

O Summoner 881

Chapter 881 – Chaos Spring Exploration I

[You have defeated the Guardian of the Barren Spring.]

[You have received the Barren Crystal.]

The defeated body of the Guardian of the Barren Spring suddenly turned into a bridge that connected to the next floating island. The Guardian of the Barren Spring did not even give any other drops or experience points when it got defeated.

The twin giants were shocked to see the real power of the demon in front of them. He did not even do much as his soulbounds basically defeated the titanic sand golem with their own powers. The dragon would use its intense heat to melt the sand into glass and use ice break apart the sand that became glass.

The huge wolf would then use numerous shadow spears that it manifests from around it to disintegrate the glass shards into nothingness. This continued for twenty minutes until the core of the Guardian of the Barren Spring could no longer control the sand.

When a heavy attack would befall them, the group would mysteriously not get damaged. The twin giants saw the slime glow whenever they are attacked by giant sand waves but the three of them are not damaged. If they were to give their opinion, then they would say that they were not even needed.

When the core of the Guardian of the Barren Spring could no longer control as much sand, the dragon soulbound froze the whole body of the sand golem. The giant wolf then destroyed the exposed core easily as if it was not durable at all.

"We are not even needed here." Tino whispered.

"I agree with you brother, but we must become pro-active in the next battle to not bring shame to our race." Tina stated.

"The bridge to the next floating island has shown itself. Let us go there now. It seems that defeating the golem will make the road to the next destination appear. Let me check if we can go take a shortcut towards the other islands." Adrian stated as he unfurled his wings and flew straight to the third floating island.

Adrian flew towards the other edge, but he suddenly felt the huge pressure of gravity when he exited the first floating island. He immediately used Blink to return to the sand bridge that was created upon defeating the Guardian of the Barren Spring. He even tried manipulating the gravity to make him lighter but even that cannot minimize the pressure.

"It should not have been a black hole because we are almost immune to the pull of one." Adrian thought as he looked at the dark abyss that is present at the edge of the floating islands.

"Are you fine, Champion Equinox?" Tina asked as she saw that Adrian suddenly lost balance mid-flight.

"I am fine, but it seems that we cannot take the shortcut when it comes to traversing this place. It seems that we need to traverse all four large islands in order to proceed." Adrian stated.

The group then went to the next floating island which is vastly different to the first. If the first floating island is called barren, then this floating island will be flooded. Water is very abundant in this floating island to the point that the water is knee high. The twin giants are having a difficult time walking as the soil beneath the water is also soft.

This floating island also has aquatic plants lying around but other than that there are no more things unique things. As usual, they ended up in the center of the flooded floating island and the water that was still started to rumble. The rumbling water then started to gather at the very center where a clear blue core arose from the water.

Monster: Guardian of the Flooded Spring

Level: 200

Health: 100%

Mana: 100%

Description: A golem made of water that is said to be very conductive to electricity. It is thoroughly connected to the area it is located and cannot be easily defeated with normal means. Its body of pure water is said to be immune to the cold.

The second guardian has finally shown itself and it is vastly different from the first guardian. The first guardian had a humanoid shape like any other golems, but the second guardian just looks like a giant tidal wave. The clear core that it has made it difficult to pinpoint its location as it hid cleverly in the water.

"Kanlaon!" Adrian stated.

Kanlaon understood the command and fired its breath attack towards the Guardian of the Flooded Spring. The breath attack collided with the water body of the golem and a steam explosion ensued. The steam explosion is so powerful that all of them were blown away as a result.

Steam covered the entire area that they are in, and a clear core could be seen floating in the middle of the area. Water once again returned to cloak the clear core, but Sirius is faster than the water. Sirius tried to damage the core, but his attack just passed through it.

"The core is immune to physical attacks." Adrian stated as the core is once again covered in water.

The Guardian of the Flooded Spring responded by collecting all the water in its surroundings and crashing it down Adrian's group. It would have been perfect if not for one skill that Adrian has.

"Quantum Dispersion!" Adrian stated as he also enhanced the skill to increase its power.

The water that is supposed to come crashing down towards them suddenly got blown away in a complete circle. The Guardian of the Flooded Spring tried once more as it has complete control of the water in its surroundings, but Kanlaon created a dome of ice to defend against the second attack.

When the water calmed, the ice dome only has a few cracks on it. Kanlaon then destroyed it and fired the shards around.. When the shards of ice clashed with the water, it did not even freeze which means they cannot freeze the Guardian of the Flooded Spring.

Chapter 882 – Chaos Spring Exploration II

"We cannot freeze it. If lowering the temperature is not the answer, then we need to increase it. Kanlaon!" Adrian stated.

Kanlaon's red orb floating around him suddenly glowed in a fiery red and orange color. He then dropped this orb into the water, and it evaporated the water immediately. It is effective but the area that the flame orb can evaporate is extremely limited.

"I need to increase the area of power." Adrian muttered to which Tina raised her concern.

"I can increase it Champion Equinox. Our blood is of closer to the Titan of the Sun which is why we are not affected by the cold as much. Use our blood to increase the potency of the heat." Tina stated as she cut her palm.

Adrian took out a paper from his inventory and dipped his brush on Tina's blood. He used his talents as a scribe to write Enhance, Spread and Heat on the paper. Fortunately, he succeeded immediately but the Guardian of the Flooded Spring will not let them easily accomplish what they are thinking.

Tino noticed this and slashed his palm as well and directly touched the flame orb that is emitting heat. When Tino's blood touched the Flame Orb, the heat it emitted became more intense. The heat being emitted made the incoming water evaporate much faster, but the area of effect has yet to increase.

The Guardian of the Flooded Spring cannot let the intruders in its domain do what they please. It was instructed to drown its opponents in water but the heat that the flame orb emits cannot be extinguished. It is now experiencing an error in its orders as it has yet to encounter enemies like them. It has been idle for a number of centuries.

The Guardian of the Flooded Spring can only execute the only command given to it. It needs to drown the trespassers on its domain. As a result of the error in fully complying the command, it can only control the water in in the entire floating island. Due to this immense strain, the clear core started to have some cracks as the Guardian of the Flooded Spring was not created to control the entire water body in the second floating island.

Adrian already finished with finalizing the talisman and immediately shot it towards the flame orb. Adrian then issued a command to Sirius that they need to hide in the shadow realm. Sirius pulled Adrian, Tino, Tina, and Dodu inside the shadow realm while Kanlaon exerted his control of the fire element.

The flame orb suddenly increased in size and area of effect to the point that it tripled in size. It now looked like a miniature sun that came down on the word. Kanlaon emitted a piercing dragon roar as he used everything that he can muster when it comes to heat.

The Guardian of the Flooded Spring's core could not handle the intense heat and control of the entire water body in the second floating island. Due to the clash of the fire elemental energy and water elemental energy, a large steam explosion ensued that destroyed the core of the Guardian of the Flooded Spring.

Kanlaon did not get unscathed as he lost 75% of his health as a result of the steam explosion. When Adrian's group left the shadow realm, they are greeted by a floating island without a single drop of water. Kanlaon also having great damage on his body that even his scales cracked from the clash of elemental energies.

"Greater Seal: Dodu!"

"Greater Summon: Saena!"

Adrian sealed Dodu and summoned Saena to treat Kanlaon's wounds. Adrian wanted Dodu to absorb the damage that Kanlaon will get from the attack of the Guardian of the Flooded Spring, but it was magical in nature. Dodu is an important asset when it comes to blocking physical attacks which is why he does not want it to die.

Recovering from death is about three hours with the level that Adrian's soulbounds have. It would not be wise if a golem that relied in physical attacks were to show up once again. Saena immediately started to heal Kanlaon and the path to the next floating island started to appear when Adrian got the notification.

[You have defeated the Guardian of the Flooded Spring.]

[You have received the Flooded Crystal.]

A water bridge suddenly appeared out of nowhere and led to the next floating island. Seeing that the wounds on the palm of the twin giants have yet to close, Adrian instructed Saena to treat them as well. But it was a strange sight to Adrian that the twin giant's wound did not close.

"Why did your wound not close? I remember that you two did not cut too deep." Adrian asked.

The twin giants looked at each other as if debating whether to tell the truth or not. In the end, they released a sigh and decided to spill a secret that they must never easily tell anyone.

"Actually, this is a secret of our race, but Champion Equinox asked. We need to be honest to you in order for you to not blame yourself if something were to happen to us." Tina stated.

"The body of giants that are closer to our ancestor are special in that we are extremely durable. We will not bleed if we do not choose to bleed which means even sharp swords cannot cut us." Tino started the explanation.

"In return, we can will our bodies to also be easily cut but we cannot easily heal from the cut wound. Our blood is special since it has properties that can increase fire and light elemental energies. It is also one of the reasons why angels hunted our kind before when they learned that our blood is a valuable resource but that special blood is only inherited by certain individuals." Tina added.

"Then both of you being with me must not be due to both of you being the best." Adrian stated to which the two nodded.

"Fine but please do not bleed for me once again. We are here to investigate and know our limits in exploration. We are not here to die.." Adrian stated.

Chapter 883 – Chaos Spring Exploration III

The water bridge led to another floating island that is also different from the others. The third floating island is only made of rocks, but the strong point is the great wind pressure blowing them back to the water bridge. The floating island is basically a wind tunnel that pushes those that wants to traverse to the end.

This is the first time that the group encountered difficulty as they could barely reach the middle. The golem should only appear when they reach the middle, but they cannot do so. Even Kanlaon and Sirius' body could not easily block the wind pressure as it lifts them up.

The wind direction is not just a horizontal, but it curves upward to make sure that those with feet cannot plant it on the ground. Even Kanlaon cannot adjust the wind temperature to make sure that the wind pressure gets erased. It seems that this wind is unnatural as it is not affected by temperature changes.

"We cannot even get to the middle where the guardian spawns. At this rate, we might need to turn back and abandon the exploration." Adrian muttered but the twin giants do not want to turn back yet as they have yet to give a great contribution.

"Maybe we should go forward by ourselves to decrease the wind pressure." Tina suggested which Adrian also agreed.

"Greater Seal: Sirius"

"Greater Seal: Kanlaon"

"Greater Seal: Saena"

Adrian sealed back his soulbounds in order to traverse easily without minding them. His soulbounds also need to rest for a while as their stamina is also drained. They need to recover in his soul chamber for that to happen and the fight with the guardians do not happen immediately anyway.

Adrian, Tino, and Tina fanned out with a distance of three meters away from each other. They wanted to see if they can traverse it with sufficient space from one another to see how the wind blasts react. The first quarter was a bit easier as they catch more wind if they travel in a group.

The wind pressure somewhat decreased when they are not grouped up which is why they reached the first quarter of the way. It would have been easy, but the strength of the wind pressure doubled by the time they reached that point. They could feel that they will not last long if they cannot properly have a foothold.

"Quantum Cascade!" Adrian casted.

Using his skill Quantum Cascade, Adrian made the twin giants come near him. He situated them behind him in order to form a single line. Since they are bigger than him, they can still feel the wind pressure in greater volume compared to Adrian. He had no choice but to downsize the twin giants for his plan to work.

"Polymorph!" Adrian casted as the twin giants got reduced in size to Adrian's height.

The twin giants got shocked that they became smaller. It was not an uncomfortable experience, but it was certainly a new thing to feel small for them. They are a bit awkward but did not point it out because they knew that their demon companion will not cast a spell without proper plan.

"We must form a single line. I will take on the wind pressure first so that it will lessen when it gets to the second person." Adrian explained.

Adrian unfurled his wings and folded them into something like shields. Fortunately, his wings are very sturdy and does not get whisked way by the wind that easily. When Adrian did that, the wind pressure became less for the twin giants that are behind him.

"Gravity Control!" Adrian casted as he stepped forward.

He intensified the gravity that they experience in order to give further footing on the ground. Since he achieved level 200, his stats have multiplied, and his mana also increased. They are no longer getting blasted away by the wind pressure heading in front of them. About thirty minutes of slowly moving and an empty mana bar later, they managed to reach the middle of the floating island.

They reached the middle, but the guardian did not appear. Although they can feel that the wind pressure increased, the guardian is not manifesting. If the guardian does not show, then the wind pressure would surely not stop which means they will get blasted off back to the second floating island after an hour or so.

"The guardian is not showing itself. Is it at the end of the floating island?" Tino asked.

"Something does not feel right. It feels as if the wind is alive or somehow intelligent." Tina stated to which Adrian suddenly got an idea.

"Greater Summon: Charon!" Adrian shouted as his undead soulbound appeared.

The twin titans are then wondering what kind of monster Adrian summoned. They do not have much information regarding undead which is why they cannot recognize a Lifeless Lord. It also carried a heavy looking coffin on its back, but it was not getting blown away by the wind pressure.

The reason why Charon is not getting blown away is due to the fact that his body is not really completely tangible. It only looks tangible because of his menacing look and giant casket but Charon is closer to an undead spirit than a skeleton or death knight.

"Charon absorb all the mana that you can and convert it into a shield to protect us." Adrian commanded and Charon looked at him with a quizzical look.

"Your skill does not necessarily siphon life, but the mana contained in the soul of an individual. This is the reason why your skill cannot kill a person even if you drain it to the red mark." Adrian explained as he knew that life force cannot be exchanged to create barriers.

Charon's Soul Siphon is not a skill that absorbs life but absorbs the mana contained in the soul. Since the soul is being damaged, the other party's health gets diminished as a result. From Adrian's deduction thanks to the suggestions of the twin giants, he can guess that the wind pressure blasting on their face is not natural.

"The guardian is not showing itself because it has already shown itself the moment that we stepped on the third floating island. It has been pushing us back since we first moved forward. Since this area has strong wind pressure, it must be here, but we cannot see it. It is still not entirely verified but that is my gut feeling." Adrian stated.

Charon understood what its master is commanding when he said just to spread out the chains. Once he spread out the chains, Charon would then absorb anything that he perceives as life. Adrian did not know if his thinking is ingenious or not, but something is being absorbed into Charon.

The group is suddenly having a thin barrier coating their body to defend against attacks that are physical and magical in nature. It did not take long for the wind that was only trying to push away the group to become erratic as if it is controlled by an intelligent being.

The wind rumbled and a tornado came down upon the group as if trying to eliminate them. Charon is the main target of the tornado, but he just brushed it off by turning incorporeal as the attack was physical in nature. The barrier protected the others from the stray wind blades.

Since the tornado proved ineffective, the controller of the wind increased it into five tornadoes coming from different directions. It seems that the five tornadoes will collide in their general direction. Adrian can only think of one thing and that is to counter wind with a higher wind elemental energy.

"Greater Summon: Kimat!" Adrian shouted as a magical circle with the face of a white tiger appeared.

A large feline covered in lightning came out of the magic circle. He also created a loud thud when he landed on the ground which is a testament to his great weight. Kimat is now a monster that carried both the lightning element which is a higher form of wind element and the metal element which is another higher form of the earth element.

Kimat released a roar and understood his assignment. He released a high amount of lightning that collided with the five tornadoes. Upon doing so, Adrian could see a silhouette of a core when the five tornadoes got dispersed. Kimat's body electricity could be seen to have diminished due to the amount of lightning he released.

The sparks on his body could no longer be seen and he also looked somewhat fatigued. His attack was not for naught as the wind pressure suddenly vanished. There is no longer wind blasting in front of them and they could now stand easily without getting blown away.

A clear core like what happened with the Guardian of the Flooded Spring appeared in front of them once more, but it seems that this one is made of wind.. It looked like a sphere of wind manifested in front of them or rather it was there from the start and they just cannot discern it.

Chapter 884 – Chaos Spring Exploration IV

Monster: Guardian of the Stormy Spring

Level: 200

Health: 82%

Mana: 88%

Description: A golem made of pure wind that is said to have even its core crafted from the northern wind. It is impervious to temperature changes and can bring forth great winds from all directions. It mainly deals magical damage, but the wind blades it creates can deal great physical damage.

The Guardian of the Stormy Spring is built like a humanoid made of wind with six boulders acting as different parts of its body. The first two boulders are its shoulders, and the second pair are its hands. The third pair are its feet that would make the ground rumble with each stomp.

The windy core is apparent as the it could be seen on the chest of the humanoid Guardian of the Stormy Spring. The wind core that it has on its chest is located at the inner part and is protected by another layer of wind. The only reason why the wind core is easy to perceive is the fact that the wind revolves in the opposite direction that the wind of the body rotates.

As soon as the body of the Guardian of the Stormy Spring manifested completely, its first order of business was to send the two boulders that make its hands flying towards Adrian's location. These two boulders are not enhanced or even enchanted with wind elemental magic which is why it was blocked by Kimat.

Kimat did not even flinch as he received the attack head on as his fur is equal in sturdiness to metal already. The two boulders became small rock shards upon clashing with Kimat's body. The stone shards did not even damage Adrian, Tino, and Tina as they have already a barrier applied to their bodies.

The Guardian of the Stormy Spring noticed this and changed its attack pattern and turned into a tornado with the eye of the storm being the wind core. The tornado did not even move as it only released countless wind blades that dealt both physical and elemental damage.

"Charon, Soul Lock!" Adrian commanded as all of them got absorbed into the coffin that Charon carried.

The numerous releases of millions of wind blades ended but Adrian's group is not damaged. The only one who sustained a bit of damage is Charon as his Incorporeal ended. Charon got damaged by the physical damage of the wind blades instead of the elemental damage as he has great elemental resistance.

The numerous cuts on Charon's body soon vanished as Adrian casted Invigorate to hasten the healing. The Guardian of the Stormy Spring suddenly stopped for a moment when it finished releasing the numerous wind blades and returned to its humanoid shape.

Kimat has five skills that he received when he evolved which are Lightning Discharge, Silver Thunder Armor, Metallic Copy, Metallic Body, and Storm Shrapnel Catastrophe. Kimat already used one of the skills earlier which is Lightning Discharge.

Skill: Lightning Discharge

Tier: Epic

Type: Active Area of Effect

Effect: Discharges a specific amount that is specified by the Thunderlight Tigris in the area of twenty meters. It deals 100% to 500% of the Summoner's and Soulbounds total magic damage. Since the lightning cannot be controlled, there are some areas or spots that cannot be affected by the lightning discharge.

The Lightning Charge gauge of the Thunderlight Tigris will be reduced when it uses this skill. No lightning will be discharged when the Lightning Charge gauge of the Thunderlight Tigris is below 5%.

Cooldown: None

Mana Cost: None

Cast Time: Instant

Lightning Charge Gauge cost: Dependent on the soulbound

This was the skill that Kimat used when he destroyed the five tornadoes coming towards them. Kimat is still recovering his Lightning Charge Gauge as he used about 85% just to stop all five tornadoes. The lightning covering his body is still not that prominent compared to when he was first summoned.

"Kimat! Use Silver Thunder Armor and then Metallic Copy." Adrian commanded.

Skill: Silver Thunder Armor

Tier: Epic

Type: Active Defense Buff

Effect: Calls upon the lightning and metal element to form an armor around the Thunderlight Tigris. This armor cannot be pierced by normal attacks, and it is extremely light compared to how durable it is. The Thunderlight Tigris will also be able to gather more lightning elemental energy when equipped with this armor.

The armor will break after a few hits from enemies, but it will also release a burst of lightning elemental damage and metal shards to those close to the Thunderlight Tigris. The lightning elemental explosion will deal 100% of the Summoner and Thunderlight Tigris' total magic damage. The metal shards will deal 100% physical damage of the Thunderlight Tigris but will decrease by 10% for each additional shard that hits the enemy.

Cooldown: 5 hours

Mana Cost: 5000 Mana Points

Cast Time: 5 Seconds

Skill: Metallic Copy

Tier: Epic

Type: Active Replication

Effect: Using the power of the metal elemental energy, create a clone of the Thunderlight Tigris that has the same stats. This clone will not have the same health as the Thunderlight Tigris but will have a durability meter.

Once the durability of the Metallic Copy drops to zero, it will burst into metallic shards that will damage those in a five-meter radius. The metallic shards will deal 200% of the Thunderlight Tigris' physical damage and each succeeding shard will deal 10% less damage to a minimum of 100% per metallic shard.

Cooldown: 1 hour

Mana Cost: 10,000

Cast Time: 5 seconds

Kimat roared and lightning descended upon him while the ground below him started to cover his body. When the lightning descended on his body and cracked the soil shell that covered him, silver colored metallic armor covered Kimat's body parts. He now has full body armor with spikes around it.

Kimat then activated Metallic Copy and another Kimat appeared from the ground below him. It took five seconds in order to fully replicated an armored Kimat just like the skill description. Two large tigers are now beside Adrian. With just one gesture from Adrian, the two Kimat's charged towards the Guardian of the Stormy Spring.

The Guardian of the Stormy Spring did not let the two Kimat's approach it as it was instructed to make sure that the intruders do not reach the next destination. It hurled numerous rocks that it picked up with its body once again, but it did no damage nor stop the two Kimat's in their advance.

The two Kimat's body collided with the Guardian of the Stormy Spring and the wind that made the golem's body resisted the physical bash of the two. The Guardian of the Stormy Spring once again turned itself into a tornado, but it also used the boulders to add further damage to those caught inside of it.

The durability of the Metallic Copy started to continuously drop while inside of the tornado. It took about twenty minutes of continuous damage from the tornado for the Metallic Copy to finally get destroyed. Numerous metallic shards started flying inside of the tornado that greatly damaged the core of the Guardian of the Stormy Spring.

Since it was a tornado that sucked in all the metallic shards, the wind core became damaged as the metallic shards were heavier and gathered in the center. The wind core acted as the eye of the tornado which means all the heavy stuff will gather in its wake.

The explosion of the Metallic Copy also meant that its Silver Thunder Armor also exploded. Metals with lightning charges could be seen swirling inside the tornado that is continuously damaging the Guardian of the Stormy Spring. A low groan could then be heard as soon as the Silver Thunder Armor that Kimat had also exploded.

It seems that the Guardian of the Stormy Spring could no longer tolerate its current form as it is getting continuously damaged. It is getting damaged continuously, but Kimat and the twin giants are having a difficult time approaching the core. It was insanely difficult to go inside the tornado as the wind pressure will definitely send someone flying away a few meters.

The Guardian of the Stormy Spring knew that its body will eventually have difficulty maintaining its tornado form, but it had no choice. It must perform its duties to its utmost efficiency even if it leads to its own destruction.

This is the reason why golems cannot become living things as they do not have emotions to use but just a primary objective planted into them. Even flesh golems that is made of living beings cannot become a living lifeform due to this single fact. Golems do not own a soul because they are made of materials gathered instead of being naturally formed.

In the end, the Guardian of the Stormy Spring performed its objectives and broke down by itself. The numerous metallic shards hitting its wind core finally damaged it.. As a last attempt, the Guardian of the Stormy Spring overloaded its core and exploded which sent the metallic shards and boulders in all directions.

Chapter 885 – Chaos Spring Exploration V

[You have defeated the Guardian of the Stormy Spring.]

[You have received the Stormy Crystal.]

The Guardian of the Stormy Spring self-destructed with the intention of bringing everyone on the island with it. All the metallic shards and boulders that was collected in the eye got sent flying in all directions and destroyed the terrain.

Adrian knew that the twin giants will not be able to block the numerous projectiles which is why he sent Kimat to block it for them. Adrian tried to block the shards and boulders using his wings, but it hurt more than he initially thought. The barrier provided by Charon shattered in under three seconds which is why he decided to summon Dodu.

Dodu used Damage Transfer in order to absorb all the damage that should be aimed at Adrian. He did this a bit late though as Adrian's health was already in the red zone by the time that the transfer happened. If Adrian did not summon Dodu then he would have died and used his revive then and there.

"Thank you, Dodu." Adrian stated as he patted the slime to which Dodu gave a cute jiggle.

Adrian looked at Kimat and noticed that his body is not even damaged, but he did get health reduction from the metallic shards and boulders sent flying his way. Kimat's body is fine because of the passive skill that he has called Metallic Body.

Skill: Metallic Body

Tier: Legendary

Type: Passive Skill

Effect: Gives the user enhanced defenses by making its body have the properties of metal. It also gives the Thunderlight Tigris another gauge called the Lightning Charge Gauge. This skill also gives 80% resistance against the metal element and earth element.

It also provides a 50% damage reduction from slashing attacks and projectiles. This skill also makes the Thunderlight Tigris receive 20% more damage against Fire elemental attacks and spells. It also gives the Thunderlight Tigris the ability to act as a lightning rod.

Cooldown: None

Mana Cost: None

Cast Time: None

Lightning Charge Gauge: 33%

The passive skill that Kimat has is a great arsenal when it comes to defending from users of wind elemental magic or sword users. This is the reason why he could easily tank the attacks that the Guardian of the Stormy Spring releases. Kimat still got damaged, but he is not easily shredded by wind magic due to this and he still has above 50% health.

"Thank you for protecting us." Both Tino and Tina stated as they saw the devastation that the Guardian of the Stormy Spring has done to the surroundings. The whole terrain that should be made of cliffs are now flattened ground.

"It is of no concern. Let us continue forward." Adrian stated as he pointed at the bridge made of air. Adrian let Kimat try the bridge made of air first to make sure that it is durable. If the bridge cannot support Kimat then it is not stable enough to cross. Funny enough, the bridge made of air currents is actually sturdier than it looks. Even if Kimat jumps, the air current bridge will not collapse.

The fourth floating island is almost the same as previous floating island. The only difference is that there is a smell of soot and burnt ground in the air. The group thought that that they would be safe until they reach the middle part but the ground below them suddenly glowed.

"Greater Seal: Kimat."

"Greater Seal: Dodu."

"Greater Summon: Kanlaon!"

"Greater Summon: Sirius!"

The glowing ground suddenly started to emit intense heat that can easily roast someone just standing on it. Adrian had a bad feeling and immediately summoned Kanlaon and Sirius. Without their consent, Adrian commanded Kanlaon to collect the twin giants while he rode Sirius.

Adrian commanded his soulbounds to immediately head to the ground that is not glowing. The glowing ground suddenly erupted with orange and crimson flame a few seconds after they left. If Adrian did not have a bad premonition about the ground, then they would have been finished.

"We have great heat resistance but even that can kill us if we are directly inside of it." Tino muttered with a scared tone.

About a quarter of the whole area in the fourth island exploded into flames. It was not the end of the problems as boulders that were as big as houses suddenly started to roll in their direction. Each of these boulders are even lit with orange and crimson flames.

"Kanlaon!" Adrian commanded as Kanlaon used his dragon breath to try and stop the boulders.

A loud explosion suddenly happened in the area that they are in, and white smoke appeared. The vision of everyone suddenly got impaired but they can hear something crashing against each other in the distance. It sounded like two or more rocks hitting each other but they cannot be sure unless they verified it with their eyes.

Adrian unfurled his wings and swept the white smoke in order to see what is in front of him. A few seconds later, he can see silhouette of a snake like entity that seemed to stand up. When the white smoke fully cleared, he saw the next guardian and he did not expect this form.

Monster: Guardian of the Fiery Spring

Level: 200

Health: 94%

Mana: 95%

Description: A golem made of molten rocks and the rumored fire from a dying star. It has great elemental resistance that it could even resist the water element thrown at it. If the water is not 500 degrees below zero, then you could forget about damaging it using water elemental energy. It also uses the earth's heat to continuously raise its temperature.

"The enemy is here!" Adrian shouted as he took a good look at the Guardian of the Fiery Spring.

The golem had the appearance of twenty house size boulders connected together. It is also in constant flame with the core of this golem located at the first boulder that one could see make up its head. The core of the Guardian of the Fiery Spring is different in color from the charred boulders as it has a blue hue.

The twin giants looked serious as they knew that they must contribute greatly this time. What made the twin giants amazed by the golem is that its flame is somewhat tantalizing to them. They felt that the flame of the Guardian of the Fiery Spring will not harm them which is why they did not hesitate to charge towards it.

Adrian wanted to warn them, but he saw something unique as the fire of the Guardian of the Fiery Spring is somehow in synergy with the energy of the twin giant's body. They did say that they are the closest to their ancestor called the Titan of the Sun.

"If the fire is from a dying star and they have the same physique as the Titan of the Sun, does it mean that the description of the fire being from a dying star not false?" Adrian thought as he learned to not always trust the monster descriptions since one can be led astray from limited information.

Adrian watched as the twin giants somehow became more powerful from before. When they touched the body of the Guardian of the Fiery Spring, they did not even get burned by the flames. In fact, it felt as if the two of them are being purified by the flame as Adrian could see that they are becoming more and more energetic.

Adrian tried the same approach by getting close, but he started to get damaged when he reached a distance of three meters from the Guardian of the Fiery Spring. He is getting damaged by the heat despite having fire resistance. The flame on the body of the Guardian of the Fiery Spring is not normal as it surpassed his resistance.

The Guardian of the Fiery Spring saw that two tall humanoids were not getting burned by its fire. If a golem had feelings, then it would become depressed. But golems have no emotion which is why it decided to complete the protocol that is embedded in its core. It was to make sure that any living being will not be able to pass through.

The twin giants could see that their attacks are taking effect, but they could not reach the core. The Guardian of the Fiery Spring, on the other hand, cannot kill the twin giants with its heat as they were basically immune. Adrian knew that he cannot go melee in this battle which is why he used his Bow Primordial armament.

Adrian flew on top of Kanlaon and released arrows while the latter released his breath attacks. The Guardian of the Fiery Spring had movement that are like a snake so it would dodge attacks by swaying its body in an S motion but that also made it predictable.. It did not take long for the team to get used to its movements.

Chapter 886 – Chaos Spring Exploration VI

The Guardian of the Fiery Spring did not let the twin giants do as they please. It moved its body like a snake and tried to coil around them. Sirius did not let this happen as he extended the shadows in an attempt to rescue the twin giants.

Even if the twin giants are immune to the fire being released from the Guardian of the Fiery Spring's body, they are not immune to physical attacks from the golem. Adrian thought that the shadows would not be affected but he became shocked. The shadows got burned by the flames of the Guardian of the Fiery Springs.

This was the first time that Adrian has seen the shadow that Sirius controlled literally become extinguished. Sirius could make the shadows tangible if he wanted to, but they should not be burned into nothingness. The flame is definitely special compared to the fires that he has encountered before.

"No time! Chrono Lag! Chrono Shift!" Adrian shouted.

Adrian applied Chrono Lag on the Guardian of the Fiery Spring while he applied Chrono Shift on both Tino and Tina. He managed to delay the coiling body of the golem just before the two giants could get crushed. A loud crushing sound could be heard when the boulders that made up the body of the golem clashed against each other.

If one looked closely, the boulders that clashed against each other had cracks on it. The blue orb on the head of the golem suddenly turned yellow as it noticed that the twin giants did not get crushed. Suddenly, the ground in their area suddenly started to glow and Adrian knew what was going to happen.

Adrian forcibly used Blink on the two giants and told Sirius to carry them out of the area. Adrian is about to use Teleportation to get away, but the tail of the Guardian of the Fiery Spring suddenly came down from above. Adrian got pinned down and had no way to escape as his magic circle got burned like Sirius' Shadow.

The twin giants saw this and tried to help Adrian, but they were stopped by Sirius. Adrian stretched out his hand towards Kanlaon as the pillars of fire engulfed his body. Sirius had to trap the twin giants using the shadows so that they will not necessarily sacrifice themselves. They may be immune to the flame that the Guardian of the Fiery Spring emits but they are not immune to heat from below.

The twin giants looked distressed, but they noticed that Sirius is not worrying. The master of the soulbound should feel the death of their master but it was oddly calm. This made the two become clam as well since the one that shares their soul is not panicking.

When the flame pillars from the ground vanished, the figure of the Guardian of the Fiery Spring could be seen with the core returning to its blue color. Another figure is floating in the area where Adrian should have been. A humanoid that is a mix of a dragon and a demon with two orbs swirling around its body.

The demon dragon humanoid hybrid is none other than Adrian who used Perfect Assimilation. He managed to weather down the damage of the flame pillar thanks to the great fire resistance that he has when fused with Kanlaon. He managed to seal Kanlaon and activate Perfect Assimilation just before the flame pillar erupted on his face.

Adrian flew up high and the two elemental orbs that Kanlaon has suddenly swirled violently around Adrian. He opened his mouth and two magic circles appeared in front of him. The first magic circle is of a crimson color while the second is of a pale blue color.

Soon a small orb that contained great power appeared in front of Adrian's mouth. He did not let the golem be still which is why he commanded Sirius to use all the shadows that he can control to restrain the Guardian of the Fiery Spring. The twin giants also did the same and hugged the golem on both sides.

The shadows that Sirius used would often get vaporized after about five seconds, but he did not let his master down. The twin giants and Sirius shadows made the Guardian of the Fiery Spring unable to move.

"Roar of the Primordial Demon Dragon!" Adrian shouted as the energy marble filled with Primordial energy passed through each magic circle.

When the primordial energy marble passed through the crimson magic circle and the fire attribute is added, the marble became a beam. As soon as the beam passed through the pale blue magic circle, the ice elemental attribute also became added on it.

The beam became magnified to the degree that it had a diameter of five meters. It directly hit the blue orb that is on top of the Guardian of the Fiery Spring. The beam not only stopped on the core of the golem but also passed throughout its body as it has penetrating capabilities.

The core of the Guardian of the Fiery Spring shattered and its body that is constantly on fire stopped. The flames became extinguished and only black rocks with heavy char remained. After all the energy of the flames vanished completely, the boulders that can move using it crashed down on the ground. The energy that connected each boulder no longer flowed on each of them.

[You have defeated the Guardian of the Fiery Spring.]

[You have received the Fiery Crystal.]

[Perfect Assimilation duration has ended due to great exhaustion.]

[You have exerted too much force and your soulbound, Kanlaon, needs to rest for one hour before you can summon it again.]

Adrian lost the strength on his body and started free falling. Sirius saw that his master could not move which is why it immediately caught him. Adrian's body cannot handle the full strain of using Perfect Assimilation to its full potential because it uses the power of the body and the soul.

"We should take a rest for a moment.." Adrian stated as he lied down on the ground.

Chapter 887 – Chaos Spring Exploration VII

After an hour of resting, Adrian can finally stand up and he can now summon Kanlaon again. He opted to let Kanlaon rest for a while because he knew that his dragon exerted far more power than he originally asked it. Kanlaon needs to be at full power if he were to evolve or else the evolution might fail.

When Adrian looked at the twin giants, Tino and Tina, he could sense that the two somehow changed. It felt as if they have more mana in their bodies compared to before. Also, Adrian could feel some kind of warmth when he gets near them.

"Champion Equinox! We seem to have gained the blessing of our god!" Tina exclaimed with great enthusiasm.

"We thank you very much for this opportunity. We would have never gained this new power if you never agreed to let us accompany you in the excursion." Tino added.

"What is this new power?" Adrian asked as he did not know what they are talking about.

When Adrian asked, the two then activated the skill that they obtained. Their bodies suddenly became covered in flames and not just ordinary flames but the flames that the Guardian of the Fiery Spring used. The two giants did not seem to be damaged by the flames, but Adrian could feel that he will get hurt if he even attempt to touch the fire.

"This is called the Sun Armor! Our prayers have been heard by our god which is why we obtained this." Tina exclaimed as she always wanted to be a priest like Princess Dainta, but she could not wield mana that well.

"More like your bloodline got purified of impurities due to being in constant exposure to that strange flame that the Guardian of the Fiery Spring had. Let us not break their joyous celebration just in case." Adrian thought as he used his demon eye and noticed that the qualities of the soul of the twin giants changed color.

Adrian could more or less see that the two increased their Persona. He also thought that he could increase his Persona and become an Arch demon, but he was beat down easily by his own inner demon. He needed to strengthen himself more if he wanted to become an Arch demon as he challenged his inner demon despite not having full qualifications.

"Congratulations! It is good that you can be more powerful as it would let you protect those dear to you easier. Let us move to the last floating island then. The path literally is ablaze for us as if they are expecting our arrival." Adrian stated as he pointed towards the bridge made of fire.

The twin giants tried the bridge first to make sure that it was safe for Adrian. It seems that their fire resistance has greatly increased when they received the Sun Armor. When they can feel that the bridge does not give off heat, they told Adrian that it was safe to traverse.

Adrian passed through the bridge without much difficulty as it was warm, but it is not dealing damage to him. He found it interesting as not everyone is able to manipulate elements to this degree unless they are a great individual. Even Daemonios, who are half demons, that can manipulate the elements freely are not capable of such feat.

The next floating island is vastly different compared to the others as it looked more like an ancient ruin. It had structures that could be described as the style of the ancient Greeks. Although Adrian can only guess as most of the structures are already in pieces scattered on the ground.

The group tried to find the guardian golem for this floating island, but it seems that it had no intention of showing up. Something strange suddenly happened when they reached the middle of the floating island. It was bright just a few seconds ago but it suddenly shifted to a dim setting.

There was no sun or moon located in the chaotic pocket dimension and it was the first time that it suddenly became dim. The other floating islands were completely lit up like it was daytime, but this floating island feels as if night has come.

Sirius suddenly started to become wary as he dove straight to the shadows. Numerous notifications are then received by Adrian as Sirius was battling something or someone in the shadow realm. In fact, Adrian and the others did not feel the darkness moving on their feet a few moments ago. If Sirius had not acted, then something terrible might have happened to them.

A few seconds later, something erupted from the shadows. It was an object with a spherical shape and Sirius who came out of the shadow realm. The object with a spherical shape is none other than the guardian golem that they are searching for. It is as big as Sirius as it stood at a good three meters in diameter.

Monster: Guardian of the Dawn Dusk Spring

Level: 200

Health: 91.2%

Mana: 91%

Description: A mysterious golem that is said to have been created using mysterious means. It has strange abilities and is said to have been worshiped as an idol for the sun and moon. It is said that anyone who comes in contact with it will be greatly blessed by luck or greatly cursed of severe misfortune as it is also called an Omen of Change.

The appearance of the Guardian of the Dawn Dusk Spring is a spherical golem that has the appearance of a crescent moon eating the sun. From Adrian's observations, the golem seems to be able to use the darkness in order to attack. When the Guardian of the Dawn Dusk Spring came out of the shadows, it started firing beams of dark elemental energy towards the group.

'Sirius use Nether Rush!' Adrian commanded as he summoned Charon and Saena.

Charon immediately set off its chains towards the golem while Saena took off the curse that afflicted the twin giants when they got hit by the beams of darkness.

Chapter 888 – Chaos Spring Exploration VIII

The Guardian of the Dawn Dusk Spring is different from the other golems before it as it was vastly smaller. It also fired beams made of condensed dark energy that afflicted those hit with curses.

Adrian was hit by one beam of dark elemental energy as well, but he resisted the status effect due to his Asmodian blood.

Sirius is also hit with some curses, but he resisted some of them. Saena absorbed the curses that afflicted the rest of the team since the curses do not have an ending duration. Rather, the ending duration of said curses will only end if they are dispelled or the golem is defeated.

Adrian did not notice it immediately, but the Guardian of the Dawn Dusk Spring seemed to have a face on the crescent moon. If a small amount of light illuminated the creepy face, a spine-tingling look can be seen.

"Let us attack!" Adrian suggested as he summoned his Primordial Armament: Bow once again as it was only cancelled earlier.

Sirius did not relent on his attacks, but the golem seems to be slightly resistant to his attacks. The golem is also unaffected by the shadows that Sirius commands. The shadows get repelled when Sirius commands it to restrain the Guardian of the Dawn Dusk Spring.

The two giants, Tino and Tina, did not become shy and used their new skill. They activated Sun Armor and became lit by a pale orange and red flame. The two then charged towards the Guardian of the Dawn Dusk Spring as Adrian provided cover fire against the beams of dark elemental energy.

Adrian would accurately hit the beam of dark elemental energy aimed at the twin giants so that they will not get hurt or cursed on their way. The Guardian of the Dawn Dusk Spring also did not even bother to dodge and just fired its beam attacks towards everyone in the area. It is also highly resistant to physical damage seeing that its health only dropped to 89% despite being continuously attacked by Sirius.

"Saena is almost full as she can no longer absorb the curses. She cannot even use them against her opponents because they are not alive. The curses that she absorbed are meant for living beings." Adrian thought as he considered his options.

If Saena could no longer bear the curses in her stomach, then she will get damaged instead. Fortunately, Adrian saw a silver lining when he noticed that the Guardian of the Dawn Dusk Spring evaded when Tina's dagger was about to hit it. He verified that the golem is indeed evading the giants when Tino almost hit the golem from behind.

Adrian's magical arrows barely do any damage on the body of the Guardian of the Dawn Dusk Spring as it seems to also have high magic resistance. What is interesting is the fact that it evades the two giants to the point that it will not attack. The golem lets Sirius attack it, but it does not let any of the twin giants to even hit it.

Adrian found a plausible answer to the Guardian of the Dawn Dusk Spring's behavior as he saw that the dark elemental beams aimed at the twin giants are disintegrated before hitting their body. The fire surrounding then definitely has special properties that does not allow the dark element to even hit them.

The battle lasted for ten minutes, and Adrian once again noticed that the sky changed. The dark sky became illuminated by sunlight which expelled the darkness. The two giants power rose as the sun is also their source of power. Their stats rose to about 15% more when sunlight touched their skin.

'Champion Equinox! The golem! Something is happening to it!' Tino shouted as the Guardian of the Dawn Dusk Spring suddenly spun.

After two seconds of spinning blades suddenly came out of the sides of the Guardian of the Dawn Dusk Spring. The previous appearance of a moon soon changes to that of a sun with a smiling face. The golem changed appearance and even changed the attributes it released.

Beams of white light could be seen being fired by every golden ray that it has on its side. Sirius is even slower compared to the beam of light that he got damaged by ten light beams. The chain that was connected to the Guardian of the Dawn Dusk Spring that Charon connected is also broken.

The beams of light also damaged the twin giants but heavily damage Charon to the point that Adrian needed to recall him. Saena tried afflicting the Guardian of the Dawn Dusk Spring with the curses that she inhaled but it was ineffective. Adrian just needed her to expel the curses as she will be unable to heal them if she held on.

The twin giants are also hurt by the beams of light, but the most notable difference is that the golem no longer covered from them. It received the hits of the twin giants, but it now evaded a different opponent. The Guardian of the Dawn Dusk Spring is now evading Sirius' shadow attacks as if it is afraid of them.

Adrian wanted to test something and immediately recalled his bow. He replaced his current weapon with the scythe and activated Shadow Walker. Adrian vanished from existence as he is now in the shadow world. He went really close to the Guardian of the Dawn Dusk Spring and executed a powerful slice.

The Guardian of the Dawn Dusk Spring did not have the ability to detect Adrian's presence. It also had a large cut on its back as a result of Adrian's attack but the one shocked is Adrian himself. He managed to greatly deal damage to the golem to the point that it froze from the sudden damage.

[You have dealt catastrophic damage to the Guardian of the Dawn Dusk Spring.]

Catastrophic is indeed the word as Adrian erased 50% of the Guardian of the Dawn Dusk Spring's health with one swing. He knew that his attack might be empowered but it should not be this powerful.

"Its attribute is now different."

Chapter 889 – The Last Guardian Golem

"It can change attributes depending on the time of day or rather it can control the intensity of the light using its manipulation of light and darkness elements!" Adrian realized but he did not realize that numerous beams of light already fired from the rays of the Guardian of the Dawn Dusk Spring, and he was sent flying.

The damage that he received is not small by any means as he took a direct hit from ten beams of light. Adrian decided to use Rewind on himself and reversed his personal time to five seconds before. He arrived back at the Guardian of the Dawn Dusk Spring's side and used Burning Souls.

A black shadow escaped from Adrian's scythe and attached itself to the Guardian of the Dawn Dusk Spring. The shadow of the guardian golem then rose from the ground and started to attack it. Adrian did not think that it would work but it seems that this skill is effective as long as the targets have shadows.

With the Guardian of the Dawn Dusk Spring stunned, Sirius used all the shadows that he can muster in order to pierce the body of the golem and bring it down. The two giants then started to pierce the golem with their weapons, but it was difficult to do so. The health of the guardian golem dwindled but it was not enough to fully destroy it.

Monster: Guardian of the Dawn Dusk Spring

Level: 200

Health: 31.2%

Mana: 74%

"Just a little more and this golem will be destroyed." Adrian shouted but the effects of his stun has already vanished.

The Guardian of the Dawn Dusk Spring suddenly flew high up in the air and started to spin uncontrollably. Day turned into night and night turned into day as if the sun and moon became chaotic itself. The fast cycle of night and day only stopped when the guardian golem also stopped spinning.

When the Guardian of the Dawn Dusk Spring stopped, it felt as if time also stopped but that was just an illusion crafted by the eyes. It only looks like time has stopped because day and night are now midway. The other half of the floating island is experiencing daylight while the other half is experiencing night.

The bizarreness of the situation can make anyone confused or even fearful as a golem had the power to affect time. Adrian thought as well but he did not sense a disturbance in space time, but it was Sirius that told him that the area where nighttime is implemented has increased number of the darkness attribute.

All of them attacked once more but the Guardian of the Dawn Dusk Spring no longer dodged any of the attacks that it deemed dangerous. The name of the guardian golem now has another name attached to it.

Monster: Guardian of the Dawn Dusk Spring (Twilight Form)

Level: 200

Health: 30.8%

Mana: 50%

Bufs: [Increased Attack] [Increased Magic Attack] [Increased Defense] [Increase Mana Collection]

The Guardian of the Dawn Dusk Spring (Twilight Form) is now a combination of its two phases. The sun with a creepy smile and the moon with an ominous look is now fully visible on the face of the guardian golem. The rays of the guardian golem also shoot out dark elemental curses compared to just shooting beams of light.

It is now in an indiscriminate attack mode as it no longer cared for the surroundings. It fired beams of light and dark curses all over as long as it can detect lifeforms in the vicinity. The group had a difficult time evading and defending to the point that Saena can no longer absorb any curse that afflicted them. She became a bloated bird, and the effects of the curses are showing on her white feathers due to the black coloration.

"Sirius use Realm Ender!" Adrian commanded as he needed to quickly solve the situation.

The normal attacks are not doing much damage towards the Guardian of the Dawn Dusk Spring (Twilight Form). Adrian had no choice but to use the last resort skill that Sirius can use. Hopefully, this is the last guardian golem they have to face or else they would need to retreat.

Sirius howled and his body became twice as big. A separate distorted space suddenly appeared in a ten-meter diameter with Sirius at its center. The large body that Sirius had is also covered in Nether Mist as he transformed to his Nether Form.

The Guardian of the Dawn Dusk Spring (Twilight Form) detected the biggest threat as the giant wolf in front of it made the very elements tremble. The light and dark elements in the surrounding can no longer be easily controlled by the guardian golem because of Sirius' presence.

The Guardian of the Dawn Dusk Spring (Twilight Form) collected all its power in an attempt to erase the perceived threat from existence. It was perfectly fusing the light and dark elements that it could still control. The color in the surroundings suddenly started to fade as the guardian golem collected all the light and darkness elements that it could.

"Too bad." Adrian muttered as that attack will never hit Sirius.

The Guardian of the Dawn Dusk Spring (Twilight Form) needed to lock on Sirius to hit him, but it cannot detect the Fenrir. Sirius appeared above the guardian golem and slammed his sharp claws onto it which sent it crashing down. He then bombarded it with more attacks, but the guardian golem is unusually sturdy.

Each of Sirius' attack can only be seen by the twin giants as purple lightning and even Adrian could not clearly see unless he shares vision with Sirius. When the duration of Realm Ender finished, the Guardian of the Dawn Dusk Spring (Twilight Form) could be seen unable to float again and cracks on its body.

Sirius could not move his body for five minutes due to the side effect of his best skill.. Adrian had to come up to the fallen guardian golem and used an empowered attack to kill it.

Chapter 890 – Mind Crystal

[You have defeated the Guardian of the Dawn Dusk Spring.]

[You have received the Twilight Crystal.]

The destruction of the Guardian of the Dawn Dusk Spring meant the last piece of the crystals has been collected. Adrian thought that something should happen, but nothing happened. They just rested for about ten minutes before Adrian stood up and started to look for clues.

He looked at the last floating island carefully but nothing useful turned up. The ruins did not have any writings or clues as it was just made up of ancient structure. The next thing that Adrian thought is to survey the other floating islands, so he sent out Kimat, Sirius and Kanlaon to survey.

Adrian did not know what to do as nothing is happening. Usually there should be some clue, but the guardian golems only dropped one crystal instead of other loot. Adrian took out all the crystals that he received from the guardian golems, but they are not reacting.

"These are just pretty stones in the end. There are not even holes to put them or any instructions from their descriptions." Adrian thought as he double checked the description of each crystal.

Item: Barren Crystal

Tier: Legendary

Type: Peculiar Stone

Description: A strange stone emitting energy that seemed to make those that touch it to be always parched. If it is dropped in moist ground, it would become barren in just a few hours. It is still in debate if the effects of the stone are real.

———

Item: Flooded Crystal

Tier: Legendary

Type: Peculiar Stone

Description: A strange stone emitting energy that seemed to make those that touch it to be always full of water and never thirst. If it is dropped in dry ground, it would become moist in just a few hours. It is still in debate if the effects of the stone are real.

———

Item: Stormy Crystal

Tier: Legendary

Type: Peculiar Stone

Description: A strange stone emitting energy that seemed to make those that touch it to be always feel the wind in their backs. If it is dropped in any type of ground, it would call upon wind after a few hours and then a storm after a few days. It is still in debate if the effects of the stone are real.

———

Item: Fiery Crystal

Tier: Legendary

Type: Peculiar Stone

Description: A strange stone emitting energy that seemed to make those that touch it to be always warm. If it is dropped in any type of ground, it would release the heat from below the earth. It is still in debate if the effects of the stone are real.

Item: Twilight Crystal

Tier: Legendary

Type: Peculiar Stone

Description: A strange stone emitting energy that seemed to make those that touch it to be always blessed when outside. If it is dropped in any type of ground, it is said to make the ground blessed by good luck. It is still in debate if the effects of the stone are real.

"Champion Equinox, we have scoured each island, but nothing really happened. All of them just become desolate and empty in the end." Tina reported and the others did as well.

"I forgot! I still have the map!" Adrian stated but the twin giants questioned him as they saw the map disappear before they entered the Chaos Springs.

"Did the map...um...not vanish earlier?" Tino voiced out with a rather weak tone.

"I have it still here. The physical map disintegrated but I can still visualize it." Adrian stated as he used mana to call forth the map that shot towards his head.

A light came out of Adrian's forehead, and it materialized into a full map. It was the authentic Map of the Fallen. Adrian thought it was strange that the map's origins are from the Fallen but he has yet to encounter them.

[Map of the Fallen: Completion Rate – 90%]

When Adrian summoned the Map of the Fallen from his head, the five crystals reacted to it as if they are some sort of magnet. The five different colored crystals that represented each spring suddenly fused with each other. The colors of the crystals are as follows Barren Crystal – Yellow, Flooded Crystal – Blue, Stormy Crystal – Green, Fiery Crystal – Red, and Twilight Crystal – Orange and Violet.

If Adrian were to follow the color orientation of the crystals, then it would be none other than the colors of the rainbow. The only color missing from the rainbow would be Indigo but there are no longer anymore guardian golems. Adrian, who was trying to think where to get the Indigo colored crystal, suddenly saw that something is surfacing from the map.

A magic circle appeared on top of the Map of the Fallen. A few seconds later, the magic circle activated, and something started to surface. An Indigo colored stone started to slowly rise from the magic circle. Adrian is perplexed on how that happened as there was no magic circle like that on the map before.

[You have obtained the Mind Crystal.]

Item: Mind Crystal

Tier: Legendary

Type: Peculiar Stone

Description: A strange stone emitting energy that seemed to make those that touch it to be always have a clear and serene mind. If it is dropped in any type of ground, it is said to make illusions that challenge the minds of those who step foot in the area. It is cultivated by planting it on the minds of living beings.

Adrian's eyes became big as he read the last sentence. He did not think that an actual stone was getting power from his mind. If something went wrong, then he might have died from the incorrect cultivation.

The Mind crystal floated and fused with the other crystals. A while later a rainbow-colored crystal appeared after a great flash of light. This crystal is different in shape compared to the others as it was in the shape of a key.. The key then shot towards the middle area of the Chaos Springs.
