy attributes like priests even made sure to stay away from them. Even if the undead came from an ally does not mean that their aversion will vanish. They are only tolerating these undead because they are commanded by an ally and not an enemy.

[You have created Lesser God Undead 'Wight Knight Commander' with the help of the God of Death Ah Puch.]

[You have created Lesser God Undead 'Wight Arch Magus' with the help of the God of Death Ah Puch.]

[You have created Lesser God Undead 'Wight Cavalry Commander' with the help of the God of Death Ah Puch.]

[You have created Lesser God Undead 'Wight Fright Ranger' with the help of the God of Death Ah Puch.]

[You have created Lesser God Undead 'Wight Heavy Armor Commander' with the help of the God of Death Ah Puch.]

[You have created Lesser God Undead 'Wight Hex Maniac' with the help of the God of Death Ah Puch.]

[You have created Lesser God Undead 'Wight Heretic' with the help of the God of Death Ah Puch.]

Seven types of Lesser Demigod Undead have been created with two of each type being spawned. All of them had the power of a lesser god which should have been impossible because undead cannot have the power of gods. Yet, there were now undead that had the power of lesser gods due to the influence of the Necronomicon.

"It seems that they have taken more from you. They are all Wights." The God of Death Ah Puch stated as the lesser god undead looked like Creepysoo which is an incredibly rare type of undead as there are only two currently known.

"We follow the command of the Prince of the Undead and the Almighty Death God!" The lesser god undead proclaimed which made the people shudder as their mere speech is done through miasma. Seven different types of lesser god undead knelt before Creepysoo and the God of Death Ah Puch.

"I expected to have at least twenty of them, but this number is acceptable. The other dead demigods did revive with the power of a demigod so I cannot grumble. Having such restricted power is not amusing but the challenge does rile my blood." The God of Death Ah Puch stated as he smiled.

"Do you even have blood?" Creepysoo thought but he is amazed by the cool looking undead in front of him.

The Wight Knight Commander is a three-meter tall undead with heavy armor that carries a great sword. His armor is made of miasma that is black in color and his skin glowed in a pale white light. If the armor did not cover its body, then one could see that all of its body is pale white just like Creepysoo.

The Wight Arch Magus is a two-meter tall undead because it is hunched and covered with a hood. A pale white mist is coming out of its hood which makes it impossible to see its face. It wears such expensive looking colorful robes and a staff with a creepy eyeball moving about.

The Wight Cavalry Commander is also three meters tall like the Wight Knight Commander. Instead, the armor of the Wight Cavalry Commander is dark red as if it is made of blood. It is riding on an undead horse that is made of pure miasma and has sharp fangs.

The Wight Fright Ranger is about two and a half meters tall and is wearing a light gray robe armor made of shadows. Its hood is also emitting this pale white light just like the Wight Arch Magus. It uses a bow that is made of bones and arrows made of pure miasma.

The Wight Heavy Armor Commander is the tallest among the lesser god undead standing at three and a half meters tall. It has a bloody silver armor that is also made of miasma. Its choice of weapon is none other than a spiked morningstar that is as tall as it.

The Wight Hex Maniac looks like a witch doctor version of Creepysoo with elements of the God of Death Ah Puch. It wears a bone mask and uses dolls to hex its opponents. The Wight Heretic is like an undead version of a priest as it is wearing black and purple robes while in a praying position.

Chapter 1874 Neo Angel Gabriel

The Neo Angel Gabriel is very different from his previous form because he activated the Goddess Fragment. He could create conjures of light to shield any attacks while his actual body is tougher than the light shields that he could create. The only thing that he could be described as weak at is the fact that he does not have powerful attacks.

The Angel of Patience Gabriel back when he was not recreated by the Goddess of Light Luminaria had the ability to use a sword to deal damage. The Angel of Patience Gabriel now no longer has the ability to wield any other weapon than his towering shields. Still, his strength that amplifies when he is in battle is still real.

The Angel of Patience Gabriel has already maxed out his boosted stats to the point that epic tier spells only do about one percent of his total health. One would need attacks that penetrates his great defense or super effective attacks that deal bonus damage to even delete a chunk of his health. To prove that he is also an absolute tank, the Angel of Patience Gabriel could also create a shield that could convert the damage it received into health.

If the Angel of Patience Gabriel did not have the ability to create shields that could heal him then he might be struggling under the barrage of the demigods. He would time this healing shield when a super effective attack is about to hit him so that he heals extra. The healing shield seems to be based off on the ability and constitution of the Angel of Patience Gabriel.

The Angel of Patience Gabriel believed that he will be able to buy time for the goddess to truly arise and be the ruler of the world. He was recreated as the ultimate shield that will repel all the enemies of the goddess after all. He believed this true until the two gods of death were summoned by the annoying individual chosen by the Twin Gods.

Still, the Angel of Patience Gabriel did not fret because the Gods of Death that were summoned were weaker than them. They summoned gods of death might have the strength of greater gods like him, but they were one step weaker. The two gods of death have the same power as a being that has just stepped into greater godhood.

The Angel of Patience Gabriel believed this faithfully until an eerie book that reeked of death energy more than the two gods of death appeared in his peripheral vision. The holder of this book was the undead that was being the most annoying opponent for the Angel of Patience Gabriel. The Prince of the Undead used hexes and curses that even worked on a powerful angel like himself. He also commanded undead that were incredibly strong as if they were when they are alive.

It was common for undead to be weaker compared to when they were alive which is why Creepysoo's Undead Knights defy his belief. They were powerful undead that would have become disasters if they were not under someone else's control. These powerful undead could easily kill the Luxera that the Goddess of Light Luminaria spawns to protect herself.

If the Luxera did not spawn, the Goddess of Light Luminaria would have been faster to integrate with the world but that also means she would be an easier target. The three neo angels might be powerful to protect her but even they would be outrun by the sheer number of enemies that is the allied army. The Luxera are great monsters that give the Neo Angels some breathing room to make sure that they are the ones winning the fight. It has become much harder to manage the fight when their main healer has died under the hands of the enemy.

The three Neo Angels believed that they are unbeatable to the point that they forgot that there was a demon amongst the enemy. Even their goddess is wary of demons as they are incredible variables that can sway any instance in their favor. They are beings that could bend time and space for their own benefit after all.

The Angel of Patience Gabriel was defending the Goddess of Light Luminaria as best he could until he felt a sudden shift in the area. A powerful area of death was summoned into the mortal realm. He knew that this was the doing of one of the gods of death that was summoned. He was still on guard, but the Angel of Patience Gabriel believed that undead would never be able to stop him even if they are on the level of demigods.

The Angel of Patience Gabriel felt fourteen powerful undead presences that had the power of lesser gods. All of these undead rose from the bodies of the demigods that have been infested by the souls called upon the god of death. Powerful undead that have never before seen in the world manifested as the union of magics between the holder of the book of dead and a god of death became true.

The Wight Knight Commanders looked at the demigod undead that were Doom Knights and called them to their ranks. The Wight Cavalry Commanders did the same for the undead that became Doom Cavalry Knights as well. All these undead formed ranks as if they were the most organized army that the world has ever seen.

The Wight Arch Magus came together with other Elder Liches as well and started casting spells that buffed their allies and created barriers to shield them. They also started to create a spell that released a powerful miasma haze that weakened any being of light in the area. Some even started to chant spells so fast that their jawbone dislodged.

The Wight Fright Rangers vanished into the shadows as well as Doom Scouts that they commanded. They only became invisible and did not vanish because their presence became apparent when arrows of miasma would suddenly kill a Luxera. They hunted down the Luxera that are in the battle as their main purpose is to clean up the battlefield of their light targets.

The Wight Heavy Armor Commander took in the undead level demigods that had the appearance of heavy fighters or those with large bodies. They charged towards the Angel of Patience Gabriel, but they were slow due to their heavy bodies. Each footstep they took shook the ground beneath them as they are heavier than they appear.

The Wight Hex Maniacs commanded the Doom Shamans and started performing a ritual. The ritual that they did spread powerful hexes and curses upon the enemies of their masters. They also released buffs that would increase the attacks of their allies by 200% in exchange for 3% of their total health. They were spreading incredible buffs and debuffs to the power of dancing or rituals as they call it.

The ones that are less in number are the undead under the Wight Heretics. They might be less, but their impact is not something to ignore because they can heal undead using death energy. They could even heal the beings that are unable to be healed using holy healing magic. They can also release powerful death energy blasts that can destroy Luxera in one shot, but that skill takes time to cast.

"Wight Knight Commanders! Move and destroy the enemy!" Creepysoo commanded as he released a spell that empowered the stats of undead by 10%.

"Cavalry! Tear the enemy to shreds!" The God of Death Ah Puch stated.

The two undead platoons shouted with much more vigor than when they were alive and heeded the commands of their masters. One might think that undead that uses steeds and warriors would not be able to reach the Angel of Patience Gabriel, but they are incorrect. With a loud neigh, all the mounts of the cavalry kicked the ground and started to run across the air itself.

The undead cavalry started to run across the sky as they killed the flying Luxera created to protect the goddess. The undead warrior platoon was a bit different as the undead magic unit embedded spells of Flight and Lightweight onto them. The warriors that did not have a way to fly in the air have gained it with just the powerful spells led by the Wight Arch Magus.

As soon as the undead cavalry ran across the sky, a barrage of arrows made of miasma suddenly filled the skies. All of these miasma arrows were aimed at the light sphere where the Goddess of Light is inside. The Angel of Patience Gabriel felt it deep inside that these arrow barrage must not reach the goddess.

"I am Patience itself! The Shield of the Goddess of Light! Tutela Lucis!" The Angel of Patience Gabriel shouted as his entire body emitted a powerful light.

The Angel of Patience Gabriel suddenly transformed his entire armor into light, and it became the very shield that protected the goddess of light. The angel inside that heavy armor is now seen and his overall appearance was heavenly if one were to describe it.

Chapter 1875 Angel Beneath the Armor

The Angel of Patience Gabriel could be seen in only a clothing made of light as his entire body is no longer covered with armor. The armor that he was wearing turned into light constructs that defended the light sphere containing the Goddess of Light Luminaria. He was no longer fully armored, but he still has the aura of a being that has great defenses.

The initial light shields that the Angel of Patience Gabriel created to protect the Goddess of Light Luminaria all melted under the barrage of the miasma arrows. Just as the Angel of Patience Gabriel predicted, the arrows of miasma were able to easily destroy the light shields made from mana. All the miasma arrows would have passed through even the defensive shield that is connected to the light sphere of the Goddess of Light Luminaria.

The Angel of Patience Gabriel had no choice but to do use his ultimate defensive spell that detaches his armor from his body to create powerful barriers to repel any attack. This is a powerful spell that creates a light barrier that has the same level of defense as his armor. The only downside to this is that his stacking buff would diminish every second that the armor is no longer on his body.

The defense of the armor is reliant to only when the Angel of Patience Gabriel is being attacked with it on. Now that the armor is no longer on his body, the light barrier that the armor created started to slowly lose some durability but that was enough to defend against the barrage of miasma arrows. Just as the Angel of Patience Gabriel is about to call his armor back into his body, a powerful bolt of miasma suddenly hit him from behind.

An undead archer that is cloaked in shadows with his hood only giving off pure darkness fired an arrow full of death energy onto the Angel of Patience Gabriel. The Angel of Patience Gabriel did not mind this undead because this one did not have the strength of a lesser god or even a demigod. What the Angel of Patience Gabriel did not know is that this undead was one of Creepysoo's undead knights.

Robin Hoodie was already summoned into the battle and was just waiting for the perfect shot at the Angel of Patience Gabriel. Creepysoo commanded him to always be stealthy and strike when the opponent least expects it. Robin Hoodie did not even attack even when Creepysoo commanded all the other undead knights to rally with him to deal with the Angel of Patience Gabriel.

Robin Hoodie has a special passive skill amongst all of Creepysoo's undead knights. He has the Eternal Sniper passive which is something any sniping character would kill to have. It is a passive that can make the skill holder be able to draw a bow for even a day without getting strained and also increases the damage based on the time the skill holder drew the bow. With Robin Hoodie's other skill called Perfect Camouflage that lets him blend in on any area, the undead archer is the perfect sniper.

Robin Hoodie waited for a chance as the bow was drawn ever since he found a great place to hide. The perfect moment came right in when the Angel of Patience Gabriel used his armor to defend the Goddess of Light Luminaria. Robin Hoodie might not have been able to pierce through the armor of the Angel of Patience Gabriel as his defenses were so solid that even demigods cannot easily scratch it.

The moment when all the armor was gone from the body of the Angel of Patience Gabriel, Robin Hoodie let go of the arrow filled with death energy. Without even so much as killing intent, a powerful arrow made of pure death energy flew through the skies. The Angel of Patience Gabriel had noticed Robin Hoodie as he had the senses of a greater god, but he was immediately ignored as he was not that powerful.

What the arrogant Angel of Patience Gabriel did not know is that pride was the downfall of one of the most powerful angels created as well. A loud scream of pain echoed in the area as the light shields that the Angel of Patience Gabriel created started to fade in and out. It seems that the stability of his light shields is also affected by his concentration.

The Angel of Patience Gabriel looked at the arrow wound that was created from being hit. The arrow made of pure death energy went straight through his back and punctured all the way to his left stomach. The potent death energy used on the arrow did not disperse as it started to slowly spread onto the body of the Angel of Patience Gabriel.

The Angel of Patience Gabriel immediately recalled his armor in order to heal himself as he cannot cast any healing shields if his armor is not on him. Creepysoo or any other players did not know this and did not aim for this to happen, but they welcomed it. The moment the Angel of Patience Gabriel tried recalling his armor is when another barrage of miasma arrows is fired by the archers led by the Wight Fright Ranger.

Another round of miasma arrows came crashing down towards the light sphere. The Angel of Patience Gabriel was not able to recall all his armor as his helmet and protective arm armor is still missing. The Angel of Patience Gabriel immediately used the skill that uses his armor once more to protect the Goddess of Light Luminaria. This was not the logical choice from the part of the Angel of Patience Gabriel as the other undead that are running to the skies are now near him.

The undead cavalry led by the Wight Cavalry Commander is coming in with their spears blazing with miasma. The undead warriors led by the Wight Knight Commander as also doing the same thing, but they are using swords instead. The Angel of Patience Gabriel is now presented with a choice of protecting himself or protecting the Goddess of Light Luminaria.

"I can endure the onslaught of attacks for at least one hour." The Angel of Patience Gabriel stated as he believed that his own body will be durable enough to hold out.

It was not actually the Angel of Patience Gabriel that is thinking this but rather the implanted thought of the Goddess of Light Luminaria. The goddess fragment basically makes sure that the Goddess of Light Luminaria will be the only priority above all else. Also, the Angel of Patience Gabriel is not without any way of fighting back when his armor is not on him.

The Angel of Patience Gabriel could still conjure up light to use as protective barriers but that would also mess up his concentration. The light shields that Angel of Patience Gabriel created were either a step too late or took too long to form as he was at the mercy of the undead cavalries and undead knights. The absurd scene of flying undead attacking a holy looking being could be seen in the horizon.

The Angel of Patience Gabriel thought that it can hold out, but he actually forgot about something crucial. The arrow made of death energy is still piercing his left abdomen. The Angel of Patience Gabriel actually forgot about it because only the initial pierce was painful. He also could not touch the death energy arrow as he would only hurt his hands if he did not wear any armor.

"He is not even trying to cleanse the death energy arrow." Creepysoo stated.

"It is not that he could not cleanse it, but he could not do it, boy. This plan only worked because the Champion Equinox was luckily able to kill the angel that could heal. If that angel was still here, then the chances of us winning even with lesser god undead is close to nothing." The God of Death Ah Puch stated as he was actually paying attention to the fight or rather all gods that can see through the veil are watching what is unfolding.

"Better for us then. Death sometimes creeps up on you when you least expect it. Shall we start it then." Creepysoo stated.

"Such cruel lines, I have trained you well." The God of Death Ah Puch stated.

"Please do not say that as I am already having nightmares about you." Creepysoo stated as both him and the God of Death Ah Puch started to chant.

The Angel of Patience Gabriel saw that the ones that created his suffering are muttering something which offended him greatly. The Angel of Patience Gabriel commanded the Luxera using the goddess fragment to swarm the two beings. If the other undead knights were not defending Creepysoo and the God of Death Ah Puch, then they would have been hounded by attacks from Luxera.

"Destiny has been sealed." Creepysoo stated.

"Death shall fall." The God Ah Puch added.

"Malevolent Death!" Creepysoo and the God Ah Puch stated as their voice suddenly echoed in several octaves.

Chapter 1876 A God that Loves Explosions

The death energy arrow that is still piercing the Angel of Patience Gabriel suddenly reacted to the unknown energy that suddenly fell on his body. The death energy arrow that did not spread out suddenly started to run amok. The Angel of Patience Gabriel could no longer take the pain and was no longer able to keep himself afloat.

[You have used Malevolent Death with the God of Death Ah Puch.]

[All Death energy in the area will become twice as powerful for the duration of ten seconds.]

[You have activated the latent death energy that was dormant. Adding double the effect of Malevolent Death.]

Creepysoo and the God of Death Ah Puch looked at the falling Angel of Patience Gabriel with smiles. The lesser god undead also diverted their attacks to him now that the angel was distracted. The Angel of Patience Gabriel did not take the sudden changes well, but he was still able to maintain some composure.

The Angel of Patience Gabriel did not lose control over his armor as he was still protecting the light sphere of the goddess. The logical thing for the Angel of Patience Gabriel was to recede his armor and make sure that he lives but he can no longer control what he prioritizes. He has fully activated the goddess fragment unlike the Angel of Kindness Raphael. If he still had some control over his thinking, then he might have let the light sphere be somewhat damaged to save himself.

The Angel of Patience Gabriel fell to the ground with a crash because a powerful lightning spell was conjured up by the Wight Arch Magus. This was followed up by the attacks of the undead cavalry and undead knights. Some of the demigods that saw what is happening started to move towards the Angel of Patience Gabriel.

The demigods looked at the Angel of Patience Gabriel greedily because he was starting to die. The Angel of Patience Gabriel has divine essence in his body which can be used by them. The Angel of Patience Gabriel is no longer the angel that was mighty and incredibly sturdy as he was now a prey to those who wish for divinity.

"Hohoho! As expected of mortals that attained divine souls. Such greedy beings!" The God of Death Ah Puch stated as a chill suddenly ran across Creepysoo's spine even though the latter is already undead.

"Get out!" Creepysoo shouted but it was too late.

"Ah! Now that is the perfect place and timing! God Corpse Explosion!" The God of Death Ah Puch stated as his voice carried an incredibly heavy atmosphere of death.

All the demigod undead and even the lesser god undead suddenly started to glow. The Angel of Patience Gabriel instincts were trying to tell him to escape with everything he has got but the goddess fragment prevented him. Another barrage of miasma arrows was now heading towards the light sphere containing the goddess which is why even the Angel of Patience Gabriel's instincts were overwritten.

The Angel of Patience Gabriel tried looking for a way to turn into a streak of light and escape even if it meant burning some of his soul. Just as the Angel of Patience Gabriel is about to attempt his last-ditch escape, the cold hands of the lesser god undead suddenly clung onto him. The Angel of Patience Gabriel thought that this did not matter as he can just turn into light, but such cold hands filled with death energy prevented him from doing so.

The lesser god undead were utilizing the death energy that the death energy arrow was giving off to make sure that the Angel of Patience Gabriel has no escape. The process of the Angel of Patience Gabriel's turning into light is basically his body turning into pure divine light. What would happen if that body was tainted by a foreign energy that he could not cleanse?

"Impossible!" The Angel of Patience Gabriel shouted for the first time ever since his recreation.

A loud sinister laugh could be heard as all the lesser god undead and the demigod undead exploded. The entire area where the Angel of Patience Gabriel is located has been clouded in a powerful miasma. The area became so dark that it looked like the color black was painted directly on it.

"Such beautiful explosion!" The God of Death Ah Puch stated as he raised his arms, and his entire body was shrouded in the cloud of death energy and undead miasma.

A while before explosion...

The Angel of Humility Mikhail felt that the being in front of him is not normal even if he had the strength of a greater god. All the battle instincts that are embedded in his body was screaming to regroup with the Angel of Patience Gabriel. If he did such a thing then this being would surely attack the light sphere containing the goddess.

A sudden clash of light and darkness suddenly sparked in the area which blew away any players, knights and even demigods. The ones that were knocked back did not even know what happened as it was too fast even for an explosion. The Angel of Humility Mikhail, however, knew what happened as the being in front of him sent a powerful undetected darkness energy wave towards the light sphere containing the goddess.

"Dangerous. The most dangerous entity here." The Angel of Humility Mikhail muttered as even he is actually thankful that he felt the attack.

The God of Death Hades just casually swung his sword as if he was exercising but he actually sent a powerful wave of invisible darkness towards the Goddess of Light Luminaria. The Angel of Humility Mikhail used his ability to easily bend light to his will to counter the attack as fast as he can. The Angel of Humility Mikhail made it by a hair's breadth but one could see that he took some shock.

"As expected of one of the angels created by the Goddess of Light Luminaria to be perfect. The best angel tempered from the deceased God of War and Light Lugh." The God of Death Hades stated as no one can easily notice his attacks when he swings his sword.

Granted that the Angel of Humility Mikhail could only do so because the strength of the God of Death Hades' strength being downgraded to that of a greater god. Also, the strength of the God of Death Hades is further restricted due to him being a god of death which means that the Angel of Humility Mikhail is actually stronger than him in terms of divine energy. Logically speaking, the Angel of Humility Mikhail should be the one stomping the God of Death Hades.

"A helmet born from the darkness of underworld and a sword made from the darkest metal formed in the depths of the earth. Impossible! You should be eternally banned from the mortal realm." The Angel of Humility Mikhail stated as he is now sure of the identity of the god before him.

"Banned from the mortal realm? Who said that I was banned? I just do not like to come up because my silly brothers would think that I am trying to encroach on their domains. If this area was not hazy from the prying eyes of gods, then I might not have even answered the call. Fortunately, my godmother has used her darkness to make sure I can move as much as I please." The God of Death Hades stated.

"A god born from the daughter of the Goddess of Life Gaea. Sibling gods that were born and eaten by their very own father but was spat out due to the trickery employed by their Grandmother Goddess herself. The God of Death Hades, the Appointed Ruler of the Dead and the owner of all the things beneath the soil." The Angel of Humility Mikhail stated as he cannot be wrong since the god before him has the helmet given by the primordial darkness and a blade that could reap the souls of even the living.

"My grandmother did not use any trickery. She merely suggested a great approach in making sure that we do not spend eternity in the stomach of our father. Such disrespect against our grandmother should be dealt with the most painful way." The God of Death Hades stated as he suddenly became extremely fired up due to the Angel of Humility Mikhail reminding him of his history.

One of the things to trigger the God of Death Hades is disrespecting their goddess grandmother, the Goddess of Life Gaea, and reminding him of the old days as he was helpless even if he was the eldest among them. The fact that the Angel of Humility Mikhail mentioned both of his pet peeves made the angel a target for annihilation. The God of Death Hades could be seen suddenly having a powerful death aura around him while the ground beneath him suddenly started to pull precious gems. The God of Death Hades is actually a god that has suffered very traumatic experiences the moment he was born.

Chapter 1877 A Death God that is Traumatized

If one were to ask the other gods of death on who is the most upright amongst them then would undoubtedly answer that it would be the God of Death Hades. If they were also asked if who carries the deadliest of grudges, then that would also be the God of Death Hades. All the other gods of death would never disrespect the God of Death Hades even if they were threatened.

Even the God of Death Ah Puch that has the same power level and same large death realm that is the same size as that of the God of Death Hades is very polite when it comes to the latter. Even Creepysoo knows of this information which is why he liked to work in the Death Realm Hades since other gods of death back off when they learn that information. There was even a rumor that the God of Death Hades locked another High God in Tartarus when he was disrespected.

Even for the other Gods of Death, Tartarus is a death realm that they do not want to visit. Only special gods of death can enter Tartarus like the God of Death Hades. Still, the God of Death Hades is the most respected god of death because of his upright and just character which is why departed souls would always line up to his death realm even if they take a hundred years before they reincarnate.

The God of Death Hades is one of the most traumatized gods of death due to his family. His father, Kronos, ate him immediately upon his birth which made him resent him to the core. It was only when the God of Death Abaddon reached out to him and trained him to become a god of death did, he learn of what a real father figure could be. It is also the reason why he is the one that has the best relationship with the children of the God of Death Abaddon.

"The Shadow of Death!" The God of Death Hades stated.

A huge mass of shadows suddenly escaped from the body of the God of Death Hades. This huge mass of shadows became tendrils sharper than what Sirius could even create. The Angel of Humility Mikhail immediately felt danger in all directions as if any action he can take will end in him being disfigured.

The Angel of Humility Mikhail released a powerful blast of holy light energy that clashed with the death shadow energy that the God of Death Hades released. The shadows did not stop being released by helm that the God of Death Hades is wearing. In the end, the Angel of Humility Mikhail could not contend with the divine artifact that the God of Death Hades has and succumbed to the power of the shadows of death.

"The Helm of Darkness!" The Angel of Humility Mikhail muttered as he was blasted away due to the clashing of two different elements.

"To think that he could survive that." The God of Death Hades stated.

The Angel of Humility Mikhail got blasted away and also used his wings to gain even more distance. The God of Death Hades could only praise the Angel of Humility Mikhail as any other god at the same level as him would have been devoured by the shadows. Still, the God of Death Hades expected this because he is severely restricted in the mortal realm.

"You are worthy of being called a god amongst gods. I will no longer hold back even if it burns my soul. Activate the Throne of Transcendence: Seraphim of Humility!" The Angel of Humility Mikhail shouted as a powerful light suddenly started to cover him.

The Angel of Humility Mikhail is suddenly covered with another layer of armor made of light. All six of his wings suddenly transformed into feathered swords of light while his armor became golden. Six golden gauntlets also manifested and held onto the six feathered swords of light that was his wings. The two swords that he has became pure light as well that was sharper than before.

"Behold! The perfect form given to me by the goddess that even the other angels could not achieve.

The Angel of Humility Mikhail transformed into a golden looking god with eight weapons made from his own body. He became so powerful that his energy levels are already pushing to that of an entry level High God. It was only the world restriction that is limiting him or else he might have truly gotten the power of a High God.

"You truly live up to your name, Angel of Humility Mikhail. Your goddess dubbed you as the perfect being that she has ever created. Still, how can a being be perfect when the goddess that has created it was not perfect to begin with." The God of Death Hades stated which greatly angered the Angel of Humility Mikhail.

"All your words are defaming the goddess. I shall personally erase you from this world and they would know that I am the one that has defeated the God of Death Hades!" The Angel of Humility Mikhail stated.

"I shall also face you with all the strength I can muster. Lord of The Underworld: Shadow Monarch!" The God of Death Hades stated.

A powerful darkness suddenly swept across the area as all the shadow energy suddenly got absorbed into the God of Death Hades. All the shadows were absorbed to the point that all beings in the area had their shadows no longer appear. The robe that the God of Death Hades wore suddenly covered his entire body as he changed his form.

The God of Death Hades became a being made entirely of shadows that one might mistake him as the God of Death Abaddon if they did not focus. The Stygian Iron sword that he wielded gleamed in a deadly light as his entire body absorbed the light that is radiated around him. Two gigantic beings are suddenly present in the battlefield and they have opposite attributes.

Chapter 1878 Light and Shadow

The two God beings gauged each other's strengths, but it was the God of Death Hades that loses in terms of energy levels. Still, the Angel of Humility Mikhail was wary of the god before him. Unlike the Angel of Humility Mikhail, the God of Death Hades has experience in killing godlike beings. He was present when the war of the gods erupted.

The Angel of Humility Mikhail did fight some gods but that was with trickery or with the aid of other gods of light. He has truly never fought against a god by himself which the God of Death Hades has done about a thousand times. Given the God of Death Hades' family history, he was able to deal with gods that have even more power than him.

One would think that the battle of gods would be more on powerful spells that covered the area but that is not the case. Gods would clash against one another by covering themselves in their own divine energy and engaging in a head on collision. Spells that are flashy or covering a large area are much easier to defend as a spread-out attack divides power equally.

The eight swords of the Angel of Humility Mikhail clashed with the Stygian Iron sword that the God of Death Hades held. Each of their clash produced powerful waves of light and darkness that created sparks of energy that would make anyone in the area defend themselves. Just the excess energy from their clash could instantly delete a Luxera that is swept by it.

The clash between them revealed how far apart a normal player is with a greater god. It also revealed the disparity of the two gods clashing with one another. The Angel of Humility Mikhail clashed with the God of Death Hades using all of his eight swords. Meanwhile, the God of Death Hades would only use one sword attack to deal with it.

The Angel of Humility Mikhail knew that he was the one that is losing this exchange despite having more power and energy. He knows that he will inevitably die if he does not find a way to defeat the God of Death Hades. All that is implanted on the Angel of Humility Mikhail's mind is the defeat of the god in front of him and it suddenly dawned on him.

The God of Death Hades did not descend normally like other gods do. He was summoned into the mortal realm which meant that he has a time limit. This time limit is also the reason why the God of Death Hades is aggressively attacking him.

"I will win as long as I do not die. I have Gabriel on my side which means that everything will be fine." The Angel of Humility Mikhail thought but a sudden explosion of death energy shattered that belief.

[The Angel of Patience Gabriel has died.]

[One of the life light barriers protecting the Goddess of Light Luminaria has been broken.]

[Only one life light barrier remains.]

The cloud of death energy clouded the vision of the Angel of Humility Mikhail which ended his clash with the God of Death Hades. The Angel of Humility Mikhail felt his connection with the Angel of Patience Gabriel break just like what happened when the Angel of Kindness Gabriel died. He was now the only angel that remained to defend the Goddess of Light Luminaria.

When the cloud of death energy cleared, the light sphere could be seen filled with countless miasma arrows. The other allied army members also attacked the light sphere instead of the Angel of Humility Mikhail. The allied army knew to not join in against the fight of two greater god individuals and focused on the task at hand.

The Angel of Humility Mikhail felt a sudden powerful force enter his mind. He knew that this was none other than the Goddess of Light Luminaria herself. Only she could enter his mind without any obstruction. The humanoid form of the goddess appeared in his mind with an incredibly disappointed look.

"In the end, even you are useless." The Goddess of Light Luminaria stated.

"No! You are the reason why we are losing like this! Your hasty actions that led to the genocide of the angels is the real reason why you are having a difficult time." The Angel of Humility Mikhail replied as he knows that it is the Goddess of Light Luminaria at fault.

The Angel of Humility Mikhail can only say this because they are inside his inner world or inside the depths of his soul. The Angel of Humility Mikhail could not even utter a word against the Goddess of Light Luminaria in the real world. The Goddess of Light Luminaria still has perfect control over the Angel of Humility Mikhail's body and emotions.

"Silence, fool. I only recreated you and the others because you have promised to never betray me and would be of use. Now that our deal is off, it is now time for our agreement to be null as well." The Goddess of Light Luminaria stated.

"No! Not my sister!" The Angel of Humility Mikhail stated as he made a deal with the Goddess of Light Luminaria in exchange for his free will and the free will of the other neo angels.

The Angel of Humility Mikhail exchanged his free will for the freedom of the angels related to Mikaela who is the sister of Mikhail. Mikaela did not partake in the war because she was able to dispel the commands of the Goddess of Light Luminaria. She and the ones under her were only able to do this because they still possessed the human bodies that they overtook.

"I did as you told and let your sister roam freely, but you disappoint me. I made you perfect but all you are is a disappointment." The Goddess of Light Luminaria stated.

"Perfect?! How can one create a perfect being when the one that created them is not even perfect!" The Angel of Humility Mikhail cried.

Chapter 1879 Taking in the Light

"I no longer have any use for you. I will make sure that I kill your sister with my own hands. Such angels that do not know their place should be killed in the most painful way. I know because I created all of you." The Goddess of Light Luminaria stated as she dug into the Angel of Humility Mikhail's skull to take the goddess fragment from him.

The outside world did not know what was happening to the body of the Angel of Humility Mikhail. He was suddenly spasming uncontrollably until his head suddenly burst. A light crystal suddenly came out of his head and flew straight towards the light sphere containing the Goddess of Light Luminaria.

[The Angel of Humility Mikhail has died.]

[The last light life barrier has been lifted.]

This was not the only light crystal that suddenly flew towards the light sphere as another came from the direction of the Angel of Patience Gabriel. The goddess fragment that was inside of the Angel of Kindness Raphael could not be used because Adrian has basically transformed it into something else. Also, any influence that the Goddess of Light Luminaria has was already erased due to the powerful chaos energy that Adrian used against the Angel of Kindness Raphael.

"Such pitiful creations that could not even do the simplest things. In the end, it is only I that is needed to make myself rise to the occasion." The Goddess of Light Luminaria stated as the defenses on her light sphere was also lifted since there were no longer any living Neo Angels.

The Goddess of Light Luminaria planned to use the goddess fragments to jumpstart her integration with the world in order to get released earlier. She believed that she would be able to create a powerful barrier by using the goddess fragments. Such belief is natural as the Goddess of Light Luminaria is a High God in the very end. There are not many beings in the mortal realm that could harm her in any way even if she was no longer defended.

"I guess it is time for the main event, but I do not like that to be something that is handed by that goddess." The God of Death Ah Puch stated as he knew that the energy is rising for the Goddess of Light Luminaria.

"My attack will not be able to easily pierce that light sphere. It needs to be weakened, Ah Puch." The God of Death Hades stated.

"If you are able to do that with our current strength then there would have been many revolting greater gods. Becoming a High God is not something easily achieved by gods. Then again, you are from the family of the primordial gods." The God of Death Ah Puch stated.

"Less whining and more doing." The God of Death Hades stated which made the God of Death Ah Puch groan.

"I still have five minutes left in the mortal realm, but this goddess is ruining my fun. I would even have to use everything I got in order to cast the hex. I would need assistance, boy." The God of Death Ah Puch stated as he suddenly slammed his staff onto the ground to create an eerie magic circle with skulls.

"I need your help in maintaining the magic circle. I would need to reach deep into my own death realm to degrade the defenses of that goddess." The God of Death Ah Puch stated.

"I will do as you say!" Creepysoo stated as the sudden roars of ten or so dragons happened.

As soon as the barrier protecting the Goddess of Light Luminaria has been destroyed, the dragons started to use their dragon breaths at the light sphere. Even the dragon kings that are incredibly tired are also using their every strength to destroy the light sphere of the Goddess of Light Luminaria. This was effective because the Goddess of Light Luminaria actually created magic circles for Light Rays to defend herself.

"The dragons are buying time, but the Goddess of Light Luminaria is not to be messed with. She planned this perfectly to the point that even the other wary gods did not notice what she planned. This is due to her having full control over the other gods of light." The God of Death Hades stated as he was also preparing for an attack.

The sword that the God of Death Hades carried started to absorb all the shadows that his helmet produces. The power of the shadows made the blade even darker than before as if there was an abyss inside of the blade. The God of Death Ah Puch started dancing as his ritual started creating a light that is forming something.

The God of Death Ah Puch said that he is calling something from the depths of his realm. The ritual only lasted for one minute, but it was enough to call for what he wanted. A small doll that looked like it was made from a rice sack and was stitched with old ran appeared on his hand. The God of Death Ah Puch then pointed the doll towards the light sphere and started to crush it with his hands.

"Malefic Curse!" The God of Death Ah Puch stated as all of his death energy was used into using that spell.

A heavy death aura suddenly fell upon the light sphere containing the Goddess of Light Luminaria. The light sphere that was shining like a sun suddenly started to dim as if all of its energy was sucked out. The God of Death Ah Puch is also sucked out of energy as well because he used all of it, but he was able to curse the Goddess of Light Luminaria.

[Malefic Curse has been used on the Goddess of Light Luminaria.]

[All defenses will be decreased by 50% for 10 minutes.]

[All elemental resistances will be decreased by 80% for 10 minutes.]

[All spells used by the being that is affected will have 50% more mana cost and has a 5% chance to induce a Mana Reflux.]

One might think that the curse was not that powerful but one should also remember that the target was a High God. It was even an impossibility that half of all defenses are reduced much less having the spell work. Also, it took all the energy of a greater god to even conjure such a curse. The demigod body that the God of Death Ah Puch inhabited even became ash as soon as he finished casting the spell.

"I would expect no less from him." The God of Death Hades stated as his sword has finished absorbing all of the shadows.

"Shadow Blade of Death!" The God of Death Hades stated as he waved his sword casually, but it created a powerful energy wave that released all the darkness in the area.

This powerful wave of darkness headed straight towards the light sphere and all of the onlookers believed that this attack might be the one to destroy the light sphere. What they did not know is that the light sphere is actually just the Goddess of Light Luminaria herself. Just as the wave of energy is about to hit, the light sphere suddenly unfolded itself to see the new form of the Goddess of Light Luminaria.

"Pretentious!" The words of the Goddess of Light Luminaria stated as she created a hundred light shields to defend against the attack.

All of the hundred light shields were destroyed, and the darkness energy wave was about to hit the body of the goddess when she used the floating golden rings behind her. All the floating golden rings behind the Goddess of Light Luminaria spun to create golden orbs to destroy the darkness energy wave. She did not just destroy the attack but also countered by sending those same golden rings towards the God of Death Hades.

The Goddess of Light Luminaria's new form still retained her humanoid form, but her entire armor was now made of gold. She also had ten golden rings behind her that has flames around them that burns as hot as the sun. She did not look much different and just had armor made of gold, but it is actually a part of her true form materializing as armor.

"I may have only managed to bring about 70% of the world integration but this is enough. Forcing it anymore than this would make my body unable to last as long. I can destroy all of my enemies with the power that I have. All the most difficult threat has already been killed." The Goddess of Light Luminaria thought as she saw the state of the God of Death Hades.

The demigod body that housed the God of Death Hades was slashed and burned into ashes. The summoning was also undone because the last attack that he did has used most of his divine energy reserves. The God of Death Hades tried to get more time or even counterattack, but the Goddess of Light Luminaria was now too powerful for a power only equal to that of a greater god.

Chapter 1880 Goddess Battle Form

[The Goddess of Light Luminaria has entered her battle form: Prima Dona.]

[All light attribute attacks that the Goddess of Light Luminaria will have a 50% increase in damage.]

[The Goddess of Light Luminaria is trying to nullify the effects of Night Fall. She failed as a being older than her has casted Eternal Night.]

[The integration with the world was not completed by the Goddess of Light Luminaria. She will not be able to fully exert her influence on the world as of now.]

Notifications started to flare up as the Goddess of Light Luminaria has suddenly appeared in a different form but more powerful than before. Her health was still the same as it reached 50% already and it did not show any signs of healing even though she was protected earlier. The sudden disappearance of the Angel of Kindness Raphael is the reason why the Goddess of Light Luminaria was not healed.

The Goddess of Light Luminaria managed to kill the summoned God of Death Hades, but she did not look pleased. The churches that came to confront her have finished activating all of their holy relics to call upon the gods whom they serve. Ten churches were able to bring their holy relics as their gods agreed to be called upon should the Goddess of Light Luminaria is able to walk on the mortal realm.

Ten pillars of light suddenly pierced the sky which also pierced the barriers that the Daemos have created. The Goddess of Light Luminaria did not escape even though she could see many exit points because she knew that she had to take a stand. No one would ever bow down to her should she run away even though she was stronger.

The ten churches were able to call upon their greater gods in order to combat the Goddess of Light Luminaria. The Church of War managed to call upon three greater gods as each of them have different main deities. The Church of Magic managed to call upon one of the gods as she wanted to be called to put a stop to the Goddess of Light Luminaria. The Church of Life managed to also call upon one goddess even though the needed energy to call upon gods of life are severely restrictive just as for the gods of death.

The Church of Rain managed to call their best deity as well even though his body will only have the power equivalent to a greater god. The Church of Water managed to call upon three greater gods as they also presented themselves. The last two gods are from the Church of Justice since they wanted to defeat the Goddess of Light Luminaria for not observing balance.

All ten gods were being called upon as their divine bodies are starting to get called down. The Goddess of Light Luminaria did not want to have all of them descend to combat her because she would be defeated due to her current power level. If she had full access to all her powers as a High God, ten greater gods would not be a problem for the Goddess of Light Luminaria.

The Goddess of Light Luminaria believes that she is still one of the peak High Gods in Pandemonium. What she did not know is that she is slowly losing her followers as the minutes go by. The fight is not just being sent to the players via observation magic, but it is actually being broadcasted to the entire central continent. The few believers that she had started to dwindle even more.

Still, the Goddess of Light Luminaria has already become a High God. She will remain a High God even if all her loyal followers vanish as she has yet to be forgotten. The only way to truly erase gods are to either destroy their entire divine essence or them becoming completely forgotten. By forgotten, the god should no longer even be remembered in its entirety as even remembering her name should no longer be an option.

"Let us see if your gods would arrive before I eradicate all of you!" The Goddess of Light Luminaria stated as eight of her golden rings started to spin to create a powerful force and heat equal to that of a sun.

The eight golden rings that the Goddess of Light Luminaria uses as weapons suddenly crashed to the ground and started to roll in the direction of eight holy relics calling upon their gods. The first holy relic that was the easiest to hit was an old axe relic that had intricate details of feathered beings. This was the holy relic of the Church of Rain or more referred to by the Church of Rain.

The Church of Rain members are a bit different compared to traditional clergy because they do not wear attires that normal priests would wear. The Church of Rain clergy do not wear priest robes, but they are wearing tribal clothes. They looked like witch doctor warriors because they have tattoos as well that depict the epic of their gods.

The Church of Rain clergy saw the incoming rolling infernal ball that could melt even ground heading towards them. Instead of escaping and letting the holy relic be hit, all of them stood in front of the relic and started to chant. All the Church of Rain clergy suddenly had their eyes become as clear as blue skies. All of them also chanted in the same words and ritualistic dance that one might think that they are all the same person.

With every chant that the Church of Rain clergy does, the rumble of thunder could be heard until it rained. All of them held their hands up high towards the clouds as all the rain suddenly converged towards their area. The rain that the clergy members were able to gather is created as a raging sphere of water that protected them and the holy relic that their god is ascending to.

A powerful steam explosion happened when the rolling ball of flames hit the raging water sphere. The Goddess of Light Luminaria raised her brows as a group of mortals was actually able to defend against her attack even though she did not put all her strength into it. The steam managed to get blown by the wind and the image of a ball of flames getting smothered by a water sphere could now be clearly seen.

"Pretentious, mortal savages! Die while I am still having mercy for all of you." The Goddess of Light Luminaria stated as she thought that the act of defending against her attack is an act of rebellion against her.

The Goddess of Light Luminaria poured more divine energy into the golden ring attacking the Church of Rain. The golden ring glowed in an even more powerful golden light as the flames started to burst into more intense flames. The orange looking flames started to glow into a lighter color as the water sphere started to boil as well.

The clergy of the Church of Rain could be seen screaming as the intense heat and steam is starting to boil them from the inside. Some even fainted due to the intense heat which only left about five members with the strongest will that are still conscious. The five members held on, but their legs could be seen to shake. Some are even showing signs of fainting, but they held on even if they can no longer open their eyes.

"I admire you, mortal savages. For that, I shall bless you by guiding all of you to the afterlife." The Goddess of Light Luminaria stated as the flames on the golden ring started to burn brighter and hotter than before. The flames are now starting to become white in color.

Before the flames could even reach the clergy of the Church of Rain, a powerful lightning suddenly came down which deflected the flaming sphere. The entire area around the clergy also started to rain. The rain did not only deflect the heat and the flaming sphere but also healed the injuries of the clergy. The ones that fainted from heat started to wake up as well as they became healed.

"The Rain has arrived!" A large humanoid with armor that matched the tribal wear of the Clergy of Rain appeared.

The old looking holy relic that was used to summon the large humanoid matched the height of the summoned greater god. Upon holding the old axe, the rusted handles and blade started to shine as lightning was gathered upon it. The lightning tempered the holy relic until the golden layers and pure blue blade shined.

"Chaac! So, you have arrived!" The Goddess of Light Luminaria stated as if she expected it. She remembers that she once commanded her angelic army to wipe out his created tribe of humans. It seems that some managed to escape and create a clergy.

"Let the rain bless all of you!" The God of Rain Chaac stated as thunder rumbled while lightning rained down upon the Goddess of Light Luminaria.
