

O Summoner 61

Chapter 61 - Paraiso

The players in Pandemonium were well, how do you go about it, in pandemonium. The world message indicating that [A God has descended] was already shocking enough but now there were two. All the top guild, the assassin guilds and even the mercenary guilds used all of their forces to search for the gods that descended. If they get a god's blessing that would be even greater. Even a minor blessing could be an overpowered passive. There were even rumors that these blessings could be upgraded if a player experiences stat awakening every 100 levels. All players be it a noob or a ranker stopped what they are doing and started to search because this chance does not come often. The whole player population became engrossed in a fierce competition to find the the god and goddess that descended. Even the reporters who were supposed to search for the world boss joined the search and have forgotten the job that they were supposed to do.

=====

Meanwhile, the two best friend's avatar's soul has been transported elsewhere. Both of them received a system notification that indicated their location.

[Your soul has been transported to the God of Death, Abbadon's domain.]

[Your soul has been transported to the Goddess of Life, Gaea's domain.]

[Welcome to the Twin God's domain in Heaven. Paraiso.]

[For being the first travelers to ever step foot on a god's domain, you have been given a reward.]

[All stats +50]

Adrian and Marlon's souls were transported in what you would call a floating island above the clouds. At the center of the island there stood a tall tree that its top branches and leaves encompasses the whole floating island giving it shade. The tree itself is peculiar because it is half dead and half teeming with life. The duo decided to look closer towards the tree and was astounded to see the state of the floating island. The island was split into two sections. The other half teeming with life like flowers and animals of different variety which if one step on this area they would be filled with warmth and be filled with energy. The other half of the floating island is a desolate place that is filled with just the beauty of natural rock formations that would awe anyone who has seen it. Any person who enters this domain would feel a soothing and calm aura that would put every fiber of their being to rest. The most mind blowing part is that it is like the tree itself dictates the partition of the island.

When the two best friends reached the tree they were awe struck because they looked like ants compared to the height of the majestic tree. The duo then tried using their skill 'Inspect' in order to look at the details of the tree.

Name: The Tree of Life and Death, Yewdrassil

Tier: Divine

Description: The Tree of Life and Death that is the combination of the Tree of Life, Yggdrassil, that is rooted in the overworld and the Tree of Death, Yew, that is rooted in the underworld. Due to the strict rule that only one tree of life and one tree of death could be rooted in all the planes of existence, the Twin Gods decided to fuse the two trees that represented their beings. This tree is the most divine and most resilient tree that has ever taken root. It has both the powers of the Tree of Life and the Tree of Death. The Twin Gods also call this tree the Tree of Reincarnation because the souls that are deemed worthy to be reborn are sucked from the underworld using its half that has the God of Death's powers and passed through the other half that has the Goddess of Life's powers and is brought back as new life. This is the most treasured possession of the Twin Gods and it represents their connection to one another which is there is no life without death and there is no death without life.

The two bestfriends were still awe struck that they did not realize that their mouths were agape this whole time that they were appreciating the majesty of the tree. They were only woken up because of the countless system prompts that they heard.

[You are in the presence of the Tree of Life and Death , Yewdrassil.]

[Due to being the Champion of the Twin Gods, you are not smitted by the other gods for arriving at the domain of the Supreme Gods of Creation.]

[Your Title, Champion of the Twin Gods, will be upgraded due to your resonance with the Tree of Life and Death as it has grown fond of you.]

[Yewdrassil has blessed you. You will now receive a three times multiplier for your experience points for 30 in-game days.]

[You have been bestowed with the Title 'Chosen by Yewdrassil']

[You have acquired the new skill 'Yewdrassil's Blessing']

Title: Champion of the Twin Gods

Effect: Enhances likability for races with Asmodian Heritage. Enhances effect of healing spells by 100%. Gives the title holder a permanent percentage chance of 1% to execute any enemies under 50% health points(Includes dungeon bosses, world bosses and named NPCs).

Adrian was shocked to see that a title could be upgraded because no one has encountered someone who upgraded a title that has effects to enhance battle prowess. It also gives him a permanent execute chance of 1% regardless of what type of enemy he would face which include powerful world bosses, dungeon bosses and even named NPCs. Adrian could not wait to try out the effect of his new title. It even boost all heals that came from him by 100% which means his skill 'Invigorate' would automatically restore his soulbounds with 100% their total health points. Even Saena's heals would be affected. He also looked at his new title that he managed to get.

Title: Chosen by Yewdrassil

Effect: The title holder has gained the affection of the Tree of Life and Death and would be able to cheat death once. The title holder was given the skill 'Yewdrassil's Blessing'.

Skill: Yewdrassil's Blessing

Tier: Transcendant

Effect: Able to be brought back to life if the owner of the skill dies. The player revives with full health points and mana points. The player would not be given the penalty when he revives.

Cooldown: 24 hours

Cast Time: Passive

Mana Cost: None

Adrian almost fainted when he read the skill description because this skill itself is a transcendent revive skill and it only has a 24 hour cooldown which would be the envy of all the players that they would probably pay billions just to have this skill. A priest player could not even revive a player which is why this would be the most treasured skill any player could get.

Meanwhile even Marlon was convulsing because of the system prompts that he is receiving.

You are in the presence of the Tree of Life and Death , Yewdrassil.]

[Due to being a Child of Gaea, you are not smitted by the other gods for arriving at the domain of the Supreme Gods of Creation.]

[Your Main Job Class, Child of Gaea, has achieved resonance with the the 'Life' aspect of the Tree of Life and Death and it has grown fond of you.]

[Yewdrassil has blessed you. You will now receive a 1.5 times multiplier for your experience points for 30 in-game days.]

[You have been bestowed with the Title 'Chosen by Yewdrassil'(Partial)]

[You have acquired the new skill 'Yewdrassil's Blessing(Partial)']

Title: Chosen by Yewdrassil(Partial)

Effect: The title holder has gained the affection of the Tree of Life and Death and would be able to cheat death once. The title holder was given the skill 'Yewdrassil's Blessing'. This title could be upgraded if the title holder would gain resonance with the 'Death' aspect of Yewdrassil.

Skill: Yewdrassil's Blessing(Partial)

Tier: Mythical

Effect: Able to be brought back to life if the owner of the skill dies. The player revives with 80% health points and mana points. The player would not be given the penalty when he revives. This skill would be upgraded when the title 'Chosen by Yewdrassil' has been upgraded.

Cooldown: 48 hours

Cast Time: Passive

Mana Cost: None

Marlon almost cried because of the valuable skill that he has gotten. He also observed that he only got the partial blessing and not the full one because he has yet to become the Envoy of the Twin Gods. If he managed to change into the class then he would no doubt upgrade the skill because he would gain resonance with the 'Death' aspect of the Tree of Life and Death. This even made him even more determined to achieve the unique job class because of this very important skill which would revive a player upon death and without suffering any penalty from dying when the skill is active.

There was a table set with a crystal ball in the middle near the Tree of Life and Death. The two best friend heard a voice in their minds.

"Come and sit. Look into the crystal ball."

The two looked at each other and immediately took a seat and was astounded on what the have witnessed.