

O Summoner 2291

Chapter 2291: Fixing the Soul Root

"Tell me what I need to do?" Adrian asked his Noblesse Inner Demon.

"You would need to connect the two trees together to make it cohesive. You would need to have them balance each other out instead of fighting for superiority. You need to make them bow down to you as I cannot take that responsibility if you become a Noblesse. Focus on the stone table and merge the disconnected lines." The Noblesse Inner Demon stated.

"Okay." Adrian replied as he touched the stone tablet that rose from the floor beneath him.

As soon as Adrian touched the stone tablet, roots that have two distinct energies suddenly attached themselves to his hands. One root looked crippled and dead while the other one is strong and lush. The appearance of the roots was not a factor on how strong they were as both have great pulling power that Adrian is repelling with his own mental strength.

"Do not fight it. Command it! You are the master here." The Noblesse Inner Demon stated. Adrian did not fight the roots as the Noblesse Inner Demon advised. When he relaxed a bit, the roots tried to attach themselves to his neck, but he already took full control of the situation as the Noblesse Inner Demon told him. All of Adrian's mental strength that was spread out is now converged to his own projection inside his soul root. A powerful and tyrannical force suddenly enveloped him and actually scared the roots to even go further.

"Return." Adrian stated with conviction and confidence.

The roots that curled on his arm retreated like a scared living organism. As soon as the roots retreated, a powerful shock entered Adrian's mind as he is suddenly filled with the information on how his soul root came to be. Flashes of memories from when he started suddenly came over him as he received all the knowledge regarding his soul root.

"You are here. I have been waiting for quite a long time. I thought that you will not reach me until the traces of my mana vanishes." A familiar old woman stated as Adrian is suddenly in a place that is only made of white walls.

"Where am I?" Adrian asked.

"You did not even ask who I am." The old woman stated.

"You are the old woman back then that gave me the necklace that changed my fate. There should have been a warning sign on how to trigger it as I was incredibly confused when it happened." Adrian stated.

"You do remember me, but I am just a memory ghost if you were to describe me. If you are here, then it means that you are ready to fix your soul." The old woman stated.

"Did the Amulet of Armageddon change the nature of my soul? Is that why the energies of my body are not synchronizing correctly?" Adrian stated as the old woman suddenly got confused as well.

"What are you talking about? Your soul should be the strongest ever as it is blessed by the Asmodians themselves. You are the hope of the race as you will be the key to restore the proud protectors of the universe. What have you done, little one?" The old woman asked, and Adrian decided to say everything since the former was nothing more than a memory injected using the necklace.

"That is my general situation." Adrian stated.

"Child. You have taken in forces that would have generally destroyed your soul. Even an Asmodian's soul would not have survived the things that you have accepted. What is special about you?" The old woman stated as she suddenly came closer to look Adrian in the eyes.

The old woman suddenly rushing to Adrian came at a surprise but the former only observed deeply. The old woman stared into Adrian's eyes and saw a flicker or a spark. As soon as she saw this spark, a mixture of fear and shock could be seen on her face. The old woman then made some remarks about it being impossible.

"Uhm... can I get the details on why you are reacting like this?" Adrian asked.

"It seems that you have deviated yet are on the right path. It seems that your future could bring ruination or harmony. You no longer carry the burdens of the Asmodians as you have a much heavier burden to bear child. Still, you must always remember that you are one of the chosen to lead the Asmodians back to power." The old woman stated.

"I am now more confused than ever before. Can you give me a hint that is not archaic?" Adrian stated.

"I no longer have time, child. There are also forces of creation that forbid me to speak more. The fact that those forces can affect me from here means that your journey is of great importance. All I can say before I leave is that all I can see in your eyes is chaos." The old woman stated as she suddenly vanished into nothingness as if she was hit by the power of causality.

"Wait! I have not even gotten anything out of our conversation! What do you mean?!" Adrian shouted but his vision also changed.

"Are you fine, host?" The Noblesse Inner Demon asked as it noticed that Adrian's eyes earlier suddenly turned white.

"Where am I?!" Adrian suddenly exclaimed as his vision returned to him.

"You are still in your soul root. You were acting strange earlier as if you were in a trance, but the good thing is that you are almost done." The Noblesse Inner Demon stated. Adrian is shocked to see the soul root that he was fixing almost completed. The two trees are starting to harmoniously combine as if both the Qlipoth and the Sephiroth had become amiable with one another. The scene of two large trees forming in front of him made Adrian forget about what the old woman told him earlier as he is now more focused on fixing his current problem.

Chapter 2292: First Noblesse Challenge Completed

Adrian focused on making sure that the Qlipoth and the Sephiroth combined perfectly. He was on autopilot the whole time as there was something in him forcing the two soul root trees to become amiable with each other. It was like the two soul root trees are terrified of a higher power from within him and is accepting all orders without question.

"Just a little more." Adrian stated as he was almost finished.

The Noblesse Inner Demon could only smile as the host was indeed becoming more complete. The inner demons of the Daemos serve as the guides inserted in their bloodline to make sure that the race will never die off. It is a failsafe measure to make sure that the Daemos would not abuse their power as well since they can use Origin Magic.

Adrian stared at the two trees as it seems they were unwilling to complete the last step. The two opposing forces tried repelling one another but this only made Adrian angry. Thinking that he will have another problem piling up made Adrian's authority bigger. He might not have noticed it but a being with numerous faces and made up of cosmic gas appeared behind him which terrified the two trees.

[The Qlipoth and the Sephiroth have fully fused together.]

[Your broken soul root has finally been completed.]

[Your Soul Root is known as the Cosmic Concordia.]

Adria watched as the changes of his soul root is affected in real time. The large trees that could be seen in the distance suddenly overlayed with each other. A powerful energy wave is emitted which destroyed the stone tablet where the image of the Qlipoth and Sephiroth combined are presented. The destruction of the stone tablet did not mean the end of the combination as it became a ring that surrounded the combining trees.

The ring spun around in high speed as it released a barrier that trapped all of the energy of the fusion of the two trees. When the ring stopped spinning fast, it is when the full image of the combined Qlipoth and Sephiroth could be seen. A large tree with large orbs that shine with gold and silver light. The perfect combination of lush and dead that amplified its mystic nature.

The branches that looked bald suddenly released a cosmic curtain which could be said to be the leaves of the tree. The leaves were stars while the smaller branches looked like galaxies. It was truly living to its name called Cosmic Concordia. It looked like the tree of that is supporting the entire universe on its branches.

"You have done well, host. You have passed the First Challenge of becoming a Noblesse." The Noblesse Inner Demon stated as he smiled and clapped his hands.

"It was strangely easy." Adrian replied as he did not break a sweat or even thought it was difficult.

"The reason for that is due to the fact that you have already built a strong mental and spiritual foundation. You have been ready for a long time as you have defeated gods and even been possessed by them. You have tempered yourself for this, but you were just unable to take the first step which is arriving to this location in your soul." The Noblesse Inner Demon.

"You are correct. This is a much different place compared to when I encountered the first two inner demons." Adrian stated.

"Even if it took quite some time, congratulations are in order." The Noblesse Inner Demon stated as he clapped.

Adrian also felt relieved that the first challenge did not have any problems. He could feel the changes in his body as well as if he was lighter and more attuned to his body. He always felt some sort of small discomfort when he stays too long in one form, but he no longer feels this. "I feel great somehow as if all the fatigue in my body is cleansed." Adrian stated.

"That is your body no longer fighting for its life. Since you have gained full control, I can also release some of my control as well." The Noblesse Inner Demon stated as its power seemed to have increased compared to before.

"Let us proceed with the next challenge then." Adrian stated as he felt extremely energetic and wanted to use this sudden rush of vitality.

"Please exercise some caution, host. Your Soul Root might have been fixed but your own body will still need to cope with the changes. It would take at least six months for your body to stabilize. It might be shorter with more opportunities to use it. For now, the second challenge will be initiated when I deem that you are ready." The Noblesse Inner Demon stated.

"How many challenges are even there?" Adrian asked.

"There are three challenges that you need to accomplish to gain my power. You will gain more power with more challenges that you finish. For the last challenge, I am the one waiting for it more as this one wants to exchange blows with the host himself." The Noblesse Inner Demon stated as he smiled like when Adrian is in his battle junkie state.

"I also wait for that time." Adrian replied with an anxious but excited smile.

Adrian woke up from his trance and saw five other Gurus surrounding him. He could see that all five of them were incredibly tired as if they fought an incredibly difficult battle. He also looked around and saw the place in disorder as if a hurricane has hit the place.

"What happened here?" Adrian asked.

"You happened here, you brat!" Guru Polliwog stated as he stomped his feet.

"Care to explain?" Adrian asked in a shy tone as he was embarrassed because he could totally see that the damage marks originated from his location.

Guru Polliwog then told Adrian that he suddenly released a powerful wave of energy that made even the Eden Guardian react. Guru Polliwog could not contain it himself which is why he called on five other Gurus to make sure that their entire place will not get leveled. With the help of the Eden Guardian, they were able to contain the power.

Chapter 2293: The Wilde Eden Guardian

"I am immensely thankful that you have managed to suppress the damage and also very ashamed that such a thing happened." Adrian stated.

"You have nothing be ashamed of, young mediator. Your power was just more potent than everyone else that came here before you. Younger Gurus would have been able to help in suppressing the energy you were releasing but they fainted to the point that the Temple Guardian had to step up." Guru Polliwog stated as he suddenly passed a piece of paper to Adrian.

"What is this?" Adrian asked as it was filled with numbers.

"That will be our assistance fee and also partial payment for all the damages. Please understand that we do not have much here but we still need to live." Guru Polliwog stated.

"Oh! Since it was King Leonidas that brought me here, you can just have him take care of this. He did say that he will shoulder everything I needed as I am his guest." Adrian stated as he gave back the paper.

"I will make sure that Ribbit will take this to the king then." Guru Polliwog stated.

"Please also take this as a separate thank you from me. This is different from that as I am thankful that you managed to help me." Adrian stated as he gave a small pouch containing 500 gold coins to Guru Polliwog.

"I barely helped but refusing would be very bad of me. We always teach the candidates here that it is very bad to refuse the blessings that others give willingly. May the spirits guide you." Guru Polliwog stated as he graciously accepted the bag.

Adrian already knew the state of this place as soon as he entered, and it seems to be in need of some retouches. Also, the items that he accidentally destroyed seemed to be priceless, but they did not want to make him pay a lot which hurt his conscience a bit. He made sure to at least give something while King Leonidas paid the amount written in that paper.

"If that is all, then I am going to return to my territory now. Th..." Adrian stated as he was about to say his farewells, but Guru Polliwog suddenly stopped him.

Guru Polliwog suddenly saw a falling leaf in front of him and froze for a moment as if he was telepathically conversing with someone or something. Adrian also felt a strange faint energy enter Guru Polliwog's body, but it was so subtle that he almost ignored it. Adrian also felt a pair of eyes looking from somewhere, but he could not pinpoint it.

"I am very sorry to suddenly stop you from leaving but it seems that the Guardian of this land wants to meet you. Please follow me if you may." Guru Polliwog stated as his tone is now full of respect as the slight playful twang vanished from his voice.

"Is it the Guardian that is observing me right now?" Adrian asked.

"Yes. The guardian wants to discuss something and also discuss something relating to the Creation Relic of the Selvaggians." Guru Polliwog stated which made Adrian curious.

"Please lead the way then." Adrian stated as he followed Guru Polliwog deeper into the Marsh where incredibly thick fog is covering.

Adrian's mind suddenly raced with thoughts about the Eden Guardian wanting to have the Creation Relic return or something. He also found the path that the two of them are following a bit weird. Guru Polliwog and him are basically in a fog so thick that no one can see what is around, but Adrian could clearly see the old frog beastkin guru clearly.

Adrian decided not to speak as the fog did not mess with his perception at all. Still, he did notice that they entered a parallel world a few minutes ago. The energy in this place is also incredibly dense that normal beings would have suffocated should they pass through it. Adrian could withstand it because of the fact that his Soul Root is now fixed which increased his resistances against external pressure.

"We are here now. I have done my part and shall bid you farewell. Thank you for the very eye-opening experience, young mediator." Guru Polliwog stated as he bowed to Adrian before his entire body vanished into the fog.

"Wait! I cannot see anything yet!" Adrian stated as he found himself surrounded by thick fog with no one or nothing in sight.

"Welcome, Chaosborne." A voice that sounded melodic stated as it is heard inside of Adrian's head instead of his ears.

"Who am I talking to?" Adrian asked.

"Apologies as I have been too used to having the fog all the time." The voice stated as the fog suddenly cleared and revealed the source of the voice inside of Adrian's head.

A large monster that could easily swallow Adrian ten times over could be seen just a few inches before him. The monster looked like a dragon, but Adrian did not sense any dragon blood in it. He even asked Kanlaon to make sure and the latter verified that he is not in front of a dragon. In fact, Adrian would actually say that the being or monster in front of him felt more like a primordial beast.

"Greetings, Chaosborne. I am Mistrotl. The Guardian of the Wilde Eden." Mistrotl stated as it suddenly blew out white fog from the fog like fins on its body.

Monster Name: Mistrotl

Monster Tier: Transcendent

Monster Type: Eden Guardian

Monster Species: Eden Fog Axolotl

Description: A powerful being that contains the same energies as primordial beast due to their innate ability to gather primordial energy from the source of the realm itself. It is an Eden Guardian that is born to protect the Wilde from all dangers. It is said that the world or realm could be rebuilt as long as the Eden Guardian and the Realm's Eden is still alive and well.

"Greetings, Mistrotl. I am Equinox, the Mediator of Death. I believe that Chaosborne is an old-fashioned way of calling us demons, but we go by Daemos now." Adrian stated. Adrian could see that Mistrotl looked like a large Axolotl that takes on a pure blue color. The gills and fins of Mistrotl looked like it was made of the fog itself as it is an extension of his body. Adrian could now see why Guru Polliwog freaked out earlier when he absorbed some of the fog. It seems that the fog is a part of Mistrotl as it contained his unique energy signature. "So, the Chaosborne go by Daemos now. It has been too long it seems that I have been here in this realm. Tell me, Daemos Equinox... what do you wish to achieve using the Creation Relic of the Selvaggians." Mistrotl stated.

"You can just call me Equinox. To answer that question, I just need the Creation relic to form a cohesive link between this realm and the main realm. Having the Creation Relic of the Selvaggians is a way to do that. As you should know that this realm was born through the Creation Relic sharing some of its power." Adrian stated as Mistrotl looked at him with its cute beady eyes before flowing some fog onto him.

"You speak the truth, Equinox. I am sure that you know the reason why I inquired about it. The Selvaggians have been taking care of this realm for so long that I managed to recover some of my power to perfectly hide the Wilde's Eden." Mistrotl stated.

"Strange. I thought that you Eden Guardians should not care for what really happens to the beings that reside on your world that much. All of you are basically immortal beings as long as the Eden of the realm is maintained. At least, that is what the Gods and Goddesses of Life tell me. This is the first time that I have met an Eden Guardian after all as all of you tend to avoid encounters." Adrian stated.

"I have become fond of the Selvaggians over the course of the ages that have passed. They are beings that are true to their words without any malicious intent behind it. I have told you before that I was weakened back then but it was also due to a rampaging primordial beast.

It might have been different from the one that you have defeated but it was fierce, nonetheless. A lot of the Selvaggians sacrificed their lives to protect this realm's Eden even if they did not have to. I am merely repaying the debt that I owe them by making sure that their Creation Relic is not going to be used against them" Mistrotl stated.

"What would you have done if I used it against them?" Adrian asked with a gulp.

"Should you do so then I will make sure that you will not be able to leave this realm and trap you within the mist until you lose your will to live." Mistrotl stated which made Adrian laugh weakly as a reaction.

"Thank you for the warning." Adrian replied with a calm composure which the Wilde Eden Guardian Mistrotl acknowledged that the being before him is almost the same in standing as it.

"Please take out the Creation Relic of the Selvaggians." Mistrotl stated.

"Can I at least ask first? I do not want you to suddenly snatch it away from me." Adrian replied.

"Do not worry, young mediator. I will just impart some of my essence on it as I have seen your memories on how you are going to use it. I have seen the memories that I needed when you made contact with the fog that I have made.

I have seen this Island Sentinel that appeared in one of your new islands. I wish to have a spark of me near the Creation Relic of the Selvaggians as a repayment of my debt. Although it will not truly be me, the fact that a part of me is still protecting them fills me with relief." Mistrotl stated.

"If you wish to do so then I should honor your resolve." Adrian stated as he took out the chest from his inventory and presented it to Mistrotl.

Mistrotl then proceeded to emit a mist from his body which is not as thick as the usual fog that he is releasing. The mist then entered the Wilde Heart, and the power of the Wilde Eden Guardian surrounded it as protection. As Mistrotl promised, it only gave part of its power to the Creation Relic and let Adrian return it back to his inventory.

[The Creation Relic of the Selvaggians, Wilde Heart, has been imbued by a protector.]

"I guess you learn something new every day." Adrian stated as he always thought that things were set in stone in Pandemonium.

"Thank you once again for your assistance, young mediator. I hope that you help this realm again should it fall into danger once again." Mistrotl stated.

"Why did you not interfere with the primordial beast that attacked though?" Adrian asked as he remembered that the Eden Guardian would have acted if the realm itself is in danger.

"Did you not think that I did not help all of you? I used all of my power in making sure that the primordial beast scoundrel will not be able to freely absorb the primordial energy of this realm. I restricted it to force it into eating the land itself as it had no other choice to sustain itself.

I could not actively move as well because that damned god was peeking in this realm as it waited for me to show myself. I had to choose my battles given that I will not be able to take on a god and a primordial beast on my own." Mistrotl stated.

Adrian could agree with the sentiment of the Wilde Eden Guardian. If the world is threatened by two beings of power that will team up to take you down, the best course of action is to make sure to hinder one while the forcing the orchestrator to be unable to move. In fact, the distorted god would not have moved if Adrian and the Daemos did not force its hand.

"A difficult decision as some areas were destroyed but it was necessary for the realm." Adrian stated.

"I know that you would understand, young mediator. I could see that you have also underwent heavy decisions like me. If that is all then I wish you well on our journey." Mistrotl stated as it suddenly released more fog that swallowed Adrian's body as well.

Adrian suddenly found himself in the middle of the Marsh. He was not in the temple located at the deep parts but is located in the area where the frog beastkin live. Elder Ribbit even got scared as Adrian suddenly popped out while he was talking to some villagers.

"Mediator Equinox! I thank the gods that you are fine. If you were to be hurt, then my head would have been served on a platter." Elder Ribbit stated.

"It is nice to see you too, Elder Ribbit. I must take my leave now but please tell King Leonidas that I appreciate the help that he has given me. I will never forget this favor as this trip has truly awakened something in me." Adrian stated as he suddenly vanished using teleportation.

"Wait! I was about to ask you about the bill that... and he is gone. How will I explain this amount to his majesty? I need a vacation and a soak in the famous mud baths." Elder Ribbit stated as he saw five zeroes in the bill that made him gulp.

Adrian appeared in Avalon and is about to use the Creation Relic to upgrade the territory when the voice of the Yewdrassil entered his mind. He always teleports to the location of the Tree of Life and Death as if it was his save point in Avalon. This area is also the safest and heavily guarded and only Adrian is allowed to teleport directly in this area. Even the three Daemos Elders are not permitted to do so.

"Is something wrong, Yewdrassil?" Adrian asked.

"I am advising you to not do what you are going to do as it will be ineffective." The Tree of Life and Death stated.

"You mean trying to upgrade my territory? Why are you trying to stop me when it was you that said that I need to expand it more." Adrian asked.

"The territory needs to breath, Mediator Equinox. The energy from the latest island has yet to fully stabilize and you are going to add another which will detriment it. Please wait another month to see that relic as using it now will be useless." The Tree of Life and Death stated which Adrian actually tested out.

Adrian placed the Creation Relic onto the upgrade material page on the territory panel, but the upgrade territory button did not appear. It seems that the Tree of Life and Death is telling the truth that further enhancements are impossible as of now. He did not expect that such a thing is possible as a lot of guilds have poured lots of resources to increase their territory, but it seems his territory is more special.

"Can you explain this phenomenon to me on why I cannot do it?" Adrian asked the Tree of Life and Death as he placed all needed materials but no button to upgrade was appearing.

"Your territory is different from other territories that are in this world. It is also the reason why I can take root in your territory when I am supposed to be unable to take root in any world. There is a reason why the entities of the Tree of Life and the Tree of Death are separate. My power itself cannot be handled by the world in its incomplete state, but your territory is special." The Tree of Life and Death stated.

"Are you telling me that my territory is independent from the world itself?" Adrian asked a question that he thought was crazy, but it seems that he was sane all along.

"You are correct in that regard, Mediator Equinox. Your territory is like a separate realm if you wish to have terms used by you demons. A territory that has its own land deity that does not conform to the standard of the world itself. Any damage to the main world will not damage your territory but that also works the other way around.

The world itself will not be able to aid your territory should it be attacked. The best it could do is give you warnings and premonitions but sending direct aid such as using primordial beasts are impossible. Still, this land is under my control as well which is why you should not be scared." The Tree of Life and Death stated which made Adrian speechless but also focused on creating more defensive measures for his territory.

"Oh, my gods and goddesses, my territory is a liability." Adrian stated as he suddenly used terms that his father uses when talking about lands that can be used as income.

"What did you mean by that, Mediator Equinox?" The Tree of Life and Death asked.

"Nothing as the spirit of my father and sister just came over me for a brief moment. Care to explain on other things that I should know about?" Adrian asked as the Tree of Life and Death started to go into detail about the real information of his territory.

"That was incredibly insightful. Thank you." Adrian stated.

"Another word of advice, Mediator Equinox. It is regarding that Creation Relic that you have acquired." The Tree of Life and Death stated.

"Yes?" Adrian replied.

"You must procure something that could tame or suppress the wildness of the energy in that. It could potentially create incidents of monster stampedes if it is left unchecked once it is integrated into your territory." The Tree of Life and Death stated.

Chapter 2295: More Things to Need

"Will there be a problem with this creation relic as is?" Adrian asked.

"Of course, there will be problems. The previous one was fine because it has the properties of nature, and I am able to suppress it with the power that I hold. The problem is that I cannot do the same for that creation relic as the strength that I can use in the mortal realm is still limited. Your territory might be special, but I am heavily restricted by the world as well." The Tree of Life and Death stated.

Adrian understood what the Tree of Life and Death means by it being restricted. If the Tree of Life and Death was not limited in its power, then it would not have needed to appoint Saena as its guardian. It should have been powerful enough to deal with threats, but the world barrier also restricts it heavily.

The restriction is so heavy that the Tree of Life and Death needs to be in a state of hibernation from time to time. This is also the reason why it only talks to specific people like Adrian, Levin Cloud and the Twin Prophets of the Twin Gods. It needs to conserve as much energy as possible because staying rooted in the mortal realm already consumes most of its power.

"You should have told me that you played a part in restricting the creation relic of the Faekin." Adrian stated.

"I did not expect that you would actually do something like that and create a Sentinel. Do you know what you just did when you attempted to use a Creation Relic in your territory?" The Tree of Life and Death stated.

"I just thought it as a convenient shortcut to increase the territory since a lot of beings are entering now. We need more space even if I am being stingy with the upgrades." Adrian stated.

"It seems that you have yet to realize what you have done but that is fine. You will know in time as the territory becomes bigger. I hope that you will be ready for what is to greet you when everything normalizes." The Tree of Life and Death stated.

The Tree of Life and Death basically hinted that Adrian is growing Edens because the start of an Eden Guardian is a Sentinel. Adrian now has a Sentinel in one of the islands and the other islands started to create one as well. In time, the other islands will have Sentinels that will guard them, but Adrian does not know this as there are no notifications. Only the Tree of Life and Death knows because it is connected as the lifeblood of all the islands.

"Anyways, what do I need to help you in restricting the creation relic?" Adrian asked.

"You should find it easy because you already encountered the god that can basically restrict anything in the world. The God of Dreams should be able to tell you what you need to bring me." The Tree of Life and Death stated.

"Huh! Who knew that ferocity can be calmed down by sleep?! The only problem is that I do not know where the temple is located. The temple location of the god of dreams is not something one can easily find. It is ever drifting to the point that being invited to it is a luxury." Adrian stated as the Temple of Dreams is no longer at the same place it was before.

"You are suddenly thinking like a mortal, young mediator." The Tree of Life and Death stated as if that was an insult to Adrian.

"Why? The Temple of Dreams has a location but is always drifting like a dream. The only way I could find it is if I was dreaming myself but..." Adrian stated as he suddenly looked towards the Tree of Life and Death as he realized something.

"It seems that you have found the answer. I guess I should say that it was a difficult conclusion since the Daemos are not really beings that sleep." The Tree of Life and Death stated as it knew that Adrian knew what he needed to do.

"Thank you for the advice. I guess I should use the bed that I have in the Guild House and not let it be just decoration." Adrian stated as he entered the gate to the Guild House.

In the Western Continent, an entire city is suddenly destroyed. The screams of terror engulfed the entire city as a being that looked like a small child released beams of destruction. This small child could destroy a building that is heavily fortified with just a simple punch. To make matters worse, the small child already defeated the Avatar of the God defending the city through other means.

The Western Continent might not be relatively peaceful after its reconstruction, but the presence of the gods made the kingdoms and cities safer. It became a continent where gods could roam but still be restricted inside their sanctuaries. The gods themselves protected the people in exchange for their faith. This made the Western Continent become a bastion for new things to do as it was now safer for players unlike before where they could be randomly sold as a slave.

The gods themselves were powerful but that does not mean there are no ways to hinder them. The sanctuary of the gods is connected to how much power and how long they can manifest into the world. Just because they can easily roam does not mean they can infinitely roam in the western continent. They would still need to return to their divine realms from time to time in order to gather the faith they have collected.

The return of a god to the divine realm will also mean that the city will be defenseless. This is what the intruders of this specific did in order to weaken it. They made sure to sneak inside when the god returned to the divine realm and then defile the sanctuary with the blood of a cursed beast. This made the god unable to descend to the sanctuary properly.

As soon as the sanctuary was defiled, all that was needed is to destroy part of it to make the god unable to descend quickly. The destruction was carried out by none other than a small looking child that said to be in training as a priest. What they did not know is that the child that showed promise is a wolf in sheep's clothing. The moment the Avatar of the God became defenseless, the child released a powerful beam of destruction which heavily damaged the next protector of the city.

As soon as the Avatar of the God was injured, the child, that is actually the Primordial Beast of Wrath, started to destroy the temple even further to make sure that the god will never descend.

The Primordial Beast of Wrath also destroyed the pillars of the city which erected a barrier that protected it from monsters. Once the pillars were destroyed, the barriers covering the city vanished.

The small child that is the Primordial Beast of Wrath suddenly released a powerful roar that reached to even the deepest valleys. In just a few minutes, the sound of monsters charging towards the city could be seen. A beast horde of incredible size will rampage all over the city in just one hour. The citizens of the city could only prepare for battle as the heavily injured Avatar of the God they serve started battle against the Primordial Beast of Wrath.

"Yes! Feel my wrath and be engulfed with wrath as well! This body might not have been perfect as my vessel, but it is filled with enough rage that I can destroy this continent two times over!" The small child which is the Primordial Beast of Wrath stated.

The small child would suddenly turn red in color for a moment and then create a silhouette of a red bear. This was the real image of the Primordial Beast of Wrath as it is indeed a large red monstrous bear. It is the very symbol of violence that causes harm and a being that could be filled with rage in a short amount of time.

The Primordial Beast of Wrath is not just blindly raging because it wanted to do so. It is blindly raging because it was asked to do so but it also wanted to do it. It has been too restricted when it transferred to its current vessel as it destroyed the others from releasing too much rage. This current vessel is the body that is able to contain its rage after a few days.

The Primordial Beast of Wrath is being a distraction for the secret organization in the western continent as part of their initial deal. The Primordial Beast of Wrath will need to help them with some errands in exchange for complete freedom. It seems that the Seven Primordial Beasts of Sin are still under control despite having freedom of movement.

Chapter 2296: Primordial Beast of Wrath

"Found it!" One of the masked assailants of the temple stated as he suddenly took out an item that is filled with some sort of cursed aura.

The cursed item is then equipped by the masked assailant, and it devoured his arm. The arm of the one that was devoured is then replaced by the cursed item. The cursed arm then looked incredibly terrifying as it is made of teeth and rotten flesh. This cursed arm is then used to destroy the crystal floor of the temple as it took out a stone from inside of it.

"We have taken the item. Get ready for extraction." The masked assailant stated as he proceeded to cut his own arm connected to the cursed arm.

The cursed arm suddenly lost all vitality and proceeded to turn into a cage that held the crystal that was taken from the floor. The other masked assailants did not even flinch when one of them cut their arms willingly as if this was already expected and normal. The cursed arm became a cursed cage for the crystal as its power that pulsated suddenly dimmed down.

"The others are ready. We just need to get to the prepared destination." One of the masked assailants stated as all of them are about to leave the temple.

"You shall not go anywhere." A voice hidden in the sands suddenly stated as a figure of a god emerged from it.

"The God of Storm Seth! Impossible!" The masked assailants stated as they have been given a report that the God of Storm Seth has already ascended to the divine realm.

"That is an item that mortals should never wield." The God of Storm Seth stated as his eyes glowed and enclosed the entire area in a sandstorm which made the masked assailants to flee. "Release the monster juice!" One of the monster assailants shouted as a contact from the outside received the orders.

About a dozen or so masked assailants suddenly released some sort of pink dust that made the horde approaching the city even more frenzied. The dangerous monster horde is now enraged as they used a powerful monster bait that is more potent than the one that is circulating in the market today. Using a more potent monster bait called monster juice is banned by all of the kingdoms in the world due to it inciting a large number of monsters trampling over the area it is scattered.

"If you wish to save all of the people in this city then you would need to prioritize dealing with the crazed monster horde." One of the masked assailants stated as he actually dared to threaten the God of Storms Seth.

"Did you really think that I am the only one present in this place? You mortals working with the fallen gods think that we do not learn our lesson. If you only used a primordial beast that could sneak around, then we would not have been able to formulate a plan to deal with you. The primordial beast that you have brought will die today with all of you with it." The God of Storms Seth stated as he conjured the sands to grab all of the masked assailants.

"You would rather deal with us than save your followers! Your sacrifice of the humans will be showed to those that wander the deserts!" The masked assailant stated but he soon got choked by sand as the God of Storms Seth believed that he needed to be an example.

The masked assailants saw one of their own dies from sand being fed until they popped like a ballon. The process was not painless as well as they could see their own comrade die slowly and painfully. Sudden death by poison was much better than they death he has experienced. Knowing that they cannot escape, the other masked assailants can only confirm that this is a failure.

"Primordial Beast of Wrath! Heed our command!" The leader of the masked assailants shouted as he suddenly used a golden ornament on his hand to call upon the Primordial Beast of Wrath.

Just as the leader of the masked assailants wanted, a powerful beam of destruction suddenly hit the wall of sand that enclosed them. The Primordial Beast of Wrath appeared on top of them and charged towards the God of Storms Seth. The God of Storms Seth did not even bat an eye because he did not need to.

The Primordial Beast of Wrath that was supposed to save the masked assailants is suddenly hit by another being that flew faster than it. The being that hit the Primordial Beast of Wrath is none other than the God of the Skies Horus in his dark golden armor and large dark golden wings. The Primordial Beast of Wrath tumbled to the ground and even destroyed some structures while the God of the Skies Horus pinned it down.

"Impossible!" The leader of the masked assailants stated as they cannot believe that another god was able to come here.

"We were all waiting for your next attack. Even if I had to shift the sands of the western continent itself, we all made sure that you will die in it." The God of the Storms Seth stated as he once again used the sand to engulf all of the masked assailants.

"All the believers here will die! You will weaken and there will be more of us to continue the mission! We will live forever even if we die because off our gods!" The leader of the masked assailants stated as if he has gone crazy.

"Is that so? Then make sure that the Hand of Death does not grab you on your way to that supposed place." The God of the Storms Seth stated as all of the masked assailants were crushed by the sands until only blood was left of their bodies.

"The beast horde is difficult to deal with even with my own power. You should do it yourself so that your visit here will not be wasted." The God of Storm Seth stated as a being made of shadows suddenly formed in front of him that took the form of a beautiful lady with serpentine allure.

"Just say that you need help. I shall deal with the horde while you deal with the Primordial Beast of Wrath that is keeping Horus busy. We are too far from our Sanctuaries to use our full power after all. We should at least capture that thing and extract all of the information that we need." The woman that is clad in dark gold armor stated.

"If that is what you wish, Apophis. You do outrank me in terms of power." The God of Storms Seth stated.

"You were much cuter when you opposed me." The Goddess Apophis stated as she vanished.

The Goddess Apophis appeared on top of the city and grimaced when she saw the destroyed parts of it. She also felt all the negative energies of the people, but she did not falter. She used that negative energy to conjure a serpent beast so large that it could devour the city.

"Devour them to appease your anger." The Goddess Apophis stated as the large serpent suddenly charged towards the large beast horde and devoured everything in its path.

The beast horde would have started to scatter if they saw the large snake devouring them but did not. The crazed beast horde has lost all reason as they were overstimulated to the point that some even trampled on their members just to advance. Seeing the reaction of the beast horde, the Goddess Apophis had no choice but to use her own energy to create a powerful snake made of pure darkness.

"Darkness shall be fed." The Goddess Apophis stated as she commanded the snake made of darkness to devour the beast horde coming from the other side.

Some sort of fatigue could be seen on her face as she was too far from their sanctuary. She would have easily squashed a large beast horde like this if she could access her full power, but she could not. She was too far from her main temple and could only absorb some faith from the people here that are praying for protection.

"They should also be having a difficult time against that primordial beast given that we lost much of our energy trying to arrive here." The Goddess Apophis stated as she looked down to see the battle happening below her.

The God of the Skies Horus and the God of Storms Seth were both battling the Primordial Beast of Wrath. It was mainly the God of the Skies Horus attacking while the God of the Storms Seth provided support, but they were indeed having a difficult time. They might be powerful gods but their energies that are stabilizing their bodies are almost depleted. Another factor is that the western continent is now full of primordial energy which is beneficial for the Primordial Beast of Wrath which is why it is becoming stronger.

Chapter 2297: Primordial Beast of Wrath II

The Primordial Beast of Wrath is currently possessing a body that is compatible with it which made it difficult to deal with even with gods going against it. Given that the current energy that the two gods could use against the Primordial Beast of Wrath is that of a Lesser God due to various reasons. The God of the Skies Horus wanted to use his winds to deal with the energy, but the Primordial Beast of Wrath can easily cut through it.

The Primordial Beast of Wrath could create powerful energy beams that can destroy any element that is thrown at it. Its beams of energy are so potent to the point that even the strongest winds of the God of the Skies Horus could be dispersed with one attack. The addition of the God of the Storms Seth did not help as even the sands proved unable to stop the rampaging monster in a child's body.

"We cannot defeat it with the state that we are currently in." The God of Storms Seth stated as they should have been able to deal with the Primordial Beast of Wrath if only, they did not hurry over here.

The gods that appeared had to use a way for instantaneous travel to reach their destination immediately. Even with the power of the sands that the God of Storm Seth has, the bending of time and space requires a lot of energy when it comes to gods in the mortal realm. The gods themselves would still need sufficient energy to traverse the special magic called the Arcane as the world is still restricted by the world barrier despite having the western continent having special privileges.

"If only Apophis did not need to defend the city, then we might be able to take it down easily." The God of the Skies Horus stated as he could see the hordes of monsters getting destroyed as the Goddess Apophis focused on defending the damaged city.

"The annoying thing is that the beast has already lost its mind but is getting stronger as it earns more rage with more damage it gets." The God of Storms Seth stated.

"Will there be reinforcements? Have the other gods been idling while we are here battling such a powerful beast?" The God of the Skies Horus asked.

"This is not the only place that was attacked but this is the place that has a primordial beast. It seems that we drew the shorter end of the stick." The God of Storms Seth stated as they continued fighting against the Primordial Beast of Wrath.

The two gods made sure to not involve the citizens in the fight as well which added more difficulty. The God of the Skies Horus would have unleashed more powerful moves if the area will not be swept away. The God of Storms Seth even used his own energy to create a light barrier that covered the entire city to make sure that the tremor of their fight will not endanger any of the citizens hiding in their houses.

The God of Storms Seth is making sure that the powerful exchanges of the Primordial Beast of Wrath and the God of the Skies Horus will not cause further damage while also supporting his allies. A faint sandstorm could be seen enveloping the entire city and it also means he could see everything that is happening inside. He could see other masked assailants trying to get away via a strange portal that looked like a mouth in the sands.

Before they could even escape, the God of Storms Seth immediately used his sands to kill them all. The remaining masked assailants were turned to bloody pulps as the sand itself crushed them to death. He also monitored what is happening in the city such as the movements of the warriors. Just because the Goddess Apophis is dealing with the horde, it does not mean that she handled it perfectly. There are still some monsters that managed to slip through but the warriors inside the city are dealing with them.

The God of Storms Seth would occasionally help some of the warriors that would get gravely injured because he knows that this is not the end. Whatever those masked assailants scattered in the area is still conjuring lots of beasts. The Primordial Beast of Wrath also incited all of the beasts to become enraged which fueled its own energy even more. The beast tide will not stop unless they manage to stop the Primordial Beast of Wrath.

"Finally! I managed to open one." A voice stated which alerted the God of Storms Seth.

A tear in space suddenly occurred which heightened the alertness of the God of Storms Seth. He wanted to check the beings passing through first before killing them. He controls the sands freely in the western continent and it would be easy to kill beings that are not like the Primordial Beast of Wrath.

"It is hot here." Another voice stated as ten beings came out from the rift that formed. "The western continent is incredibly difficult to teleport to as if a veil of power is making the coordinates shift. Thankfully, there is a player here that provided clear coordinates and was happy to help us find the exact location." Adrian stated as he suddenly felt the gaze of a powerful being swept through them as soon as he closed the rift.

"Who goes there?" Adrian asked as a figure suddenly started to manifest before them using sand.

"It is I, the God of Storms Seth. Tell me, why is a demon here in our lands?" The God of Storms Seth stated as he looked at Adrian.

"Oh! Its yo..." Adrian stated but Frey suddenly reminded him.

"Remember that all the gods here have been changed. You no longer have the past relationship with them as the western continent technically underwent rebirth." Frey stated which made Adrian change his tone to a more casual one.

"Apologies, we are the Pantheon Guild. I am the guild leader, Equinox. We came here because we have a mission to defeat the Primordial Beast of Wrath. The Seven Devil Gods of Sin wanted us to deal with them. We do not mean harm to residents of the western continent as we only came to deal with the enemy we needed to vanquish." Adrian stated.

"Watch out!" Kabrakan stated as he suddenly slammed his two shields onto the ground to make them bigger as he deflected the powerful beam of energy that headed towards them. The God of Storms Seth could see that they were not a threat, but he cannot just give them permission. Still, he needed to deal with the energy beam released by the Primordial Beast of Wrath. He used the sands to tank the initial hit, but it is not enough. Kabrakan managed to diffuse the sand strike that came at them when the sand barrier was unable to hold on.

"Almost the entire city is destroyed and that is only because of that little thing." Levin Cloud stated as he pointed at the Primordial Beast of Wrath that is in the form of a small child.

"Warriors from a distant land blessed by other gods, I do not trust you enough to roam in the continent unhinged. It would have been different if you were all ordinary warriors that just wanted to help but all of you were sent by gods, and some are even closer to them. As the guardian of this continent, I ask you to return, or I shall also think of you as an enemy." The God of Storms Seth stated, and he meant every word of it.

"I am starting to get irritated that I no longer have the credibility I have built up." Adrian stated as he can see that any slight movement from them would make the God of Storms Seth attack them.

The Goddess Apophis felt the fluctuation of space as well and saw an interesting sight. She could clearly remember that young demon and some of his acquaintances. She could see that the God of Storms Seth was talking with them as if they were asking for permission, but the latter did not want to.

She found it amusing but even she knows that they need help at the current situation which is why she released a shadow from her body. The shadow suddenly plopped down near the God of Storms Seth and suddenly created a pseudo body that could talk in the silhouette of the humanoid form of the Goddess Apophis. The sudden entrance of another source of divine energy made Adrian's group on edge.

"Do not be alarmed, young demon. It is nice to see you again and more complete." The shadow of the Goddess Apophis stated which made Adrian and the others tense.

"Do you know them?" The God of the Storms Seth asked.

"Actually, it is more accurate to say that you know him greatly. Such a strange reunion." The Shadow of the Goddess Apophis stated as it laughed.

Chapter 2298: Primordial Beast of Wrath III

The Shadow of Apophis teased Adrian and the others as it is actually one of the gods in the western continent that did not have their memories erased. Only the Sun God Ra and the Goddess Apophis retained their memories when everything in the western continent has been reborn. It makes sense that the Goddess Apophis knows of Adrian because they have fought each other one way or another.

The other guild members became tense when they saw the familiar Shadow of Apophis. Adrian stopped them though as there was no hostility sensed from the being before them. They might even get attacked if they were to suddenly attack the Shadow of Apophis.

"What do you mean by your statement, Apophis?" The God of Storms Seth asked.

"Do not dwell on whether they are foreign or not. They have come to aid us because they also want to defeat the Primordial Beast of Wrath. The enemy of our enemy is our friend as the saying goes. Also, I can barely hold onto the rampaging horde and will need the help of the demon and the undead." The Shadow of Apophis stated.

"Very well but I am still observing all of you." The God of Storms Seth stated as he focused on helping the God of the Skies Horus.

"Now that is fixed, I will need the aid of the demon and the undead please." The shadow of Apophis stated as she suddenly turned back into a mass of shadows that flew towards the Goddess Apophis flying high above the city.

"The rest can help the citizens evacuate the area. When that is done then help the God of the Skies Horus in dealing with the Primordial Beast of Wrath. Kill it when you get the chance and make sure that you do not miss." Adrian stated as he remembered what happened before this.

Adrian was about to sleep in his guild house when he suddenly got a call from Hell itself. Instead of going to the dream world, his subconscious was pulled to Hell instead as a result of the agreement that he had with the Seven Devil Gods of Sin. They did not make the encounter long and just explained to Adrian that the Primordial Beast of Wrath has appeared itself as it released its power.

The Seven Devil Gods told him that the Primordial Beast of Wrath was in the western continent which made him contact the others. He made the call only to the guild members that he can count on when dealing with a powerful opponent. He only invited his friends and Frey as they all have good chemistry when it comes to fighting.

Thankfully, all of the people that he called were ready and he also called upon some guild members to look after Avalon as well while they were out. There is usually one or two officers that stay in the guild unless it is a major raid that needs all of them. All of the people Adrian called immediately tore up teleportation scrolls to return to the guild house while he tried to use the coordinates that Awraka has given him for the western continent.

"Are you sure that we should deal with the horde with just us two?" Creepysoo asked as he could see the large horde of monsters coming towards them while he rode on Kanlaon's back. "So nice of you to join me, Mediator of Death and Prince of the Undead." The Goddess Apophis stated.

"Nice of you to invite us in a nondeadly kind of way." Adrian retorted back.

"Do not worry, young mediator. I am no longer corrupted if that is what you are thinking. I should actually thank you for doing your best to stop my shadow as that is where most of my corruption was stored. Now, I can finally act like a real goddess without any problem. Although, that does not excuse what I or rather parts of me have done which is why I also need redemption." The Goddess Apophis stated as she released a wave of energy that slowed the horde.

"Let us just get done with this because I need to deal with that primordial beast down there." Adrian stated.

"I think I might lose more levels if I use the Necronomicon here, big bro." Creepysoo stated. "No need to use that for now. The Goddess Apophis will help you in using mana as that is the least that she could do." Adrian stated as he looked at the Goddess Apophis.

"Oh my! Someone holds a grudge, but I can agree as well. Here cute undead prince. Use this condensed mana essence of mine to summon large undead hordes to deal with the monster horde. I will even spit out all the monsters that my pets have devoured." The Goddess Apophis stated as she gave Creepysoo a blue orb that has a golden snake inside of it.

"Thank you... I guess." Creepysoo stated as he was still confused why they were working with the Goddess Apophis, but Adrian gave him the order to deal with the horde with him.

As the Goddess Apophis told them, the two snakes that devoured the monsters started to spit out all they devoured. The dead parts of monsters became projectile that were launched towards the rampaging beast horde. Creepysoo then used up all the mana in the orb that was given to create a self-sustaining undead respawn field.

The dead monsters that were spat out formed their bodies and twitched as they became reanimated. The undead that were summoned by the spell were not powerful, but it was enough to slow down all of the monsters going in swarms. It also lessened the burden of the ones defending the city walls. Adrian joined in on the action as well and summoned all of his soulbounds to destroy the monster horde.

On the ground, the Primordial Beast of Wrath could be seen dealing with the God of the Skies Horus. The enemy has already been blinded by rage to the point that it will attack anything that comes near. Even small insects get turned to dust if they just so much as fly near the Primordial Beast of Wrath. The Primordial Beast of Wrath is also starting to show signs of its body failing as parts of the mortal body it possesses is now cracking.

The cracking of the mortal body is due to having too much energy that the body can handle. Still, the Primordial Beast of Wrath lives up to its name as it continued on attacking the area around it as long as the God of the Skies Horus gets killed. The God of the Skies Horus was focused on fighting and dodging as the attacks of the Primordial Beast of Wrath grazed it earlier.

With just a simple graze, the God of the Skies Horus could feel the damage and the effects of the attack due to the immense negative energy that the Primordial Beast of Wrath has collected. The wrath of the monster horde amplified the damage being dealt by the Primordial Beast of Wrath even if it is not getting buffed directly when it comes to stats.

"Winds of the Nile!" The God of the Skies Horus stated as he released a silhouette of himself that flew at an incredibly fast speed towards the Primordial Beast of Wrath.

The Winds of the Nile hit the Primordial Beast of Wrath directly and exploded into smaller wind blades that made the enemy scream. The Primordial Beast of Wrath's current body is still that of a mortal which meant it can feel pain. Only when the attack of the God of the Skies Horus landed did the Primordial Beast of Wrath suddenly changed a little bit.

The body of a small boy suddenly changed as it became covered in red fur on the arms, feet and face. Actual features of the true appearance of the Primordial Beast of Wrath surfaced from the mortal body. This also meant that the deterioration of the mortal body started to come faster as well. The Primordial Beast of Wrath lunged at the God of the Skies Horus with claws filled with an ominous red energy.

The God of the Skies Horus dodged the incoming attack, and the claw of the Primordial Beast of Wrath released a powerful burst of destructive energy that destroyed rows of buildings. Some of the escaping citizens were about to get hit when two large shields suddenly blocked the shockwave and returned the attack back to the Primordial Beast of Wrath.

The power of its own attack managed to shock the Primordial Beast of Wrath as it did not expect that its own attack would be used against it but that was not the end. Vines strengthened by elemental magic came out of the ground to bind the Primordial Beast of Wrath while four beings equipped with weapons surrounded the enemy. Solstice, Lycan, Vayu, and Frey could be seen gripping their weapons and aiming it at the neck of the Primordial Beast of Wrath.

Chapter 2299 Primordial Beast of Wrath IV

"I can feel your wrath" The Primordial Beast of Wrath stated as it smiled.

All four of them suddenly felt some of their energy get sapped as if there was an invisible force that took the strengths out of their attacks. The weapons of the four connected with the Primordial Beast of Wrath but they barely dealt any damage to the enemy. The Primordial Beast of Wrath released a powerful burst of destructive force that sent all four of them flying.

"What was that?!" Levin Cloud stated in shock because the combined attack of all four of them is only equivalent to 1% of the health of the Primordial Beast of Wrath.

"The Primordial Beast of Wrath has the power to absorb any attacks that contain bloodlust in them. The closer you are then the lesser your damage will be against it." The God of the Skies Horus stated in frustration. Read new adventures at My Virtual Library Empire

The God of the Skies Horus found this problem early on as his talons could barely do anything against the Primordial Beast of Wrath when his attacks connect up close. The only attacks that dealt some damage to the enemy are ranged attacks that did not have any particular target intended. Bloodlust contained wrath and any attack that has bloodlust could be sapped by the Primordial Beast of Wrath in order to strengthen itself.

The Primordial Beast of Wrath might have lost some of its current sanity but that does not mean its abilities diminished. In fact, the abilities that it possesses has bloomed even more which made damage almost negligible. An enemy that could nullify most of their damage is something they had never seen before, and the Primordial Beast of Wrath has yet to obtain its full power. The mortal body that is being used by the Primordial Beast of Wrath is more than just a vessel but also a limiter.

"Destroy!" The Primordial Beast of Wrath shouted as it released a powerful beam of light once again, but Kabrakan changed his armor to its mountain form to tank more of the damage.

"Urgh!" Kabrakan endured the powerful beam attack as if he did not then Levin Cloud and Peridot would have been hit.

Kabrakan tanked the hit, but he was getting pushed back further and further. Levin Cloud and Peridot buffed him as much as they can, and he was able to successfully defend against the attack of the Primordial Beast of Wrath. Still, cracks could be seen forming on his shields which meant that the attack is something that he normally could not defend against.

"Burn him, Regu-chan and Kitsu-chan!" Soleil stated as she empowered the two elemental spirits

Regulus released a powerful blast of fire that looked like it was breathing an actual flaming tornado. Kitsune released strange flaming fox shaped flames towards the Primordial Beast of Wrath which enveloped it in flames. When the flaming foxes burned the Primordial Beast of Wrath, the flaming tornado that hit it made the enemy scream. The flames burned the Primordial Beast of Wrath to the point that its health was rapidly decreasing.

"Danger!" The Primordial Beast of Wrath stated as it endured its burning body and suddenly appeared next to Soleil which shocked her.

Regulus and Kitsune blocked the Primordial Beast of Wrath, but they were easily sent flying like rag dolls. The claws of the Primordial Beast of Wrath were about to reach Soleil, but gravity suddenly intensified which made it slam to the ground. Soleil suddenly vanished from her location and arrived next to Levin Cloud, Peridot, and Kabrakan.

"It seems that my help is needed here more." Adrian stated as he released arrows to pierce the body of the Primordial Beast of Wrath.

The arrows that Adrian released suddenly lost their momentum as if their mana got snuffed out. Only small arrow pellets hit the Primordial Beast of Wrath instead of the full arrow he released. The Primordial Beast of Wrath released a powerful roar which dispersed the mana around it which also destroyed the gravity field that Adrian used against it. The Primordial Beast of Wrath looked at the sky to see who would dare attack it, but Adrian was no longer there.

The Primordial Beast of Wrath suddenly felt chills from behind it and used its right hand to block something from behind it. A sharp scythe could be seen passing through cleanly which sliced off some fingers from the Primordial Beast of Wrath. Adrian is shocked because he aimed for the neck and this attack is foolproof but the enemy before him managed to react so quick.

The Primordial Beast of Wrath could be seen wincing in pain, but it only used this to fuel its anger. A powerful kick landed perfectly on Adrian's chest which sent him crashing towards a few structures. The Primordial Beast of Wrath looked at the damage that was done to it as it started to bleed. The Primordial Beast of Wrath wanted to regenerate its cut fingers, but it suddenly noticed that the blood did not stop flowing.

The blood that was freely flowing from its fingers formed a red orb on top of it. This red orb then exploded which created a link to the being that appeared in front of the Primordial Beast of Wrath. Solstice changed to her shadow armor form as she wielded dual blades made of blood. She did not do one powerful attack like what she did earlier but numerous stabs to make more wounds on the body of the Primordial Beast of Wrath.

"Awwoo!" The howl of a fierce beast could be heard as the Primordial Beast of Wrath suddenly felt a scorching heat from behind it.

Two large claw marks could be seen on its back as Lycan transformed and used his enhanced speed to damage the Primordial Beast of Wrath. Some of the damage was lessened due to the skill effects of the Primordial Beast of Wrath but the damage was still there. This did not stop with his attacks as wind blades suddenly sliced through the flesh of the Primordial Beast of Wrath as well.

Chapter 2300: Almost but Someone Interfered

"Gate of the Valkyrie!" Frey shouted as she released her spear towards the skies.

Her spear suddenly transformed into an olden gate being carried by beings of light in the likeness of a Valkyrie. The gate opened to released numerous light silhouette Valkyries that attacked the Primordial Beast of Wrath. The Primordial Beast of Wrath could only release another powerful burst of destructive force to make all four of them get away from it.

"Incredible warriors." The God of the Skies Horus commented as he did not expect that the mortal beings before him easily adjusted to the battlefield.

All of them noticed that something was wrong against the Primordial Beast of Wrath and Soleil's attack was the most effective. All of them deduced that their normal ways of attacking will not be effective which means they needed to change tactics. Solstice relied more on the opportunity given to her by Adrian when blood seeped out of the Primordial Beast of Wrath. Lycan utilized the powerful force that he can release via his claws when he is transformed. The attack is still filled with bloodlust, but the damage reduction was not as drastic as before. Vayu utilized the small wind elementals that he could summon to aid him in battle. The small wind elementals usually served as his personal buffer but now he made use of them as main attackers since using them against the Primordial Beast of Wrath is effective.

Frey used another form of attack which she barely uses which is using the innate skill of summoning mirrors of her sisters. She can summon light reflections of her sisters that have 10% of her own stats to deal damage to the enemy. She rarely used this way of attacking since she knows that her own damage far outclasses this skill, but she opted to due to the circumstance that they are in. All of this battle tactic change is due to what they observed from Soleil and Adrian's contribution to the fight.

The flow of the battle changed instantly which the God of the Skies Horus acclimated too as well. Instead of using his talons, the God of the Skies Horus used small tornadoes that would converge in a certain location instead of specifically targeting the Primordial Beast of Wrath. This made all his attacks unable to have damage reduction as the bloodlust attached to the attack was not there.

The God of Storms Seth also noticed this and joined in but only provided support since he also needed to watch over the entity city. He made use of the sands to bind the Primordial Beast of Wrath. This made it difficult for the Primordial Beast of Wrath to move as it wanted as the sands made sure that it will never be able to dodge easily.

"Arghh!" The Primordial Beast of Wrath shouted as more anger welled up in its body, but its vessel started to show more cracks.

The Primordial Beast of Wrath released another powerful wave of destructive force which knocked all of them away from it. If the Primordial Beast of Wrath had more of its own intelligence, then it would have opted to flee but all thoughts in its head are full of destruction. It only wanted to destroy all the things that hurt it, and it will do it even if it sacrifices its current vessel.

Chains suddenly sprouted out from the ground which directly hit the body of the Primordial Beast of Wrath. Its health and mana started to get absorbed as a reaper like being suddenly appeared behind it. The scythe that was supposed to be blocked by the arm of the Primordial Beast of Wrath passed through it. Instead of blood, the soul of the Primordial Beast of Wrath itself is directly attacked.

A pain that it never felt before could be felt by the Primordial Beast of Wrath. It let out a pitiful and ear wrenching scream but the being that held a scythe did not stop. Adrian released a wave of antimatter that attached itself to the Primordial Beast of Wrath. The wave of antimatter that is attached to the Primordial Beast of Wrath could be seen eating the flesh of the current vessel.

"Attack with all your might!" Adrian stated as he was about to release his domain when something inside the Primordial Beast of Wrath activated.

Adrian and the others could be seen nearing the Primordial Beast of Wrath as they were ready to pummel it to the ground when they heard the sound of a small bell. A humanoid being with an oni mask that only covered his upper face suddenly appeared. This being smiled faintly before doing a martial move that created a ying yang symbol on the ground. Adrian and the others were caught up in the area where the symbol appeared and had all their force redirected back against them.

Most of them were sent flying except for Adrian, Frey and the God of the Skies Horus. Adrian used his wings that looked like it was chained to stop from getting tossed further. Frey used her spear and planted it deeply on the ground while the God of the Skies used his perfect control over the winds to push him back.

The action of the God of the Skies Horus proved detrimental to Vayu that wanted to do the same as they wrestled over who will control the winds. Still, Vayu managed to lessen his knock back distance as well but the same cannot be said for Solstice and Lycan. Both of them were sent crashing towards the structures since the attack they used were incredibly fierce.

"Let us end our little skirmish for now." The being that appeared stated as small bells and chimes could be heard with each of his movement.

"Why is a fallen eastern god in the western continent!?" The God of the Storms Seth stated as he commanded the sands much fiercer than before and slammed it towards the Primordial Beast of Wrath and the humanoid being that appeared.
