

O Summoner 951

Chapter 951

[You have obtained the Sea Storm Armor due to your connection with the Splash of the Wilde.]

[You can now traverse underwater without the use of special items or skills as long as you are wearing the Sea Storm Armor.]

[You have gained the Friend of the Sea title.]

[You have upgraded Princess Ariella to a Legendary tier individual.]

[You have been awarded +10 to all stats due to your achievement.]

"I did not think that I would get free stats with choosing Princess Ariella. I also got decked in a new armor but why did the Soil of the Wilde not give me an armor?" Kabrakan thought as he is now decked in new gear that gives him the ability for underwater combat.

"I did not think that I would be chosen! This is the best day of my life." Princess Ariella muttered as she suddenly had a look at the battlefield. She then saw that Ursalla has returned, and her father is injured.

With the new abilities that Princess Ariella obtained, she immediately started to show her new might. The replica of the Splash of the Wilde suddenly rotated in a fast motion and the barrier that was broken by the leviathans started to repair itself. Princess Ariella knows that if the barrier returns then the chances of them winning is increased.

The Aspect of the Dark God that Slumbers in the Sea saw this and decided to swat the new fly that appeared as it might lose connection to its current body if the barrier is fully returned. The Aspect of the Dark God that Slumbers in the Sea sent a punch towards Princess Ariella, but Kabrakan lifted his two shields that looked like fish scales to block the attack towards the princess.

Kabrakan managed to block the attack as easy as if he is on land. The new armor that he received has certainly been blessed to have great maneuverability underwater. He did not even get knocked back as much because the water around him acted like a cushion. He still got more damage than what he normally gets when he absorbs a hit.

"I will protect you, princess. Continue with raising the barrier once again." Kabrakan stated as he acted as a great guardian for Princess Ariella. He really did act as the hero that she once imagined that will be chosen by the treasure.

Seeing that its own attacks cannot stop the princess, the Aspect of the Dark God that Slumbers in the Sea commanded Ursalla to focus her attack on Princess Ariella first. Adrian could feel that the bloodlust released at him shifted to another target which he found a bit degrading as the enemy is looking down at him.

"Let me try this new combination then. Perfect Assimilation: Charon." Adrian stated as Charon suddenly fused with his body.

He now had the appearance of mix between a demon and an undead. He did not stop there as he thought of an interesting combination with Charon. He only thought it as interesting, but he did not think that it would actually be potentially game breaking.

[Your skill Primordial Stance: Mirror has activated.]

[All stats will be rearranged to suit the current stance.]

Adrian's body suddenly changed as his eyes is now blocked with a blindfold. He also looked different as his body is mostly covered with a mist like hood. His mirrors also looked different as they are also leaking an eerie mist. His four detached arms also looked bony instead of the usual demonic arm motif.

Adrian did not waste time and immediately summoned as much mirrors as he could and scattered them to all directions. He mainly scattered them to the areas where the battles are mainly being held. He then proceeded to use the skill that Charon has which is Life Siphon.

Chains then shot out of Adrian's body and entered the six mirrors surrounding him. The opponents are shocked as chains are suddenly attached to their bodies, but they cannot break it. Especially the leviathans as their main means of attacks are physical in nature.

The chains then proceeded to suck the life force of all those affected, and they cannot even get it off them. Adrian then released more chains but stuck them to his allies instead as he transferred the health sapped into barriers that can protect them.

"Kanlaon and Dodu, kill that sorceress first." Adrian commanded as the two suddenly changed their target to Ursalla.

Adrian knows that Ursalla is the greatest threat right now as he is now familiar with the attack pattern of the Aspect of the Dark God that Slumbers in the Sea. The aspect cannot freely attack as it wished as it also fears that it might hasten the destruction of its current body. It also explains why it often used telekinesis despite having the power to release miasma.

Adrian revolved numerous mirrors at the Aspect of the Dark God that Slumbers in the Sea. He then released numerous chains towards it in an attempt to stop the aspect from attacking. The chains that he used are more physical in nature compared to the one that uses Life Siphon which is why he could somewhat hold on to the aspect.

The aspect is still the aspect as it broke free from the chains in a matter of minutes. It then released its telekinesis towards Adrian but this time he could feel it. Adrian did not know whether his current state is what makes him see the invisible energy that telekinesis released or if he is just stronger.

Nevertheless, the new sight that he has made him perceive all energy fluctuations around him. A coffin suddenly manifested behind him, and he did the impossible once more. He used Soul Keep on the energy that telekinesis released. He did not think that it was possible but he actually managed to lock the energy in another dimension.

Adrian trapped the energy of telekinesis in the dimension inside the coffin. The Aspect of the Dark God that Slumbers in the Sea is shocked upon the sudden disappearance of the power it used. The aspect could feel the connection with its telekinesis, but he feels that it is isolated in a special place.

Adrian did not waste anymore time as he applied all of his primordial energy and nether energy on the chains. The chains not only increased in durability but also sapped more life force from those affected by it. The chains even dealt more damage as nether energy crept up on the souls of the leviathans.

In fact, the leviathans started going crazy as the attacks on their souls are more painful than what they can handle. As the biggest creatures in the sea, they often had no attacks penetrate their hides which means they rarely feel pain. The leviathans are now experiencing what true pain feels like as their soul is getting shocked by the nether energy.

It is not just the leviathans but also Ursalla is screaming in pain as she is also attached to chain. She even feels double the pain that the leviathans feel as she has the miasma of a dark god inside her body. She could not bear the intense pain and immediately went berserk as well.

Ursalla poured all of her mana inside the Eye of Poseidon and numerous miasma tentacles came out in response. The miasma tentacles did not just target Adrian but all of them in the surroundings. Adrian did not let them get hit as he proceeded to chug down a mana potion in order to create more mirrors and chains.

"Let us absorb all of that." Adrian muttered as he used Absorption to receive all the damage of the miasma tentacles.

Due to the numerous miasma tentacles, Adrian also received damage from receiving more damage than he can contain. He did not find it troublesome though as he smiled because he can now destroy one of the things that are making it difficult to close the barrier.

He eyed the Aspect of the Dark God that Slumbers in the Sea and arranged numerous mirrors around it. The aspect is actually releasing a powerful force that made the restoration of the barrier slow. The mirrors that had a ghastly appearance suddenly glowed in a bright light.

"Refraction." Adrian muttered as the mirrors suddenly released numerous light beams that bounced off each other creating a cage made of light.

The Aspect of the Dark God that Slumbers in the Sea roared in pain as numerous beams of light bore through its temporary body. The beams of light even had traces of nether energy applied to it which meant that the damage it dealt is doubled.

Ursalla saw the temporary body of the dark god become shredded into pieces and started to panic. As the Aspect of the Dark God that Slumbers in the Sea also controlled the space around it, the barrier is getting restored in a faster rate. She had no choice but to transform into her octopus and starfish form to escape the barrier before it close.

The group wanted to trap her, but Adrian is already pushing his body to his limit. He is in a state of severe exhaustion as he pushed the creation of numerous chains and mirrors. The exhaustion is so severe that he could not hold his position in the water and drifted downwards.

Kanlaon had to save his master from being sent to the ocean floor as his mana circuits are overloaded. Adrian needed to rest for a few minutes before he could cast another spell or ability. Even Charon got unsummoned as his soul is also severely exhausted as Adrian pushed the Lifeless Lord to the limit.

When the soulbound and the summoner are assimilated, both of them suffer soul exhaustion if they exert too much. If Adrian was not careful then he could have damage Charon and his soul which would make him unable to summon his soulbound for quite some time.

[You have defeated the Aspect of the Dark God that Slumbers in the Sea.]

[You have received experience points.]

Adrian with the help of everyone defeated the Aspect of the Dark God that Slumbers in the Sea but Ursalla managed to escape. They did not chase as the waters is not their territory and she still has the Eye of Poseidon in her possession. Princess Ariella, on the other hand, managed to restore the barrier fully.

"To think that you would show up when we were already in the good part." Peridot commented.

"Sorry about that. I would not have gotten lost if you guys waited for me in intervals." Adrian weakly replied as his body has yet to stabilize.

"I cannot even heal you as your soul is heavily exhausted. I have yet to learn that spell to restore one's soul. Death magic is not easy to learn so do not exert yourself too much." Levin Cloud stated.

"Speaking of that, it seems that our resident tank has a new form." Peridot stated as Kabrakan's armor looked like what a merfolk would wear.

Princess Ariella also greeted them and thanked them for aiding her kingdom. If they were not there, then Atlantis would surely have been destroyed. Some of the leviathans escaped while the others died from battle, but Adrian and the others benefitted greatly. Because of Adrian's antics, they all received experience points per leviathan killed.

Just as the group is celebrating, they are suddenly surrounded by the merfolk guards and King Neptune. The group immediately knew that their faces did not look happy and not in a congratulatory mood. The group already knew what the conversation will follow.

"Hand over the Splash of the Wilde. It is the treasure of the merfolk." King Neptune stated as he clutched his wound that is already healing.

"Father! You should be praising them because they saved our kingdom from destruction." Princess Ariella retorted.

Chapter 953

King Neptune and his merfolk guards surrounded the group as he wanted them to hand over the Splash of the Wilde. Princess Ariella protested as the group is the only reason why their kingdom is spared. The group did not let themselves be easily captured as they huddled together and are ready for attacks.

"You should be thankful that we helped you in repelling the leviathans and the aspect of the dark god." Levin Cloud added.

"For all we know, you are the ones that lured them into our kingdom. It is too much of a coincidence that all of you came to our kingdom and we got attacked." One of the princes stated.

"Keep telling yourselves that when all you are just greedy pigs. The sorceress is from your kingdom as she seemed to know of your kingdom very well. She is still on the loose so I say that you should use your energy on her as she might return." Kabrakan stated.

"What is the use of talking! Let us just get out of here." Adrian stated as he forcefully used Dimensional Teleportation.

He opened a crack in space and moved it to pass through all of them. The merfolk guards tried to stop them, but they were stopped by Princess Ariella. She used the replica of the Splash of the Wilde in order to create a thin water film that pushed back the merfolk guards.

"Thanks for the assist, princess. You will be the guardian of your kingdom now. Take care." Kabrakan stated as she is granted the power by the Splash of the Wilde.

"Thank you once again, chosen one. If it were not for you then I would not have reached my dream." Princess Ariella stated as she bid her farewells. The group vanished as the portal summoned by Adrian has already swallowed them.

The group then resurfaced back to Avalon and with them some seawater. It seems that the water is also transported with them since Adrian is in a rush to escape. He is thankful that King Neptune is injured which is why he could not use his own pressure to prevent them from escaping.

The people in Avalon, who are not part of the Daemos, are shocked that a group of individuals suddenly appeared on the square. They even brought a few gallons of sea water and a fish with them. The surrounding people thought that they would get arrested by the Daemos but saw that one of them is actually a demon of the imp species.

Since the Daemos Corps were not arresting them, the players in the crowd soon noticed that the demon in the group should be Equinox. They wanted to approach him but then they realized that he is actually with his friends that are also famous. Just their presence alone could deter anyone from getting near, but the most important fact is that they are not in the mood to welcome anyone.

"I swear! That freaking king will get beaten up by me one day." Peridot stated as she stood up.

"He is really ungrateful. He even blamed us for the misfortune that his kingdom got attacked. If we were not there, then their kingdom would have been destroyed." Levin Cloud stated.

"You could also think that were the ones that activated that event since they were after the Splash of the Wilde at first. What I did not see coming is that their new target became me suddenly. Makes me want to avoid the sea more than ever." Adrian muttered but he did not let any of his friends hear as he did not want to burst their bubble.

"Anyways, we should head to the next destination. You already received the Splash of the Wilde. Where should we go next?" Adrian asked as he wanted the journey to be over already and fast. They took a lot of time exploring the sea.

"The fortune teller said north so we will need to go north." Kabrakan stated.

"Ok then. We shall meet later as I still need to recover for one day. I strained my mana circuits too much trying to escape from that weird king." Adrian stated as the group dispersed to do what they needed to do.

Adrian decided to visit Pann as he needed to know about the special egg that he is carrying. He does not know how to actually hatch the Spiritual Bud Egg. He knows he needed to feed it energy, but he does not know how to do that.

The moment Adrian showed Pann the egg, the old man practically jumped for joy with his eyes glistening. He has yet to see that reaction from the old man as he is usually grumpy. Even new species of monsters do not illicit that specific reaction from him.

"So, let me ask again as you have yet to answer me. How can I hatch this?" Adrian asked.

"You are such an impatient brat. Very well then since you really want to know. You can hatch it by planting it, but it cannot be hatched by just planting it in normal soil. You must plant it in soil rich with elemental essence. The essence that you 'feed' it will also affect the creature that will hatch from it." Pann stated with great vigor.

"I see. Where should I get that soil?" Adrian asked as he could just feed the bud with Kanlaon's blood which will increase the elemental power and even the dragon essence.

"You should have an idea about that. You just need to plant it near the Tree of Life and Death. That place is basically the richest of elemental soil. Although that tree is really grumpy, it would not even give me a bucket of the soil near it." Pann stated.

"I think you are the grumpy one though." Adrian thought.

"If I get the soil from there, can you take care of it for me while I am away? It seems that it will take time before it hatches." Adrian stated.

"I see. I was not wrong with raising you. You are still a brat but a fine brat." Pann stated with a smile as he knew that Adrian will definitely get that soil for him.

Chapter 954

Adrian retrieved the soil near the tree of life and death with great difficulty. He did not have difficulty getting permission, but the difficulty came with getting the soil from the ground. He broke two shovels of the rare tier and almost broke an Epic tier Shovel. The soil is incredibly hard to the point that even getting the shovel in would prove difficult.

He even used his Primordial and Nether energy to strengthen himself in order to get the soil. In the end, he sweated a lot just to get two buckets full of soil. He returned to Pann's farm after about three hours and noticed that there seems to be people going in and out of the farm.

He smiled as it seems that the old man is already warming up towards other people although he is still cranky most of the time. Adrian also noticed that the people that Pann warmed up towards are mainly Beast Masters or Monster Breeders. It seems that Pann likes people that have the same interest or hobbies like him, but Adrian's mind is elsewhere.

"Finally! I am no longer the slave that he can call upon when he wants something." Adrian muttered to himself as he could see some players almost crying while giving their quest materials to Pann.

"It seems that the farm has become livelier, and those people do not seem scared of you." Adrian stated.

"They remind me of you, and they are too persistent, so I just answer their questions to make them go away." Pann stated in his usual cranky tone.

"If they knew that you are actually a Noblesse then they would be more scared of you. I bet they would quake in fear with just your stare." Adrian stated with a giggle. He knows that Pann is applying Glamour on himself to make sure that he only be identified as a Greater Demon. Coupled with his superb energy manipulation, he is practically in a perfect disguise.

"Enough of that talk. Bring the soil and plant the egg already." Pann instructed as he pointed at the hole.

Adrian then proceeded to place the Spiritual Bud Egg in the hole and covered it with the elemental energy rich soil. He made sure that the bud sticking out on top of the egg is not covered with the soil as instructed.

"What is next?" Adrian asked.

"You water it with the essence that you want." Pann stated as Adrian proceeded to summon Kanlaon.

Monster Name: Unknown (Spiritual Bud Egg)

Tier: Mythical

Type: Monster Egg

Hatch Gauge: 50%

Current Essence: Mysterious Bud (30%), Sea King (2%), Turtle Dragon (10%), Life Elemental Energy (5%), Primordial Essence (3%)

Status: The one inside it seems to be happy with its surroundings.

"Let me try and use Nether Energy." Adrian thought as he suddenly started to shower the egg with Nether Energy.

When Pann noticed what Adrian is about to do, he suddenly blew all the Nether Energy away. He looked at Adrian with judging eyes as he thought that this kid is trying to kill the egg.

"Do you want to kill what is inside of that egg? It already has life elemental energy inside of it. If you use your potent death energy, then you might overpower it. Not all living beings can handle death energy. You and that leshy brat are a special case because your bodies have been reborn to handle both life and death energy.

Others will just be walking in their death sentence if they follow you. Even those elders of the church do not casually collect life and death energy in their bodies. If you want to pour energy, then use life energy." Pann reprimanded.

"Sorry, hehe." Adrian stated with an innocent laugh, but he got hit on the head by Pann for attempting something dangerous.

"Kanlaon, give drops of your blood to this bud." Adrian commanded and Kanlaon is shocked by his master's sudden command.

Kanlaon has yet to tell Adrian that he unlocked the memories embedded in his Genesis Dragon bloodline and he seemed to get a bit haughty. He knew how important his blood is and any dragon kind will beg him for just one drop.

"What are you waiting for?" Adrian asked.

"It seems that my master now treats me as a blood bank. Very well, it will be another younger sibling that will emerge from this egg anyway if I give it my blood. I will make sure to be its role model since it will have draconic characteristics." Kanlaon thought as it gave a few drops of blood to the Spiritual Bud Egg.

All of Adrian's soulbounds treat each other as siblings but all of them only fear one which is Sirius. Kanlaon is often treated as air by his other younger siblings, but he plans to turn it around with his new powers.

"Why does Kanlaon have a smug face and look like he is daydreaming? Has he developed more emotions?" Adrian thought but he put that on the back of his mind. He then looked at the egg to see if something changed.

Monster Name: Unknown (Spiritual Bud Egg)

Tier: Mythical

Type: Monster Egg

Hatch Gauge: 70%

Current Essence: Mysterious Bud (30%), Sea King (2%), Turtle Dragon (20%), Life Elemental Energy (5%), Primordial Essence (3%), True Dragon (10%)

Status: The one inside it seems to be happy with its surroundings. It is extremely happy with what it was fed but is it snow full. Overnutrition is bad even for spiritual plant eggs. It would take some time before it can fully digest everything.

"Oh! It increased. If I continue with this, then a turtle dragon might hatch from it, but I should also load it up with Primordial energy. I want to see what kind of effect that energy has." Adrian thought as he left the egg in Pann's care and proceeded to meet with his friends.

"Sorry to keep you guys waiting." Adrian stated as he greeted his group of friends.

"Do not worry as you are our expressway anyway. We will definitely wait for you." Peridot stated but Adrian did not want to point what is troublesome in that sentence.

Adrian then proceeded to use Dimensional Teleportation to create a rift in spacetime that leads to the northern continent. They do not have an intended destination which is why he just set the coordinates at the start of the northern continent. They might find clues from the inhabitants of the north if they encounter one.

The group then proceeded to enter the portal while other looked in awe. It was their first time seeing a rift in spacetime that a demon has made. Some magicians even tried to copy the magic circle that appeared, but they could not even attempt to understand it. The runes used is very unfamiliar with them.

In the far north where a temple that faces the stars is located, a beautiful, blindfolded woman looked at the water below her feet. She seems to be floating on a lake inside a great temple as she suddenly gets a feeling that shakes her to the core. She suddenly started to get visions of things that might happen and frowned.

She then sensed a couple of singularities that might defy fate for her. In order to get this vision, she paid a couple days of her fleeting life. She then looked at the lake without even removing her blindfold, but she could still see the truth.

She stretched her hands and dipped in into the lake as if she is scooping something. A portal then started to manifest in front of her as soon as she did. Blood could be seen dripping from her mouth as she paid a price for interfering with reality once again.

While the group is travelling inside the wormhole that Adrian created, he suddenly felt something strange and wrong with it. He immediately started to panic as the wormhole started to shudder as if it will collapse upon them.

He did not know if it is due to his panicked state that he saw a giant hand made of stars pass through the wormhole, but he knows that they need to escape now. He forcefully opened a hole inside a wormhole which is dangerous and should not be attempted. They might get thrown into a different world or another place that is not their destination but that is better than a wormhole cascading at them.

If the wormhole cascades upon them then they will inevitably die if they are lucky. If they are unlucky, then they might be trapped in a dimension where there is almost no chance of escape. Adrian immediately gripped every one of them and pushed them to the new exit that he created.

The wormhole rumbled as the space inside started to cascade. He immediately jumped into the entrance he made and followed the rest to an unknown location. He just hopes that no threats will be in the location where they will land.

Chapter 955

The three who were leisurely strolling inside the wormhole is shocked that they were suddenly pushed by Adrian into another exit. They did not know what is happening until they noticed that their passageway was crumbling. They also saw the panicked expression that Adrian had which is why they did not resist when they were suddenly shoved into an unknown exit.

All of the suddenly fell into a shallow body of water that is about knee deep. They got wet but they suddenly realize that they are inside a massive temple that overlooks the stars. In front of them is a beautiful lady that has a blindfold on her eyes and is floating above the water.

"Hello again, Champion of the Twin Gods." The Great Star Gazer stated as she welcomed the four people in her temple.

"How did we end up here?" Adrian thought but The Great Star Gazer suddenly answered his worries as if she could read his mind.

"Please receive my apologies for forcefully summoning you here as it is of great importance. I have gotten a revelation as your friend over there seems to be called by something ancient located in the far north. My revelation is also related to something hidden in the far north." The Great Star Gazer stated as she looked to the northern direction.

"Did you actually summon us here? Then the huge hand that I suddenly saw in the wormhole is your doing?" Adrian stated as he is shocked that the Great Star Gazer has that sort of power, but he then saw the traces of blood on her mouth. She must have paid a great price just to twist the fate of all four of them.

"Uhm...can we get like an introduction?" Peridot asked as she looked at Levin Cloud and Adrian for an explanation of what suddenly happened.

Adrian then took his time to explain on how they met and what they did in the north. The Great Star Gazer also introduced herself formally to the other two. Peridot and Kabrakan are stunned upon knowing her existence as she is an NPC that could basically dictate the future of the game.

"I am glad that we have met but it is unfortunate that we have not much time left as something terrible will happen in the north. It also coincides with the artifact that your friend over there is looking for." The Great Star Gazer stated as she told them what she saw in her visions.

The Great Star Gazer said that she saw beings like them travel far in the north in search for a great weapon said to be able to easily kill the gods. She then warned them that if that weapon were to be taken then the last of the disasters created by man will walk upon the earth.

She also said that it is related to the divine artifact fragment that they are searching for because that artifact safeguards the weapon sealing the human calamity. If the weapon is taken, then the Apocalypse will start according to the Great Star Gazer.

"Is she referring to the last Horseman of the Apocalypse?" Levin Cloud asked.

"Could be as that is the last one that has yet to awaken. But they do not even show up even when they were summoned into the world." Adrian stated.

The news about the Horsemen of the Apocalypse were hot at first since they appeared in the world but that was it. They were no longer spotted after they were unsealed as if they were just special effects. Although, they did manage to affect the world with the misfortune that they spread.

They soon faded from the spotlight as they are not seen by people or players. What the world did not know is that each horseman has already did their job in influencing the world. The First Horseman has infected the world with the plague which made the Tree of Life become easily sick by poison despite its strong vitality.

The Second Horseman has brought war which made the central continent to what its current state is. The Third Horseman soon followed which made the food production go down as famine spread all throughout due to continuous military expansions of each new kingdom. If they follow that order, then the Fourth Horseman will bring death which made everyone shudder.

"What if something incredibly terrible will happen when the fourth horseman gets unsealed? Death is what signifies the Fourth Horseman right? Do you guys know anything as you two are like prominent figures in the Church of the Twin Gods." Peridot asked.

"I got no idea since I am the muscle. Ask him." Adrian stated as he pointed towards Levin Cloud. The three then looked towards him for some answers as they knew that he read upon all things related to the Church of the Twin Gods.

They wanted to ask the Great Star Gazer, but Adrian is reluctant since she is incredibly weak from intervening on the future. She also does not know much about the Horsemen of the Apocalypse as it is older than her. To get information then she would need to use her powers which might weaken her to the point of inducing her into a coma.

"All I know is that the Fourth Horseman is mentioned in one sentence. Where the Fourth Horseman threads, death will follow." Levin Cloud stated.

"Where the Fourth Horseman threads, death will follow. Well...that does not sound ominous at all." Kabrakan uttered.

"If that is what the past records say then lots of death will surely come. We must stop them as it seems that players will be the one that we will face. Even I do not want to face death everywhere and I already am a priest that serves the God of Death." Levin Cloud stated.

"Great Star Gazer, is the future set-in stone?" Adrian asked as the other party surely has a quest to retrieve that weapon.

"I have pulled you to this place because I hope that you can mitigate the damage if the last horseman does indeed get unsealed. If the last horseman also gets the divine artifact fragment, then untold death and destruction will rain upon this land. What you choose to do is up to you as I can only give you another choice." The Great Star Gazer stated as she could be seen struggling to stand up due to being weakened.

"We will do our best then." Adrian stated but in fact the best in his mind is just retrieving the Breath of the Wilde.

If they cannot defeat the players or stop them from unsealing the fourth horseman, then so be it. What is important for him is the fact that he helped his close friend with his quest. Even the Great Star Gazer did not give them a quest to intervene as she already interfered enough just by telling the four about the event that will happen in the north.

"Go north of this temple and you will find what you seek. You must hurry as they are already near the sealed location." The Great Star Gazer stated as she proceeded to her resting spot. If she says anymore then the wrath of the universe might rain down upon her for interfering more.

"Thank you." All four of them stated as they headed to the direction the are pointed at.

Peridot summoned Moksha and rode with Levin Cloud while Adrian summoned Kanlaon and rode with Kabrakan. They headed north to which Kabrakan immediately picked up something calling to him. It seems that something inside the temple of the Great Star Gazer made him unable to detect the energy coming from the divine artifact fragment.

Now that they are no longer in the temple's vicinity, he can definitely feel something calling to him further north. They needed to hurry as the ones trying to unseal the weapon are already in the location trying to solve the deterrence that the Breath of the Wilde is creating.

"Has there been any guild that is trying to broadcast their expedition in the north?" Adrian asked as he is not caught up in the latest news due to his previous activities.

"There is one and it is about a rising guild called the Death Note. Their guild leader is an assassin player that specializes in instant death attacks. If I am not wrong, he received a quest that can change his job class from an unknown NPC.

He broadcasted that the job class is from a Mythical Assassin that could even kill demigods. I did not think that he was fooled, and it is actually a job class that can kill gods instead. Does that mean a god slaying weapon is located in the north? Kabrakan stated.

"It makes sense since each god slaying weapon is supposedly found in different directions. The last one would be the north. It is also the only direction where a Horseman is spotted. To think that Apocalypse is upon us. It might actually be an event that might shake the world." Adrian stated but he will soon find out that he severely underestimated Apocalypse.

The Guild Death Note is actually founded by the Dark Assassin player named Nightshade. He is an up-and-coming newbie that became well known after the Pandelympics. What is even interesting that not everyone knows is that he is also from another race in-game called the Taqriaqsuit.

The Taqriaqsuit are a being native to the Shadow World and are actually repulsed by the undead. They are a race that could also be called the Shadow People. They are a race that perfectly hides in the shadows due to it being their natural habitat and is actually the favorite creation of the God of the Moon, Igaluk.

The Taqriaqsuit are said to have been created using the shadow of the moon that Igaluk casts. Since the Taqriaqsuit are also a race that likes to live in peace, they turned to the Shadow World which is in the same plane of existence of the mortal realm but just slightly lower in frequency. It does not mean that they are weak because they are great in espionage and assassinations.

Due to Igaluk being weakened and sealed when the War of the Gods happened, the Taqriaqsuit are also weakened as a result. They were sealed by an enemy in their own territory in the Shadow World. This would not have been a problem if they were only a being of pure darkness.

The Taqriaqsuit are made by the God of the Moon which means they also have two sides just like the moon. Just as they are created from the dark side of the moon that Igaluk casts, they also need the gentle light every once in a while, to maintain their sanity.

The Taqriaqsuit would have lost their sanity if not for them entering a deep sleep and hoping for a soul that has the same qualities as them to set them free eventually. The Taqriaqsuit offered this seal to the God of Death as their Gods that represented the moon or darkness are often associated with him.

The Taqriaqsuit vowed to swear vengeance upon the followers of the dark gods once they are awakened from the Shadow World by their own fated one. Nightshade managed to find the seal of the Taqriaqsuit in the Village of Genesis but was only able to activate it upon his death in a dark place.

Upon his death, the seal activated and sent him towards the Shadow World as intended. There he already met some of the Taqriaqsuit that partially woke up due to the disturbances in the mortal plane. The Taqriaqsuit often told that some unique people would reach the Shadow World. A demon and a large wolf that held the power of darkness in its soul.

The partially awakened Taqriaqsuit greeted the newly arrived Nightshade and baptized his soul as one of their own turning him into one of them. The Taqriaqsuit take the form of shadows itself when they use their powers, but they look different when bathe in pure light.

Their form when bathe in pure light is a humanoid shape with silk white skin and red eyes. They have no other features except for their red eyes as they do not need to eat since their sustenance is moonlight or darkness itself.

Nightshade enjoyed his new race as he became an effective assassin in just a matter of weeks. He even became infamous in the rankings despite not being in the top 100 when it comes in level. He also founded a guild using the money from his rich parents. He is also a potential candidate for the US national team for the Pandelympics.

Despite his rising guild and the popularity, he admits that he is not the greatest assassin out there. He does not own a weapon powerful enough to withstand his abilities. He also could not complete the mission to unseal the Taqriaqsuit as he is not powerful enough.

The quest is also limited to a party of five people which is why he cannot conquer it despite his resources. It takes more than just money to unlock the racial unlocking quests as seen by the videos uploaded by Hou Yiwei when he posted them.

He looked at the famous players and noticed that they had unique weapons tailored to their fighting style. He also wanted to be an owner of a weapon that perfectly suits him preferably something that can also let him manipulate the shadows efficiently.

Just as he was losing patience and hope, someone suddenly clued him in of a weapon that might suit his fighting style. He even paid a hefty fine for the information even if it is not true, but he learned of a weapon sealed in the northern continent that is perfect for an assassin as one swipe could bring death.

He is also informed that this weapon can also unlock a special job class for an assassin called Slayer. He wanted this even more and journeyed with his guild towards the northern continent. They reached the destination but their party of a hundred members shrunk down to about twenty.

They are not that prepared when it came to traversing the northern continent as they did not want to get attention when they were not ready. In fact, they only started streaming when they were already halfway in their journey to make sure that other players will not reach them in time.

"We have reached the destination, but it is surrounded but hundreds of hail tornadoes. We already passed through a blizzard that lasted for sixteen hours a day. The Snow Owl beastkin may have been correct that this land has been cursed." Nightshade grumbled as he is so close yet so far from his objective.

"It seems that you are troubled like what I told you." A voice coming from above suddenly stated as she landed gracefully next to Nightshade with her proud wings of white and black feathers.

"Chief Artica, it is just like you said. The place onwards is blocked by furies of winds. The sorceress that cursed this land and trapped your people there will definitely pay once we dispel this." Nightshade stated.

"Yes. I thank you once again, adventurer." Chief Artica stated but there is an underlying tone hidden in her voice.

Chapter 957

"I will be sure to help your clansmen get out of these awful tornadoes. We will free them from the spell that the dark sorceress has applied to this land." Nightshade stated as looked at the Chief Artica with great determination.

"Thank you. I have asked all the inhabitants of the north for their help, but they do not answer my call. To think that you noble adventurers will be the one that answer my plea. May the Great God of the Frigid Cold bless you warriors." Chief Artica stated as she applied a spell to all of them to increase their cold resistance.

Since Nighshade knew that he does not have great priests in his guild, he needed to hire mercenaries. In fact, he hired three priests that are from the Church of the Twin Gods and two from the Church of Light. The priests of each church might not be the best of friends due to the history with the Church of Death, but they willingly cooperated for money.

"Are you sure that it is not a curse?" Nightshade once again asked the priests from the Church of the Twin Gods. They are experts in detecting curses because it is magic that tampers with the state of one's life.

"We have tried to sense it every hour but the situation here is definitely not due to a curse. You can see the trees in this frigid north still standing tall despite the cold. If this land is cursed, then even the trees would rot from the effects of the magic." The dark elf priest player stated as he leaned more towards Death attribute Magic.

"I agree with my friend. This place is teeming with life as well which means everything is natural. Nothing is wrong with the flow of life." A wood elf priest player stated as he scanned the surroundings with life attribute magic.

"You guys are clearly wrong as this type of thing is not natural. You tree huggers should go out more instead of your fancy forests and floating islands. Just wait young master as we will definitely dispel this curse." A priest player from the Church of Light stated.

"Stop fighting as we need to conserve as much energy we need. Also, I pay you guys to support me." Nightshade stated as he tried to inspect the area in the Shadow World.

He disappeared from sight and reappeared in a world that is completely pitch black. What is interesting is the fact that the area in front of him in the Shadow World is actually empty land that he cannot traverse. He already encountered this type of situations as it is similar to dungeons since he cannot enter them via the shadow world.

"How powerful is that sorceress that she actually managed to separate the area to a different space? It seems that her grudge ran deep to the point of trapping the Snow Owl beastkin on the other side." Nightshade stated as he resurfaced back to the mortal realm.

"How far are we?" Adrian asked Kabrakan.

"I am not sure because the signal is faint." Kabrakan replied.

"Maybe we should hit him a few times so that he can sense things better. That is what my dad does when electronics are not working especially when they release signals." Levin Cloud stated to loosen the atmosphere.

"Maybe I should hit you as well so that you can get fixed." Peridot added as she looked at Levin Cloud with glare. She is already getting tired of his dad jokes.

"We passed through with ease and even evaded some of the monsters thanks to Kanlaon's aura, but we have yet to find the location of the beastkin settlement." Adrian stated as he already summoned Sirius and Saena to help him locate a populated settlement.

"I am not wrong in pointing the direction, but I cannot lock onto it as it is faint. It feels as if something is blocking me from fully pinpointing it." Kabrakan stated.

As he tried focusing his senses, he suddenly felt a huge tingle in his spine as the energy that he was faintly sensing suddenly spiked. He immediately pointed to a place that is about 20 degrees from their current path. He definitely felt something there but that also meant something might have happened if he suddenly sensed something that powerful.

"Let us show you what the Church of Light can do when it comes to curses." One of the priests stated as he pulled out a crystal that had angel wings iced inside of it.

In fact, it is not a coincidence that they were recruited for this quest as they were commanded by the servants of the God of Light to assist Nightshade. The angels came down for them and instructed them to help Nightshade in his quest. All of the Church of Light priests in the current expedition team is actually instructed the same but only the two of them survived until here.

"O Great Light Goddess, Luminaria, we beseech thee to aide us in purifying this vile land from the corruption. Send us your messenger to smite the curse on this land." The two priests from the Church of Light shouted as they poured their divine power into the crystal.

The crystal suddenly floated upwards in dazzling light as the crowd are awed. The crystal suddenly exploded into numerous fragments as a humanoid being with wings came out of the gate that the crystal made. A bit far from the crowd, a faint smile could be seen from Chief Artica.

The crowd became speechless as the two priests from the Church of Light actually summoned an Archangel which are the chosen creation of the Goddess of Light. Even the two are surprised as they did not expect that an archangel will appear as they thought only an angel might appear. The two priests from the Church of Light looked at the three priests from the Church of the Twin Gods with smug expressions.

Chapter 958

An Archangel is summoned by the two priests of the Church of Light. They immediately hid their shocked expression with a smug expression in order to brag about what they achieved. From their knowledge, this is the first time that priests from the Church of Light managed to summon a direct messenger of the goddess of light.

"What did you summon me for?" The female archangel asked the two priests of the church of light, but she actually already knew what she needs to do.

"We ask the great messenger of the Goddess of Light Luminaria to dispel the curse that pollutes this land with unstoppable winds." One of the priests stated as he pointed at the numerous tornadoes in the area.

"I am unable to fully dispel the curse polluting this area as I have only received few divine energies from the both of you. I can only create a path for all of you to enter the barrier for a limited time. After that, you must defeat the sorceress that cursed this land." The female archangel stated as she did not bother even telling them her name.

The female archangel did not tell her name as she found the pests below her are not worthy of knowing. She did not directly tell them this, but her condescending look made it easy to spot for those that are great at reading the facial expression of others.

"That would be enough, great archangel." Nightshade stated as he is desperate to enter the area.

"Please help our current benefactor, great messenger." The two priests of the church of light stated simultaneously.

"Clear the way then. I shall use the light of the Goddess to smite the curse temporarily." The female archangel stated as she suddenly collected the light elemental energy in the surroundings.

The female archangel raised her right hand as the light from the surroundings suddenly coalesced on top of her palm. It formed a large orb of light that even stole the surrounding light particles from the area. Her wings also glowed in golden light as she is putting on an act as this is already agreed upon.

"Your Holiness, Pristina. We do not have enough energy to unseal the gates to the Silver City. We need more faith from people, and we are losing it ever since the Church of the Twin Gods got revived. They are even propagating faster because of the free send off for the dead that they are doing." One of the angels reported.

"If that is the case then all we need to do is restore enough faith of the people so that we can convert that into energy to unseal the gates. We already helped unseal the first god slaying weapon. We only need to unseal the last one and start the Apocalypse." Pristina stated as she looked at the possibilities of energy gathering that they can do to the people.

"If we trigger Apocalypse, won't the other gods look at us with great distrust?" One of the angels asked as they are already in a peculiar situation with gods that know of what they are doing. Some gods from their faction even started to drift away from them.

"You do not need to worry as we will be their saviors at the end. My dominion is Faith after all. Once I get enough faith from the people then I will ascend to the last hierarchy and become a Thrones. With a power of a Thrones then unsealing this gate will become easy as blinking." Pristina stated as she could feel that her ascension is near.

"If that is the case then we will help her holiness with everything that we can. The last god slaying weapon is protected in the north by winds, but we cannot carelessly descend. We must orchestrate it so that word spread that we have cleared the corrupted lands there.

I know of the exiled one from the Snow Owl Clan as she covered the power of the divine artifact fragment that her clan is protecting. We can make use of her grudge against her clan and her greed for power as a way to get the pathetic humans to unseal the last god slaying weapon." One of the Principalities ranked angel stated as he vanished to do his plan.

"When the world falls into despair from Apocalypse, we will rise to be the new leaders of the pathetic humans. Their faith will transfer to me as I will save them from despair. Once I become a Thrones, I will be free from this mortal flesh as I will have no need for this pathetic meat sack." Pristina stated as she looked at her current body with disgust.

The archangel gathered as much power that she can to temporarily stop the effects of the Breath of the Wilde. She is already briefed with the plan and only an archangel will have enough power to temporarily stop the winds generated with the artifact fragment. She then threw the huge ball of light towards the tornadoes.

The tornadoes got bathe in a golden glow before dispersing suddenly. The players are overjoyed as they finally saw a path that they can use. The archangel immediately vanished upon doing her job as she did not want to mingle with insects below her.

"See that! We told you that this place is cursed. The archangel we summoned even temporarily blew away the curse." One of the priests of the church of light stated.

"More like she used brute force to pry an entrance. There is not even a trace of curses in this area." The dark elf priest rebuked as one could clearly see that it is not a purifying magic spell but an attack spell of the light element category. The people do not know much about light magic as there are very few that can use it since it is a rare element.

"We should now go as the entrance made is just temporary. I do not care what method is used as long as we see results." Nightshade stated as he led the group inside.

Chapter 959

"Let me help you adventurers as the way to my clan might be tricky. I just hope that the sorceress did not kill all of them when she trapped them inside with her." Chief Artica stated as she helped the group find their way.

"Thank you very much for the assistance, Chief Artica." Nightshade stated as he commanded everyone to follow.

After about twenty minutes of their entry, the tornadoes that were blown away by the angel are once again generated. It might not look like it but the tornadoes that are newly generated seemed to be much fiercer than the ones that are blown away. The group could only sigh with relief but also feel sorry for the expedition members that want to catch up when they revive.

After an hour, Adrian's group finally arrived at the entrance to the settlement of the Snow Owls. They are amazed upon the sight of numerous tornadoes blocking the area. Even Adrian could not teleport to the other side despite him having clear view as the space in front of him is special.

"Any idea on how we can actually traverse that?" Levin Cloud asked as he could see that they will be ripped to shreds. He even threw a metal shield sitting in his inventory to try and they all looked at the metal scraps that is now its new look.

"Even the toughest armor might not be able to survive that. I tried blowing it away with wind magic, but I am not powerful enough to actually disperse them. I could probably disperse one tornado if I focus harder." Peridot stated as she tried to test the tornadoes by sending one of her clay soldiers that ended up as dust.

"I can stop time and carry us to the other side but that would mean that I cannot use it later if an emergency is to happen." Adrian stated as the three looked at him as if he is a rare breed of animal.

"We must not use that then as it might be helpful when you try to stop the last horseman to get unsealed." Kabrakan stated but he suddenly felt something in his inventory resonating with his soul.

Kabrakan then took out a weird looking clay pot from his own inventory. It is none other than the Soil of the Wilde resonating with him. As if the pot is alive and telling him something, Kabrakan immediately touched it. Upon touching the Soil of the Wilde, his armor suddenly started to transform into something else.

[You have unlocked the Terrian Quake Armor due to your connection with the Soil of the Wilde.]

[You can only wear this armor when your feet are on solid ground. You will not be knocked back when wearing this armor.]

[You will also be able to use the earth terrain to your advantage.]

[You can activate the skill Heart of the Earth when wearing this armor.]

Skill Name: Heart of the Earth

Tier: Unique

Type: Defense Buff

Effect:

-Reduces all damage by 95% for the duration of the skill.

-Increases defense by 1000% but reduce speed by 90%.

-Increase health regeneration by 500% while standing on firm ground.

Duration: 10 minutes

Cooldown: 1 day

Mana Cost: None

Cast Time: 10 Seconds

Kabrakan suddenly looked different from his normal heavy armor as he is now covered in something akin to bedrock. Even his towering shields looked different as they are now encrusted with a diamond like substance.

"Heart of the Earth!" Kabrakan stated as he activated the skill that is attached to his newly unlocked armor.

The energy from the ground suddenly flowed towards Kabrakan as if he is sucking all the earth elemental energy in the surroundings. He is also covered in a brown colored aura that made it look like he is incredibly heavy. He is actually incredibly heavy as one stomp from him made the ground shake.

Kabrakan then manipulated this brown colored aura to expand so that it is enough for all of them to be safe from the tornadoes. The group then proceeded forward as they have only ten minutes to fully traverse the terrain in front of them.

The group stepped forward in a slow manner as they needed to match Kabrakan's pace, but they are greeted by a tornado in under one second of their entrance. The tornado did not even touch them as it collided with the brown aura that is basically the Heart of the Earth.

A few meters inside the tornado formations, sets of ten tornadoes are now coming at them with great power. It is so great that Kabrakan could feel that he is starting to get damaged as well as the brown aura is basically his enhanced life force being projected outwards.

If the Heart of the Earth gets shattered, then Kabrakan will also get damaged as a result. If it gets shattered, then the attack that he blocked far surpassed a 1000% of his total defense which is already a great feat. As expected from a power created by a divine artifact fragment. The group slowly traversed the natural disaster blocking them.

"We are already inside but be careful as the area is riddled with illusions meant to make all those that trespass to wander endlessly. If it is still active, then I can say that my people are still alive as it is our mana that powers this illusion." Chief Artica stated.

"It seems that you Snow Owls are privy to yourselves seeing that you do not want outsiders to get inside your territory." Nightshade stated as it is really bad for anyone that cannot see through illusions since they will forever wander in the cold.

"We are after all the guardian of the great weapon, great adventurer. We are guarding it for centuries since it was the request of the hero that wielded it. Unfortunately, none of us has gotten its approval as it is weapon that has consciousness." Chief Artica stated as she provided information about the god slaying weapon without saying what the weapon truly is.

Chapter 960

The four friends managed to get inside the area, but Kabrakan is incredibly damaged. He even got reduced to 26% health when his defense is boosted by 1000%. Levin Cloud healed him back to full as his armor suddenly melted back to the ground as it is no longer needed.

[You have entered an area in the far north. You have resisted due to your special body.]

"The wind is different here." Adrian stated.

"You think?" Levin Cloud stated as he and Kabrakan started shivering.

Adrian had to summon Kanlaon and ordered him to warm up both Levin Cloud and Kabrakan. Peridot could hold out thanks to her draconic body. Kanlaon has already increased his level to 180 now and is about fifteen meters long. It would take some time before he returns to his previous size but the power in his body is already much more than before.

"Much better. Kanlaon is really convenient. I need a mount that can help me like these." Levin Cloud stated as he has yet to find a mount that can help him traverse things.

"I already told you to look for a monster and I will help you with capturing it." Adrian stated.

"It is not that easy." Levin Cloud replied.

"You are just picky." Peridot added.

"I am sorry that I do not have a mount that is a Qilin. If I also have a mythical tier beast, then I might get back to you." Levin Cloud sassily replied.

"We are near. You both need to stop your love quarrel." Kabrakan stated as he led the team to the source of the energy.

"Are we close?" Nightshade asked Chief Artica.

"We are near, but you need to be careful as the sorceress might control my clansmen to protect the great weapon. It is something that can slay her after all." Chief Artica stated.

"So, are you saying that we should not kill them?" Nightshade asked.

"I fear that they might have already been brainwashed to believe that anyone that wants to get acknowledge by the great weapon is an enemy. We should get them out of their misery. They could at least die being valiant warriors believing that they are fighting for something." Chief Artica stated.

"Noted then." Nightshade agreed albeit a bit doubtful that Chief Artica wanted to kill the warriors instead of capturing them.

The expedition team then reached the area of the sealed god slaying weapon. The church of light priest players kept saying that the area is cursed but the priests of the church of the twin gods could not negate it. The others always doubted the priest players from the church of the twin gods because they were not able to give them a path inside.

The expedition team soon came to an area with a large cave in front of them. Just as they are about to go forward, numerous white feathers suddenly are fired in front of them. Each white feather is sharp to the point that they got buried in the ground despite it being covered in thick snow.

"Stop!" A voice suddenly echoed in the distance as five humanoid shadows suddenly came out of the icy forest around them.

The five persons that came out of the icy forest are none other than snow owl beast men. They are the proud warriors of the clan and almost look the same. The snow owl beast men have feathers as hair that are a combined white and black streak. All of their eyes have yellow sclera and black pupils with a sharp looking gaze.

"Turn back now adventurers or else face the wrath of the Snow Owl Clan." One of the snow owl beast man warriors stated as he seemed to be the leader of the group.

"I have come to get the acknowledgement of the great weapon. Please grant me passage warriors." Nightshade stated as he thought that he can ask for permission.

"There are no great weapons here that you speak. Only the cursed weapon is held here and should not be unsealed, or else doom will fall upon the world." One of the snow owl beast man warriors stated.

"Are you sure about them being possessed, Chief Artica?" Nightshade asked but the woman suddenly vanished from his side.

"Should we even bother? We should just push through now." One of the mercenary players stated as his class is a warrior. He is already itching for a battle since they mostly traversed terrain.

"Go then. I will go dive inside the cave while all of you will fight them. You can just contain them as defeating them will not be easy." Nightshade stated as he suddenly turned into a streak of shadows and headed inside the cave.

The snow owl beast men wanted to stop Nightshade as they could feel his presence enter the cave, but they are suddenly attacked by the mercenaries. The mercenaries are aiming for the bonus that they will receive if Nightshade successfully gets the weapon. If Nightshade gets the weapon, then they will receive twice the payment that they are promised.

The fighting started and no one noticed a small snow owl fly towards the cave as well. This owl is one other than Artica that used magic on herself to hide her presence. Nightshade managed to enter the cave with the help of the mercenaries and reverted back to his humanoid form.

"Great Adventurer!" Chief Artica suddenly called out.

"You almost shocked me to death. Where were you before?" Nightshade asked as he saw the figure of Artica materialize out of thin air.

"I am sorry about that as I needed to hide my presence or else the sorceress might know that it was me who led you inside." Chief Artica stated in an apologetic tone.

"No need to apologize as I understand but make sure to tell me that beforehand. Is that the weapon?" Nightshade asked as he pointed towards a scythe floating in the distance. It is releasing an ominous energy that makes everyone bow down to it.

"Yes! That is the weapon, but you need to be careful as the sorceress created a spell that expels any person that gets near it. We must first find the artifact that the sorceress used to create the wind barrier in this cave." Chief Artica stated.

"I see. Do you have an idea on what that artifact is?" Nightshade asked as he also tried going forward in his shadow form, but he got pushed by a strong gust of wind.

"The artifact is not a tangible one as it is the very wind covering the great weapon. You need to help me reach that so I can dispel it. With your power to use shadows, you might be able to send me to the area. It might take a bit more effort so please make sure to use all that you can." Chief Artica stated.

Nightshade thought the proposal is a bit absurd, but he is the one that will get the weapon in the end. He could already feel the ego calling for him as he is enthralled by the aura that the weapon is emitting. It has definitely been used by the greatest assassin in the past as the bloodlust contained in the weapon is great.

"I am ready. I can use the shadows to propel you and even block the winds, but you also need to use your spells to push through. It will take the both of us to reach that as my shadows lose strength the farther that they are from me." Nightshade stated.

"Do not worry, great adventurer! I will do my best to make sure that my clan will be freed from the suffering of the sorceress. Once I get the artifact, they can freely leave this place as I will dispel whatever spell that is affecting them." Chief Artica stated.

Nightshade agreed with her but deep down he is feeling a sense of doubt. The doubt is small before as she was the first one that approached them as if she already knew what they wanted. His doubt grew bigger when she vanished as her clansmen appeared before them.

"I should no longer doubt it now. The weapon is in front of me. My ticket to become the new rank one scout player is already in front of me. I just need to focus on the present and I will get to reach my goal." Nightshade told himself to ease the sense of doubt that he is feeling.

"It seems that we have arrived too late. The expedition team is already fighting against the snow owl warriors." Adrian stated.

"I actually am very surprised that they are faring well as those NPCs are at the level range of 250 to 270. It is already a miracle that they can fight them despite their low numbers." Kabrakan stated as he knew that beastkin are powerful.
