

O Summoner 521

Chapter 521 - Death Of A Disaster

Adrian is now in his true form that is made of the nether mist itself. He is also like a spiritual being due to the unique composition of the nether mist which is why the Sacred Snake thought he was the blind demon god. Gods tend to be spiritual in nature and do not have a complete physical form in the mortal realm.

He also summoned all his soulbounds in their Nether Forms. All of his soulbounds became ghostly monsters that resembled him. The newest editions would be Dodu and Kimat as this is the first time that they are transformed into the nether forms.

Dodu looked like an amalgamation of three different storm clouds that moved in a liquid motion. Dodu's core became a light source inside his body that glowed in a reddish gray light. The Predator Slime also became as big as Adrian's current form that is almost as big as Kanlaon.

Kimat, the elemental cat (lightning variant), became a giant tiger looking monster. Kimat's body is now all white with gray lighting covering all of his new form. The black mist that also covers its body made it look like storm clouds have gathered around the elemental cat which made him look extremely fierce.

Adrian's new form coupled with his new form would make anyone scared. It really felt like that he is a god of destruction that has been summoned to this world to destroy it. The lesser Fenrir could feel its entire existence getting scared which is why it tried to escape.

Alphus, the child of disaster and lesser Fenrir, escaped with its tail tucked between its back. Adrian, however, did not want his enemy to escape. He could easily see everything in a kilometer from location. He immediately materialized a mirror in the direction where the Lesser Fenrir is running.

Alphus did not even notice the mirror materializing in front of it and entered it. The Lesser Fenrir entered the mirror and exited one of the main mirrors that Adrian placed above them. Alphus crashed on the ground and got blasted with magic of different attributes.

The Lesser Fenrir howled in pain as it got hit by spells and abilities empowered by the nether energy. Each strike not only damaged the physical body but also the soul of the one getting hit. The soul of the child of disaster is also that of the 'evil' that should not be present in this world.

The damage that Adrian dealt is still not enough which is why the southern overlord also contributed everything to the battle. Since the southern overlord is also part of Adrian's party, she is also buffed by the nether mist which is very compatible for her since she also uses mists.

The southern overlord used her freezing mist with the nether mist which made even the fiery body of the Lesser Fenrir lose its heat. The dark flames that covered the body of the Lesser Fenrir started to get smothered as the freezing mist is empowered by the nether mist.

The reason for the dark flames of the Lesser Fenrir being smothered is it is a special entity that is not entirely made of the Lesser Fenrir's power. The dark flames are actually made of the souls that it has consumed through its special ability inherited from its parent.

The dark flames being souls and the nether mist being an entity that devours souls means that it is the weakness of the enemy. Adrian noticed it too as the nether mist is actually eating the dark flames since his body itself is connected to the nether mist whenever he is in his true form but that also limits his movement to the area of the domain.

Alphus tried to escape but the southern overlord is relentless in her attacks. The southern overlord is now materializing her full physical body with the nether mist empowering her. The white scales of the southern overlord's body are now mixed with black and gray.

She tightly bound the Lesser Fenrir and is even breaking the bones as Adrian could hear the sound of something snapping. Alphus tried to escape using the dark flames once again but could not even move a muscle due to the body of the southern overlord being temporarily immune to it thanks to the nether mist.

Alphus tried to utter one last howl as if to say that he is dying or a signal of some sort, but Kanlaon did not give it any leeway. The dragon breath its breath attack at the mouth of the Lesser Fenrir before it even uttered something.

Sirius and Kimat also bit the neck of the Lesser Fenrir as they aimed for the vocal cords. The Lesser Fenrir did not even manage to say or alert its family of its death. With this Adrian and his group would not be overrun by demon wolves which the young demon did not know about.

[You have defeated the Child of Disaster, Alphus.]

[You have received a massive amount of experience points.]

[Alphus, the Lesser Fenrir and Child of Disaster, was not able to send a warning to its siblings and parents. The body also disappeared which is why you still have time before the Wolf of Disaster find out about the death of its child.]

The system notifications appeared, and Adrian did not even need to use the Nether Blast skill as he wanted to save that for the battle against Fenris. The boss gave Adrian a massive chunk of experience points which made him level up a few times and his low level soulbounds by a lot.

When Adrian returned to his demon form, his soulbounds also got sealed which made him summon them again. Before they got sealed, Dodu managed to eat the body of the Lesser Fenrir which also meant that no loot will be given to him as a side effect of the skill.

"I need to control that slime's gluttony." Adrian muttered as he made a mental note since it could also devour Fenris' corpse if they defeat it.

The southern overlord also became exhausted and riddled with wounds, but she has that fanatic glint in her eyes when she looked at Adrian. Adrian did not know as snakes do not have an ideal face to create expressions like that of a human.

"Blind Demon God...Thank you very much for your help. I guess the oracle is very much true. I will dedicate my life to you and be with you in your fight against the Wolf of Disaster!" The Southern Overlord stated with great enthusiasm which is different from her usual cold character.

"Thank you very much...did you just say Blind Demon God? Well...I cannot argue that my true form is like that though, but you have contributed most to the battle. Without you, I doubt I can even succeed in fighting the Child of Disaster." Adrian argued as he knew that the southern overlord is the real reason they won. He only gave her support as he could not deal heavy damage to the child of disaster.

"You are being modest, Blind Demon God. Without you then all will be lost, and I would have died. The balance of power will tip to the favor of the Wolf of Disaster. If that happens then all of this world would be in his rule." The southern overlord stated as she knows that future will be dreadful.

"I need to know about the Wolf of Disaster since you seem to know much about him. I only know him from the small memories that Sirius showed me since he seems to be part of the pack of the Lunar Wolf back then." Adrian stated.

The southern overlord got shocked when she heard that Sirius was part of the pack of the Lunar Wolf back then. That would mean that Sirius was already hundreds of years old which should not be possible since Adrian encountered him as an infant back then. The southern overlord did not know this and even praised Adrian.

"As expected of the Blind Demon God, to exact justice on the Wolf of Disaster because of his love for his soulbound. I shall sacrifice my life for this battle if you ever get heavily targeted by the enemies. I shall tell you about the Wolf of Disaster on our way." The southern overlord stated as she shrunk and became a three-meter-long snake.

"Thanks, but that is too much of a burden for me. You do not need to sacrifice yourself for me as I can revive upon death." Adrian argued as he does not want the southern overlord to die. If he needs to explore the southern region of The Wilde in the future, then he wants to have a guide. What better guide is there than the actual ruler of the region.

"As expected of the Blind Demon God, even death cannot hold you down." The southern overlord stated as it did not hear much of what Adrian said. Adrian just gave up and led the way to the meeting place with the fox clan.

Chapter 522 - The Wilde Is A Seal

Adrian successfully recruited all the overlords and is now on his way to the fox clan. He finished a bit early which is why he decided to chat with the Sacred Snake. He found out about the things about this world that is not normally known.

The Sacred Snake could basically hear the will of this world which means she is also one of the keys to unlock the Selvaggian Race for the whole player base. Adrian would have wanted to unlock it as he knows that great rewards are in store for those who unlock a race, but he is not a beastkin himself.

Adrian already told Kabrakan about it as he knows that his friend would like the great rewards that comes with unlocking a whole race, but he already acquired the mission. It seems that Kabrakan is now searching for the Will of The Wilde.

Selvaggians could be created by something called the Will of the Wilde. An item that was given by this world, The Wilde, when they first came here. It is some sort of welcoming gift that the world gave them so that they could recover their decreasing numbers.

The Selvaggians flourished due to this and successfully created a kingdom in the middle of The Wilde. The Selvaggians also respected the overlords as they protected the balance of their current world. The only one who disrupted that balance is the Wolf of Disaster that just suddenly appeared in a rift in space.

The arrival of the Wolf of Disaster that is said to even kill gods have plagued The Wilde. The Wolf of Disaster wiped out several species of Selvaggians and even unique monsters that should only be available in this world. It was also this time when the Will of The Wild disappeared which made Selvaggians pop up vanished.

The Will of The Wilde vanished during the time of conquest of the Wolf of Disaster. It was also at that time that the Wolf Clan vanished from their land which made the other beastkins doubt them. The guardian of the Will of The Wilde back then were the wolf clan as well which is why they concluded that the wolf clan betrayed the whole race.

The Sacred Snake told Adrian about all the things that she could see if she taps into something called a ley line which all Land Deities could. It is basically power line deep in the earth where only the astral body of demigods, gods, or land deities could tap into. It is also a mass collection of information about the things in a world although it takes great skill to get the information that you want.

"Do you have any idea on how to find this Will of The Wilde? One of my friends is a beastkin and it would definitely help him if he were to find the Will of The Wilde. If it was really the wolf clan that took it then do you not know where they are hiding?" Adrian suggested as he knows that the Sacred Snake could tap into the ley lines.

"I do not know but what I do know is that the Will of The Wilde could never be brought out of this world as it is another heart of this world so to speak. Though there is a meticulous way of activating it anyways which is why it cannot be used easily." The Sacred Snake stated with great assurance that the item will not be used for nefarious purposes.

"What is needed for it to be activated?" Adrian asked as he wanted to know.

"It is fairly easy to activate it as each overlord would just need to bless the Will of The Wilde. The difficult part is having the overlord's consent as they will not easily give their blessing. Also, the blessings are only effective for a century and after that the item will just become decoration. A very sturdy decoration that even demigods could not break." The Sacred Snake stated as she remembered the details of what the world tells her.

"If that is the case then the Will of the World will no longer activate. The northern overlord is no more and a new one has yet to replace her." Adrian commented but the Sacred Snake proved him wrong.

"You are wrong. A northern overlord does exist except the current one does not want to have balance but rather destruction." The Sacred Snake stated in a serious and irritated tone.

The Southern Overlord before her always told her the value of balance. This is one of the reasons why the overlords are hands off in overly guarding their territories and only really control a small portion of it. The circle of life must live on in order for the world to operate which is why the Overlords do not need to feed or hunt as the world itself is feeding them energy.

"Then if that is the case, the Will of the Wilde will no longer activate if we kill the Wolf of Disaster. Also, I did not know that the title of an overlord could be taken by force." Adrian stated.

"Normally that should be impossible, but that infernal wolf seems to have a special ability to plunder abilities. Up till now, the will of this world is not giving it energy, but all four overlords must be given energy in order to achieve equilibrium or else something extremely bad will happen.

If an overlord falls then another will rise up in replacement. It is only the Wolf of Disaster that is very odd and upsets the natural balance." The Sacred Snake stated.

"The only reason to achieve balance from what I know is to keep a seal in check. Is there something that is being sealed by The Wilde?" Adrian asked as he knows that the world will not give the overlords energy something unless it is important.

"You are correct. This world is actually a seal as no other worlds should be this alive. The seal itself is powered by the thing that is being sealed. Hence, the overgrown trees and vegetation." The Sacred Snake stated.

"What is being sealed that gives off that much energy?" Adrian tried to ask as it might lead to a quest.

"Even the will of this world does not let me know of that information. Perhaps in the future, you will be tasked by the will of this world if it comes to the brink of destruction once more. All I know is that the world is keeping it a secret" The Sacred Snake stated as she gazed into the distance.

Chapter 523 - The King Commands You

The Selvaggian Race could be called a dwindling race due to their numbers being very low. Since a lot of the beastkins are long lived, the challenge of procreation is also in effect like what other long lived races experience.

In fact, their low numbers are due to other species not getting along with each other as they do not proactively help each other. Even the royalty only act as mediators and not as official leaders because their race likes freedom above all else. This is also the reason for their demise as a race.

Unlike the Daemos that is hunted for centuries, the Selvaggians should have been able to expand their numbers. They are in a suitable environment, and they are safe but the nature of the beastkins that wanted freedom held this back.

When the beastkin royal family have noticed this problem, it is already too late as their numbers dwindles to three thousand in a short amount of time. Coupled with the appearance of the Wolf of Disaster that keeps terrorizing them, the numbers of the beastkins became stuck at five thousand.

The hydromorph species of the Selvaggians might be faring better but they rarely interact with the land dwellers in the main world. The current king of the Selvaggian race, Leonidas, is one of the best and charismatic kings to have ever graced the throne of the beastkins.

He managed to unite every terramorph species to his cause and even have an understanding with the aeromorph species. He staked his throne to whoever finds the Will of the Wilde and that the next ruler will be the one that brings back their most precious item.

Leonidas, the current Selvaggian King, is now sitting on his throne with the princess of the fox clan and the hero of the ox clan having an audience with him. The princess of the fox clan and the hero of the ox clan is currently asking for help with the subjugation of the Wolf of Disaster.

Leonidas admits that they are brave for even thinking of the idea but foolish to even execute it. Even he, though he might not admit it, fears the Wolf of Disaster as it managed to injure the first king greatly. In the tales that was told, the first king ascended to godhood but that is only partially true as the royal family hid the entire truth.

The First King of the Selvaggians actually suffered a great injury that made him weaken when he managed to injure the Wolf of Disaster. It was only the use of a divine herb that the first king managed to ascend. The divine herb was gifted by the will of the world for the great help of the First Selvaggian King.

The First King decreed that the royal family must vanquish the Wolf of Disaster but every one that tried died. Each Selvaggian King could only have a term of five decades since they are a long-lived race. After their term, the kings would then be tasked to kill the Wolf of Disaster, but no one has yet to succeed.

Leonidas is about to brush off the idea of giving them aid as he does not like sending people to their deaths. He then heard something that should be impossible at least from his understanding.

"We have tasked someone to gain the participation of the three overlords." Ashana, the princess of the fox clan, stated.

"How sure are you that the one you tasked with gaining the support of the overlords will succeed?" Leonidas asked.

"I am pretty sure that he will succeed no matter what. I have been told that he already finished recruiting the east and west overlord. It is only a matter of time before he also gains the support of the southern overlord." Kabrakan, the hero of the ox clan, replied with great confidence.

In his view, Adrian might seem like a person that skips the difficult parts, but he does not give up even if he fails. He always tries his best even though he does not look like he is trying his best. He knows that his childhood friend does not have the word 'forfeit' in his vocabulary.

"Plus, Adrian gets really irritating if he fails. I remember one time when we failed to clear a dungeon in a past game and he made us repeat it until we succeeded. My hands got sore, and I was not able to go to the restroom because of him." Kabrakan thought as he remembered the grinding days.

"For the hero of the ox clan to be this confident about your friend, what clan is he from?" Leonidas asked and then Kabrakan suddenly received a message from Adrian that he gained the support of the southern overlord. Even he was shocked by this revelation as it was just a day ago that Adrian reported to recruit the west overlord.

As Kabrakan is reading the message, a tiger beastkin suddenly barged in and reported something to King Leonidas. The tiger beastkin apologized for his sudden intrusion but the message is really important.

"My liege, the southern overlord is currently fighting with one of the Child of Disasters." The tiger beastkin stated as the report from the scouts have just arrived.

"Are you fighting the Child of Disaster?" Kabrakan asked Adrian via the messaging function.

"Oh! We already defeated the Child of Disaster a few minutes ago, but the glory should be towards the southern overlord. The overlords are really strong but what fears me is the strength of the Wolf of Disaster. If we need the overlords to defeat it then it will be an uphill battle." Adrian replied.

If Kabrakan is drinking right now, then he might have spit out his drink but thankfully he is not. He deliberated if he should tell the Selvaggian King of what he found out or not. The next sentence that the tiger beastkin stated made him intervene.

"Should we mobilize the army, my liege? The southern overlord would not be able to kill the Child of Disaster as the one who attacked her is Alphas, the eldest of the three and closest to the strength of the Wolf of Disaster." The tiger beastkin stated.

"We should help the southern overlord and send word to the other overlords as well. Also, see if the other overlords are being attacked as well. If all the overlords fall then we will be doomed." King Leonidas stated.

"Uhhh...Can I speak?" Kabrakan stated as he raised his hand like an obedient child.

"I am sorry but there is an urgent matter now." Leonidas stated but Kabrakan insisted.

"It is actually about the southern overlord." Kabrakan meekly stated which made King Leonidas raise his brow.

"If it is then I will permit you to speak." King Leonidas stated as it might be vital information about the southern overlord.

"My friend, the one that the fox princess tasked with gaining the support of the overlords, told me that this Child of Disaster has been beaten." Kabrakan stated but the room suddenly fell silent. Even the ministers that are looking at him with disdain are shocked.

"Can you repeat what you just said?" King Leonidas stated as he thought that he heard incorrectly.

"The Child of Disaster is already killed by the southern overlord with the help of my friend. You should have met him once as he is the student of the three Daemos Elders. He is not a Selvaggian but a Daemos." Kabrakan stated as the whole room is still silent from the shock.

"Are you sure about this information!?" Ashana asked Kabrakan as she does not know that players could chat with each other.

As Kabraka is about to answer her, another beastkin someone from the cheetah line burst from door. The cheetah beastkin looked extremely exhausted as if she used everything to reach her destination in record time.

"The Child of Disaster, Alphas, has been killed by the Southern Overlord and a giant demonic being with six arms." The cheetah beastkin reported which made the court of ministers exclaim in shock.

"Quiet! Everyone please calm down. Is this news true?" King Leonidas asked the cheetah beastkin as misinformation is not to be taken lightly. If that the news is not true, then she would be sent to prison for lying to the king.

"Yes, your majesty. I came from the area myself and rushed here as soon as I saw the death of the Child of Disaster. I stake my life and I will never lie to you, my king." The cheetah beastkin stated with great determination.

King Leonidas carefully observed the behaviors of the cheetah beastkin and found out that she is not lying. She is unwavering in her resolution which means she is not falsifying reports. Leonidas thought that she escaped or avoided her duty, but she would not be exhausted from running if she did not do her duty.

"Everyone, assemble all the Clan heads!" King Leonidas commanded using his ability Absolute Authority.

Chapter 524 - Beastkin Capital

The news that the cheetah beastkins became a buzz in the whole community of Selvaggians. Perhaps the only thing that could top it off is the answer of the aeromorphs that they will join in the clan meeting which they have not done in a long time.

The supposed death of the Child of Disaster is still under wraps as they do not want to have a leakage of information. Only the ministers and guards at the time knew about the information. The Wolf of Disaster does not know this either as it has yet to launch a scourge of demon wolves unto the Selvaggian capital.

"Is it really true? I know that demons are not that easy to kill and are powerful, but did he really kill a Child of Disaster." Ashana asked as she is still having trouble believe everything.

"He did although the southern overlord is the one that did most of the job. He basically just supported the southern overlord in defeating this Child of Disaster. He is also on his way to the capital right now which is why I need to escort him from the gate." Kabrakan stated as he went to the direction of the gate leaving Ashana to her thoughts.

"I could not believe that I chose the right person. My instincts never failed me before but to actually result in a bigger reward is extraordinary. The only thing that needs to happen now is the extraction of the Wilde Flower. We still have enough time before it totally blooms." Ashana thought as she started becoming greedy with her prayers.

"I did not know that there is a lot of interesting things about this world but the thing that I want to know the most is the lack of a sea or ocean. I have seen rivers on our way, but you told me that they do not lead to a vast body of water but actually just underground water sources." Adrian stated as he is curious of the layout of The Wilde.

"The reason that there is no such thing as a sea or ocean that you speak of is the absence of creatures that need to live there. About a thousand or more years ago if I remember correctly, an ocean is actually present in this world, but the sea creatures evolved to walk on land which is why the world decided that it is unnecessary." The southern overlord stated as she has seen visions of the past world where there is an ocean.

"You told me that the world influences everything right? Could it not be the world made the sea creatures evolve? Could it be that the world needed to create the whole planet into a land mass because it acts as a seal?" Adrian asked but even the Sacred Snake could only wonder as well.

"I have been meaning to ask this but the beastkins that encounter us all bow to you. Is it normal for that to happen?" Adrian asked as this sort of thing continuously happened as soon as they entered the capital where the beastkins reside.

Adrian and the southern overlord first went to the fox clan, but they were told that the fox princess was not there while they bowed greatly. He then headed for the capital as the fox clan and even Kabrakan told him that the fox princess is there.

"The overlords not only serve as the protector of this world but also wise elders. Some of the Selvaggian race have come to us for guidance. Since the overlords know much about this world, they come to us seeking advice on things to do. The world will give them punishment if they do something that it does not want." The southern overlord replied.

"If that is the case then has the world done something to the new northern overlord?" Adrian asked as he wants to know what these punishments are.

"The punishments are basically drought, death of wildlife but the punishment in the north now is inarable land. This is one of the reasons why the demon wolves are attacking the different territories. When we enter the northern territory, you will see what I am talking about." The Sacred Snake answered.

"Equinox!" The sound of a familiar voice called out to Adrian.

"Kabrakan!" Adrian called back.

"You actually did it. I managed to persuade the ox clan elders and we have a higher chance of succeeding now with the fox clan on our side. Is this the southern overlord? I never knew that the famed southern overlord is a beautiful white snake." Kabrakan stated as he welcomed Adrian in the capital.

"Is this your friend? If that is so the I approve. A friend of the Blind Demon God is a friend of mine." The Sacred Snake stated.

"What did the southern overlord just call you? Blind Demon what now?" Kabrakan asked as he thought he heard wrong.

"Just take me on a tour around the Selvaggian Capital." Adrian stated as he wants to explore the capital of the beastkin capital.

The capital of the beastkin kingdom is called Selvag and is like a mix of elven home and human homes. Their houses and establishments are not like the elven buildings where they make it out of trees. The houses are made of some sort of material that does not destroy surroundings.

The buildings still feel natural, and the trees are still full of life. The one thing that is nice to see in the capital is the numerous beastkins of different species. There seems to be no discrimination or bullies when it comes to who is stronger or something.

As Adrian is being toured in the capital, a beastkin that looks like Kabrakan but older is suddenly scurrying to their location. The beastkin seems to know of Kabrakan as the old woman's eyebrows are blazing when she came charging at him.

"So, this is where you were! I thought I told you to stay in the castle as the king values you. What are we going to do if the king becomes angry at you for not doing what you are told?" the old ox beastkin stated as she hit Kabrakan's head.

The old ox beastkin woman then noticed that Kabrakan is with a white snake. Her eyes then became so big that it almost bulged out of its sockets. She then suddenly bowed to the southern overlord as she noticed her presence.

"O Great Guardian of the South! To grace us with your presence is a great blessing to us." The old ox beastkin woman stated as she also pulled Kabrakan to bow.

"You can rest at ease as I am here because my new friend is giving us a tour of the capital of the beastkins. I have been the southern overlord for a great amount of time, but I never knew that the beastkin capital is this beautiful in person." The southern overlord stated.

"Your great appreciation of our capital humbles us greatly. Might I know why the great southern guardian is being toured by my student?" The old ox beastkin woman stated.

"I am here because I will aid the Blind Demon God in exterminating the Wolf of Disaster. We have already killed one of its children with just the two of us then what more could we do if all the overlords participate." The Sacred Snake stated as she praised Adrian even more that the latter started to get embarrassed.

"Is that true then I without a doubt believe that we will be rid of the disaster. Praise the Guardians! Praise the Blind Demon God!" The old ox beastkin woman stated in praise which made Adrian become embarrassed even more.

"Yeah...Why don't we go to the castle now before things get out of hand? I need to get in touch with Ashana." Adrian stated as she did not want to see even more beastkins join this praise session.

"Yeah...Even I never seen that old woman become that fanatic. It seems that they really hold the overlords in high regard to the point of fanaticism." Kabrakan stated as he led them to Ashana's current whereabouts.

The guards of the castle easily let them through as they could feel the power of an overlord coming from the white snake. It was Kabrakan that told them that it is actually the southern overlord which made the guards nervous. Their greeting even became static like in response as their legs seem to almost give out.

The castle of the Selvaggian King is not lavish, but it is adorned by precious stones and great carvings. The castle could be described as antique and has that old charm. Adrian thought that Ashana will be the first person to encounter him, but it is actually the King Leonidas himself.

"I greet the Champion of the Twin Gods and the Southern Overlord. Your presences are illuminating the halls of this castle." King Leonidas stated which made Adrian mute as he did not know what to reply.

Chapter 525 - King Leonidas

"I greet the Champion of the Twin Gods and the Southern Overlord. Your presences are illuminating the halls of this castle." King Leonidas stated which made Adrian mute as he did not know what to reply.

Before Adrian and the Sacred Snake is the King of the Selvaggian race, he is currently bowing to both of them which made the ministers frown a little but made the Sacred Snake ecstatic. She had the look of great enthusiasm as if he wanted to say, 'All of you bow to the Blind Demon God'.

If Adrian has the ability to read the thoughts of the Southern Overlord, then he might have stormed out of there due to embarrassment. Due to Adrian sensing the hostile gazes, he immediately told the Selvaggian King to not show too much courtesy.

"Your majesty's welcome is too much. You do not need to go all in." Adrian stated in order to calm the ministers boiling with anger.

"You do not need to worry, Champion Equinox. I am just showing you enough courtesy for vanquishing one of the enemies that plagued our world greatly." King Leonidas said with a hearty laugh, but it is also a way to warn the ministers not to react. He knows that the ministers gave Adrian piercing gazes not because they are ungrateful but because they are prideful.

The Selvaggian race has always prided themselves as the strongest of the Asmodian Races. They pride themselves in being the strongest because they have the best adaptability of all the Asmodian Races. They always wanted one of them to vanquish the disasters as some ministers are backing the Hero from the Ox Clan secretly.

"Still, it is too much for someone like me. Even the southern overlord thinks the same as she does not want too many pleasantries." Adrian replied.

"The Blind Demon God is speaking the truth. Pleasantries are meaningless since it is only a matter of time before the Wolf of Disaster finds out that its child has been killed." The Sacred Snake stated as everyone in the world suddenly heard a spine-chilling howl.

"Awooo!"

"It's the Wolf of Disaster!" Someone commented.

"Why is it howling in the peak of the day?!" Another added.

"It seems that the infernal wolf is finally suspecting something. We need to assemble the other overlords to plan our attack. Contact them immediately." The Southern Overlord stated as she knows that the Child of Disasters often report through howling once a day.

The howling of the Wolf of Disaster made everyone in the capital hide in their houses. The last time that they heard this cry is the time that a large pack of demon wolves laid waste to the capital. The horror of that event is still in the minds of every living beastkin to this day.

"Awooo!" Another howl is heard after ten minutes.

"Since the Wolf of Disaster is not getting any replies, it will assume the worst. It will definitely lead a large pack of demon wolves to search the southern territory." The Sacred Snake stated which made the ministers panic a little.

"Awooo!" The last howl sounded more on an angry command unlike the previous howls.

"Will the monsters in your territory be fine?" Adrian asked the Sacred Snake, but he did not expect her answer.

"It is within the cycle of nature if they are really meant to survive or not. They can only grow stronger if they can live through this ordeal. Birds cannot fly or become free if they do not leave the nest." The Sacred Snake stated as he looked towards the south.

"Your majesty, the clan heads are already present and awaiting your presence." One of the royal guards reported.

"Will the Champion Equinox join us in the meeting?" King Leonidas asked.

"I will be fetching some people who are going to help me kill the Wolf of Disaster. Kabrakan and the Sacred Snake will be my representatives for the meeting. Can I speak with Ashana for a bit before I go my way?" Adrian stated.

"As you wish, I will assign a guard to lead you to the room that the fox princess is currently in." King Leonidas stated as he commanded one of the guards to escort Adrian.

"Thank you very much, your majesty." Adrian stated.

"To be the representative of the Blind Demon God...such bliss. I will not fail you." The Sacred Snake stated as Adrian almost tripped due to embarrassment.

The guard that King Leonidas commanded to escort Adrian brought him to one of the rooms in the palace. The guard then excused herself as she returned back to her post since she already did what she was commanded to do. Adrian knocked on the door and the beautiful voice of the fox princess is heard.

"You can come in." Ashana stated as Adrian entered the room.

"It seems that the fox clan will help me in my battle." Adrian stated as Ashana looked shocked upon seeing Adrian this early. She thought that he would have needed more time to recover but she thought wrong.

"Thank you very much." Ashana stated as she gave Adrian a full bow to show her sincerity. Her personal guards might not like it but even they also bowed to show deep respect to Adrian.

[You have completed the quest 'Gain the Help of the Three Remaining Overlords' has been completed.]

[Your bravery has resonated with the fox clan, and they will view you favorably from now on.]

"The fox clan will help you in your struggle against the Wolf of Disaster. If we succeed in killing the beast and getting the Wilde Flower, then the fox clan will be greatly indebted to you. We will even give you one of our prized treasure." Ashana stated which made her personal guards react.

QUEST NOTIFICATION

A Fox' Promise

The Fox Princess, Ashana, has promised to give you one of the prized treasures of the fox clan if you help her in killing the Wolf of Disaster and retrieving the Wilde Flower. Do this then she will be in your debt for life.

Difficulty: SSS

Condition: Kill the Wolf of Disaster and Retrieve the fully grown Wilde Flower.

Reward: One of the Fox Clan's Treasure. Eternal respect from the fox princess.

Failure Condition: Death of the Wilde Flower.

Penalty: Loss of 5 levels.

"Princess, you cannot give that decision on your own." One of her personal guards stated but Ashana has already made up her mind.

"The young demon has already proven himself worthy. Can you not feel the aura of the three overlords from him? We act as the messengers of the Selvaggian race to the overlords so you should now why their auras are coating him." Ashana stated as she always felt something great from Adrian.

What Ashana is sensing from Adrian is the asmodian blood flowing in his veins. The fox princess is a special existence since she has the skill Fox God's Intuition. She was born with this godly ability which made her become wary of her surroundings as she could distinguish everything.

The quest given to Adrian is actually making him tear up. Not from the happiness of the reward but due to the penalty that the mission will give him if he loses to the Wolf of Disaster. The Loss of five levels is even making him tear up because five levels is not easy to obtain at this point of the game.

"You do not need to cry, Demon Equinox. I know that you might pity me for handing a priceless treasure to you, but it is worth it as long as we will be victorious." Ashana stated as she held Adrian's hands and comforted him because she thought that the latter is pitying her.

"I see...I need to go now as I need to enlist the help of my other friends." Adrian stated as he left the scene unaware that the fox princess increased her respect for him again.

"We have been here for like an hour already. Is he coming or not? Can you contact him?" Levin Cloud stated as they gathered about four hours ago and reached the strange temple in the jungle an hour ago.

"At least, we are early, but do you think that we could beat the world boss just with our party?" Peridot asked as even she thinks that it might not be possible to win.

"We got to at least try. All the World Bosses in this world is almost killed. The only ones that are not killed are those from the forbidden areas. I hear that killing a world boss could increase levels by three instantly." Creepsoo stated as he read about the world bosses in the forums.

"The reason they are like that is because they lost those levels from dying from the world boss." Lycan stated as he came with Solstice since she invited him.

"I mean this might sound cheesy from an old man, but I actually have fun whenever we team up with Equinox." Vayu stated.

"Yup! Adventures with Big Bro Equinox is always fun." Soleil stated as she jumped for joy.

"I admit they are fun, but I do not like that I need to give my life every time." Levin Cloud commented.

A portal suddenly started to slowly appear in the area of the old temple. The rift started to open slightly as Adrian's friends became battle ready. They do not know what might appear from the portal, but they are ready if it is something deadly. Adrian told them that the portal might release some monsters from that world.

Chapter 526 - The Wolf Horde

A portal suddenly started to slowly appear in the area of the old temple. The rift started to open slightly as Adrian's friends became battle ready. They do not know what might appear from the portal, but they are ready if it is something deadly.

The portal finally materialized fully and stabilized as it no longer sucked any debris in the area where it spawned. The first thing that went out of the portal is a floating cube followed by a horned young man. The others finally relaxed as they knew who the person that came out of the portal was.

"Finally! We got tired of waiting for an hour." Levin Cloud stated as they got nothing to do for the hour that they waited.

"Sorry about that. I did not know that I could not open a dimensional rift in the capital. I had to find the location where I first landed on the other side, so it took quite some time. It seems that the door to the other dimension is area specific." Adrian stated as he really did have to find the area where he first landed.

He needed to find the area that he first landed because the world exerted its authority when he tried opening a rift at the capital of the beastkins. At first, he thought that he did his spell wrong, but Ashana told him that only beastkins could freely travel in the so-called Wilde Tunnels.

For races other than Selvaggians, they have to enter using the universal portal. The Wilde Tunnels are not accessible to all beastkins though as only elders and important members of the clan know their location and how to use them.

"Anyways, we need to hurry as the world boss is making its move. It seems that it will attack every territory in the other world." Adrian stated as he told others to enter the portal.

"We are not going to be transported to the atmosphere if we enter this gate, right? The last time that I entered something like these always make me end up falling from a high altitude." Levin Cloud stated as he remembered his experiences with portals.

"Stop being scared and enter already. If you are not going first, then I will. Step aside." Solstice stated as her sense of adventure flared up because of Adrian's descriptions of the other world.

"Wait for me!" Lycan stated as he followed Solstice through the portal.

"She seriously never changes. The last time that she did that we got chased by neighborhood dogs due to her sense of adventure." Levin Cloud stated as he followed inside the portal.

The others followed and it is Adrian that entered last as it is him that is stabilizing the portal. As soon as Adrian closed the barrier, a small humanoid creature could be seen monitoring them from a distance. Adrian did not notice it because this small humanoid creature is concealing itself perfectly in the thick jungle.

"Wow!" Everyone exclaimed as this world is not like the other worlds that Adrian brought them on that is dreary and looked like death.

The most notable things that happened is Levin Cloud suddenly having this greenish aura rise up from his feet. They could even see leaves fluttering around him as if they are dancing to welcome him. Another thing is the green gem that is one of the floating gems that Peridot has become emerald in color and glowed in a beautiful light.

[You have two party members that is blessed by nature.]

[The effect of the Law of the Jungle has been reduced by 20% for all party members.]

"If I knew this would happen then I would have invited the two over sooner." Adrian suddenly thought as the Law of the Jungle debuff is a huge pain.

"We immediately got a debuff but it got reduced. Is this Law of the Jungle debuff too much?" Creepysoo stated.

"You do not even expend stamina like us which is why it is not important to you. Undead do not get tired which means this debuff is basically nothing to you." Adrian commented as Undead do not get tired since they have unlimited stamina and they do not get hungry.

"Good thing that Dryads and Leshies just need to absorb the power of nature to satiate ourselves. This has basically no effect on me either." Levin Cloud commented.

"Even us half elementals only need to consider our stamina since hunger is a foreign concept to us. We get satiated from the energy that nature gives us as well." Soleil stated in a cutesy manner.

"Well for us, Ryujin, we can basically starve for a month and still be fine. We are nothing like the western counterparts that are always hungry due to their greed." Peridot stated as she could also ignore the hunger debuff.

"I am suddenly jealous. Do you know that I had to eat stale bread in this vast jungle? Hunger status ailment is really a pain. It made me miss eating that I overate on lunch." Adrian stated as he almost threw up due to the large amounts of food he ate.

"At least we found one weakness of your race." Levin Cloud stated in a sarcastic tone as he was jealous of the abilities of the Daemos race before he became a Leshy.

"By the way, where is my sister and her boytoy?" Adrian asked as he could not see his sister.

"She suddenly just ran and climbed one of the huge trees. I can officially call her an Amazon. She scares me a lot." Levin Cloud stated as he pointed to the biggest tree in the vicinity.

Two figures suddenly descended to ground, and it is none other than Solstice and Lycan. They looked all serious as they saw a large group of enemies heading their way. They also took out their weapons which made the others take out theirs as well.

"What happened?" Adrian asked.

"You do not happen to have a large group of wolves under your command, right?" Solstice asked.

"No...why?" Adrian responded.

"Then we should prepare for battle as a pack of about hundred or fewer large wolves are heading our way. They also look bloodthirsty and ready to kill anything in their way." Solstice reported which stunned everyone.

"It seems like they are heading towards our direction. At first, they were heading east but they suddenly sharply turned to our direction as if they smelled something." Lycan stated as the sudden turn is alarming because it is not something wolves do unless they found their prey.

"I think they are after me." Adrian stated as he did notice that some demon wolves attempted to kill him on the way to the portal location.

Lycan then sniffed Adrian as if he is a bloodhound and pinched his nose. He pinched his nose not because of Adrian smelling bad but the musk of a dead wolf is mixed with his scent.

"Did you kill an alpha?" Lycan asked.

"Not just me but the southern overlord as well which is a giant white snake by the way. Why are you asking?" Adrian replied.

"Some monster wolves that have strong family bond could impart their musk on the creatures that kill them. They basically use the scent to hunt down anyone with the scent of their family and in this case their Alpha." Lycan stated as he got stuck reading all books about monster wolves in the duchy.

"So, basically they came to kill me. In that case, there is nothing new. What worries me is the capital of the beastkins. The southern overlord is there and if they followed her scent then they should be dealing with a larger number of demon wolves. We should hurry and assist them." Adrian stated as he summoned all his soulbounds.

It did not take long for the whole group to be surrounded by snarling demon wolves. The number may look disadvantageous to them, but their group is well versed in killing large numbers of enemies. The brighter side is that the demon wolves are only level 160 but that would mean the stronger ones are attacking the capital of the beastkins.

About twenty minutes earlier before Adrian opened the portal...

"Your majesty, a large number of demon wolves are on route to the capital." One of the beastkin scouts stated which is a tarsier beastkin reported. He looks like a small defenseless child, but their species have the best long-range vision for terramorphs.

"If it is only a few dozens then our guards could deal with them." King Leonidas stated as the guard barged in while they are having a meeting.

"I am sorry, but the number is not in the dozens, but they are in the thousands." The tarsier beastman stated as his voice shuddered.

King Leonidas and every clan head suddenly erupted from their seats as they knew that this is a great attack force.

"Everyone! Announce the evacuation and call upon the soldiers to defend the capital. Anyone that runs away shall no longer be welcome back in our kingdom." King Leonidas stated as their small group of warriors shall face off against the incoming thousands of demon wolves.

Chapter 527 - Everyone Got Stronger!

Adrian and the others are now in a battle with the hundred demon wolves that surrounded them. The demon wolves are only looking at Adrian and not at the others. The gazes of the demon wolves could literally pierce Adrian if they could shout bullets with their eyes.

The demon wolves are basically smelling the musk that a demon wolf released upon their death. Adrian would have known this special ability if Sirius had a pack, but he is a lone wolf. The smell that is coming out of Adrian is that of Alphas which is the eldest Child of Disaster.

"It seems that we need to protect Equinox. They are all focused on him." Lycan stated as he made the observation that they were not the ones that are being targeted.

"You guys should worry about yourselves. I can take care of myself. Let me see how much you guys become stronger." Adrian stated as he summoned a psyche armament.

"Paradox, Summon Primordial Armament: Mirror!" Adrian commanded.

"Affirmative." The Cube of Paradox replied as it emitted a purple lightning and that lightning materialized to become a demonic mirror.

[You have summoned the Primordial Armament: Mirror.]

[Your skill Primordial Stance activated. Your stats will be adjusted to fit your current form.]

[Your Strength stat is decreased to half of its original stat points.]

[Your Agility stat is decreased to 75% of its original stat points.]

[Your Dexterity stat is reduced to half of its original stat points.]

[Your Endurance stat has been increased by 50%.]

[Your Intelligence stat has been increased by 75%.]

[Your movement speed is decreased in this form, but you can travel using the mirrors.]

Adrian transformed into his Mirror Armament Primordial Stance. This is the first time that his friends saw him changing forms. The demon with a blindfold and four floating hands made them gasp.

"Awesome." Everyone exclaimed which made them react slowly to the four demon wolves that suddenly jumped Adrian.

Adrian, whose vision might look impaired but in fact it is actually enhanced, remained calm. Even when all his friends are now telling him to escape as they were not ready for the sudden attack, he just smiled and enlarged four of his mirrors that is floating around him.

The demon wolves entered the mirrors which made his friends dumbstruck. The way the large bodies of the demon wolves got swallowed by the mirrors made them open their mouths wide. Adrian just chuckled as he saw their reactions.

Adrian then conjured up four temporary mirrors about ten meters away from him. The four demon wolves that attacked exited at that end. The four demon wolves did not know what happened as they suddenly lost track of their prey.

"You look so cool Big Brother!" Creepysoo stated as he is an edge lord himself. His inner edge lord is getting triggered by Adrian's form that is cool looking.

"I know that I look somewhat cool, but can we please focus on the demon wolves. We need to hurry at the capital as well. Something tells me that they are in much bigger trouble than us. The world boss did howl as if it wanted to destroy the world." Adrian stated as he knows that his enemy is a Fenrir.

"It is not only you that managed to become strong. Let me show you my baby that I raised proudly." Solstice stated as she brought out her Companion Stone.

"Oso!" Solstice shouted as her Companion Stone grew larger.

The Companion Stone is where players that are not summoners keep their pets or mounts. It is also a limited item as only one of it can be kept inside the inventory. Pets or mounts are different from soulbounds because they have separate experience bars than soulbounds.

Pets or mounts basically get the same experience points that their masters receive. Unlike soulbounds that split the summoners received experience to each soulbound, pets and mounts can become stronger faster.

The downside of this faster leveling is that each death of a mount or a pet will also trigger a loss in experience points or level. Still, lots of player still find a pet or mount that could deal as much damage as them. They are now very popular in the late game due to this feature even though they are quite a hassle in raising.

The yeti that Adrian captured for his sister has become different. The cute looking fluffy yeti now looked like a ferocious beast. The yeti has basically become an Iceblood Yeti. The white fur that covered its body is now crimson in color.

The four arms that it has become twice as thick while its overall size has doubled. The feature that changed is that the Iceblood Yeti has red crystalline horns that look like they are made from bloodstone which is a rare stone. The skin of the yeti that was black is now pure white as a contrast to its deep crimson fur.

"Time to eat my cutie pie." Solstice commanded as her pet unleashed its true strength.

Oso, the Iceblood Yeti, emitted a roar that even made the demon wolves cower for a brief second. The demon wolves did not become intimidated though as they attacked it without hesitation. The demon wolves tried to bite the Iceblood Yeti, but all their teeth shattered.

The teeth of the demon wolves that wanted to pierce Oso's skin became frosted and fractured upon biting on its skin. Even though the yeti is now crimson colored, it does not mean that it has lost its powers as a yeti.

Oso grabbed one of the demon wolves and hugged it to death. The dead demon wolf became covered in frost upon being dropped on the ground. It is not only that, but the blood of the demon wolf turned to red mist is swallowed by Oso.

The Iceblood Yeti then grew about one centimeter upon inhaling this blood mist. Adrian got shocked as this is a rare monster ability. A monster ability that could increase the size and power of a monster for every defeated opponent. Intense training and luck are needed for a monster to have this ability.

"What do you think? I trained him myself." Solstice stated as she praised herself.

"Thinking about it now, I feel sorry for that Yeti. It must have been through tough times." Adrian thought. He wanted to know the secret first, but he erased that idea upon learning that it was his sister's training regimen.

"I do not want my soulbounds to experience torture." Adrian thought to himself multiple times as if he is hypnotizing himself.

"Seriously though, they mainly target you." Levin Cloud stated as he stopped the charging demon wolves using the vines of the strong trees present in the surroundings. It seems that his stats is majorly enhanced upon stepping foot on The Wilde.

"Earth's Wrath!" Peridot stated as her green floating gemstone glowed.

The ground in front of her then trembled and formed a chasm that swallowed the demon wolves in her location. She noticed that the spell became twice as powerful and faster to cast which is a peasant surprise for her. The nature element spells on her arsenals could finally be used effectively in this type of setting since her skills are boosted.

"You guys are not the only that powered up. Meet my new Undead Knight! Summon: Robin Hood!" Creepysoo stated as he summoned a new undead.

The undead that he summoned is different from normal undead as it used a bow and arrow. The bow is made up of some type of bone from a large monster while the arrows are made from the undead energy that the Undead Knight emitted.

The one thing that makes the undead knight mysterious is the hood that covers its whole face. The face of the undead is basically all darkness as its hood does not let light touch its face. One thing that is undeniable about the Undead Knight is its expertise in the bow.

All the arrows that Robin Hood released would accurately hit the heads of the demon wolves. The Undead Knight could release five arrows at the same time and accurately hit its targets. Creepysoo supported his Undead Knight with buffs and debuffs on the enemies.

For the elemental father and daughter duo, it is only Vayu that is moving freely. Soleil is not participating actively because she could induce a forest fire. The reports of a player burning down a whole forest has been popular lately which made him get executed ten times decreasing his level by 10.

Even though elementals are beings that can control the elements, she is still not that accurate. If she misfires, then she could end up burning a whole section of the forest before she could put it out. She is stuck doing defensive spells.

Adrian unconsciously smiled as his friends are fighting with him and is even competing with him on who became stronger. He finally met the right people inside the game after playing different games in the past.

Adrian, Levin Cloud, Peridot and Kabrakan had been in lots of guilds before in their past games, but they never truly felt that they belonged. It is the first time that they could truly say that they are enjoying the game with all their heart.

Chapter 528 - Selvag Under Attack

Adrian and his friends are keeping up with the large number of demon wolves that are attacking them. Even though they are not saying it, the one who is giving the most contribution in this fight is Adrian. The way that he uses his mirrors in group play could only be called as godlike control.

Levin Cloud knows that his best friend is a great player with a wide range of vision when it comes to gaming, but this is just monster like. Adrian would not waste any of their spells or attacks as he would redirect it to hit a demon wolf. He would also transport them or a demon wolf attacking them if they get in danger.

One scenario is Peridot using the Stone Missile spell that showers the area in front of her with sharp rocks. He used the flying rocks that did not hit a demon wolf and redirected it above the demon wolves previously hit by the spell. He made Peridot's skill deal full damage just by doing that and killed lots of demon wolves in the process.

Another scenario is when Creepysoo almost got caught by a demon wolf pincer attack. He immediately created a mirror below Creepysoo that transported the latter to his location. The demon wolves that made a pincer attack crashed upon each other and got rained with arrows by Creepysoo's Undead Knight.

This type of cases kept happening until the others got used to Adrian intervening at the last second. They enjoyed the feeling of becoming untouchable and powerful but the person that is doing it is now feeling the pressure.

"Is it just me or did they start playing recklessly after a few minutes of me intervening. It is probably just me." Adrian thought.

Solstice finished off the last demon wolf as their blood became multiple swords that she can control. She basically dominated the whole battlefield when a lot of demon wolves got injured and are bleeding. Adrian still kept the Primordial Stance as he needs it for transportation.

"I am worried about the capital of the beastkin nation. We must hurry there at once." Adrian stated.

"You can teleport us there anyways so let us go now." Levin Cloud commented but Adrian frowned.

"About that...something is preventing me from using Teleportation. You guy might not feel it, but do you not think that the surroundings became heavy?" Adrian asked as he immediately tried to conjure up a portal after defeating all the demon wolves but failing.

"If you are asking about gravity then we should have received something like a system notification." Creepysoo stated as he feels the same.

"I actually felt a change in the surroundings as the element of nature became abundant. I have received something like this world being beneficial for me and it is actually favoring me. I feel that it is pumping more of something which made my attacks become even more powerful." Levin Cloud stated as his Leshy senses flared up.

"I feel the same as I could sense the immense increase of the earth element from my gem. I was also trained to sense the elements which is why the heaviness should be the earth element becoming abundant." Peridot stated as she could feel it.

"Luckily, I have an idea to get to the capital faster." Adrian stated.

"How? I mean you cannot actually go there just by running or walking. Even flying might be a challenge since you saw how high those demon wolves could jump." Lycan commented as the demon wolves detected Adrian's scent even though they are very far away.

"We will travel by mirror." Adrian stated as he told Sirius to carry one of his mirrors and use the shadows to travel.

The normal travel speed of his mirrors is one meter per second. With Sirius' aid, he can make the mirror travel at 100 meters per second as that is Sirius' top speed. He also knows that the mirror is not impeded by the distance as long as one of his hands is there in that location.

"Let us just hope that we can reach the capital without it completely falling into ruins." Adrian stated as he put his travel plan forward.

"Everyone! Announce the evacuation and call upon the soldiers to defend the capital. Anyone that runs away shall no longer be welcome back in our kingdom." King Leonidas stated as their small group of warriors shall face off against the incoming thousands of demon wolves.

The whole Selvaggian race could be counted in the five thousand. If the number of children is reduced, then the number would be about more than three thousand. The adults of the race could be said to be combatants but not all of them could easily take on a demon wolf which means that they will die if they face a whole pack.

The demon wolves heading to the capital is about ten thousand in number. They are being led by two giant wolves that have different shades of black fur. One of the giant wolves is charcoal colored while the other one is ebony. The scouts of the beastkins are sure that the two are the remaining Child of Disaster.

If the two Child of Disaster joins in the raid, then they will truly bring about disaster. Fortunately, it seems that they are wary about the one who killed their eldest sibling. They are also wary about the east and west overlords which is why they are observing for now. They also sent a number of demon wolves to their territories which is why the aeromorphs are delayed.

When the start of the capital is actually about to commence, the two giant wolves suddenly went into different directions. The charcoal-colored fur one went to the west while the ebony colored one went to the east.

The two giant wolves could smell the musk that their eldest sibling released in the beastkin capital, but they could also feel the presence of an overlord there. If they wanted to win then they should take care of the other overlords as well since they seem to be moving from their territories.

"Reporting Your Majesty, the two Child of Disasters seemed to have split up and are heading to the east and west overlords." One of the beastkin scouts stated.

"It seems that the overlords are also being attacked but why did they not charge here if they outnumber us." King Leonidas muttered.

"If that is your question then I will answer. They are wary of me who carries the musk of their dead eldest sibling. It seems that they feel uneasy of me being here and is using the large wave tactics in order to wear me down before attacking me.

It seems that they also want to kill the other overlords so that they will not aid me if they were to battle me. It seems that the other two are smarter than the eldest but also weaker since they are wary of me." The Sacred Snake stated which made King Leonidas ponder.

King Leonidas is sure of his strength and if he teams up with the Sacred Snake then they could probably kill one of the Child of Disasters. That is only betting that it is a two against one scenario. King Leonidas is not really good when it comes with fighting a large number of enemies as he is a physical fighter which means he will tire out easily.

"I know what you are thinking but your priority should be to protect this place first. The overlords can take care of themselves as the Childs of Disaster that came here is not their whole self. I viewed the ley lines, and it tells me that they are not their whole body. They seem to have shrunk to about half their size." The Sacred Snake stated as the size of the two are just fifty feet.

"Can they do that? I have never battled the Child of Disasters before as they are not that active in our area, but the esteemed southern overlord should be knowledgeable about them. Any information you could give about them will be providing us a way of winning." King Leonidas stated as he bowed to the Sacred Snake.

The ministers also bowed to the Sacred Snake as they too have family members they want to protect. The citizens are already being evacuated to the castle walls. If they cannot succeed in defending, then all of the Selvaggian race would be wiped out.

"From my knowledge, the two child of disasters that are left are twins. Unlike other demon wolves or wolf monster species, they can manipulate magic freely. I also got a prophecy once about them that if they reach their peaks then one will devour the sun while the other the moon." The Sacred Snake stated which made everyone shudder.

A prophecy from the will of The Wilde is basically a truth if it does happen. The Wolf of Disaster that is said to even kill the gods actually gave rise to two more disasters that can eat celestial bodies. The prophecies of the will of this world are straightforward unlike what the Seers can see.

Chapter 529 - Might Of The Beastkin

King Leonidas made the decision to mobilize all the units and kill all the demon wolves. Since only a few combatants also need to protect the children and women, they three thousand combatants that could fight outside will be reduced to half of that number.

The defense of the capital lies on each combatant to kill at least four or five demon wolves. The numbers might be too large to a single combatant but the beastkins are not a race that knows fear. The first to move are the fox clan as they utilize their mystic arts to separate the demon wolves attacking.

The mystic arts that the fox clan used is a way of misdirection. King Leonidas planned to use their Mystic Fog so that each combatant could kill one demon wolf at a time. Although that would also mean that the fox clan would need to dedicate their entire focus on keeping the Mystic Fog active.

The fox clan members stood in specific directions around the castle and made hands signs. When they finished using their hand signs, each of them emitted a fog that is released from their tails. The fog traveled up to a kilometer with the castle in the center of it.

The beastkin combatants are then strategically placed so that they can be easily located inside the fog. They are also told not to stray too far away or else they might get attacked by the wandering demon wolves inside the fog. The demon wolves that are already near the castle got swallowed by the fog while those that have yet to enter stopped in their tracks.

The demon wolves outside the fog tried to communicate with their pack members that are swallowed inside the fog, but they did not receive a reply. The Mystic Fog that the fox clan used is their peak illusion art.

An illusion so great that it could even affect reality itself in a small degree. The scent of everyone inside the fog will vanish which means that the demon wolves could not use their sharp noses to get out. It also prevents the sound coming from the outside while all noises inside will be mixed and be recreated as noise.

The best feature of the Mystic Fog is the ability to disorient those inside as they will lose their sense of direction. This disorientation is so powerful that those inside will be unable to know that they are already walking in circles. This is what is happening with the demon wolves now.

The fox clan members could usually keep the Mystic Fog active for six hours straight if their goal is just to disorient their enemies. But they need to carefully lead a demon wolf out to a location which means the strain is heavy. At most, they can only keep this up for two hours which is not a large amount of time to defeat a ten thousand strong demon wolf pack.

About three thousand or so demon wolves are caught inside the Mystic Fog which leaves seven thousand of them outside of it. This is all within the plans of King Leonidas as he wanted to charge into battle with his royal guards.

It might be too much to say that a warrior king and ten of his royal knights is too much for seven thousand demon wolves, but the Selvaggians are different. King Leonidas can easily pummel a thousand of the demon wolves as long as he is not attacked all at the same time which might wear him down.

The ten royal knights of the Selvaggian King are from different races that are said to be the most powerful of their species. The first royal knight is an elephant beastkin that is not only powerful but also very smart. He wields two giant axes that would make any ordinary warrior cower from the sheer size and weight.

The second royal knight is a gorilla beastkin which is said to be the strongest of the ten. He wields a Warhammer that could easily break the skulls of his opponents. The third royal knight is a tiger beastkin that is a master of unarmed combat. She is fiercer than any type of martial artist with the use of her fearsome gaze and sharp claws.

The fourth royal knight is a bear beastkin which wields a towering shield. He is the sturdy and patient which makes his shield hard to destroy. The fifth royal knight is oxen beastkin that is the exact opposite of Kabrakan as she is a pure damage dealer. She wields a bludgeon that is twice her size and the other end that is a diameter thick.

The sixth royal knight is an anaconda beastkin that can easily crush someones throat with her bare hands. Her choice of weapon is a whip that is said to be crafted from the strongest fiber that can be found in The Wilde. The seventh royal knight is a crocodile beastkin with scales as tuff as armor, but his bite is the most terrifying. He uses his beast transformation halfway to use his own jaws as a weapon.

The eight royal knight is a hippo beastkin which is as heavy as the elephant beastkin. He uses two war clubs as weapons and uses his body weight to pulverize his enemies to death. The ninth royal knight is a hyena beastkin that is the most unpredictable of the royal knight but is the most loyal to the current king. He is said to be a dirty fighter as he uses any means necessary as long as he wins.

The tenth royal knight is a cheetah beastkin that is the fastest of them all. She uses two scimitars that is weightless but is so sharp that it cuts steel like butter. She might be ranked last, but she is said to be the deadliest of the Selvag Royal Knights.

King Leonidas himself recruited them and they are the most loyal to him. He recruited them by beating each one in combat. He is said to be the reincarnation of the first king as his might can only match that of the first king. The Selvaggian King and his royal knights wreaked havoc on the front lines.

Chapter 530 - Reinforcements Have Arrived

King Leonidas and his ten royal knights easily killed off five hundred demon wolves in their surprise attack. They used a direct route through the Mystic Fog that the fox clan members provided. The demon wolves that were waiting in front of the Mystic Fog were caught unaware and suffered a gruesome fate.

Each of the royal knights went to different directions so that they can kill demon wolves in high numbers, but they did not stray too far from each other. If they stray too far from each other then they could be surrounded by the demon wolves and become a prey cornered by hunters.

Each of them made sure that each one would be within their vision so that they could aid each other if one is in trouble. They have already used this technique before when they exterminated demon wolves that move in the hundreds. This is the first time they are using it at demon wolves that are thousands in number though.

"To think that the Wolf of Disaster has fostered this much fighting force without us knowing. Did the past kings die in vain without even reaching the Wolf of Disaster?" King Leonidas muttered as he hacked a demon wolf's head with his sword.

"You do not need to think about that, your majesty. We have no news about the north as even our best scouts could not go to where the Wolf of Disaster is residing." The bear beastkin royal knight stated as he pummeled a demon wolf with his great shield.

Slowly but surely, the king and his royal knights are reducing the number of the demon wolves but that also came at a cost. They are now getting exhausted quickly due to the large number of enemies that they have to fight.

It only took about an hour for them to stick to each other's back in order to help each other. The king and the royal knights exterminated around two thousand demon wolves in the process, but exhaustion can be seen in their eyes. They did not give up as they knew that giving up means the death of their race.

The Sacred Snake, who was asked to defend the castle, decided to move as she feels that the king dying would greatly impede their plans. The king wanted to kill the demon wolf pack without using their Beastification as they need to use that for the fight against the Wolf of Disaster.

Beastification is where a Selvaggian will assume more of their animal characteristics. They grow double in strength and speed but become extremely tired after using it. Some even get bedridden the first few times that they use the skill as their muscles get severely strained.

"If all else fails, we will use Beastification here. Let us just hope that the other overlords will come to reinforce us." King Leonidas commanded.

The overlords are said to be in a tough battle with the copies of the two Child of Disaster. One of the scouts even died just to bring this piece of information to them. If it was just a copy, then the overlords would not have a difficult time, but it seems even they were overrun by a large number of demon wolves.

The Selvaggians did not know how a large number of demon wolves could be present without disrupting nature. It seems that something unnatural is happening in the north that they are not aware of. King Leonias is now fully prepared to kill the Wolf of Disaster after what he witnessed here.

As the king and his royal knights are about to activate their Beastification, a white mist suddenly enveloped the area. The Sacred Snake, which used to be about only five meters long, returned to her true size and participated in the battlefield.

Her original size is so massive that she could easily swallow a demon wolf with one bite. The demon wolves should have retreated upon the southern overlord entering the battlefield, but they exhibited a strange behavior. The demon wolves did not care for their lives and just charged through the Mystic Fog.

The demon wolves that did not charge inside the Mystic Fog all attacked the Sacred Snake. The southern overlord may be powerful, but a lot of ants biting will still make you receive damage. The demon wolves became intoxicated by something as they became a frenzy.

The fox clan members could no longer hold the Mystic Fog with such a large number of enemies entering. They could no longer promise a one-to-one battle as their concentration is finally waning. It did not take long for one beastkin combatant to face three or four beastkins while others had none.

The screams of the falling beastkin warriors could be heard by the fox clan members as they are in control of the Mystic Fog. They can only grit their teeth as they hear the suffering of their comrades that are being attacked.

The Sacred Snake decided to aid the beastkins inside the fog. She can hear their painful cries filled with the resolve to die for their loved ones. She is in awe for what those beastkin warriors are doing that she decided to use her body to the fullest even though she has yet to completely recover.

"King Leonidas, I will leave this area to you. The others need my help more." The Sacred Snake stated as she went inside the Mystic Fog.

"It seems that we really need to use Beastification. On my signal, everyone will use it." King Leonidas commanded as there are still about a thousand demon wolves left to kill.

"Your majesty, you should save yours for when you kill the Wolf of Disaster. We decided that sixth to tenth royal knights should use it instead." The hippo beastkin stated while the other royal knights agreed as if they already planned something like this.

"The thousand demon wolves that are left do not look like the others. They are stronger than the ones we have face before. We are all going to use it so that no one sacrifices themselves." King Leonidas stated as he knows that those five could get killed.

As King Leonidas is about to give the command, a demon wolf that does not look like the others suddenly popped out from a shadow. The demon wolf did not emit killing intent which is why King Leonidas, and his royal knights did not attack it. What's more, the demon wolf carried a hand clutching a mirror with its mouth.

The demon wolf released the hand in its mouth, and it suddenly floated with the mirror. The mirror suddenly increased in size. The royal knights then saw silhouettes of humanoid beings coming out of the mirror which they raised their weapons against.

It was only when Adrian stepped out of the mirror, is when King Leonidas relaxed a bit. The thousand demon wolves that are left though all looked at him with strong killing intent. They looked at Adrian as if he is someone that they absolutely need to kill. The one thousand demon wolves did not even wait for Adrian to move as they all charged towards him.

"It seems that I am pretty famous even here." Adrian commented but his face became all serious.
