

Oasis 185

Lord of the Oasis

Chapter 185: All Forces of the System

[ Ding... system prompt ]

[ Council hall can be built here. New village can be built here. ]

As Kant approached the final location of the route, the system immediately popped up a dialog box and displayed it on his retina.

The route that the system had instructed disappeared.

This proved that Kant's second village could be built here.

However, he was not in a hurry to build the council hall.

The ruins at the peak of the mountain were still in an unknown status. Kant needed to complete the system quest to explore the ruins and make sure that there was no danger before he could set up the council hall without worry.

After all, this was Kant's second stronghold.

He had to be careful.

Kant held his knight sword and slowly walked to the stone statue. The huge stones that were once used for construction had all collapsed and sunk into the soil at mountain peak. Only this stone statue was still half-exposed in the soil, it raised the circular plates in its hands and was covered in shrubs and vines. It seemed like a decadent garden art.

Kant raised his eyebrows slightly.

Kant had already noticed the huge size of these stones and stone statues.

The part of the stone that exposed from the soil was only a dozen centimeters shorter than his height of 1.8 meters.

This was not including the part beneath the soil layer.

There was also this other stone statue.

The waist part of the stone statue was exposed from the soil. It was four meters tall and wore an ancient-style armor.

The stone plate with radial-shaped edges was held high in its hands. Due to the collapse, its angle was slanted. Kant could just see the center of the stone plate, which was about two meters in diameter, with a golden disc embedded in it.

Kant was very familiar with it.

He had once obtained the same model, which represented the ruins of the lost city.

The Sun Disc!

It was still located at the top of the clock tower of the Oasis Lookout. During the day, it absorbed the heat from the Sun, and at night, it released the heat from the Sun. It balanced the temperature within a 500-meter radius, giving people a comfortable and livable feeling.

At this moment, the system dialog box suddenly popped up on his retina.

[ Ding... Special quest issued ]

[ Special quest: Familiar strange object ]

[ Reward: 5 honor points ]

[ Introduction: You have found a strange object that looked familiar. It still gives off a mysterious special energy. This energy is helpful for the system to analyze the rules of this world. Would you like to let the system absorb it? ]

[ Remark: After the system absorbs it, it will power up. ]

[ Yes/No, let the system absorb the item? ]

Special quest.

Kant raised his head subconsciously and looked at the sun disk that was made of gold on the stone plate.

He did not hesitate at all.

“Absorb!”

This was the system’s requirement, Kant would not hinder it.

Moreover, they had been together for so long, how could Kant not understand the system’s nature.

Even if the system absorbed this strange item, it would definitely be picked out in a side quest or a system lottery. Moreover, after the sun disc had been analyzed by the system, he could easily use it by using his mind alone.

For example, the [ Page of Clear Spring ] and [ Page of Fertile Soil ] were two such items.

Most importantly, there were still those 5 honor points. This represented the system mall’s lottery. Even though there was definitely a sun disc in it, the other four gift packs were all picked up for free. Why would Kant hesitate?

He would not hesitate!

The system’s data flowed out and circulated on his palm.

He looked up at the tilted stone statue.

Kant understood that the system had told him to go up and place his palm on the sun disk.

He waved his knight sword and cut off the branches of the shrubs and vines. He immediately jumped onto the body of the stone statue like a cheetah and quickly climbed to the top of both hands. His leather boots stepped on the chest of the stone statue that was covered in dust and mud, then he took another step on the head of the stone statue that was covered in moss. His left hand that was filled with data flow and he directly imprinted it onto the Sun Disc.

“Hum –”

A faint spatial fluctuation instantly started to flicker. Some mysterious power seemed to have been activated.

On the golden sun disc, the mysterious sacred sun pattern instantly exploded with balls of golden light. Kant was at the top of the stone statue, and felt like he was standing under the scorching noon sun. The heat wave started to sweep over, and it actually felt hotter and hotter, it was as uncomfortable as being in an oven.

However, this high temperature instantly disappeared along with the spread of the data flow in his left hand. As the faint mountain wind blew, it was still the usual climate of the cool Senwaya Range.

It was like the heat wave just now was an illusion of his perception.

However, when Kant opened his eyes again.

The sun disc that originally existed in the stone disc had been completely devoured by the data chain that flowed out from the system. There was no trace of it, not even a bit of gold was left. There was only a two-centimeter inlaid pit, indicating that it was once at the center of the stone disc, there was an object with a diameter of about 1.5 meters embedded in it.

Kant understood that the sun disk had been absorbed by the system.

But at this moment.

The stone statue under his feet suddenly shook. Even the huge rocks around it that had collapsed with a certain rhythm to them, along with some mysterious fluctuations in space.

“Not good, is there an earthquake?”

This bad thought appeared in Kant’s mind, and he immediately jumped off the stone statue.

Just as his two feet touched the ground.

That mysterious trembling and fluctuation was instantly stimulated. In Kant’s eyes, the huge stone with the clear sacred sun pattern and the exquisitely carved stone statue beside him seemed to have been turned into powder. It was like these stones and statue had been through thousands of years in just a few breathes, and eventually turned into powder. Even the stone slabs under his feet were mixed with the soil on the ground. As the mountain wind blew, the magnificent and mysterious ruins on the peak of the mountain disappeared.

It was like a breeze blowing past, never to be seen again.

Only a little stone powder and soil were left on the ground.

There were also strange-looking vines and bushes lying on the ground because they had lost their support.

“My Lord!”

The remaining seven Sarrandian horsemen rushed over quickly.

They looked at the flat and empty peak with shock and doubt in their eyes. They clenched the scimitars in their hands tightly, clearly not understanding what had happened here.

The majestic ruins just a moment ago had actually vanished without a trace in the blink of an eye.

They definitely could not maintain their composure.

“Relax, there isn’t any danger. Just remain cautious.”

Kant’s face was calm.

He continued to instruct the seven Sarrandian horsemen, “After cleaning up the battlefield, inspect this mountain peak. After confirming that there isn’t any danger, stand by and watch the surroundings.”

“Yes, my Lord!”

The seven Sarrandian horsemen nodded and quickly dispersed to follow the order to check the mountain peak.

There were thousands of acres of flat land on the mountain peak.

Although it was overgrown with weeds, shrubs, and a lot of woodland, it was definitely flat land. Not to mention building a village, these thousands of acres of land were more than enough for farming.

A mysterious and perfect mountain flat land.

In front of Kant’s eyes.

A dialog box popped up on his retina again.

[ Ding... After your tireless efforts, the side quest has been completed. ]

[ Side side quest: “Exploring the ruins” has been completed. ]

[ Reward: Building transfer card (able to change the location of a building)]

[ Introduction: During your exploration of the ruins, you discovered a mysterious strange object. What a pleasant surprise. You look at the flat land around you with full confidence and feel that there is something you can do with it. ]

A golden card appeared in his mind.

Kant raised his eyebrows slightly and smiled, “Construction transfer card? Not Bad.”

He scanned through the introduction of the card.

Kant understood.

This construction transfer card could transform any building that had been built into a construction card and move it to another area for construction. Of course, the prerequisite was that it had to be moved within the sphere of influence of the council hall.

The [ Ranger camp ] was the best transfer building.

With the [ Vaegirs Shooting Range ] , 'Drondheim' had wasted resources on the recruitment of the long-range troop class. Kant did not need to recruit a large number of archers in this Oasis Lookout fortress, he did not need two different archers. This was undoubtedly a conflict.

However, the new village in the Senwaya Range definitely needed long-range archers who were good at mountain battles.

These were the Ravenstern wardens!

From the literal meaning, it could be seen that the wardens themselves were excellent archers in the mountain and forest areas. Their strength can be fully seen by the time they in charge of killing those barbarians in the Misty Mountain!

"Now, it's time to build the village."

Kant took a deep breath.

He communicated with the mind communication system and said in a deep voice, "System, build the council hall here."

In his mind, the card representing the council hall instantly appeared.

Some faint golden ray condensed. At the densest moment, it instantly turned into a golden light. If one looked carefully, they would find that it was the subtle data stream.

[ Ding... system prompt ]

[ Detected that there is already a council hall. The force is the Kingdom of Swadia. Its level is fortress-level. ]

[ This time, the construction of the council hall will be chosen along with random forces. The level will be village-level. ]

[ Yes/No? ]

"Yes.", Kant made his choice. The system had already warned him about this.

The system dialog box instantly refreshed.

A new prompt box appeared.

[ Ding... system prompt ]

[ Random selection of forces. Please pause at will. ]

On the retina before his eyes, the dialog box directly turned into a disk. Countless names of forces appeared densely on it. Although he was relatively small, as Kant swept through it, he could vaguely see many familiar names.

Kingdom of Swadia, Kingdom of Rhodoks, Kingdom of Nords, Kingdom of Vaegirs, Kingdom of Sarrand Sultanate. Kingdom of Sarleon, Kingdom of Ravenstern, Kingdom of Fierdsvain, Dasha Tribe, Imperial Expeditionary Force, Jatu Tribe, Noldor elven force. Even the Great Ming Empire, Jurchen of Manchu, Mongolian golden family, Great Han Empire, Hunnic Empire, Oda Nobunaga, Nagao Kagetora, countries of Southern Europe, Northern Europe, Eastern Europe, and even the Middle East.

All ages, all regions, all kinds of formal history or alternate history, or fantasy world.

All existed on this disc.

This was the forces that contained in all of the MODs from the entire "Mount and Blade" series!

Kant took a deep breath.

The disc was spinning.

The name of the forces on it was no longer clear.

He was calm.

"Stop."

Following his words, the disc came to an abrupt stop.

The red pointer was aimed at the name of a certain force on the disc.

[ Ding... system prompt ]

[ Congratulations on obtaining... ]

Lord of the Oasis

Chapter 186: Aaron Village of Rhodok

[ Ding... system prompt ]

[ Congratulations on obtaining the Kingdom of Rhodoks' Council Hall ]

The system dialog box appeared on his retina.

Kant was slightly stunned.

Who would've known that it was the Council Hall of the Kingdom of Rhodoks.

This was the Kingdom of brown bears, which was built in the southwest mountains of the continent of Caradia.

Kant watched as the council hall in his retina reassembled into a card. However, on the golden pattern of the card, a burly and majestic brown bear flag appeared. The corners of his mouth could not help but curl into a bitter smile.

This was expected.

But it was also unexpected.

The system gave the location of the village in the Senwaya Range, and Kant guessed that it was probably a mountain country.

He quickly estimated the result.

The Kingdom of Rhodoks, the Kingdom of Ravenston, the kingdom of dwarf humans, and the Kingdom of forest elves.

Of course.

The last two non-human forces were a little far away.

However, the Kingdom of Rhodoks and the Kingdom of Ravenston were probably the strongest according to Kant's estimations.

After all, the Kingdom of Rhodoks was the original one.

In terms of kinship, they could even contact the kingdom of Swadia.

After all, these two countries were of the same species. It was their contrasting living environments that caused them to split, and the split didn't even last long. It was during the term of the current king of Swadia, Haraus, the kingdom of Rhodoks was exploited and taxed due to the King's obsession with tributes and negligence of protocol, that resulted in the appearance of the Kingdom of Rhodoks.

"But it's good."

Kant nodded, and his expression returned calm.

There were only two ways to level up in the Kingdom of Rhodoks.

Close combat.

Their defense was astonishing, and their close combat was second only to the Kingdom of Nords' Luo duke.

Long-range.

The Rhodoks, who were said to be the strongest snipers, held a city-breaking crossbow in his hand, and could pierce through steel shields with a single arrow.

It was a military structure that was specially matched with the mountainous terrain.

Even the Swadian Knight, who was invincible on the plains, and the Mamluke, who was invincible in the desert, were not a match for the kingdom of Rhodoks in the mountainous region.

As long as the troops of the Kingdom of Rhodoks formed a dense formation, borrowing the advantage of the steep mountain terrain, and under the protection of the infantrymen armed with heavy shields and wearing heavy chain armor, allowing the snipers of the kingdom of rhodoks armed with siege crossbows to fire as much as they wanted, even the unrivalled guards of the Nord royal family would suffer in this complex mountain terrain.

They were the undisputed overlords of the mountain region.

Although they did not have cavalry.

However, the mountain region, which was undulating and densely covered with forests, did not need cavalry to defend.

Kant led 30 sarrandian horseman into the Senwaya range. These assault cavalry, who were originally invincible in the Sarrandian desert, suffered heavy losses because they left their warhorse, which they were best at, and used unfamiliar foot combat to face the enemy. 30 people were easily slaughtered by the ferocious demonic lion. In the end, there were only 7 people left.

If there were 30 corresponding level-4 infantrymen.

For example, the Swadian Infantry would definitely not have won so miserably.

This was because of the characteristics of the troop class.

Sarrandian horseman were good at charging in the desert. They were an extremely mobile cavalry. Coming to the mountain area was equivalent to giving up their best mobility and not charging on horseback. Instead, they became a weak force in close combat.

Now Kant had the Council Hall of the Kingdom of Rhodoks.

To be able to recruit this elite mountain battle force with the brown bear as its banner.

He would be completely unafraid of the complex terrain of the Senwaya Mountains.

For example, according to Kant's understanding, the level 4 infantrymen of Rhodoks were veteran lance wielders. They wore heavy chain armor with excellent defense profile, carried a broad shield with stronger defensive effects, and held armor-piercing, one-handed military hammers that could be used to blunt and stab. They also held, with two hands, long-hilted broadswords that was more than two meters long, and their attack was extremely powerful.

And even among those of the same level.

Among the level 4 infantrymen.

The veteran spear-bearers of Rhodoks was the strongest!

The same level of Swadian Infantry, Wei Jiya Infantry, Nord warriors, and Salander infantry would all be chopped down by these level 4 infantrymen of the Kingdom of Rhodoks. The veteran spear-bearers of Rhodoks, with the long-hilted broadsword in their hands, would definitely make people scurry like rats, unable to stand against them.

Although they were spear-wielders, these infantry soldiers used extremely powerful long-hilted broadswords.

The kind that could even shatter light shields!

And it wasn't just the infantry.

The marksmen were also astonishingly fierce.

Being a long-range troop class that also used crossbowmen, Swadian used a light crossbow, a Level 4 crossbow, and a level 5 sniper heavy crossbow.

In the long-range troop class of the Kingdom of Rhodoks, a Level 2 crossbow was a light crossbow, a level 3 skilled crossbow was a crossbow, a level 4 veteran crossbow was a heavy crossbow used by a level 5 troop class of Swadian sniper, and a level 5 Rhodoks sniper used the strongest mass-produced heavy crossbow in the entire continent of Caradia — the siege crossbow.

Just by looking at the literal meaning of the name, one could tell.

How powerful was the siege crossbow? It had already far surpassed the heavy crossbow; its power to destruct reaching a terrifying degree!

Within 50 meters, it could directly pierce through the steel shield with the strongest defense.

Within 150 meters, it could pierce through the chain armor, causing fatal injuries to the flesh within.

Within the limit of 300 meters, it could still pierce the armored-scale armor.

This explained why the heavy armored cavalry of the Kingdom of Swadia was invincible in the plains, traversing the grasslands, snowfields, deserts, and coastal areas. As long as it was a flat area, they could crush the enemy.

However, it was in the Rhodoks Mountain area.

They could not do anything to these mountain people who did not even have cavalry.

However, in this world.

A foreign world with Kant as the main body.

The appearance of the Kingdom of Rhodoks allowed Kant's forces to enter the Senwaya range. With the help of powerful infantrymen and powerful long-range archers, they were like a nail, firmly nailed into this mountain range.

Although he was more fond of the Kingdom of Ravenston.

But he didn't reject the kingdom of Rhodoks.

After all, although the troop class of the Kingdom of Rhodoks was complete, and the four routes of close-combat infantrymen, close-combat cavalry, long-range archers, and long-range archers were all full, and the time needed to level up was also much longer. Moreover, in the Senwaya range, which had an extremely complex terrain, the only two types that could be relied on were close combat infantrymen and long-range archers.

After all, the Senwaya range was just a mountain range.

Unlike the Kingdom of Rhodoks, which had the majestic Misty Mountains and the slopes of the snowy plains that were suitable for cavalry to gallop on, there were still some differences between the two.

The Kingdom of Rhodoks that had been drawn this time was just right for the Senwaya range, which was all mountainous regions.

Not to mention the most important point.

The strongest archer system of the Ravenston Kingdom had already appeared within Kant's forces.

The [ Ranger Camp ] was an example.

As long as the rank 4 troop class, the Ravenston Ranger, level up to the rank 5 troop class, the archery skills that had once terrified the barbarian tribes in the Misty Mountains would reappear within the Senwaya Range. This was also the reason why Kant did not regret losing the force of the Ravenston Kingdom.

Rhodoks soldiers and Rhodoks snipers had completely made up for the lack of close combat troops in the Ravensdon Kingdom, as well as the fact that it was difficult to deal damage to the enemy's heavy-armored troops in a short period of time.

After all, although it was easy for the Ravensdon Kingdom to slaughter the barbarian tribes in the Misty Mountains...

In the face of the Feldspar kingdom, the kingdom of Sarion, and the Empire's expeditionary army, they were completely at a disadvantage.

The reason was that the Ravenston Kingdom's troop class had sufficient output.

However, they lacked the ability to withstand attacks from the enemy.

Now, the combination of the best parts of the two could be considered as complementing each other. After all, although the Kingdom of Rhodoks' troops had strong defense and sufficient power of long-range shooting, the efficiency of long-range continuous damage was extremely low. Compared to the title of Vaegir Marksman's rapid-fire machine gun, Rhodoks' sniping was very vivid.

Kant's lips curled up slightly. "Construct the Council Hall."

Data streams flashed in front of his eyes, and the Council Hall of the Kingdom of Rhodoks in his mind instantly turned into golden powder with his voice. Kant's thoughts materialized in this world.

The stream of data spread, condensing into a data chain that swept through the center of the mountain peak in front of him.

A foundation made of stone appeared.

A floor made of neat stones, walls and roofs made of wood appeared.

The council hall was about 500 square meters.

It had two floors.

It was a villa that was still made of stone and wood.

At the same time, there was a small chimney extending out from the top, and green smoke was rising. It seemed that there were even people living in this council hall that had just materialized in this world.

A dialog box popped up on his retina.

[ ding... Your village has been established. Please name it. ]

Kant's expression was calm.

He lowered his head slightly in thought and directly said to the system, "Name it Aaron."

Aaron was the most famous city in the Kingdom of Rhodoks. The entire continent of Caradia was known as the most inland city with the most complicated environment. It was the most troublesome city to conquer. Even after the capital fell, he could use the complex mountain terrain near Aaron to defend the local area and plan a comeback.

Kant named this village Aaron and planned to use it as a strategic town.

[ ding... Village name: Aaron ]

The village was officially named.

The dialog box on the retina refreshed.

The village interface of "Aaron" also appeared on the retina.

[ Aaron ]

[ Lord: Kant ]

[ Type: Rhodoks village ]

[ Topulation: 50]

[ Troops: 10]

[ Tonstructions available: Council Hall ]

[ Constructions available: house, city wall, mill, Watchtower, well ]

[ Current forces: Rhodoks (10)]

[ Recruitable: Rhodoks (Council Hall)]

[ Comment: this unremarkable village is called "Aaron". It is located at the edge of the mountain range. There is no need to describe it too much. It is enough to know that its future is concerning. ]

Kant scanned the village interface.

He could not help but smile bitterly. It was indeed as the system's introduction had said, the future was concerning.

The entire village was too simple and crude.

It was just like back in the Oasis Lookout, when 'Dronnheim' had just been established.

But now was not the past.

Back then, Kant had to fight to the death in exchange for the prosperity of the current 'Dronnheim'.

Now, Kant wouldn't need to fight with all his might again for Aaron. He only needed to mobilize part of the garrison of the Oasis Lookout, the fort of Dronnheim, and quickly build up the defense system.

At the same time, more than 100,000 denar also added to his confidence to build up Aaron!

Kant was no longer the same as before!