

O Summoner 1951

Chapter 1951 How the Legendary Farmer was Lost III

"What should I do? You got to help me!? I will even give you permission to use my crop that you stole." Farmer Vincent stated but Adrian cannot help him, or he might mess up the timeline.

Adrian was about to answer Farmer Vincent, but he suddenly paused as a wave of temporal energy swept the area again. Adrian managed to protect himself from the temporal energy wave by hiding in a pocket dimension, but it looked like he vanished from Farmer Vincent's point of view. Seeing Adrian suddenly vanished made Farmer Vincent think of other ways to save himself.

"My master has told you that he can only save you when you are near death. He cannot deal with your problems that you have created in this time. Your best course of action is to run just like what my master told you." Sirius suddenly stated as he was hiding inside of Farmer Vincent's shadow as he can hide from the temporal energy wave there.

"Who said that?!" Farmer Vincent stated.

"Farmer Vincent! If you do not show yourself then we shall treat this as truth that you have colluded with a witch!" The voice of the paladin leader shouted.

"I am coming but do not destroy anything on my farm!" Farmer Vincent shouted as he heard some of his fences being broken down from the outside.

"They do not want to talk to you. They already have their swords in hand. Escape while you still can." Sirius stated as he was told to not interfere too much with the past.

"I am not listening to a minion of a nature spirit that suddenly vanished." Farmer Vincent stated as he went out of the barn.

As soon as Farmer Vincent walked out of the barn and is in sight, a powerful light magic suddenly came down upon him. Sirius did not bother to protect him as he was told not to interfere but only advise. Even if Sirius did not protect Farmer Vincent, a powerful aura of life suddenly burst out from him and created a barrier made of vines to protect him.

The barrier of vines managed to stop the attack from killing Farmer Vincent, but it also made him feel a bit dizzy. It was his mana that was used to conjure the protective barrier. This was one of the blessings that was given to him by a Faekin.

"RUN NOW!" Sirius shouted to Farmer Vincent to snap him out of his daze.

Farmer Vincent started to run towards the forest while the paladins were still distracted with the sudden appearance of a barrier made of vines. He did not know where to run but just instinctively ran towards the forest as he might be able to hide there for a brief moment. As soon as the paladins noticed that Farmer Vincent was fine, they tried to follow up with him, but their steeds were not moving as if they were rooted on the ground.

"It's the magic of a witch! She must have been the one protecting him!" The real witch stated as she felt shadow magic on the feet of the horses.

"After him!" The leader of the paladins stated as he coated his steed with light magic.

The shadows that held the horses were destroyed as Sirius did not mean to root them there forever. Sirius was told to not interfere, but he believed that giving the farmer a head start will not change much of the present. Seeing the paladins chase after a farmer blessed by forest guardians inside a forest, Sirius waited for his master to return from his pocket dimension.

The real witch was left alone in front of the farm, but she suddenly felt that her eyes become heavy. She tried using her magic and asking for the help of the devil she contracted with but there was no reply. It was only then that the witch learned that she was abandoned as she made contact with the Church of Light. She fell down in front of the farm and slowly died as her life force was sucked away by the crop.

"Master! You are back!" Sirius stated as he clung to Adrian's shadow.

"I needed to stay hidden for a long period of time to make sure. What happened to Farmer Vincent?" Adrian asked as Sirius answered everything as their connection is not solid when Adrian hides in a pocket dimension.

"I see. It seems the past is up to standard. We should also chase after them." Adrian stated as he rode Sirius as they entered the forest.

"Hah! Haa! I did nothing wrong! Why are you trying to kill me?!" Farmer Vincent shouted as he could see the Church of Light Paladins when he slightly looked back.

"What are you saying? We are merely trying to punish a helper of a witch! Do not run if you are not one!" The leader of the paladins stated but he was already seeing red and can only think of the promotion at hand.

The paladins tried their best to chase after Farmer Vincent, but a dense forest is not somewhere horses can freely roam. Another blessing of Farmer Vincent also activated and that is increased stamina regeneration when inside a forest. He did not know that he can outrun horses, but he was thinking it was all his survival instincts that led him to not be captured.

Still, it seems that Farmer Vincent's luck ran out. He was now at the edge of a cliff with the paladins hounding him. The leader of the paladins dismounted but still has his sword up. They knew that this farmer was useful, and they might still get their promotion if they give them the witch that aided him.

"We can strike a deal. Tell us where is the witch that is helping you then we shall let you live. Of course, all your crops will be under our care or else the head of the church will learn of your dealings with a witch." The leader of the paladins stated.

Chapter 1952 How the Legendary Farmer was Found

"I am not in any dealings with a witch! If you are looking for a witch, then that woman that you brought here was the witch! She tried to curse me, but it backfired on her because I am protected by nature spirits!" Farmer Vincent stated to prove his innocence.

"I believe you." The leader of the paladins stated.

"Really! Thank goodness." Farmer Vincent stated but he noticed that the paladins were still gripping on their swords.

"If you believe me then why are you still pointing your swords at me!" Farmer Vincent stated.

"I might believe you, but we must put that woman to trial to make sure. What if you are not telling the truth? We must detain you in order to make sure. Well, we might set you free if you pledge to the gods that your crops will solely belong to us." The leader of the paladins stated.

"You! I thought people of the church should not be greedy but all of you are like that pig of a noble!" Farmer Vincent shouted.

"It seems that I need to cut your tongue in order to make you more subservient!" The paladin leader stated as he swung his sword toward Farmer Vincent's chest in order to scare him.

The leader of the paladins knew that he can just heal the farmer later, but he did not expect the sudden appearance of the barrier of vines. The leader of the paladins was shocked to the point that he was unable to control his strength. The force of the swing made the vines push Farmer Vincent back which made him teeter towards the edge.

"No!" Farmer Vincent stated as he started to feel weak as his mana was still used to create that vine barrier.

In the end, Farmer Vincent was unable to push his body up. He fell down the cliff with his head full of remorse. Farmer Vincent finally started to cry like a teenager as his bravado was all a front to make him look stronger. In the end, he can see the rocks below as his cause of death.

"I do not want to die! Quin... help me!" Farmer Vincent shouted with what he can muster as he was running out of breath.

"If you give me permission to use your crops then I might help you." Adrian stated as he suddenly made time stop with only him and Farmer Vincent suspended in the air.

"Who? What are you?!" Farmer Vincent suddenly blurted out as he was still in his falling position, but he can now easily speak.

"What I am is not important. What important is that you give me the permission and I will help you. Or you can plunge to your death just like what happened or rather what is about to happen." Adrian stated.

"Fine! I will give you permission to use my crops! Just save me!" Farmer Vincent stated as he started to cry.

[The seal on the Stalk of Golden Wheat Harvested in the First Sunlight has been released.]

[You can now use items that are created by Farmer Vincent.]

"Thank you. Dodu, please replace our customer." Adrian stated as he summoned Dodu.

Dodu appeared out from the magic circle in a smaller form and injected one tentacle into Farmer Vincent's body. Dodu collected a few drops of blood from Farmer Vincent and started to mimic his entire body and even his outer wear. Adrian casted an anti-gravity spell on Farmer Vincent and also turned him into a spirit.

Dodu resumed the position that Farmer Vincent had and gave a thumbs up to his master. Farmer Vincent did not know what is happening. Adrian also told Sirius to be ready as he is also part of the act.

"Now all you need to do is stay and watch what happens." Adrian stated as he resumed time.

Dodu shouted with the same voice as Farmer Vincent and made a splat sound when it fell on the ground. The paladins looked over the cliff and saw the 'dead body' of Farmer Vincent. They wanted to retrieve his body which is why they are about to mount their horse, but Sirius howled.

"He died just like that. It seems that he is not a witch' helper." The leader of the paladins muttered.

The paladins suddenly saw a large wolf monster swallow the body of Farmer Vincent before disappearing into the forest. The leader of the paladins can only lament that they cannot get evidence of a witch but remembered what Farmer Vincent told them. They hurried to look for the cursed woman that led them to the farm as she was indeed a witch.

[You have produced a time anomaly.]

[Calculating the effect on the timeline should Farmer Vincent live...]

[Detected major changes in the timeline should Farmer Vincent live.]

[Danger of existence will be purged by the Time Wraiths in an hour.]

"Wow! They are gone. Thank you so much!" Farmer Vincent stated but he saw that Adrian was incredibly serious.

"What are you planning to do now?" Adrian asked.

"I can just assume another identity and go to another territory to live quietly. Maybe even start a family." Farmer Vincent stated.

"I am sorry, but you cannot do that because Time Wraiths will kill you in an hour if you do something like that." Adrian stated.

"Time Wraiths? What are those?" Farmer Vincent asked with a worried expression.

"They are scraps of fallen time gods that make sure that the timeline is preserved. I do not want to tell you this, but this is the past and I am a being from the future of this timeline. I can kill you myself but that would leave a bad taste in my mouth." Adrian stated.

"Kill me! You helped me live and now you want to kill me? Are you a demon!?" Farmer Vincent exclaimed.

"Yes, I am a demon. And even if I do not kill you, the Time Wraiths will. So, you should keep quiet while I think of a way." Adrian stated as Farmer Vincent started crying again.

Chapter 1953 The New Farm Help

"Elder Pann, I am here as I accepted your notice for help." One of the players that resides in Avalon stated as he was usually the first that accepts the quest to help the farm.

"Hurry up and feed the Capricorns then." The Old Man Pann stated.

"Huh? There was someone earlier than me? Is he new here, elder? I do not recognize him." The player asked.

"Ah! I forgot to tell you, but that brat will be my new farm hand. He will be dealing with the crops here so you should ask him where the feed for the Capricorns is." The Old Man Pann stated.

"Oh! I guess he would be second in command in this place then. What is his name so that I can greet him?" The player asked.

"You can just call him, Vince. That brat is very foul mouthed so do not let his foul mouth discourage you." Old Man Pann stated as he went to look after the other farm monsters.

"I am going to die!!!" Farmer Vincent stated as he cried out loud which irritated Adrian.

"If you do not shut up and stop crying then I will make sure that you really die. If you want to die in the vacuum of space, then make more noise." Adrian stated as he was thinking about a plan to help the farmer that he changed the future for.

"Future?! Why did I not think about that? Maybe it would be feasible!" Adrian suddenly shouted as if he suddenly got a bright idea.

"Did you think of something? Am I not going to die?" Farmer Vincent asked.

"I have thought of something, but I do not know if you would survive the trip." Adrian stated.

"So... I am still going to die. Wahhhh!" Farmer Vincent cried out loud.

"Dodu, can you shut him up?" Adrian stated as Dodu jiggled and wrapped Farmer Vincent's mouth with a small copy of itself which prevented him from speaking.

"As I said, I am from your future. The only way to help you not die is to send you to the present with me. If I leave you here in the past, the Time Wraiths will find you and kill you. Nod if you can understand." Adrian stated as Farmer Vincent nodded even though he cannot still wrap his head around the idea of him living in the past.

"Paradox, prepare the temporal portal. Make sure to increase the output as we have someone with us." Adrian stated.

"Affirmative, master. There will be a 10% chance that Farmer Vincent will get lost in the time stream but there no more other than that." Paradox stated as a portal suddenly appeared in front of them which amazed Farmer Vincent.

"Make sure to cling to me as hard as you can. You might die if you do not." Adrian stated and Farmer Vincent clung to him like a koala.

"Let's go!" Adrian stated as he jumped into the temporal portal, and it closed.

"Huh?! I think I just missed it. I sensed that Temporal Anomaly here but it suddenly vanished." Elder Koronn stated as he arrived at the location where Adrian and Farmer Vincent were a few second after they entered the temporal portal.

"This ride will be rough." Adrian stated as he clutched Farmer Vincent since the human mortal passed out when they entered the time stream.

Adrian expected that there might be Time Wraiths suddenly popping out and trying to kill them, but he was shocked that there were none. Since no danger was present in the time stream, Adrian managed to reach the present without anomalies. Well, he was already carrying a time anomaly to begin with, but he was hoping that would change.

[You have arrived at the present.]

[You have created a time anomaly known as Farmer Vincent.]

[Calculating the effect on the timeline should Farmer Vincent live...]

[Detected no major changes or minor changes in the timeline should Farmer Vincent live in the present time.]

[The Time Wraiths will no longer look for the Time Anomaly known as Farmer Vincent.]

[You have achieved something great and achieved the title, 'I brought a Time Anomaly'. Mastery over temporal magic has increased slightly.]

"I did not think that it would actually work!" Adrian stated as he looked at Farmer Vincent.

"Blegh!" Farmer Vincent reacted by puking all of the things that he ate.

Adrian was about to say something, but he suddenly had a flood of memories enter his mind. It was not his memory but the memory that he erased when he brought Farmer Vincent from the present. It was the memory of the world about what truly happened to Farmer Vincent.

Just like what happened earlier, Farmer Vincent ran towards the forest, but it was his other blessing that helped him avoid the paladins and not Sirius. He still fell off the cliff as he did not know that the woman that was cursed was a witch. Just as he was about to die, he managed to activate all of his nature blessing, but he was still destined to die.

Instead of dying physically, Farmer Vincent offered his life to nature. He became part of nature's energy as his body turned into particles of light. Farmer Vincent of the past did die but he did not die from falling which is why Adrian could not find his body even with a death ritual.

"No wonder the book of the dead did not have his name. Even his soul was given to nature itself." Adrian muttered.

"Are we in the future?!" Farmer Vincent asked.

"No... this is the present. Anyways, do not ask for the details as you would just get a headache." Adrian stated.

"I already have a headache when I arrived here." Farmer Vincent stated.

"Anyways, you need a place to stay, and this is my territory. I have just the person to hire you as you would not get a job here without any credentials after all. Follow me to the farm of Old Man Pann." Adrian stated.

Chapter 1954 The Time Anomaly

Adrian managed to introduce Farmer Vincent, who is now known as Farmhand Vince, to Old Man Pann. They needed a new identity for the young kid as he needed a fresh start. Although the name is almost the same, no one in the fallen empire lived which is why he is safe. The only possible beings that could remember him would be the Faekin, but they are recluse and do not interact with much of the world.

"You have brought a weird one here, brat. Why did you bring a time anomaly here?" Old Man Pann asked when Farmhand Vince was told to tend to the feed of the capricorns.

Adrian then started to explain to Old Man Pann on why he did such things. Seeing that they were not being hounded by time wraiths meant that they are safe in this present time. There would be no cause of disruption in the present time as the future is not yet certain. A rule of the Daemos is to never travel to the future as there is not a definite one unlike the past.

Future knowledge is also more dangerous than past knowledge. If one travels to the future, then they would immediately be hounded by time wraiths. Even Elder Koronn is forbidden to go there as the risk is far too great.

"I felt it here. Strange?! I felt this anomaly back then, but I do not know when." Elder Koronn stated as he brought the other elders.

"Young brat! Explain that!" Elder Ascalor exclaimed as he pointed at Farmhand Vince.

"Again? My mouth is already tired from explaining it to the old man. Short version, that person is a legendary farmer that I saved from his timely death. I sent him to the present because he would be executed if I did not bring him. I needed to go to the past for an item to create a holy relic as that thing is no longer available in the world." Adrian stated.

"Are you sure that there would be no time wraiths?" Elder Bronx asked as he was making sure that his senses are in full throttle should a time wraith suddenly burst inside of the territory.

"Nope. I made sure that nothing would happen or else I would have killed him myself. You do know that I am not someone that likes any future troubles visiting me." Adrian stated.

"I also did my scan and there is no occurrence of a temporal break event. Such a fascinating thing! Maybe I can do what you did as well..." Elder Koronn muttered as he suddenly started to think of other individuals he wanted to save.

"Do not have any ideas, Koronn. The brat must have lucked out in the circumstances. Any reproduction of what he did might endanger the timeline. He is lucky that there would be no major or minor changes with the being that he saved but that would not be possible again." Elder Ascalor stated.

[The Fates have sensed that you have done something to a person with an already designated fate.]

[The Fates are summoning you to their divine realm for further deliberation.]

"Huh? Why am I being summoned by gods?" Adrian stated as his soul suddenly got sent to the divine realm of the Fates.

The three elders tried to do something to help him, but a special barrier was created around Adrian's physical body. His soul might have been sent elsewhere but the physical body must be protected. An audience with the Fates is also something that is sacred as they rarely summon beings to them as they do not interact with others even the gods of their own factions.

[Your soul has been sent to the Secret Realm Hidden in Hades.]

"Welcome, Mediator Equinox." Three old women that were spinning thread could be seen in front of Adrian.

"The Mediator of the Gods of Death greet the Fates." Adrian stated as he bowed.

"At the very least he is polite." One of the Fates stated.

"Still, he changed the destiny of one mortal." Another added to the conversation.

"He created something new which made our boring tasks a bit more exciting." The last one stated.

"I know that you have called me because I have changed the destiny of one of the mortals. Did I do something to offend the Fates?" Adrian asked as he gulped as offending the Fates is like offending the future.

"We do not know what to do with you as you broke destiny but also created a new one." The first of the fates stated.

"Punishment must be made or else he would do it again!" The second of the Fates exclaimed.

"Forgive her. She is just cranky because we saw another destiny unfold before our very eyes. Still, I believe that a warning should be placed on Mediator Equinox." The third of the Fates stated.

"We shall vote then. Huddle up sisters." The first of the Fates stated as they suddenly started to whisper to themselves.

The Fates were actively debating on what to do with Adrian, but they did not stop what they were doing. They were pulling thread, untangling knots, or cutting the thread with shears before they process a new thread bundle. They finally stopped whispering to each other after an hour of talking which made Adrian drowsy.

"We have decided to just give you a warning for now, Mediator Equinox." The first sister of the Fates stated.

"We are warning you to not do it again or the thread of destiny would come for your soul. You would not be excused even if you are a blessed child." The second sister of the Fates stated.

"Changing the past is something that should not happen. Even the gods of time are not allowed to do something like that. You might destroy reality itself if you are not careful." The third sister of the Fates stated with a smile.

"I shall heed the commands of the Fates. This will never happen again." Adrian promised.

Chapter 1955 Some Kind of Punishment

"You have been warned of the consequences of your action." The first sister of the Fates stated.

"But you must still be punished or rather must be trained." The second sister of the Fates stated.

"You need to be trained for the battle that is to come. Take it as a punishment meant to train you."
The third sister of the Fates stated.

[The Fates are giving you a way in order to become stronger to train the Mediator the Gods of Death.]

"Take the test once you are ready. It will start automatically after five hours." All of the Fates stated as they returned Adrian's soul back to his body.

[You have returned to your body.]

[The Trial of Time shall start in five hours automatically.]

[You are able to start the Trial of Time now.]

[Do you wish to do the Trial of Time?]

"Not for now. I have got to prepare." Adrian replied as he finally regained consciousness in his physical body.

Adrian was currently upside down in the middle of the Elders Council Building in Avalon. The three elders were talking about something when Adrian woke up. They wanted to check where his soul flew off to, but they already felt the energy of the Fates and backed down. There are some gods or goddesses that even the elders do not want to meet, and the Fates are one of them.

"What did you do this time that angered the Fates?" Elder Ascalor asked.

"It is due to the Time Anomaly, but they said that it is not something major. I am spared from getting deleted from reality if you are asking. Although... they told me that I need to partake in the Trial of Time. Does any of the elders know about this?" Adrian stated.

All of the three Daemos elders shuddered when they heard what trial Adrian was supposed to do. They were relieved that he did not anger the Fates, but they have imposed a trial on Adrian. They know of the Trial of Time but the format changes for every entity. It is not a trial that has fixed details as it is not set in stone, but it is incredibly difficult.

"The one that can tell you of it in general would be Koronn. He is the only one among us to clear the entire trial. More like he needed to clear the trial as he was told to complete it in order to avoid punishment for entering the River of Time." Elder Bronx stated.

"You mean he was the only one that was able to complete it because he was a master of temporal magic. It is basically a trial that gives you foresight in Temporal Magic and even may give you the power to use the most powerful of the Time Magics. It was the first time that I saw Koronn so determined since he needed to clear the trial." Elder Ascalor stated.

"Even I cannot tell you what is in the trial that will be given to you. You can even consider it as a light punishment as you were not told to pass the trial. Am I correct?" Elder Koronn stated.

"You are right! The Fates only told me to undergo the trial and not to complete it, but they did say that this trial is meant to train me for something." Adrian stated.

"If the Fates themselves have told you that this is akin to training to you, then you must pass the trial whatever it takes. The Fates are beings that do not merely say something because they are amused. They can see everything that is past, present, and even the future." Elder Koronn stated as it was also the Fates that imposed him to complete the trial in the first place.

"The Fates told you that it is training then we are the ones telling you to complete the Trial of Time. You need to do this in preparation of what is to come in your future." Elder Ascalor added.

"Okay then. I suddenly feel the burden stacking up and making it incredibly difficult. What do I need to prepare for the Trial of Time? I am still in the process of creating a holy relic for a goddess." Adrian stated.

"You do not need to prepare anything but yourself. Regarding your quest to create a holy relic for a goddess, it is best that you already give the items to the blacksmith. It will take you at least a week to complete the Trial of Time." Elder Bronx stated.

"I wish you started with that! Thank you for the guidance!" Adrian stated as he immediately vanished to go to the blacksmith that will help him create the holy relic.

[Mother's Day Short]

"Delivery for the madam." One of the helpers stated as there was a box addressed to Adrian's mother.

"I did not order anything though. Maybe the other's ordered it. Thank you." Adrian's mother stated as she accepted the package that is about a foot tall and wide.

"I guess I should check since it already passed the initial sensor check at the gate. Huh?" Adrian's mother stated as she unpacked the item.

"Ah!" Adrian suddenly exclaimed as that package was supposed to be for him, but it was his mother that accepted it. It was supposed to be his gift for the upcoming Mother's Day.

"What is this? Why is it even modeled after my face? To the fierce mother that is like a tiger. Happy Mother's Day." Adrian's mother stated as she unveiled a figurine with her face, but the body is like an anime tigress beast man. The tone of her voice is flustered but he could hear level 1 anger when she read the message at the bottom of the figurine.

"Whoa! That figurine is so cool, mom! I think dad was the one that ordered that for you." Adrian stated and his father suddenly entered the living room while yawning.

"Cool figurine." Adrian's father stated.

"You were the one that had it custom made though. Your son is a witness." Adrian's mother stated with a smiling but not smiling face.

"Yeah! I remember dad describing you as her lovable tiger. Such great inspiration!" Adrian stated as he slowly exited the living room and returned to his room.

His father, on the other hand, had to explain the figurine to his mother even though he was the one that initially thought of the idea. Adrian was just the one that found the artist to customize the figurine. He did not think that it would turn out that way as his initial vision was her smiling mother sitting near a tiger.

"Happy Mother's Day... I guess. I should tell the artist to create another one that is what I intended from the beginning." Adrian stated as he prayed that his father will be fine as her mother is completely embarrassed from seeing the posture of the figurine acting like a cute tiger beast woman.

"Son! Come down here and explain something your father is telling me." Adrian's mother stated with a rather calm voice as it seems that his father managed to soothe the anger reaction from embarrassment of her mother.

Chapter 1956 Changes in the Northern Continent

Adrian arrived at the entrance of the cave of Aurgelmir and saw that the entire cave structure has changed as well. He could still feel the cold air of the northern continent but the hot steam coming out of his smithy would combat the cold air. Due to the clash of hot and cold winds, powerful twisters are always brewing near the cave entrance.

The numerous twisters became a natural barrier that prevented others from carelessly walking inside the smithy of a demigod. Adrian can also see that there are more mana traps installed in the walls of the cave. This might be done by the Ice Queen Elona of the Northern Continent.

Adrian immediately flew toward the center of the smithy where the demigod blacksmith is. He dodges and carefully snuck past every trap that was laid out. He made sure not to trigger the traps or else the old man might be angry at him. Setting up traps would take time out of his precious smithing time and cuddle time with his betrodden.

"You are here again." Aurgelmir stated as soon as Adrian arrived at the center of a large smithy where magma flowed like water.

"It is nice seeing you again as well, Old Man Aurgelmir. It seems that the Ice Queen Elona is not here which means you are crankier than your usual crankiness." Adrian stated.

"What do you want, demon brat?" Aurgelmir asked.

"I need to commission something from you. I need to you to create a holy relic for a goddess that I am helping who is also helping someone that I am helping." Adrian stated as he almost bit his tongue from the words that he told.

"A holy relic? That is new. I never thought that gods would beg mortals for help. I guess even they want to easily descend unto the world." Aurgelmir stated.

"So... will you, do it? I do have money to pay you for the price of crafting a holy relic." Adrian stated.

"I do not need money, young brat. Instead, I need your help with something as I am in need of aid." Aurgelmir stated.

"I am listening. Please tell me more." Adrian stated as he was glad that he did not need to pay with gold coins as a holy relic is basically a hundred thousand gold commission at the very least.

"My beloved... the Ice Queen Elona has been having trouble with a few beings that are intruding in the north. Do you know of the Asgardians?" Aurgelmir stated.

"I am pretty familiar with them as I have a few run-ins with some of their gods. They are a very sly bunch if I do say so myself." Adrian replied.

"I see that you hate them as well. I guess we have something in common now." Aurgelmir stated.

"Huhh? What did they do to you though?" Adrian asked.

"Never mind what they did to me as that is not what is important. Some scoundrels that are proclaiming that they are Neo Asgardians are creating portals for other Asgardians to pass through to this world. I want you to destroy all passages that they call Temporary Bifrost that is near my beloved's kingdom.

She had barely enough time to sleep and eat with me as those pesky Asgardians are trying to raid her lands. The northern continent has already suffered a lot of attacks when the angels came and have banded together. We finally achieved some sort of peace, but the Asgardians are attempting to ruin it. Can you help me?" Aurgelmir stated.

"Sure! I also hate them, so it is a win-win situation for the both of us." Adrian replied.

[You have accepted the quest.]

Quest Name: Destroy the Temporary Bifrost

Quest Difficulty: A

Quest Description: Aurgelmir has told you that he wants to spend quality time with his beloved but the Asgardians are ruining it. Destroy the Temporary Bifrost that were installed inside of the the Ice Queen Elona's territory. Help the demigod blacksmith in spending quality time and he will treat you better.

Failure: Aurgelmir will not give you the finished product and might scold you until your ears fall out.

Duration: 3 days

Restriction: Only the person that is doing the quest can receive the quest.

"Give me the items to create the holy relic and come back in three days." Aurgelmir stated as he held out his hand.

Adrian gave out the items needed for the holy relic and told him that it is for the Goddess of Life Demeter. He also said that the goddess did not care what the holy relic looks like as long as it is created with sturdiness and power in mind. Aurgelmir nodded and is satisfied with the raw materials as any good blacksmith can create a holy relic with these items as long as they are careful.

"I am going now." Adrian stated as he saw Old Man Aurgelmir facing his forge and creating the holy relic.

"There are five Temporary Bifrost, but I was not given the location where they are. I guess I need to talk to the Ice Queen Elona for some guidance as she might have already marked those five."

Adrian muttered to himself as he teleported to the kingdom of the Ice Queen Elona.

Adrian attempted to appear outside the ice castle, but it seems that even the ice castle was expanded. He directly appeared in the middle of the audience room of the queen. He also met an unexpected person there which made his heart skip a beat.

"So nice of you to join us, Champion Equinox. I did not know that you were coming here. You even bypassed my teleportation canceling magic circle. I guess the magic circle is not enough to defeat the masters of spatial magic like demons, but I would like to at least make sure that they cannot intrude in the audience hall.

Tell the palace mages that they need to upgrade the teleportation canceling magic circle. If they do not upgrade it by the end of the day, then tell them that their vacation time will be cut down for a day of being late." The Ice Queen stated to an attendant and the latter immediately went running towards the door.

"Sorry about that. It seems that I made some trouble for your people." Adrian stated.

"Do not worry about that as there is no better way to test that spell than a demon. I should even say thank you, but it seems that you are here for other things. Is it the Valkyrie perhaps?" The Ice Queen Elona stated as she noticed the tension between the two people in her audience room.

"Uhhh... Ahaha... Actually, I am here on a quest given by the old man. He told me that you needed some help in destroying the Five Temporary Bifrost that was laid down in the territory. I was hoping that you would know the location of each so that I do not need to look for them. I was only given three days to complete it." Adrian stated.

"He is such a caring person that it warms my frozen heart. Teehee." The Ice Queen Elona stated with a smile which was different from her usual cold demeanor.

"I was also having difficulty with those things as I did not know how to destroy them as well. We have the location but destroying them is another thing since they seemed to be etched into the very ground itself. Even destroying the ground does not diminish its use which is why we have called upon the help of a Valkyrie." The Ice Queen Elona stated.

"As I was about to say, your majesty. Even we, Valkyries, are unable to destroy them but we can call upon the power of our gods to do so. We can sense the Temporary Bifrost as it is made of energy from Asgard itself. We are familiar with that energy, but we cannot destroy them. We apologize for our lack of ability." Frey stated as she was the one chosen to speak to the Ice Queen.

"I cannot blame all of you as you have also aided us in defending the kingdom from those usurpers. If only we can destroy them then their army of reinforcements would be pushed back." The Ice Queen Elona stated.

"I can destroy them if you want. The Bifrost might be impossible for me as of now, but a Temporary Bifrost might be doable since it is weaker. Did you all forget that a demon is a master of spatial magic? The Bifrost basically operates on decoded spatial magic which means I can manipulate it or destroy it if I am powerful enough." Adrian stated with confidence even though he is not entirely sure.

Chapter 1957 Temporary Bifrost I

"If that is the case, your new mission from us would be to escort Champion Equinox to the five locations of the Temporary Bifrost." The Ice Queen Elona told Frey.

"Uhm... sure I can absolutely do this your majesty." Frey replied as if she was also caught off guard from the sudden change of quest.

"I am absolutely sure that the both of you can complete it as Champion Equinox has never failed me yet. If he fails me then he will not be invited to the wedding." The Ice Queen Elona stated.

"That is such a harsh punishment for failure, grandma." Adrian stated which shocked Frey as she never seen anyone call the most powerful queen in the northern continent 'grandma'.

"Well, if you do well then you would be reinvited to the wedding. Also, I cannot plan the wedding because some troublesome gods are trying to destroy my kingdom. I cannot have that now, do we?" The Ice Queen Elona stated.

"Fine. I will help you, grandma. Just make sure that you still have that Ice Jelly in the reception. I want to taste that again." Adrian replied with a smile which also made the frosty ice queen laugh.

"I leave the young brat to you, Valkyrie. He will surely be of help to you, and I have the feeling that both of you already know each other." The Ice Queen Elona stated.

"Thank you for your benevolence, your majesty." Frey stated as she bowed before exiting the room.

"Nice seeing you again, grandma! You are surely glowing." Adrian stated as he also went out of the audience room.

"I did not expect someone was bold enough to call the Ice Queen Elona as grandma. I thought that you would become a frozen corpse." Frey stated as she only knew of the frosty attitude of the ice queen.

"She is actually very nice when you talk to her. Also, she might look frosty, but she is actually one of the people who has the warmest heart in the cold northern continent. It was quite the surprise to see you here as I thought the Valkyries are busy in the northern continent." Adrian stated.

"It is great to see you as well. We were busy with things such as the sudden arrival of other Asgardians through the Temporary Bifrost. Unfortunately for us, we are not masters of spatial magic. We might have used the Bifrost before but that does not mean we can disable it or destroy it." Frey stated with a smile.

"Well, at least you can still smile through the exhaustion. It means that there is still hope which I quite like." Adrian stated with a smile as well.

"Anyways, why are you here? I thought you said that you would help one of your merchant friends?" Frey stated.

"I am helping him. It just so happens that one way to help him is to create a holy relic for a goddess." Adrian stated as he told Frey what he was doing and why he was in the northern continent.

The two could be seen happily chatting with each other as if they were in their own world. The two seem to know what each other is doing but not to the extreme level of detail. They only know the general actions of one another as they are still in the getting to know phase. Still, both of them suddenly felt a bit warm in such a cold and frigid environment.

"Is it done?" A hooded person asked.

"The installation is not yet complete. The workers are already extremely tired from creating the initial markings. It might take us four hours to complete this one." Another hooded person stated.

"Hurry up as we need to complete the needed Temporary Bifrost or else we will not get paid. Delay any more than this then it might cost us our life. Did you know what happened to the third team that was delayed by a day? They were sacrificed to feed the energy needed to power it up." The hooded person stated.

"We will make sure that we are on track! Even if the slaves die, we will finish it within the next hour." The hooded person replied as he is also afraid to be sacrificed to power up the Temporary Bifrost.

In the distance, one could see a hundred slaves carrying specified blocks of soil. They were pushing this soil down into the ground with all their strength. Once the specified block of soil is pushed down, the ground would suddenly illuminate with unknown energy. Sometimes this unknown energy would permeate upwards and afflict the slave.

Once affected, the slaves would either pass out from shock or suddenly spasm uncontrollably. The other slaves became afraid, but they could not defy the orders of the ones that have enslaved them. A black collar made of unknown material has bound them to forever follow the orders of their masters.

The slaves were of different origins as some were not even from the northern continent. They were definitely slaves that were illegally sent here as the vast part of the northern continent no longer did slavery. The Ice Queen Elona and the other war chiefs of the northern continent abolished it since they now face a bigger threat. The northern continent has become more dangerous than before as it is the first continent where a Primordial Beast awakened.

"What are you all doing?! Get back to work or all of you will be killed!" One of the hooded individuals shouted.

Adrian and Frey were busy catching up and also talking about how the sudden change in the northern continent happened. He also asked how Frey is and her new home base here in the north as it seems that they now operate in the kingdom of the Ice Queen Elona. He was about to ask Frey to join his guild when a notification suddenly popped up which made him feel that something bad was about to happen.

[Another Temporary Bifrost has been created. Quest details have been updated.]

"This is not good." Adrian stated as he looked at his quest and it now tells him to destroy six Temporary Bifrost instead of the original five.

"What was that?! It cannot be! Do not tell me that they are still making more!" Frey exclaimed as she also felt the sudden wave of energy that covered the kingdom as it was familiar to her.

"Frey! This is bad! Another one has been created. The other sisters have already gone to the other five locations that were discovered." A Valkyrie that was stationed as the guard for their base stated as she hurried over to Frey to deliver the information.

"I also felt it, sister. I will go to the newest location." Frey stated.

"It would be dangerous sister. You should wait for the others after they subjugate the ones guarding the other five locations." The Valkyrie stated.

"I am not alone, sister. I will be coming with my friend." Frey stated as she gestured towards Adrian and the latter raised his hand to wave at the Valkyrie.

"I am not convinced that one demon would be enough to help you, sister. It is still too dangerous. I am not looking down on your valiant demon friend but there might be Asgardians there as well." The Valkyrie stated.

"Sorry to interrupt but I know it is dangerous. I was also given a quest by her majesty and her beloved. I will go to the location even without Frey as I was given a mission. It will surely ease my burden if Frey comes along with me. Also, I am not just a demon but an Arch demon." Adrian stated as he knows that time is of the essence.

"I apologize, Sir Arch Demon. I am just caring for my sister." The Valkyrie stated as she might have said a phrase that disrespected Adrian.

"You do not need to apologize as I did not take much offense. I am merely hinting that we need to move immediately as I can feel the powerful spatial energy pulse coming through. They might be activating all the Temporary Bifrost near the kingdom." Adrian stated as his senses for spatial energy was through the roof.

"Sister! Inform the other sisters immediately as they might not expect that they will engage in a battle where the enemy has reinforcements coming." Frey stated as she did tell Adrian that there was no use of the Temporary Bifrost for the past ten days.

"I will! Be careful, sister. To Sir Arch demon, please take care of my sister." The Valkyrie stated as she immediately rushed to deliver a magical message to each of the five Valkyrie groups that went out.

"We should hurry to the newest location as we might see who are the ones that are creating the Temporary Bifrost. They have always been slippery as a snake which made it quite difficult to see how they were made but there might be enough time now. Please follow me as I will lead the way." Frey stated as she rode on her Pegasus with Adrian flying next to her.

Chapter 1958 Temporary Bifrost II

Adrian and Frey headed towards the direction of the newly constructed Temporary Bifrost. Just as they are about to cross the walls of the kingdom, they suddenly heard the bells of danger being rung. There was a sudden attack on the kingdom of the ice queen, but the attack was on the other side, and they cannot participate.

"Let us go and close the Temporary Bifrost to help them. The attackers might be doing this to buy enough time for the newly constructed one to activate. If more of them arrive then the kingdom of the Ice Queen would be swarmed by enemies." Adrian stated as he could see that Frey wanted to turn back and help them.

"You are right. Let us go and with great haste." Frey stated as she rode her mount towards the area where she can detect the energy of the Temporary Bifrost.

"I should make it faster. Can you handle going at twice the speed?" Adrian asked.

"I think I should be able to." Frey replied to which Adrian nodded.

"Chrono Shift Maximum Output!" Adrian stated as a powerful energy covered both him, Frey, and her mount.

[Your speed will double for five minutes.]

Adrian unfurled all of his wings and hurried to the location that Frey pointed. Frey is surprised that Adrian's flight speed was incredibly fast as he rarely used his own wings to fly. She often saw videos of him flying on his dragon soulbound and she already thought that was fast. The way that Adrian flew also astounded her as he basically defied gravity or any other force which made it easier for him to fly in a straight line.

"Wait for me!" Frey stated as she used her mana to diffuse the air pressure coming at her from the front in order to ensure that her mount would be able to handle it.

A Pegasus has already incredible power when it comes to the skies as it has an innate ability to manipulate air currents. Still, the speed at which Frey's mount is flying is not something a Pegasus can handle as the air pressure was increased when their speed doubled. Frey needed to use her mana to increase her mount's ability, but it was bearable as the mana used was not large.

The two of them arrived in the location at an incredibly fast speed as it was still inside the borders of the kingdom. A battle could be seen occurring at the area as there were people attacking the walls of the fortress at the border. Adrian suddenly appeared in the midst of the chaos and tossed Paradox towards the center of the fight.

All of the enemies that Adrian and Paradox tagged suddenly flew towards the latter. Adrian used Quantum Cascade and then snapped his hand. Paradox suddenly exploded and turned into a large black hole that sucked in all of the beings that were tagged earlier. The soldiers of the Ice Queen cheered as they were getting outnumbered, but they suddenly saw a demon helping them.

Adrian is constantly pouring mana into the black hole to keep it active in order to kill all of the enemies that were sucked inside. Just as he was concentrating, a silver axe suddenly flew towards him in a speed that was difficult for the eye to even see. Frey noticed the silver axe and immediately used her spear to parry it.

"Are you fine?" Frey asked as she is worried that an invisible attack might hit him.

"Thanks for your support. I can handle it here. You can go and see who attacked me." Adrian stated as he suddenly changed his form to his mirror demon form while he was concentrating.

Adrian was unable to tag all of the enemies before as he was in a hurry. Now that he suddenly changed to his mirror demon form, he can see every enemy that is in the battlefield he is in. He cast numerous Quantum Cascade and pulled all of the enemies towards the black hole that he was still maintaining. He finally mastered the ability to freely change into his Primordial Armament forms.

This is what Adrian practiced as he needed to quickly pull his armaments even if he was pre-occupied. It was difficult but it was not difficult enough as long as he pulled through during his practice in doing the Spell Harmony training. He might not have gotten the skill as of yet, but he was able to do other things associated with it.

"Run away! Retreat!" One of the enemies shouted as they also used a horn to signal their retreat.

Adrian noticed that the enemies were not just NPCs as there were also players in the mix. He does not know what is happening, but this is not simple. As soon as the signal for retreat was sounded, a lot of the enemies that Adrian was unable to capture managed to escape. He could have captured more but a volley of special arrows suddenly came in his direction which caught his attention.

"I am sorry. I was unable to get the person that fired the projectiles at you. I was able to get a good look at her though as she was a player." Frey stated as one could see that her armor has some dents meaning there was a battle that occurred.

"I see. They might be heading towards the Temporary Bifrost. We will go there now or else they might summon more reinforcements on their end." Adrian stated as he has sensed something coating the arrows fired at him. He believed that he should verify it more rather than guessing but he believed that this quest is much more difficult than it seems.

Adrian snapped his fingers and the black hole suddenly subsided. All of the beings that were inside the black hole were spat out, but they were unable to escape. A powerful gravitational force suddenly pressed down on them while Sirius, Kanlaon, and Kimat surrounded them. Frey is once again shocked to see what Adrian has done.

He was able to summon all three of his soulbounds without much delay. He was also controlling the gravity in all of them which made them unable to move. One could even see the enemies kissing the snowy ground as they could not resist the heaviness.

"We should head towards the Temporary Bifrost now. It is only a kilometer from here as I can feel it greatly." Frey stated as she also wanted to interrogate the prisoners but that should come for later.

"Okay. Make all of them faint." Adrian commanded as Kanlaon suddenly roared near all of the captured enemies which made all of them faint.

"Dragon Roar! Nice touch." Frey stated as she complimented Kanlaon and patted his head.

"Deal with the prisoners as we will need to deal with the Temporary Bifrost." Frey stated to the guards as they know of her since the cooperation with the Valkyries have been happening for some time already.

"As you will!" The soldiers of the ice queen's kingdom stated as they caught all of them.

Adrian and Frey flew fast towards the location of the pulsing energy wave and saw a large magic circle engraved fully into the icy ground. Adrian suddenly felt sick as he can now detect clearly what made such ominous magic. Powerful life energy was used in order to etch the ground with the magic circle but that was not the only thing.

"They used soil mixed with elements of a tree of life and a tree of death. Are those guys crazy?!" Adrian stated as he can clearly sense it.

Adrian can see that this is considered sacrilege as they basically dismantled divine trees in order to create such a thing. It would have been good if such a thing did not have disastrous consequence. The power of life and the power of death should not be mixed callously, or else disasters will occur. He even saw the magic circle and it was barely holding on which meant that another disaster could occur.

"I have looked around the perimeter but there was no one. No one alive as I have seen bodies of slaves that seemed to have their blood drained. Can you destroy this magic circle?" Frey stated as she could not believe what she saw.

"This might take an hour as this magic circle is unstable. Any wrong move and a powerful explosion will occur." Adrian stated.

Just as Adrian was explaining the details of the magic circle to Frey, arrows made of pure mana suddenly flew towards him again. Frey was unable to react, but Adrian has already sensed the killing intent as Sirius was in his shadow. Adrian's shadow reacted and blocked all of the arrows that were supposed to hit him.

"As expected of the Demon, such prey would not be easy to deal with." A female voice came from their left.

"I see. So that is why they were able to create it without the guards of the border fortress noticing." Adrian stated as he can see two beings hidden by magic.

Chapter 1959 Temporary Bifrost III

The two beings that came forward was a female archer with silver axes behind her back. Her face was being covered by her hood that is also imbued with some sort of magic. She was also wearing garb that has been embedded with magic as well which increases all of her physical abilities.

The other being that came forward was a man that wears large robes and holds a crystal ball. Adrian could clearly feel the mana around the robed man swirling about. The mana itself looked like it bent to the will of the robed man as his mana signature was all over the place. He was the one that placed such a convincing illusion in the area.

"I will deal with them. You can focus on destroying the Temporary Bifrost." Frey stated as she suddenly charged towards the hooded woman.

"Wait!" Adrian stated as he knew that it was all a trap.

Adrian suddenly teleported Frey out of the way and she was saved from falling to the trap of the enemy. Numerous spikes suddenly appeared where Frey was supposed to be landing. She was almost impaled by the magical trap that was laid in advance. The enemy did not stop when their trap failed as the hooded woman released a large mana arrow towards them.

Frey managed to regain her composure and destroy the large mana arrow. One would think that destroying the mana arrow would be the end, but the destroyed mana arrow suddenly turned to shards. These shards impacted Frey as she was the one in front of them. She also made sure to defend Adrian as she was more of a tank than him.

"Tch! This is their trick earlier. When I tried to follow them." Frey stated as she drank a potion to recover the health that she lost.

"I suggest that both of you to retreat as you are not able to defeat us in our territory. Both of you are outmatched by us. Both of you may be renowned and famous but you are out of your league. We can easily kill both of you if we wanted to. We are two of the Unofficial Rankers as one would say." The hooded woman stated as she believed that they would not lose.

Adrian already heard of the Unofficial Rankers as they are the players that are powerful but do not show their name on the leaderboard. They are basically like players that are not well documented or well known as they tend to operate in secret. Many players that do not like the limelight are just like this.

"Unlike the two of you, we are new enemies to the both of you. We know all of your movements and even being a demon is of no problem to us." The robed man stated.

"If you think your illusions would be a problem for me then you are clearly mistaken. You must be the Envoy or Champion of that trickster god. I should tell you though... I have defeated your god quite a number of times!" Adrian stated as he suddenly reversed the gravitational field in the area.

Adrian can usually control only an area that is five meters away from him, but his training made it go wider. He can now easily control even an area that is fifteen meters around him. His control would be lower with the area further to him but an increase of three times is incredible. In fact, one could say that Adrian relied more on his job class more than his racial magic which is why he never realized that he could do so.

The two enemies did not expect what happened as they were caught unaware. The enemies had their feet on the snow, but they were now upside down. Adrian did not just reverse gravity but also the polarity in the area. In other words, up is now down and down is now up.

"Kanlaon, dragon breath." Adrian stated as he partially summoned Kanlaon from the magic circle.

Kanlaon's head suddenly appeared from the magic circle, but he did not fully materialized. A powerful golden ray suddenly came out of Kanlaon and hit the two enemies. The disoriented enemies were not able to defend themselves, but they did have some sort of charms that suddenly appeared to decrease the damage they initially received.

The pale blue barrier managed to decrease the damage of the dragon breath. Adrian also released his gravity control as a large amount of mana was needed to maintain it. The enemies could be seen having heavily tattered clothes as they received a full breath attack. They looked at Adrian with bloodlust as if all they wanted is to kill him.

What they did not know is that there was another silent being waiting for them. Chains suddenly appeared below the panting enemies, and they were immediately caught. The two enemies struggled but Charon's chain attaches via the soul and not the body.

"It is better to kill them now to avoid disruptions. Sirius!" Adrian stated as Sirius suddenly jumped out of Adrian's shadow in his larger form to bite the heads off the opponent.

"We must escape! We are caught unaware. Grand Trickery: Escape!" the robed man stated as he suddenly exploded and turned into rags.

It was not just the robed man that exploded as even the hooded woman became piles of snow. Adrian commanded Sirius to scan the area but they were no longer there. What could be seen are some gold coins dropped in the area where the two were previously bound. It seems that there is an exchange in order to create the sudden escape plan that they have.

"They escaped. I cannot even sense life around us." Frey stated as she was a bit disappointed that she barely did anything.

"That is fine. We are not here to battle them anyway. What we are truly here for is the Temporary Bifrost. Please protect me while I destroy them." Adrian stated.

Chapter 1960 Temporary Bifrost IV

Frey could only agree to Adrian's suggestion as the Temporary Bifrost takes precedence. Adrian also summoned Kanlaon to survey the skies as a precaution while Frey made sure to be close enough. The Temporary Bifrost is not like the original Bifrost that Adrian activated before.

"It is actually sucking the life energy in the area which is incredibly bad. If left for too long, then the power to conduct life in this land would cease. It would turn this very land that is already difficult to cultivate land into a land of death." Adrian stated as the magic circle was designed this way.

"What! Not only are they killing the residents of the north, but they are also poisoning its already harsh land. Did the Asgardians finally become so mad that they are resorting to such tricks." Frey stated.

"They are desperate." Adrian exclaimed which shocked Frey.

"Why? Asgard is a beautiful land full of abundance. Even the Asgardians do not want to leave as it is so beautiful. They are only leaving because they want a land to rule here in the main world." Frey stated as she knew why the other gods in Asgard were traveling to the main world.

"I guess even the Valkyries do not know but Asgard is already a dying world according to the gods of life. They were only able to be that abundant because of the tireless efforts of the Gods of Life. They even used their own tree of life as materials for this accursed thing. They are desperate as the destruction of that world is imminent since there are no more gods of life there." Adrian stated as he knows what is happening with that world.

"How long has it been rotting?" Frey asked as she felt a bit of pity to the residents of Asgard but that should not excuse what they are doing. She even learned from Adrian that it was the God Loki that orchestrated everything that happened in the dark god summoning.

[You have destroyed one Temporary Bifrost. Five more to go before completing the quest.]

"I am done." Adrian stated as the Temporary Bifrost suddenly stopped glowing eerily while he extracted to types of energy from the magic circle.

"Already?! That was quite fast!" Frey stated as they were only there for half an hour and Adrian only started destroying the magic circle in under ten minutes.

"It was quite easy because they are also using the magic essence of the actual Bifrost that I have already deciphered back then. It might have been fast because this was just recently constructed, and it is flimsy. It has yet to truly merge with the ground as it was designed to take over the area." Adrian stated.

"Still, you are really great! I am wondering what those are though." Frey stated as she pointed at the two swirling energies that came out of the magic circle.

"These are the essences of the Tree of Life and the Tree of Death that is mixed within the magic circle. You can say that they are life magic and death magic respectively. They serve as the conduit for the Temporary Bifrost to even activate." Adrian stated as he suddenly fed the two energies to Paradox.

"Let us head to the next one then. I believe we can reach it in an hour if we fly there now." Frey stated as the other Temporary Bifrost was actually two hours away, but they could cut it by half if they used temporal magic like earlier.

"We should go faster as I am afraid that they might have retreated to another Temporary Bifrost." Adrian stated.

"Those two... I think that you are also correct. Still, each of the Temporary Bifrost are evenly spaced apart. Do you have any way to shorten the travel time even more? If we can reach the area in thirty minutes, then we could destroy all of the Temporary Bifrost in just one day." Frey stated.

"I do have a way to shorten the travel time as we already have them marked in the maps we were given. It is only this one that is not yet marked. How are you with heights and incredible fast fall down speed?" Adrian asked with a smile.

"I am good with heights and also I can easily ride amusement park rides like the Viking." Frey stated.

"That is all I need then. Make sure to cling to me for the next part." Adrian stated as he suddenly blushed because Frey did exactly as he told.

Frey clung to Adrian's arm with her hands, but she also blushed a little. When they finally calmed down a bit, Adrian activated his magic and disappeared from a portal below his feet with Frey. The next thing that Frey could see is a sea of thick white clouds that have layers of frost. The both of them were suddenly falling from the sky.

"Ah!" Frey exclaimed as she suddenly hugged Adrian closer as she did not expect the sudden change of location.

"There are signs of a battle there as well." Adrian stated as he pointed at the location where a large eerie magic circle was glowing.

"We are under attack!" Frey shouted as she suddenly felt bloodlust in their direction.

Frey finally calmed down and summoned her mount while she was still falling from the sky. Her spear glowed with mana that looked like the northern lights and destroyed the large mana arrow. This time, Frey did not just destroy the large mana arrow but also twirled her spear to destroy the small mana shards.

"They are here! I will hunt them down and kill them this time!" Frey stated as she headed towards the direction of the killing intent.

"Be careful." Adrian stated as he knew that telling her to do something else would be detrimental.

"Kimat! Summon the lightning and destroy all of our enemies!" Adrian shouted as he summoned Kimat in his entire form. A loud roar could suddenly be heard while thunder rumbled.
