Chapter 581: The Heavy Cavalries of Lion Fort

War Domain: In the domain, the morale of soldiers increased, and their strength was increased by 100%. They are eager to fight.

Divine Domain: Any injury in the domain could be healed by 100% faster recovery speed.

Bright Red Movement: Passive special effect. On the battlefield, within a kilometer of the wearer, the wearer's soldiers were encouraged, and their overall strength was increased by 50%! At the same time, the morale would increase steadily as they stay on the battlefield. Eventually, they would reach the highest morale and have nothing to fear. Even if they were at an extreme disadvantage, they could fight until they are completely wiped out without even flinching.

The above three large-scale domain-type skills directly increased the strength of Kant's soldiers by 150%. Moreover, the morale would increase very quickly and will soon rise to the highest morale. At that time, Kant's soldiers would be like lions and tigers hunting sheep. They would be indomitable and incomparably brave. No matter how bad the situation was, they would be able to burst out with the strongest combat strength.

In fact, there was still a special effect that Kant had not used on the cloak of "Glorious Bright Red Movement." That was the first special effect, "Blood Thirst." This special effect was also very powerful.

Blood Thirst: Active special effect. On the battlefield, within a range of 1,000 meters from the wearer, the generals entered bloodthirsty mode and their attack strength increased by 100%! Their defense strength decreased by 30%!

If this special effect was activated at the same time, the strength of the soldiers under Kant could be increased by another level. However, this special effect was a double-edged sword. While increasing the attack strength, it would also reduce the defense of the soldiers. Kant felt that after three layers of domain buff, the soldiers' attack strength was already enough or even exceeded the need. There was no need to sacrifice their defense to continue increasing their attack strength.

After all, when a lion or tiger hunt, they only needed to ensure that their claws and teeth were sharp enough to cut through the fur and skin of their prey. Similar to this principle, the soldiers' attack strength only needed to be strong enough to penetrate the enemy's defense. It would be a waste. to overkill the enemy with excessive strength. On the contrary, it might reduce the soldiers' ability to continue fighting.

In the end, Kant's three domain buff stimulated the soldiers' bodies and wills. All the consumption would also be borne by the soldiers themselves. However, in an intense battlefield, if the opponent was strong, then it was necessary to have enough strength and a high morale. Otherwise, it was better to die because of lack of strength than to die because of exhaustion because of the increase in combat power.

Everything was ready. Kant did not hesitate and immediately ordered 1,000 Swadian Royal Knights and 1,000 Sarleon Lion Knights to charge. At the same time, Kant ordered 2,400 archers and 1,000 mages of Enfath Empire, a total of 5,000 infantry and long-range troop class, to slowly and follow up.

With five goshawks circling in the sky, the strength of Lion Fort was in Kant's eyes. In Kant's opinion, the opponent's strength outside of Lion Fort was too weak to withstand a single blow from his side.

Five thousand heavy cavalries at the official knight level, together with 500 heavy cavalries at the grand knight level, absolutely could not pose too much of a threat to his two thousand level six cavalries whose strength had been enhanced by three layers of domains.

Kant himself was also among the 2,000 knights. He needed to activate the domains for them to enhance their combat strength. He wanted them to use their absolute strength to destroy the enemy quickly and then let them fight against the five world barons with him.

Although Kant had come here to attack the Lion Fort, he had no intention of letting go of the Crown of Darkness that could emit a deep and pure dark aura. That thing was obviously in the hands of the five world nobles, if he wanted to get that crown, he would have to fight fiercely with the five world nobles. He would not believe that the five world nobles would give up the extraordinary Crown of Darkness unconditionally.

Therefore, even if it was just an ordinary battle, Kant would not forget the five world nobles. Moreover, the five of them were standing on the tower above the gate of Lion Fort to watch the battle.

Thud, thud, thud, thud!

The 2000 level 6 knights were divided into 20 rows. Each row had 100 level 6 knights. Among them, the Swadian Knight and the Sarleon Lion Knight were arranged in every rows. With Kant's order, the 2,000 level 6 knights urged their horses and began to accelerate. Their target was the 5,500 enemy heavy cavalry soldiers who had yet to start their charge.

The 2,000 level 6 soldiers were extremely powerful. Their auras were linked together as they crazily pounced on the 5,500 heavy cavalry soldiers of Lion Fort. They also pounced on the five world nobles who were watching the battle on the city tower. Just the aura of the 2,000 level 6 knights made the six world nobles' faces turn extremely solemn.

"Baron Kant's soldiers are much more powerful than we imagined!" A world noble said with a heavy tone.

"Their aura is so strong that it can topple mountains and overturn seas. Even if the five of us work together, we won't be able to fight against them!" another world noble sensed the aura of the 2,000 level 6 troop class. These level 6 knights were actually able to directly suppress their own auras to the point that they couldn't expand their aura. They looked at Baron Kant with a look of extreme shock.

"I always thought that we had overestimated Baron Kant, but when it was time for us to fight, we realized that we still underestimated him. Although his grand knight-level soldiers don't have black armor equipment, the feeling they give me is that each of them isn't inferior to a black armored knight. In fact... they are even stronger." another world noble said, his tone was extremely solemn.

"No need to worry! Everything is within our expectations!" Baron. Ryan. Isai. Cameron said in a cold and hard voice. His eyes were filled with fanaticism when he looked at Kant. It was as if Kant was a perfect piece of work. Because the way he looked at Kant was not the way he looked at humans. After a moment, Baron. Ryan. Isai. Cameron said, "Prepare yourselves!"

After saying that, Baron. Ryan. Isai. Cameron went down the city tower and went into Lion Fort. The other four world barons looked at each other, their eyes full of solemnity. The strength of Kant's army was far beyond their expectations.

At this time, Kant's army did not have any black armor made of abyssal magic iron. They were already so powerful. If Baron Kant really stood firm in his own demiplane fief, if he obtained abyssal magic iron from the month of calamity, then how powerful could Baron Kant's army be?

Lord of the Oasis

Chapter 582: An Ominous Premonition

The four world barons were extremely fearful of Baron Kant's strength. This strength naturally referred to Baron Kant's own strength and the strength of his army. The strength of a noble did not refer to the strength of an individual only. However, the more fearful they were, the more determined the killing intent in the four noble's eyes became.

They had already plotted against Baron Kant several times, and they were determined to take Baron Kant's life. Coincidentally, these plots had already been seen through by Baron Kant. Therefore, there was no possibility for them to reconcile with Baron Kant. They could only kill each other until one of them died. The world noble was different from the ordinary noble. It was difficult to resolve such a huge enmity with benefits.

This was because for the world noble who had immense power, they only cared about their own life and their own power. Benefits had also become a foil to their power. As long as they were not killed, the world noble could live on like a god for a long time. However, the price of their long live was that they had to go through a month of calamity once a year. Therefore, there were not many world nobles who could truly live forever like a god.

Because of this, even though they clearly had the power and lifespan to live forever, they always had to face an extremely intense life-and-death crisis. This made the world noble attach great importance to their own lives and safety. The five world nobles had plotted several times to take Baron Kant's life. They had very deep hatred towards Kant. If Baron Kant did not die, he would use the lives of the five world barons to wash away the hatred they had for Baron Kant.

It was precisely because of this that the five world barons, including Baron Ryan Cameron, had no way to retreat when they faced Baron Kant. It was either Kant die or them!

This time, if the five of them could not kill Baron Kant, then they would no longer be stingy with the power in their demiplane fiefdom. They would certainly mobilize a powerful army from the fiefdom and demiplane to kill Baron Kant.

With the determination to kill Baron Kant, the four world barons also went down the city tower and headed toward the Lion Fort. Their equipment and warhorse were all stored in the Lion Fort. At this time, the four of them had already decided that they would rather not take twenty kilograms of abyssal magic iron from Baron Cameron and kill Baron Kant to avoid future trouble.

Baron Kant, who was extremely powerful in both his individual strength and his military strength, was only now truly valued by the four world nobles from the bottom of their hearts. Although they had mentioned Baron Kant's strength in various ways, they still regarded Baron Kant as a fish on the chopping block that they could slaughter at will. The key was their willingness to pay a little price in order to kill Kant. Previously, they were not willing to pay a little price. From this aspect, it could be seen that their true attitude towards Kant was actually contempt.

Before Lion Fort, Kant had led 1,000 Swadian Royal Knight and 1,000 Sarleon Lion Knights to launch a charge. Meanwhile, 5,000 infantries followed behind the cavalries slowly and orderly. Once the cavalries at the front engaged, the infantries at the rear could quickly catch up and provide powerful support to the allies at the front.

"Kill! For His Highness Kant! Kill! For the Caradia Empire!"

With an imposing manner that soared to the sky, 1,000 Swadian Royal Knights and Sarleon Lion Knights shouted earth-shattering slogans. They charged forward like a golden and red intersecting torrent, they charged towards the 5,500 heavy cavalry soldiers of Lion Fort who were still standing motionless.

When the two armies were only 500 meters away from each other, the Swadian Royal Knights and the Sarleon Lion Knights had already fully entered their charging posture. It seemed that they would charge towards the heavy cavalry soldiers of the Lion Fort in a short while.

Kant looked at the 5,500 heavy cavalry soldiers who were almost motionless on the opposite side. A hint of doubt and an ominous premonition appeared in his heart.

As the saying goes, when things go wrong, there must be something fishy. Even if the overall strength of these 5,500 heavy cavalry troops was far inferior to the 1,000 Swadian Royal Knights and 1,000 Sarleon Lion Knights under Kant, whose strength had been greatly enhanced by the three domains, however, they should not just stand still and wait for Kant's knights to charge.

Heavy cavalries, no matter what level they were, only when they entered the charging posture could they unleash their full power. Among the 5,500 heavy cavalries, not only were there 500 black armored knights whose aura was only slightly weaker than the Swadian Royal Knights and the Sarleon Lion Knights, the other 5,000 heavy cavalries also had the individual strength of an official knight or above, it was equivalent to Kant's level 4 heavy cavalry.

They had advantage in number of soldiers. If they were to clash with Kant's knights, there was a high probability of failure, but it would definitely cause significant losses to Kant's two cavalry legions. At the beginning, the distance between the two armies was enough for them to enter the charging posture together and engage in a clash. Kant had also made such preparations.

But now, even if the 5,500 heavy cavalry soldiers belonging of Lion Fort started to move, they would not have enough distance to enter the charging posture. They would not be able to cause any significant losses to Kant's knights.

Kant was puzzled about this point. He was very clear that the current heavy cavalry troops of the Lion Fort were under the command of Viscount Carl Cameron. This was indeed in accordance with Kant's intentions. Previously, Kant had let Viscount Carl Cameron and the other four top-level earls go because he wanted them to become the commander during the fight.

Although Kant's goal of letting Viscount Carl Cameron become the enemy commander had been achieved, Kant did not think that Viscount Carl Cameron was so stupid. Setting up the cavalry in sparse shapes suitable for charging and then waiting for the enemy's heavy cavalry to charge like infantry?

This was not funny at all!

Therefore, the closer he got to the enemy's heavy cavalry corps, the heavier Kant's heart became, and the bad premonition grew stronger.

Kant did not know much about Viscount Carl Cameron, even though Viscount Carl Cameron was his half-brother in name. He had seen Viscount Carl Cameron train the army through the goshawk, Kant knew that Viscount Carl Cameron might not have enough experience in war, but he definitely knew about the army and knowledge about war.

Such a person seemed to have made the most muddle-headed decision at this time. He used the cavalry as infantrymen and even formed a sparse formation to welcome the charge of Kant's powerful cavalry.

Chapter 583: The Curse Stone

This was really out of place. Kant felt that the ominous feeling in his heart was getting stronger and stronger. He even wanted to call off his 2,000 level 6 knights who were charging forward. However, the heavy cavalries who had entered the charging posture could not be stopped anymore. If they were to stop now, the consequences would be bad. Therefore, Kant could only continue to run forward with the Swadian Royal Knights and the Sarleon Lion Knights.

Soon, Kant led 2,000 level 6 knights and approached the 5,500 heavy cavalries of the Lion Fort. They were only 300 meters away.

It looked like a massacre was about to happen.

At this moment, Viscount Carl Cameron, who was riding on a warhorse at the back of the troop, suddenly summoned his extraordinary power and shouted, "Let's move! Now!"

At this time, the 5,000 heavy cavalry soldiers of the Lion Fort took out a fist-sized gray stone from the bag hanging on the warhorse.

Kant's pupils suddenly constricted. He had a bad premonition.

"What is that gray stone?" Kant thought. At the same time, he carefully observed the gray stone in the hands of the heavy cavalry soldiers and found that there were some complicated patterns carved on the stones, there seemed to be gray energy flowing within them.

"Curse stones, attack!" Just as Kant was carefully observing those gray stones, Viscount Carl Cameron, who was behind the heavy cavalries, suddenly shouted again. He issued an order to the 5,000 heavy cavalry troops whose individual strength was at the knight level.

As Viscount Carl Cameron gave the order, the 5,000 heavy cavalry soldiers immediately took action. They threw the gray fist-sized curse stone in their hands at Kant's troop that was rapidly approaching them. It seemed that they had been waiting for this moment. They were even willing to endure the charge of Kant's 2,000 level 6 knights. No matter what, Kant could not give the order to stop the charge at this moment, therefore, the 5,500 heavy cavalry soldiers of the Lion Fort would definitely be attacked by Kant's heavy cavalry soldiers.

Whoosh! Whoosh! Whoosh!

Each of the 5,000 heavy cavalry soldiers of the Lion Fort threw a gray curse stone. This curse stone was not a hidden weapon to throw at Kant's knights. These gray fist-sized curse stones had only flown for a distance of one to two hundred meters. Before they reached Kant's knights, the curse stones exploded.

Each of the exploded curse stones released a complex gray rune. The gray rune appeared at an extremely fast speed. It was much faster than the speed of the curse stones. In an instant, it entered the bodies of the Swadian Royal Knights and the Sarleon Lion Knights, they actually directly entered the bodies of the Swadian Royal Knights of and the Sarleon Lion Knights through the golden or bright red armor on their bodies.

Even Kant himself had to endure dozens of gray runes on his body. However, when the gray runes wanted to enter Kant's body, a dark red extraordinary power burst out from Kant's body. This was the rule power of war. The rule power of war emerged from Kant's body. It was extremely swift and powerful. With just a light sweep, the gray rune that wanted to fuse with Kant's body collapsed.

Similar to Kant's method, the Swadian Royal Knight exploded with golden-colored King's Power when the gray rune wanted to fuse with their bodies. When the Sarleon Lion Knights wanted to fuse the gray runes into their bodies, they exploded with bright red Lion King's Power. Their extraordinary powers were extremely powerful, which were comparable to the peak level grand knights of this world. However, their extraordinary powers were completely useless against the gray runes. It could not stop the gray rune from entering their bodies.

Among the 1,000 of the Swadian Royal Knights and 1,000 Sarleon Lion Knights, there were very few who had not been absorbed by the gray rune. Almost all of the knights had been absorbed by the gray rune.

Fortunately, the gray rune did not seem to have any real destructive power, at least not in an instant. Even though Kant's 2,000 level 6 knights had been affected, they had all been absorbed by the gray rune. However, they did not show any signs of being affected. They were still charging at high speed, and in a few seconds, they would be charging towards the 5,500 heavy cavalry troops of the Lion Fort.

Kant saw all of this. Although the 2,000 level 6 knights did not seem to be affected, his mood was still uneasy. He did not know what the use of the rune of the curse stone that the 5,000 heavy cavalry soldiers threw out. However, since they dared to pay such a heavy price, they must be up to no good.

"Time is pressing. The 1st to 5th cavalry troop of the Lion Fort, listen up and charge!"

Suddenly, Viscount Carl Cameron's voice echoed on the battlefield again!

Boom! Boom! Boom!

Following Carl. As soon as Viscount Carl's words fell, the 5,000 heavy cavalry soldiers with knight-level strength suddenly activated and charged at Kant's army in the opposite direction. As for the other 500 "black armored knights", they were still standing on the battlefield. They were originally at the front of the battlefield, but now they were surpassed by the 5,000 heavy cavalries. They were staying at the back of the battlefield.

"What's the point of charging now? It's impossible for them to reach the highest speed. If they can't enter the charging posture, they will have a confrontation with my subordinates, the Swadian Royal Knights and the Sarleon Lion Knights. They are simply sending themselves to their deaths!" Kant saw the 5,000 heavy cavalries of the Lion Fort suddenly charge, the doubts in his heart deepened, and at the same time, the haze in his heart deepened.

The weather was originally fine and clear, but now the wind and clouds were surging. At this moment, it gradually turned into a cloudy day, and the clouds blocked the sun.

In just a few seconds, the two armies had officially clashed.

"Kill! For His Highness Lord Kant! Kill! For the Caradia Empire!"

"Kill! For Grand Duke Cameron's honor! For Grand Duke Cameron's dignity!"

Both sides shouted slogans. Their morale was very high. They were not afraid of life and death. They fought bloody and cruel battles.

The sound of metal clanging echoed throughout the battlefield, the sound of horse hooves trampling shook the entire square.

Lord of the Oasis

Chapter 584: Viscount Carl Was Delighted

However, the one-sided massacre that Kant expected did not happen. The situation was even a little strange.

At this moment, the two armies clashed. Kant's 1,000 Swadian Royal Knights and 1,000 Sarleon Lion Knights were already charging at high speed, while their opponents, the 5,000 heavy cavalries of the Lion Fort, had almost just entered the acceleration stage. When the two armies clashed, even if the strength of the two armies were not far apart, the troop that entered the charging posture would definitely have the advantage in strength and be able to slaughter the enemy. Moreover, Kant's subordinates were much more elite than the heavy cavalries of the Lion Fort.

However, the situation was not like this. The Swadian Royal Knight in the first row held a four-meter-long lance in both hands. When facing a weak enemy, he did not show the slightest mercy. When the two armies started their battle, the four-meter-long lance in his hand pierced through an official knight-level soldier of the Lion Fort like a flash of lightning. The battle between the cavalries was simply a race against time. After this Swadian Royal Knight pierced through an enemy, he did not stop at all. He urged his horse to move forward quickly and once again used the lance to ruthlessly pierce through another enemy.

Everything seemed to be as smooth as cutting tofu. The huge speed advantage had turned into an advantage in terms of combat strength. The Royal Swadian Knights in the first row seemed to be reaping the lives of the enemies with ease. Most importantly, the resistance of the enemy was very weak. They could have raised their lance and tried to block the Swadian Royal Knights, even though it might be useless. However, they could obviously use up the attention and time of the Swadian Royal Knights. However, the enemy did not do so. They did not do anything except continue to ride their warhorse forward. It looked like they were deliberately giving their lives away.

At the moment when the Swadian Royal Knights in the first row pierced through the heavy cavalries of the Lion Fort, there were some of the Swadian Royal Knights and the Sarleon Lion Knights let out an extremely painful groan. Some of them even held tightly onto the knight lance that was about to charge and kill the enemy, but they fell to the ground. However, the most serious one was still a Sarleon Lion Knight. Suddenly, he let out a painful roar and fell off his warhorse.

They seemed to have suffered injuries of varying degrees for no reason. The number of Kant's knights that injured was almost the same as the number of enemies they killed. Furthermore, the Swadian Royal Knights or the Sarleon Lion Knight both possessed the strength of a grand knight and had been enhanced by three domains, they were still suffered from pain and let out a groan, or they were in so much pain that they let go of the knight lance that they were holding tightly in their hands. It could be seen that their injuries were definitely not minor injuries. Instead, they were fatal injuries. As for the Sarleon Lion Knight who suddenly fell off his warhorse, the injuries he suffered were more likely to be serious enough to affect his life.

The Swadian Royal Knights in the first row could charge forward without any scruples and did not have to worry about the overall battle situation. However, Kant, as the commander, had to consider the overall battle situation.

He was already filled with doubts about the actions of these cavalries of the Lion Fort that went against common sense. In his heart, he already had suspected that the enemy had plotted some traps. Therefore, when the first row of knights had just finished the first round of killing, he already noticed the situation of the army.

The enemy had used some mysterious means to exchange their soldiers' lives for his soldiers' serious injuries. It might even be more than that. After all, it was just the beginning.

The battlefield was ever-changing, and this required the commander to have extremely keen insight and the quality of decisiveness.

With his powerful strength and the five goshawks hovering in the sky, Kant had a clear grasp of the situation of the battle. Taking into account that Viscount Carl Cameron's words "time is pressing". Kant's eyes suddenly flashed with a brilliant light, as if he understood something. These 5,000 heavy cavalries of the Lion Fort used a method that could exchange their lives for the lives of his knights. There should be a time limit, perhaps this kind of reloading could last for a short time.

After thinking about it, Kant immediately came up with a countermeasure. At the same time, he activated the rule power of war. A huge aura rose from Kant's body. At the same time, Kant's words resounded throughout the entire army, it covered up the earth-shaking sounds of fighting and the deafening sound of horse hooves. "All troops, listen up. We can only defend against the enemies and not attack! Just wait for my next order!"

Facing the 5,000 heavy cavalries who seemed to be able to trade their lives for the injuries or lives of Kant's men, Kant had no choice but to choose this strategy. This meant that he had completely given up on the offensive advantage he had gained by entering the charging posture, their previous effort was a waste!

Viscount Carl Cameron heard Kant's words spread throughout the entire square, and a hint of joy flashed across his face. After all, to be able to make a high and mighty world baron suffer was undoubtedly a very enjoyable thing. In particular, Viscount Carl Cameron especially hated Kant as his "younger brother." The experience of traveling to Lionheart City had become an indelible shame and stain in Carl Cameron's glorious and shining life.

In fact, when Viscount Carl Cameron gave an order, it was completely different from saying that "time is pressing" to remind Kant. However, he really wanted to see Kant give an order that was disadvantageous to Kant himself. In his experience, he thought that there was no difference at all he revealed or not revealed the reloading time of curse stone. Because he knew that Kant, as a keen baron, would soon see the problem and immediately make a decision and order.

However, in that case, all this seemed to only show that his father, Ryan Cameron, had succeeded in plotting against Kant. It had nothing to do with him, Viscount Carl Cameron. Viscount Carl Cameron had an idea. When he issued the order, he revealed some information that was "useless but would affect Baron Kant". When Viscount Carl Camron said "time is pressing" such sensitive words, Baron Kant would definitely take this into consideration when he made the decision.

Therefore, the faster Baron Kant reacted, the more important and crucial the information given by Viscount Carl Cameron was. This gave Viscount Carl Cameron a sense of satisfaction and pleasure similar to controlling the world baron. Especially when the world baron was Baron Kant, whom he deeply hated, the pleasure and satisfaction suddenly hit him like a tidal wave.

Chapter 585: Kant' Sensed the Abnormality

His order was effective. At this time, Carl Cameron regarded the fact that Kant voluntarily gave up the offensive advantage in his charging posture as the result of his own "wise" order, he enjoyed it very much.

After a while, Viscount Carl Cameron revealed an extremely ferocious expression. At the same time, his eyes were filled with anticipation. He activated all the extraordinary power in his body, he gave an order to the 500 black armored knights, "Black armored knights, kill them! Kill them ruthlessly! The target -- the 5,000 heavy cavalries of our side who have already engaged Baron Kant's soldiers!"

With such a countermeasure, Viscount Carl Cameron did not mind revealing a piece of information that he did not think was important when he gave the order previously, "time is pressing."

Viscount Carl Cameron did not think that this piece of information was important. At most, it would only make Baron Kant give the order in advance so that Baron Kant could reduce the casualty of his grand knights. However, this did not matter at all because he planned to crush Kant's troops again in the second round of orders.

With the elite strength of 500 "black armored knights", killing 5,000 heavy cavalries who were not resisting was not a problem at all. As long as these 5,000 official knights were killed before the runes released by the curse stone spontaneously disintegrated, the damage they received would be under the effect of the curse runes in the curse stone. When they received damage, they would also be reflected on the Swadian Royal Knights or the Sarleon Lion Knights who had fused with the curse runes released from the curse stone that they had been nurturing since they were young.

However, this damage was only an equivalent transformation, and it was not to cut off the heads of the knight-level soldiers of the Lion Fort, then the Swadian Royal Knight or the Sarleon Lion Knight who had fused with the curse runes would also have their heads cut off. However, the Swadian Royal Knights or the Sarleon Lion Knights would only receive the equivalent damages. This kind of damage could kill the knight-level soldiers of the Lion Fort. However, it would only cause serious injuries to the more powerful Swadian Royal Knights or the Sarleon Lion Knight.

This injury might not even seem to exist on the surface, but it would have the most real effect and injury reaction. If a Swadian Royal Knight or Sarleon Lion Knight simultaneously fused with the curse runes released from the curse stones thrown by more than five official knight-level heavy cavalries of Lion Fort, then when these five official knight-level heavy cavalries of Lion Fort were all killed, the damage reflected from their deaths would be stacked on the Swadian Royal Knight or Sarleon Lion Knight at the same time. It could break through the limits of the damage that the Swadian Royal Knights or the Sarleon Lion Knights could withstand, causing them to die immediately.

In the first round of attacks, there was such an unlucky Sarleon Lion Knight. He was hit by the curse runes released by six curse stones, the original owner of five of the curse stones was killed by the Swadian Royal Knights in the first round of attacks. Therefore, even if this Sarleon Lion Knight was in the middle of the group, he died immediately and fell off his warhorse.

However, the curse stones also had another characteristic. The damage caused by their suicide or the killing of other soldiers who had the curse stones, could not be reflected on the enemies who had fused with the curse runes released by their curse stones.

Therefore, if the enemies saw through the mean of the curse stones and stopped causing damage to the original owners of the curse stones, the power of the curse stones would immediately be reduced to almost no effect. However, this situation had long been predicted by the Cameron family who had researched this curse, so they had a complete follow-up method.

This time, they sent out the extremely powerful "black armored knights" to complete the killing work. Their powerful strength could very quickly harvest the lives of the 5,000 heavy cavalries who had no resistance, while harvesting the lives of their own troops, they also used curses to reflect the damage onto the Swadian Royal Knights and the Sarleon Lion Knights. In any case, the effect was no different from being killed by the Swadian Royal Knights or the Sarleon Lion Knights.

These 5,000 knights were specially trained for such a situation. When they were trained, they had long been instilled with absolute loyalty and for the Dukedom of Leo, for the Lion Fort. In order to protect their loved ones, they had to be brave enough to sacrifice themselves.

The curse stones that they had nurtured with their blood essence since they were young had already been used up. Their greatest value had already used up. If they could not be killed before the curse runes automatically disintegrated, then their greatest value would be directly wasted. Even if they survived, they would not be placed in an important position by the Lion Fort. Instead, they would be spurned. Their family members in Baron Ryan's land would also be looked down upon by others, and they might suffer an even more tragic fate.

Therefore, these 5,000 knights were determined to die. They even wanted to die. Only if they died would they be of any use. Even if it was for the next batch of "human-shaped weapons" like them, their families would be better placed.

Viscount Carl Cameron issued a second order. He ordered 500 powerful "black armored knights" to kill 5,000 heavy cavalries who were specially trained to be official knights, he waited with a face full of anticipation for Baron Kant's angry expression after his soldiers died one by one or were seriously injured.

However, Carl Cameron's battlefield experience was still lacking. He had taken it for granted.

For his own selfish reasons, his little reminder of the "time is pressing" was not as useless as he imagined.

Kant treated this information as the most important information, because this information directly gave Kant his greatest hope -- without this information, Kant did not know how long the enemy's trick could last. How could one fight a war against an opponent who would receive the same amount of damage as the other party when you slashed him?

With this information, Kant can formulate a war strategy that prioritizes delay -- even if it is necessary to "protect" the 5,000 soldiers from harm. This, in turn, will directly interfere with the effect of Viscount Carl Cameron's second order.

Chapter 586: The expiration of the curse

Therefore, Kant immediately understood Viscount Carl Cameron's purpose when Viscount Carl Cameron shouted for 500 black-armored knights to kill their own 5,000 heavy cavalries with the strength of knights.

Viscount Carl wanted to use the black-armored knights to kill the ordinary heavy cavalry who had cast a curse on the Swadian royal knights and the Sarleon lion knights, thus achieving the goal of severely injuring or even killing his subordinates through the curse.

Don't even think about it!

Kant would never let him succeed!

These Swadian royal knights and the Sarleon lion knights were used by Kant as the central bargaining chip to deal with the nobles from the five worlds. Kant would never allow them to be killed by the other party's scheme.

One had to know that each world's noble could deal with 1,000 grand knights with their own strength. If they wanted to kill the world's noble, perhaps 1,000 grand knight-level soldiers would suffer a heavy loss or even total annihilation. Even if Kant's rank six troops was much stronger than a group of grand knights, it was still more than enough for a world noble to deal with 500 Swadian royal knights or 500 Sarleon lion knights.

Therefore, in response to Viscount Carl Cameron's order, Kant immediately gave the command, "The Swadian royal knights and Sarleon Lion Knights, listen up. Defend with all your might, and never take the initiative to attack the knight-level heavy cavalries. At the same time, kill the enemy's black-armored knights with all your might."

"Yes, Sir!" 1,000 Swadian royal knights and 1,000 Sarleon lion knights shouted at the same time, their voices shaking the sky.

To have such a quick reaction, it was all thanks to the key information that Viscount Carl Cameron had revealed on purpose, which allowed Kant to give the first order earlier. At this time, both the Swadian royal knights and the Sarleon lion knights slowed down because they could not kill the enemy at will. At the same time, they could also receive Kant's order to activate again at any time.

Although the Swadian royal knights and the Sarleon Lion Knights were far fewer than the enemy troops, their elite strength far exceeded the enemies. Therefore, it could be said that it was unstoppable for them to move in groups of 10 members, they came and went like the wind.

5,000 heavy cavalries of the official knight level could reach the knight level was because they grew up in the demiplane of Baron Ryan. Isai. Cameron. Due to the environment of the demiplane, the strength of an ordinary human adult was almost the same as an official knight. With a little training, they could reach the strength of an official knight.

These 5,000 official knights were trained as "humanoid weapons" with special effects. They were not particularly proficient in battle and this made it even more difficult for them to stop the Swadian royal knights and the Sarleon Lion Knights from advancing towards the black-armored knights.

After the black-armored knights ruthlessly killed 100 to 200 of their own official knight-level heavy cavalries, more and more of the Swadian royal knights and the Sarleon lion knights who were looking for them, rushed to their side and started to fight.

Very quickly, 2,000 Swadian royal knights and the Sarleon lion knights surrounded the 500 Lion Fort's black-armored knights on the huge square in front of the Lion Fort, completely isolating them from the 5,000 heavy cavalries of the official knight level.

Those black-armored knights were powerful. When the Swadian royal knights or the Sarleon lion knights fought one-on-one, they were only at a slight disadvantage. Furthermore, the defensive power of their armor was extremely shocking. When they could not withstand some attacks, they would simply allow the attacks to land on the armor that they were wearing. The attacks of the Swadian royal knights or the Sarleon lion knights that erupted with extraordinary powers were often unable to break through the defense of the black armor on their bodies. They could only make a terrifying deep dent. If they wanted to cut open their black armor, they would need at least three attacks to land on the same spot.

However, the black-armored knights were ultimately weaker when facing the Swadian royal knights and the Sarleon lion knights. In a situation that was close to a one-on-one situation, their attacks were almost blocked by the Swadian royal knights and the Sarleon lion knights. Occasionally, their attacks would land on the Swadian royal knights or the Sarleon lion knights. With the golden or blood-red armors that were on their bodies, the defense of their armor was not low either. Similarly, they were only slashed with a deep dent. Their equipment was produced by the system. Their quality was top-notch. Their armor's defense was very strong, and their weapons were quite sharp.

Due to the restriction of the venue, they also had to defend against the attacks of 5,000 heavy cavalries who were at the official knight level. Therefore, even if there were 2,000 Swadian royal knights and Sarleon lion knights, they could only draw out around 500 of them to fight against the black-armored knights.

However, that was enough. Kant's main goal was to stall for time until the terrifying curse expired.

Between the Swadian royal knights, the Sarleon lion knights, and the black-armored knights, it was close to a one-on-one battle. Each of them had their own elite armor and weapons. Both sides were evenly matched and had great talents. It was truly a good battle. In the battle, the results were relatively few, but time continued to pass.

Viscount Carl Cameron saw the situation and was extremely angry. In his mind, the scene of 5,000 official knight-level soldiers being slaughtered by the black-armored soldiers did not appear. Instead, they were completely trapped by Kant's Swadian royal knights and the Sarleon lion knights and were engaged in an extremely difficult battle.

Although it seemed that the black-armored knights were not at a disadvantage, they relied on their excellent equipment to fight back and forth with the Swadian royal knights and the Sarleon lion knights. The battle was extremely lively.

However, this was not the outcome that Viscount Carl Cameron wanted. No matter how intense the battle between the black-armored knights, the Swadian royal knights, and the Sarleon lion knights was, as long as they did not kill 5,000 heavy cavalries who were at the level of official knights, then as time goes by, the cursed runes on the Swadian royal knights and the Sarleon lion knights would eventually collapse. When that time came, the 5,000 heavy cavalries at the official knights level who had spent decades to nurture, the most important ability and most valuable function on their bodies would be completely destroyed, turning them into cannon fodder.

Viscount Carl Cameron could not imagine why he had beaten himself up so badly, even though it was a good card that could severely humiliate Baron Kant.

Chapter 587: Common sense that gradually faded

Viscount Carl Cameron was extremely anxious, but there was nothing he could do. He could only watch as the 500 black-armored knights were surrounded by 2,000 enemy grand knight-level troops, at the same time, the most valuable 5,000 official knight-level heavy cavalries were approaching the moment of destruction over time.

Boom! Boom! Boom!

At this moment, the Lion Fort's castle gate opened, and five black-armored knights rushed out.

The sound of five warhorses trampling on the ground was much louder than the sound of hundreds of heavy cavalries charging together.

These five black-armored knights were different from ordinary black-armored knights. Their warhorses were taller, their equipment was better, and their aura was more magnificent. On each side of the pitch-black heavy armor, on each shoulder, elbow joint, and knee guard, there were three ferocious black steel thorns that were more than ten centimeters long. The fully-covered helmet that only revealed a pair of eyes, on the left and right sides of the head and the area of the forehead, each had a sharp steel thorn that was more than ten centimeters long.

Even the body of the warhorse was wrapped in a fully covered, thick, pitch-black vest. There were also extremely terrifying sharp steel thorns on it. These steel thorns were obviously not used for ornamental purposes. On the right side of the five warhorses, there was a pitch-black two-handed greatsword. The style was no different from an ordinary knight's sword. However, it was more than a meter longer than an ordinary Knight's sword. At the same time, it was much thicker and heavier.

These five black-armored knights were the five world barons of the Dukedom of Leo. After they put on their equipment, their overall aura had increased by a large margin. The auras of the five knights were linked together, they could faintly contend against the combined forces of Kant's 1,000 Swadian knights and 1,000 Sarleon lion knights.

Their current aura was much stronger than the first time they met in the City of Lion's Heart. It was obvious that when the 51 world barons gathered, they did not display their strongest auras.

But now, they were about to engage in a life-and-death battle with Baron Kant, and the aura they released was undoubtedly their peak aura. Now was not the time to hold back. Through the increased interactions with Baron Kant, they also understood more about Baron Kant's strength. They absolutely could not judge based on the fact that he had become a world noble at the last and had not yet owned a demiplane estate.

As for Baron Kant, they had already found that a lot of common sense did not work on him.

At this time, they had already placed Kant on the same level as them and even regarded him as a threat comparable to the month of calamity. They took him very seriously.

Baron Ryan. Isai. Cameron was wearing a full-body helmet. No one saw him frown in the armor. He glanced at Viscount Carl Cameron with some dissatisfaction, then, he took back the control of the army from Viscount Carl Cameron.

He ordered the 5,000 heavy cavalries on the battlefield in a cold and harsh voice, "The first, second, third, fourth, and fifth heavy cavalry corps of Lion Fort, charge at Baron Kant's soldiers at all costs! Black-armored knights, listen up! Concentrate on your forces and charge in the same direction!"

Baron Ryan. Isai. Cameron's voice came out from the helmet. It sounded a little dull, but his words were obviously more convincing than Viscount Carl Cameron's words. Therefore, even if his order was given, not only would the 5,000 heavy cavalries suffer heavy losses -- which was what they wanted; even the 500 black-armored knights would quickly suffer heavy casualties, the soldiers still carried out his order without hesitation.

"Kill, for the Dukedom of Leo! For the Grand Duke Cameron!"

"Kill, brothers, let's kill our way out and break through the encirclement!"

Baron Ryan. Isai. Cameron was like a beacon for these soldiers. After he spoke, the morale of the two different types of heavy cavalry increased rapidly, charging towards Kant's team without fear of death. It was completely different from when they were led by Viscount Carl Cameron.

At the same time, the five world barons also charged toward Baron Kant. They held two-meter-long two-handed greatswords in their hands, ignoring the Swadian royal knights and the Sarleon lion knights, they charged at Kant with incomparable speed.

"Baron Kant, die!" Baron Nathaniel. Isai. Reese was the most impatient among the five of them. At this moment, he roared at Kant from a distance of one to two hundred meters away. The two-handed greatsword in his hand suddenly emitted a fiery red glow. With a sweep of his sword, he cut more than a dozen heavy cavalries who belonged to the Lion Fort, that were standing in front of him, into two halves. Not only that, but the bodies of these soldiers were also burning fiercely, the first thing that was ablaze was their sophisticated knight armor.

"This... the knight armor on these guys is actually made of wood and dyed with colors. Who... who are they fooling?" Even though Kant was being targeted by five world barons at the same time, he still could not help but feel a little emotional about this matter, this was too absurd. "However, for this army, this kind of configuration is only reasonable, right? If it wasn't for the fact that the trojans can't walk, I reckon that the mounts these guys are riding on should have become trojans, right?"

To the five world barons, the soldiers who were obstructing Kant were nothing at all. The five pitch-black two-handed greatswords burst out with five colors and rays of incomparably dense power of rules, the strength of the two-handed greatswords in their hands reached an appalling level. Even the elite armors of the Swadian royal knights and the Sarleon lion knights that came from the system could not withstand a casual sword attack from the five of them.

Of course, the actions of the five world barons were not without consumption. At this time, the speed of their consumption of power of rules had already exceeded the speed of their recovery. If they continued to kill, their power of rules would eventually be exhausted. In the end, the extraordinary knights would fall to the level of ordinary Grand Knights. As a result, they would grind to death by the Swadian royal knights and the Sarleon lion knights with their lives.

The five world barons only wanted to clear a path to Kant's side and engage in battle with Kant. Naturally, they would not be stupid enough to deliberately waste their precious power of rules on the Swadian royal knights and the Sarleon lion knights. Kant was also unwilling to let his elite rank six troops die in the hands of the five world barons in such a meaningless manner.

Chapter 588: The activation of war spirits

The five barons of the world, relying on their powerful offensive abilities and under Kant's circumstances, drove the Swadian royal knights and the Sarleon lion knights to a peripheral area, they continued to fight with the 5,000 official knights, the "heavy cavalries" who belonged to the Lion Fort and wore fake wooden armor. At the same time, they continued to fight with the 500 powerful black-armored knights.

Of course, due to the 5,000 knight-level "heavy cavalries" who fought back crazily without caring about their own lives, the intensity of the battle was at least three times more intense than when Viscount Carl Cameron was in command. Due to the chaotic battle, the 3-meter long lances of the knights were no longer suitable. Everyone switched to the knight sword.

However, due to the increase in the intensity of the battle, even the Swadian royal knights and the Sarleon lion knights could not hold back completely sometimes. This was the continuous death of the official knight-level heavy cavalries of the Lion Fort. In addition, under the intentional help of the five world barons, the 500 black-armored knights successfully escaped from the encirclement of the Swadian royal knights and the Sarleon lion knights.

The black-armored knights had clearly realized the gap between themselves and the Swadian royal knights and the Sarleon lion knights and they no longer provoked them easily. Instead, they avoided them, then, they chose the "heavy cavalry" who belonged to the Lion Fort that was dressed in wooden armor.

As the black-armored knights wantonly killed, the Swadian royal knights and the Sarleon lion knights did not groan. It was just that this time, they held knight swords in their hands, which were not as heavy as the knight's lance, however, they didn't drop the knight swords in their hands to the ground because of the reflected damage from the "heavy cavalry" that were killed by the black-armored knights.

However, the intense pain of the injury that was felt from time to time still caused the battle between the Swadian royal knights and the Sarleon lion knights to be greatly affected. Occasionally, there would also be incidents where the Swadian royal knights or the Sarion lion knights would suddenly fall from their warhorses to the ground.

"Good! Kill them all!" Viscount Carl Cameron saw the miserable situation of Kant's army and immediately shouted happily while sitting on his horse in the distance.

Kant saw the situation of his subordinates and felt extremely anxious, but he did not have any good ideas. Within a short period of time, 30 to 40 Swadian royal knights and Sarleon lion knights had suddenly died. The rest of the Swadian royal knights and the Sarleon lion knights were more or less covered in the refraction damage caused by the gray cursed rune.

All of a sudden, streams of gray aura flowed out from the bodies of the Swadian royal knights and the Sarleon lion knights.

"Oh no, the time is up. The cursed rune broke down automatically and turned back into the power of the curse!" Viscount Carl Cameron was no stranger to such a phenomenon and immediately blurted out.

Sure enough, after this, there was no longer a single Swadian royal knight or Sarleon lion knight who suddenly groaned for no reason and there was also no one who died for no reason. When Kant saw such a situation, he was instantly overjoyed, he directly roared and issued an order, "Kill all of these scoundrels for me!"

The situation just now made Kant feel too aggrieved. His strength clearly far exceeded his enemy's, but because of the detestable curse, he had to allow the weak enemy to display arrogance in front of him. Now that the detestable curse had collapsed and dispersed, Kant naturally had to take revenge, he wanted to vent all the anger that he and his army had suffered just now, and use the enemy's blood to wash it away.

At this moment, four world nobles had already arrived near Kant.

With Kant and the four world nobles working together, a large area had been cleared for them to fight.

One against five?

Kant didn't believe that he had the strength to do so, and he didn't intend to fight five against one.

"Protector sequence 1 -- war spirit, activate!" Kant's thoughts surged, and he immediately activated the special effect of the viscount-level extraordinary item necklace, "Glory. Protection of Serenity".

A large amount of battle power surged from Kant's body towards the emerald necklace around his neck. Then, without any warning, 100 soldiers wearing crimson full-body armor suddenly appeared between Kant and the five world barons of the Dukedom of Leo, these soldiers, who wore full-body helmets and wielded crimson knights lance, were at the pinnacle of Grand Knights. They were the war spirits that Kant had summoned.

"Hmph, now I'll let you have a taste of the frenzied siege of the enemy!"

The spirits of the world could be commanded with only their thoughts. Kant directly ordered 100 soldiers of the Power of War to attack the five world barons at any cost.

"Hmph! It's just 100 summoned soldiers! 20 of them each, quickly kill them and then join forces to attack Baron Kant!" Baron Tyr. Isai. Maud looked at the war spirits who suddenly appeared and attacked them crazily, he spoke disdainfully to the other four world nobles.

With the strength of a world baron, a mere twenty war spirits at the peak of grand knight level was only a matter of attacking. At most, they could only waste some of their power of rules and delay some of the time which could be used to attack Baron Kant.

Kant saw that the five world barons were rapidly cleaning up the war spirits that he had summoned. There was not the slightest hint of panic on his face. These war spirits were cannon fodders in the first place. They only needed to buy him some time.

At this time, 800 Swadian sergeants, 800 Rhodok sergeants, 800 Rhodok sharpshooters, 800 Virgil archers, 800 Ravenstern Rangers, and 1,000 Enfath Empire Mages had already arrived at the vicinity of the battlefield.

Kant ordered, "Mages, listen up. With the five world barons as the center, cast the spell -- Nature Summon!"

Following Kant's order, the 1,000 Enfath Empire Mages began to chant their spells.

The five world barons looked at each other, their eyes filled with ridicule. Their entire equipment was made of abyssal magic iron, and their magic resistance was ridiculously high. Even if the demon Baron's demon spells were to hit them, the power of the spells would be reduced by almost 70%, and the spells that were lower in level than them would not cause any damage to them at all. They would all be reduced by the magic resistance of the ridiculously high equipment.

They did not put Kant's mage army in their eyes at all. They were only worried about the 2000 Swadian royal knights and the Sarleon lion knights.

Chapter 589: The summon that covered the sky

Now, although the gray curse had disappeared, the "heavy cavalry" of the Lion Fort were still attacking the Swadian royal knights and the Sarleon lion knights, stalling for time, just like how Kant's war spirits dealt with them, the purpose was just to stall for time. The 500 black-armored knights were only slightly inferior to the Swadian royal knights and the Sarleon lion knights, constantly harassing Kant's knights.

In the eyes of the five world nobles, the situation on the battlefield was greatly advantageous to them. They could immediately destroy the war spirits summoned by Kant and then work together to kill Baron Kant. As for the promise of capturing Baron Ryan. Isai. Cameron alive, the four world nobles all thought that Baron Kant's threat was big enough to make them give up 20 kilograms of abyssal magic iron.

After a short period of chanting, the 1,000 mages completed their spells. They pointed their staffs at the location of the five world nobles and said, "Nature Summon!"

Suddenly, a shadow appeared in the air. It was a total of 5,000 golems that crossed space and suddenly appeared in this world. They crashed towards the five world barons.

The sound was extremely loud. In the eyes of the five world barons, it was as if it covered the sky and the Sun.

Even as the world nobles, they were stunned by such a grand magic summoning. Then, they were hit by the golems that fell from the sky. It was as if the rain of stones were falling from the sky. One golem after another was falling. Even Kant's remaining war spirits, which had not been destroyed by the five nobles, were bombarded by the golems that fell from the sky and they were smashed into pieces.

Of course, although the golems were heavy, they fell from an extremely low height to the ground. If the height was too high, even if the golems were made of a pile of hard stones, they would still be smashed into pieces. Therefore, the height that they summoned, definitely could not be too high.

Such a bombardment was almost a disaster for the war spirits at the peak of grand knights. However, for the five world barons, it was nothing. The power of rules had increased their physical fitness by dozens of times. In addition, they were wearing full-body armors and helmets made entirely of abyssal magic iron. The golems that fell from the sky did not cause any harm to them. Even the warhorses were also safe and sound under their protection.

Speaking of their warhorses, they could also be like the goshawks that Kant had subdued, infusing them with the power of rules. This only required the full loyalty of the animal. It was easy to say, but it was very difficult to make animals reach such a state. Only the warhorse that had experienced countless dangers over the years could do this.

At this moment, even if their warhorse did not require five world nobles to pour in the power of rules, its strength was still at the peak level of a grand knight.

This kind of situation was used on all similar animals. This was because as the power of the noble soaked in for a long time, the power of rules would passively improve the animals' bodies, allowing them to naturally withstand the extraordinary power. Following that, a portion of the power of rules would be assimilated by the animals' bodies, it would become their own extraordinary power. With enough time, the strength of the animals would eventually rise to the peak level of a grand knight. As for the higher level which involved the laws of the world, it was not something that could be achieved by simply relying on training and accumulating extraordinary power.

If Kant understood this, he would not have to worry too much about establishing his own air force. When the goshawk produced its own extraordinary power, the extraordinary power Kant needed to provide them would naturally decrease. In the end, they would not even need it anymore. The special effect of "Glory. Protection of Serenity" naturally favored Kant's air force's endless supply of soldiers. Thus, Kant's road to building his air force was also bright.

However, all of this required time. He would have to wait until he understood this point.

In the middle of the battlefield, 5,000 golems were summoned by the mages and surrounded the five world nobles. Even with their strength, it would not be easy for them to break out of the encirclement quickly.

Baron Kant's eyes flashed with cruelty. He was a world baron, so he naturally knew what the world baron was capable of. Therefore, he was very sure that it was extremely dangerous for the world baron to be trapped in such a situation. If they wanted to break out of the encirclement quickly, they would need the help of an army to break through the golems. However, the five world nobles obviously could not count on an army. Another method was that as long as they could fly, the world baron could easily escape from the encirclement of the golems. Unfortunately, although the world baron was powerful, he still could not fly. The five world barons were not like Kant, who controlled some birds.

If Kant was in such a situation, he could rely on the goshawk to bring him to the sky and escape, but the five world barons did not have such means.

Therefore, when they were surrounded by 5,000 golems, if they wanted to break out of the encirclement, they could only kill their way out.

Baron Clark. Isai. Prynne waved an icy power of rules, directly freezing the three golems. Then, he waved his pitch-black two-handed greatsword and swung it fiercely. The three golems were killed by Baron Clark. Isai. Prynne was destroyed and turned into a pile of rubble. Then, he turned into yellow light and disappeared. However, Baron Clark. Isai. Prynne had just destroyed the three golems when three new golems immediately crowded over. Although the golems were puppets, they were under the control of the mages.

"These golems have very high defenses. If we want to break them, the consumption rate of the power of rules will be much faster than the recovery rate of the power of rules! Just these 5,000 golems alone are enough to grind us to death!" Baron Victor. Isai. Enoch said with anxiousness. Purple lightning danced on his pitch-black greatsword. His attack speed was the fastest among the five. The greatsword in his hands was forming a purple shadow, with crackling sounds, he easily chopped five or six golems into a pile of rotten stones.

"Abandon the horses!" Baron Ryan. Isai. Cameron said succinctly in a cold voice.

When the four world barons heard this, they immediately understood what Baron Ryan. Isai. Cameron's words meant. As long as they were willing to abandon the horses, they could immediately step on the heads of these stone golems and quickly escape from the encirclement. Then, they could launch a siege on Baron Kant.

Lord of the Oasis

Chapter 590: The cohesion of the power of rules

However, they had spent a lot of effort to nurture these warhorses. It was connected to their hearts and minds. The moment they had a thought, the warhorse knew how to react. If they were to abandon them here today, they would definitely die.

If they wanted to nurture another warhorse like this, it would undoubtedly take several years. During that time, their combat power on the warhorse would decrease by more than a little.

Therefore, although the four world barons knew that Baron Ryan. Isai. Cameron's idea was feasible, it was difficult for them to decide for the time being. In their hearts, they could not bear to part with these warhorses that could connect with their minds.

Baron Ryan. Isai. Cameron did not make a move when he saw that the four world barons had no intention of making a move. Speaking of which, his combat strength was the lowest among the five. After Kant exposed a part of his combat strength, he understood that he was no match for Baron Kant in terms of individual strength. In this way, he naturally could not break out of the encirclement alone to deal with Baron Kant.

Kant saw that the five world nobles were as he had expected, trapped in the middle of the battlefield. His eyes flashed with ferocity and then he gave an order, "Crossbowmen, listen up. Target the five world barons and fire freely!"

Then, Baron Kant ordered, "Mages, listen up. Keep the Nature Summoning spell. The rest of the attack spells will be targeted at the five world barons in the middle of the battlefield. Fire at will!"

Kant had used himself as a model. Under such circumstances, unless he ran away from the archers or mages, he would definitely die, and he would not last more than two minutes.

Kant felt that even if the five world barons were stronger than him, they couldn't be too strong. Therefore, he estimated that if the five world barons did not escape in five to ten minutes, he would be able to collect their corpses.

Following Kant's two orders, the arrows were as dense as raindrops and shot mercilessly at the five world nobles. "Fireball", "Magic Bullet", "Fatal Deep Frost", "Summon Lightning", and other spells flashed with colorful lights as they shot at the five world nobles.

"Dang, how can Baron Kant's army be so terrifying!"

Even though Baron Tyr. Isai. Maud was the strongest among all the world barons, when he saw the overwhelming number of arrows and spells coming at them, he could not help but swear. At the same time, fear surged in his heart.

They were all battle-hardened people, so they naturally understood that such a powerful attack would kill people. If Baron Kant dared to continue this attack for twenty minutes, the five of them might not be able to escape death. At that time, forget about surrounding and killing Baron Kant, they would not even be able to touch Baron Kant from the beginning until the end. They would be KO'd by Baron Kant. If this matter was spread, they would definitely be ridiculed by the other world's barons and even gods.

The reason why they could last much longer than Baron Kant's estimation was that their equipment was truly extraordinary. Equipment made from abyssal magic iron basically had no shortcomings other than being heavy. Their physical and magic defense was ridiculously strong. However, no matter how strong the defense was, it would not be able to withstand the endless waves of attacks. Therefore, if the five world nobles dared to withstand the concentrated attacks, they would only end up dead. No matter how good the equipment was, it would not be able to save them.

The five world nobles were all veterans in battle. Naturally, they could see the situation through their eyes.

The five of them looked at each other and shouted at the same time, "Go!"

Then, the five of them jumped up from their horses at the same time. They didn't run in the opposite direction, but instead, they jumped in the direction of Baron Kant.

The two-handed greatswords of the five world barons burst out with an extremely bright light of the power of rules at the same time. The power of rules condensed on the two-meter-long greatswords, a layer of solidified power of law actually condensed on the surface of the two-handed greatswords.

The five world barons simultaneously unleashed the second realm of the application of the power of rules — the materialization realm. This would greatly enhance their offensive abilities. If they wanted to go against the flow of arrows and magic, they would need extremely powerful offensive powers to split the arrows and magic apart. Otherwise, they would only be pushed further and further away from Baron Kant by the arrows and the magic flood.

The wails of the silent warhorses sounded and disappeared at the same time. Without the world barons to defend their warhorses against the attacks, their warhorses were immediately drowned by the arrows, magic, and golems. They died instantly.

The two-handed greatswords in the hands of the five world nobles almost formed five-light curtains of different colors. Slowly but firmly, they approached Kant's direction.

Kant's expression changed slightly. He admitted that he had not considered this situation. With the strength of a world baron, they couldn't go against the arrows and the torrent of magic. However, with the combined strength of the five world barons, they were able to do this.

Kant had not expected that the combined strength of the five world barons would be so powerful. At the same time, he also discovered that the individual strength of the five world barons was much higher than he had estimated.

He also noticed that the five world barons were wearing a full set of pitch-black armor that was extraordinary. When the spells of the mages landed on it, it was like throwing a stone into a pond. At most, it would make a sound, and it did not cause any damage to the five world barons.

The arrows that they had blocked and escaped the net hit the bodies of the five world barons, but they did not leave any marks on their pitch-black armor. If the arrows had hit the armor of the Swadian royal knights, although they would not have been able to pierce through it, there would be a small dent on the armor of the Swadian royal knights.

After personally exchanging blows, Kant finally confirmed that the ferocious and terrifying armor that these world noble knights wore seemed to have been specially designed for war. It was much more powerful than he had imagined.

“You want to break my plan like this? Dream on!”

Although the power of the five world barons was beyond Kant’s imagination, Kant naturally could not just stand by and wait.

Everything had a price to pay. Although the five world barons’ current performance was unmatched, and they were able to go against the torrent of arrows and spells towards Kant, they did not take a step forward. The power of rules they needed to consume, was incomparably huge.

“I want to see how much power of rules you have!”

Kant instantly thought of a way to counter them. The other party was slowly stepping on the heads of the golems, and their speed was extremely slow. Kant could even make those golems, which were left behind by the five world barons, take a detour and rush in front of them, then, he, the crossbowmen, and the mages slowly retreated, so that the five world noble’s path of advancement would never end.

In this way, unless they had endless power of rules, they would be exhausted by his army until the power of rules was exhausted. At that time, the order of the pursuit and escape would be reversed.

However, Kant’s idea was only the most optimistic. The five world nobles had experienced war, so they naturally had an extremely accurate grasp of their own status. It was almost impossible for them to have a way out at any time, they had also pushed themselves into a situation where they would never be able to recover.
