

O Summoner 27

Chapter 27 - Dragon Tamer

Adrian now looked at the new details that surfaced after the dragonling was hatched.

Name: Kanlaon

Species: Fire Dragon(Hatchling)

Lvl: 1

HP:50/50

Exp: 0%/100%

Skills: Active Skills(Expand)

Passive Skills(Expand)

Evolution: Possible

He expanded the skills in order to see what skills Kanlaon has.

Skill: Baby Breath

Effect: Shoot a petite elemental magic breath at the target.

Skill: Dragon Scales

Effect: Physical and Magical attacks are reduced by 30%.

Skill: Reverse Scale

Effect: A small scale embedded near the heart of the dragon that makes attacks hitting the scale deal 50% more damage.

Adrian was both happy and sad at the same time because of the unique passive skills of the dragon hatchling. The Dragon Scale passive makes him the ideal tank but the reverse scale passive also made him vulnerable although it was only at that particular spot. Nevertheless, he was still happy that he managed to tame a dragon.

" Summon: Kanlaon" Adrian chanted.

A red colored magic circle appeared on the ground and with a flame effect, Kanlaon surfaced. A prompt then appeared the moment Adrian summoned Kanlaon.

[Dragon Tamer title has been acquired by Equinox]

=====

An alert was then transmitted to the high rise building at a certain metropolis city. The control room blinked in red and white for 3 seconds as if signifying something.

"Chief someone managed to hatch a dragon" a woman in a ponytail said.

" Go on, who is it then?" the chief said seriously.

" It was that kid who unlocked the Asmodian quest line." the woman said nervously for she knows what that means.

" What! How did he managed to get a dragon egg this early. The eggs were supposed to be chanced upon in higher level dungeons not low level ones and those dungeons are hidden very well so that it would not be found easily." the chief said as if irritated by the revelation.

" Umm... Chief...We ran a scan on the systems to check if there were bugs in the system and.." the woman said.

"And.?!!" said the chief in a slightly angered tone.

" Apparently, it all checks out. The AI increased the probability of that egg happening to be there because the head programmer coded it that as days pass the probability of the egg being there increases. He did that to all dungeons so that dungeons that are harder to find give out better rewards." the woman said.

" Still it should not have been that easy to find that dungeon given the fact that dragon eggs trigger the quest of the Dragon of Disaster. Also the probability should not be that high in encountering the egg." the chief sighed as he knows being angry would bot solve anything.

" The kid triggered the First Explorer reward thereby increasing the odds of finding the egg. Also the programmer for the Paradox Plane had no idea that a dragon egg was there at that dungeon and he is being scolded by the head programmer this very moment." the woman said.

"Hah....No worries. Even if the kid got the dragon, the quest only triggers when he reaches level 90 since the difficulty for the Dragon of Disaster is SSS class. Just tell the programming team to look out for instances like this again. Recheck the Paradox Planes portals so that it would not lead the kid to other quest triggers. It was a good idea that the fractures could only lead to dungeons up to Level 20 which should narrow the rechecking." the chief said while relaxing his back at his chair.

" Yes Chief" the woman bowed and left the room.

=====

Adrian was surprised that he managed to get a new title since it was rare to get them. He looked at the benefits that the title brings.

Title: Dragon Tamer

Effect: Increases dragon and dragon related skills by 10%. Increases likability to monsters with dragon blood.

Description: This title is awarded to the first player who managed to tame a dragon be it as a mount, pet or soulbound monster.

Adrian was elated by the effects of the title since it strengthened Kanlaon further. In Pandemonium, not only Summoners could get monsters as a fighting force. A non-summoner job is entitled to one monster that could become either a mount or a pet depending on the preference of the player. These mounts and pets are sealed in what was called as a Comrade stone and is limited to only one per player. The non-summoner player could get a mount which is mainly used as transportation but can still be used for battle with limitations. The player could also get a pet which is also called as battle pet since it is mainly used for battles for its assortment of skills but cannot be used for transportation since it is mostly small in stature. A summoner could also have the comrade stone but like any other players is limited to one. These comrade stones with monsters sealed cost a lot which is why it is not popular for summoners since it could just tame a larger monster for mounts and also could be used for battle.

After finishing checking the effects of the title, Adrian looked at Kanlaon again and now it was clear that maybe Kanlaon is not a western dragon but an eastern styled one since Kanlaon does not have wings. Especially its design, Kanlaon has 4 claws; three in the front and one opposite. Maybe if Kanlaon becomes bigger he would look like that famous dragon from that anime where the main character powers up and shows a different form every other season. Another question that popped in Adrian's head is, how big will Kanlaon get? Setting that idea aside for now, Adrian focused on what is important and that is leveling up and accomplishing the quest in looking for clues on the asmodians. He would probably ask Ascalor on a potential lead first which hopefully is accessible to his level. I mean who doesn't want an overpowered skill at his grasp.