

O Summoner 711

Chapter 711 - The Green IV

The three of them are following Mariposa's lead as she is the only one able to sense the Compound Eye Orb. It gave a unique vibration that Adrian could even pick up, but something happened that he did not expect.

[Your soulbound Kanlaon got fatally wounded by an unknown enemy.]

[Your soulbound Kanlaon has died. His soul will rest inside of you for a specific time duration.]

It has only been about twenty minutes, but Kanlaon already got killed. He did not know who killed Kanlaon as even his dragon did not notice who that was. It meant that someone powerful is present in this very stronghold.

"Kanlaon got killed. The one who killed him did not even get revealed. I fear that a demigod level power is present in this city." Adrian stated which shocked Mariposa.

"That quickly? Even a level 200 NPC would have difficulty killing Kanlaon if he would focus on dodging." Mariposa stated as she knew that killing a dragon is no easy task or killing any soulbound for that matter.

In a battle between a summoner and another job class, the wisest choice for them should have been to aim for the summoner first rather than kill the soulbounds. Monsters tend to have better endurance and sturdiness compared to their summoner.

The fact that someone killed Kanlaon that quickly meant that they could go toe to toe with a demigod. Killing a dragon without being noticed meant that they are strong enough to land a killing blow in a span of a second.

"We must hurry then." Mariposa stated as they started to move faster.

"I just fear that the moment we unveil ourselves from the shadows will be our doom. That demigod level entity might immediately sense our presences. I bet they are scanning the whole stronghold right now." Adrian stated but Mariposa could only agree with him.

They pushed through the whole underground complex of the treasury. It seems that guards are not that popular in this area, but they noticed that dozens of monster plants are present as a form of security. These plants are a mixture of screeching plants and toxic plants in order to signal to the guards that someone snuck in and poison who ever managed to sneak inside.

A few minutes later, they reached the end of the treasury and there are three other passageways. Mariposa pointed that the middle one is where she could feel the vibrations the most and that the Compound Eye Orb is where the signal is the strongest. They headed to that passageway, but Adrian told Mariposa something that shocked her before they passed through.

Poison Ivy is actually present when the dragon attacked the stronghold and some of her plants that she raised died due to the vicious assault of the dragon. Thankfully, her teacher is also present in the stronghold when the attack happened or else more damages would incur.

The dragon easily evaded the anti-aerial weapons that the Plantae used which led to the dragon rampaging and destroying more than they could account for. Her teacher easily disposed of the dragon when she noticed the blind spot of the dragon the moment it evaded a large thorn.

Even she is shocked that her teacher managed to kill a dragon with one shot, but she knew that her teacher used one of her ultimate skills. Her teacher is a member of the Flora Knights and is famed for being the personal guards of the Plantae Queen herself.

"As expected of teacher, you were able to dispose of a dragon with one attack." Poison Ivy praised but her teacher is still vigilant.

"The fact that a dragon is here is what worries me, my student. It is also not of the nature element which means that it is not a child of that dragon that lives in the forbidden domain. It might have entered our world and started to rampage when it could not find a way to escape." The Rose Knight, Rosei, stated.

"That dragon does look familiar. I think I have seen that dragon before as there are not many dragons that can use both the fire and water elements." Poison Ivy stated and then she remembered that a certain famous summoner that is currently in the limelight is the owner of the dragon. She also remembered that the summoner is somewhat acquainted with her rival, Mariposa.

"That bitch!" Poison Ivy shouted internally as she started to think of the possibility.

Poison Ivy then looked at the entire area of the stronghold and noticed that the attack is actually far from the stronghold's treasury. She could swear that this attack is deliberate as the number of guards that came from that area to assist is great in number.

She does not want to admit it, but the defenses of the Plantae are close to impenetrable which led to their race being overly confident that they will not be conquered. But in her mind, the Plantae has never encountered a demon before despite having knowledge of their race.

"Master! I think that the dragon is a soulbound of a demon. They might have been aiming for the treasury." Poison Ivy stated as she could feel that the player Equinox is most definitely the source of the disturbance. If it was a demon, then they might actually slip from the defenses of the Plantae since their defenses were built to hinder Insectoids.

"Even if they get inside of the treasury, one of the pets of her majesty is guarding there. Even a demon would fear the horror that will be inflicted upon them." Rosei stated as she believed that the defenses of the treasury are also near impossible to breakthrough.

"What if an Insectoid is actually leading the demon? I have a bad feeling about this, master." Poison Ivy stated as she knows that the pet that her master is talking about is just a graft of the original. It is only 60% of the original's strength.

"If that is what you are worried about then we will go inside the treasury. I do need to present the head of the one responsible for all this destruction to her majesty.." Rosei stated as she and her student headed to the treasury.

Chapter 712 - Compound Eye

A few minutes later, they reached the end of the treasury and there are three other passageways. Mariposa pointed that the middle one is where she could feel the vibrations the most and that the Compound Eye Orb is where the signal is the strongest. They headed to that passageway, but Adrian told Mariposa something that shocked her before they passed through.

"There is something hiding inside this treasury." Adrian suddenly announced to Mariposa which made her go wary of her surroundings.

"Hiding? There is nothing here but overgrowth." Mariposa stated as she looked at the surroundings.

"Something is definitely here as I could smell the thick stench of death. Even Sirius cannot detect what it is, but I am very confident when it comes to things like this. The moment that we take off the skill effect from Sirius, something or someone will immediately attack." Adrian explained but Mariposa could not believe what he is entirely saying.

"We should find the Compound Eye Orb first before lifting the skill that Sirius is using then. You can also tell me if what you are sensing has weakened as we are still a bit far away from the relic." Mariposa proposed as it might just be an area that Adrian is feeling wary about.

Sometimes being super sensitive has its downsides as they could sometime feel the emotions of the area. This is one of the suspects of Mariposa when it came to the gut feeling that Adrian is telling her about.

It might just be the vibe of the place as even she feels something odd but not enough to warrant heavy caution. The people that stored items in their treasury will surely not place traps inside the actual treasury as it will potentially damage the things inside of it. Only a fool will do something like that.

When they met the end of the passageway that they are traversing on, a wide space filled with treasure could be seen by them. Mariposa did not care for the other treasures as her first priority is none other than the Compound Eye Orb.

She expanded her senses and managed to pinpoint the location as it is just behind a mountain of treasures and placed inside of a stand. The stand is decorated with vines and the like while a glass dome is protecting it from the exposure of the outside world. Mariposa is about to reach her hand and grab the Compound Eye Orb when Adrian suddenly warned her.

"The dreadful feeling of death that I have felt has suddenly become stronger. If you touch something of the material plane, then your camouflage from the shadows will immediately be broken. I will just remind you of that." Adrian stated as he wanted to give Mariposa a moment to prepare herself is something should really pop out from the area.

They three of them are perfectly obscured from vision but that did not mean they could do whatever. The moment that they touch something from the material world then they would be ejected from the shadows as it is not part of the shadow world.

"If something were to show up then immediately recall me back." Mariposa stated as Adrian seemed serious and did not joke about the matter.

Mariposa thought that it is best to heed the warning of her helper than dismiss it without reason. She is not the type to be overly confident on herself. Her sensing abilities must also have been dampened due to the fact that the Compound Eye Orb is emitting this rejuvenating buzz that increases her stats.

"It would take about three seconds to fully incorporate you back into the shadow world. You must also not get hurt or attack something in that timeframe. You must best avoid the attacks for you to be safely pulled back." Adrian stated as he told the limits of what he can do for Mariposa.

Mariposa agreed as she had a deep breathe in order to concentrate. Her eyes filled with determination then suddenly reached out to the glass dome of the Compound Eye Orb. The moment that her fingertips touched the glass, she was ejected from the shadows.

If one were to describe what it looked like, then a shadow from the ground extended like a tentacle from the ground and touched the glass dome. The moment that the shadow tentacle touched the glass dome, Mariposa's figure emerged as if the shadow ejected her. The visual looked like the shadow receded from her fingertips towards the ground.

The moment that Mariposa's figure is revealed, numerous vines suddenly shot towards her. She did not expect that reaction as she did not see any monster in the surroundings. The vines literally sprouted from the darkness around her.

She immediately used her best evasion skill as her body became butterflies that scattered throughout the area. The butterflies then came back together in a swarm and manifested as Mariposa. Adrian did not dilly-dally as he immediately told Sirius to get Mariposa back to the shadows.

Thankfully, the evasion skill that she used does not affect the allies that she has so Adrian could pull her into the shadows while the butterflies were still converging. Mariposa got shocked as she almost felt that she could have gotten one shot from those attacks.

"I guess I have truly underestimated an S rank difficulty mission. It seems that getting inside of the stronghold is not the most difficult part of the quest." Mariposa stated as she had a look of fear at the vines that slowly receded back into the darkness.

All of them could see that the vines looked like they were looking for something but receded back to the darkness when its search bore no fruit. The fact that something this powerful is guarding the treasury meant that there must be something extremely valuable that the Plantae are protecting.

"If it is just the Compound Eye Orb then they would definitely not bother with this great security. Also, I could feel that the thick scent of death does not come exactly from this room but elsewhere. Could this room actually be part of the other passageways that we have seen earlier?" Adrian stated as this tight security is not warranted for the Compound Eye Orb despite being a relic of the Insectoids.

"I feel like I have seen those vines before, but I cannot remember what it is." Mariposa stated as she tried to remember those vines. She could vaguely remember that it was not the first time that she encountered that type of scenario. She shuddered a few seconds later as she finally remembered.

When she was just a fledgling Insectoid, one of the pets of the Queen of the Plantae attacked the village that she was in. Since she was the protégé of the Monarch of Butterflies, a royal guard is always stationed near her in the beginning. One of those pets that attacked the village is a giant man-eating monster plant.

She got caught by that plant trying to save the life of a small insectoid girl and is about to be eaten when the royal knight assigned to guard her cut it down mercilessly with all his might. This was the feeling that she could remember as that royal knight told her that it was actually just a graft of the monster plant and not its main body.

"This is bad as that thing could only have been a graft as the Plantae Queen never lets her pets wander off far from her. But to think that a graft has already grown this strong then that means that the Plantae Queen must be as strong as all of the Monarchs combined." Mariposa thought as there is only one ruler for the Plantae but numerous for the Insectoids.

One might think that the presence of numerous Monarchs would pose a threat to the Plantae Queen but that is not true. The Plantae Queen does not move recklessly because each Monarch of the Insectoid is stronger than any of her personal guards but she as strong as three of four Monarchs combined.

If all her pets are added into the analysis, then the Plantae Queen and her pets are equal to all of the Monarchs combined. She does not recklessly conquer the lands of the Insectoids in fear that one of the Monarchs might use a sneak attack on a different territory. This is why there was a stalemate when it came to the war between the two factions.

That stalemate became non-existent when the Plantae received aid from the followers of the dark gods which tilted the war in their favor. Mariposa could not think of what to do next as she knows that monster plants are much more different than other soulbounds because they mostly move on instinct. Monster plants also have a wide field of vision and could even split themselves via scattering or grafting.

Mariposa explained everything that she knew about monster plants to Adrian as both of them needed to come up with a strategy. They could not think of anything until Mariposa noticed one of the system notifications that showed up in her screen.

[You have temporarily been granted the skill 'Compound Eye' by being in close proximity to the Compound Eye Orb.]

Chapter 713 - Unknown Bulb

[You have temporarily been granted the skill 'Compound Eye' by being in close proximity to the Compound Eye Orb.]

Mariposa suddenly felt that something inside of her sparked some hope. She could now use the skill that she wanted to get. It will definitely help in their quest to retake the Compound Eye Orb.

Skill: Compound Eye

Tier: Mythical (Evolvable)

Type: Passive (Ocular)

Effect:

- Cannot be affected by Blinding skills or spell status effects
- Immune to damage from skills and attacks that give Blinding status effects

- All skills that are of the Insectoid skill tree will be boosted by 50%
- All units that are insects are boosted by 50%
- Vision will be clearer and can be magnified by 1000%
- Able to have omni-directional vision

Cooldown: None

Mana Cost: None

Cast Time: None

Adrian also managed to view the passive skill and cannot help but be surprised. The passive skill is of the Mythical tier and could also be evolved to the Transcendent tier. The fact that the skill gives immunity to blinding effects and attacks is already great, but it also has a skill boost and stat boost.

Adrian could not believe that a mythical passive skill is such a great boost, but he also heard from Mariposa that the Insectoids or any insect monsters have a great weakness and that is their elemental weaknesses.

Insectoids and insect monsters have very bad affinity to fire as it deals them about four times the amount that it normally should. To compensate for this great weakness, the insect monsters or people often have great attack power or great defensive power.

"I think I could take on that plant with the boost right now but the most I could do is keep it busy. You need to find out a way to incapacitate it or make it lose its attention on the Compound Eye Orb." Mariposa stated as she pointed that the location of the orb is now covered with vines.

"Fine but I need to have Sirius' help. How long do you think you can stall the vines in this room?" Adrian stated.

"At most 10 minutes as I am not sure what the level of the monster plant that we are fighting right now." Mariposa stated as she knows that a grafted monster plant is still powerful if the main monster plant is extremely strong.

Adrian agreed and immediately set the plan into motion. Mariposa rose up from the shadows and summoned three of her soulbounds. The crystal mantis, the large stag beetle and the large centipede all formed a protective wall on their master.

The vines suddenly all shot towards them since the monster plant managed to detect their presence. Adrian immediately went to the likely location of the vines while he and Sirius are still under the effects of the shadows.

Adrian pushed forward into the darker part of the room. He could easily see the surroundings due to his dark vision. He finally saw the monster plant that is actually stuck on the wall of the room itself. It looked like a red type of orchid and below it is bodies of monsters. It is currently feeding on the blood of the monsters offered to it.

Monster Name: Blood Orchid (Graft)

Level: 210

Description: A rare species of monster plant that is said to be extremely resilient as it could survive without drinking a drop of blood for a whole month. It has a habit of collecting the blood of monsters that fall victim to its vines.

It will drink all the blood of its victims until they are a dried husk as it is voracious when it can finally eat. Be careful when venturing in the territory of these terrifying monster plants as they will never let you escape alive. It has pheromones that could allure any type of monster that likes sweet scents.

A level 210 monster is expected but the name of the monster plant is actually golden. Adrian could not believe that an extremely rare species of monster is what they will face. The fact that it is only a copy of the original is already terrifying enough because a copy already surpassed the level of 200.

It has increased stats compared to monsters with level below it. Adrian is about to go back and help Mariposa just brute force her way in getting the Compound Eye Orb, but Adrian noticed something in the corner.

A bulb is glowing with pulsing light as if it is a heartbeat and the Blood Orchid is actually looking at it. The monster plant is not showing a caring attitude but one with hunger. As if the monster plant is waiting for the bulb to mature. Adrian immediately tried to inspect the bulb but all he got are unknown information.

Name: Unknown Bulb

Level: Unknown

Description: Unknown

Adrian wanted to see further but it seems that the grafted Blood Orchid is more intelligent than he thought. It actually took notice of the shadow moving about in the area, but it did not openly attack since it could not do magical attacks. It just waited for the person hiding in the shadow to move again but it is protecting the bulb like a predator scaring away scavengers from the prey that it hunted.

"It being unknown could only mean one thing. It is some sort of egg but since monster plants are not able to lay eggs, they must be able to give birth to young through bulbs like that. I should definitely take it as it would focus its attention on me." Adrian thought as he commanded Sirius to immediately snatch the bulb after he shows himself.

The shadow elongated as Adrian is actually placing Quantum Spacemines in the area of the Blood Orchid. He does not intend to fatally damage it but distract it for just a split second that Sirius will be able to get that bulb.

Chapter 714 - Escaping The Monster Plant

Adrian snapped his fingers and he got spit out of the shadows as he immediately registered an attack. The monster plant, the Blood Orchid (Graft), shrieked as it got surprised by the attack and the vines that guarded the bulb swung frantically which made Sirius swipe the bulb with its mouth.

[Your soulbound, Sirius, has obtained the Unknown Bulb]

[Your soulbound, Sirius, has plucked the bulb from its nourishing environment. The growth will be halted until it is returned to a better environment.]

"Run!" Adrian shouted as he applied Chrono Shift on himself and flew towards Mariposa's direction.

Mariposa's soulbounds were busy guarding against the vines when those same vines became frantic. She viewed it as a chance and commanded her crystal praying mantis to cut all the vines covering the Compound Eye Orb. She then followed up the command with the centipede to get the Compound Eye Orb.

"Finally!" Mariposa stated as the orb is now within her hands, but a loud high pitch shriek is heard from the direction where Adrian headed to. She could then see that the person in question is riding his giant wolf away from what looks like thousands of vines.

====

Kroagah!

"What was that!" Poison Ivy stated as she is descending the treasury with Rosei.

"That is the guardian of the treasury! Hurry! Someone must have angered it or else it would run rampage until everything is destroyed." Rosei stated as she picked up the pace leaving Poison Ivy behind by a few meters until she summoned a monster plant that looks like a snake then rode it to catch up to her master.

The monster plant, Blood Orchid (Graft) tried to entangle the perpetrator of stealing its prized food that will help its main body evolve. It was busy cultivating the bulb in a suitable environment since it was discovered as the main body wanted whatever that sprouted from the bulb to be eaten by it.

The Blood Orchid (Graft) will eat the thing that comes out of the bulb while the main body which is the Blood Orchid will eat the Blood Orchid (Graft) to absorb the nutrients. It will then prompt the Blood Orchid to ascend to a higher plane of existence to become equivalent to a godly monster plant like its master wanted it to.

It might look like it is a cannibalistic species but that is what happens when monster plants graft themselves. As the grafted monster plants cannot live for a whole year away from the main body.

There are instances that the grafted body will become more powerful than the main body which would then prompt a battle for who will become the new main body.

The Blood Orchid (Graft) could not catch the culprits with its vines as they successfully dodged every vine that it shot towards them. The Abyss Fenrir is too much when it comes to speed as it has a sixth sense that can predict where an attack could land on its body.

The Blood Orchid (Graft) is left with no choice as some of its vines are only limited in length and the culprits are now escaping. Even the other treasure that the main body told it to protect has been stolen by an Insectoid, but its priority is the bulb that was stolen.

The Blood Orchid (Graft) could only dislodge itself from the wall it is grafted into. A red viscous liquid could be seen pouring out of the wall when the Blood Orchid (Graft) pushed its body out of the wall. It even produced a screech so high pitched that Adrian almost fainted from the tone. Sirius even got damaged just from that screech.

The Blood Orchid (Graft) managed to separate itself from the wall and it started to slither on the ground with its vines propelling it forward. Needless to say, the movement of the Blood Orchid (Graft) is fast that it almost caught up with Adrian.

"You're a plant! You are not supposed to be that fast!" Adrian complained as he saw Mariposa with the Compound Eye Orb on her hand.

"What did you do!" Mariposa stated as she sealed back her soulbounds since they are not suitable for outrunning that thing that is following Adrian at the moment.

"No time to explain. Sorry for the rough handling." Adrian stated as he used Blink to teleport Mariposa to his arms. She blushed a little because of the sudden interaction but she calmed herself as she is a bit older than the kid and they are on a quest right now.

"Tell me what happened." Mariposa stated as she maneuvered herself to the back with the help of Sirius' shadows.

"Long story short...that is the guardian of the treasury and we pissed it off by stealing its food. Or I think it is food for it." Adrian stated as he showed the Unknown Bulb.

"Even I do not know what that is but seeing its reaction... I can say that you did your job right." Mariposa stated.

Adrian is about to laugh when Sirius suddenly told him that a great deal of bloodlust is then directed towards them. The next moment, Adrian told Sirius to dive into the shadows as a red streak of light is now heading towards them.

Sirius immediately heeded the command, but the attack is too fast to avoid using the descent. Adrian had no choice but use one of his prized skills.

"Time Stop!" Adrian shouted as only he and Sirius could move in the world frozen in time. He looked back at Mariposa and noticed that she is also affected by Time Stop. He thought that she will be unaffected because they are of the same party, but it looks like only Adrian and his soulbounds are unaffected by Time Stop.

Adrian saw that the red streak of light is actually a Plantae with a thorn whip heading towards them. If Adrian did not make time stop then the whip will definitely hit Sirius in the neck and stop them in their tracks.

"I am burning too much mana from stopping time. Blink!" Adrian stated as a purple light covered him, Sirius and Mariposa.. They then appeared behind two Plantae's that rushed to the treasury.

Chapter 715 - Must Need Light

"Time Stop!" Adrian shouted as only he and Sirius could move in the world frozen in time. He looked back at Mariposa and noticed that she is also affected by Time Stop.

Adrian saw that the red streak of light is actually a Plantae with a thorn whip heading towards them. If Adrian did not make time stop then the whip will definitely hit Sirius in the neck and stop them in their tracks.

"I am burning too much mana from stopping time. Blink!" Adrian stated as a purple light covered him, Sirius and Mariposa. They then appeared behind two Plantae's that rushed to the treasury.

When Adrian disabled the use of his Time Stop, the two Plantae got shocked as their target dodged. Rosei is especially shocked as it was her fastest attack that she can do. She might not be the fastest of the Flora Knights, but she was still the commander.

A commander of the Flora Knights must be able to beat all the other Flora knights or else you will not get their respect as only the strongest will be able to lead in nature. Even Poison Ivy is surprised that a player managed to actually dodge an attack from her master.

One must see that her master is almost in the realm of a demigod which is why the Plantae Queen holds her in high regard. To be able to dodge an attack coming at the speed of sound meant that either he has a skill that can detect aggression or a skill that can predict the future.

Little did Poison Ivy know is that Adrian managed to detect the attack and dodge it through pure instinct. If she knew this fact, then she would have lost her mind that a summoner could have such reflexes. It is quite known that summoners are fragile if they are not with their soulbounds.

This also speaks true for Adrian as he could be beaten by a veteran warrior if he goes to battle with him or her one on one. Adrian in all of his battles does not go head-to-head with the opponent but only stalls them until his soulbounds could also join the battle.

Rosei did not stop her attacks as she immediately tried redirecting the arc of her thorn whip but the Blood Orchid (Graft) that is chasing Adrian suddenly received the attack as it pushed forth with its movement thereby absorbing the attack from Rosei.

The Blood Orchid (Graft) did not expect the attack and some of its vines were cut but it did not care. It needed to get the bulb that was swiped by the hoodlum. It could catch up to them as long as it pushes its body further, but one could see that the Blood Orchid (Graft) is already starting to deteriorate.

The deterioration is not that much but there is visible decay on a small part of its body. It should have been able to take itself out of a wall like that without proper preparation as it is more of a parasitic monster plant than a monster plant that could move.

Blood Orchids would usually find a host that it could jump onto in order to ensure that it could move freely. The host will inevitably die due to blood loss as the Blood Orchid (Graft) would feed on its host until it will find a new host to move upon. This is how the parasitic type of monster plants could move about.

"It is but this is the first time that I have seen it that desperate and angry. We must kill that demon and drag its corpse to the guardian." Rosei stated as she followed the direction of the Blood Orchid (Graft) that is pursuing Adrian and the others.

"That Insect bitch is really a big problem, but this should be my chance to diminish her reputation!" Poison Ivy stated as she started to stream the chase as she wanted to see Mariposa's defeated face in real time.

"Can you not dive into the shadows?" Mariposa asked as they would be able to escape it Adrian just ordered Sirius to dive into the shadows.

"Sorry but we got an emergency mission the moment we picked you up. We cannot escape via the shadow realm as that treasure is actually interfering with the dive. It seems that it is an object of great power which is why it is rejecting the shadow realm as if it is repelling it." Adrian explained as he got a notification immediately when Mariposa boarded Sirius.

"I have been told that the Compound Eye Orb must always have at least a small amount of light or must never be in total darkness or else it will unleash upon a great terror." Mariposa stated as she could remember that even the robbers dared not to cover the Compound Eye Orb in cloth when they stole it.

The inside of the treasury is also lit in some parts by Luxbells which is a type of flower that can emit light. Although some parts of the treasury are not that bright, it still has some light which the Compound Eye Orb could absorb from.

Adrian looked back and he could still see the Blood Orchid (Graft) in pursuit of their trail. He thought that he needed to throw the bulb overboard, but he heard a faint whisper that begged him not to. He looked around but he could not see any small child begging for help.

"Did you hear a child speaking?" Adrian asked Mariposa.

"Nope. I think it must just be one of your soulbounds speaking through the soul link." Mariposa stated as her soulbounds often converse with her when situations are tight. Some even give warnings to her when she will get a fatal attack. This could only be achieved when a soulbound fully trusts their master as they are not only one soul but also one body.

"I do not think that it is one of my soulbounds as the voice is like that of a petite little girl that is scared. Saena does not sound like that mind you. She prefers the elegant tone rather than the acting cute tone. She is very much a diva." Adrian stated as he could feel Saena giving him the side eye.

Adrian then looked at the bulb in his hands as it is actually glowing. The glow is very much addictive to see but Adrian definitely heard the voice coming from the bulb itself.

"If you save me from that monster then I will follow you eternally. Please do not abandon me." The voice of a small petite girl is coming from the bulb and is communicating to Adrian via telepathy.

Adrian immediately knew that this bulb must be some sort of intelligent monster plant that has yet to fully bloom. It would make sense that the Blood Orchid (Graft) would chase him this far as this thing must be a great food source for something like it.

Pann once told Adrian that all monsters will want one thing when their souls reach the peak and that is to break through the barrier of being a mindless monster. Some monsters achieve this from birth because of their incredible bloodline but some need to get it from others as they are not born with it.

This is one of the reasons why intelligent monsters tend to protect their young until they could protect themselves as they are an easy target during infancy. The bulb must be a monster plant with the golden soul like his soulbounds.

"If I save you then you must follow me when I make you bloom." Adrian stated which made Mariposa a bit confused as he is talking to an actual plant. Then again, some people talk to their plants like they are alive, and she just assumed that Adrian is like that.

"I see the exit!" Mariposa shouted as she could see that a bright light up ahead.

They were about to reach the exit when thousands of thorns suddenly rained upon them. Mariposa could not bear to sacrifice one of her soulbounds but she has no other choice or they will be the ones that will be sacrificed.

She summoned her stag beetle soulbound and ordered it to block all the projectiles heading towards their way. The stag beetle soulbound did not even flinch at the order as it also loved its master dearly. She saved the giant stag beetle when it was getting bullied by other insects its size and it owes its strength to its master.

The stag beetle released an energy barrier using the element that it has. The earth element created a barrier that blocked all the thorn projectiles but the soulbound ultimately died when Rosei and Blood Orchid (Graft) reached its location.. The stag beetle soulbound did all it could to block the way as long as it can in order for its master to escape.

Chapter 716 - Mariposa Vs Poison Ivy I

"So, who do you think will win?" Marlon asked Adrian as he suddenly got reminded that the two summoners are now battling it out in the battlefield. He could not believe that he spaced out for a few moments there when he needed to see the skills of his opponents.

Adrian might not want to admit it, but he is very competitive and does not want to go down like a loser if he ever gets vanquished in the event later. He needed to see all the things that his opponents are capable of.

"I think the highest chance of winning goes to Mariposa but that could also be changed as it is an open battlefield. It is not easy to predict what will happen with so many external factors." Adrian stated as he watched the fight.

"You are seeing it here folks! The two summoner beauties that are said to be rivals both in-game and out of the game! To think that we will see them clash this early!" The announcer stated as the fight between the two summoners has already started.

Mariposa summoned her Crystal Killer Mantis and Black Steel Carapace Armored Stag Beetle to fight against her opponent. She did not want to reveal all her cards as she needed to be wary of other players interrupting their fight.

In fact, she wanted to pay Poison Ivy back for making her face defeat back at the stronghold. She might have died but she did not fail the mission as Adrian managed to survive due to her sacrifice. This is also the reason why Poison Ivy is infuriated with Mariposa as of late as she looked like a heroine that sacrificed her life for her people instead of a loser that died in battle.

"This will be payback for that time. You only managed to win because of your mentor but she is not her right now." Mariposa stated in a tone filled with slight mockery as she did not want her elegance to be tarnished.

"You think you only died because of your master? You only successfully finished your mission because of that demon player. Without him then you might have been crying in whatever nest that you insect people live." Poison Ivy fired back as she summoned two of her soulbounds used for combat.

Poison Ivy summoned her Thorny Snake Vine that looks like a cobra that is mostly made of vines with a flower as a hood. The next thing that she summoned is a Cactus Knight which is a rare type of plant monster that can survive even in the harshest of deserts. It is a humanoid monster plant that has two spiky shields as a way of defense.

"Just do not cry when you lose!" Poison Ivy stated as the clash between the two summoners have started.

The Thorny Snake Vine went against the Black Steel Carapace Armored Stag Beetle while the Crystal Killer Mantis went against the Cactus Knight. Each soulbound would usually focus on their individual fights but would sometimes interject with the fight of the other in order to get the opponents disoriented.

Mariposa and Poison Ivy did not become idle as they also fired off support, attack and defensive spells when they have the chance. Mariposa focused more on enhancement type spells while Poison Ivy is focused on more offensive oriented spells.

The two may be summoner but they have different play styles which also gives them their own individual charm. The fight of the two became the highlight of the moment when the communication flower that Poison Ivy is controlling suddenly informed her that Team Japan is already leading the event with a lead of twenty points.

"You!" Poison Ivy stated as she noticed that the Spore Wards that her soulbound created are actually getting deleted.

"Oh! It seems that you have noticed." Mariposa stated as she actually already summoned her third soulbound called the Myriad Colors Dragonfly.

The Myriad Colors Dragonfly is an insect type of soulbound that has both quick speed and the ability to camouflage itself. It is also very notorious for its appetite for other smaller insects or prey. It is considered one of the deadly hunters in the planet of Green.

"You are not the only one that has plans. I knew that you would choose the area with the most greenery as you have complete control over this area. Well...more than what a Guardian of the Forest could anyway." Mariposa stated as the trap for Poison Ivy has been laid.

One of the Team Japan Members appeared, and it seemed to be a sorcerer that handles seals like a Charm Master. Upon seeing this, Poison Ivy immediately went into survival mode as she could not handle another opponent at the moment.

She wanted to use Forest Wanderer, a skill that is an inferior version of Forest Guardian which is only available to the Dryads or Leshy, in order to escape via the tree roots on the ground. She prepared to activate the ability, but she is unable to escape.

"It seems that Player Poison Ivy is trapped by the seals that our famous Shinigami, Hime-sama has created! Is this the end for our beautiful Poison Ivy?" The announcer stated as Poison Ivy could not escape and Hime is already preparing to explode the barrier from the inside in order to knockout Poison Ivy in one shot.

The barrier that sealed Poison Ivy started to glow green when it is suddenly broken by a fast skill that sliced it into pieces.

"Shado!" Poison Ivy exclaimed as is actually relieved that she will not die this early in the game.

"The leader told you to be careful, but you did not listen. I know that you have a rivalry with this woman but winning should be out top priority." Shado stated as he suddenly made hand seals that turned both him and Poison Ivy into shadows. They disappeared from the scene which made the crowd baffled that a skill like that is actually possible.

"Tsk! We would have eliminated the best surveyor if that shadow assassin did not appear.." Mariposa state with frustration.

Chapter 717 - Event Twist

The event has already proceeded with half time and about five national teams have already been eliminated. The teams for Australia, Ukraine, Thailand, Poland, and Taiwan have all been eliminated. They might have had a better chance, but they encountered Hou Yiwei, Frey, Vayu and Blade on their way.

The other teams are also not faring too well as five other countries have only one player left. These five countries are Italy, Philippines, Malaysia, Finland, and Canada. The other national teams left have three to five members left in their roster.

The countrymen of those that were eliminated might have been a bit sad that the ones representing their country all lost but that is also part of the game. They were actually not told that the course is also filled with many traps that could even be fatal to some that are unfortunate to receive their effects.

"We already are in half-time folks! This is the time for the surprise mechanics! Allow me to explain! This is not just an ordinary event that they need to shoot down all targets! To make things interesting, the map will suddenly become hit with different disasters!

For the next three hours, a disaster will hit every time that all the players accumulate a score that equates to 30. These disasters are not just curses but also blessings as the targets that are difficult to target will momentarily pause in their tracks.

This would be an opportunity to all the players that want to find the Golden Sprite! Each player will have to navigate the map with splendid ways in order to transform a disaster into an opportunity! Good Luck to all of you!" The announcer stated and even his voice has been transmitted to those inside the game as they needed to get an idea of the twist of the game.

Some of the players suddenly become weary as a disaster is very vague way to describe something that could affect the match. They wanted more information, but they could not as they are in constant movement and awareness of their surroundings.

[Thirty points have been accumulated by all players. The first disaster will hit. Be careful of your surroundings.]

A few minutes later, the ground started to shake as the first disaster is none other than an earthquake. The players that were not that occupied searched for an open area as it would be bad for them to be inside a forest or near a mountain if an earthquake is actually happening.

Some players died in the earthquake as it became more intense every minute for the whole ten minutes. Just like what the announcer said, the targets stopped moving and someone had a glimpse of the Golden Sprite, yet it was in a location that is difficult to hit.

The Golden Sprite is actually in between a crack in the mountain but the player that found it suddenly got eliminated by a large falling rock. It seems that he became mesmerized by the sudden thought of winning the game that he forgot to look around his surroundings.

"Oh! Too bad for the last player of Team Canada! He might have gotten a lot of points if he would have hit the Golden Sprite, but he could not target it properly since the surroundings rocked like no tomorrow." The announcer stated as he did not want to make the player that exited his game pod to be disappointed on himself than he already is.

The earthquake finally stopped, and almost half of the forest is gone because all the trees tumbled down due to the high intensity earthquake. Only a few players managed to get unscathed by the earthquake and now all of them became wary of the disasters.

The mountain that was in the north of the map also became a sad excuse of a pile of stone. The map became less arduous, but it also increased the danger level of game. The players could feel that the match will now become more intense.

Half of the forest that sheltered those that can hide well is now gone. The mountain became rubble that killed players that hid or searched for targets there. The only way to easily win now is to destroy every target that they can as they can now clearly see the targets floating in the air freely now that most of the cover is gone.

"The Golden Sprite!" one of the spectators shouted as the audience has now a great detailed view of the most coveted item in the event.

The Golden Sprite like its name is actually a small machine-like entity with golden wings. Some may say that it just looks like a glorified ball golem with golden wings fluttering in high speeds. It is lightweight and very fast that makes catching it become such a tedious chore.

The players in the field also saw the Golden Sprite and greed also flared in their hearts as that thing cost the most points in the game. If they could destroy that then they would have already got one step ahead of all the players in the game.

Each of the teams now have dedicated players that followed the Golden Sprite as they want to get the points. The others that could not afford to split up has made a decision to either risk it or play safe and destroy the remaining flying targets.

Those that are only one player left could only wait for their chance and just try their best. A golden opportunity might come knocking towards them if they time their skills perfectly. They still have the opportunity to turn things around as they are usually the ones to bet on that single defining moment.

Even the other players are wary of those that are left all alone since they are usually the ones that become more determined. The intense fight for the most points in the Sharp Shooter Event has finally started which others dubbed as the Great Disaster Battle.

"It seems that our event is more popular than we anticipated as almost all the sales of the promotional items tripled in sales in under one hour." Adam Smith stated as he could see that Atlas Inc. is now becoming more and more influential by the minute.. It would not take long for Pandemonium to be the best game in the world.

Chapter 718 - Sharp Shooter End I

[Thirty points have been accumulated by all players. The first disaster will hit. Be careful of your surroundings.]

Another disaster strikes the battlefield but this one did not have much effect on the others. The next disaster is none other than a giant tornado that traversed the map in under ten minutes. The players did not have difficulty surviving the disaster, but they did have a difficult time hitting targets.

Although the targets became frozen in place when a disaster hit, the long-range attacks that the players fired all got swept up. The attacks became ineffective as the tornado also created some sort of wind barrier in the sky that dispelled spell shots and veered arrows from their path.

Some tried to fly and destroy the targets, but they are unfortunately caught up in the strong winds. They did not die but they did get damaged to a point that it became difficult to stand up without healing from a priest.

"It seems that the disaster is truly a disaster this time as the national team players is not able to score during its passing." The announcer stated as players are now back to scoring more points than before. It did not take long for another disaster to hit as Hou Yiwei shot down three targets worth ten points.

[Thirty points have been accumulated by all players. The first disaster will hit. Be careful of your surroundings.]

The next disaster also started to shake the earth. The players thought that it was another earthquake, but it is far more dangerous than that. They noticed that the cracks on the ground started to sink a little and the temperature started to rise.

This happened in all of the areas and those that are the brains of each team knew what came next. Lava started to rise from the ground as the player started to vacate to another area. The lava started at the left side of the entire area until it crept slowly to the right.

After each minute, a large explosion of lava came from the ground that erupted like a geyser. Team eliminations started to happen as the players could not easily evade the disaster that they have summoned. It did not take long for others to use the lava explosions for their own gain.

Some solo players managed to create sneak attacks on teams that were fleeing from an explosion. A sneaky crowd control skill would be all they needed, and they just needed to time it correctly. Players that are exposed to the lava explosions could only die in agony.

Even the dragonkin that have superb fire elemental resistance can only die due to the mixture of heat and rock shards. The disaster finally subsided, and the remaining teams can only be numbered by three as they used the disaster well.

The solo players managed to kill some of the national teams that are only two or three, but they got hunted down by the teams that still had four or five members. In the end, the United States, Japan and China national teams are the only ones left due to the scuffle that occurred.

Not even one of the teams are left with supporting players as their healers all got killed since they are usually the ones being targeted first. The crowd is now filled with anticipation as this might be the last round of the event because of the way that the battlefield looks like.

A raging inferno has resulted in most of the forest being burnt down. Even the ashes of the trees are still producing fire. The only safe place in the whole battlefield is where the mountain collapsed due to the earthquake. The lava that erupted in that area easily became stone due to the cold rocks of the mountain.

"It looks like we will finally have the decisive battle now folks! Let me just tally the current scores of the remaining teams. In the lead is Team Japan with 61 points followed by Team China which is 55 points and lastly Team United States with 46 points.

Each team are not that far off in the points department, but the only target left is the Golden Sprite! The other targets have been destroyed by the disasters that came rampant. We still have one hour to decide which team will be victorious!

What will the strategy of each team be? Will they go for the win by destroying the Golden Sprite? Or will the leading team just have an all-out battle with the other competitors? Let us find that out!" The announcer stated as he told the two possibilities that each team could do.

While everyone wanted to see the brawl between each of the national team members, they wanted to see who could actually destroy the Golden Sprite as it was elusive enough to evade all the arrows that Hou Yiwei fired against it.

Even the Homing Arrows that the rangers use cannot target the Golden Sprite. It would actually dodge at the last second and it would sometimes slightly touch the arrows with its wing tips to destroy them. The Golden Sprite is more intelligent than they thought.

"Sensei, destroy the Golden Sprite at all costs." Blade stated as he activated one of his most famous skills.

"Dance of Blades!" Blade stated as his sword started to get copied into thousands that created a makeshift arena. All the players trapped within the arena will need to escape before the five-minute interval or else all the swords that got copied will be aimed towards their necks.

This is the signature skill that Blade uses which earned him the title of Thousand Cut Swordsman.. The only weakness of this skill is to eliminate the user that created the arena.

Chapter 719 - Sharp Shooter End II

Vayu immediately knew that his student wants to sacrifice himself for the win. They needed to get enough time for Vayu to destroy the Golden Sprite but even he admits that it is no easy feat. The Golden Sprite even evaded his sword slashes with the way that is familiar to him.

He suddenly remembered that the way that the Golden Sprite evaded is almost the same pattern as Sirius. The Golden Sprite did not just dodge but always dodged at the last minute like what Sirius usually does. He knows this because he managed to spar with Sirius before to see if he could land a hit.

The Golden Sprite has a sharp instinct when it comes to danger. The only way to destroy it would be to either set a trap for it or out speed its instincts. If the developers knew what Vayu is thinking, then they would praise him as the Golden Sprite is actually loaded with Sirius' data when it comes to avoiding attacks.

The developers did not want to give the players a difficult time when it came to the Golden Sprite. They chose an opponent that is of their level as the bosses that they have in the level 200s are not as smart when it comes to dodging.

They copied the data from Sirius with Adrian's permission because each event is actually tied to the last event to some sort of way. Vayu's only answer to the Golden Sprite's reflexes is to use brute force. He did not hesitate to use his best skills as they were told that each of their cooldowns will be reset after every event.

Even though that might be the case, not everyone is onboard with just using everything in their arsenal. They still have a PVP type event later and the winner of that event is determined by who could fight well and have aces up their sleeve.

"Arashi no Kami (God of Storms)!" Vayu stated as the air around him started to change and shift like a violent storm. The other national players saw this and knew that they must stop this swordsman at all costs. The air that he radiated felt similar to the demigods that they have encountered in the game.

Blade also got shocked as he did not see this skill during their practice matches as it seems that it is more powerful than the one that his master showed them. Vayu's wind element became harsher and even his robe changed color.

The white robe turned purple, and the clouds embroidered on the robe actually turned black. Vayu's hair that floated freely in the wind started to become similar to lightning as his body also crackled with lightning like he was wearing an armor.

"Stop him!" Totem shouted as he is the one that is actually some form of druid. He is a special type of druid called Elemental Druid as he could not only use the spirits of monsters but also the elements. His job class is one of the reasons why his team did not suffer many casualties or damage when disasters hit.

The United States National Team tried to attack Vayu, but they were blocked by Blade's flurry of blades. They would get aimed at whenever they moved closer to Vayu that is accumulating elemental power. Even the Chinese National Team could not stay idle as the ego present in Hou Yiwei's bow started to fidget.

Hou Yiwei's bow actually detected the presence of a god and has activated the stat boost and God Killer trait. The bow is actually reacting to Vayu as he is the one that summoned part of the God of the Storms for their battle. Hou Yiwei did not want to sound too pleased as this might alarm the other groups.

He also needs to focus on hitting the Golden Sprite first even though he wants to eliminate all the players gathered. It is extremely difficult to hit it with his normal attacks but with his Hyper Sonic Shot then he might have a chance. All he needed is the time to channel the skill.

"Jiang and Ye. Show them the fury of the Twin Blades." Hou Yiwei commanded as the two lovers nodded their heads.

Although their title is twin blades, that actually just refer to the weapons that they use as those are swords called the Twin Blades. Jiang holds the female twin blade while Ye holds the male twin blade. They hold the blade that is opposite of their sex as this boosts their attacks by 50%.

If both of them are present in the battlefield and are working in synergy together then their damage is boosted for another 50%. This is what made the Twin Blades fearsome as they are weapons with a niche that is fearsome.

"I admit that both of you are also in the top ten rankings when it comes to warriors but let me humbly remind you of the difference between rank one and those below." Blade stated as he vanished from his spot and appeared before the Twin Blades.

The Twin Blades made a simultaneous attack against Blade, but he parried the attack easily. He even followed up with a slash attack. Seeing this chance, Shado tried to assassinate Vayu that is still standing in the area. The Shadow Assassin needed this one moment and thought that he would be successful but that is just wishful thinking.

A flurry of swords started to circle around Vayu acting like a shield. Shado could not come close as he would need to emerge from the shadows if he needed to attack. Blade is aware of the player named Shado as he was warned by Mariposa when he managed to escape with Poison Ivy.

Blade shifted his attacks to Shado as he needed to kill the assassin since he might actually succeed in killing his sensei. When Blade's attack is supposed to connect to Shado's neck, a wooden flying totem head suddenly received the attack in Shado's stead.

The totem head that got hit then exploded into tiny bits which obscured Blade's vision. The leader of the United States National Team has finally moved.. The person that is the Rank 1 when it came to the Shaman Job Class.

Chapter 720 - Sharp Shooter End III

"So, you finally decided to move as well. But you are too late." Blade stated as he retreated.

"Null do something about that player." Totem stated as he ordered Null to dissipate the skill that Vayu is channeling.

"I cannot. I cannot dispel something that is out of my league. He also applied it to his body as well. The only way to dispel it is to kill him." Null stated as she could not even attempt to dispel the God of Storms.

Vayu finally achieved his final form as his body turned partially into a spirit. He is now full elemental in this form as he shed half of his humanity in order to become a True Elemental. Vayu suddenly sent a sword swing from his left as he managed to parry an incredible attack that came towards him.

The parried attack even sent Blade a few steps back due to the immense strength behind the attack that came from Hou Yiwei himself. Even Vayu is shocked as the attack almost broke his arm off if he did not exert enough energy into it.

Blade noticed this as well and could finally see that the attack is definitely not ordinary. He could also see that the bow that Hou Yiwei is using is pulsing a weird energy that is making him somewhat nauseous.

"That is a god killing weapon boy! Even someone like me is inferior to it but that is only the case if you do not let me borrow your body." The katana that Blade held suddenly echoed through his mind.

Blade is not an ordinary swordsman as well and he has yet to show the world of his true skill. His real job class is actually the Unique Job Class 'Demon Blade'. His job class is shrouded in mystery because he just tells people that he is just a normal swordsman since he has witnessed what the real 'Demon Blade' could really do.

"Shut up, Talim. I know of your abilities, and I will not use that ever again. You have the restraint of a child which will endanger everything." Blade replied as he did not want to use the 'Possession' skill of the Demon Blade 'Talim' nonchalantly.

Blade actually got this katana by chance in a hidden shrine in the eastern continent. It is sealed but still radiated power that almost killed him just from that alone. He remembered that the katana or rather the demon called Talim talked to him when they first encountered each other.

The demon, Talim, is actually a real demon from ancient times whose soul has been sealed by the Asmodians for punishment of his cruel methods of achieving peace. Despite knowing this, Blade still agreed with the pack as he got the Unique Job Class 'Demon Blade' in the end after the first Unique Job Class is reported to be announced.

"You know that if you die then I die with you as well. Remember that we are one with each other. My victory is also your victory." Talim added in order to entice his other half.

"You will be able to rampage later so do not worry. There are still other chances as I promised." Blade stated.

"You must keep your promise as it has been a while since I have experienced a great battle." Talim replied as it became silent once again.

"Soul of the Sword!" Blade stated as his sword suddenly glowed in a dark red aura. The floating swords that created the sword cage also glowed in a red aura.

"Here is the famed 'Soul of the Sword' skill that all warrior class users with swords unlock at level 200! This is the first time that a player has shown the limit break skill! The Soul of the Sword skill is basically both a passive and an active skill.

The passive skill grants the resource bar called Sword Energy where it could be used as a resource for skills instead of mana. It also grants a passive buff of increased damage when equipped with the sword by 50%.

The active part of the skill doubles the damage increase of any sword related damage! Truly the number one swordsman! Blade has achieved the second enhancement!" The announcer stated which riled the crowd even more especially the players that use a sword as a weapon.

Blade did not idle as he started to attack all of their enemies. The players were wary of Blade, but they are more wary of Vayu because he is now gone from his position. The only one that could see where Vayu went is Hou Yiwei.

The dragonkin archer had no choice but to follow Vayu to the sky as he shot arrows of fast speeds to disrupt the latter's attempt to destroy the Golden Sprite. Blade saw this and wanted to go and catch up with his Sensei but the Jiang and Ye stopped him.

The Twin Blades also activated their Soul of the Sword and the aura that coated their sword is of different color compared to Blade's dark red. Jiang's sword aura is of the white color while Ye's sword aura is of the black color.

"It seems that we have been ignored." Shado stated as they do not feel strongly about being ignored.

"It is better that way or else they will interrupt us with our plans." Totem stated as he finally finished his prayers.

The other national team players did not notice that something is happening behind the scenes as even the audience were unaware as the primary focus is not on the United States National Team. Eight pillars with different patterns suddenly dropped from the sky as it surrounded the cage blade that Blade has created.

[You are in the land declared by the Spirit Shaman as his holy land.]

[All damage output is decreased by 30%.]

[All defenses are decreased by 20%.]

"Shado and Null deal with those three while I also compete for the Golden Sprite." Totem stated as he activated another skill. Shado and Null nodded as their next step is to prevent Blade, Jiang and Ye from restricting their leader's movement.

"Spirit Possession: Griffon!" Totem stated as one of the small totem necklaces on his neck glowed. The spirit of the Griffon is now empowering his body. A mythical beast so powerful that it is said to rule the skies freely. His armor that is just loosely garb made of animal skins with prints suddenly became feathers.

"Blessing of the Wind Spirit!" Totem activated as his body became enveloped in a soft gentle wind that ruffled the feathers that grew out of him. Vayu and Hou Yiwei could not ignore this as there is actually someone that is almost the same speed as them.

Vayu would get close to the Golden Sprite only to be distracted by the arrows that Hou Yiwei will fire at him. When Hou Yiwei will get a clear shot at the Golden Sprite, Totem would suddenly try and kill him. If Totem is about to grab the Golden Sprite, then Vayu would come swinging his sword down against him.

The three-way deadlock between the Vayu, Hou Yiwei and Totem became the highlight of the event that the crowd actually grew silent due to their focus on the match. They felt that they would miss a single movement if they were to just blink.

Even the announcer became awestruck and silent as he is also a big fan of the games. It is only when the developers behind the scenes blasted his earpiece to actually do his job that made him come back to reality. The announcer collected himself as he once again did his job.

"It seems that the three players could not decide who is better amongst them while their teammates are still fighting with each other. It seems that whoever wins the match between Blade, Jiang, Ye, Shado and Null will be able to decide who will be the winner.

But Team Japan will be the loser if the fight draws to a lengthy time as we do not know when will the skill that the swordsman, Vayu, will end. It seems that Totem and Hou Yiwei are also waiting for that chance to happen.

The golden sprite suddenly looked like a small prey that is trapped between three predators. Who do you think will earn the win of the event!?" The announcer stated which made everyone shout the player that they want to succeed.

"I agree that all of you are formidable, but I must get this win." Vayu stated as his sword suddenly carried a different aura that changed even the surroundings. Dark clouds gathered in the battlefield which made Blade smile as the plan is now in motion.

"Petal Sword Dance!" Blade stated as the thousand of swords became like cherry blossoms that suddenly blocked the view of the ones he is battling.

"Thunderhammer Slash!" Vayu stated as the whole field suddenly became flooded with light as a large lightning bolt came crashing down.
