

O Summoner 2101

Chapter 2101: Extra: Short Story Collection I

Burying is the Best

Adrian and Levin Cloud were arguing about a dilemma in front of the Tree of Life and Death. The dilemma is due to the twin prophets asking them a question. The question was not difficult to answer but the answer actually depends on an individual.

"What is the best way to punish a sinner that needs redemption?" Vitae asked as there have been an influx of people that come to the territory due to repenting.

"The answer to that will depend on what kind of sin they have committed. Based on our doctrine, forgiveness should be given to those that repents but should be given to those that did not do any severe crime. Since the Church of the Twin Gods also respects the law of the area or kingdom, they are in then their punishment would depend on the country." Levin Cloud stated as he answered based on the teachings of the church.

"What about, Big Bro Equinox?" Mortem asked.

"If you really want them to repent then burying them is the best." Adrian answered what his mother told him before.

"Back then, your uncles and aunts were very mischievous. They do not stop even if they are reprimanded. In the end, your grandfather had to bury them." Adrian's mother stated.

"Bury them alive?!" The little Adrian asked when he was just a small kid.

"Yes. They would get buried but only from the neck down. They would only get dug up when they have repented." Adrian's mother stated.

"Will you bury me as well when I am naughty?!" The little Adrian stated with teary eyes.

"If mommy sees you become very naughty then she will, but I know that my baby will always be in his best behavior." Adrian's mother stated but her words still linger in Adrian's ears.

Adrian was never buried but that is because he was always in his best behavior when his mother is around. He would only turn into a goofball among his real friends and rarely in front of his father. He almost saw Mina get punished by that, but she ran away when she saw their mother digging a hole. The hole was not for her punishment though as it was just for a gardening project that she was going to do.

"What are you teaching the kids!?" Levin Cloud stated as he feared that the twin prophets will become strange.

"If they truly repented then they would accept the punishment. It is very effective according to my sources (mother)." Adrian stated.

Adrian and Levin Cloud did not know that the Tree of Life and Death was listening in on their conversation. It was learning of ways to punish beings (gods and goddesses) that become unruly when the twin gods were asleep. The Tree of Life and Death learned something from the Champion of the Twin Gods.

Story of the Undead Prince and Curse Maniac

Creepysoo would often wander around the guild house when he is free but most of the ones he knows are not there. He wanted to go in adventures with Adrian once again, but their quests are often going in different ways. He did not want to impose on his in game big brother as he was also helped a lot. He knows that Adrian does not share his hobby of cool looking creepy things as much, but he appreciates it as long as it has some style.

The other guild members are peculiar, but he has not seen anyone that shares the same passion as him. It was then he met one of the guild members that barely talks to others. She was a loner when someone describes her, but she can still talk to other people. Adrian told Creepysoo that she was not a loner but is just comfortable being alone. She has an honest personality as well since she answered every question without hesitation.

Creepysoo was not supposed to talk to her, but she suddenly brought an item that caught his attention. It was item that was brimming to the max with curse energy. It was also a death curse energy which is potent enough to kill a small child if they are exposed to it. Thinking that she was going to do something bad, Creepysoo sneakily followed her to the place she was bringing that cursed item.

He followed Hexy to a small village near Avalon where he could feel an atmosphere filled with sickness. He also saw some priests doing healing in the small village, but they were only alleviating the symptoms and not curing them. Creepysoo could feel death looming just outside the village as if they were waiting for the people to die. Ever since he has come and gone to some death realms, he has become more sensitive to the life of mortals.

He gained the ability to generally tell that they were close to death. It was not as accurate as Adrian's ability to tell it since he could see death itself. In fact, the death gods even joked that this was the first time that they have seen a Champion that was able to look face to face at Thanatos. The gods of death even gossiped that he was also the only one even among other gods to see what Thanatos really looks like.

"What is she going to do with that cursed object! I need to stop her!" Creepysoo thought as he suddenly saw Hexy getting inside one of the houses where he sensed death being extremely close.

Creepysoo thought that Hexy brought the cursed item to use it at the dying patient. She might use it to kill the patient that was having a difficult time dying. All sorts of things entered his mind about the use of cursed items, but he knew that Hexy did not do this because she was evil. She might have done this at the behest of the dark elven elders as they often give missions to give peaceful deaths to those that are painfully sick.

"Stop what you are doing right now!" Creepysoo stated as he barged inside of the small house.

He then saw Hexy using the cursed item on a terminally ill young boy and thought that she was granting him peace. Before he could act and try to stop her, a wood elf and dark elf priest suddenly stopped him from interfering. He was stunned to see the two priests stopping him as they could see cursed energy being absorbed by the cursed item.

"Eh? Cursed energy is being absorbed?" Creepysoo stated as he was in disbelief.

"What is the undead prince doing here? The wood elf priest asked as they know that they did not ask for the help of the undead.

"Did the undead prince have any business in this village?" The dark elf priest asked.

"Ah! Sorry. I just sensed cursed energy here and my own two feet carried me here." Creepysoo stated.

"If that is so, please do not interrupt Lady Hexy as she is performing Curse Extraction right now." The wood elf priest stated as she seemed to have guessed that Creepysoo barged inside due to a misunderstanding.

Hexy was incredibly focused as she transferred the cursed energy inside of the young boy to the cursed item. The boy looked like he was in pain, but Hexy used some sort of spell to ease the pain that he was feeling. Creepysoo was beyond impressed at what he saw that he did not notice that he was already looking directly at Hexy.

"She is awesome. Such control is out of this world." Creepysoo thought.

"Done." Hexy stated as the young boy looked better as his color returned.

"Thank you very much for curing my son. Lady Hexy is our savior so please come for a meal sometimes." The young boy's mother stated.

"It was not difficult as the one that cursed the village was already dealt with. The aftereffects are still there which is why the priests from the Church of the Twin Gods will be on alert. The others in the village are also affected so I am now going to them." Hexy stated and then she noticed Creepysoo.

"Thank you, Lady Hexy. Your aid is always a good thing for us as you are a master when it comes to absorbing curses." The two priests stated as they vowed towards Hexy with great respect.

"Guild Officer Creepysoo, do you need something from me?" Hexy asked as she often calls them guild officer as they are part of the founding members.

"Not really. I just followed you because I wanted to ask about the cursed item. I did not want to bother you which is why I only appeared now." Creepysoo stated as he suddenly became shy.

"You also like cursed items! It seems that the guild officer is also a fan of it like me." Hexy stated.

"You can just call me Creepysoo. Being called guild officer makes me sound old when we are just the same age." Creepysoo stated and that was the time they started to get close.

Chapter 2102: Rebuilding Her Army I

Adrian returned to the main world and immediately found a reaction from the shard that he was given. It was a momentary reaction, but it was enough for him to be given a general direction. He already made sure that everything inside of his territory is good to go. The rewards for the territory defense have been given and many players were now registered as citizens. He was just waiting for money to pile up so that he could upgrade his territory once more.

"Let us find this unknown stone of power before the enemy does." Adrian stated as he vanished from his location.

==

In a certain bandit hideout...

The number of bandits here was not a lot but the level of fighting power they have is good enough to deal with the monsters near the area. This area was none other than a level 200 forest swamp area and is one of the most toxic swamps in the central continent. This place is rarely visited as only those with powerful toxic resistances could enter the place. This was also the perfect place to raise the Grafts that the Black Fairy Mavros will emerge from. The Elder Dryad Dorn chose this place as the depths could never be explored by ordinary mortals. It was also a place where there is some cursed energy lingering about. Cursed energy is needed to make the Grafts bloom once it is attached to a tree. The Elder Dryad Dorn even hunted down monsters that were affected by curses and fed it to the tree where the Grafts was transplanted.

Now that the Black Fairy Mavros has been revived, the other Grafts that survived needed to be used to revive her army. The number of Grafts would not be able to grow since there are no special trees in the area but there is a forbidden way of reviving them. The Black Fairy Mavros along with the Elder Dryad Dorn attacked the bandit hideout and capture every one of them alive.

The bandits put up a fight, but they could not defeat the powerful Elder Dryad Dorn as she has been alive for a long time. Beings that have survived for a long time are either extremely powerful or getting weak, but she was the former. The Elder Dryad Dorn is at the same power level as the Elder Dryad Danaya because they have been born at about the same time. All of the bandits were captured by the Elder Dryad Dorn using her thorny vines.

There were even some captives inside of the bandit hideout and even they were not spared. All of the captives were either tortured or played around for pleasure by some bandits. The captives already lost their minds due to the continuous pain they were subjected to. They even praised the Elder Dryad Dorn as a goddess when she captured and hurt some of the bandits. "Are you sure we can use them, my queen? They are now defective humans." The Elder Dryad Dorn stated as she looked at the captives that had their minds already broken from trauma.

"They are perfect because they will offer least resistance. They might even create a new breed should their insanity fuse with the Grafts that I am going to plant inside of them. It is actually perfect that there are women here as compatibility is necessary even in using the Grafts." The Black Fairy Mavros stated as she looked at every human in the hideout as pawns for her army.

"Let us start with a Leshy. Take one of the bandits and place him here." The Black Fairy Mavros stated as she waved her hand to create a cursed magic circle.

The bandit struggled as he wanted to escape the clutches of the assailants, but he could not. He also got pricked by these thorny vines that slowly paralyzed the body as he could start to feel the loss of sense. He could feel his body starting to numb down and he will be numb all over in an hour. This was the toxin that is present in the body of the Elder Dryad Dorn as she cultivated this so that she can be useful to the Black Fairy Mavros.

Elder Dryad Dorn did not care of what the humans think as she only cares for the thoughts of the Black Fairy Mavros. She was her idol and the one who saved her as a child. She basically has bind devotion towards the Black Fairy Mavros. She will seriously offer her life should the queen she serves command it. She placed the bandit in the magic circle, and it instantly activated.

The body of the bandit suddenly started to stand upright as his feet slowly turned into roots as his body started to become a tree. The bandit screamed out loud, but his pitiful wails only terrified the other bandits as they saw what was happening to him. In just under ten minutes, half the body of the bandit has already been turned into a tree. This process was not painless as well because it felt like every nerve of his body was getting pulled.

"Perfect! The spell worked even though it only transformed him into half a tree, but the good thing is that he remained alive." The Black Fairy Mavros stated with great joy as she relished the fact that she succeeded despite not being in her prime.

"As expected of my queen. You will never fail." The Elder Dryad Dorn stated as she praised the Black Fairy Mavros excessively.

"Now that the first part is done, let us proceed with the second part." The Black Fairy Mavros stated as she took a Grafts of a Leshy and infused with some unknown spell.

The Grafts that looked like a branch suddenly became alive as it grew eyes and roots that wriggled like tentacles. The Black Fairy Mavros slowly placed this Cursed Grafts into the chest of the cursed bandit. Screams of pain and terror were released once more but it was even louder than before. The bandit felt that his soul itself was getting devoured.

"Such bliss!" The Black Fairy Mavros stated as she smiled sinisterly.

Chapter 2103 Rebuilding Her Army II

The bandit that had a corrupted Grafts inserted into his body suddenly spasmed as he transformed slowly into a Leshy. The skin that was once that of a human is now transformed into that of a tree bark. The head also turned tree like as numerous roots covered his face. The only difference to that of a normal Leshy is that there are numerous eyes in the head.

"My queen! You have finally returned. Thank you for reviving me." The Leshy stated as it could remember vague memories of its past life.

The Black Fairy Mavros was delighted that the beings that she revived had memories of their past. Even though she manipulated those memories of only having loyalty to her, the Black Fairy Mavros praised herself for being so powerful that she could bring out the memories hidden in the depths of each soul. It will not take long for her to revive her army, but she also knows that not all of these humans will be able to host them.

"We can just take over a human village should we lack ingredients. We can also try using some humanoid monsters as well since that could increase the combat power. Dorn, capture some humanoid monsters for me. Ones with intelligence are preferred but do what you can with the area we have." The Black Fairy Mavros stated as she was already finished transplanting all of the Leshy Grafts onto the bandits.

The bandits could only resign to their fate as they slowly became fodder for the revival of the Corrupted Leshy under the Black Fairy Mavros. Not all Corrupted Leshy managed to revive as some needed more power than others. About a third of the bandits died and became mummified due to all their life force being stolen. Some did not have compatibility with the Corrupted Leshy they were transplanted with and just died.

"We lack females for all my beautiful dryads. Go to a nearby village and collect women as well. Make sure that they are already grown women or else the transplant will fail." The Black Fairy Mavros commanded the first corrupted Leshy that revived.

The Corrupted Leshy turned into vines and seeped into the ground as they hunted for females just like what the Black Fairy Mavros said. The women captured by the bandits were usually from small villages or brought via the illegal slave auction. The Black Fairy Mavros did not care where all of the women came from as she actually liked that they are already mentally incapable.

Unlike the bandits that tried hard to live, the women are basically blank slates which are perfect for the takeover of the corrupted dryads. The Black Fairy Mavros placed each woman into a magic circle and fed them the Grafts of a dryad that normally comes in the form of a seed. As soon as the seed gets inside of the stomach, the magic circle activates which also awakens the will of the dryad.

The sudden bursting of leaves or flowers from the orifices of the women were not a sight that one can stomach but this was the start of the transformation. The Black Fairy Mavros thought that at least half of these women will die before the dryads under her would revive but they all succeeded in the first phase. The bodies of each of the women started to change to that of a corrupted dryad.

Unlike the normal green tinge of the skin that a normal dryad has, the corrupted dryads are red in skin tone as if to signify that they feed on the blood of others. They were still beautiful like the dryads, but their lower half tends to resemble a monster plant instead. One could even say that their lower half is their true form while the upper half is just some sort of bait to lure in unsuspecting prey.

Seeing the numerous corrupted dryads getting revived filled the Black Fairy Mavros with pride. She even praised herself for outdoing her past self even if she just managed to become lucky. The captured women here were already a blank slate to begin with as they have already lost the will to live. She merely filled the women with what they lack, and it resulted in successfully reviving the corrupted dryads.

"My queen, I have only seen one such monster that is humanoid and has intelligence." The Elder Dryad Dorn stated as she returned with a monster that has a humanoid body but a head of a horse.

"Such thing would be sufficient for General Eiche. The body of this humanoid beast should be able to handle his immense power. All the other male meat bags dried up before his consciousness could take over. Place that thing in the magic circle." The Black Fairy Mavros stated, and the Elder Dryad Dorn complied.

The humanoid monster called the Stallionoid could not resist as it was easily captured by the dryad. It was a horse monster that evolved due to attaining wisdom, but it was not wise enough to run away when it encountered the Elder Dryad Dorn. The Black Fairy Mavros directly transplanted the Grafts of her most trusted general into the head of the monster which made it faint.

The Black Fairy Mavros thought that it was a failure as there was no reaction even after ten minutes, but the body of the humanoid monster started to morph to that of a tree. The Leshy that now has the appearance of the Stallionoid awakened but its eyes were now filled with true wisdom and not one that has just attained it. The Leshy looked at the Black Fairy Mavros and vowed to her in reverence even though the latter was only like a foot tall.

"Hail, my Queen Mavros! I thank you for reviving me once again." The Elder Leshy Eiche stated as he had no qualms that he was revived from a monster since a body is a body. The body of this monster was also more powerful than a normal human which is why it could withstand his immense energy as well.

Chapter 2104 Rebuilding Her Army III

The rebuilding of the Black Fairy Mavros' army has started in full swing as she was finally able to convert half of the Grafts that the Elder Dryad Dorn safeguarded. The revived dryad or leshy would then take more unfortunate humans or humanoid monsters to become part of their army. The disappearance of people near the swamp was not a rare occurrence as this area was already sketchy.

As the Black Fairy Mavros was busy overseeing the revival of her army, she suddenly felt a jolt of energy that was incredibly familiar to her. She was able to sense the unknown stone that she got back then which made her rise in power. The familiar feeling was but a split second, but it was enough for her to know where the general direction was. She would have gone to get the unknown stone, but she was confident that she will be the only one that can unlock its power and use it.

"I made sure to place a curse on that stone to the point that I had to sacrifice most of my energy just to make sure it was bound to me. The curse should still be there as it will hurt anyone that tries to use it. It was such potent energy that cannot be seen here in this world and even those dark gods and distorted gods wanted to take it from my hands." The Black Fairy Mavros stated.

The reason she became weak when confronting her niece was due to the lost of her stone of power. It was directly tied to her life which meant she lost half of her strength the moment it went to another place. Still, she heard of the whispers that the stone was releasing as if it was a living object. This was good news for her as she definitely wanted to search for her stone of power as it will hasten her complete revival.

"You! Go in this general area and search for my stone of power." The Black Fairy Mavros stated as she injected one of the dryads with the image of the stone and what its aura was.

The dryad immediately went off to the direction she was pointed at as the area she was given was incredibly far from their current location. It might take the dryad at least five days of travel and that is without stopping. Since the corrupted dryads could just devour other living beings to become healthy, the speed at which they can move is extremely fast.

"Was it all my imagination or did I also feel another fainter source of my stone? Was it destroyed during my battle back then? No matter. It will fall into my hands eventually and I only need to wait." The Black Fairy Mavros stated as she believed that everything would fall into her hands as if she was the chosen being of the heavens.

==

Adrian was led to an actual kingdom by the energy signature of the shard that he was given. This kingdom was none other than a kingdom ruled by a player. It is being run by one of the top guilds in the ranking when it comes to monster subjugation. It is also a top guild that is very antagonistic of the alliance of guilds that Adrian is a part of.

If Adrian's territory was actually not difficult to reach, then a lot of kingdoms run by guilds would already propose war. Ever since the guilds managed to build and control a kingdom, the guild wars are actually very common. Some would even go into war because of their ego and pride while some do it to capture smaller territories within other kingdoms. Another reason why Adrian's territory is untouched by some guilds is the fact that he has the Church of the Twin Gods on his side.

A lot of players are part of the Church of the Twin Gods because of the benefits that they give. It is also a more prestigious compared to other churches as they have the best healing and curse spells. A lot of players also feared the retaliation of the Pantheon guild as they are a guild that does not wage war. A lot of them are smart enough to not go poking around a hornet's nest.

Adrian does not really care for more land as maintaining his own territory is already difficult as it is. He only upgrades his territory because he is being persuaded by all of the elders, citizens, and even his friends. They would actually grumble that the territory is so small as a lot of people would enter. They would always talk out loud about this whenever Adrian passes by them.

"I am actually quite shocked that a guild is able to run an entire kingdom. When do they even sleep?" Adrian stated as he disguised himself as a normal human to enter the kingdom via a forged ID that he got from the Shadow Unit.

Since the gate guards are mostly NPC, one could easily enter as long as they have sufficient identification. Adrian entered smoothly as he actually prepared multiple IDs depending on what his disguise is. He actually quite liked this as it feels like he is a secret agent infiltrating another kingdom. Still, he is wary as there are magical items that could detect the use of transfiguration magic.

"The faint energy source led me to a sketchy neighborhood." Adrian thought as he then pretended to do some shopping as he released Sirius and Charon to snoop around.

"The auction is tonight, right?" Sirius managed to overhear a conversation from two men in an alley.

"I heard that they are auctioning off items that were taken from the previous royalty." One of the men stated.

"I would have done the same as the previous king was such a pig and a lecher. Anything that he had that is not money should be disposed of unless they want to get the curse as well." The other man stated as Adrian used Sirius' hearing to gather information. "Shush! Do not talk about you know what or else you will also be affected by it. I think it is better to not attend the auction or even near the venue as many of that cursed king's items are for sale." One the man stated as they suddenly dispersed because a patrol passed by.

"Where should I go to get an auction ticket?" Adrian thought as he suddenly thought of what the shadow unit tells him when they infiltrate places.

"The best way to get information is inside a brothel or a bar. Of course, you can also pay some beggars for information as they hear everything, but it is not always accurate." Awraka stated as Adrian once asked how they get information.

"Should I go to a brothel then?" Adrian thought as he tried getting inside one, but his face got slammed.

[You cannot enter this place as the age restriction for your country is 21 years old.]

"I forgot about that." Adrian thought as he immediately bolted away from the place as he is embarrassed. A lot of people were able to see what happened to him as some even laughed. A lot of people saw him getting face slammed by the door. He wanted to become inconspicuous, but he suddenly got attention due to his accident.

In the end, Adrian had to settle for the bar as this place was not age restricted, but the drinks were. He could only order sparkling juices instead of real alcoholic drinks due to the restriction. Fortunately, the bartender does not discriminate as long as you pay him for the information. He was able to get the information he needed in getting a ticket for the auction.

Just as he heard from the alley, the auction is indeed about selling the items from the previous monarch. A lot of the items for auction were rare trinkets that were cursed objects or were regarded as cursed objects. Adrian knew why these items were for sale as not a lot of players can handle cursed items. More of the cursed item users were powerful NPCs that do not mix well with society.

"Creepysoo and Hexy would have liked to come with me for this." Adrian thought as he waited for night to fall.

Adrian was actually lucky that he managed to get into the auction in time. If he did not, then he might have to steal the unknown stone of power. What he finds troublesome is if it already fell onto the hands of other people. The unknown stone of power might be in the hands of one of the people that attends the auction. Adrian tried to extend his senses, but he could not feel the energy as if it was blocked.

"Let us hope that nothing bad will happen and all the items will be auctioned off properly." Adrian thought but he should not have jinxed it as there were a lot of people there that could make anyone run away.

Chapter 2105 Starting to Hate Auctions

The auction started off great and there were no problems. The items that were being sold were items that are not needed by the guild that dethroned the previous monarch. The items are either not suited for them or not in their image. Some have small curses on them as Adrian could feel the energy in some of them. The items were also cleverly masked with a special cloth item that prevents any energy from leaking out.

This might be due to the fact that some of the items have bad energy. If all of the items' bad energy were to accumulate then a Grudge Monster might form. There have been numerous instances of that happening in some auctions like this which is why a lot of people are already aware of it. Adrian did not bid on items that he did not need as there are rarely anything that catches his eyes.

He would sometime see a great item, but it was not enough of a need to buy it. He waited until there were only five items left to be auctioned but he did not feel the unknown stone of power. He thought that it was being used by someone that is here in the auction, but he crossed that out as there was no reaction. Adrian only felt the sudden familiar energy signature when the next item was getting wheeled to the center of the stage.

The cloth that covered the item swayed a little which was enough for his senses to pick up on the energy signature. He was sure that the next item will be the thing that he needs. He prepared himself as he needed to make sure that he will be the one that ends up with the item. He is also not sitting on a VIP room which meant that he would need to pay the auction house a mark up of 25% for the price that he bid.

"Next on the items that are for auction is..." The spokesperson stated as he took off the cloth which ensured Adrian that this is the item that he is looking for.

When the cloth was taken off, the item revealed itself to be a necklace of gold that is adorned with five gems that glimmered in three different colors. The two gems that are farther from the middle glowed in a pinkish hue that enamored anyone that looked at it. The two gems next to them are blue in color and is larger than the previous two stones. At the middle of the golden necklaces is none other than the stone that Adrian was searching for.

A large dark purple stone that glowed in an unusual red light could be seen as the centerpiece of the gold necklace. The room suddenly became quiet as the beauty of the necklace beguiled anyone that sees it. The people were extremely focused on the necklace that they were suddenly surprised that it released this awful and heavy energy of death. Adrian could clearly see that this necklace was made and soaked in the blood of numerous people.

"The next necklace for auction is none other than the previous queen's necklace that is said to have been crafted with the blood of a hundred female virgins and then soaked in the blood of fifty more. They say that its enchanting beauty is due to the fact of the numerous sacrifices used to craft such a marvel." The spokesperson stated as a lot of the people suddenly thought that the necklaces is ugly.

Adrian could feel the numerous resentment and grudges attached to the item. What he did not expect is that the energy of the unknown stone of power at its centerpiece was not emitting as much. It was like the resentment and grudges that coated the necklace masked the real item that grants immense power. Adrian did not care about the details though because this is something that he would need to win.

"As all of you can see, this is indeed a cursed necklace that was commissioned by the previous queen. She believed that the blood of virgins would make the necklace take on the youthful energy of all of them and make her younger with each wear. It is actually said that it was the previous queen's grandmother that commissioned this golden necklace but only the former was the one seen wearing it." The spokesperson stated.

"You can even see that the energy it exudes is something that our patrons that study curses would like to have. It has this thick miasma on it that would allure those that need to research cursed energy. The starting bid for this one would be 10,000 gold coins but you can also trade for a better item that the current rulers of the kingdom will want. You can call an assistant should you want to bid on this item via barter." The spokesperson stated as the guild that controlled this kingdom did not want cash but useful items.

"30, 000 gold coins." A voice from the VIP stands stated.

"35, 000 gold coins." Another voice from the VIP stands stated.

The price of the gold coins kept increasing that Adrian actually thought that he will not be able to buy it with gold even if he empties his personal bank. The only thing that Adrian could do is offer something to trade which he has a lot of. The only problem that he is facing is what item should he offer since it would be something that the current guild officers running this kingdom would need.

"I did have that egg sitting inside of my inventory for quite a while. I do not even need it since it was an egg of a lesser dragon." Adrian stated as he called upon one of the attendants near him and entered the item that he wished to barter.

"One of our participants have come to barter." The spokesperson stated as the gold coins were already in the 60, 000 gold coin mark.

"The participant has entered that he wishes to barter a... a... apologies as I thought I am not reading it correctly, but he wants to barter a Legendary Tier Lesser Dragon Egg." The spokesperson stated as he could only gulp at the item that Adrian offered.

Since Adrian is not always in auctions, he has yet to know the climates of what items are incredibly rare. A Legendary Tier Lesser Dragon Egg would actually cost at least a hundred thousand gold coins. If it was only an epic tier egg, then the price would be at the ten thousand, but a legendary tier egg is something that any summoner would want. It was also a lesser dragon egg which means that the monster would either be a wyrm, a drake, or a wyvern.

Not all players are like Adrian that can tame dragons as they are extremely rare. In fact, the only known players to have a real dragon as a summoned unit or a mount are three. Adrian and Basil are two of the known players while one is a Dragon Knight player. There might be dragonkin in the game but even they are far inferior when it comes to being true dragons. One cannot tame a dragon unless they hatch it from an egg after all.

Even if Adrian offered a Lesser Dragon egg, only a handful of players have lesser dragons as well. They are not creatures that are easily tamed even if you overpower them. Having a guaranteed legendary tier is also a plus that made everyone in the room speechless. If it is a legendary tier upon hatching, then it might become a mythical tier beast with proper care.

"I have been informed by the owner of this item. The one that bid the Legendary Tier Lesser Dragon Egg has won. Unless someone could provide an item of greater value then the one known as Quin will receive the golden necklace. Going once... going twice... sold to the one named Quinn. Please follow the attendant to the exchange room after all items have been bid." The spokesperson stated but the entire compound started to shake.

"BOOM!"

A powerful explosion suddenly shook the entire building, but the inside of the auction house was still fine. Panic did not immediately occur but people from the crowd suddenly put on masks as they stood up. These people suddenly took out a small cylinder which they pressed, and it morphed into a large gun that they carried with both hands.

"No one moves or else all of you will get hurt." The masked men stated as it was not just those below that have them as even the VIP areas were also raided by them.

"Hand over all of them items in this auction and all the gold that you have on you and then all of you will be able to live. Also, you!" A masked man stated as he looked at pointed the gun at Adrian.

"Hand over the Lesser dragon egg as well if you want to live." The masked man added.

"I am starting to hate auctions." Adrian muttered.

Chapter 2106 At Magic Gunpoint

"Hand over the egg." The masked man asked once again as he pointed the magic gun at Adrian's head.

"I will give you the benefit of the doubt of whether you are smart or an idiot. Why would you point a gun at a person that can easily get his hands on a Legendary Tier lesser dragon egg?" Adrian stated as he does not want to even attempt to do anything.

"Hand over the egg!" The masked man stated as he suddenly charged up the gun and then fired it at Adrian's seatmate.

A loud painful cry was heard next to Adrian as his seatmate suddenly lost half of his arm as a result. The screams of those that witnessed the disintegration of an arm echoed in the area. They could not believe that it was so powerful that it could destroy an entire arm with just one blast. Adrian looked at the screaming man and felt pity as he would not have been targeted if he was not sitting next to him.

"Have this." Adrian stated as he took out a Legendary Tier potion to heal the man as he almost bled to death.

The missing arm of the man could be seen to slowly regrow, but it was at a snail's pace. It might actually take at least a week in order for it to recover. The scene where Adrian casually gave something like a high-quality elixir made the masked men even more greedy. Still, the masked man also suddenly felt something at the back of his mind saying to get out and stay quiet if he wanted to live but greed always takes over.

"Hand over everything you have or else you and everyone around you will die." The masked man stated.

"I do not really care what happens to them. So, kill them if you can and let us see if your power source will have enough." Adrian stated.

"If you did not care for any of them then why did you waste a potion on that man! You clearly are a hero!" The masked man stated as he was banking on the fact that Adrian is someone that saves people.

"I guess saving him made me look like a hero but let me remind you of something because I am no hero. In fact, I am a demon." Adrian stated as he snapped his hands and the masked man that confronted him suddenly stopped moving.

"What is happening?!" The leaders of the masked men stated as he suddenly felt a powerful aura in the area.

"I really just wanted to get the item that I bid for and go away but things do not always go my way. Sirius and Charon, clean all of this up. Make sure to only target the ones that are hostile. Whoever planned this raid is such an idiot." Adrian stated as a large shadow suddenly engulfed the lower floor of the auction hall.

The armed masked men were suddenly absorbed into their own shadows or chains suddenly sprouted from nowhere to kill them. All of the masked men were NPCs that were not that high in level but the weapon they have was extremely powerful. The NPC seated near Adrian was at least a level 250 NPC, but his arm was blown away when he did not defend properly. Seeing that the outside guards are not flooding in means that there is also trouble there.

"Ahh!" The masked man in the lower floor shouted as they all got taken by either Sirius or Charon.

All those that were taken by Sirius was devoured by him and empowered his shadow. Those taken by Charon had their life force drained to the point that they became mummies. Their mummified bodies are then used as a way to enhance the chains that he uses. With each life force that he absorbs, the chains become stronger even if it is only a little bit.

Just as Adrian stated, he was not a hero but a demon. His disguise melted away as he was actually hit by another masked man, but it only scratched his shoulder. Needless to say, the masked man that almost hit Adrian was gruesomely dismantled by Sirius' shadows. The people that thought that they will be saved have realized the fact that they were in the midst of a powerful demon.

The demon did not save them because he was heroic. They just happened to be saved because the masked men threatened the demon. If the masked men did not do so, then the demon would have just stayed quiet and let them be killed until only one of them is left. They all looked at Adrian with fear, but they are still glad that the demon seems to be ignoring them.

The ruckus at the VIP area was loud as well but the rooms were made sure to be perfectly soundproofed. Still, the people in the VIP rooms were extremely powerful people and some have twisted means. The masked men that entered the rooms of these twisted people ended up in a far more gruesome fate than the one Sirius dismembered.

"Apologies, patrons. It seems that the city and the general area of the auction is being attacked at the moment. Fear not as his majesty and the other nobles are in the plaza eradicating the attackers. Please remain in here in order to be safe as our great guests and guards managed to clear up all the assailants." The spokesperson immediately stated.

In fact, the guards were very thankful to Adrian as they would not have been able to move if he did not easily clean up the people inside the lower floor of the auction house. The guards feared that the patrons will become hostages and having a patron get killed inside an auction house is never a good thing. The security that an auction house provides should be topnotch or else they will have no customers ever again.

Adrian have been informed by the shadow unit that numerous groups have suddenly emerged in the world. In fact, there have been groups they labeled as gangs as they have notorious reputation for harming people. The ones that came to this auction house is a gang known as the Skull Masked Gang which came from what they wear. Adrian does not have much background information on them, but he at least knows that they deal with illegal magic technology.

The magic guns that they have brought were not something that is out on the market. They looked like volatile creations that could backfire if not handled correctly. One of the masked men was even killed by it when the mana bullet came out from the back. It is definitely not magic technology that is circulated and approved by the MagiTech Council.

"Thank you, dear guest." The spokesperson suddenly stated towards Adrian.

"No need to thank me as I only cleaned up trash. My offer still stands. The necklace for the egg. If possible, I would like to have it now." Adrian stated while the sounds of fighting could be somewhat heard inside the auction house.

"Put your hands u..." A masked man stated suddenly as he kicked the door, but Sirius suddenly bit his upper body off.

Sirius' sudden appearance shocked those that were able to take a glimpse of him. They clearly saw a shadow suddenly manifesting a physical form and biting off a man in half. The lower half that was left sunk into the shadows which made even those at the VIP room look at Adrian with great intrigued.

"Thank you once again, patron. We will even offer the necklace to you for free because you have saved us." The spokesperson stated but he was actually not an ordinary individual as he was the owner of the auction house in disguise.

"You are not going to give it for free just because I saved you, right... auction house owner?" Adrian stated which made the auction house owner smile a bit and also slightly terrified as his disguise could be seen through.

"I will give it to you now as long as you promise to clean up all the thugs in the auction house." The auction house owner stated.

"What about the mole?" Adrian asked.

Adrian naturally thought that the sudden appearance of masked men inside of the auction house is not a simple raid. It should have been coordinated with someone from the inside as the number of masked men was great. This was definitely a planned hit on an auction house because they waited until all of the items were now in the stage.

"Naturally, we will handle that one as well. Our auction house might be in the shady district, but we always promised utmost protection to our patrons." The auction house owner stated as a dangerous glint could be seen in his eyes.

"Fine then. Sirius and Charon, clean up the entire auction house of the scoundrels." Adrian commanded and the sounds of fighting in the auction house dimmed down in under ten minutes.

Chapter 2107 Please Take a Reward

[All enemy entities that are inside of the auction house have been cleared.]

[Your soulbound Sirius have killed numerous enemies without being spotted. He received bonus 5% damage to attacks that hit targets that do not see him.]

[Your soulbound Charon have killed numerous enemies without being spotted. He received bonus 5% damage to attacks that hit targets that do not see him.]

"I have managed to clean up everything but the rat that you told me to spare has started to run away." Adrian stated as Sirius informed him of one staff that suddenly got terrified when the masked men were killed by shadows

"Thank you very much, Champion Equinox." The auction house owner stated which made Adrian look at him.

Adrian knew that he was famous, but it seems that the auction house owner has more information about him than he thought. He could also feel the eyes of the VIPs inside of the rooms above. They were not moving because Adrian did not offend them in anyway, but the stares are feeling a bit burdensome for him. He felt like his entire body is being scanned for a weakness and that is not something that he likes since it feels like they are undressing him.

"The gratitude is appreciated but I would just like the necklace." Adrian stated.

"Of course, please give the necklace to the patron." The auction house owner stated as he gestured one of the attendants to give the necklace to Adrian.

The attendant nervously gave Adrian the necklace as she was indeed afraid of him. In fact, many of the people that he saved are afraid of him because the method he used to kill was swift and merciless. The attendant sucked up her fear and handed the necklace to Adrian. She was also somewhat affected by Adrian's aura as he is making sure to also release some of it.

The pressure that Adrian exuded was enough to make a normal person faint on the spot. The fact that the auction house owner could stand beside him without shaking has caught his attention. Adrian knew that the auction house owner is not normal as well since his soul burned golden which meant that he has great power or great destiny. Adrian just took the necklace and is about to teleport away, but the auction store owner stopped him.

"Please wait. The area has been enclosed off by a barrier that prevents any teleportation. While you wait, why not take another item from our vaults? It is a way to show you our gratitude for helping the auction house." The auction house owner stated as he wanted to form friendly relations with Adrian.

The entire central continent knew of the power held by the Lord of Avalon that is also the Champion of the Twin Gods. The other kingdoms might be wary of him because of his race, title, and gods that he serves but the merchants look at him like a gold mine. The merchants and auction houses tried very hard to form a connection with Avalon but the Merchant Guild Avalon Branch Leader Piggy Bank guards him like a wall.

The Lord of Avalon cares less about worldly affairs and is mostly not in his territory but he actually has great impact in the potion market. The potions created by the alchemist in Avalon was far superior compared to any of the potions created by other alchemists. Even the Grandmaster Alchemists wanted to know the methods used by the alchemists in Avalon to brew potions. Not only the potions, but also the materials in Avalon are incredibly precious.

"I must at least form a good connection. I must not let this chance slip by." The auction house owner stated.

"If you meant the puny excuse of a barrier outside then that is of no problem to me. I shall be going now. Thank you for the item that I needed. Should you find any interesting items like this again then you can contact Piggy Bank. Tell them that I have sent you." Adrian stated as he along with Sirius and Charon vanished from the area.

The auction house is then flooded by the guards outside to check on the people inside. It was as if Adrian saw that they were coming and escaped as fast as he can since he did not want to draw anymore attention. The auction house owner made sure to tell that the powerful people in the auction house defeated the masked men. He also told the secretary of the king that questioned him that it was a demon that helped them.

The auction house owner did not say who that demon was and just told them that the demon bid an item. He took the item when all the commotion was over and vanished. The auction owner clearly knew why Adrian told him to look for Piggy Bank. The auction house owner was given a choice of forming a connection or selling the Lord of Avalon out. He chose the connection as few people could get connections to Avalon unless you know someone from the inside.

Adrian did not know that his action led to more items that circulated in Avalon. There are also some regulated black market items being sold in the black market through the connection that Adrian created. Piggy Bank once again praised Adrian for his powerful connections and timings when he wanted to take control of the black market. Solstice also fully utilized this connection to further the activities of her underlings.

Adrian, on the other hand, appeared a bit far away from kingdom but a bit skewed from the coordinates that he entered. He thought that he could easily ignore the barrier, but it seems to have changed the coordinate. Still, he was able to get out before the guild in charge of that kingdom found out that he was there. He also wanted to get out as one of the gazes from the VIP room gave him the creeps.

"Master, danger!" Sirius shouted as he shot out shadow tendrils to counter the sudden roots that aimed at Adrian's head.

"No wonder the quest did not change even if I got the quest item. It seems that I need to kill an enemy first." Adrian stated as a dryad suddenly formed from the vines that sprouted from the ground.

"Give that item to me, demon. If you value your life." The corrupted elder dryad stated.

"I bid for this item, so it is mine now." Adrian stated as he destroyed the necklace to take the unknown stone of power.

"Die! Demon!" The corrupted elder dryad shouted as she created poisonous spores that are sent towards Adrian as if she could easily control them.

Charon was still hiding but showed himself when Adrian was in danger. Chains suddenly struck the corrupted elder dryad which absorbed her mana and health. The control over the spores of the corrupted elder dryad suddenly waned as she lost focus for a moment. Adrian used that chance to summon Kanlaon to create a powerful burst of wind that destroyed the spores in one hit.

"Summon Elemental Dragon: Red Dragon!" Adrian chanted as a red dragon manifested and summoned flaming meteors that hit the corrupted elder dryad.

Kanlaon fired off his dragon breath and directly hit the corrupted elder dryad and created a hole in her body. The hole in the corrupted elder dryad did not vanish but she scattered into vines. The corrupted elder dryad vanished to the ground, but Charon told Adrian that she was still in the area since the chains are still absorbing her health and mana.

Adrian might have not chosen the best location to battle the corrupted elder dryad. He was currently in a forest which meant that the enemy is more powerful here. Adrian suddenly felt movement in the ground and immediately used blink to vanish. Roots that were laced with poison destroyed the ground that he was in as those very things tried to grab him.

"Summon: Light Crested Swan: Attack Mode" Adrian stated as a light magic circle appeared, and the silhouette of the Light Crested Swan appeared.

The silhouette of the Light Crested Swan flapped his wings and released sparkling little light swans to the ground. The light swans penetrated the ground and destroyed it even further, but it was incredibly effective in uprooting the corrupted elder dryad. The mythical tier skill has a homing function which is why the body of corrupted elder dryad was directly hit.

"Kanlaon, burn her down." Adrian stated as he froze the corrupted elder dryad in time.

Adrian's mana could be seen getting decreased at a fast rate as stopping time of a live being messes more with causality. Kanlaon did not disappoint as he suddenly blazed his flame dragon orb and released his dragon breath on it. The dragon breath that was golden is suddenly enhanced with the fire element which burned the corrupted elder dryad. The screams of the corrupted elder dryad echoed in the area.

Chapter 2108 A Piece of ???

The screams of the corrupted elder dryad died down as her body burned fiercely. Kanlaon did not just enchant his attack with the flame attribute but also with nether energy. Not only were the flames already deadly to the corrupted elder dryad but the nether energy also burned her soul as a result. The corrupted elder dryad screamed out loud as her body and soul burned slowly as if she was being tortured.

The corrupted elder dryad knew that it was not going to succeed in this fight and decided to retreat. Before the corrupted elder dryad retreated, she released a powerful spike from her body which headed towards Adrian. This was the last-ditch attempt of the corrupted elder dryad to try and kill Adrian as she knew that he was a summoner. As long as the summoner dies, she might not need to escape with her life.

Adrian sensed the danger, but it was actually something that he could not see clearly. In order to know where that danger was, Adrian used some of his remaining mana to stop time. When Adrian stopped time, it was when he saw the threat that was about to take his life. A large thorny stake was about three inches near his face.

"Such a close call. So, there are attacks that even I cannot see or even my soulbounds." Adrian stated as he created a small portal in front of his face.

Adrian made time flow again and the corrupted elder dryad was thrilled as her hidden attack was not detected. The corrupted elder dryad was about to laugh when something pierced her head. She was supposed to escape and give information to her queen. The corrupted elder dryad could only lament as her lifeless body dropped down and burned to ashes. A flower bud looking object dropped as well and this was the Grafts of the defeated corrupted elder dryad.

[You have defeated the corrupted elder dryad. You have gained experience points.]

Adrian coughed up blood as he used too much mana in order to create a rift that redirected the thorn that the corrupted elder dryad shot out. This was now the default reaction for Adrian when he bottoms out his mana as health is used instead. He did not know when this happened as normal people even demons will experience dizziness when they lose all their mana.

"Maybe it is one of the perks of being a Champion? There are stories of myths about champions fighting to the death despite being tired and exhausted. I can finally look at that stone." Adrian stated as he pulled out the stone from his pocket since he could not hide it in his inventory.

==

Item Name: Piece of ???

Item Tier: Unknown

Item Type: Unknown

Item Effect:

-An item that gives off an eerie and unknown power that can either harm or benefit the user.

Description: A stone said to have been born when the world was created but that is all speculative. It has yet to give off its real purpose and is said to bring misfortune to those that try and use the energy it exudes. Not much is known about this stone, but it seems to be something incredibly important.

==

"Even the name is blocked. The fact that even my own eye could not decipher it means that it is almost divine in nature." Adrian stated.

"Master, please hand me that stone. I will make sure to maximize its use." Paradox stated as if it was excited, but its monotone mechanical voice is what Adrian heard.

"Do you know the use of this stone?" Adrian asked.

"I do not have a definitive answer, but it is similar to a fragment of Chaos. Unlike the fragment, this stone seems to have been sealed away in a material that absorbs negative energy in the area." Paradox stated.

"You can have it since I now have ownership of it. I have also completed the quest so there are no problems." Adrian stated as he looked at the notification.

"Thank you, master. I will make sure to decode its power for you." Paradox stated.

[You have completed the quest 'Unknown Object of Power'.]

[You have gained ownership of the Unknown Object of Power that the Black Fairy Mavros previously used.]

[You can now get the item promised by the Fairy King once you report that you have gained the Unknown Object of Power.]

Adrian looked around and saw that he basically destroyed a part of the forest. He could have restored it, but Wisteria is not with him. Adrian drank a mana potion and tried to revert time in order to restore at least the area. He did not summon Saena as well because she was guarding Wisteria in Avalon.

"I guess that is the best that I can do. Still, that dryad is a bit strange as she had a human soul is mixed in with her own." Adrian stated as he restored most of the land that he destroyed but the trees that died could not be reverted back since they are still alive. He also found it odd that a dryad has two souls in her body but it was fortunate that both passed to the afterlife.

Adrian then picked up the flower bud that is the Grafts of the corrupted elder dryad. Adrian could feel the immense cursed energy in the Grafts as if it was used in a foul ritual. He hid this in his inventory and determine to give it to Hexy since she would be the only one that can purify such an item. Seeing that he did all he could, Adrian created a portal and vanished from his location.

==

"She is gone! Scouts, go to the location and investigate what happened to one of our own. Retrieve her Grafts if it is still there." The Black Fairy Mavros stated as she was connected to all of the dryads that she revived. She wanted to believe that the dryad made a mistake and offended someone but the disappearance was sudden.

Chapter 2109 The Fairy Vault I

The unknown stone of power was absorbed by Paradox, and it was directly sent to the special space within it. The unknown stone of power is held in this special space that the ego weapon acquired by being linked by its master. This special space is independent of Adrian's soul as it is a place where Paradox analyzes the items that it has taken from its master.

There is already one item inside this special space, and it is the Fragment of Chaos that Paradox was able to extract from the item that he took from the Daemos Vault. Another item has flown into this special space, and it was the unknown stone of power. Paradox examined the unknown stone of power via a scan at first but there is no reaction.

Seeing that there was no reaction on using a normal scan, Paradox used the energy it extracted from the fragment of chaos. The energy from the fragment of chaos was fierce and cannot be controlled but Paradox was able to use it. Paradox was experimenting with this energy and even siphoned some of it towards Adrian's energy source, but it was all gobbled up by the mini-Chaos Pierrot inside of him.

Paradox used this energy to weaken the outer shell that is sealing the energy inside of the unknown stone of power. The tyrannical energy that Paradox siphoned is used to strike the outer shell of the unknown stone of power which was then countered by the negative energy that the item released. The negative energy was incredibly powerful that it was able to defend itself from what Paradox was doing. Still, Paradox deduced that this was its aggressive preservation method.

The unknown stone of power did not show any signs of defense when it was being scanned. It only tried to defend itself when Paradox used offensive means to destroy the shell. The shell itself looked like it was some sort of material that uses negative energy. Paradox was incredibly curious about this type of energy as this is an energy that is never used by many. Negative energy is like the potent energy of all things in reverse.

Someone that carries negative energy could basically turn good people into evil or even change their bad luck into good luck depending on the chance. Paradox is sure that there is something inside of this shell of negative energy that will be beneficial for its master. Paradox might answer in monotone or by pure logic, but it has one desire and that is for its master to become powerful enough to even overthrow the gods.

"I will succeed no matter what, master." Paradox stated as it focused on its work but did notice the small being that entered its special space. The small being is none other than the small Chaos Pierrot but it was merely observing Paradox.

==

"You are back so soon!?" The Fairy King stated.

"I was gone for a few days though." Adrian stated.

"Apologies as days are merely hours to existences like us. Since you are here, do you have any progress on the thing that I asked you about?" The Fairy King asked.

"I did." Adrian stated as he relayed what happened and how he got the unknown stone of power.

"Excellent! As expected of the mediator. Still, I did not expect that you managed to get into battle with a dryad. Fortunately, she was just revived and is still weak which is why she was easier to kill. Do you perhaps have her Grafts?" The Fairy King asked.

"I do. Here it is." Adrian stated as he presented the small flower bud.

"Blasphemous!" The Fairy King stated.

"She really has returned!" The Fairy Queen stated.

"Intriguing." Hexy stated which made all of them look at her.

"Still, I think we now have proof that the Black Fairy Mavros has revived. It is best to think that she has all her past memories intact due to something that she did. She also managed to corrupt the dryads, and she might have also done so with the lesly she has under her." Adrian stated.

"May I have this?" Hexy asked.

"Sure, I was about to give this to you as I think you will be the only one that can purify it. By the way, where is Creepysoo?" Adrian asked.

"Oh! He was dragged by the Lesly and Dryads that uses death energy. They went to some type of forest underground that even I am not supposed to enter. I really wanted to go though as it seems like it is a great place where cursed energy resides." Hexy stated.

"I see. Well, please look out for him while he is here. The undead king always sends messages to the Daemos Elders to check up on him from time to time." Adrian stated.

"Can you purify this, daughter?" The Fairy King interjected as the flower bud Grafts was heavily cursed and twisted.

"It is not difficult as long as we have Pure Water." Hexy stated.

"Pure Water! That does not exist here even in Alfheim. Springs that could release Pure Water have all been destroyed by the distorted gods when they attacked. Pure Water is something that could even inflict pain on distorted gods. I believe that you are unable to get that even without help." The Fairy Queen stated.

"Is it that difficult to get? Guild Leader, do you have any on hand?" Hexy stated as she held out her hand towards Adrian.

"Here you go. You can just Elder Danaya to get some more from Elder Ascalor if you need more." Adrian stated as he casually gave a bottle of Pure Water to Hexy. The stunned faces of the Fairy King and Fairy Queen could be seen as they could not believe that such a precious thing was being easily given.

"So, what about the Fairy Vault?" Adrian asked as the Fairy Queen and Fairy King was still stunned of what they suddenly witnessed.

Chapter 2110: The Fairy Vault II

"You have Pure Water?" The Fairy King finally asked as he snapped out of his stunned state. "Yes. The guild leader has a spring in his territory that produces it." Hexy stated as she also sometimes asks for bottles of it when she researches curses for the Church of the Twin Gods.

"You give it for free!" The Fairy Queen exclaimed as she almost fainted.

"It is not really free as you will need the approval of the Elders of the Church of the Twin Gods. They do not give it to just anyone, but Hexy has helped them a lot with curses and hexes which is why she can ask for it. I also gave her permission to get some as long as it is not too much." Adrian stated.

In actuality, it was Adrian's approval that gave Hexy the permission and the elders of the church just ask her for note purposes. Adrian has full control over that spring as he was the one that created it in the first place. He is also the territory lord that owns everything in Avalon, but he does not act like it as the other elders are the ones maintaining his territory. In fact, Adrian is voted as the most generous territory lord in an anonymous survey in the forums. "Can we also get a bottle?" The Fairy King asked as he held out his hands and acted cute. "Please have one as this is the only extra that I have but make sure to not do that in front of me again." Adrian stated as he visibly cringed but still gave a small vial of Pure Water. The Fairy King danced with glee along with the Fairy Queen as if they won the lottery or something. When they finally returned to their senses, the Fairy king coughed and casted a spell towards a wall. As soon as the magic circle etched itself on the wall, a door appeared that decorated by numerous plants and roots.

"This is the entrance to the Fairy Vault. It is a spell reserved for fairy royalty, but we changed the locks due to what happened with the Black Fairy Mavros. It was a good thing that we changed the spell structure and the needed mana to create the door or else she might have entered it again. To think that she really did revive but that topic is for another time. Please enter." The Fairy King stated as he gestured for Adrian to enter the vault.

Adrian nodded his head and entered the vault along with Hexy and the Fairy Queen. The Fairy King entered as well when he closed the door via another magic spell. Adrian could see that what he entered is indeed the vault of the fairies because it was incredibly messy. There were a lot of treasures, but it was incredibly messy as if the treasures were just junk lying around.

"I guess the Elder Ascalor was telling the truth that the Faekin are an unorganized and messy bunch when it comes to physical stuff." Adrian thought as he could see a mythical tier sword just lying around.

"So, what do you need? We have lots of stuff that we can give you. We can just use a searching spell to find the thing that you need." The Fairy King stated as puffed his chest due to the pride of the enormous but messy pile of treasures.

"Are there anything related to Origin Magic?" Adrian asked as he wanted to see if there might be items related to things that he needs.

"Origin Magic... I think we already gave all of them to the Daemos Elders for safekeeping. Even we cannot wield such potent and destructive magic. Artifacts that have Origin Magic is also very tricky to safeguard as there are lots of things that could go wrong." The Fairy King stated as he tried using a search spell, but nothing floats up.

"We might not have anything that have Origin Magic, but we do have a relic that has a hint of spatial and temporal magic." The Fairy Queen stated as she casted the search magic and a Rubik's cube looking relic shot up from a pile of stuff.

"Please check this thing as I picked this up when I visited an unknown world once. I touched it carelessly once and I was almost sucked inside of it." The Fairy Queen stated as she made the relic float in front of Adrian.

"It almost sucked you inside but then just left it somewhere on the ground." Adrian stated as the Fairy Queen just smiled at him, but he could feel that she was embarrassed slightly.

"It is quite interesting as well, guild leader. I can feel some negative emotions from that relic, and it almost resembles a curse to be honest." Hexy stated as she looked at the floating relic.

"I would not touch it as there is a strange energy floating around it that warps space. Touch it long enough and you will end up in another place entirely." Adrian stated as he looked at the relic floating in front of him.

Item Name: Key to Daedalus' Labyrinth

Item Tier: Mythical

Item Type: Dungeon Entrance Key

Item Effect:

-An item that leads the holder to Daedalus' Labyrinth.

-Just holding the Key to Daedalus' Labyrinth for ten seconds will fully transport your entire body to the labyrinth. You can also exit the Labyrinth, but the key will go into cooldown.

Cooldown: 7 days

Description: A mysterious key said to have been created by the renowned inventor Daedalus. This was a special key that transported the user to the real labyrinth that inspired the one that he created to trap the Minotaur. It is said that even Daedalus himself has yet to fully complete the real labyrinth.

Restriction: Can only be used by one person at a time.

"It is something that I actually need." Adrian stated as he felt something inside of him tell him to conquer that labyrinth.