

O Summoner 861

Chapter 861 – Dungeon Climbing I

[Reach the end of the dungeon in order to clear it. Killing monsters will contribute to rolling a better reward.]

"Finally, something interesting. This dungeon is a bit different from the ones that we have already did. Loot up!" Solstice stated as she pointed to another layer of clouds.

"If you look around, this dungeon looks like it is circular in area. The next floor looks to be about two hundred meters above us." Lycan stated as he already looked around the area.

"There are no monsters in this area though. I expected that we would already be greeted with attacks, but this might be just a straightforward climb for this floor." Adrian stated as he commanded Kanlaon to keep moving forward.

As Kanlaon move upward, the group could feel a bit of pressure pressing down on them. It seems that the challenge for this floor is to safely pass upward even with blasts of air pushing them downwards. The gusts of air pushing them down is not that difficult to counter as Kanlaon could just control the temperature of the wind.

Kanlaon would cool down the air blowing through them to slow down the effect of the pushing air. It only took about ten minutes to get up to the next floor. They pierced through the clouds to get to the next floor, and they were greeted with the first monsters in that area.

The first monsters in the dungeon that they have seen could be described as giant pea shooters. The giant pea shooters are attached to the bean stalk as if they are orchids feeding on the energy of the great bean stalk. The giant pea shooters also get activated if they are in a radius of fifty meters near them.

What is frightening about the giant pea shooters are their accuracy. The peas that the giant pea shooters fires are almost as fast as the speed of sound. Kanlaon could not even try destroying these monsters as moving close to them would make other giant pea shooters activate.

Kanlaon's breath attack could only travel so far in a range about thirty meters. Adrian wanted to summon another soulbound, but he was suggested to just push through by his two companions. They do not need to waste time on monsters that do not specifically target them.

Kanlaon just put up a barrier made of ice and fire to protect them from the incoming projectiles. For projectiles that manage to pierce through the elemental barrier that Kanlaon created, Solstice or Lycan would do their best to intercept them.

About thirty meters before they pierce through the clouds to the next room, about fifty giant pea shooters suddenly activated. All of the fifty giant pea shooters fired two shots each which meant about a hundred pea projectiles are now aimed at their group.

Adrian knew that Kanlaon will be hit by the barrage of giant pea projectiles that even the other two cannot block for them. He immediately activated Quantum Repulsion to push away the giant pea projectiles as soon as they hit the elemental barrier that Kanlaon created.

Thankfully, all of the giant pea shooters fired at the same time which means that their pea projectiles almost landed at the same time. Even Adrian cannot do the timing correctly which is why he used Time Stop for about one second to time the Quantum Repulsion correctly.

Solstice and Lycan almost got a heart attack when they saw one hundred pea projectiles hit the elemental barrier that Kanlaon created. They also witnessed the same one hundred projectiles being sent back with the same force that they got fired.

Some of the stray giant pea projectiles managed to hit the giant pea shooters that damaged the plant. The damage plants could no longer reload for about one minute. With lesser giant pea shooters aiming at them, Solstice and Lycan could now protect Kanlaon from the upcoming pea projectiles.

The group pierced through the clouds and the climb is now longer than the previous floor. The next cloud formation is about three hundred meters away. It also became more difficult because some sort of barrier is now protecting the next cloud formation.

A greenish thin film could be seen protecting the clouds above them as even the bird monsters flying in this floor could not penetrate it. As soon as Kanlaon fully entered the next floor, a notification suddenly popped up in front of everyone.

[Find the fake bird monster and kill it to advance to the next floor.]

Their current floor has thousands upon thousands of bird monsters that varied in sizes. Some is about an inch long while the biggest is about three meters. Adrian immediately summoned his Primordial Armament: Bow in order to shoot down the bird monsters.

"We must hunt down the fake bird monster. But how do we know which one is fake?" Solstice asked.

"I tried using my vision to see if there is one that does not have a soul but there are too many around here to be sure. I cannot focus on each of them because they also fly around. Can you test if the cloud below us is solid enough to stand on?" Adrian stated as Solstice flew and dropped on the cloud.

As soon as her feet met the cloud floor, she sunk to about half, and she even went down the previous floor. It seems that the setting for this dungeon is not what they think. The clouds might look like solid things that can be stepped on, but they are still essentially water vapor.

"Lycan can have the support of Kanlaon. Decimate as many monsters as possible that you can while being supported by Kanlaon. You must always keep an eye out for him or else you might get sent back down to the ground the hard way." Adrian stated as the three split up.

Adrian unfurled his wings and flew to one zone of the circular floor. Solstice did what Adrian did and flew using her mastery in wind magic that other vampire use as a way to fly.. Lycan is supported by Kanlaon in order to stay afloat.

Chapter 862 – Dungeon Climbing II

Adrian summoned Saena and told her to accompany Solstice since using her blood as projectiles drain her health. Solstice might be able to control blood, but it would take time to control the blood of other living beings.

It is inefficient for her to use just a blood sword which is why she also fashions her blood into arrows that strike at her target from afar. Adrian made sure that Saena sticks close to her so that she can immediately heal the health that his sister loses when creating weapons. As long as Saena is with her, Solstice can get healed and have increased health regeneration in the process.

Adrian summoned Sirius next as the Fenrir told him that he can walk on air. Adrian could not easily believe it until he saw it with his eyes. Sirius could literally walk on air as a result of his evolution. He has yet to fully explore all of Sirius abilities as he tends to focus more on their strengths rather than their miscellaneous abilities.

With three soulbounds in the field, Adrian has boosted attack, defense, and health regeneration. The arrows that Adrian creates using mana are also enchanted with fire and ice elements thanks to Kanlaon. The massacre of numerous bird monsters started after all their preparation.

Numerous cries of birds could be heard echoing in the area that even reverberated down on the Kingdom of Suburiasi. Bird monsters that do not get killed in one hit would crash down on the ground. The bird monsters did not deal damage to the town though as they would collide with the barrier of the kingdom.

When the bird monsters that get sent crashing down clash against the barrier of the kingdom, they would essentially die from the impact. It did reduce the mana that kept the barrier working but the mages that the king appointed immediately fixed it using mana stones.

It seems that the king already had experience this before when the former empire tried to climb the bean stalk. Thankfully, they already got prepared which means that they would have excess monster meat on their hands. The citizens of the kingdom are actually overjoyed with this as it would mean they will have more food on their tables.

The players in the kingdom found it weird though as they never heard of bird monsters suddenly dropping from the sky. They even thought that a stronger flying monster might have killed them and prepared for the worse. Needless to say, this is another topic that blew in fame on the forums.

The group has already used an hour killing tons of bird monsters. Those that they cannot kill in one hit would drop on the ground and get killed which they will still get the kill notification. The one thing that they cannot see is the target that they need to kill. They cannot find the fake bird monster as there are just too many of them.

The group have probably already killed thousands of them each, but they have yet to hit the jackpot. The bird monsters are not even strong because they either get killed in one to three hits. Sirius is even expressing that he is already full of eating too much bird monsters.

Adrian thought of summoning Dodu to try and eat the bird monsters, but the slime cannot fly. If a slime could fly, then it would literally be the end of the world. Dodu has yet to form a full consciousness, but Adrian could feel that his slime is expressing jealousy. It really is one of his most gluttonous monsters that it even ate all of a food in a stall in Avalon.

"This is getting us nowhere. It is getting tiresome to just kill all of them one by one. Even I do not have unlimited stamina." Solstice stated as she flew near Adrian.

"I agree. Even Kanlaon is tired from firing too many breath attacks." Lycan stated as he arrived with Kanlaon.

"Fine. I did not want to do it this early, but I guess it is necessary. I will not be able to use this later and this could be seen as my trump card." Adrian muttered as he commanded Paradox to release his favorite form.

"Summon Primordial Armament: Mirror!" Adrian stated as his form changed to that of a blind folded demon with four mechanical looking hands floating beside him holding a mirror each.

Adrian then placed the six mirrors in hexagon position in order to maximize the effect. With a great sigh, he started to use Vortex. Six small shining orbs that look like stars came out of the mirrors and floated about two meters above them.

With a clap of his hands, the six small stars suddenly exploded, and six great black holes manifested into the world. With six black holes, all of the bird monsters in the room got sucked in and could not even fly against the suction force.

The bird monsters could not even emit a sound as they tried to outrace the suction force. All bird monsters got sucked in the six black holes in just two seconds. One second inside the black hole could kill the weakest bird monster while five seconds inside is the maximum to kill the strongest.

[You have managed to kill the fake bird monster hiding in the Hundred Thousand Avian Formation.]

[The barrier blocking you from ascending to the next floor has been lifted.]

[You have killed all the bird monsters in this floor.]

[You have created a great achievement that no one else has done.]

[Your clear prize has increased in rarity due to your achievement.]

"You know...if you did that earlier then we would not have wasted effort in killing numerous birds. I feel like I have committed a grave sin or something." Solstice stated as a joke.

"I did not want to use it immediately as we might have tougher challenges after this floor. At the very least, I managed to get an achievement, so I do not feel wasteful using it.." Adrian replied.

Chapter 863 – Dungeon Climbing III

"You know...if you did that earlier then we would not have wasted effort in killing numerous birds. I feel like I have committed a grave sin or something." Solstice stated as a joke.

"I did not want to use it immediately as we might have tougher challenges after this floor. At the very least, I managed to get an achievement, so I do not feel wasteful using it." Adrian replied but he is worried that he can no longer use Vortex in a fight against powerful multiple enemies later on.

The next floor of the dungeon is a combination of the past two floors. There are giant pea shooters scattered around the bean stalk once more while there are bird monsters flying about. The giant pea shooters in this floor are lesser compared to the previous floor but they do not fire when they detect something in the direction they are facing.

The giant pea shooters attached to the giant bean stalk looked as if they have an ability to detect movement. The supposed mouths of the giant pea shooters are rotating as if they are looking for prey to target. The birds on this floor are also different compared to the floor that they have been on.

The smallest of the bird monsters in this floor is about three meters in terms of wingspan. The largest having a wingspan of ten meters but they do not come in huge numbers. The bird monsters are in the number of hundreds compared to the hundred thousand in the previous floor.

"Sirius, test the climb of the bean stalk." Adrian commanded as he wanted to see if they can just pierce through this floor.

As soon as Sirius came close to the bean stalk, ten giant pea shooters all turned his direction and fired. The pea projectiles were fast, but Sirius is faster than them. He evaded the attack only to be locked on by the bird monsters as they dived to kill Sirius with their beaks.

Without even doing much, Sirius extended his shadows into spears to meet the five bird monsters trying to kill him. The bird monsters could not easily change their courses and impaled themselves with the shadow spears that Sirius created. The poison also affected them which weakened them to an extent.

Despite being impaled and poisoned, the bird monsters did not die from the attack. Sirius had to finish them up by biting their head off. As soon as Sirius killed off the bird monsters, another round of pea projectiles is aimed at him, but he already returned to Adrian's side.

"Can Kanlaon out speed the pea projectiles and the diving suicidal monster birds?" Lycan asked as he is curious.

"The pea projectiles could be defended using the elemental barrier with both of your help. The birds are another headache because they are faster than the projectile when they dive down." Adrian replied as he looked at the description of the bird monster present in the dungeon floor.

Monster: Kamikaze Hawk

Level: 150 ~ 180

Description: A notorious bird monster known to perform life sacrificing attacks as it will ram its whole body on the target it chooses. It is said that they only have tunnel vision as soon as they choose a target. Even if the target manages to evade, they will continue in their designated path despite being killed.

"Those bird monsters are basically dive bombers. From my observations, they seem to be almost as fast as Sirius when they lock on a target. The good thing is that they only choose targets that try to fly above the airspace of the next floor." Adrian stated.

"How is that a good thing when we need to traverse that area in order to advance?" Solstice asked with a bit of a frustrated tone.

"I agree with her. As soon as we fly above that section, we will be targeted by not only the giant pea shooters but also the bird monsters. Even with our protection, we will be bound to get hit on the way. It seems that the way up is even longer than the previous floors." Lycan added.

Adrian also agreed with their deduction, but he could easily reduce the things to worry about as he already thought of a plan. A giant pea shooter takes exactly ten seconds to reload and shoot its next projectile. The birds also react in about one second that they detect movement in the general area they are in.

"All we need are distractions," Adrian stated as he unfurled his wings and carried Lycan.

Since Adrian's strength stat is already high for a summoner, he could easily carry one person while in flight without much difficulty. Solstice can fly by herself as they climbed the bean stalk at noon which means night is almost coming.

With the sun already hiding, the armor that slowed down Solstice can now be changed to a dress made of darkness. She also gets a speed boost whenever night comes so she can fly by herself. Seeing that Adrian dismounted from Kanlaon while carrying Lycan, Solstice already knew the general gist of her brother's plan.

"Sirius and Kanlaon will serve as our distractions. With us not being carried by Kanlaon, he can easily catch up with Sirius at his full speed albeit using lots of mana. They will trigger the giant pea shooters and the Kamikaze Hawks first and we will follow behind them," Adrian explained to which Lycan already understood but he is a bit shy that Adrian is carrying him in a princess carry style.

"I get the plan, but can you carry me a different way?" Lycan asked as he does not feel okay with the position that his girlfriend's brother is carrying him. Even if this is a game, he still feels shy as if he is treated like a damsel in distress.

"My sister can carry you if you want but I do not know if that will affect her speed of ascent. There is still some wind resistance after all," Adrian stated as he redirected his gaze to his sister.

"You can carry him as I am only flying due to the innate use of wind magic to manipulate my weight. Vampires do not really have wings to carry them in air after all," Solstice replied.

"See. You are stuck like that. We will take about five minutes of continuous flight at most when I am unhindered. Sirius and Kanlaon, start the climb," Adrian stated as his two soulbounds suddenly climb the floor in a fast speed.

Adrian gave Sirius and Kanlaon a five second head start in order to trigger the giant pea shooters and the Kamikaze Hawks. Five seconds is enough time to traverse the current area where the pea shooters are currently reloading. It is also enough time to gather the attention of the Kamikaze Hawks for the monsters to choose an intended path.

Sirius and Kanlaon left shadowy images of themselves when they get past the area they are traversing. The giant pea shooters attack and miss while the kamikaze hawks become stuck on the giant bean stalk. Some of the bird monsters even die if they go faster than they can originally do. Adrian even used Chrono Shift to make the birds fly faster and crash faster.

Adrian flew first with Solstice following behind him. He even enhanced his wings by utilizing all the primordial energy that he gathered from the previous floors. Solstice tried to closely follow her brother, but she cannot tail him correctly as there is a five-meter distance between them.

Lycan's face could be described as being blasted by blasts of air. Unlike Kanlaon that can create an elemental barrier to eliminate wind pressure, flying with Adrian is not the same thing. Lycan is now experiencing what it feels having a leaf blower blasting on the highest speed on your face.

Just as Adrian predicted, they reached the middle in under four minutes, but the next challenge happened as soon as they reached the halfway point. The bird monsters became bigger and faster to the point that they can even hit Sirius and Kanlaon.

The scary thing about the bigger kamikaze hawks is that they even burn away as they charge towards their enemies. When the kamikaze hawks crash on the bean stalk, they would even leave scorch marks. The added bonus for that is they suddenly regain posture and attack the ones they spot next.

The kamikaze hawks that recover from hitting the bean stalk will then target Adrian's group next. As Adrian could not easily block such dive-bombing birds, he needed to resort to cleverly using his skills available to him. Thankfully, Paradox can automatically lock on an opponent in a fifty meter radius.

Adrian would use Chrono Shift if the kamikaze hawk would hit them faster in order to make them crash on the bean stalk. He would also use Chrono Lag to slow down the upcoming attack in order for his sister to not get damaged.. The only downside is that his mana is taking the toll on the numerous spells he is casting.

Chapter 864 – Higher And Higher

They reached the neck floor without injuries, but Adrian's mana pool is basically down to 16% due to the numerous times he used his low cooldown skills. The halfway mark for the previous floor became difficult as more than ten giant pea shooters would aim at them while twenty or so bird monsters will attack them.

Lycan, who was princess carried by Adrian, is currently on Kanlaon's back regretting his life choices of joining this adventure. He thought that it would be fun to join Adrian in the kingdom of the giants because his girlfriend wanted to also go there but he is now regretting his life decisions. Thankfully, he did not eat anything before climbing or else he would have been spewing rainbows by now.

Solstice is also unharmed but the same could not be said for Adrian's soulbounds that triggered the giant pea shooters and the kamikaze hawks. The upper half of the previous floor became difficult for Sirius to just dodge so he opted to use the shadows to flick the incoming pea projectiles which made him burn a lot of stamina.

Kanlaon also had bruises from some pea projectiles as not everything can be blocked by the elemental barrier. A combination of colliding kamikaze hawks and high-speed pea projectiles easily shattered his elemental barrier. Still, the pea projectiles were not enough to pierce his dragon scales as they relied on blunt force.

Adrian summoned Saena to heal the injuries that the two soulbounds occurred as their health dropped by a significant amount. Thankfully, the next floor seemed to be a safe zone, but it only had about a fifty-meter climb. This is what worries Adrian as he can feel a boss battle about to happen.

"Seriously! If they did not want people to climb this place, then they should have just made everything level 300." Lycan stated as he recovered from feeling sick.

"I think the reason for that is the giants being over level 250 or so. That is just a guess based on the description that the king has given me when we talked. He said that the giants are stronger than the royal guards by about half which means they are 1.5 times stronger than royal knights that ranged from level 150 to 180." Adrian replied.

"What the heck! Does that mean they are basically on par with legendary NPCs in the current meta of the game? Even my father is only about level 295 or so and he is the Alpha of the werewolves." Lycan stated as he reacted with genuine shock.

"That is just a speculation, but the number of giants is not that many according to the records in the castle. Their count is only about 500 or so from the old records. I guess being strong is not always the best since there are costs for that like having few numbers." Adrian replied as the demons are also having the same trouble.

"We do not know much about giants so we can assume that their numbers doubled during that time as the record is a few hundreds of years old." Solstice stated.

"Anyways, we should think about that later. If we are all rested up, we should already head up as we might be against a boss monster this time. This spot seems to be a safe zone of some sort like a gate that is blocking the boss monster from attacking you." Adrian stated as they climbed towards the next floor.

Just as what Adrian expected, the next floor is indeed that of a boss fight, but he thought they would fight a flying monster of some sort. Instead, they are currently facing a giant mechanical monster called Hexadrom and smaller versions of it called Hexamini.

Monster: Hexadrom (Boss Monster)

Level: 210

Health: 99%

Energy Level: 89.92%

Description: A mechanical marvel built by the giants to keep guard of their kingdom on the sky. It is said to use mana from the atmosphere in order to keep afloat and launch its beam attacks. It is made using secret mechanical techniques that even gnomes do not know how to emulate.

The core of this mechanical beast can power up a kingdom for ten years before running out of energy. It is said that the giants built this invention in order to shoot down angels that keep persecuting them after the Nephilims vanished from the realm.

Monster: Hexamini

Level: 190

Health: 99%

Energy Level: 95.92%

Description: A smaller version of the Hexadrom and is said to be more energy efficient compared to its bigger counterpart. The core of this mechanical beast is the same as that of the Hexadrom but smaller in size. Its core can power up a kingdom for one year before losing all energy. It has all the features of the Hexadrom but smaller in capability.

There is current one Hexadrom and five Hexaminis flying in the air in a general pattern. It seems that the hexagonal prism mechanical beasts are following a specific flight path. They are currently not attacking Adrian's group because they are still chilling at the bottom part of this floor.

"What should we do? I cannot fight flying like you guys." Lycan asked as he can only rely on Kanlaon for flight capability.

"We only need to damage it enough so that it will retreat. The objective given to us is not to completely destroy it. Besides, if we destroyed that thing then the giants might think that we are hostile towards them. It is basically their guards that protect them from the angels. It would seem that the next floor is the start of the kingdom of the giants." Adrian stated as he looked at the notification that popped out.

[Reduce the energy level of the Hexadrom to 50% so that you can weaken the barrier towards the next floor.]

[Reduce the energy level of the Hexaminis to 60% so that you can weaken the barrier towards the next floor.]

Chapter 865 – Hexadrom

[Reduce the energy level of the Hexadrom to 50% so that you can weaken the barrier towards the next floor.]

[Reduce the energy level of the Hexaminis to 60% so that you can weaken the barrier towards the next floor.]

The Hexadrom and Hexaminis basically look like lumps of light brownish metal in the shape of a hexagonal prism. The two mechanical beasts rotate their bodies in a clockwise and counterclockwise motion depending on the part. The upper half rotates in a clockwise motion while the lower half rotated in a counterclockwise motion.

There is also some sort of bluish light that could be seen being emitted from the lines of its body. If the light was not emitted, then anyone could just mistake it for a floating piece of metal. The impressive thing that Adrian could feel is that the Hexaminis contain mana that is a hundred times greater than him.

When he tried feeling the exact mana that the Hexadrom contained, he shuddered that he cannot even estimate it. He felt like he is a pin on a vast ocean, and he did not even create a ripple effect. Whoever created these mechanical marvels from the giant clan is definitely a genius among geniuses.

"We need to release enough of their energy so that the greenish barrier up there will vanish." Adrian stated as he pointed towards the greenish looking clouds.

The two looked closely and noticed that it was not the clouds that were green but a thin film like layer is the one giving the color. The mechanical beasts are tied to the barrier which is why the objective for this request is to decrease their energy levels instead of destroying them.

"I will handle the Hexadrom while you two with Sirius and Kanlaon will deal with the Hexaminis." Adrian stated as he is a bit confident in dodging attacks of the Hexadrom.

"I will deal with one Hexamini first and Sirius will also do the same. My Baby and Kanlaon will distract three of them in the meantime. Once we decreased the energy levels of the Hexaminis that were facing, me and Sirius will deal with the others." Solstice suggested.

"That is fine with me. Saena should come with us since we might get injured in the process of distracting three Hexaminis." Lycan added to which Adrian nodded.

"Summon Primordial Armament: Spear!" Adrian stated and Paradox materialized the weapon.

Adrian changed to appearance and controlled the spear with just his mind using the passive skill of his current form. Adrian wanted to use the bow, but he already exhausted it in a previous floor, and this is the only weapon he can use to attack in a long-range fashion.

"Woah! Since when can you control a weapon with your mind! That is so cool!" Lycan stated as Adrian did recall that he was a fan of those wuxia novels.

"It comes with the form. I will explain later. Let's go!" Adrian stated as he flew towards the Hexadrom.

As soon as Adrian is about fifty meters in the area of the Hexadrom, the giant mechanical beast flashed its light five times. It seems that it is a way of locking on its target, and it also seem to be a signal to the Hexaminis that an intruder is present.

The Hexaminis gathered towards Adrian's general location, but his team members started to do their job as well. Sirius and Solstice took the attention of their respective targets while Lycan, Saena and Kanlaon took the attention of three Hexaminis.

The mechanical beasts seem to have a sensor that uses the mana scattered in the surroundings. When Adrian tried to look closely, he noticed that there are fine particles of mana scattered in the general area of the mechanical beasts. It seems like it was the excess mana that the cores could not completely process.

"Interesting but I need to focus on the fight." Adrian thought as he willed his spear to hit the Hexadrom rotating wildly in place.

Adrian's spear flew faster than him which the Hexadrom seems to also notice. Just a meter before hitting its body, the Hexadrom suddenly released a greenish barrier that looked like the barrier protecting the clouds above. Adrian's spear hit the barrier and it did not even crack, but he did receive a notification.

[You have dealt 89 damage to the Hexadrom.]

He could see that he damaged the boss monster, but he was not happy because a two-digit number is basically non-existent for high level bosses. He also used a lot of momentum to make sure that his spear will at least pierce the Hexadrom but the barrier nullified that thought. He can only smile wryly as he overestimated himself this time.

Monster: Hexamini

Level: 190

Health: 99%

Energy Level: 95.52%

"I only reduced 0.4% from the previous energy level. This is not good. We might drop like flies before we even clear this floor." Adrian muttered as he continued the attacks using his spear.

"Paradox, can you identify the enemy energy usage?" Adrian asked as Paradox can also accurately tell energy levels since he can pass his skills through the ego weapon. This is the reason why ego weapons are powerful and extremely rare. The ability to use the innate abilities of its owner is similar to sharing the same soul as the master.

"Starting the scan now. Please continue to engage it in combat for a more exact measurement." Paradox replied as it used Adrian's demon eye to see the energy process of the mechanical beast that its master is currently battling.

Adrian did what Paradox suggested and increased the volume of attacks. He even started casting Quantum Spacemines on the Hexadrom and noticed a unique detail. It seems that the barrier is always present, and it even prevents mana from touching the body of the Hexadrom. All the spacemines would be attached to the barrier the Hexadrom is emitting instead of its real body.

"No wonder this thing is built with the thought of killing angels. Since attacks of angels only use mana, these things could kill them easily. The hate that the giants have against the angel race might be really great." Adrian exclaimed.

Chapter 866 – Hexamini

The Hexaminis also have the ability to create barriers like the Hexadrom, but their resource consumption seems to be greater. There is a drop of 1% in their energy consumption when they deployed the barrier protecting them. After one minute, the energy level dropped by 0.01% as a result of maintaining the barrier on them and the one above.

Unlike the Hexadrom that mostly defended Adrian's attack, the Hexaminis would fire beams of light using concentrated mana. Sirius tried to use his strengthened attack when the Hexamini suddenly fired a beam of light from one of its corners. The beam of light was faster than Sirius, so he got damaged by a fair amount.

When Solstice saw the attack of the Hexamini, she no longer resorted to close range attacks. The Hexaminis would only fire the beams of light in small bursts. The energy level of the Hexaminis would also decrease by 0.1% every time that they fired a beam.

"I am not confident enough to evade that beam of light in close quarters. It might be night right now, but my speed is still slower than Sirius. I will definitely get blasted by that beam of light and probably lose an arm or two." Solstice muttered as she only released projectiles made of her blood.

She might be losing health as she uses her own blood but her regenerative abilities are boosted at night. She can fire twenty bloody arrows per minute and recover the health that she lost at night. The only downside is the slow fight that will surely take a day or so.

Sirius is also at the same impasse as Solstice as he also learned that he cannot attack in close range. He opted to use the shadows that he can control in order to try and defeat the Hexamini. The shadows could not even pierce the barrier affecting the Hexamini.

"Sirius, use Nether Rush!" Adrian commanded as he could sense the feeling of helplessness that Sirius is emitting via their soul link.

Sirius accepted the command and initiated his skill. He became pure nether energy as his form looked like what he is when Adrian summons him in his true form. Sirius with his new form then took a gaseous appearance when he moved. This made the Hexamini not detect Sirius as an entity but only as air which made the barrier not block his attack.

Sirius looked just like a smoke made of nether mist attacking the Hexamini. Every time that Sirius hits the Hexamini, it would blink its lights as if indicating to the others that it is under enemy attack. This made two of the three Hexaminis chasing Lycan, Saena, and Kanlaon change direction to the one Sirius is attacking.

Thankfully, the duration of the Nether Rush skill is ten minutes which means the two other Hexaminis that came to aide the one being attacked by Sirius is also the subject of the skill. Sirius hit the three Hexaminis in orderly fashion and cracks started to appear on the flawless light brown metal armor of the mechanical beasts.

Five minutes into the duration of Nether Rush, the three Hexaminis being attacked by Sirius emitted a bluish light. The bluish light enveloped the three Hexamini's body and the cracks that appeared on the armor suddenly disappeared. Solstice saw this sudden healing of mechanical parts and is shocked.

These flying mechanical beasts are basically like golems which means they are not living beings. It should have been impossible for the Hexaminis to 'heal' their wounds. Solstice relayed this to her team members and Adrian borrowed Sirius' vision for a moment to see the details on the three Hexaminis facing Sirius.

Monster: Hexamini

Level: 190

Health: 100%

Energy Level: 85%

The health of the Hexaminis is perfectly full but the energy level that they have dropped by such a large amount. Adrian distributed this information to his team members, and they now designed a way to make sure that they damage the Hexaminis.

Sirius kept damaging the three Hexaminis to the point that the energy levels of each dropped to 70%. Sirius would have been able to push through the 60% threshold, but the duration of Nether Rush has already ended.

When three of the Hexaminis dropped to 70% energy level, the blue light that they emitted suddenly changed to a red color. The five Hexaminis then grouped together and combined their barriers while emitting the red color as if they are signaling that something dangerous is about to happen.

Before Solstice and Lycan can determine why the Hexaminis are acting like that, a huge beam of light suddenly got fired from the Hexadrom's direction. The next thing that the two players learned is of the death of Adrian.

[Your party member, Equinox, has died.]

A few moments before the supposed beam hitting Adrian with all its might, Adrian is currently thinking of a way to bypass the barrier created by the Hexadrom. Adrian only thought of one way and that is to combine multiple spells together. He also made sure that the spear spun like a top in order to try and break the barrier.

With the spear rotating like a drill, the barrier that should not have been unbreakable had signs of being cracked. The barrier started to weaken as a result of layering Quantum Spacemine and Gravity Control on the point where the tip of the rotating spear is in contact.

The Hexadrom also detected the threat which is why it blinked red light compared to the white light that it emitted. Adrian thought that he managed to do a great job, but he suddenly got surrounded by ten half foot tall hexaminis that the Hexadrom released. The half foot tall hexaminis then emitted lightning and combined with each other to form a cage.

The ten half foot tall hexaminis trapped Adrian in a cage and he could not even free himself. The next thing that Adrian saw is the Hexadrom suddenly pinning violently and creating a small sphere of light from one of its corners. After a minute of charging, Adrian could feel that the amount of mana being collected in that point is something devastating.

"I need to get out of that cage." Adrian muttered as he is about to use Blink to escape.

"Please do not escape yet, master. The Hexadrom is currently collecting a lot of mana in its point. If you evade the Hexadrom will then reabsorb 90% of the mana it is gathering which means its energy usage will not drop significantly." Paradox stated which made Adrian stop on his tracks.

Adrian tried to use Blink to escape at the last minute, but the large beam of light is faster than his reaction time.. He died with getting hit but a large blast of concentrated mana to the face.

Chapter 867 – Energy Diffusion

[You have died.]

Adrian read the notification and immediately started his revival process. He did not expect that a powerful attack could be delivered that fast. Usually, attacks that can immediately kill a player would be slow. Then again, he is not fully focused when he got hit by the laser beam of death.

Adrian noticed that the Hexadrom had a small opening when it was gathering energy in one of its corners. The hole created was small, but Adrian knew that was an opening and all he needed to do is wait for the time it enlarges. He kept the image that the spear is attacking the barrier when it is actually getting near the hole in the barrier.

Adrian did not need to act in front of the Hexadrom as it was not a mechanical monster that can read emotions. He just needed to make sure that the AI of the Hexadrom is not smart enough to predict what he is going to do. If the AI in the Hexadrom is the same AI as the one in the Cube of Paradox, then this battle is already a lost cause.

After about a minute of the Hexadrom accumulating and processing mana in its core, it started to slowly enlarge the hole in the barrier. Adrian did not forget his chance and immediately willed his spear to hit the area where the barrier opened.

Adrian even used his Chrono Shift to increase the rotation speed and flight speed of the spear to inflict as much damage. He also channeled all of his Primordial Energy that he managed to accumulate from hitting the Hexadrom. The spear basically increased in power by twice and the rotation helped in penetrating the armor of the Hexadrom.

Adrian managed to see that his spear managed to damage the Hexadrom by some degree. He could even see that his spear is stuck and could not rotate because it is firmly placed on the metallic body of the Hexadrom. This result is only possible because Adrian decided to dodge at the last minute, but he failed.

The beam of light that the Hexadrom released is basically wider than he thought. Blink can transport him in any area within a ten-meter radius. The beam that the Hexadrom released is about thirty meters in diameter which means Adrian will undoubtedly get hit even if he used Blink.

He cannot use Teleport because that has a cast time, and the beam would hit him immediately since it travels using the speed of light. Still, Adrian tried to escape and used Blink as he thought that the edges of the beam of light could not be as powerful as the very center.

Thinking that he could tank the attack of a boss monster much powerful than him, he accepted the damage at the edge of the beam trajectory. With that conclusion, he also ate the attack like a champ only to become a fool. He died from the attack because the beam is actually a damage per second attack that decreased his health by 50%.

Adrian died in under two seconds, but he managed to damage the Hexadrom by a large degree. He checked the health of the Hexadrom to be sure and noticed that he did sizeable damage to a boss monster.

Monster: Hexadrom (Boss Monster)

Level: 210

Health: 94%

Energy Level: 84.92%

The health of the Hexadrom decreased by 5% and the energy level decreased by 5% as well. The beam attack used a lot of mana from it but it only 5% of its energy. Adrian died knowing that he no has a chance to decrease the health of the Hexadrom.

The corner that fired the beam could be seen releasing sparks as its body is damaged. The damaged area even failed to light up which means that the Hexadrom cannot divert mana perfectly using that point.

When Adrian revived, he had a happy expression as he only needed to prepare Teleportation just in case, he cannot escape using Blink. That smile faded when a green light covered the body of the Hexadrom. A few seconds later, the Hexadrom part that was damaged became perfectly fine as if it got repaired in an instant.

Adrian then read the information that Solstice raised of the Hexaminis recovering from damage. The upside to that news is the heavy drop in energy level of the Hexaminis. With the information that he received, Adrian checked the Hexadrom once more and is shocked.

Monster: Hexadrom (Boss Monster)

Level: 210

Health: 100%

Energy Level: 70%

The health of the Hexadrom recovered back to full but the energy level dropped by a significant amount. The plan that he thought needed to be changed as the things needed to drastically drop the energy level is to damage the body of the Hexadrom and the Hexaminis.

"Just 20% more and the barrier will go down." Adrian muttered.

As he thought of a way to damage the Hexadrom, the bluish light that flickered in the center of the Hexadrom suddenly changed in color. It went from blue to a deep yellow and it also became the same for the Hexaminis as Solstice shouted that the color of the light changed once again.

Adrian needed to summon another weapon as the spear was unsummoned when he died. He decided to choose the unconventional one as he is a bit on the edge if this weapon will affect the Hexadrom.

"Paradox, Summon Primordial Armament: Scythe." Adrian commanded as the scythe appeared on his hand and his form changed.

As soon as Adrian changed form, the Hexadrom suddenly released beams of light from every corner point. The Hexadrom released twelve beams of light, but it was not as wide as the intense beam of light that killed Adrian.

The beams of light only measured about one meter in diameter which means they could evade it as long as they are in a perfect position.. The beam of light is one meter thick and about fifty meter long and is fired in a continuous rate.

Chapter 868 – The Gate Of The Giants

It was not only the Hexadrom that released twelve rays of light but also the Hexaminis. They just needed to keep their distance, and all will be well, but a sudden unexpected action caught them unaware. The Hexadrom and the Hexaminis suddenly started to rotate their upper and lower half.

The Hexadrom and Hexaminis basically started a light show that is almost the same as what Adrian does when he accumulated enough energy for the mirror. Due to this development, all of them needed to evade using adaptive aerial maneuvers. The beams of light basically became chaotic because of the erratic nature of the rotating enemies.

"Shadow Walker!" Adrian immediately activated the third skill attached to his Primordial Armament.

Adrian entered the shadow world and decided to come close to the Hexadrom. The mechanical beast is still emitting beams of light that made the energy level it currently has to drop. For every minute that the enemies emitted the beams of light, the Hexadrom will lose 1% of its energy while the Hexamini will lose 2%.

Adrian did not need to try and dodge the beams of light as he cannot be affected by them when he is on the shadow world. Sirius also did the same as Adrian and hid on the shadow world. The ones that needed to actively dodge the beams of light are Lycan riding Kanlaon and Solstice.

Lycan held on with his life while Solstice would turn into red mist in order to avoid the beams of light that are difficult to evade. Adrian knew that he must act now while the barrier protecting the Hexadrom is not deployed. It seems that the Hexadrom and the hexaminis have brought down their barrier when they spun in a chaotic fashion while releasing beams of light.

"Sirius, use Nether Rush." Adrian commanded as Sirius turned into nether mist and targeted the Hexaminis.

Adrian targeted the Hexadrom as his next basic attack is empowered. With a large arc swing, Adrian managed to cleanly hit the Hexadrom. Upon doing so, he no longer became one with the shadows and revealed his real body. The Hexadrom noticed Adrian, but the damage has been dealt to its body.

A large clean cut could be seen on the body of the Hexadrom which made it unable to spin. The blinking lights have turned to red as its body has received damage in a critical state. Adrian could even feel that he lucked out and that the mana getting absorbed by the core suddenly dropped significantly.

The Hexaminis suffered the same fate as Sirius' attacks and the follow up attacks of the others almost destroyed the Hexaminis. As a resort, the Hexadrom and the Hexaminis deployed their barrier once again and glowed in a healing light. The damaged bodies of the Hexadrom and the Hexaminis are slowly getting repaired as if time is getting reversed.

"The barrier is gone!" Solstice cried out as she noticed that the green coating of the clouds above suddenly vanished.

"This is our chance! Sirius! Kanlaon!" Adrian commanded and the two already knew what their master wants.

Sirius picked up Adrian via his collar and carried his master upwards. Lycan held on tight while Kanlaon caught Solstice mid-air and increased his flight speed. The bodies of the Hexadrom and Hexaminis are almost done getting fixed and the green barrier enveloping the clouds could be seen returning slowly as the body of the mechanical monsters regenerated.

Adrian used his Evil Eye and noticed that the bodies of the Hexadrom is actually carved with ancient runes. It cannot be seen easily but the inner armor of the Hexadrom and Hexaminis have runes embedded on them. He can hypothesize that the barrier is related to runes inside the Hexadrom and Hexamini.

"If mana is not used on the runes, then the barrier might be always deployed. If the Hexadrom or Hexaminis are restoring their bodies, the runes must be deactivated or else the body could explode." Adrian thought as the barrier is closing faster and faster.

"Faster!" Adrian shouted as he pushed the speed of his soulbounds.

Sirius flipped Adrian over and let him hug his back tightly. Lycan looked like he was holding for dear life as Kanlaon prioritized speed instead of negating air resistance. The Hexaminis were the first to recover and the hole in the barrier is only about twenty meters wide.

The twenty-meter-wide hole started to become smaller and smaller as the body of the Hexadrom started to rejuvenate. The hole might be closing fast but Sirius being carried by Adrian entered first. The hole became smaller which made Kanlaon shapeshift in order to fit while also being able to carry Lycan and Solstice. At the last second, Kanlaon managed to enter the hole without any damage. The barrier closed after a second of Kanlaon entering the gap.

"We made it!" Lycan shouted as he suddenly felt sick but the thing that wanted to get out of his tummy returned when they were surrounded by five-meter-tall people that are heavily armored.

"This is not what I expected." Lycan suddenly muttered.

"What did you expect? Did you think that we will be welcomed normally?" Adrian joked but a spear was already pointed towards his head.

"State your business, midgets!" One of the guard giants stated as he pointed his spear towards Solstice.

"That hurts. I am actually pretty tall when I am compared to other people." Lycan stated but the atmosphere was still heavy.

"We come for the key needed to enter the Chaos Spring." Adrian answered honestly which made all the giant guards point their spear at him.

The giants were not that different from humans. Their proportions are that of a five-meter-tall human. They were not extremely tall to the point that they tower over mountains. It seems that some of the stories in the main world regarding giants are hyperbole.

What Adrian and the others are more interested is the fact that they can walk on the clouds. The clouds in the area are practically as hard as soil. If Lycan was not being threatened right now, then he might have kissed the clouds for being solid as he does not want to ride Kanlaon anymore.

The gate of the giant kingdom is a sight to behold as it was twenty meters tall. The pillars on either side are fashioned to be giants carrying their spears crossed. When Adrian did not answer, the giant once again asked the question but one of the spears poked his neck a little bit this time.

"Why are you here and why do you know of the Chaos Springs?" The giant guard asked.

"If I answer you honestly, will you give me the key?" Adrian asked in return to which the giant guards thought that the demon before them is too confident.

When Adrian asked that question, the guard giant could not utter a word as he will not do so even if the demon before them answers. They cannot easily dispatch of a demon because even the giants fear them for their ability to manipulate space. If they mistakenly offend a demon, then they might see their precious kingdom crashing down from the sky.

Unlike the other races that were prejudiced about demons because of the indoctrination, the giants know that demons value their kin to the point that they will avenge them with their lives. The giants know of a demon species that rivals their physical strength which made them fear and respect the demons.

Since the guard could not answer Adrian's question, he immediately whispered something to one of the guards on standby. The guard then entered on the door for guards as if he went to fetch someone. The waiting game has started as soon as one of the guards left.

"Umm? Will we live?" Lycan asked as he still has spears pointed at his head.

"We will. It seems that they went to get someone that can be used for negotiations. The ones here are basically just guards without a captain." Adrian replied.

The giant guards could not rebuke Adrian's claims because it was the truth. When he read all the details about the giants, he surprisingly learned that they are also a tight knit community due to their low numbers. As long as they do not become hostile, the giants will not necessarily fight them.

A few minutes later, the giant gates suddenly opened, and three giants came out of the gate. One of the giants is the guard that delivered the message while the two individuals are different. A male and female giant could be seen coming out of the gate with the messenger.

The male giant is much bigger than the other giants as he is as tall as six meters. The other one is a female giant that measured about four meters but she wore clothes that could be describe as a priests' clothes.. These two are definitely different from the others.

Chapter 869 – Kingdom Of Magnusupra

The guard giants might look threatening but hey are apparently juts good people dedicated with their job. If they really had no interest in welcoming visitors in their kingdom, then Adrian's group would have already been killed the moment they showed up on their doorsteps.

What Adrian did not realize is that he is emanating an aura that is making the giants not as hostile. The effect of the Angel Slayer title that he has is giving him a base level of familiarity towards the giants. The one thing that the giants hate the most are the angels because they have persecuted them non-stop since their inception.

When the six-meter tall giant and the four-meter-tall giantess appeared, the first one that they noticed is Adrian. He radiated a familiar feeling especially towards the tallest giant. Adrian does not know but the tallest giant that came out of the gate actually has the same title as him which is Angel Slayer.

"Greetings, travelers. I am the Princess of the Kingdom of Magnusupra, Dainta. Welcome to the kingdom of the giants." The giantess stated as she welcomed the three which surprised the guards.

"Is this really fine, General Goliath?" One of the guards asked the six-meter tall giant as they did not expect the princess to suddenly welcome the ones that suddenly popped up.

"You might not know this but that demon there exudes a great aura like me. Tell me kid, have you killed an angel before?" Goliath asked Adrian and even assumed that he was a kid even though demons do not age physically after reaching maturity.

"He must be different from the giants here as he could actually assume my age despite demons not looking over the age of twenty. He is also extremely different compared to them as his vitality is through the roof. The princess is also special. Her soul burns so bright that it could be mistaken as the sun." Adrian thought as he could see the souls of the two using his evil eye.

"My name is Equinox and I have killed one angel in my lifetime. He is Lycan and she is Solstice. I have come because I need access to the Chaos Springs." Adrian stated as he hid that the angel only died as she was only caught up in the attack that he used.

Goliath and Dainta could now see why the guards could not make a decision easily. Not many know of the condition of the Chaos Springs as it is forgotten by the world. Only the giants that can live to about a thousand years still remember it clearly as their progenitor is said to be sealed there.

"We can welcome you to our kingdom if you need to rest but accompanying you to the Chaos Springs is impossible. We might have the key, but we do not possess the means to traverse it." Princess Dainta stated.

"Why can you not traverse the Chaos Springs?" Adrian asked but he was told that they should continue their conversation elsewhere. The entrance to their kingdom is not a proper place to discuss about the Chaos Springs.

With the escort of their princess, the giants peered through their great windows of the small people that entered their kingdom. They clamored when they saw the demon as some have yet to see a demon in their lifetime. The other two that came to them is definitely a bit different than what they imagined.

When the giants looked at Lycan and Solstice, they rather feel odd when they stare at them. They felt that they were looking at their polar opposites or something. They are not feeling hate or disgust, but they just know that they are different.

"Why do I feel like they are staring at me? Is it my armor?" Solstice asked as the kingdom of the giants is surprisingly sunny to the point that her armor returned to her body despite still being nighttime.

"They are probably looking at you guys with perplexed emotions because you two can be described as beings of darkness. Your asmodian ancestor is said to be the personification of darkness itself. If you look closely, the tapestries hanging are of the sun." Adrian pointed out.

"You are right, but I thought that they hate the Goddess of Light? Is one of her symbols not the sun?" Lycan whispered but the princess of the giants still heard.

"We hate the goddess of light, but the sun here is not something that symbolizes her. As you can see, the sun is of orange color as a testament to the god where we really come from. The Titan of the Sun, Helios." Princess Dainta stated proudly.

"I thought that the giants are a product of the Nephelim mating with humans? At least that is what we were told." Solstice stated.

"The goddess of light might have made the angels but even she is not capable of creation itself. Creation is not her domain, so she had to use a body of a dead god in order to create the angels. The first Nephelim is then the product of an angel and a devil's union.

But do not mistake of the fact, we giants are the testament that blood of the Titan of the Sun living in our veins. Even though he died during the war, we still worship him as we were born thanks to him." Princess Dainta stated.

"I see. Instead of being born as an angel, devil, or Nephilim, they are born due to the uncontrolled will of nature." Adrian thought as Daemonios are also like the giants.

From what the princess of the giants stated, not all children born from human and nephelim parents are giants. Although, giants are almost 99% born even if giants' mate with other species. It seems that their genes take precedent instead of their mates.

The kingdom of giants is not only filled with giants back then, but the other species soon died out due to not being able to live in a kingdom above the clouds. In the end, the humans that accompanied them were sent back down to build a kingdom and that the giants will support them as a promise.

"You mean to say that the Kingdom of Suburiasi is actually the settlement of the humans that vacated with your kind back then?" Adrian is shocked upon learning of the fact.

"Yes. In fact, my grandparents and parents were actually human. I was born below and is only brought up here about five hundred years ago.." Princess Dainta stated which shocked them.

Chapter 870 – The Truth Of The Angels

"You mean to say that you came out of a human? How did that happen?" Lycan asked as he could not believe what he heard. With how big the giants are, a human giving birth to them would definitely pose a challenge. One can even say that it might even pose a threat to the life of the person.

"Not all giants are incredibly big like General Goliath. The most common height for a giant is somewhere between four to five meters. The smallest ones of our race are three meters tall and there are really big ones like General Goliath, but they are a rarity.

I actually came out of my mother's stomach as a human size child, but they soon learned that I was different. When I became five years old, my giant genes kicked in and I was as tall as my mother. I was soon escorted to the Kingdom of Magnusupra in fear of the angels attacking me.

I am probably the last of the human born giants in a century. This is also one of the reasons why the current royal family has forgotten about their giant lineage." Princess Dainta stated.

"If you are part of the royal family then why did you let the genocide of your family members happen? Sorry if that question might offend you in some way." Adrian stated.

"We do not have eyes on the ground below. We can only know their status every month when we send them the golden eggs that our Ancient Goose lays. We only had enough time to repel the Nymph Queen from completely sinking the kingdom below." General Goliath answered.

"I guess it cannot be helped as you are high above the clouds. The mechanical beasts that you have installed are also not used for observation. If it was then you might have seen us fighting them in some sort of monitor room." Adrian replied.

"You are correct as the mechanical protectors are what protects us from the scourge of the angels. Even the angels are not able to easily fly to this height without the aid of magic." Princess Dainta stated.

They all continued the discussion and the group learned interesting facts about the giants on the way. In turn, the giants also learned about the world below them. They are then led to what seems to be a library where an old giant that looks like a scholar is reading a book.

"This is Elder Nat. He is the oldest giant alive here and is the wisest. He will tell you about the reason why you cannot traverse the Chaos Springs." Princess Dainta stated as she gestured towards Elder Nat.

"Greetings. It has been too long since I have seen a demon again. Also, one so young yet so powerful." Elder Nat greeted the group.

"I have been wondering on the way you can measure my age?" Adrian asked as he is only about 18 years old in the setting of the game.

"Demons are easily identifiable with the aura they give off. The older the demon, the heavier their aura is. Yours is more like a bright sprouting sun but that is because we have special eyes from our true ancestor.

The Titan of the Sun Helios is said to have been able to see the number of times a person has lived to see the sun. We inherited that ability from the Titan of the Sun which is why we firmly believe that we come from him and not the angels." Elder Nat stated as the giants hate the angels more than anything.

"I actually get that because back then some gods fused together in order to live. It is not farfetched to say that the Goddess of Light created the angels from a fragment of other gods. Some Asmodians are also a result of a fragment of a god." Adrian stated as he knew that the Goddess of Life could not have created beings that equal gods that easily.

"It is not just that. The first angels created by the Goddess of Light were not in their form now. The first angels were more terrifying in form that they can be mistaken as bringers of misfortune despite radiating light. We giants came from the first angels or what the Angels now call as The Fallen." Elder Nat stated which made Adrian's ear perk as it was lore that he does not know.

"Are the Fallen different from the Devils?" Adrian asked as he knew that the devils were also angels back then.

"The Fallen are the first angels created that had bodies that look like chimaeras. The devils are a race that come from the current angels but decided to betray the goddess as they do not like being choked by the rules of the Silver City.

In fact, the Fallen and the Devils worked together back then to try and overthrow the Goddess of Light. In the end, the allegiance failed as the devils needed to be back to their dominion and the Fallen are almost wiped from existence." Elder Nat stated.

"If that is true then why did the angels not purge all of the Fallen? The angels are not really ones that like dirt on their history." Adrian asked.

"The demons intervened back then or rather a demoness intervened. The destruction that the angels did on the world back then was so great that they had to step in. The demoness sealed all the angels that led the purge while he let those that no longer wanted to follow the goddess be spared.

The angels that no longer have the protection of the goddess became Fallen, but they were only a handful. The start of the purge happened when the Nephilim were born as they posed a threat to the angels.

The Nephilim were a powerful warrior race that maximized the potential of their parents' races. The Goddess of Light feared that as they were powerful even without relying on her blessing.." Elder Nat stated.
