

O Summoner 1881

Chapter 1881 The God of Rain

The Goddess of Light Luminaria protected herself from the lightning that suddenly poured down on her. She stared at the God of Rain Chaac like she will not be intimidated by him. She was currently more powerful than the god that her parents served with all their life.

"You must be punished, child. You have done more harm in this world than what a god should do. Do you wish to summon the Great Devourer to this very universe just because you have a grudge against it?" The God of Rain Chaac stated as if he already knew of the Goddess of Light Luminaria in a much deeper level.

The God of Rain Chaac is about as tall as the gigantic Goddess of Light Luminaria. He was incredibly buff like a body builder with armor made of gold protecting his body and bronze colored skin that glistened. He had tattoos but it was not that seen due to the bulky armor that is covering his body. He wore a headpiece made of gold and a blue orb in the middle that has the same color as lightning.

"Punish me when I did nothing wrong!? I was the one exiled just because I was born different!" The Goddess of Light Luminaria stated as if she was wronged but the God of Rain Chaac did not look happy.

"We did not exile you because you were different, child. We exiled you because you sacrificed your parents for power." The God of Rain Chaac stated as he vividly remembered that day.

The head priest of the Temple of Rain was the father of Luminaria when she was still human. Her mother was the priestess that also served him ever since her birth. When Luminaria was born in this world, the entire world was suddenly wrapped in a bright light which might explain her unique birth. Luminaria was born different compared to her parents that had bronze skin because she was extremely pale.

Luminaria was born pale as she was an albino. One might think that she would be bullied by those around her but that was impossible granted that her parents were the most powerful priest and priestess of the Temple of Rain. She was showered with affection just because her parents were powerful which might have gone into her head.

She believed from a very young age that power is everything and that she was the chosen one amongst the many. She was different from her peers as she was like the morning light that was incredibly white. She was also considered beautiful not because of her face but because of her confidence on herself.

She did not experience a normal childhood because she was already in power when she was still at a young age. She would cleverly use the prestige of her parents to make sure that no one would ever think to be above her. She pretended to be a great and genius child in front of her parents like she was the wisest and kindest child there is. She made sure to also threaten the other children to not say anything to the adults as she would be mad.

It did not help curbing Luminaria's narcissism that she was born with great potential for magic. She had great mana and a powerful affinity for light magic as if she was blessed by the light that poured the day she was born. What she did not know is that she was actually just one of many that were born like that.

Her narcissism and belief that she was supreme continued on until her teens but a moment in her life was the thing that made it even worse. A God of Light came before the kingdom that she was in and demanded to hand over the child blessed by light. The God of Light did not tell them his name but even the God of Rain Chaac was respectful to this god.

Seeing the god that her powerful parents served show respect to the God of Light that suddenly barged in shattered the worldview of the young Luminaria. Another thing that shattered her worldview is that she was not special because there were children that had the same body features as her that was following the God of Light. She was not special but just different from the rest of the children in her own kingdom.

The God of Light demanded that Luminaria be handed to him as she would be trained by her and that she would need to leave her life behind. The God of Rain Chaac saw the sorrow that his two most powerful priests showed upon learning that their daughter was being taken. The God of Rain Chaac was able to convince the God of Light that the child must have the permission of her parents.

"We will not hand you our daughter, God of Light. With all due respect, we love her too much to even have her hunt." Luminaria's parents stated.

"Does the child wish for that as well? I shall give you a week in order to come up with a decision. The children that I have gathered are rather tired from all our travel. Also, if you do not wish to have your daughter to be given to me then I shall extract her light powers that she was blessed with." The God of Light stated.

"Will that endanger her?" Luminaria's parents asked.

"No. It will just take all the powers of light that she was given upon her birth on the day the light covered even the night. She would return to what she should have looked like if she were not born on that day." The God of Light stated which made Luminaria's parents sigh with relief.

A feast was given to the God of Light and the children he gathered under his wing. Luminaria presented herself as sociable and kind as she started to ask questions. She was told that the god they were with was the most powerful God of Light. She also learned of all the backgrounds of the children that came with him.

Most of the children that came with him were treated as cursed child because their mothers died during their birth. It was only due to Luminaria's mother being powerful that she did not die upon childbirth. It was the first time in Luminaria's life that she thought that her mother was better off dead because of the fact that she learned. She learned that the God of Light was choosing an apprentice.

Luminaria even learned that the God of Light might be choosing his successor since he was showing signs that he was about to go to sleep. Powerful gods that have been alive since the creation of the world are said to slumber. They would have their subordinate gods protect the believers and make sure that state of the world element that they are handling will not shatter.

Learning that the God of Light wanted a successor, Luminaria set off to her parents and told them she wanted to go. Her parents did not believe that their only child will want to leave them as if she never loved them. Luminaria's parents were told that she would need to abandon everything in her current life to follow the god of light which they did not want because she was the only child that they can have.

Luminaria's mother did not die upon her birth, but she could no longer have any children. Luminaria was too powerful when she born and if the God of Rain Chaac did not heal her priestess then she would have died. Still, the healing rain that the God of Rain Chaac can use was not enough to fully heal everything as the mother's womb was untreatable. She will never bore another child again which is why Luminaria was showered with more love than other children her age.

Seeing that her parents did not want to give her away, Luminaria knew that she must do something. She has already planted in her head that she was the chosen one and that she would be the new Goddess of Light that all will bow down that even the might God of Rain Chaac will respect. She devised a careful plan to kill her parents or make them go insane.

The last day before the God of Light departs with the children is when another banquet was held. The banquet was normal and at peace until the head priest gulped at his wine after a toast. As soon as Luminaria's father gulped the wine, he started foaming at the mouth and then crash to the ground.

Luminaria's father was poisoned but he did not die from it since the God of Rain Chaac was able to use his healing rain which prevented the death. Luminaria's mother screamed so loud that she became insane as her powerful husband was in a catatonic state. He was healed but he will forever be a vegetable.

Chapter 1882 Rotten from the Start

The most powerful priest and priestess were incapacitated with just one major event. Investigations were done and the perpetrator was none other than a slave that fled. The slave was hunted down and killed by the warrior priests, but the damage has been done. A shift in power would ultimately happen and the overall dynamic of the temple will also change.

Since both her parents were no longer capable of doing anything, Luminaria begged the God of Light to heal her parents. She did not really mean to have them healed as she only want to look like she was the most caring child. She wanted to look good in the eyes of the God of Light since gods that are in the mortal realm cannot view the memories of mortals.

"I can restore your parents to a point where they can go on with their daily life but that is all that I can do. I am not a god that has powers of restoration like a God of Life." The God of Light stated.

"That is wonderful! Please help! I beg of you." Luminaria stuttered a little as she did not think that the God of Light would be capable of doing so. She even ran towards them as they were about to leave.

"I can do that for you but there is always a price." The God of Light stated.

"If I can do it then please tell me what the price is." Luminaria stated as she pinched her hand.

"The price is reasonable. You shall join us and leave your beloved parents behind." The God of Light stated.

Luminaria would have jumped for joy upon hearing those words, but she suddenly kneeled down to hide her joy. She made it look like she was begging with all she has but she was actually rejoicing inside. She immediately agreed while also looking good in front of the God of Light.

Luminaria's parents were healed by the God of Light, but they could only function as normal mortals. The God of Light used their mana in order to reset their life. They were able to recover but some parts of their memories were erased, and they would sometimes blankly stare at the sky.

"Thank you for always being with me, mother and father." Luminaria stated but she only said that for show since the God of Light was in front of her.

"Now that you have said your goodbyes, we must go and start training as you were the last one to be taken." The God of Light stated as they left the kingdom that was ruled by the God of Rain Chaac.

Luminaria had many competitors but all of them either gave up or died mysteriously during missions. Luminaria made sure to act all graceful and merciful when the God of Light was still giving her some of his powers. She made sure to plan everything out. She immediately claimed the power when the God of Light that she served fell in battle with the initial wave of the foreign gods.

She waited for years and even made sure that she rises to the power of an entry level High God by collecting all the fragments of her master's body. As soon as she created the angels, she started her plan to become the most powerful goddess of light and her real attitude finally exploded. She was rotten from the start but had to bottle it up in order to make sure that she succeeds.

"To think that such a child raised with all the love would become twisted just like you. You have failed your parents even though they sacrificed everything for you." The God of Rain Chaac stated.

"My parents were mere stepping stones for my greatness. I have been chosen and I have risen to the challenges that I have been given in my life." The Goddess of Light Luminaria stated.

"Challenges? You did not even had hardships growing up because you were a spoiled child. You dishonor your parents and even forgot where you came from. You must fall before my axe." The God of Rain Chaac stated.

The God of Rain Chaac raised his axe and lightning filled the battlefield. All the Luxera that flocked towards him were also destroyed which almost left no light monsters to be seen. Rain started to drop as well and the God of Rain Chaac started to become even more powerful but also blessed the players and NPCs around him.

[The God of Rain Chaac has used his Rain of Blessing.]

[All healing will be enhanced by 100%.]

[All damage will be increased by 10%.]

[Enemies will be slowed by 5%.]

"You will not be able to stop me. Fall and die, forgotten god!" The Goddess of Light Luminaria stated as she used the extra two rings to hit the God of Rain Chaac.

Flashes of light that came from the Goddess of Light Luminaria and powerful blasts of lightning from the God of Rain Chaac scattered in the area. No player could easily join in on the fight, but they made sure that the God of Rain Chaac does not get distracted by the Luxera. The only ones that are actively helping the God of Rain Chaac were the dragon kings as they are occasionally using their breaths.

The fight between the God of Rain Chaac and the Goddess of Light Luminaria started. While the two gods fought, the players and even the other members of the churches protected the holy relics. The other seven rings are still trying to destroy the holy relics. The golden rings were still trying to destroy the holy relics even though the Goddess of Light Luminaria is fighting another god.

"Warriors of the Gods of War! Destroy the golden rings!" The war commanders under the Gods of War shouted as they were blessed with great energy by the gods that they serve. A fiery aura enveloped all of them until a red flag that carries the SPQR initials suddenly got planted on the ground.

Chapter 1883 The Gods of War Arrive

A red flag with the initials of SPQR is planted on the ground as this was the holy relic that was used to call down the goddess. A goddess that wore full plated armor and incredibly fierce descended onto the battlefield. She was called upon by the holy relic called the Romanus Flag.

[The Goddess of War Bellona has arrived in the battlefield.]

[All of the allies will have increased strength by 10%.]

[All of the allies will have increased defense by 10%.]

[All of the allies will have increased stamina by 10%.]

A beautiful but fierce goddess that holds a spear and a shield that is half as big as her body descended. She wore armor that perfectly fit her toned female body which also enhanced her fiery aura of war. All the members of her church shouted in unison as all of them are invigorated that their deity has descended to aid them in battle.

The Goddess of War Bellona used her spear to hit the golden ring that would have overpowered her followers. The flaming golden ring stopped and was returned to the Goddess of Light Luminaria. The Goddess of War Bellona did not only stop the flaming golden ring but also threw her spear towards the Goddess of Light Luminaria.

The next holy relic that activated was a pot of fresh water. Upon the activation of the holy relic, a powerful surge of fresh water came out and doused the flames of the golden ring. A god that had armor made of thick and hard tree trunks could be seen. He looked like he was a warrior from the islands.

[The God of War Maru has descended onto the battlefield.]

[All beings that drink fresh water will recover their stamina much faster and they would be invigorated for a few moments.]

[All of the allies' defenses will be increased by 10%.]

[All of the allies will have increased regeneration by 100%.]

The God of War Maru is also called the God of Fresh Water as he was not just a simple god of war. He has the power to control streams and rivers as well which is why he is one of the revered gods of war for people that live near there. He carries a sword that is made of pure water and a whip that rages like a river.

As soon as he doused the flames of the golden ring, he immediately hit it back towards the Goddess of Light Luminaria. The God of War Maru also released the power of his river whip and let it rage towards the goddess. He made sure that any monster would also get destroyed as his raging river whip sliced the Luxera in two.

The last holy relic that the Church of War members activated is a corona. It was made of rusted leaves, but it shone in a golden color when the god of war has descended. A powerful wave of power rushed to all the beings that were near the descended god.

[The God of War Virtus has descended into the battlefield.]

[All allies will not be affected by any effects of fear.]

[All allies will have 50% more resistance against any status ailments that may affect them.]

[All allies will have increased 10% more damage against their enemies.]

The God of War Virtus represented bravery and military strength. He is one of the gods that is summoned when all the beings need to have the heart to face tougher enemies. He is different compared to the two gods of war that descended as he wore armor and robes like that of a military commander.

He had olive skin and brunette hair, but the fiery eyes of a military commander will overpower any other being that gaze onto him. The presence of the God of War Virtus gives people courage and valor to conquer even the tallest mountain. A presence that could turn the tides of battle is what the God of War Virtus represents.

Even if his presence is his most powerful arsenal in battle, the God of War Virtus is still a god of war. The weapon of choice for the God of War Virtus is a short sword and a pike. He holds these two weapons as he has better range of attacks with both a long-ranged weapon and a short, ranged weapon. The God of War Virtus threw his pike towards the Goddess of Light Luminaria as soon as he deflected the golden ring.

[Three Gods of War have descended onto the battlefield.]

[All members of the Church of War that are under these three gods will have 50% more status buffs.]

[All other allies that are in the same battlefield will have 25% more buff effects.]

[All allies of the Gods of War will receive the buff called War God's Fervor.]

[War God's Fervor: Attacks will have 10% more chance to inflict a critical hit.]

A pale red aura came down on all the allies that are with the Gods of War. Those that were hurt made sure to regroup or retreat to an area where the battle is not heated. The ones that are still in battle became beasts overcome with battle mania. The battlefield could be seen slowly being cleared of the Luxera and it would only be a matter of time before the Goddess of Light Luminaria is left.

The Goddess of Light Luminaria's three golden rings that were deflected have reappeared next to her. All three golden rings would create a powerful barrier of light that defended her against the spear, the river whip, and the pike that all head towards her. She was slightly distracted by these series of attacks that she was unable to fully defend against the attack of the God of Rain Chaac.

The God of Rain Chaac threw a thunder axe which is a pure elemental lightning copy of his own holy relic. The Goddess of Light Luminaria flinched as lightning coursed her body. Her sudden hit made all the golden rings slightly lose power for a moment which made it easy for other church members to defend their holy relics.

Chapter 1884 The Ten Gods that Descended

The sudden lost of power of the other golden rings made it possible even for normal beings to deflect it momentarily. The Goddess of Light Luminaria did recover, and the flaming golden rings were blazing towards the remaining four holy relics. The next goddess that descended was much different compared to the other four that descended.

Unlike the other gods that descended before that only had one holy relic, the goddess that descended has three holy relics. A dagger, a torch, and keys could be seen floating in the air as these are the holy relics representing the goddess that they have called upon. A powerful wave of magic rushed towards all the mages that called upon one of their patron goddesses.

[The Goddess of Magic Hecate has been summoned into the world.]

[All magic spells casted by allies will have 10% more damage.]

[All magic spells casted by allies will have 10% less mana cost.]

[All allies will have a 1% chance to double their spell when casted.]

The goddess of magic, crossroads, witchcraft, sorcery, ghosts and even necromancy. A goddess that even knows the true essence of magic as she was born from the first spark of magic. The Goddess of Magic Hecate is also quite different from the other gods because she is actually a descendant of the Goddess of Life Gaea.

The Goddess of Magic Hecate also has three faces compared to the other gods, but she still looks like a beautiful maiden covered by a veil of dust. If one looks closely then they may see the silhouettes of her other heads as she has other forms. The Goddess of Magic Hecate takes the form of a mother, a maiden, and a crone.

If the Goddess of Magic Hecate shows up to you in the form of a maiden, then she might be a little playful, but she has a pure heart that helps you. If she shows up in the form of a mother figure, then she would give you all the love and guidance that a mother can give. If she appears in front of you in the form of a crone, then one might need to run away or even beg for forgiveness as she will cast the harshest of curses to you.

The Goddess of Magic Hecate is also considered the goddess of crossroads as she would give wisdom to those that are at an impasse. She will be the one that welcomes and explains on what path one needs to take but she would only show you choices. She will not make choices for you but only give you the wisdom on each of the choices that you make. She is sometimes not a great being to encounter as she often shows when there are difficult choices.

As soon as she descended onto the world, all the mana in the area suddenly stabilized. All the mages had their spells become more powerful than before while the mana cost was reduced. The presence of the Goddess of Magic Hecate made magic become alive. All the mana that was stagnant due to the presence of the gods suddenly became easily malleable and usable.

The next gods that arrived are the gods that are needed to combat the searing golden flames of the Goddess of Light Luminaria. The holy relics of the next gods that descended were a clam shell, a bull horn, and a coral. These three gods are called upon by the Church of Water as they wanted to punish the Goddess of Light Luminaria for the atrocities that she has done.

The first of the water gods to descend was the goddess with the holy relic of a clam shell. A powerful sea wave suddenly came upon the golden ring and doused the flames. A salty smell suddenly spread around the areas as if the sea was brought to the battlefield.

[The Goddess of the Sea Amphitrite has descended.]

[All water elemental spells will have 20% increased damage.]

The clam shell that was her holy relic was actually her mount as she was sitting on top of it. She was the most beautiful goddess that descended as her green hair was long and flowing freely like the sea. She also has this soft blue tint on her skin that glistened like pearls. The dress that she was wearing is made of water and flowed naturally as if she was still under the sea.

The Goddess of the Sea Amphitrite held a trident staff as a weapon to pay homage to her spouse. When she opened her eyes, all the beings were stunned as she had eyes that shone like the gemstone aquamarine. She was even floating on top of sea water that is magically being generated below her clam shell mount.

The next god of water that descended has a holy relic of a bull horn. A powerful wave of fresh water suddenly gushed forth as the god that owns the bull horn holy relic has descended. The fresh water raged like a river and doused the flames of the golden ring which made the Goddess of Light Luminaria called back to her aid.

[The God of Fresh Water Achelous has descended into the mortal realm.]

[All water elemental healing spells will have double the health restored and have stamina regeneration effects.]

The God of Fresh Water Achelous was a sturdy built man wearing a blue tunic. He looked like a rugged and handsome man in his fifties but the thing that makes him stand out is the right bull horn coming out of his own head while the left bull horn was sliced off. He has the force of a raging river below his feet.

The last of the water gods to descend is the one that has a coral for a holy relic. The coral was actually a crown that adorned the goddess that descended onto the mortal realm. The coral crown shone in the colors of the rainbow which enhanced the beauty of the goddess that sprouted from a powerful geyser.

[The Goddess of All Fresh Water Tethys has descended onto the mortal realm.]

[All water elemental spells will have increased 20% critical chance and 50% more critical damage.]

The Goddess of All Fresh Water Tethys sprouted from the water geyser with her long flowing black hair and coral crown. A flowing dress that is made of water and some fishes even swimming in them could be seen. She had the force of a raging tide that would make anyone cower just by looking at her even if she had a gentle face.

[Three Gods of Water have descended. All water magic spells will have double the damage.]

The number of gods descending did not stop as the Goddess of Light Luminaria could not destroy the holy relics in time. The two gods of justice were now ready to descend. The two gods have holy relics that are a bow and a sun dial.

[The God of Justice Shamash has descended into the mortal realm.]

[All allies will receive 10% increase resistance against the light element.]

The God of Justice Shamash was not only a god of justice, but he was also considered a sun god due to his ability to see every wrongdoing in the world like the light of the sun enveloping the world. He wore golden robes that accentuated his long beard that made him look incredibly wise.

[The God of Justice Pabilsag has descended onto the mortal realm.]

[All archers will have increased chance of doing a critical hit by 10%.]

The God of Justice Pabilsag was the one god that did not look completely humanoid as he took the form of a centaur with large bird wings on his upper body. This is due to the god being closely tied to the constellation of Sagittarius as he was the creator of that star formation according to myths. His form might not look humanoid, but he was the most humane of all the gods of justice should you choose one to judge your wrongdoings.

[Two Gods of Justice has descended onto the world.]

[They have judged the Goddess of Light Luminaria as sinful.]

[All damage that the Goddess of Light Luminaria will be increased by 20%.]

[The Goddess of Light Luminaria resisted some of the Magic Law that the two gods of justice have cast and was only affected by 50% of the magic law.]

The last of the holy relics was a moldy chariot which was brought by two warrior ladies that did not look like priests. They said that they were from the Church of Life, but their armor was for warriors that priests. The chariot that they brought was the holy relic of their goddess and she was the one that shocked all of the people in the area.

[The Goddess of Life Freyja has descended onto the mortal realm.]

[All damage against the enemy that she has selected will be increased by 20%.]

[The Goddess of Life Freyja has chosen the Goddess of Light Luminaria as her enemy.]

Chapter 1885 Not Just a Goddess of Life

[The Goddess of Life Freyja has descended onto the mortal realm.]

[All damage against the enemy that she has selected will be increased by 20%.]

[The Goddess of Life Freyja has chosen the Goddess of Light Luminaria as her enemy.]

The Goddess of Life Freyja could be seen flying above the clouds as she descended onto the world. Her chariot that was old and rusty is now laced with gold and precious silver. The chariot itself is being pulled by two large feline monsters. Beside the Goddess of Life Freyja are none other than the Valkyries as she called for them to join on this battle.

Whenever the Goddess of Life Freyja arrives, she calls upon her Valkyries in order to defeat the enemy that she designates. This time, the enemy that the Goddess of Life Freyja has chosen is none other than the Goddess of Light Luminaria. The Goddess of Life Freyja never forgets a grudge as the angels back then delayed the Valkyries in saving her.

"You shall die by my blade today, Luminaria." The Goddess of Life Freyja proudly declared.

"Die? I am more powerful than you now more than ever. You sacrificed so much in order to have your other subordinates get accustomed to the mortal realm and divine realms that you became a pitiful greater god." The Goddess of Light Luminaria stated.

"Remember that I am not only a Goddess of Life but also a minor Goddess of Death!" The Goddess of Life Freyja slashed her sword and death energy could be seen attached to her weapon.

Just as the Goddess of Life Freyja stated, she is not just a goddess that is tied to just fertility, but she is also a minor goddess of death by the belief of her followers. This can be true because there are some gods of death that are also minor gods of life. The same is true for both as both life and death are heavily tied to each other.

This is also the reason why there are twin gods for life and death. Life and death must be equal because the universe will collapse if one overpowers the other. It is also one of the reasons why gods of life and death rarely interfere with worldly affairs as they know that their interference could destroy part of reality. Thankfully for the Goddess of Life Freyja, two gods of death have been summoned earlier which meant that she can interfere as well.

"My proud Valkyries! Destroy all the monsters that the Goddess of Light Luminaria has created and join me in my rally against her!" The Goddess of Life Freyja shouted as her chariot blazed forward towards the Goddess of Light Luminaria.

The Goddess of Life Freyja carried a blade that glowed like the rainbow as it was made from a piece of the world tree. A blade that has the essence of a world tree is something even a high god like the Goddess of Light Luminaria does not want to get hit by. If one is even scratched by that blade, then they would feel all the suffering that they have inflicted on other living beings.

The Goddess of Light Luminaria recalled all her golden rings and even gripped two of them. She would then create a rope made of light that bound the four other rings to one another. In the end, the real weapon of the Goddess of Light Luminaria is actually a chained chakram that has five rings connected to one another.

As soon as the Goddess of Light Luminaria touched her weapon, a powerful burst of energy exploded from her body. She was now truly in her battle mode as the attacks earlier were not concentrated attacks but rather attacks that prioritized mass casualties. The Goddess of Light Luminaria swung her left arm and all five chained chakrams burst into golden light and clashed with the sword on the hand of the Goddess of Life Freyja.

"Do not forget about me!" The God of Rain Chaac stated as he once again threw a lightning silhouette of his axe towards the Goddess of Light Luminaria.

"Tch!" The Goddess of Light Luminaria exclaimed as she used her other arm to destroy the lightning construct of the God of Rain Chaac.

"Go forth and burst the treacherous one!" The Goddess Amphitrite stated as she created a powerful wave of water that headed towards the Goddess of Light Luminaria.

"Let water drown you!" The Goddess Tethys stated as she used her coral crown to create thousands of water spears to pierce the Goddess of Light Luminaria.

"Arrow of Sagittarius!" The God of Justice Pabilsag stated as he released a volley of arrows that looked like stardust.

"Let us amplify all your magic shall we." The Goddess of Magic Hecate stated as it looked like three beings moved at once to create powerful magic circles that tripled all the magic spells that the other gods have casted.

"Defense of Luxa!" The Goddess of Light Luminaria shouted as she connected all ten golden rings to create a powerful barrier around herself that protected her from all the attacks that were fired towards her.

All ten golden rings suddenly grew bigger and spun so fast that they created ten suns. These ten miniature suns revolved around the Goddess of Light Luminaria and protected her. Each of the suns would defend against any of the attacks that would have landed on her which meant that she was unscathed even though the barrage was so large in number.

The players could only cast some minor spells, but the presence of the Goddess of Magic Hecate made Epic tier spells hit like Legendary Tier spells. The presence of the God of Justice Pabilsag also made the arrows fly further then before. Still, the spells of a player could never equate to a single spell of a god which is why the Goddess of Light Luminaria is only truly defending herself from the attacks of the gods.

The three gods of war flew close to the Goddess of Light Luminaria and made sure to attack her in turns. They created a formation where the Goddess of Light Luminaria will not be able to escape easily without getting injured. The Goddess of Light Luminaria also noticed this as well because the coordination of the gods of war were truly fearsome and they would have killed her if she was not stronger than them.

The Goddess of Light Luminaria could not rely on heat as well because the gods that have descended to battle her are leaning more into the water element. Even one of the gods of war was using a sword and a whip made of water which made her flames deal no damage at all. The only useful thing that her flames could do now is the steam that blinds even the eyes of gods.

"These ungrateful gods! Why not join me and we could rule the mortal realm together!?" The Goddess of Light Luminaria screamed as she was still being protected by her shield and cannot attack.

"Your very presence hurts this world, Luminaria. The time of the gods in the mortal plane has ended. If we do not restrict ourselves then our enemies from faraway would be able to freely enter this realm as well." The God of Justice Shamash stated.

"Look at all these useless mortals that are flocking towards you! They are just weak sheep that cannot defend against the gods! We need to rule over them while the foreign gods have yet to notice." The Goddess of Light Luminaria stated.

"You speak as if you fought in the front lines back then, but you merely stayed behind like all other gods that have just ascended. You did not sacrifice anything back then as the most powerful race of the world did that brave sacrifice. A sacrifice that you have also had a part of implementing as your sowed discord even back then." The Goddess of Magic Hecate stated as she was there and witnessed the crossroads of the world.

The Goddess of Light Luminaria thought that she could lie to the other gods, but she cannot do so when the Goddess of Magic Hecate is there. The Goddess of Magic Hecate is always present in the crossroads of life even if it is a god making that decision. The Goddess of Magic Hecate was actually the one that the Asmodians ran towards when it came to their decision.

"The Asmodians sacrificed everything for this world and now you have aided in its destruction." The Goddess of Life Freyja stated.

"You speak as if you are innocent, Freyja! The Norse gods plotted to destroy the world barrier with me because it aligned with their ideals as well. If I recall, you are part of those gods as well. Do not wash away your sins when there is a witness for it." The Goddess of Light Luminaria shouted.

"The Aesir Gods have succumbed to madness just like you. I shall lay my life just to stop them as well as I will do with you!" The Goddess of Life Freyja stated as she raised her sword.

Chapter 1886 The Mortals Below I

The clash between the gods and their respective churches made it almost impossible for players that had no affiliation to participate. Players that are not affiliated with the churches that have their god descended are affected by spells cast even ally gods. Only members of their respective churches are immune to the damage of their respective gods.

The movements of mortals are also limited if they do not have any way of flight. The dragons could actively participate because they can fly. The presence of Basil, the Mother of Dragons, also empowers the dragons albeit not as powerful as a buff as a god does. Still, dragons are by far stronger than humans so that small buff compared to gods is still bigger since they have better stats overall.

The Pantheon guild also backed down as they did not have a patron god chosen. Guilds usually chooses a patron god which can be their main source of blessings. Adrian and Levin Cloud asked the Twin Gods if they wanted to be their patron gods, but they declined as there are many unique individuals in the Pantheon guilds. The Pantheon guild has members that are chosen by gods that have yet to be accepted like Altum, Champion of the Deep Ones.

"At least the Goddess Freyja is a goddess of life which means that our healers can aid her and the Valkyries." Creepysoo stated as he is also drained from casting powerful spells from the Necronomicon.

Just as they were talking, a Pegasus mount suddenly came swooping down in their general direction. The one that is riding this Pegasus is none other than Frey as she was also called upon by the Goddess of Life Freyja. She was given a task by the Goddess of Life Freyja and her first idea is go to the one that she knows best that can make it happen.

"Is Equinox here?" Frey asked as she dismounted from her Pegasus.

"Her tone is very casual as expected of the guild leader. They are already in the talking stage of the relationship." Peridot whispered.

"I am actually shocked that they even got to that stage since my brother has no experience whatsoever." Solstice stated as she also retreated when the gods arrived, but she still has the bottle of blood that Adrian has given him.

"Yes? Did someone call for me?" Adrian stated as he has just been revived as the Gods of Death have returned back to their realms. He was slightly excited that it was Frey that was looking for him.

"I have a message from my goddess." Frey stated which made Adrian's shoulders lower down a bit since the excitement suddenly vanished.

"It is ok, bro. It happens." Kabrakan stated as he patted Adrian's shoulders while he chugged a health potion.

"Yes, Frey. Did you need me for something? Since it came from a goddess, it must be of the utmost importance." Adrian stated as he ignored the stares of his friends.

"The Goddess Freyja told me to rally the other mortals as they will not be able to stop the Goddess of Light Luminaria by themselves. She has the power of a High God that can easily dwarf ten greater gods that are working together. Also, the gods that descended are not all combat oriented which means the chances of winning are even slimmer." Frey stated.

"Rally the mortals? That is easier said than done." Adrian replied with a worried expression.

"Well, If I were to chose someone that can make that happen then that would be you. You were the first one that came to my mind that could do it." Frey stated which made Adrian blush a little from the sudden flattery.

"Ehem. Thanks for the compliment. I guess your goddess is well informed because I just received the best gift from the gods of death earlier." Adrian stated with his tone of speech being a little bit higher than usual.

Before Adrian revived, the God of Death Hades and the God of Death Ah Puch reached out to him. The two gods were bickering that they did not deal much damage to the Goddess of Light Luminaria. Even the God of Death Hades was not satisfied with the battle as his strength was severely restricted. The God of Death Ah Puch was moderately satisfied as he was able to create the largest corpse explosion permitted in the mortal realm.

"Champion Equinox, the Goddess of Light Luminaria will not stop even if she destroys everything in her path. She has become mad with power that she is already starting to transform into a distorted god. She does not even realize that she is already in the process in becoming one." The God of Death Hades stated.

"I thought that distorted gods need to be tainted by the energy of the void to become distorted?" Adrian stated.

"That is just the final step. The first step is a god becoming mad. She might not show it, but she is almost there. Be wary of the surroundings as there might be observers with that kind of intention. The last thing that we need is a rampaging Distorted High God in the mortal realm." The God of Death Ah Puch stated.

"Ok then. But... why are both of you telling me this?" Adrian asked.

"Since we failed to get a substantial hit on her, it would now be your job to maintain the balance of the mortal realm." The God of Death Ah Puch stated.

"What do you mean not get a substantial hit? I managed to hit her before the demigod body turned into ash. On her left lower back, there is a small trace of death energy there that I have implanted. You can use that as a way to turn the tables by activating it. That is not the only thing that we are offering you on your way back." The God of Death Hades stated as both he and the God of Death Ah Puch injected something inside of Adrian's body.

[The God of Death Hades and the God of Death Ah Puch injected something in your body.]

Chapter 1887 The Mortals Below II

[All cooldowns have been refreshed.]

[All debuffs have been cleansed.]

[You will receive a permanent 5% cooldown reduction for all skills and spells.]

"Wow! Thanks!" Adrian replied as the look on the two gods of death were a bit weird even for him.

"Is there something on my face?" Adrian added.

"Nothing. We have kept you for too long. Go and aid the mortals so that death will not spread too much." The God of Death Hades stated.

"That is right! I hate dealing with hassles such as sudden death. They keep on ranting that it is not their time. What do you want me to do? I cannot even bring you back to life. Well... I could but as a fresh corpse." The God of Death Ah Puch stated as he started ranting about all the work.

"He has already left. You can stop the fake rant." The God of Death Hades stated.

"Fake rant. All of that is real. Still, it was surprising that his soul took that easily like a hungry void." The God of Death Ah Puch stated.

"Even I was shocked, and you have seen the things that my brothers have done. To think that it was easily absorbed. You must not speak of this to others." The God of Death Hades stated.

"I was actually waiting for his soul to collapse due to the essence we have injected but it seems your judgement has yet to falter." The God of Death Ah Puch stated.

"I thought you were the one that suggested that to me?" The God of Death Hades stated.

"Huh? Suggested what now? What were we talking about?" The God of Death Ah Puch replied.

"We were talking about... I think my thought process is still scrambled from getting hit by holy light. Anyways, we have been away from our realms for far too long. Whatever we were talking about might not be important because we easily forgot about it." The God of Death Hades stated.

"Maybe I can ask that undead prince to call me, and I can enter his body to have more fun." The God of Death Ah Puch stated as a crypt suddenly opened on the ground, and he returned back to his death realm.

"You should not have too much fun in the mortal realm or else the others might file a complaint." The God of Death Hades exclaimed as he also vanished in shadows.

The quiet sound of mixed laughter would then pass by in the area in Limbo. If one looked closely, there are traces of a disintegrating clown mask, but its presence was not felt even by two High Gods of Death. Even Adrian, who was there the whole time, did not notice the clown mask.

"Maybe the Goddess Freyja knew that all my skills cooldowns have been refreshed or maybe you have great instincts. I mean... you are great." Adrian stated as saying instincts to a girl made her look like an animal.

"Nice save." Creepysoo stated with a thumbs up.

"Thanks... I guess. Anyways, how do you propose to help? Rallying all these players and people will not be easy." Frey stated.

"Easy! Mirrors is always the answer." Adrian stated as he suddenly changed his form to his Aetheros Mirror Demon Form.

Adrian chose the Aetheros form because it is more useful when it comes to team battle. His created mirrors are also sturdier when in this form which means they last longer in battle. Also, the mirrors that he created spread Aether Dust which strengthens defenses and increases health regeneration.

Adrian's Aetheros Mirror Demon Form is different compared to his Netheros Mirror Demon Form. In his Netheros Mirror Demon Form, Adrian looked like a blind demon of pure mist with six main mirrors made of encrusted obsidian with a golden demon eye eerily looking around. In his Aetheros Mirror Demon Form, Adrian looks like a holy blind hero with six jade mirrors that have blue demon eyes. The cloth armor that has gold, blue, and white even accentuated this look even more.

"We need to collect all the guilds or armies that will work with us. Come with me." Adrian stated as he enlarges a mirror and held Frey by the hand as they passed through it.

A shocked Valor Guild Master Ain greeted the two because they suddenly appeared at their camp. Even the other Valor Guild members were almost ready to strike but held back since it was someone that they knew. Adrian and Frey had to explain what happened to make sure that no one makes the wrong idea.

"I can get around with that idea, but I also want to contribute." The Valor Guild Master Ain stated.

"I could support you if you want to fight head on. I have lots of flying mounts after all and mirrors." Adrian stated.

"I can get on with that plan as well." A familiar voice of an old man stated as it was none other than Siegfried, the Infernum Guild Master, stated as he rushed to Valor due to the sudden commotion.

"The guild master might not be here, but I can also aid you in as we are friendly guilds after all. Still, I also want to have some of the fun. My contribution points are kind of low as I cannot get a clean hit on that goddess." Cersei stated as she was the acting leader of the Evergreen guild due to the others protecting the sprouting Tree of Life.

"Thank you for the assist as always. If we can have the news spread to the others, then it would be more helpful." Adrian stated.

"We do have other allied guilds. We can talk to them about it, but they are over to the other side." Ain stated as some of their allies are on the other end of the battlefield.

"Distance is of no problem to me." Adrian stated as he used another mirror as a pathway to the other side of the battlefield.

Chapter 1888 How Gods Fight

The gods fighting against the Goddess of Light Luminaria were struggling at first, but the God of War Virtus made sure that they become organized. It took quite a while but the gods that were not coordinating are now seamlessly integrating their attacks. The God of War Virtus had to step back from attacking always and actively participated in war strategies.

The discoordination of the descended gods earlier made it difficult for even the dragons to attack the Goddess of Light Luminaria. The God of War Virtus connected all of the followers' minds with the other followers of the gods. This made it easier for the other gods to know what their fellow gods are thinking.

Since the gods cannot link themselves telepathically without the Goddess of Light Luminaria noticing or interjecting, the God of War Virtus used a mediator which are the followers of each god. Since each god can learn of the other's intention if the most powerful priests pray to them. This would have been impossible for gods that descended but the summoned gods in holy relics are still connected with their divine realms.

Unlike the Goddess of Light Luminaria who has completely descended, the gods summoned using a holy relic is only partly descended. The true godly essence of gods summoned using holy relics are still left in their respective divine realms. The only thing that the gods that were summoned using holy relics have to look out for are other gods attacking their divine realms, but that possibility is extremely small.

The Goddess of Light Luminaria felt it as well, but she knew that she would win if she hung on until the end. The summoned gods that are called upon using holy relics cannot stay forever to fight her. Each of the gods will be unsummoned when the faith embedded in the holy relics are used up. This is also the reason why the Goddess of Light Luminaria could see how the gods that came to fight her are in a rush.

"The most they have is two days if they used faith equivalent to prayers for two decades. That is a lot of faith to use on mere holy relics." The Goddess of Light Luminaria thought as she was also actively suppressing the gods from above to descend.

The Goddess of Light Luminaria made sure to control part of the laws of the mortal realm when she managed to integrate with it. She made a meticulous decision to forego extreme power by creating a temporary law that will prevent gods from descending. She created a temporary law that gives a portion of the divine energy of gods that descend to her.

She made this law or rather she has already thought of this law back when she materialized her idea of descending. Other gods would have opted for full control over their respective element, but the Goddess of Light Luminaria knew better than other gods. She knew that other gods would actively stop her which is why she made sure that every god that descends to stop her will pass a portion of their strength to her.

The only ones that are not affected by this law are the gods that are summoned using holy relics as these types of summoning are special cases. This law is the reason why the gods that wanted to descend to fight against the Goddess of Light Luminaria are not attempting to fight her. She knew that those gods would need a holy relic as well but preparing holy relics are not easy. One would need a minimum of three weeks to prepare a holy relic for a god to descend.

The Goddess of Light Luminaria knew of this because she has also attempted to descend back then using a holy relic. She only descended with the strength of a demigod but that was enough to create a miracle. The land where she descended back then is now called the Nation of Holy Light where her main church is located.

"In this fight against gods, the god that prepares the most will be the victor. Struggle all you want but I shall be the one that prevails." The Goddess of Light Luminaria thought as she made sure to only defend against the attacks of the other gods.

"I did not think that I was able to enter the mind space of a goddess." Ark stated as he was now in a place that could be called the core of a god.

This happened earlier when he was concentrating to find a focal point to enter the mind space of the goddess. It was the time when the Goddess of Light Luminaria had to forcefully end her world integration due to the presence of the gods of death. The small Samael could also see that Ark has succeeded and wished him well as he touched the forehead of the Chosen Nephilim before vanishing to dust because he has already overexerted himself.

"Once I vanish, this divine realm will now truly belong to the gods of light. Still, they would not be able to control it as they lack the qualifications. I entrust it to you, chosen one. The one that was reincarnated with the soul of my child." The young Samael stated as he has truly vanished.

Ark, on the other hand, found himself in a place with a golden temple and altar. On the altar is a golden statue of a goddess where some parts of her golden body have turned into a spirit. If Ark could see the current form of the Goddess of Light Luminaria now, then he would have gotten the impression that the missing parts are actually the armored parts of the goddess' battle form.

The only body part that is left in this mind space is the golden head of a female humanoid. Ark did not know what to make of this but something inside of him told him to start preparations. He must create as much havoc as he must in this mind space in order to escape.

Chapter 1889 How Mortals Fight Gods

"We have gotten good responses from all the guilds that are participating in this raid. It is such a shame that some of the most powerful players are not here, or we would have done more substantial damage." Siegfried stated.

"At least there would be more contributions for us. We should thank the Pantheon Guild Leader in advance for his sacrifice." Ain stated as he patted Adrian's shoulders.

"If you die while I am helping you, do not blame me later. We only have one resident reviver, and he can only revive people every hour. So, if you die...make sure to die in one place." Adrian stated as he had to make concessions for the guilds to follow his lead.

In total, five guild leaders and acting guild leaders combined wanted to be on the front lines. By front lines, those five people would want to hit the Goddess of Light Luminaria themselves. Adrian would be the one that makes sure that they are alive by utilizing his mirror portals. Frey also wants in on that kind of action which makes it six people, but Adrian has a feeling that some of his guild members also wants that kind of action.

"The most I can do is ten if I am also doing the magic spells and arrow barrages of the combined guilds." Adrian muttered as he made sure to reject anyone that exceeds his preferred number.

"Are all the guild leaders and acting guild leaders in a chat?" Adrian asked as this is how players fight when it comes to raids.

"Yes. I have tasked Aisha to spearhead the bow unit while you have asked Peridot to do the same for the magic unit." Ain stated.

Aisha, the vice guild leader of the Valor guild, is one of the most talented archers in the game. She will be leading the bow unit that is scattered in three groups. She is handling the main group while two other vice guild leaders of two other guilds are managing the other two.

Peridot is handling the magic unit which was organized into ten groups. The number of groups that the magic unit had actually exceeded thirty, but they used the time to regroup into ten larger groups. Some guild leaders and vice guild leaders are in charge of the other nine groups.

"The spirit magic unit has also assembled as well." Faust stated in the chat as they were a different group since they are players and NPCs that could use spirit magic.

Faust is the one handling the group while his second in command is none other than Soleil. The other players thought that handing a commanding role to a child would be worrying but that did not last. The worries of the spirit magic users were shattered when all of their contracted spirits bowed down to Soleil. She was actually crowned as the Successor of the Elemental King of Fire which mean that any spirit below elemental king would respect her and could not defy her will.

"Let us start then. Proceed to chant for the magicians. All archers ready your piercing skills. Spirit magic users prepare as well. Make sure that the vanguards will protect them while they are doing all this preparation. The count of the Luxera might be dropping but they are still spawning." Adrian stated.

"Just make sure to not get us killed." Ain stated with a laugh.

"Do not worry about that. If one needs is in trouble, I will definitely make sure to at least place your dying body in the designated revival zone." Adrian stated.

"Nice joke, Guild Leader Equinox." Ain stated with a pained laugh.

"I was not joking though." Adrian stated which made the other guild leaders and acting guild leaders laugh out loud due to seeing Ain's face reaction that was sent as a screenshot.

"Are you ready? I know that I have put you up to this, but you can rely on others or on me if you need help." Frey stated.

"Thanks. I can do this because letting that goddess get her way would make it incredibly worse for the world. I am actually having the easy job. All of you that are going to be in the front lines are the ones that have it rough." Adrian stated as he finally settled on a place.

Adrian crossed his legs and concentrated as he freely floated above the ground. His six mirrors floating around him while Kabrakan and Creepysoo are guarding him. The other members that joined the strike team from his guild are Solstice, Vayu, Lycan, and Apolaki. This made the total to ten members actively targeting the Goddess of Light Luminaria.

"I am ready. Make sure to pass me the mana potions when I give the signal." Adrian stated as he finally activated the skill.

"Mirror World!" Adrian stated as his entire world suddenly became different to his view.

Adrian activated Mirror World because this was the fastest way for him to create thousands of mirrors in one single activation. He immediately chugged a full recovery mana potion worth a hundred gold coins as soon as he created thousands of mirrors. Adrian had to ignore the not so pleasant taste as all his mana got refilled.

"Ok! Let us start with the introduction of the strike team." Adrian stated as he picked Frey, Ain, and Solstice to be the first in line to attack.

The order of attack was already decided beforehand on how fast they could attack. The fastest ones amongst the ten members were the three which is why they were first. Mirrors suddenly swallowed the three of them and they were now inside a dimension that is fully refractive like a mirror.

In this mirror dimension, the three of them could see the fight of the gods from another point of view. This was Adrian's perspective as they saw a demon figure above this mirror dimension looking down on the world. They could only gulp at the view because Adrian's presence in this dimension is like that of a god that can see everything.

Chapter 1890 Mirror Mirror I

"Get ready!" Adrian's voice stated as all three of them are launched to the battlefield.

The next thing that Frey knew is that she was now in front of the gigantic face of the Goddess of Light Luminaria while riding her mount. Even the Goddess of Light Luminaria was shocked to see a mortal suddenly up close to her face as she has a weaker outer barrier to filter out attacks from mortals. Her more powerful barriers are the ones that are used to defend against attacks from other gods.

"Valkyrie's Spear!" Frey shouted as she unleashed her piercing attack spell which was the transformed version of her previous skill called Gungnir since the God Odin basically took away his blessing from her to use the skill.

Frey's spear glowed in a powerful light that is like the northern lights as she launched it towards the face of the Goddess of Light Luminaria. The Goddess of Light Luminaria felt and was able to analyze the defensive piercing effect of the skill which made her immediately move her head away. She knew that it might not hurt but she must not take any chances when facing a member of the Valkyries.

Frey's spear would instead hit the lower neck of the Goddess of Light Luminaria which made her wince in pain. The goddess might not have reacted loudly but the pain that she felt was real and her rage boiled up. Numerous magic circles of light magic suddenly covered Frey with no place of escape.

"I got you." Adrian stated as numerous mirrors suddenly appeared around Frey.

The numerous mirrors that appeared around Frey absorbed all of the magic light rays while Adrian created another portal mirror below Frey. The portal mirror swallowed Frey and her mount up and vanished from her location. The magic used by the Goddess of Light Luminaria was stronger than imagined which is why the mirrors that absorbed her magic disintegrated after Frey was already gone.

The light beams that were absorbed by the mirrors were not stored as power. Adrian immediately used them as beams of light to destroy the Luxera that were swarming the bow unit. The Goddess of Light Luminaria only stopped the magic when she saw that the Valkyrie and her mount were no longer flying as she was not too focused on her since there are gods aiming for her head.

Believing that the pesky, small, and weak Valkyrie to be dead, the Goddess of Light Luminaria focused on defending against an attack of the Goddess Tethys. What she did not know is that there are still two more beings that she needed to watch out for. Solstice was the first one after Frey that got an attack as she coated her blood swords with great dark elemental energy.

Adrian also pointed out that the Goddess of Light Luminaria will have parts of her body that is not covered with armor or with broken pieces of armor. Solstice did as she was suggested and found a part of the Goddess of Light Luminaria's body with chipped armor. With a powerful thrust, Solstice managed to pierce the body of the goddess.

"Ah!" The Goddess of Light Luminaria squealed as she was not able to endure the pain this time.

The pain that she felt was like a surprise ant bite which made her react without control. She saw the source of the pain and it was the vampire that is protected with golden armor. The Goddess of Light Luminaria knew that this vampire will not be able to easily close in on her as her body is still radiating light equivalent to the bane of the existence of vampires.

"Pesky Mosquito!" The Goddess of Light Luminaria stated as she used her right hand to try and slam Solstice like a mosquito on her body.

Before the palm of the Goddess of Light Luminaria could reach Solstice, the vampire was already transported out of the way by Adrian. The only thing that was left in the place was a trail of blood which the Goddess of Light Luminaria thought came from Solstice. What the goddess did not know is that this trail of blood was just the blood swords that lost their solid form since Solstice were no longer controlling it.

"I am ready. Martial Sage Arts: Fox Hunt!" Ain stated as his fingers suddenly made a spear form and hit the tiny black dot that Adrian has told him about.

Just after the decision of order on the strike list, Adrian came towards Ain and pointed him towards a place that is the new weak point of the Goddess of Light Luminaria. Adrian tasked him with this because Awraka told him that Ain was the best player to exploit a weak point due to his job class and the way he utilizes aura.

Awraka has actually collected all details of guild leaders and vice guild leaders at the behest of Solstice. She learned of the quirks of the job classes that the powerful guild leaders possess. The one that she had the most difficult time in collecting information is about the Martial Sage class that Ain has. Even in the eastern continent, Martial Sages are few, but they are incredibly feared to the point that no one would want to talk about them.

What Awraka only learned is that Martial Sages are beings that can freely see aura and even see the weaknesses in people. Not just know weaknesses but Martial Sages can see weaknesses as if they are a Weakness Detector. Since Adrian cannot enlarge the weak point by himself, he appointed Ain to do that for him which was the best decision he could make for this whole battle.

Ain's arm is suddenly covered with a powerful bluish white aura as his spear hand now has a silhouette of a fox. With a powerful but swift thrust of his hand, the weak point of the Goddess of Light Luminaria that the God of Death Hades created is suddenly struck. A powerful cry of pain was released by the Goddess of Light Luminaria which she reacted by making a powerful explosion of light.

Before Ain could get swept by this explosion of light, a mirror suddenly manifested in front of him and took him away. The ten golden rings of the Goddess of Light Luminaria broke into individuals and created a barrier of flaming light around her which prevented the gods of war to do melee damage. The Goddess of Light Luminaria also became like a burst of pure light which blinded those that looked at her directly but only for a moment.

After the powerful light show, the Goddess of Light Luminaria could be seen clutching a wound from her lower back. The wound was trickling golden blood and also excess amounts of shadow and death energy. The Goddess of Light Luminaria could not believe it, but she was injured greatly that healing herself was not easy.

"Who wou..." The Goddess of Light Luminaria stated but her speech was cut short.

Just before the Goddess of Light Luminaria could finish her sentence, a large mirror that illuminated her face manifested in front of her. She thought nothing at first, but numerous sharp arrows enchanted by darkness elemental magic suddenly passed through this mirror. The Goddess of Light Luminaria reacted immediately and used her other hand to defend her face.

All the arrows pierced the hand of the Goddess of Light Luminaria as dark elemental magic seeped into her skin. She felt the burning sensation of the enchanted arrows, but it was not at a level where she would lose her mind. The arrow barrage was manageable compared to the sudden piercing pain of having shadow and death energy penetrate deeply into her body.

The sudden sound of shattering glass echoed in the surrounding which made the Goddess of Light Luminaria tremble. She immediately made her ten golden rings revolve around her fiercely to try and defend herself, but a pike suddenly pierced her left thigh. This was not the end though as a powerful blast of three water cannon spells directly hit her body.

She saw the silhouette of a golden chariot being pulled by two large felines before her divine barrier shattered. The ten golden rings tried their best to stop the powerful water cannon spells but having three water gods blast her with it made it difficult to defend. The Goddess of Light Luminaria is now being blasted by powerful water cannons from three different directions.

This was not the end as lightning started to rumble from the sky as the God of Rain Chaac flew high. The holy relic of the God of Rain Chaac was covered with multiple lightning arcs that would kill mortals easily. He raised his holy relic and slammed all of the energy that he has collected from the lightning above the skies.

"Call of the Storm!" The God of Rain Chaac shouted as the entire sky looked like it descended towards the Goddess of Light Luminaria.
