

O Summoner 1911

Chapter 1911 Teasing the Next Era

The next three days were full of speculations and video analysis for the streamers of Pandemonium. Some even made detailed analysis videos of the fight that the gods did despite them being blurry or too far away. The players that were closer to the gods fighting had either fainted or were looking down due to the pressure emitted by the gods. Only a few players that are counted by the hand witnessed everything without blinking.

There are also numerous reports of the detailed power scaling of the gods that battled. Even the players that had the highest contributions were analyzed on what they could do. The most video analysis that a player would be Equinox. This was the first time that his Chaos Pierrot Form was seen by all the players.

They even dubbed Adrian's Chaos Pierrot form as the strongest and most terrifying transformation to date as he could grab gods like they are kids. All of the players saw him squeezing the life out of the Dark Goddess of Light Zehirete. There were other videos with analysis from other player perspectives as some also fought other gods of light that escaped from the Goddess of Light Luminaria.

All the players were basically not in the game but all they could do was talk about the game. Some casual players would even rewatch the fight scenes against the Goddess of Light Luminaria or the Dark Goddess of Light Zehirete. The fight against two High Goddesses is basically a whole movie due to the intense fight scenes.

The next days would have filled with just these speculations, but Atlas would release a video on the first day that the servers were closed. The video was only 30 seconds long but all of it was full of things that would be in the game once the servers are open once again. The video is basically an outer space shot of the current main world.

The current main world was expanding at an unprecedented rate, but it stopped at some point. The video would then expand even further and show numerous worlds suddenly appearing beside the main world, but they are smaller in comparison. These smaller worlds then integrated to the main world which made it expand even more. The video only stopped when the main world was now ten times bigger than it was before.

Upon the release of the video, all of the players would then shift their focus unto this. They decoded all the worlds that were integrated into the main world. They happened to see three distinct worlds which had full of water, full of lava, and full of floating islands. These became the next hot topic for that day as there were living beings in each of those worlds.

Each of those worlds had a small glimpse of the people living there. Although each world only magnified for at least a second, the people that are dedicated made sure to slow it frame by frame. The world that is filled with lava had intelligent beings that are humanoid in appearance, but the skin color is red while there are stones or gems coming out of their bodies. They are definitely beings that are not yet seen on the main world.

The next one that they saw was a world full of water but the beings that live there were not like the intelligent life that live on the waters of the main world. All of the living beings that they saw on the frame had the silhouette of a humanoid being made of corals. All of the players know that corals are basically not sentient beings, but this made them have a different look to them.

The next world that was full of floating islands are much more difficult to glimpse as the beings that they saw are people made of clouds. They were not elementals as elementals take on a streamlined humanoid appearance. The beings that they saw are made of clouds of different sizes even which makes it another new edition to the number of races.

The players were incredibly excited as these three new races are added which means that they can unlock it. There were other worlds that were integrated as well but they were not put on close up unlike the three that were seen. The moons on the main world also increased in number as there are now seven moons that could be seen in the sky.

There is also a snippet but there are now ten suns seen on the universe as well. The players that saw this started to speculate on what would happen to the climate of the main world now that there are more suns and moons on the sky. The players that know of the significance of heavenly bodies could only shudder as that meant that sun gods and moon gods have increased.

The first video that was given the next day already made the players go nuts on the speculations and predictions. The players thought that only one video would be given to them, but they were actually wrong. Another video or rather another teaser was dropped on the second day that the servers were closed.

The next teaser was more mischievous as it showed a world that was not the main world. It was a world where gravity did not exist or rather it was twisted. Shadows of unknown beings with glowing red or purple eyes could be seen. The last bit of the teaser would be a large being that could only be described as a tentacled monster plant hybrid of purple color eating up a black hole. The video ended when that thing swallowed the black hole into its belly where its entire body emitted a powerful light.

The video for the second day ignited the passion of all the players once again but this time they had no clues on what it was. The video itself was full of unknown creatures that they have never seen before. It was only until one player happened to upload a torn up scroll with the image of one of the shadowy beings.

The tattered scroll contained a drawing of a being that looked like an evolved praying mantis and cockroach hybrid standing on two legs. The players were all wondering what the words on the scroll meant as it was another language. Even the player that uploaded the image of the tattered scroll could not decipher the language of the scroll. The player that uploaded it was even asking if someone could decipher what the words say.

Due to this, the players started a frenzy of interpretations on what the being drawn is. A lot of speculations and interpretations happened but only one player could accurately decipher it. It was none other than Adrian as he looked up at the tattered scroll image and immediately stated that it is a Voidian Hunter. A being from the void was already seen even back in ancient times.

"To think that the Void would be teased. Even I am afraid of ever going there due to numerous beings that only know of destruction. Although, the Daemos seem to have their origins on the Void, but I cannot confirm it since even the elders are silent about it." Adrian thought as he scrolled through the comments of the post.

Due to the second teaser being out, the players are now inclined to refresh and refresh the page of Pandemonium in hopes of being the first ones to watch the third teaser. If the webpage of Pandemonium was not traffic proof, then it would have crashed due to the millions of players refreshing every second. The players thought that there would be no third teaser released as the first two teasers was released at 1:00 AM CST.

The players would have stopped waiting if not for the sudden announcement that the third teaser would be delayed by an hour. The players anticipated what the third teaser will be like, but it did not stop the consistent reloading of the site. They really wanted to be the first ones to see what the teaser is about. An hour later, the teaser is finally released which made all of the fandom sit quietly in anticipation.

The teaser opened up to the council of gods which is led by two gods that have distinct auras of death and life. The gods looked like they were verbally debating against one another until the Twin Gods spoke. Each of the words of the Twin Gods made the gods shudder but the players did not know what they were saying since it was in a language that is unknown.

"The Incursion is upon us. The world will no longer be completely safe from the oncoming dark and distorted gods. We must now make a decision on whether to accept the other foreign gods hiding in the world or treat them as an enemy like the others. Remember that descending unto the world would make it even more unstable as it is. We the Twin Gods would seal the universe for as long as we can but that also meant that we would not be able to help should the world come into danger." The Twin Gods spoke.

Chapter 1912 Launch Server Upgrade: Epsilon

The players could only use the hints given to them via the three teasers. What the players were most excited about is the fact that the forms of the gods were seen. They have seen the created body of representation of the gods compared to their true forms. This made players start to spot some gods that are unknown and pray that they can luckily become a champion or an envoy.

The whole Pandemonium community was buzzing on what is going to happen in the game. A lot of players even started to make sure that they become the first ones to unlock the new races that are added. Some players even thought to suddenly search for the clues on the second teaser as they might be a great evil coming to Pandemonium. All in all, the teasers were incredibly effective due to the attention that it got.

As soon as the server signal has started, all of the players are anticipating the new contents inside the game. Some even made sure to upgrade their game pods for a better gaming experience. Even if the game is currently shut down, the game market could still be accessed. The circulation of money in both the real world and the game world did not stop but actually exponentially increased since a lot of players have a lot of spare time.

It is not just the Pandemonium Game Market that increased in sales but also the number of registering users increased. Due to the action movie like video that surfaced about the fight against the two High Goddesses, people that were reluctant to play the game started to flock over. The sudden cool and intense fight scenes ignited the dreams and childish wishes of even the oldest generation.

In fact, even Adrian's parents and grandparents have told him that they will also play in their leisure time. Although each of them had different excuses, they actually wanted to try the game in order to grow closer with their loved ones. Even if they also wanted to play the game since even stoic and hardworking adults want to experience the fantasy of slaying monsters.

Atlas even made sure to have a press conference on the new things that they added. It seems that there would be a small breakdown of changes, but the Atlas Founder said that they would be given the patch notes and server upgrade notes in the game as well. Due to what the creator of Pandemonium said, the players immediately boarded their game pods and waited for the countdown to stop.

Adrian himself is excited about the changes even if there are still some things that are bothering him. He would need to just assess that back inside the game. He has actually reached the bottleneck of Level 350 due to defeating two high goddesses. The experience points might have been shared to a lot of people, but he got a lot from that fight.

[ Reminder! Five seconds left until the Pandemonium servers open.]

Adrian immediately made sure that he was comfortable, and his vision finally faded. When Adrian regained his vision, he was not in his body immediately. He was like a small wisp in a place that floating. When he looked down, the gods were there below him and speaking to one another. Some threw harsh words while some were just minding their own business.

"We can no longer stop the Incursion from happening, but we can make sure that no High Gods from that side will ever step in our universe. Although...that is only a temporary measure." The God of Death Abaddon stated.

"The damage to the world barrier has been done to the utmost extremes. We can only slow it down by sealing ourselves. The inevitable would happen in just three years as High Gods would be able to descend unto the world by then." The Goddess of Life Gaea stated.

"No! You must not sacrifice yourselves." Some of the gods stated as the Twin Gods are basically the protector of the universe and are the ones that police the other gods when they step out of line.

"We shall only be asleep for three years. When we wake up, we shall also be in full power. We shall be ready to fight against any invaders. Nevertheless, we will still have some consciousness from time to time as we will only sleep." The Goddess of Life Luminaria stated.

"So...should any god turn to the other side or help those ruthless invaders, pray that you will not be noticed by our consciousness that will merge with the world barrier." The God of Death Abaddon stated as he intended to warn the gods before him.

The gods are actually afraid because the God of Death Abaddon does not make threats. The God of Death Abaddon gives statements that he always acts upon. His remark made even the thickest faced god become afraid. All the gods that have defied the Twin Gods are in the depths of the godly torture domain of Tartarus.

"We shall protect the world while both of you are asleep." The gods stated but some did not really mean what they said.

"I would only expect as much if you do not want that monstrous god to return to our universe. I have been patient with some of my wayward children, but they have done an inexcusable offense of summoning that thing. Punish all of the Followers of the Dark Gods that summoned that thing. The god that has the most achievement will be granted a favor from me." The Goddess of Life Gaea stated which made all the gods clamor.

The favor that the Goddess of Life Gaea grants is the sweetest nectar that one could ever hear from her. The favor is none other than a creation of a race tailored to you. Basically, the lucky god would be able to create a new life with the Goddess of Life Gaea. It is the ultimate reward a god could have since they could basically create new followers in an instant.

Chapter 1913 Meeting with the Twin Gods

As soon as the Goddess of Life Gaea declared the favor, all of the gods immediately told their worshippers to order a divine decree to destroy all those that called upon the monstrous god from another universe. Some gods even started to create numerous Trial Dungeons to get a prospective Champion. They also told their prophets to no longer hide but preach of their greatness. All of the gods wanted the favor of the Goddess of Life Gaea.

As soon as the gods finished talking, the players' vision shifted to the space view of the new world. Adrian has to admit that the new world has indeed become even bigger. He now dreaded the fact that he has yet to find the needed traces for the racial item to unlock the Daemos. Levin Cloud was actually closer to unlock the Faekin race compared to him.

"I need to do something about the increased land. The Daemos cannot handle everything now that it has expanded to such a degree. Dimension portals to another world has also become a frequent occurrence by the looks of it." Adrian thought as he could see the holes in the world barrier.

Just as Adrian was about to get sent back to his territory as the players could be seen being sent back to the world, he received a message from Levin Cloud. Adrian is about to open the message when a powerful force suddenly shifted his soul to another realm. When Adrian managed to stabilize himself, he was now before the Twin Gods along with Levin Cloud.

"It seems that you did not read my message yet." Levin Cloud stated as he sent a message to Adrian that the Twin Gods wanted to have an audience with us.

"Our Champion and Envoy, welcome once again to our divine realm... Paraiso." The Twin Gods greeted the both of them.

Adrian and Levin Cloud were in the form of chibi souls that are round with some qualities of their avatar mixed in. Adrian's chibi soul avatar has his horns and almost white hair while Levin Cloud's chibi has his stag skeleton head when transforming into his true form. The Twin Gods looked at them with both sadness and happiness.

The Twin Gods are happy that they have a chance to talk to their beloved Envoy and Champion. They are sad because the time that they have is limited because they would essentially seal themselves. The Two Gods looked like parents that are worried for their kids as the two of them will basically be unable to get their support all the time.

"Our Champion and Envoy. Time is short which is why we have come to warn you of what might happen without us always watching over you." The Goddess of Life Gaea stated as she looked worried.

"With us in a sleeping state, we will be unable to block the interference of gods in your active life. If you feel that the weather or the ground itself suddenly is not in your favor, believe that the other gods are messing with you. Especially... our champion who has revealed his other form. The world will be even tougher for you." The God of Death Abaddon stated.

Adrian knew what the Twin Gods are talking about because even he knows that the gods are afraid of him. Even he did not expect that his Chaos Pierrot form would be that powerful. He became powerful enough to toy with a goddess even if she was extremely weakened in that state. The ability to truly extinguish divine beings is frightening for the gods.

Adrian might not know but all of the gods that witnessed his Chaos Pierrot form have told their followers to always investigate him. They were tasked to search for Adrian's weakness that they could use should they be on that other end. Some debated to just erase Adrian from existence as a mortal must not have powers to extinguish a god.

"Thank you for the precautions. I have already known the consequences of my actions since fear is what makes the world move after all. I just hope that the gods would not actively aim for my life as that would be incredibly tedious." Adrian stated which made the God of Death Abaddon laugh.

"See sister. He only said that they are tedious. You are worried too much as I know how good our champion is." The God of Death Abaddon stated.

"Why are you pointing at me brother? You were the one that was shaking of what might happen to them while we are asleep." The Goddess of Life Gaea rebutted.

The God of Death Abaddon was about to say something else, but the stare of his sister made him froze. She was giving the face of 'Do not even attempt to say anything or I will make your sealed time incredibly aggravating'. When the banter of the Twin Gods stopped, they looked at Adrian and Levin Cloud seriously once again.

"We have a task for the both of you." The Goddess of Life Gaea stated.

seriously once again.

"We have a task for the both of you." The Goddess of Life Gaea "We need both of you to hasten the merging of all the worlds." The God of Death Abaddon stated which shocked Adrian and Levin Cloud.

"Both of you are shocked but we have already determined this to be the best course of action. We do not ask for both of you to make sure that all the minor worlds fuse back into the main world. We need the minor realms where the Five Asmodian Descendants reside." The Goddess of Life Gaea stated.

"The energy of those worlds would definitely increase the fighting chance of this universe if they were integrated faster. It is of great luck that both our Champion and Envoy are from the descendants which will make it easier for both of you." The God of Death Abaddon stated but the two could not believe what they are hearing because it was absurd to do. Making the merging faster is also destroying the world barrier.

Chapter 1914 Quest From the Twin Gods

"You seemed worried, but we would use our dormant state to make sure that the other worlds would not be integrated should you start the merging process." The Goddess of Life Gaea stated as she suddenly looked up.

"We have no time left, our champion and envoy. Do what we have told, and you will be rewarded by the Tree of Life and Death in our stead." The God of Death Abaddon stated as he also felt the energy that his sister has felt.

"We do not have anymore time to talk. Please do it for us as we must now prepare for slumber." The Goddess of Life Gaea stated as she waved her hand and both Adrian and Levin Cloud are sent back to their bodies in the main world.

"Wait! We have yet to ..." Adrian stated but he was not able to finish as his soul returned back to the main world.

When Adrian regained his vision, he was now in front of the Tree of Life and Death. He inspected his body, and everything seems to have been fine. A blazing notification screen could be seen to his right as that was the mission given to him by the Twin Gods.

"I do not even have a choice because not accepting would be foolish. There may not be any penalty for failure, but I am sure that they will have other consequences if we do not finish this. A world quest without any penalty is such a scary sight." Adrian stated as he accepted the quest.

[You have gained Luck +1]

Adrian looked at his chat logs and they exploded due to the congratulations for defeating the high goddesses and others. He also looked at his close friend chat and saw that Levin Cloud told him to stay where he is. Adrian then replied that he is at the main altar where the Tree of Life and Death is.

"While I am waiting, I want to ask something." Adrian stated as he turned towards the Tree of Life and Death.

"What is it you want to ask, Champion Equinox?" The Tree of Life and Death replied telepathically to Adrian.

"I am sure that you heard our conversation there in Paraiso since that is where your main body resides after all." Adrian stated but a sudden change in the sky made him look up.

The skies above are suddenly covered in verdant green leaves and an eerie energy of death. As soon as this happened, Adrian heard the prayers of the believers of the Twin Gods as he became another entity entirely. It was not just Adrian that heard the prayers as even Levin Cloud shouted as he thought that he was losing his sanity.

[The God of Death Abaddon has gone to sleep.]

[The Goddess of Life Gaea has gone to sleep.]

[The God of Death Abaddon has chosen you to be his temporary mediator.]

[The Twin Gods have entrusted you and another person to handle their minor tasks.]

[The World Barrier has slowed down the integration of other worlds for the time being.]

[You have received the temporary passive skill 'Whispers of the Dead'. You can now hear all the voices that pray to the God of Death Abaddon and choose to hear their pleas before their mortal life ends.]

[You are now able to create side quests based on the prayers offered to the God of Death Abaddon.]

"Turn off the whispers and keep a log instead." Adrian stated as he is familiar with this due to the fact that he would often sub for minor god of deaths when they were busy with something else.

All of the voices vanished but Levin Cloud could still hear his which made Adrian run to him. Adrian then explained to Levin Cloud what he needs to do. After a very difficult communication, Levin Cloud finally stopped hearing the voices of those that prayed to the Goddess of Life Gaea. It seems that he was chosen as the temporary mediator for the Goddess of Life Gaea.

"Thanks. I thought I was going crazy because I kept hearing things. Why did we become the mediator anyway? There are lots of gods of life and death." Levin Cloud stated.

"There may be lots of them but there is only one that is the most powerful among them. The Twin Gods hold absolute power over life and death because they are the essential beings that created it. The other gods of life and death have either acquired it through ascension or through their births. They still have sway over life and death, but they are not like the real ones." Adrian stated.

"Still, there would be better gods that would fit the bill to become the new mediator." Levin Cloud stated.

"If the Twin Gods chose other gods to be mediators, then that would essentially be giving another god absolute power over life and death. Remember that other gods would not have absolute loyalty to the Twin Gods. Other gods have family members that would want to twist the laws of life and death." Adrian stated which blew Levin Cloud's mind.

"Does that mean that we are now gods!?" Levin Cloud shouted excitedly.

"Nope. We are still mortal, but we do have the power to traverse the other divine realms. We also have the best perk that a being in Pandemonium can have." Adrian stated as he giggled.

"What is that perk?" Levin Cloud asked.

"We can order the Gods of Life and Death around but one must still be responsible. We can order them around and they could do nothing to us. We are untouchables to the Gods of Life and Death for the duration of our mediatorship. Remember that we are only temporary which means that they can take revenge when we are no longer in charge." Adrian stated but Levin Cloud still liked the idea.

"Still, I can now curse at them when I am frustrated. I was always asking favors from some of them, but they always were sassy about it. They always refused me when all I asked was small favors. Are there other perks?" Levin Cloud stated.

"There are. If you choose to create a quest based on the prayers of the people that you have heard, then you will be rewarded with points. The points could be used for anything stat related or even gauge related. I used some of my points to increase my energy gauge maximum output which is why I can use more skills." Adrian stated which made Levin Cloud's eyes light up.

"If I increase my points then I can use them for stat points. I can freely use some forbidden magic as that could be used for payment instead of my own stats." Levin Cloud stated with excitement.

"It is good that you are happy because it will become hell later. Let us move on to the next agenda. The world quest... do you have any idea on how we can complete it?" Adrian stated.

"Nope not a thing. But we do have the world's oldest being to ask." Levin Cloud stated as he pointed towards the Tree of Life and Death.

"I also thought the same as I was about to ask the Tree of Life and Death a question as well, but the sudden sky change and voices in my head suddenly stopped me." Adrian stated as he looked towards the Tree of Life and Death.

"I have heard everything that you talked about with the Twin Gods. Also, Paraiso has now been sealed for days now. I have now moved my main body to this place which is why all of you must protect me even more." The Tree of Life and Death stated.

"We should hold on that thought because that seems to make my head hurt even more. We should focus on the question on how to merge worlds first. The Twin Gods suddenly whooshed us away without any context on how we are going to achieve that." Adrian stated.

"I would not know as well." The Tree of Life and Death stated.

"Come again? It seems that I did not catch that." Levin Cloud stated.

"There has never been the case of worlds merging even from the beginning of time. You would have better chances of asking dark gods." The Tree of Life and Death stated as Adrian and Levin Cloud looked horrified.

Chapter 1915 Hardship and Server Upgrade Notes

"But... but..." Levin Cloud stated as he lost his words because he could not believe what the Tree of Life and Death said.

"Do not lose hope, envoy. Even if I do not know, you have the Champion. The champion himself is of a race that can manipulate time and space with even the mystical element of force bowing down to them. If it is something that has worlds fusing together then the Daemos should be able to do so. They are a race that was birth from the veil of the universe after all." The Tree of Life and Death stated as it used a branch to point at Adrian.

"Magic of that scale is not plausible. I will check with the other elders if such magic is plausible because the Daemos are beings that manipulate and not fuse. The ability to fuse worlds together is already akin to creation magic which the Daemos do not have the ability to do." Adrian stated.

"If it is creation magic then you also have a being close to you that can perform that." The Tree of Life and Death stated as it now pointed to Levin Cloud.

"Creation Magic! Even the Faekin royalty and elders do not attempt that. One must have the power of a planet to even attempt such a thing. By just that standard, I cannot use it because Creation Magic is at the hands of the Gods and Goddesses of Life." Levin Cloud stated.

"Dude!" Adrian suddenly realized something and suddenly hit Levin Cloud's shoulder which made him go off balance.

"First of all, ouch! Second, you should just say it instead of resorting to violence." Levin Cloud stated but he hardly felt it as any damage, but the force did knock him off balance.

"Sorry about that. I was just too excited. Remember! We are the mediators!" Adrian shouted in excitement.

"Okay... I know that we suddenly became temporary assistants, but I do not know what good that has... ha! We are the mediators!" Levin Cloud stated as he also realized why he was suddenly chosen.

"If we combine our strengths then we might be able to pull it off. Since we have the power of gods on demand, we might be able to do it. The power to fuse worlds without them destroying one another might not be an unachievable dream after all." Adrian stated as he suddenly felt that them being mediators are not just the simple whim of the Twin Gods.

"Now that both of you have a path, it is best that you immediately make sure that both of you are prepared." The Tree of Life and Death stated.

"I am still in need of answers though. I want to know what the shard of energy was inside of your body that the Twin Gods have used to fuse together." Adrian stated as he now has another mystery that needs answering.

"That shard would be something that you cannot comprehend yet, young Champion. Perhaps in the future, you might be ready to know about it in detail. For now, it is best that you do not know about it because knowing would also make you a target." The Tree of Life and Death stated.

"I suddenly felt that the idea of asking is suddenly burdensome. Please forget that I asked about it. Also, thank you for your guidance even though you do not have the direct answer. Still, thank you." Adrian stated.

"Thank you as well." Levin Cloud stated as he bowed to the Tree of Life and Death.

Adrian and Levin Cloud went inside the guild house to chat more on what they needed to do. The Tree of Life and Death also went into its subtle hibernation as it also needs to rest. The land that it stands on did increase by 10% which means that it has more land to breathe on.

"Still, Creation Magic is not that easy even with the support of a god or goddess of life. The caster themselves must prove themselves or else the spell might backlash. Creation Spells that backlash basically destroys the spell caster. I hate spells like those because they are even more dangerous compared to forbidden spells." Levin Cloud complained.

"You think linking two worlds together would also be easy? I also need energy on the planetary scale to even do that. It would need all of the Daemos to work together to create a stable permanent portal to another world. What do you think the energy needed to hurl a planet to this world would be?" Adrian complained.

"Wait? Why would you need to hurl the other worlds?" Levin Cloud asked.

"I mean that should be obvious just from the teasers that Atlas released. All the worlds that combined with the current main world also came crashing down on it. The only difference is that the process was natural. The thing that we are going to do is basically inducing the worlds to clash against one another." Adrian stated.

"So... if we screw up then there is a good chance that we not only destroy one world but two?" Levin Cloud stated.

"That should be the general idea. I mean there is a reason why the Goddess of Life Gaea and the God of Death Abaddon warned us to be careful or two worlds would shatter." Adrian stated as he started to read the patch notes and server upgrade while talking with Levin Cloud.

"Are you listening to me?" Levin Cloud asked as he also waves his hand in front of Adrian's face.

"I am but I am also looking at the server upgrade notes and patch notes. Thankfully, my own skill was not nerfed. I always felt that the developers have it out for me because of how I use my skills." Adrian stated.

"You are not the only one that gets nerfed when large fights happen that involve us. Either my healing spells get more cooldown, or they have decreased healing. Some even have their healing factor lowered because I heal too much. I mean... is that not what a priest should do?" Levin Cloud stated as he started to rant once more.

"I mean. The heals that you cast are ridiculous because you can save thousands of people with just one spell. Even I think that you are probably the best priest in the game when it comes to saving others." Adrian stated.

"Says the guy that could manipulate time and space itself with the option of turning into three different beings. If anyone is absurd then that would be you because of the strength of your other forms. Even the other Daemos are not like you as even you are special compared to them." Levin Cloud stated.

"Says the only Leshy or Faekin for that matter to manipulate both life and death energy. You are also a very unique existence even for your race." Adrian retorted.

"Wow! We are both weird." Levin Cloud stated as he suddenly just had that realization now that it was said in front of his face. Even he did not think that he was special compared to other Faekin.

"We both know what we need to do. You must learn and practice Creation Magic that can fuse worlds. I must learn Origin Magic that can hurl worlds. Easy!" Adrian stated but his voice cracked when he stated the last word as he tried to hype himself up. It did not work as much because even he thinks that one year is not enough for him to pull that off.

"Let us just hope that we do not die or erase ourselves from reality in the process." Levin Cloud stated as he told Adrian to do his best and left to go to Alfheim.

"Now that he is gone. It is time to see what I got in my loot." Adrian stated as he pulled a glowing crystal of light even though it was faded.

"Finally! I thought that you would never pull that out. I was dying over here." A tiny voice stated as Adrian remembered that he now has a new companion.

Chapter 1916 Almost Forgot About You

Adrian was able to receive six Fragments of an Unknown Light God when he defeated the two Goddesses of Light. He got four from defeating the Goddess of Light Luminaria and two from the Dark Goddess of Light Zehirete. The small entity, Light, immediately grabbed the Fragment of an Unknown Light God that Adrian took out and devoured it.

As soon as Light devoured the Fragment of an Unknown Light God, its body started to become much clearer than before. It looked pale and ghostly when it landed on Adrian's hands for the first time, but it now looks like a legitimate small being. Adrian looked at Light and saw that it has gained a small pair of light wings.

"Finally! I thought I would become a ghost because you kept the good stuff hidden in another dimension." Light stated.

"You did not even help me defeat them. You are basically eating away my achievements. What you ate is a Fragment of an Unknown Light God. Divine tier items are not easy things to get so you better pay me nicely when you regain your power." Adrian stated even though he actually almost forgot that he had this being to care of now.

"Do not worry because I will. Did you not know that I was a god before?! I will make sure to give you my blessing when I ascend to become a god once more." Light stated.

"What are you the God of anyway? Looking at the energy and your form... you must be a God of Light but what is your name? What were you called when you were a god?" Adrian asked.

"I was the God of Light... god... of ... light ...um... strange... what was my name again?" Light stated as he suddenly looked lost because his memories were not returning.

"You do not even know your name. I also helped a God of the Sun that was in fragments but even he remembered his name." Adrian stated.

"I am unable to remember my name. It is like a thick cloud is blocking my memory. Maybe if I have the other fragments then I might be able to remember." Light stated as he prepared his small hands to receive another Fragment of an Unknown Light God.

"I can at most give you another one. It is impossible for that body of yours to even take in anymore. Even if you were a god before, you are just a spark that has no volume nor depth. If you did not attach yourself to me then you might have fizzled out from the world." Adrian stated as Light is actually considered as a summoned being because it takes mana from himself.

Adrian then gave Light the next Fragment of an Unknown Light God as its small body immediately devoured it. The look of a small being that is the size of a pixie swallowing a crystal that is the size of a watermelon is incredible. The Fragment of an Unknown Light God would actually accommodate the size of Light and minimize itself to his size.

As soon as Light devoured the next Fragment of an Unknown Light God, its body started to gain more energy and its size became bigger. It was the size of Adrian's palm before, but it is now twice that size. It might have only doubled in size, but Adrian could feel that Light has become even more powerful.

[You have gained a Helper by making its constitution solid and fully awakening it.]

[Your helper Light has gained an ability.]

"Helper?" Adrian thought as he did not notice that Light was his helper. There was not even a notification like that before. He proceeded to look back into his logs if there were things that he did not know before.

[You have gained the provisional helper.]

Adrian saw the notification that he received when Light awakened its consciousness. He then maximized the description as there was more details regarding helpers. Adrian did not think that such things were true, but it seems to have been a hidden game mechanic.

[Did you know that helpers were once divine entities that have fallen so low that they are forgotten?]

[A Helper is a beneficial being that can help a player in combat and even any other tasks. It does feed off the mana of the being that awakened it but that is a small price to pay!]

[Grow your Helper back into its original divine stature and you will be handsomely reminded by it. Mistreat your helper and it might curse you if it returns back to its godly state.]

[Players can only have one helper at a time.]

[All Helpers will have different mechanics to return to their godly state.]

Adrian looked at Light and his eyes bulged because the little thing did indeed come from a divine being. He was both happy and sad from the sudden news that he read. He is happy because a blessing of a god could change things for his soulbounds since monsters would need blessings to evolve into higher forms. It is sad for Adrian because it is another troublesome thing to do as returning gods to their godly state should not be easy.

"There is another notification that details the ability that it received." Adrian stated as he clicked on it.

[Your Helper, Light, has gained the ability called Light is Might.]

[All of your attacks and spells will now have a 10% added light elemental bonus damage.]

Adrian actually smiled because a 10% damage bonus huge for him that has hard hitting attacks and skills. Even if there is a fixed element, the elemental damage is just a bonus which means it will just stack with his normal attacks. This meant that Adrian will always deal 10% bonus damage as long as Light is active in the battlefield.

"Light, do you get damaged by other beings?" Adrian asked.

"I am currently tied to your soul which means I die when you die but that also means I get revived when you revive." Light answered as Adrian grinned from such a blessing.

Chapter 1917 Helper Light

"I see then that is good. Tell me, do you remember anything about your godly self?" Adrian asked as he was hopeful.

"I see that you have started to believe me! It seems that I cannot hide my godly magnificence." Light stated.

"Just tell me your name so I can look for clues about your godly self." Adrian stated.

"I do not know." Light stated with a confident attitude, but Adrian stopped himself from smacking the little guy because it was a god before it became like this.

"Did you realize anything at all?" Adrian asked.

"It is still foggy, but I knew that I was a powerful god. Still do not remember my name though which is weird. Maybe if I have some scriptures pertaining to gods of light then I might be able to remember. Also, another fragment would not hurt as it jogs up my memory." Light stated refused to give another fragment as the Helper has yet to stabilize its own energy.

"You are such a greedy being. You might be the Greedy God of Light or something. You have yet to fully absorb the energy of the two fragments that I have given you and you want more. Also, there are no records of old gods of light that are older than the Goddess of Light Luminaria. She destroyed all scriptures pertaining to the gods of light." Adrian stated.

Light suddenly looked sad when Adrian mentioned the Goddess of Light Luminaria, but he perked back up. Light looked at the sky with a melancholic expression. Adrian sighed and thought of something as he suddenly remembered that the Holy Light Capital should still be there.

"There might be scriptures of gods of light hidden in the chambers of the Holy Light Capital. We can start the search there as there might be a clue." Adrian stated as Light suddenly looked like he was sleepy.

"I think I need to rest for now. Call me when I have fully rested." Light stated as it suddenly turned into particles of light.

A tattoo or glyph made of light is suddenly etched onto Adrian's right hand. The glyph was in an ancient language that translated to 'Light'. The glyph itself is Light that became a dormant being that is now resting on Adrian's hand.

[Your helper Light has entered into the dormant state.]

[Your helper would need to rest 24 hours before you can summon it once again in physical form.]

[Any skills or abilities that the helper has will not be affected by the dormant state.]

"At least bonus damage did not vanish when he is in that state." Adrian stated as he went to look for Ark in the guild house.

Most of the guild members set off once again as they have their own quests to finish. Adrian gave Ark a whisper in the chat, and it seems that he was still in the guild house. He was actually recruiting for guild members that can help him. It seems that he has gained a quest to unlock the Nephilim race.

Adrian manages to see Ark and is surprised because there was another NPC there. The beautiful Nephilim Lilith is actually present in the guild house. Adrian did agree for his guild members to bring only trusted NPCs in but some usually shy away from other dimensions.

"Guild Master!" Ark shouted as he waved his hands.

"It seems that all of you have gathered to help Ark on his new predicament." Adrian stated.

"The quest of unlocking a new race is exciting!" Pana stated as he was excited.

"I always wanted to go to adventures!" Basil added.

"Do you guys need an item or is the requirement something else?" Adrian asked.

"Actually, we need... I think Lilith would be the best person to answer." Ark stated as he asked Lilith to explain.

"Nice place you have here, young demon. You have mastered dimensions apparently." Lilith stated as he praised Adrian.

"Thanks, but I have not mastered altering dimensions. I still have a long way to go." Adrian stated as he sized Lilith up.

Adrian could feel that the NPC in front of him is not as strong as a Daemos Elder. She was as strong as some lower elders of the Church of the Twin Gods. Even if she was strong when it comes to force, Adrian did not think that she was weak because she has lived for thousands of years. She must have witnessed the War of the Gods. To Adrian, Lilith was an NPC that is a vast collection of knowledge just like the Daemos Elders.

"You have also gotten an interesting being attached to you." Lilith stated as she could feel the powerful light energy on Adrian's right hand.

"It just attached to me for some reason. So, what do you need to unlock the Nephilim race?" Adrian asked.

"It is not unlocked but more of the world recognizing the Nephilim Race. The Goddess of Light Luminaria had some influence in the world decision because she controlled light back then. She made it so that the world will not recognize the Nephilim Race as an official living being. It is also the reason why the Nephilim Race are not powerful enough.

There have been beings that are from the spawn of angels, but they do not become Nephilim as that essence is restricted by the world. We would need to establish a territory and declare it as a place for Nephilim to live." Lilith stated.

"I see. If that is the case, then why not the land next to the Gate of Hell. The other Kings of Hell suggested that to me when I was in a trance during the summoning of Beelzebub." Adrian stated.

"Devils do not give anything for free though." Lilith stated.

"Well, they told me that they would need to talk with the Chosen Nephilim for the details. Maybe you can start with that first." Adrian stated.

"Thanks, guild master! I thought that I needed to conquer a small village or something." Ark stated.

"You cannot just conquer villages as they are protected by beings called land gods. Even if you kill everyone, it does not mean that the land will be yours." Adrian stated.

Chapter 1918 Parents in the Game

Due to their children's interest in the game, Adrian's parents finally decided that they should also try it. They actually have lots of free time now that their children are adults that take care of themselves. They would like to focus on new hobbies that they could maybe share with their grown children so that they would feel closer to them. One of the ways is for them to play Pandemonium as well.

At first, Adrian's parents told them that they did not want him to play the game even if it was for rehabilitation. They said that the brutal combat of the game would rot his brain or might make him prone to more violence. Such thinking was already outdated though as that is actually not the case if playing games is just a hobby. E-sports played a major role in making sure that the people would not look down on video games compared to when they were first created in the early 21st century.

In fact, Adrian's mother wanted to check if the claims of combat in the game is real. She did notice that her daughter is much better in reflex actions compared to before. She can also tell that the kinesthetic vision of her two children has somewhat increased. She wanted to verify these facts, but she also wants to feel what it is like to fight against monsters.

Adrian's father just wants to spend time with his wife. Although, he is actually curious about the economics of the game since his children did say that they have their own currency in the game. He was interested in how the game uses the ancient currency of gold, silver, and bronze in order to create an economy.

They installed the game pods in an extra room and thanked the installers when they have finished. Two futuristic game pods are now available in their house, and it is due to their curiosity. The two adults entered the game because they also had another agenda. An agenda that was born from the loose mouth of their children.

One night during dinner...

"Mom, I am actually curious, but do you have any adult friends?" Adrian asked.

"Of course, I have adult friends, but they are just busy with their lives which is why they do not visit." Maria, Adrian's mother, replied while stopping herself from choking on water.

"You know that is not a good way to ask a question like that son." Richard, Adrian's father, stated.

"What about you dad? Do you also have friends like real friends and not your business buddies that would backstab you should you suddenly become poor." Mina asked which almost made Richard choke on the food that he was eating.

"I also have friends, daughter. They are also busy and in other parts of the world, but we do have a group chat where we talk with each other." Richard replied but his response was weak at first.

"I see. We just thought that both of you do not have any friends and are worried. I found an article online that adults have a much harder time in making friends. Being friendless in the world is a bit lonely after all." Adrian stated out as he just wanted to have some conversation while having dinner.

"Well, they already said that they have friends so they should be safe. Plus, mom and dad are all over each other that they do not need to spend time with other adults." Mina added to the conversation which has started to make their parents break in cold sweat.

"We do not have any adult interaction. We are not setting a good example to our children!" The eyes of the two parents spoke to each other as they were now in a predicament.

"Our objective in this game is not to enjoy but make friends that are in the same age as us. They said that a lot of people our age is actually playing this game. This is all for our sake. We must succeed!" Maria stated as she looked Richard straight in the eye.

"Maybe you are getting a little bit heated up. Tone it down a little because having interaction is not that easy." Richard replied as his wife does have a tendency of getting riled up.

"You are right! No one wants to interact with a hyperactive woman. Anyways, did you read the guides that our children made for us? I actually found them adorable that they took the time and effort to think about our well being inside the game. What job class are you going to pick, honey?" Maria asked.

"I was thinking maybe I could be a warrior tank! I shall be the one that will absorb all the damage so that you could destroy our enemies!" Richard stated as he suddenly felt excited like a young boy.

"Honey... we both know that you easily flinch even if a bug is about to land on you. Are you sure your mind could take the sudden shift? I am just looking out for you but maybe you should become a mage or a shaman as you are more tactical compared to me. I would do the heavy lifting and become a warrior." Maria stated.

"But I wanted to be tough..." Richard stated.

"Well, it is your choice. The kids did say that you try out other job classes as they say since there is still a training period." Maria stated as she is not one to pressure her husband into doing something that he does not want.

"Do not worry! I will be a glorious shield master that will tank all of the damage! I used to play some RPG games back then, so I also know terms." Richard stated.

Both of them entered the game pods and started their new adventure. Unlike what Richard has promised himself, he did not pass the test to become a shield master because he is easily surprised. He opted for a job class that can deal damage and chose the Shaman job class even though he was not religious himself.

Chapter 1919 Asking the Elder

After Adrian told Ark and the others about what he talked about with the other Kings of Hell, he decided to go to Ascalor since he is the one that should answer his queries on space magic. He found Ascalor leisurely watering the plants outside the elder hall which was just recently finished. Ascalor seemed to be in a good mood since he was whistling.

"Elder Ascalor." Adrian stated.

"Young brat." Ascalor replied.

"I need to ask you about something." Adrian stated.

"If it is about the origin of our race then I guess you now have the right to know." Ascalor stated as he placed the watering can.

"I was actually going to ask about a spell that could fuse two planets together, but your suggestion should go first. Also, should you not be helping the other Daemos? I passed by some of the guards, and they said that a lot of the Daemos are now mapping the newly formed world." Adrian stated.

"I am currently recuperating as I am not yet back to full power. The sudden destruction of the world barrier took such a toll in my body. Bronx and Koronn are doing my duties as we speak while I recuperate." Ascalor stated as he looked around as if seeing if somebody heard him.

"It is fine. Elder Bronx and Elder Koronn are not in Avalon right now. They suddenly went out to do some errands. So, about the origin of our race?" Adrian stated.

"Well, I guess it is now time to tell you." Ascalor stated as he suddenly sprayed water on Adrian's face.

"Hey!" Adrian shouted but he was now in another dimension.

"It is just water so do not be such a drama queen." Ascalor stated.

"Are we in Paradox Planes? Why did you bring me here?" Adrian stated as this place was where he spawned when he became a Daemos.

"It is safer to tell you our origin or rather the Untold Origin of the Five Asmodian Races." Ascalor stated as he became serious.

"Go on then." Adrian stated as he dried the parts of his face that is still wet.

"Just as you are told, the Asmodians were the first creations of the Twin Gods. This holds true because it was the Twin Gods or rather their combined form, the Demiurge, that has created them. Each race was created from different aspects that were found in the start of the universe.

The Asmodian Jotunn were crafted using some of the essence the Prima Elementus. The origin of all the natural elements in the universe. This is also the reason why they have different elements despite being one race. They were the first to be created by the Demiurge.

The Asmodian Faekin were created using the Lex Vitae Mortis. The Law of Life and Death first appeared when the Twin Gods emerged, and they used that power to create beings that can govern them. This is also the reason why the Faekin can either have death or life magic. It managed to pass through the elves, but it was already muddled with the blood of others which is why they are not as proficient.

The Asmodian Selvaggian were created using the Animus. The wild magic that permeated the universe when it was first created. They are the ones that have more in number compared to the others. It seems that the wild magic was indeed something that even the Demiurge could fully control.

The Asmodian Erebian were crafted using the power of darkness hailed from a shard of Erebus which would later become a god as well. They were created using the element of fear as well which is why they have such fearsome forms when darkness comes. They made sure that even the darkness is a comforting feeling despite it being the time of fear.

The last would be the Asmodian Daemos which were crafted using a shard given by the Universe Creator itself. This shard did not have any special features other than it was taken from a place that lies beyond, inside, and outside of the universe itself. The Asmodian Daemos were created using the Shard of the Void.

The Paradox Planes is also our birthplace as well because this is one part of the Shard of the Void. This place was once part of the unimaginable place called the Void until the Chaos ripped it from there. This will also be the place where you can place the Eye of Void or is secretly known as the Eye of Chaos." Ascalor explained which actually blew Adrian's mind.

Adrian already knew that the Asmodians were only called that as a collective group due to their special bloodline. Their descendants only became called as Jotunn, Erebian, Faekin, Selvaggian, and Daemos because they do not have the special blood that differentiated them from their Asmodian counterparts.

"So, Asmodians are just better or higher version counterparts of ourselves? Am I correct in that?" Adrian asked to make sure that what he thought is true.

"You can say that, but Asmodians made sure to call themselves as such because they know that division would ruin them. They were all created by the Demiurge and are equal beings. They all shared a blood pact that they will always be called Asmodians even if their appearances are different because they were the protectors of the universe.

They were the beings crafted from things or concepts that is in the universe itself. Seeing that you are the most different among us due to your hair, it seems that the Asmodian blood in you is a very high percentage. Make sure to never tell others about this as your blood is incredibly important." Ascalor added.

"Well, I am not going around telling the world that I am 90% Asmodian though so that should be fine. I mean my hair is already a big indicator as other Daemos do not have my hair color even the old ones like you." Adrian stated while Ascalor opened his mouth in shock.

Chapter 1920 How is Your Rating?

Adrian left the shocked Ascalor after he was told that there may be a spell that could fuse planets but only Old Man Pann might know of it. Adrian immediately went to the farm area, and he is shocked that there are actually a lot of players doing some farm work. He could see them crying but they were still energetically doing the work.

"It seems that your farmhands have increased, old man." Adrian stated as he could see Old Man Pann lounging and overlooking all the players doing his work.

"Your bulletin is a very nice way to introduce some work to those people that are struggling. Even if they do not do it perfectly, they can still do it satisfactorily." Old Man Pann stated.

In fact, players that arrived in Avalon are going crazy about the quests that Old Man Pann makes. Doing one day of work from him gives one or two contribution points depending on the difficulty. Players are going crazy over the fact that contribution points to this territory can make you a resident and also buy a Pocket Dimension Home.

The Pocket Dimension Home is the best item that one can buy in Avalon, but the necessary contribution points are large. Adrian set it this way because the number of Pocket Dimension Homes are still limited. He needs to increase the area of his territory in order to have more space, but he is happy with the current size. Any bigger territory would be difficult to govern as security would be low since the Daemos are not always present in the territory.

"So, what have you come here for, brat? You do not visit me because you miss me. You need something from me." Old Man Pann stated as Adrian created a soundproof barrier.

"I am in search of a spell that can pull and fuse two worlds together. It is a mission from the Twin Gods before they went to sleep." Adrian stated.

"Fusing worlds? That magic is already at the realm of the gods. You can pull a world from another dimension but fusing them would need the power of life. Only the gods of life and death combined can make that happen." Old Man Pann stated.

"Well, I can solve the issue about the Gods of Life and Death. What I need is a spell. Do you have one?" Adrian asked.

"I do have one, but it is only half. The other half is located in a place that you have visited before." Old Man Pann stated.

"What place? I visited lots of places." Adrian stated.

"Alfheim. The other half is safeguarded by the Fae Council." Old Man Pann stated.

"Why is the other half in Alfheim?" Adrian asked.

"Because the other half of the spell would be cast by a member of the Faekin. Fusing two worlds is not an easy task as there is a lot of energy that needs to be used. In order to get that much energy, one would need a powerful source that can power a planet." Old Man Pann stated.

"A Tree of Life or a Tree of Death. Those trees would have enough power to make the spell activate." Adrian stated as he realized the answer.

"Correct. It seems that my teachings are not wasted on you. You would need to work in tandem with a Faekin in order to attempt the spell. Lucky for you, the Envoy of the Twin Gods is a Leshy and a friend of yours." Old Man Pann stated.

"Then that is good!" Adrian stated as he held out his hand.

"What are you doing?" Old Man Pann asked.

"Asking for you to hand over the spell." Adrian replied but Old Man Pann suddenly laughed.

"Did you think that I will give it to you willingly? You need to earn it just like what I imagine your friend is doing right now." Old Man Pann stated.

"I thought it would have been easy, but it seems that it is not. Tell me what I need to do." Adrian stated.

"This test is not because I do not want to give it to you but to prepare you for the actual spell casting. If you are immature and unprepared then your very existence would be erased from the feedback. You are manipulating energies that are in the realm of the divine." Old Man Pann stated as a notification popped up in front of Adrian.

"What are these numbers!? I do not think even a year would be enough for me to finish this quest." Adrian exclaimed in shock.

Adrian is confident in his spell casting and such, but he knows that the elders are not one to evaluate generously. The Daemos Elders are very strict when it comes to grading the magic proficiency of the Daemos. Adrian would even hear stories of them crying in another pocket dimension as they were strictly rated.

"Since you are already here, maybe you can rate my Origin Magic Proficiency?" Adrian stated.

"I will only rate you once the other elders have rated you. Also, I should warn you that you might have been slacking off and only using the spells that you know too much. You are limiting yourself too much." Old Man Pann stated.

"Since you do not want to rate me, can I at least know what are the factors that can affect the proficiency rating?" Adrian asked.

"It takes in multiple factors such as intelligence, mastery, and even applicational use." Old Man Pann stated.

"Wait?! Do not tell me that I will have to fight the other elder?" Adrian asked.

"It seems that you already have an idea. All young Daemos must be evaluated by the elders personally at least once a year. It also enhances the chances of them becoming a greater demon. You were exempted from this because you are already an Arch Demon. Greater Demons can take their tests once every five years. Arch Demons can take theirs once every twenty years." Old Man Pann stated.

"I am already regretting my decision. Can you not like send me to a difficult quest? Like killing a powerful beast or something?" Adrian asked.

"That would be much easier for you because you are also a summoner. What needs to be tested in the proficiency is that specific element. It is also the reason why we have three elders that specialize in other elements." Old Man Pann stated.

"But why is the rating needed so high? I mean 80% is something close to that of a Grand Master." Adrian stated.

"That is actually just the minimum needed for you to cast the spell that you want. Remember that this is training for you to cast the spell and not just some normal evaluation." Old Man Pann stated.

"Right. Forgot about that part. But why is there a one-year time limit?" Adrian asked.

"I know that you will push it as long as you can if I do not set a time limit, brat. Also, you need to get stronger in a year as well because the gods are observing you more than before. It is already such a drag blocking their vision in this territory.

The barrier that I casted across the territory can detect the peeping eyes of the gods. It seems that your performance with the fight against the High Goddesses have caught their unneeded attention. You would need to at least be that proficient in order to fool the gazes of the gods." Old Man Pann stated as he was informed of what happened to Adrian.

Old Man Pann knows that the Arch Demon before them might not just have the blood of Asmodian. He thinks that Adrian has the blood of an even more ancient being. The descriptions given by the other elders made him think that way.
