There were mines outside the military camp, and Yu Tian only remembered about it all of a sudden.

The Big Hippopotamus was a little flustered. As he observed the situation outside through the observation mirror, he continued to ask, "How is the lead car? Can it still move? Those at the back, quickly go around and don't Stop!

"The lead car is fine... it seems to be an infantry mine!"

The soldiers at the front quickly reported to the hippopotamus.

An infantry mine obviously couldn't do anything to an armored vehicle. After all, it was a lethal weapon that targeted people, so its power wasn't too great.

Moreover, the current infantry mine mainly considered to injure the enemy. Because normally, a wounded person needed to waste two soldiers to carry him, so it was more likely to reduce the enemy's overall combat power to injure the enemy, it was much more insidious than killing the enemy.

In this way, the power of the infantry mines was designed to be even lower, and it completely lost its effect on the armored vehicles.

However, this matter brought a lot of trouble to the Big Hippo.

Since there were infantry mines ahead, there might be anti- tank mines.

According to the current military habits, infantry mines were usually mixed with anti-tank mines.

Although the armored vehicle leading the way was fine now, the driver suddenly lost the courage to charge.

The anti-tank mines now were generally energy-gathering anti-tank mines. They could directly blast through the armor at the bottom of the tank and kill the people inside.

The armored vehicle would definitely not be able to withstand this kind of thing. Once they touched it, they would definitely die.

"Congratulations on stepping on the mines... Oh, welcome to the minefield.

Please try your best to run out of the minefield. I'll wait for you outside the Minefield! "

This sentence made the people in the convoy panic.

In fact, Yu Tian was just trying to scare them. The Big Hippo had hit the jackpot by touching this mine.

These mines were a few small toys laid by the hyena mercenary group. Originally, they were used to prevent the infantry from sneaking around and attacking them from behind. Therefore, they casually laid a few as a warning and a threat.

There were only a few mines along the way, and most of them were close to the barracks. Who knew that one of them would be stepped on by the Hippo Caravan.

This was a pleasant surprise, and it actually scared the Hippo Caravan.

The hippo was anxious. "Quickly take a detour, take a detour... take a Detour!

There might be minefields around the barracks, but the hippo didn't believe that there would be minefields in the wilderness far away from the barracks.

No matter how much money Abu had, it was impossible for him to lay mines in the unimportant wilderness.

But when he turned his observation mirror towards the wilderness, he was shocked again.

There were already many headlights on the side of the convoy, and the enemy convoy was actually moving in the direction of Kannima.

Although these enemies did not attack the hippo directly, they were driving side by side with the hippo from a distance, and he did not lose them.

The enemy seemed to be playing a game of cat and mouse?

The Big Hippo was a little impatient. He originally thought that his actions would not be discovered so quickly. At the very least, he could run further away from the battlefield.

As long as he ran a certain distance, it would not be so easy for the enemy to catch up to him.

Moreover, the further he ran, the harder it would be for the enemy to discover him. Perhaps he might even have a chance to slip away quietly.

However, the explosion of the mine had completely exposed his location. The surrounding enemies had already gathered like flies. His escape route would be even more difficult.

“No, we can’t take a detour. There’s not enough time... Let’s rush over!”

The Big Hippo made a decisive decision. “Armored vehicles lead the way.

Everyone form a column and charge together! ”

After the order was given, the rest of the vehicles fell silent.

No one was a fool. No one was willing to lead the way for big hippopotamus.

This was no longer a matter of obeying orders. It was suicide.

The armies of few countries would carry out those suicide orders, especially those Western countries that liked to talk about human rights.

If an officer ordered a soldier to die, the soldiers would definitely kill him first.

If the regular army was already like this, then there was no need to mention the great hippopotamus ‘pirates who had changed jobs.

The armored vehicle in front simply stopped its engine.

“What are you doing? Why aren’t you organizing your formation and charging forward!”

The great hippopotamus realized that something was wrong.

But the walkie-talkie was still silent.

The great hippopotamus continued to curse, “You bastards, Pve Raised You for so many years in vain, and you dare to disobey orders!

The walkie-talkie remained silent for a while, and finally, someone spoke.

“General... My Car has stalled... it can’t start... It must have been damaged by the landmine just now...”

“Nonsense, how could an armored car be damaged by an infantry mine!

“Nonsense, you ‘re quibbling!

“Bullsh * T!”

“General, why don ‘t you come over and take a look at our car? It really can’t start. ”

No matter how much nonsense the hippo said, the armored car that was leading the way insisted that the car couldn’t start.

The people in the vehicle did not disobey orders. They just used the malfunction as an excuse and refused to move.

Big Hippopotamus could not do anything to them now. It was impossible for him to get out of the vehicle and run to the armored vehicle in front to check.

Even if Yu Tian was willing to give him the time to check, he would not be able to get any results.

If the soldiers in the vehicle deliberately did not want the armored vehicle to start, then they would have plenty of ways to clap for the vehicle. Even if a professional mechanic came to check, he would not be able to find any problems in a short period of time.

Hippo was so angry that it was trembling. “Who’s the second vehicle? Open the way immediately...”

“General, our vehicle can’t start either.

The second vehicle was a military vehicle. Not to mention carrying anti-tank mines, even stepping on an infantry mine would be enough to make one suffer.

Although it would not kill people, it was very likely that the vehicle would be blown over.

If they were unlucky and happened to be blown into the fuel tank, the entire vehicle might be wiped out just like that.

Therefore, the soldiers on the second military vehicle also started to act shamelessly. They simply followed the example of the armored vehicle in front and did not say anything. They just said that the vehicle could not start.

Don’t ask me why. I just don’t know.

The Big Hippopotamus was furious. "You Idiots, did an infantry mine scare you? The enemy is lying. There are no mines in front!

Yu Tian interrupted with a laugh, "Hippopotamus, it doesn't matter if there are mines ahead. The important thing is that their cars can't start, Hahaha...

Actually, it didn't matter if the cars couldn't start. The most important thing was that if the people couldn't start, that would be a big problem..

Translator: 549690339

"You bastard..."

The Big Hippo was a little desperate. He roared at the communicator, "I want to fight you, I want to fight you one-on-one..."

Yu Tian laughed, "Just you wait, I'll come to you right away."

The big hippo said aggressively, "I'll beat you into a banana pancake... if you don't come, you'll be a puppy!

Everyone was speechless. Such a big warlord leader was actually reduced to a situation where he had to fight one-on-one.

The Big Hippo's subordinates couldn't stand it anymore. Someone couldn't help but persuade him, "General, we've already lost. It's better to surrender."

"No! I, Ahmed, absolutely can not surrender... I haven't eaten supper tonight. There won't be supper after I surrender..."

The Big Hippo was full of nonsense, but he had no intention of surrendering.

He could not surrender. Just as Zhou Yu had said to Sun Quan in the romance of the three kingdoms, "Others can surrender, but you can not surrender.

If others surrendered, it would only be a change of boss. If the Big Hippo surrendered, it would only be a dead end.

If he was still a small pirate leader, perhaps Abu might still accept his surrender and give him a way out, just like recruiting a band of bandits.

However, he was now a powerful warlord. After tasting the taste of life and death, he could not stop.

Surrendering would not erase his ambition. He was not willing to become Abu's subordinate, and Abu would not be at ease to treat him as a subordinate.

Even if he was willing to go back to his hometown and become a farmer, it was unlikely. Abu would not be at ease with him. He would always be on guard against his comeback.

Therefore, the Big Hippo felt that his surrender meant death.

He had to run for his life. Even if there was a minefield ahead, he had to take a gamble.

If he was killed by the explosion, then it was fate that he should die here.

If he was not killed by the explosion, he still had a chance to go home, regroup, and continue fighting with Abu.

He talked nonsense with his subordinates on the walkie-talkie to confuse the enemy. He urged his driver to start moving forward into the wilderness.

There were only two personal guards in his armored car, who were his trusted bodyguards.

Besides being loyal to him, these two guards were also very capable.

They could be the drivers of various tanks and armored vehicles, gunners and shooters, and they could protect him like super bodyguards. They could even take him to hide in the mountains, using those survival skills in the wild, they brought him back to Maniza.

The Big Hippo decided to change its direction slightly and charge toward the mountains.

He definitely couldn't go in the direction of Kanimar City. The enemy had already surrounded the camp, so there must be more enemies in the direction of Kanimar.

Even if he broke through a line of defense, he might have to face more lines of defense, and he wouldn't be able to escape from the enemy's pursuit.

Therefore, only the mountain was his path of survival.

The armored vehicle broke away from the convoy and brushed past his subordinates.

The subordinates of the great hippopotamus were silent. They only intended to surrender now. They would not immediately betray the great hippopotamus to Abu.

Seeing the armored vehicle of the great hippopotamus leaving the convoy, everyone heaved a sigh of relief. The thought of surrendering became more certain.

Big Hippopotamus thought that the remaining vehicles would attract the attention of the enemy. If he suddenly changed directions and left, the enemy might not be able to detect him immediately.

However, the drone quickly followed him because his armored vehicles were too eye-catching.

Yu Tian's attention was actually still not on big hippopotamus, because he felt that it was about time to accept the enemy's surrender.

The enemy in the barracks had completely stopped their attacks, and General Caro had also ordered the mercenary group and the new recruits to stop their attacks.

The troops in Kenema City had already gathered. The new recruits held torches and appeared in groups on the streets. They quickly organized their troops and started to run toward the barracks.

They were prepared to enter the barracks and accept the enemy's surrender. Then, they would take care of the prisoners, clean the battlefield, and organize the supplies... After that, they would send the injured back to the hospital in Kenema.

Of course, these menial tasks would be left to the new recruits. After all, they had received discipline training. Even if they could not fight well, they would still have no problem taking care of the captives who did not have the heart to resist.

In addition, the veteran carriages had already gathered outside the barracks. Apart from a small portion that continued to follow the Big Hippo, the rest were prepared to participate in controlling the captives in the barracks in case of riots and accidents.

Under the orders of General Caro, Abu's soldiers began to shout at the enemy.

The content of the shout was nothing more than to ask the enemy to surrender, then put down their weapons, put their hands on their heads, stand in formation, maintain order... and so on.

This was a very interesting matter, and almost all the recruits present enthusiastically participated in it.

Some of them used loudspeakers, some used walkie-talkies, and some directly shouted at the top of their lungs..

The military camp began to ring with the sound of people trying to persuade them to surrender. It seemed that there were people trying to persuade them to surrender in every corner, and Abu's army was in every direction.

This made the army of the great hippo feel even more worried. They secretly felt lucky that they had chosen the wise choice of surrendering. They also felt lucky that they did not die in the battle just now, and there was still a chance for them to surrender.

As the veterans' fleet gradually surrounded the camp and pointed their headlights at the camp, the field of vision on the battlefield began to brighten up.

The camp also began to light up the dim lights that had not been destroyed by the battle.

The recruits in the city of Kenema ran to the camp at a speed of 100 meters. They excitedly waved the Aya in their hands, ready to show off their power to the dejected captives.

Although they did not have much shooting experience with Aya, they were still very experienced in kicking people's butts.

The barracks quickly became lively. The thousands of new recruits in Abu's hands began to take control of the situation, and the Army of the Great Hippo began to surrender in batches.

At the same time, on the field battlefield 10 kilometers away, the battle had long ended. Yu Tian's newly established armored unit was cleaning up the battlefield.

Although the recruits were still unfamiliar with the control of tanks, under the command of the instructors of the tiger squad, they were able to take down the pitiful 20 or so tanks of the great hippo with their numbers.

In fact, the difference in armored strength between the two sides was not very big.

In terms of numbers, Yu Tian's armored vehicles and tanks only numbered more than 100. The Great Hippo also had 60 to 70, which was less than twice the combat strength.

In terms of firepower, the situation was similar. The Hippo's tanks and large-caliber cannon armored vehicles had a total of around 30. Yu Tian's armored forces only had around 70 to 80 cannons.

The Great Hippo had left behind more than 20 tanks to cover the rear and was outnumbered.

In this kind of large-scale battle between tanks in the wilderness, there was not much to pay attention to. Other than the formation, there was no strategy. The two sides were basically in a head-on battle. It would depend on which side had the fiercer artillery fire.

Although the tank soldiers under the Great Hippo were experienced, they faced the enemy in a hurry. Although they had infantry to help defend, they did not have the time to build a defensive position.

Hence, it was impossible for them to win. Many of the soldiers had the intention to run for their lives.

Although Yu Tian's armored troops were inexperienced, their formation was reasonable. The heavy tanks were in the lead, and the cannons were at the back. With more people and cannons, they easily defeated the enemy, only losing a dozen or so tanks.

The troops of big hippopotamus did not hold out for long before surrendering. This was expected by both sides.

However, Yu Tian's side did not gain much. After the battle ended, none of the 24 tanks were intact.

In a place like this, there was no hope of a factory being able to repair the tanks. Moreover, these old-fashioned tanks were not even as good as scrap iron when they were transported to other countries. These remains were of no value to Yu Tian.

The slightly valuable things were the soldiers who surrendered to the Hippo Army.

As their transport vehicles were left at the rear of the group, they were used as live targets by Abu's Veterans 'fleet. As a result, the great hippo left behind thousands of soldiers who had lost their mobility.

After being bombarded by Yu Tian's armored forces, there were still over 2,000 soldiers who surrendered. Including the soldiers who surrendered in the barracks, there were almost 3,000 people.

These people were all ready-made veterans and ready-made coolies, yu Tian had his own plans for how to deal with these surrendered soldiers, but he had to capture the Big Hippo first.

He called the Big Guy, brought Cass and the mouse squad, and drove a few broken military vehicles in the direction of the Big Hippo's escape.

In fact, General Caro was also very interested in this kind of cat-and-mouse game, but he still had to stay behind to take charge of the overall situation and clean up the battlefield.

This kind of situation was very helpless. He was the only person with military management experience by Yu Tian's side, so this kind of thing could only be left to him to do.

General Abu had some people under him, but they would at most lead a few hundred pirate soldiers to charge into battle. They were not good at managing the affairs of the army.

At the moment, if Abu 's army expanded, there would not be enough high-level officers.

There were many officers in the tiger team who had received military school education and had some ability, but now, they did not seem to be suitable to take over Abu 's army.

General Caro commanded the troops on the two battlefields to clean up the mess while he began to think about the future management of the army.

Let's talk about the Big Hippo.

The Big Hippo had already circled around the planting area. Because the planting area was not suitable for vehicles, he continued to circle around and approach the mountains.

He had already made plans to abandon the armored vehicle and started to pack up the supplies that he had to carry with him in the carriage.

He had to bring a satellite phone, basic self-defense weapons and pistols, as well as food and water..

His armored vehicle had prepared a lot of dry food and water, because he had a very scary memory of hunger.

The great hippopotamus used to be a poor man. He grew up hungry when others were scared.

Even when he grew up and became a glorious pirate, he still couldn't get rid of the hunger.

Because all the money he earned had to be taken home to support his parents and younger siblings.

The great hippopotamus was a very responsible person for his family and took care of his family members.

Therefore, although the big hippo became a pirate and could occasionally make a little money, he still had to starve every two or three days.

Until later, his pirate gang had a conflict with other pirate gangs, and the other party killed their way into the village and killed all his family members..

The Big Hippo finally didn't have to support his family, and he began to live a happy life where he ate his fill and his whole family wasn't hungry.

And because their pirate leader was killed, the big hippopotamus became the boss again. He finally lived a life where he could eat his fill.

But later on, the big hippopotamus had a strange problem. Perhaps because he was too hungry in the first half of his life, the big hippopotamus was mentally scarred from hunger.

He was always worried that he would be hungry, so he prepared food in his house, office, car... everywhere.

There was fresh food, and all kinds of dry food.

There were bread and biscuits, all kinds of cooked food, candy, and his favorite, stewed eggs from the Orient.

The Big Hippo thought that eating eggs would make him strong, and the delicious stewed eggs would make him eat more eggs.

In short, the Big Hippo's backpack was already full of food and water, the amount was definitely worthy of his nickname.

He tidied up his things, then pulled down the observation mirror on the roof of the car and began to observe his surroundings.

The situation seemed to be pretty good. There were no other vehicles around. The hippo was a little surprised. Could it have lost the enemy just like that?

"Hippo, what are you looking at?"

The big hippopotamus was immediately shocked. "I'm not looking at anything... Where are you? How do you know what I'm Looking At?"

"I'm above your head, so your observation mirror definitely can't see me. However, I can see you. Even if you run into the mountains, you won't be able to escape my sight..."

Yu Tian laughed complacently. He felt that this cat-and-mouse game was particularly interesting.

Right now, more than a dozen of their cars were chasing after the Big Hippo, but the Big Hippo did not know anything.

He thought that he had escaped the encirclement and was gloating, but he did not expect the ups and downs of life to come so quickly.

The Big Hippo's bodyguard quickly reminded him, "General, the enemy may have a drone."

"A drone..."

The Big Hippo's mouth was a little bitter.

He knew that this kind of technological product was too expensive in the past, but he felt that it would not be of much use, and the cost-effectiveness ratio was too low, so he had never bought this thing.

He did not expect that he would finally be ambushed by this thing today.

Big Hippopotamus suddenly understood many things, including why his army was ambushed, and why they failed to attack the enemy's military camp.

Now it seemed that his chance of escape was close to zero.

But he was not reconciled.

He gripped his walkie-talkie and shouted, "So what if you can see me! You Can't Catch Me! You Can 't Stop Me! Pm going into the mountains, what can you do to me!

The northern part of Tamar was mountainous, with the Gobi Wilderness or desert dunes along the coast.

Therefore, there are two routes and means of transportation from Kanimar to manizar, in addition to taking a boat and flying.

He can take a bus to Kanimar, or he can walk back to Manizar..

Translator: 549690339

Although the plains were bumpy and bumpy, he could still drive. It would take him at most a day to travel from Kanimar to Maniza.

However, he could only walk in the mountains. There were many places that he could not pass through, so he had to go around in a big circle.

It was hard to say how long it would take to walk from the mountains to Maniza. A person like Bei ye would probably need to walk for ten days to half a month, not to mention ordinary people.

If the hippo really ran into the mountains, Yu Tian would really give him a chance to escape. He wouldn't even bother to chase after him.

As long as the hippo could endure the hardships of crossing the mountains and trekking a long way back to maniza, this could be considered his ability. It was his turn to escape this calamity.

However, Yu Tian would still intercept it at the foot of the mountains.

Whether or not it could smoothly enter the mountain area depended on the Hippo's own luck and luck.

There were many roads leading to the foot of the mountain, but not many were suitable for armored vehicles.

In addition, after approaching the foot of the mountain, the armored vehicles had some difficulty in moving, and the hippo could only get Ott and walk.

There were several carriages of veterans who chased after the hippo with Yu Tian, and they were all very familiar with the surrounding terrain.

Based on the direction the hippo was heading, they quickly figured out the route that the hippo was going to take and easily made a detour to the foot of the mountain.

Yu Tian and the others were guarding the path that the hippo had to take to enter the mountain.

As he used his tablet to observe the hippo's movements, Yu Tian took out his communicator and began to chat with the hippo.

The content of the chat was not important. The main thing was to distract the Hippo's attention and create some pressure for him.

The hippo that was in a panic was the one that was most likely to fall into the trap.

"Hippo, didn't you say that you wanted to fight me one-on-one? Why did you run so fast?"

"Am I running very fast? Aren't you running too slowly?"

“Why are you running towards the mountains? Are you trying to get rid of me? Let me tell you, you can’t escape. I’m always watching you!

“Why do you care where I run to? So what if you’re watching me? If you have the guts, catch up and talk to me again.

“Then don’t run towards the mountains if you have the guts. How are we going to fight one-on-one if we run into the mountains?”

“I do want to fight you one-on-one, but I plan to fight you one-on-one in the mountains. If you have the guts, Chase me to the mountains. I’ll wait for you in the mountains!

Although the Big Hippo was running for its life, it did not show any weakness in its words.

Yu Tian’s words gave him an illusion. He thought that Yu Tian was still chasing after him, so he felt that his chances of escaping were even greater.

He was very confident in his two bodyguards. If Yu Tian dared to chase into the mountains, he believed that his two bodyguards would definitely be able to kill Yu Tian in the mountains.

Once they entered the mountains, it was impossible to carry heavy weapons and equipment, and they would not be able to display their advantage in numbers.

Under such circumstances, the two almost all-rounded bodyguards by the side of the Big Hippo could even match the fighting strength of a special forces unit.

Therefore, the most important thing for him now was to quickly enter the mountains.

The Big Hippo had been nervously lying on the observation mirror the entire way, carefully looking for a suitable escape route.

There was always a way out. He soon found a relatively flat road ahead.

This road seemed to have undergone simple man-made repairs and turned directly to the foot of the mountain on the right.

With a little light, the hippo could clearly see the road in the distance. This road was indeed the direction that led to the foot of the mountain.

He immediately decided on a route. He could not drag it any longer, so he entered the mountain from here.

The driver's view was not very good, especially at night.

So when the driver chose a route, he had to ask the co-pilot to help him observe the terrain in the distance.

Now that the Big Hippo had the observation mirror, the decision of the route was also in the hands of the Big Hippo.

The driver followed the instructions of the big hippopotamus and turned into the fork road next to it.

Not long after the fork road went in, there were more fork roads on the road.

However, those roads were small roads and were not suitable for armored vehicles to pass through.

The main road was still the direction to the foot of the mountain.

The armored vehicle could no longer move forward, so the Hippo decided to abandon the vehicle.

In front of it was a dense planting area, and at the end of the planting area was the foot of the mountain. The Hippo felt that it was not far from the road of survival.

There were more sorghum and corn growing here in kannima, and the crops on the land were also very dense.

This kind of place was not suitable for transportation, but it was very suitable for Tibetans.

If someone hid among the crops and stayed still, it would be difficult for outsiders to notice, especially in the dark of the early morning.

The Big Hippo used a flashlight to shine a circle in the sorghum fields. The dense sorghum made him feel a little guilty. There seemed to be something hidden in the shadows and darkness.

However, it was impossible to turn back now. He could only run quickly toward the foot of the mountain.

There were paths between each sorghum field. The Big Hippo and the other two held torches and ran quickly along the paths.

Although the dense crops were suitable for Tibetans, they were not suitable for hiding their tracks.

If they ran in the sorghum field, the trampled and squeezed sorghum would easily expose their tracks.

Whether it was day or night, these movements could not be hidden from the drones above their heads.

The Big Hippo knew that it could not escape the tracking of the drones, but it did not matter. He was not far from the foot of the mountain now.

As long as he passed through these messy planting areas, no one would be able to catch up with him.

The key was who ran faster. It did not matter whether he was hiding or not.

The Big Hippo and his two bodyguards ran all the way. Suddenly, there was nothing in front of them. All the sorghum fields were left behind by them. They finally ran out of the planting area.

But then, they were all stunned.

There seemed to be people and cars in front of them.

Yu Tian shrugged. “We just took a shortcut... is that weird? This is kannima, it seems reasonable that we can take a shortcut, right?”

The soldiers beside Yu Tian burst into laughter again. Then, these people slowly surrounded him with weapons in their hands.

Dozens of akas pointed at big hippopotamus and his two bodyguards, so that they did not dare to make the slightest move.

Big Hippopotamus was a little desperate. How could he escape in such a situation?

Although the two bodyguards were powerful, they were not gods. With many akas pointing at them, it was impossible for them to have a chance to counterattack..

Translator: 549690339

Not only were there dozens of akas surrounding the hippo, there were also more than a dozen military vehicles, as well as the on-board machine guns on the military vehicles.

In addition, the military vehicles also carried a lot of RPGs. These things were originally intended to be used against the armored vehicles of the hippo, but now they were no longer useful.

Of course, it wasn't that they couldn't be used.

If big hippopotamus and the others still wanted to run for their lives, Yu Tian might order the soldiers not to shoot and directly use RPGs to send big hippopotamus to his death.

Yu Tian bypassed the soldiers beside him and slowly walked to the front of big hippopotamus.

"Surrender, big hippopotamus. You should know your identity. "You're no longer a small pirate, so don't play those silly tricks. "Putting up a desperate struggle isn't something you should do..."

Yu Tian said seriously, "We're all decent people, so you should surrender. "You can't run away now anyway, so there's no need for me to beat you up again.

You suffered for nothing, and your face is so ugly..."

The so-called one-on-one fight was a joke to Yu Tian.

Although the Big Hippo was not as fat and fat as Abu, he was not young anymore. It was impossible for him to have the skills and fighting strength of a young man.

It was just like how athletes could only retire when they reached their age. It was difficult for them to compete with young people in the ring.

If the Big Hippo wanted to have a one-on-one fight with someone, even if the opponent was not Yu Tian, he would basically be beaten up.

Although surrendering was not a very honorable thing, in the history of Western Wars, surrendering was still relatively common.

In the absence of hope for victory and the certainty of defeat, most Westerners felt that surrendering was a very rational act, a matter of course, and a matter of pride.

Because some countries, like the feudal states in ancient times, had complicated relationships with each other. They felt that war was all about benefits. If they lost, they could just give up their benefits. There was no need for them to fight to the death.

Yu Tian felt that the big hippo and Abu should be in the same situation. If they lost, they should just admit defeat and hand over their belongings.

He felt that if the big hippo was sensible, there was no need to take his life.

Just like the warlords of the Dongfang kingdom back then, if they lost, they would go to the fields, hand over their army rations, and return home to farm.

They could even lose their territory and army in a game of Mahjong. They would be free and easy to leave, and no one would kill the other party. However, the great hippopotamus did not think so. He felt that as long as he surrendered, he would be dead for sure.

He suddenly roared, "What the hell am I going to surrender!"

Then, he jumped up and pounced on Yu Tian.

The two bodyguards beside him also moved at the same time, one on the left and one on the right, pouncing on Yu Tian.

Yu Tian was very close to them. Big Hippopotamus and his two bodyguards had a chance to hold Yu Tian hostage.

Although big hippopotamus was a little old, he had survived through a hail of bullets. Moreover, his condition was much better than Abu 's. This sudden burst of surprise attack was still very fierce.

The two bodyguards moved even faster. They caught Yu Tian's arms before big hippopotamus could.

Their thoughts were similar to big hippopotamus. At this distance, they felt that they had a chance to subdue Yu Tian.

Moreover, because everyone was too close, Yu Tian's subordinates did not dare to shoot. They could only fight with each other.

How the boss negotiated the terms was up to the boss. What they had to do was to capture Yu Tian and then talk about it.

Unfortunately, they soon realized that something was wrong. They actually missed.

They did not know how Yu Tian operated, but he actually retreated two to three meters in an instant and returned to his own team.

Big Hippopotamus and the two bodyguards were instantly dumbfounded.

Yu Tian sighed, "It seems that you won't shed tears until you see the coffin. Do you really want me to personally beat you up?"

The big hippopotamus' mouth trembled twice. He realized that Yu Tian seemed to be much more powerful than he had imagined.

Just this one move had already demonstrated Yu Tian's superb personal martial strength.

Moreover, the soldiers behind Yu Tian were all laughing and watching the show. They did not have any excited reaction because they suddenly attacked

Yu Tian.

This meant that the soldiers were very clear about Yu Tian's combat strength. They were not worried that the big hippo could do anything to Yu Tian.

This was extremely awkward. The Big Hippo and the others were pointed at by dozens of akas.

Fortunately, they only wanted to capture Yu Tian alive and did not plan to use guns.

As long as they did not take out their guns, the soldiers surrounding them would not shoot at them with Akas.

From the looks of it, their lives were not in danger for the time being.

The great hippopotamus suddenly felt that Yu Tian did not have the intention to execute him. Otherwise, he could have just shot them to death and dragged their bodies back to Kanima.

Hence, the great hippopotamus'will began to waver. He began to consider whether he should surrender. After all, there was no chance to escape now.

Just as he was about to open his mouth and say something that was just before he surrendered, Yu Tian suddenly said, "There's nothing I can do. It seems that you are also someone who wants to be a hero. I can only beat you all down myself."

"Sigh..."

The great hippopotamus was anxious. He was about to surrender, but Yu Tian actually made a move.

He wanted Yu Tian to stop, but before he could say anything, he was kicked in the stomach by Yu Tian. His entire body flew up, and he choked back the words that he had not said.

The two bodyguards were having an even harder time. They did not have the physique of genetic warriors, so they could not withstand Yu Tian's strength at all.

A storm-like fist smashed over. The two bodyguards could not withstand it for long, and they were quickly knocked unconscious by Yu Tian.

The so-called all-rounder warriors were not very good in all aspects.

Their ability to fight and kill in a single round was even inferior to the professional killers of the mouse squad.

When the two bodyguards were knocked unconscious by Yu Tian, the mouse squad members next to them walked up with smiles on their faces and tied them up. Then, they got the soldiers to carry them back to the military vehicle and hang them at the rear.

At this time, the Big Hippo was depressed.

His two bodyguards were knocked unconscious, but he, who was the worst at fighting, was still persisting on the battlefield. There was no sign of him fainting at all.

This was obviously unreasonable.

It was impossible for him to be better at fighting than these two bodyguards and still be able to take a beating.

Thus, the big hippo instantly understood that Yu Tian did it on purpose. Yu Tian just wanted to beat him up!

The Big Hippo suddenly felt both sad and angry. He wanted to shout, "Stop fighting, I surrender.

But he felt embarrassed.

So, he could only faint now..

The great hippopotamus suddenly fainted. Yu Tian's fist had not even hit him yet.

He was like a patient suffering from a sudden emergency. Without hesitation, he fell to the ground.

Regardless of whether you believe it or not, I believe it. I really fainted.

Yu Tian looked at the great hippopotamus falling down and suddenly felt somewhat inexplicable.

Could it be that this kid died suddenly?

But he could also sense the rapid breathing of the big hippo. It was an unavoidable physiological characteristic after intense exercise.

Yu Tian could not help but touch his chin. He thought to himself, this kid... is he playing dead?

Well, you could have sat in the military vehicle and followed us back to Kannima.

Now it seemed that you could only be tied up and hung on the buttocks of the vehicle.

Yu Tian called out loudly.

"How Pitiful. After all, he is a general. He should have been brought back in the vehicle. Unfortunately, he fainted on his own and could only hang himself on the buttocks of the vehicle...

The great hippopotamus almost vomited blood when he heard these words.

If he had known earlier, he would have shouted for surrender. He would not have been transported back like goods.

Unfortunately... The Great Hippo could only continue to hold on.

The scene was quickly cleaned up, and Yu Tian and the others finally started to return home.

After returning to Kenema City, Yu Tian and the others directly returned to General Abu's villa to rest.

The Great Hippo and his bodyguards were also sent into the guest room. They were disarmed and locked up.

General Caro was still commanding the army to clean up the battlefield. Even at night, these matters had to be dealt with overnight.

Half of the barracks had been destroyed, but because of the need to expand the army, there were still plenty of dormitories in the barracks. There was no need to arrange for one person and one bunk to lock up the surrendered soldiers. They could just rush into the dormitories and crouch down.

What was left were some supplies.

Yu Tian did not care much about the captured guns and ammunition. Military vehicles and armored vehicles were more popular with general Abu.

However, there weren't many armored vehicles left. There were less than ten of them, and they were all slightly damaged.

In fact, the military vehicles were also severely damaged. However, many military vehicles could still be used after some repairs.

Although there weren't any military factories or armored vehicles, it wasn't difficult to repair the military vehicles that were modified from civilian vehicles.

Hence, Generals Abu and Hippo liked to use military vehicles.

The cleaning of the battlefield continued until dawn the next day. The materials on the battlefield were mostly cleaned up.

All that was left was to collect some small items and to clean up and bury the bodies.

These tasks could be handed over to the prisoners of war.

Before this, it was not safe to release the prisoners to work because there was no daylight.

After dawn, there were no more such concerns. Close to 3,000 prisoners were a group of very strong labor force. The work of burying the bodies was easily done by them.

The last thing was to clean up the war garbage, the wreckage of the destroyed tanks and armored vehicles.

The most troublesome thing about these things was that they did not have much recycling value. They could only be treated as scrap metal.

Even a piece of toilet paper could have its own use. Naturally, scrap metal was also needed by some people.

These things were handed over to some businessmen in the city. Yu Tian did not plan to ask them for money to sell scrap metal. As long as they cleaned up the battlefield outside the city, it would be fine.

After all, it was the main transportation route to the north of the city. There was too much garbage left on the road, and it was easy to cut the wheels of the car.

These clean-up tasks were not the main point. The main task in the morning was to deal with the prisoner of war, the Big Hippo.

When Yu Tian got up, he found that General Abu was still sleeping. The battle that night did not affect his quality sleep at all.

He could only get someone to wake up Abu and bring him to the living room downstairs of the villa. Then, he ordered the soldiers to bring the big hippo over.

General Abu was still a little drunk. The first thing he did after entering the living room was to ask the soldiers to bring breakfast over.

When he saw the dejected big hippo enter the living room, General Abu was still a little confused. "This person... This seems to be the Big Hippo, right?"

"That's right, general, this is the hippo Ahmed..."

The soldier who escorted the hippo immediately replied.

General Abu scratched his head and said hesitantly, ("The hippo... is also here as a guest?"

However, when he thought about it, Abu felt that something was not quite right.

Although his mind was still not clear, he knew that this kind of thing was impossible.

These warlords rarely went to the territory of other warlords, and it was even more impossible for them to appear in other people's homes alone.

Even if they wanted to die, this was not the way to send them off.

Yu Tian could not help but Pat the back of General Abu's head. "Wake up, the Big Hippo is your prisoner now.

Abu said in a daze, "The Big Hippo is my prisoner? Why? Big Hippo, why did you surrender to me? Could it be that you have a terminal illness and are prepared to let me inherit your legacy? But, don't you have several sons...

"Enough, don't humiliate me anymore!

The Big Hippo was a little angry. He angrily sat down on the sofa at the side and said, "Speak, what do you want me to do?"

General Abu's current confused state naturally did not know what to say. Moreover, his future development strategy was decided by Yu Tian. What kind of "Diplomatic" strategy and attitude should he adopt, it was also Yu Tian who decided for him.

Yu Tian left Abu aside and directly said to big hippopotamus, "Well, it seems that you understand your current situation. The next thing is very simple. We need the entire Maniza land to surrender to us.

The big hippo sneered, "That's impossible. Even if you capture me, Maniza land still has tens of thousands of troops. They won't surrender so easily. "Change your conditions. I can redeem myself with money. As long as you put me back in Maniza land, I can..."

"Maniza land still has tens of thousands of troops? Do you think you can become a soldier just by taking a handful of Akas?"

Yu Tian laughed, "Do you still have tanks and armored vehicles in your remaining army? Pm afraid they don 't even have many ordinary vehicles, right? What use can such an army be? Can it help you defend Maniza?"

The Big Hippo was speechless. For those small pirate warlords, an army of more than 10,000 might be quite a deterrent.

But the current general Abu was clearly no longer a small warlord. The armored force last night was not something that could be defeated just by having a large number of soldiers.

Perhaps they only needed one charge to scare away the remaining troops of the great hippopotamus.

The elite troops of the great hippopotamus had already been wiped out last night. His momentum was gone..

There were indeed many soldiers left in the land of Maniza, but their combat strength was not much stronger than those pirates who were carrying Aya.

Yu Tian continued to attack the great hippopotamus. "Even if I put you back in the land of Maniza, you can't do anything. Next, we will have an army pressing down on us. The land of Maniza will soon fall into our hands..."

The big hippo said stubbornly, "I still have tens of thousands of troops. The people of the land of Maniza Support Me..."

Yu Tian was amused. "The people of the land of Maniza will support you? There are hundreds of thousands of people there. Do you think that it's just a small village? You have been plundering that place for so many years. I'm afraid that there are still many people who want to overthrow you, right?" The Big Hippo was instantly speechless.

In order to maintain a strong army, it naturally had to plunder a large amount of money.

He was not like Abu, who was a small force. He did not dare to exploit the local residents too much. He even had to build a good relationship with the local merchants so that he could trade and replenish various supplies.

He had always spared no effort in plundering money, whether it was for the pirates who did not have any capital or the merchants who did business.

That was why the Great Hippo had so many armored troops.

On the other hand, Abu had only one tank and three armored vehicles. He was so poor that he did not even have enough money for fuel. He was usually reluctant to drive them out for training.

Now that Yu Tian said that he was going to take over Maniza, perhaps the locals would even applaud and welcome him.

Yu Tian continued, "The remaining troops of yours can not resist us. Resisting will only cause more of them to die, but it still won't change the result Maniza will eventually be ours.

The great hippopotamus muttered, "Then you guys go and take down the land of Maniza... even if I'm not there, you guys won't be able to get it easily.

The army and generals left behind by the great hippopotamus in the land of Maniza were originally small pirates and warlords. Without the presence of the great hippopotamus, they wouldn't easily surrender.

If they put up a stubborn resistance in the land of Maniza and fought a few street battles, they would still be able to create a lot of trouble for Yu Tian.

Yu Tian sighed, "So I need your cooperation to make Maniza surrender obediently. I don't think there's a need for so many people to die, what do you think?"

The big hippo sneered, "Then what's in it for me? I'll hand over Maniza to you and let you hang me?"

"Why Should I Hang You?" "Then how do you want to kill me?"

"Why should I kill you?"

"If you don't kill me, will you let me go?"

"Of course."

"Aren't you worried that after I regain my freedom, I'll cause trouble for You?" "What kind of trouble can you cause?"

"HMPH..." the hippo said proudly, "I can threaten your rule over the land of Maniza, and I can collude with my old subordinates to create chaos for you in the land of Maniza..."

Yu Tian shook his head. "You overestimate yourself... do you think that after you surrender, your subordinates will still serve you wholeheartedly? "Even if they know how to cause trouble, they won't cause trouble for you... It's much better for them to run away and become a little pirate than to follow you and become a stray dog."

The Hippo was stunned. He felt that what Yu Tian said made sense.

He might still have a little bit of authority now, and he could make the Maniza land surrender without any resistance.

But after the Maniza land was completely taken over by Abu, he was nothing.

He didn't have his own trusted troops in his hands, and he also lost control of the Maniza land. How could his subordinate forces be willing to obey his orders.

Even those capital merchants would not invest in a person like him who had nothing. It was better to invest in any small force than to spend money on him.

Thinking of this, the Big Hippo was a little depressed. "Even so, there's no benefit for me to help you take down the Maniza Land.

"Isn't it a benefit to be able to save your life? At least we don't have to kill you."

"Even if you don't kill me, there's no point. In this F * cking place... there are many people who want to kill me.

"I can let you leave this F * cking place and go to a small country that you think is suitable. Take the remaining money in your account.

"Won't You Rob Me of all my assets? Will you let me leave this F * cking place with my own assets?"

"How much money do you have in your hands?"

"I still have a few million international dollars.

"Hehehe..." Yu Tian laughed. "I was the one who gave that armored unit to Abu Last Night. How much do you think they are worth?"

"They should be... in the hundreds of millions.

The new type of tanks usually cost a few million each. The old type of tanks were not worth much. In those Russian countries, they would even be sold as scrap metal by low-level officers.

However, if they were resold by arms dealers, they would at least be worth a few hundred thousand.

Along with the replenishment of ammunition and fuel, it was not a small amount of money to gather an army that could start a war.

The Big Hippo Sighed.

Since Yu Tian was so rich, he could easily invest in an armored army of General Abu, so why would he care about the millions of change in his hands.

Yu Tian stood up and walked to the side of the Big Hippo, he patted his shoulder. "Think about it carefully. Tomorrow, our army will set off for Maniza. That will be your last chance to surrender... Once you have thought it through, send the guards to find me."

After saying this, Yu Tian left the living room.

With such good conditions, he felt that the big hippo would definitely choose to surrender rationally.

However, it was not a big deal for them to put up a stubborn resistance. They would just delay for a little while and cause some losses.

After Yu Tian left the living room, Abu was still happily eating his breakfast.

Seeing that the hippo's expression was somewhat conflicted, he very considerately asked, "Big River... Oh, General Ahmed, would you like to have breakfast?"

"Breakfast... is there wine?"

General Abu was in a very happy mood.

The battle had already ended when he woke up. His army had already won, and they were about to obtain the Maniza land. This made him want to have another banquet to celebrate.

Although he did not contribute to the war this time, he still needed to cutswuce me Denencs co YU -nan aner 0Dtammg cne lanu 01 mamza. In the future, he could only become Yu Tian's vassal, and his reliance on Yu Tian would become greater and greater.

However, it did not matter. He was still a general, and the benefits that he should enjoy would not be lacking for him.

Compared to surviving carefully in the cracks, general Abu would rather be a big warlord under the control of an international power.

Who is not a pawn?

The Great Hippo decided to surrender in the end, which was the wisest choice.

The next day, the army set off. Yu Tian and Abu had to go to Maniza personally to take over the whole city.

They brought almost all the army, leaving only a few new soldiers and a few veterans' carriages in Kanimar to watch over the prisoners for the time being.

The Great Hippo had announced their surrender in front of the prisoners of war, and promised that the prisoners of war would return to the Maniza land soon.

So Yu Tian didn't have to worry too much about what kind of trouble the prisoners of war would cause.

In addition, the Pirates of Faraday had also received Yu Tian's notice, asking them to temporarily come over and guard Kanmud.

After general Abu's army left Kanmud, the military strength of this place seemed a little empty.

In order to prevent other pirates or small warlords from coming over to cause trouble, Yu Tian could only let Faraday and the other pirates come over to make up the numbers and maintain order and security with more than a thousand new recruits.

When Faraday and the other pirates changed into military uniforms, it would make Kamnima seem like it still had an adequate army, and it would be stronger than the new recruits.

There were some benefits to having people do things.

Yu Tian prepared some second-hand military vehicles for Faraday and the other pirates, as well as a lot of weapons and ammunition, including cheap equipment like RPG.

These things were enough for Faraday and the other pirates to work for him for a period of time.

In addition, Faraday and the others were happy to move to Kandama to live. This place was much more comfortable than the pirate village.

Other than some villagers who wanted to work as fishermen by the sea, most of them still wanted to make a living in Kandama.

Even if they couldn't get the tax, they could still sell some seafood.

Yu Tian also wanted to give Kanimar to Faraday, which meant that general Abu's control over Kanimar was weakened, but Yu Tian's influence here was stronger.

Of course, the main target now was Maniza.

Abu's army was almost all out, in order to better control the city of Maniza.

The team didn't move very fast, and they spent the night in the wilderness.

This was to avoid arriving at Maniza at night and causing some unnecessary chaos.

After a night, Yu Tian and the others arrived at Maniza at dawn.

There were two big cities in the north of Tamar, and one of them was Maniza.

These two big cities had an advantage, which was that they were close to the sea and were both port cities.

Damadi was a very poor country, and it couldn't even be self-sufficient in food. It needed to import from abroad.

Hence, if one occupied the port, they would control at least a portion of the imports, and only then would they have the chance to develop.

Maniza was naturally many times bigger than Kannima, and it was also many times more prosperous.

The Hippo Army obviously couldn't be stationed in Maniza, so he also built two barracks outside the city.

These two barracks were one north and one south. The barracks in the south was close to the port, while the barracks in the north was northwest of Maniza.

Yu Tian's army came from the south, so he directly led the army to the south barracks.

With the great hippo, the "Spy," personally leading the way, the matter of taking over the barracks became very smooth.

The officers of the south barracks had long been notified, so they had long led the army to line up outside the barracks to welcome the arrival of Yu Tian and the others.

The south camp used to have close to 10,000 soldiers, but now there were only about 4,000 left. They stood in a few square formations and recuperated outside.

The elite troops of the South Camp had all been brought to Kannima by the Big Hippo, and now they had become Yu Tian's captives.

The remaining were all miscellaneous troops made up of pirates and bandits from various small forces.

There were dozens of such small forces. They formed their own factions in the army and had their own alliances.

Apart from Big Hippo, none of them were willing to submit to anyone.

The generals all had hundreds of brothers under them, and they were all old brothers who used to rob houses and cargo ships together.

The brothers only knew their boss and the Big Brother, the Big Hippo, but the others didn't recognize it.

Of course, now that everyone knew that the big brother had changed, they had to start wondering if their boss was general Abu or some other manager.

The Army model of the Big Hippo was a bit like the ancient army, where a Lord had several generals under him.

Then, each general had his own main force, with his clansmen as his personal soldiers. They served as a strong offensive force. In addition, they recruited soldiers to make up the numbers.

It was the same in the west. They were all nobles under a king, and the Lords had several knights under them.

The knights were like farmers, and their influence was even greater than the village chief of the eastern country.

The Knights brought their own weapons and armors. When there was a war, they would bring their servants and followers to form small armies and join the king's large group.

These were all armies that had matured in ancient times. However, in modern times, this model made many people feel a little uncomfortable.

Especially after losing their big brothers, the various small factions were basically in a state of division and could not organize their combat strength.

The remaining troops in the south camp were like this, and they posed no threat to Yu Tian at all.

It was relatively easy to control such a loose sand, because they knew what they were capable of and did not dare to do anything too excessive.

Although they were a little arrogant, as long as they were given a big stick and a sweet date, they would easily accept the management of their new master.

The Big Hippo suddenly announced that it had surrendered to general Abu, which really surprised them. Some people even wondered if there was something more to this matter.

For example, the enemy beheaded and ambushed the Big Hippo, and then held it hostage.

Then, the enemy didn't have any real strength. They just wanted to take over the Maniza regime by holding the Big Hippo hostage.

If that was the case, they still had a chance to turn the tables.

With a casual counterattack, they saved the Hippo and beat the enemy to a pulp.

Some people were fantasizing about a chance to turn the tide.

However, when they saw Yu Tian's armored forces approaching menacingly, they were immediately frightened.

Yu Tian's armored forces were much larger than the Hippo's before, and they looked much more powerful on the surface.

Yu Tian and Abu began to lead the troops into the south camp.

Yu Tian left the armored forces and the convoy outside the camp, and General Caro stayed in the armored forces to keep watch to prevent accidents.

The rest of the new and old soldiers entered the south camp and took over the control of the South Camp, occupying the sentry posts, turrets, and other key positions and commanding heights.

Only when their own army took control of the overall situation did Yu Tian and the others slowly walk out of the group..

Translator: 549690339

The process of taking over the barracks was very calm.

Although the pirate officers under the Great Hippo had some thoughts, their soldiers did not cause any disturbance.

The soldiers did not seem to care about changing their boss. To them, it was the same as who they worked for. As long as they were paid, it was fine.

Moreover, the Great Hippo personally appeared in front of them and ordered the officers to hand over the defense. It also informed them of the new manager and the person who replaced their authority..

This was a very peaceful transfer of authority. The soldiers didn't even have a trace of fear or worry in their hearts.

The hippo publicly introduced the new owner of Maniza General Abu.

He actually knew very well that the person behind Abu was Yu Tian. All of Abu's powerful forces came from Yu Tian.

However, Yu Tian couldn't stand in front of the stage. After all, to the people of Maniza, if you weren't black enough, they wouldn't agree to your rule.

The lower the rank of the commoners, the more serious they were about this matter.

On the contrary, the high-ranking officers were still very easy to accept the truth.

Everyone was a chess piece, a chess piece manipulated by foreigners.

It was already good enough to have a good appearance on the surface, but more people did not even have the chance to become agents.

The officers of the south camp welcomed Yu Tian and the others and immediately began to suck up to them enthusiastically.

Without belittling the big hippo, they gave General Abu a good boot-licking.

By the way, they also gave Yu Tian a good boot-licking.

They said that the easterners were hardworking, brave, kind, and smart. It was only a matter of time before they ruled the world.

From now on, under the rule of the Easterners, we must support and cooperate with them, and serve them well.

And Ollie, I love the Easterners, and so on.

Actually, it didn't matter if you listened to flattery, as long as you had some idea.

The reason why Yu Tian moved into the south camp, besides the south camp being on the way, was that the south camp was easier to control.

However, apart from a few military vehicles and old-fashioned howitzers, the south camp basically had no other equipment.

With such an army in their hands, they could only bully some small pirates and warlords.

After the welcome ceremony ended carelessly, Yu Tian and the others brought the officers of the South Battalion into the office building.

The soldiers returned to their respective battalions and waited to be reorganized.

Next was the North Battalion.

Yu Tian wanted to send people to the North Battalion and gather the officers of the North Battalion to the South Battalion for a meeting.

He needed a more suitable candidate.

Beside the Big Hippo, there was another high-ranking officer who surrendered with him.

It was General Eddie, who went to Kannima first and prepared to execute the mission of beheading Abu.

General Eddie originally planned to escape on the battlefield, but he did not have the time to escape from the range of the camp and also surrendered with the ordinary soldiers.

He originally just wanted to blend in with the surrendered soldiers and wait to be released like a fart.

But he was still found by Yu Tian and brought to Maniza.

Now Yu Tian just happened to use him.

Yu Tian gave him the mission: Bring the officers of the North Camp to the south camp for a meeting.

Yu Tian didn't have many troops. He didn't want to split his troops to be stationed in the north and south camps.

Therefore, General Karo suggested that he use deterrence as the main method to occupy one barracks and intimidate the other barracks.

Then, he would gather the officers of the two barracks and hold them hostage. Then, he would mess up the organization, redistribute the posts, and reduce the influence of the previous officers in the army.

This operation was still very simple for the south barracks, because this place was originally a pile of loose sand.

If they formed a few different armies and arranged a few leaders, they would immediately form a few opposing groups, competing with each other and competing with each other in flattery skills.

The north camp was slightly more troublesome, because there were mainly a few smaller warlords with slightly larger forces controlling it.

There were less than 3,000 soldiers left in the north camp, and the rest were brought to Kannima by the Big Hippo.

There were three factions in these 3,000 people, and the largest one was the old subordinates of the Great Hippo. There were more than 1,000 of them.

This strength was negligible, because their leader was a trusted aide of the Great Hippo. He would definitely obey the orders and accept Yu Tian's control and reorganization.

The remaining two factions each had several hundred people. They were all pirates who were previously active in the vicinity of the Maniza land.

Because the big hippo was too powerful, it made it difficult for them to make a living.

Then the Big Hippo gave them some benefits, so they obediently joined the army of the Big Hippo.

Now that the Big Hippo was about to surrender, they began to worry about all kinds of unknown changes.

For example, whether their future power would be affected, whether they would be plundered by their new master and become a single commander.

They only had two choices now. One was to run away with their subordinates.

Run far away, find a place where they could make a living, and become a small pirate warlord again.

The other was to obediently accept the reorganization of their new master. That way, they could maintain the status quo and continue to be a small leader.

They could also lose all their power and be thrown into a village in the Maniza lands, becoming a nobody.

Yu Tian did not know what they would choose, but it did not matter much.

Yu Tian felt that he could give them a chance to make a decision. If they wanted to run, they should run. If they wanted to stay, they should obediently accept the reorganization.

He also deliberately delayed some time in the south camp so that they would have enough time to react.

Then, he sent Eddie out.

Although General Eddie was a capable general under big hippopotamus, he did not have many forces under him.

His direct subordinates had been brought to kannima, and only a dozen of them were left.

In the current situation, he was not strong enough to become a pirate, so it was even more impossible for him to stir up trouble.

Yu Tian was very relieved to let Eddie out, and he even brought his old subordinates with him.

If Eddie took the opportunity to run away, Yu Tian didn't care. This kind of thing caused him almost no loss.

If Eddie could work well for Yu Tian, Yu Tian could train and use him in the future, making him a chess piece belonging to Yu Tian in the Abu Group.

The Abu group that Yu Tian needed was a group that had Abu as its banner on the surface, but was actually divided into several different factions.

They needed to understand that Yu Tian was the actual controller of their military group. He was the real financier and the big boss behind the scenes.

Only such an ABU group could be truly controlled by Yu Tian.

If in the future, Abu did not listen to him, Yu Tian could find someone to replace him in the group at any time.

Therefore, from now on, Yu Tian needed to train some of the senior generals of the Abu Group..

Eddie was a good candidate to train, if he could serve Yu Tian wholeheartedly.

He didn't have much influence, but he had some fame and prestige in the Hippo Army. Such a general was the easiest to control and use.

Yu Tian planned to let him take over a part of the North Camp Army in the future.

Although Eddie was not good at commanding the army, he was at most a low-level officer. He only had the ability to command a small team on the spot.

However, it did not matter in a place like Damadi. Everyone's standards were about the same. Even a pirate leader could be used.

Before Yu Tian sent Eddie out, he gave him some hints that the high-level officers of the north camp would be replaced. Then, he would place some middle-level officers under Abu and accept Eddie's command.

The prerequisite was that Eddie would do his best to work for Yu Tian.

When Eddie left the office building, more than a dozen of his old subordinates were already waiting for him outside.

Those old subordinates did not become the prisoners of war that were being controlled in the barracks. Naturally, they were a little proud.

Someone said to Eddie, "Boss, it seems that our treatment of surrendering is not bad. "

Another person said, "Of course, we are an elite unit. Of course, general Abu also wants to subdue us... of course, he mainly wants our boss to help him."

"Yes, yes. If it wasn't for our boss's face, we wouldn't have such special treatment. We would have long gone to work with those random soldiers."

Listening to the discussions of the soldiers under him, Eddie began to think about his future plans.

This choice wasn't too difficult.

Working for the Great Hippo was also a meal. Working for Yu Tian was also a meal.

No matter who it was, as long as they occupied Maniza and controlled this port, they would be able to give everyone a bite to eat.

For the people of the Dama region, changing a boss wasn't a difficult thing to accept. They didn't know what loyalty was.

With the support of foreign forces, Abu could only develop the city of Maniza better and let everyone eat more.

Moreover, the owner of this place was Abu, so he naturally had a lot of power in his hands.

Eddie and Abu were old acquaintances. If he worked under Abu, it would be easier for him to enter the core circle of the higher-ups than others.

Therefore, after thinking about it, Eddie felt that working for Abu was much better than working for the Great Hippo.

Driving a few military vehicles, Eddie quickly brought his trusted aides to the north camp.

The North Camp Army had already received the notice from the Great Hippo. They had already organized the army and were waiting in line outside the camp.

Eddie glanced at the line at the camp from afar and immediately noticed some problems.

There should have been about 3,000 people in the north camp, but now it looked like there were only about 2,000 of them, and they were roughly lined up in two square formations.

It was obvious that someone in the North Camp had already run away with the army.

The hearts of the people were unpredictable. Eddie, the single commander, felt that it didn't matter who surrendered, but the other people who had some power in their hands might not think so.

When the Big Hippo was still around, it could still give them the rights they deserved. Now that the boss was general Abu, they naturally had their own doubts. Under their worries, it was a normal choice to run away with their people.

In fact, the two pirate leaders had been a little restless when they were under the Big Hippo. They always felt that they were more carefree when they were pirates, and they had lived a more prosperous life.

Now that they had become a local army, they basically had no extra income apart from a little salary. This caused their lives to become much simpler. They even had to be stingy when holding a banquet.

It wasn't strange for one of them to run away. At least... looking at the remaining troops, there was still one person left.

Eddie was slightly relieved. Being able to leave one person behind, he wouldn't be too embarrassed.

If the two pirate leaders ran away and only the Big Hippo's direct force was left, he would be even more embarrassed.

After parking the car at the entrance of the military camp, Eddie didn't have any intention of entering the military camp. He directly greeted the two generals at the entrance of the military camp.

One of the two generals was called Mohammed. He was a direct subordinate of the Big Hippo.

Mohammed did not have much talent. He was still okay as a small pirate leader, but commanding an army of over a thousand people in battle was a little difficult.

This kind of situation was very common in their army. Everyone's level was about the same. In battle, they basically shouted, "Brothers, Attack! " !

Then, how they fought would depend on the soldiers under them.

However, Muhammad and the Big Hippo were from the same pirate gang, so their status and prestige were slightly higher. That was why they were thrown to the north camp by the Big Hippo.

When the Big Hippo decided to surrender, Muhammad would only quietly accept it. He would not have any messy thoughts, and Eddie did not have to pay too much attention to his attitude.

The other general was called allab, one of the two pirate leaders of the North Camp.

Allab was a very vulgar guy. Like most pirates, he had never been to school and couldn't read at all.

He had a carefree personality and often had an IQ that wasn't online, like Li Kui, who was a boorish man.

Eddie had thought that the pirates who ran away should be allab's group.

Allab had always been dissatisfied with his treatment. He often complained about this and that. He always said that his current life was not as comfortable as when he was a pirate, and the alcohol he drank was a level lower than when he was a pirate.

He was probably the easiest person to break up the group when the Hippo announced its surrender.

"So... Romeo ran away with his soldiers?"

Romeo was another pirate's nickname. Although Eddie had already guessed it, he still needed to confirm it with them.

Muhammad smiled bitterly and said, "Yes, he left early in the morning with his people. I wanted to stop him, but I was worried that it would lead to a firefight, so I let him go. "

Eddie looked at Alabu again. "Why didn't you leave?"

Alabu stared at him and said, "Why should I leave? Didn't General Ahmed ask us to surrender?"

Eddie laughed. "Yes, we all surrendered.

Abu laughed out loud. "It's good that we all surrendered... if everyone surrendered, then we would still be on the same side in the future. Romeo isn't willing to surrender, so he will definitely be our enemy in the future. Then we can kill him..."

Eddie also laughed out loud. "General Abu is still as smart as ever."

Muhammad interrupted, "Is our boss going to be General Allab? How.... how did he get General Allab to surrender?"

Muhammad did not think that Abu had defeated the big hippo with his own strength. He felt that there must be more to this surrender.

Eddie sighed and patted Muhammad on the shoulder. "Come with me to the south camp. You will understand when we get there."

Abu widened his eyes and asked, "What are we going to the South Camp For?"

Eddie said, "The new boss is waiting for you at the South Camp. We all have to go to the south camp for a meeting.

Alabu said unhappily, "Why don't you come to our North Camp for a meeting? Is it because our office building is too dilapidated?"

Eddie shrugged. "How would I know? Anyway, there has to be a place for a meeting. It's either the south camp or the north camp. "Maybe the new boss feels that the South Camp is closer. After all, we came from the south. The moment we arrived at the South Camp..."

"I think general Abu should come to our north camp for a meeting, because I definitely have more good wine here than in the south camp, "said allab Eddie shrugged. "The new boss is not interested in good wine. "

"Impossible, I know Abu is a big drunkard..."

Allab was very unconvinced.

Muhammad frowned. "The new boss you're talking about... isn't it Abu?"

Eddie was silent for a while, then said, "It's Abu, but... There's another boss behind General Abu.

"Oh, who is this boss?"

"An oriental businessman... maybe a very rich businessman. "

Eddie sighed. He couldn't figure out Yu Tian's background.

('There's no rush. All the mid-level officers under you have to go together. This is a meeting of all the officers.

('Then bring them along.

Without any hesitation, Muhammad beckoned to his officers and then went on his own off-road.

Allab was stunned for a while and mumbled, "What meeting of mid-level officers? I don't have any mid-level officers under me... You Two, come with me to make up the numbers."

Eddie frowned but didn't say anything.

Allab naturally had a few capable assistants under him. They could be considered mid-level leaders among the pirates, and they were also the tentacles that Allab controlled the hundreds of pirates.

A general's control of the army was like extending two arms, and then there were palms on the arms and fingers on the palms. Through this layer of control, one could grasp the bottom level more accurately.

In order to restrict the rights of his subordinates, he even had to play such cross-level control tricks.

Yu Tian had these middle-level officers participate in the meeting. Of course, he wanted to bypass the leader, Abu, and directly contact his middle-level officers. Then, he would find a force that was easy to control and sincerely rely on among these middle-level officers.

If the pirate leaders under Abu were obedient to Yu Tian, then even if Abu had any other intentions, it would be difficult for him to stir up a storm.

Abu seemed to be crude and brainless, but he still had his own little thoughts.

He casually brought two small leaders to a meeting, but he left his middle-level cadres in the military camp and let them continue to control the army.

Eddie couldn't help but shake his head secretly. What was the use of such little thoughts.

There were only a few hundred people under Abu. Could it be that they could rebel?

Maybe Yu Tian didn't care about him at all. He was the only one who treated himself like a piece of meat.

Eddie didn't say much. After everyone got into their own cars, he started to bring these people to the south camp.

Soon, everyone arrived at the South Camp.

The convoy drove into the military camp and stopped near the office building.

Muhammad finally saw the armored forces parked outside the south camp. Those tanks and armored vehicles of the same model shocked him.

Because of the previous battle, Yu Tian's armored troops also suffered some losses. However, they had an absolute advantage in the battlefield, so the losses were not too much. There were still nearly a hundred tanks and armored vehicles.

The armored troops before the great hippo were not only less than half of Yu Tian's, but their vehicle models were also mixed.

Because his tanks were not purchased at the same time, every time he had some money, he would go to those arms dealers to find a few cheap ones. Just like that, he pieced them together and slowly expanded the armored troops to a certain scale.

The tank models that he purchased were different from each batch. The entire armored troops were like the Allied forces of all countries, with equipment from all countries.

Moreover, the ones he bought were all cheap goods, mostly second-hand or even third-hand. There were also things that were discarded by some small countries, which were also used by those arms dealers.

His armored force was naturally incomparable to Yu Tian's.

Yu Tian's armored force was all directly pulled from the Russian 's arsenal by the Donglong Company. There were only a few types of models in total, and all types of configurations were reasonable and complete. At a glance, it was obvious that they were much more formal than the large hippopotamus.

Moreover, the tanks in Yu Tian's hands were basically very new, unlike the second-hand discarded goods in the hands of the Big Hippo. They looked even more ferocious.

After getting off the car, everyone gathered together.

Muhammad could not help but sigh. "Did Abu... Meet the god of wealth?"

ABU's expression was also complicated, but he soon beamed and said, "Is the new boss so rich? Then are we going to live a good life in the future?"

"That will depend on your performance. "

Eddie gave Alabu a meaningful look and said, "Let's go into the meeting room. The boss has been waiting for us for a long time. "

The meeting room was already filled with people. The leaders of the dozens of small forces in the South Camp had already taken their seats in the meeting room, waiting for Eddie and the group of people from the north camp to enter.

Originally, this kind of meeting should have been a rostrum in the front, with hundreds of chairs placed below, arranged in the style of a large meeting hall.

However, the meeting room in the south camp was not big, and there was a large long table in the middle that took up a lot of space. Therefore, everyone could only sit around the two sides of the long table, and then squeeze into the walls on both sides.

This way, only a few people could squeeze into the table, and more people could only sit at the back, or even lean against the wall.

Fortunately, the pirates on this side did not care much about the etiquette of the seating arrangement. Other than the boss and the important people sitting at the front of the main seat, there was no difference between the priority and the inferiority of the others.

On his left and right were Yu Tian and the Big Hippo, and the seats further down were very casual.

Those pirate leaders who were eager to curry favor took the seats around them and sat around them and behind them.

Although everyone was trying their best to keep quiet and the speaker was trying his best to keep his voice down, the meeting room was still filled with buzzing noise, just like the elementary school classroom in the eastern country..

Translator: 549690339

Yu Tian never expected these people to have any discipline. In their eyes, a meeting was just like a banquet.

The only difference was that there was wine at the banquet and no wine in the meeting room. One could brag freely at the banquet, but one could not speak casually in the meeting room.

After all, a meeting was more serious.

Muhammad and Abu did not dare to neglect this occasion. They obediently ran to the back to find a seat.

Eddie walked to Abu's side in a serious manner. He gave a standing salute and then began to report on his work.

This was a very smart move. It fully expressed the attitude that he should have as a subordinate.

In fact, Eddie's status had always been higher than Abu's, because Eddie had the backing of the Big Hippo, and he was highly valued by the big hippo.

Eddie first became a pirate under the Big Hippo, and still used the pirate way to make money for the Big Hippo.

Later on, the pirate industry became more and more depressed, and Eddie began to go ashore to help the Big Hippo take care of other things.

After not being a pirate, big hippopotamus handed over the assignments to Eddie because Eddie was very familiar with the surrounding pirates.

Therefore, when Eddie ran to the territory of the small warlords, everyone would give him some extra face.

Eddie and Abu were relatively familiar with each other. Abu had always been very polite to Eddie.

This was because Abu hoped to influence big hippopotamus's strategic plan by befriending the generals under big hippopotamus, so that big hippopotamus would not have any ideas about kandama.

This feeling was similar to how Wu Sangui gave Lord Wei a heavy gift and made him speak a few good words in front of the little emperor.

However, now that the feng Shui had suddenly changed, the Pingxi King had suddenly overthrown the Qing dynasty, and the Emperor had announced his surrender. Lord Wei's balls started to hurt.

Lord Wei had his own personal feelings of love, hate, and hatred, but Eddie did not have so many personal preferences.

Eddie was relieved of the psychological burden and easily integrated into his new role. He was now Abu's subordinate.

His positioning was very skillful. It seemed like he was reporting to Abu, but he was standing behind Abu's side.

He was facing Yu Tian 's position.

Obviously, he knew that Yu Tian was the mastermind behind this powerful force and was the real mastermind behind everything.

As for the Big Hippo, he only needed to maintain a polite attitude. Things like reporting work had nothing to do with the Big Hippo.

Yu Tian was very satisfied with his attitude. He liked people who were more clear-headed.

Eddie clearly knew who his boss was. On the surface, he was standing behind Abu, but in fact, he was reporting work to Yu Tian.

As for the content of the report, Yu Tian did not care.

A pirate leader ran away from the north camp, and he even took away hundreds of small pirates. was this a very serious matter?

Eddie, find a seat and sit down. We are ready for the meeting.

Eddie appeared to blame himself. Although he was not responsible for what happened in the North Camp, as an outstanding subordinate, he naturally had to bravely shoulder the responsibility.

"I'm sorry, Boss. I didn't expect Romeo to run away... if I had known earlier, I would have informed General Mohammed and asked him to stop Romeo at all costs.

“No, no, no. This has nothing to do with you. ”

Yu Tian said cheerfully, “I don’t care about these troops, whether it’s your north camp or the south camp... if any of you don ‘t want to work anymore, just run away.”. Or just tell me frankly, and I can let you take your brothers and leave freely.”

These words immediately attracted the attention of the others in the meeting room. In just a split second, the pirate leaders in the meeting room quieted down.

Yu Tian turned to the others in the meeting room and said, “These words are still valid now. If any of you feel that surrendering to Abu is an intolerable thing, I can still give you a chance now. Take your own soldiers, your weapons, equipment, and property and leave the Maniza Land Now.

The pirates were instantly stunned. They did not understand the meaning of Yu Tian’s words, nor did they know how sincere Yu Tian’s words were.

At this time, of course, no one would just leave with a flick of their sleeves.

Although Yu Tian sounded nice on the surface, who knew if he would be dragged out by the guards and shot to death the moment he stepped out of the meeting room’s door.

Outside the conference room were general Abu’s guards and soldiers, while inside the conference room were the Big Guy and Cass’s mouse squad.

These people had brought their weapons, but the guards were all clearly Akka, while the mouse squad had concealed their pistols.

Whoever dared to cause trouble here would definitely not have a good ending.

Yu Tian saw that everyone remained silent, he continued to laugh, “Don’t worry, Pm telling the truth. If any of you don’t want to work under General Abu, you can leave now. Take your soldiers and equipment, a few hundred people, or a few thousand people...”

“I don’t care about the army you have, whether it’s a few hundred people or a few thousand people, no matter what kind of weapons and equipment you have.

“You don’t have anything to rely on. The army and power that you have are nothing in my eyes.

“In a place like this, as long as I have money, will I still lack soldiers? Will I still lack weapons? I can take out a large number of weapons and equipment at any time. I can arm a few armored forces and turn the armored forces that you used to be proud of into scrap metal.”

“You know what? I can crush you with money. ”

“So, I sincerely hope that you can get lost quickly. If you don’t intend to stay and serve me well, it’s better for you to get lost as soon as possible. ”

“If you want to stay and make a living in maniza, then you have to obediently follow my orders and help me build Maniza into a more stable and prosperous city.

Yu Tian’s words came to an end temporarily, and the pirate leaders present felt a little uncomfortable.

It was true that there was nothing to be proud of and rely on in such a poor place.

Don’t think that just because the beautiful country had a failed military operation in maniza, it meant that the combat strength of Maniza was strong.

After all, it was just a small team, just a case of the failure of the special forces.

This did not mean that the military strength of the People’s Republic of China was strong, nor did it mean that the world powers could not do anything to the People’s Republic of China.

As long as he was willing to spend money and used the right method, Yu Tian was completely capable of sweeping through the People’s Republic of China.

These warlords and pirates were nothing but a joke in front of Yu Tian..

“I will definitely do my duty and contribute my strength to Mr. Yu, General Abu, and the development of the land of Moniza. ”

Eddie was the first to express his stance. While the others were still in a daze, he shouted out these mushy slogans.

Since they had already surrendered, there was no need to put on airs.

Eddie was very clear about his situation. If he were to follow his new boss, he would definitely have a much better life than if he were to run away and become a pirate.

It was not only because he no longer had the strength to become a pirate, but it was also because the pirate industry had already lost its future.

Controlling a city and region and controlling a legitimate state power was a matter with a bright future.

If someone, for the sake of a moment of pleasure, abandoned his hard-earned official identity and went back to being a pirate, his future would basically be ruined.

This was the thought of some people who understood.

There were also some pirate leaders. Although they didn't have such a long-term vision, they knew very well what they were capable of.

They knew that their power was very weak. Even if they were independent, it would be difficult for them to have a chance to develop and grow.

When the hippo ruled the land of Maniza, they could no longer survive. Now that the future of the pirate industry was getting dimmer, it was even more impossible for them to go back to being pirates.

Therefore, the small pirate leaders in the South Camp immediately followed Eddie and shouted, “Firmly support the rule of general Abu. The land of Maniza will definitely grow more prosperous in the hands of General Abu...

There were also some smart pirate leaders who also called Yu Tian’s name, indicating that they would definitely obey and support Yu Tian ‘s management.

Anyone with a bit of brains could see that general Abu’s current situation was only possible because of Yu Tian’s support. Yu Tian was the real boss behind the scenes.

After the young pirate leader of the South Camp shouted the slogan, mohammed of the North Camp also immediately expressed his stance, “I am a soldier now. A soldier’s duty is to obey orders. No matter who is our new leader, I will faithfully carry out the orders. ”

Next, it was Alabu’s turn. The south camp had already “Sworn” , leaving him as the leader of the North Camp.

Yu Tian's words were very clear. He did not care about these small leaders at all, nor did he care about the hundreds of soldiers in Alabu's hands.

Even if it was Romeo who ran away, Yu Tian did not pursue his interest.

Allab's mind was in a mess now. He had many other ideas, but now everyone in the meeting room had suddenly declared their allegiance to Yu Tian and allab, he had no room to think at all.

So he immediately stood at attention, he said loudly, "From now on, Boss Yu and General Ab are my bosses. I, allab, AM determined to follow the leadership of Boss Yu and General Ab. "If they want me to go east, I will definitely not go west. "If they want me to drive the dogs, I will definitely not drive the chickens. "If they want me to go south, I will definitely not go north. "If they want me to bare my teeth, I will definitely not grin...

As he said that, Abu opened his mouth proudly, revealing a mouth full of big white teeth.

The atmosphere in the meeting room was very harmonious. On the surface, everyone completely fell for general Abu. The Big Hippo's face was full of regret and helplessness.

He was still sitting at the scene, but these people did not care about his face at all.

Yesterday, these people were all his loyal subordinates, but now they immediately became Abu's loyal fans. This made him feel uncomfortable.

However, the world was a winner-take-all world. The Big Hippo did not have the right to be unwilling.

In this meeting, Yu Tiandao wanted to see the attitude of the troops under the Big Hippo.

He didn't care whether these people wanted to surrender or resist. In any case, this kind of random troops didn't have much value. Even if he randomly recruited a few pirates, they wouldn't be any worse than them.

The most important thing was the traditional view of an easterner. He wouldn't doubt the people he used, but he wouldn't use the people he suspected.

If he felt that these pirate leaders had problems, or even that there was a possibility of a backlash, Yu Tian would throw them far away and throw them into a remote corner, leaving them to fend for themselves.

Or, he might as well simply and resolutely destroy them.

If he felt that these pirate leaders were still useful, Yu Tian could rest assured and reorganize them into his own army, increasing their strength in case of a need in the future.

On the first day of meeting, he couldn't see anything too profound, but Yu Tian's overall impression of these young pirate leaders was quite good.

These people did not have much of a sense of loyalty. In any case, if they had milk, they would be mothers. Whoever was stronger and gave more benefits, they would follow.

Even Eddie, who had lost more than a hundred soldiers at Yu Tian's hands, did not seem to have any resentment.

This situation was the same as the Pirates of Faraday.

Perhaps it was because the bloody battles of the pirates were too common, and they generally did not have any animosity toward the enemies on the battlefield.

However, for the civilians in Maniza, this matter of changing rulers was a topic worth talking about.

The first meeting ended smoothly, and Abu's army began to officially move into the southern army camp in Maniza.

Maniza was many times more prosperous than Kanimar, and Abu's soldiers and generals were happy to move their entire families to Maniza.

So, what Yu Tian needed to do now was to expand the military camp in Maniza and also do some real estate business in Maniza.

The military camp was easy to deal with. The two military camps that big hippopotamus had were enough. They could easily accommodate 50 to 60 thousand troops.

The slightly problematic thing was that Yu Tian planned to expand more armored troops in the future.

Both the north and south camps had garages. The North Camp's garages were mainly used to store those cheap military vehicles, while the south camp's garages were mainly used to store the tanks and armored vehicles in the hands of the Big Hippo.

The South Camp's garages were not very big, but after moving out those worthless military vehicles, it was not a problem to store 200 to 300 tanks and armored vehicles.

The extra military vehicles could not all be piled up in the north camp, so they had to continue expanding on the base of the original camp.

The expansion of the south camp was more convenient than the north camp, because the south camp was surrounded by Gobi Wilderness. The further south they went, the more empty it became, and all of it was worthless land.

The north camp was different. The further north they went, the more beautiful the mountains and water were, and all of it was filled with oases and farmland.

Plants were a very precious resource in Damadi. Of course, Yu Tian would not flatten those oases and use them to build a military camp.

Hence, his main force in the future would be placed on the south camp. In addition, Manizadi was a port city. Yu Tian felt that he could consider organizing a naval force with a certain degree of deterrence here..

Translator: 549690339

These were all problems that needed to be solved with money. The construction of the Navy was not cheap. It was much more expensive than the army buying those tanks and helicopters.

There was no need to think about battleships, destroyers, cruisers, and aircraft carriers. Aircraft carriers were even more of a joke.

Yu Tian felt that he could get two frigates, or even a frigate, or a torpedo boat or something like that.

Then, he would put up a sign for the Coast Guard and start to control the surrounding waters in the name of Abu.

There were two large port cities in the north and two in the south of the city.

The largest port in the south was the capital of the city, the oasis.

There was basically no navy in the city. Even if there was, it was similar to pirates. They were all modified fishing boats and speedboats, barely maintaining order around the port.

This meant that there were no foreign troops invading. If not, any country's fleet would be able to completely break through Dama prefecture's defenses.

It was just like when the eastern country was knocked open by the cannons.

Yu Tian wanted to build a navy to give the surrounding forces a greater deterrent. He wanted to let them know that Abu was strong and did not dare to have any designs on Maniza Prefecture.

However, building a navy was a big project. First, he needed to at least build a dedicated military port.

This matter could not be rushed. General Caro still needed to organize the army first.

General Caro would be in charge of organizing the army. General Abu only needed to appoint some officers that he trusted.

What Yu Tian needed to do next was to completely control the administrative rights of Maniza.

Maniza also had a city government this was nonsense.

The mayor and the officials of the various organizations were appointed and appointed by the Big Hippo. All the power had previously been in the hands of the Big Hippo.

This was similar to the military government of the previous warlords. However, the Big Hippo felt that city management was more troublesome, so it also found some other professionals to be the city managers on the surface.

Yu Tian and Abu were now going to start screening these officials, eliminating the connections of the Big Hippo, and leaving behind some capable people. They were also going to place some of their own trusted aides in certain positions to control the key points of the city.

General Abu had some experience in placing people, but he did not know much about talent.

Managing a city was a very complicated job, especially when one didn't have much financial support and had to give blood to the army. It was even more difficult to develop a city.

From this point of view, the administrative organization in Maniza was basically qualified.

As for some unqualified officials, they were probably executed by the big hippo long ago.

However, the attraction of the Maniza land to Yu Tian was not very big.

The economic strength of the country was only so-so. Not to mention how ugly a chicken's fart was, the real fiscal revenue was also not much.

If the East Dragon Company was compared to the Maniza land, it was easy to understand what it meant to be as rich as a country.

Although the Maniza land was a big port in the maniza land, and it could also receive some fiscal subsidies on tax revenue, because the business in the Maniza land was not prosperous, the tax revenue was still a little insufficient to make ends meet.

If he relied on the income of Maniza to build, it would at most develop into a poor hippo.

Therefore, Yu Tian was not concerned about the income of the city. He felt that if he wanted to be self-sufficient in Tamar, he had to start mining.

In the past, Abu's sphere of influence was only in kannima, and it was in a precarious state. At that time, Yu Tian did not have much interest in mining.

Now that he controlled the Maniza land, it was equivalent to becoming the top warlord in the country.

As long as Abu could hold on to his land, the mining business could continue to develop for a long time.

Now, it was time to invest in mining companies.

Previously, Yu Tian had asked for a mining exploration team from the eastern company. After conducting a geological survey near Kamnima, they also found several mineral deposits that might be worth mining.

The main mineral deposits in dama were uranium, iron, tin, gypsum, bauxite, copper, lead, coal, and so on.

In addition, there was also oil and natural gas.

Most of the mineral deposits here were still undeveloped. The main reason was that the political situation was unstable and there was no consortium investment.

Now that Yu Tian had solved this problem, with Abu's army escorting him, he could safely throw the mining company here to do business.

Kanima had discovered a few iron mines, and the eastern country just happened to have a large amount of iron ore import demand. Yu Tian felt that he could provide sufficient iron ore support for his country. First, he should take these iron mines and dig them out ruthlessly.

He urged the exploration team to come to a conclusion quickly, while contacting uncle long to quickly prepare a professional mining company.

Uncle Long had already made preparations for mining in Tamar. After all, Yu Tian had always been ready to invade Tamar.

Not only had he registered an international mining company, but he had also prepared the relevant talents and workers.

Now, they were just waiting for the dust to settle and were ready to go to Tamar to dig for gold at any time.

This matter took about half a month. The survey team finally decided on the first mining site. The first batch of personnel from the mining company also quickly arrived at Maniza.

Then, they began to prepare for mining.

First, they had to build the mining area, including factories and dormitories. At the same time, they also had to transport mining equipment and smelting equipment.

This kind of work was considered strong for the people of the eastern country.

Therefore, the people in charge of these jobs were mostly from the eastern country. However, the company registered by Uncle Long was a foreign company under the name of a small country.

Then, the company began to recruit a large number of cheap workers. Abu was very happy to announce to the residents of kannima that the locals were priority.

This matter made Kannima become much more prosperous. Many people from the nearby villages ran to Kannima, ready to make a living in this place.

This included the fishermen of the pirate village, Faraday. They also began to consider changing from the farmer class to the working class.

After another half a month, the mining company started to produce before the construction of the mine was completely completed.

Yu Tian was finally relieved.

He had always been at the East Dragon Company, and now, he had finally given the East Dragon Company some feedback.

Things began to get on the right track. The Big Hippo had finally left Damadi safely. Under the arrangement of the East Dragon Company, it had gone to a small country to become a wealthy small businessman.

Other than that, none of the military officers and troops under big hippopotamus resigned and left on their own initiative. All of them started to work for their new boss happily.

After settling all these matters, Yu Tian suddenly remembered that he had forgotten an important matter..

Yu Tian had forgotten a terrible thing.

Some things could be forgotten as soon as they were forgotten. Once they were forgotten, they would no longer exist.

However, even if he had forgotten some things, he would still suddenly appear at the right time.

Early in the morning, Yu Tian was still sleeping when General Abu suddenly came looking for him. “My boss, we seem to be in trouble.”

“Trouble? What Trouble?”

Yu Tian leisurely brushed his teeth and washed his face while instructing the big guy to prepare breakfast for him.

He was now living in the most luxurious villa in Maniza. The decorations, furniture, and appliances here, as well as all the facilities, were comparable to world-class standards.

This villa was originally owned by the Big Hippo. However, after the Big Hippo left the Happy Valley, the villa was naturally given to Yu Tian.

Yu Tian was originally going to move in a long time ago. However, all his subordinates felt that they should renovate the villa and change all the furniture so that they could move in again.

Therefore, the matter of moving into a new home was delayed for more than half a month.

This villa was located at the edge of the city of Maniza. It was close to the seaside and not far from the city. It was far from the port of Maniza. Moreover, it could go directly to the military camp in the south along the flat road. This location was actually the political and military center of the entire Maniza.

General Abu had taken the initiative to let Yu Tian live in this villa. It was obvious that he had straightened out his position and recognized his identity.

Just like now, if there was anything that he felt was important, he would come and ask for Yu Tian's opinion.

However, Yu Tian was not in a hurry at all.

In the current Maniza, the military had general caro as Abu's adviser. The army was also reorganizing. The subordinates of Big Hippo were all obediently accepting transfers and arrangements, there was no need for Abu to worry about anything.

There were not many changes in the city management. It was still the same mayor and the same management team. Even the personnel of the various organizations had not changed much. This still did not need Abu to worry about.

Abu was now an idle role. Other than showing up from time to time and being a spiritual symbol for the soldiers at the bottom, he had nothing to do all day.

Other than throwing a banquet and causing trouble for a few women, he did not encounter any trouble.

Therefore, Yu Tian was not in a hurry at all. He unhurriedly asked his bodyguard to prepare breakfast and slowly invited general Abu to eat with him.

General Abu could only sit down with Yu Tian patiently. After a simple breakfast, he was called to the balcony by Yu Tian. He looked at the sea view and drank green tea at the same time..

After dawdling for a long time, general Abu finally had a chance to speak.

“My boss, Oasis called. They asked me where the investigation team that was sent to Kannima went.

“Investigation Team... ”

Yu Tian was stunned for a moment. He suddenly recalled that there was such a thing.

Previously, General Eddie had rushed to Kannima together with a few detectives sent by Oasis. The leader of the team seemed to be called... Mach or something.

However, the night after they arrived at Kenema, the war between Abu and the Big Hippo broke out.

Yu Tian scratched his head. “That investigation team... did they die in the military camp? That night, the military camp was in such a state...

“No, no... “Abu hurriedly shook his head. “I asked my adjutant. That day, the oasis policemen all stayed in Kenema city. “We originally arranged a dormitory in the military camp, but they entered the city by themselves and stayed in a hotel. ”

Yu Tian let out a sigh of relief. “That’s good. It’s still safe to stay in Kannima City. After all, they are also policemen sent by Oasis. If they died without any reason, we would lose face.

Abu said with a bitter face, “But now, they are missing. It’s almost like they are dead.

“Missing? How can a few living people go missing?”Yu Tian had a headache.

“Have your people investigated how they went missing?”

“Uh... let my adjutant explain it to you.”

Abu took out his small tablet and placed it on the table. Facing Yu Tian, he opened the communication video.

The video quickly connected to Abu’s adjutant.

This adjutant was called Harold, and he was once general Abu’s right-hand man.

However, it was no longer appropriate to call him Harold as an adjutant because he had already been appointed by Abu as the commander of the Kandama Front.

Of course, there was also a problem with this commander's title. General Abu had yet to receive a nominal commander's appointment, let alone the officers under him.

All the appointments of officers were their own internal affairs, and had nothing to do with the country.

Harold was not good at commanding battles, and his level was not much better than those pirate leaders.

However, because he had been an adjutant under Abu for a long time, he was familiar with dealing with internal problems of the army and managing officers and soldiers at all levels.

Harold was now in charge of all the troops in Kannima, an army of over 3,000 people.

Half of this army was Abu's original veterans and local recruits from Kannima. The other half was the surrendered soldiers under Big Hippo.

After the surrendered soldiers were messed up and reorganized, half of the officers were replaced by the old subordinates of General Abu. This army could be considered to be in the hands of Yu Tian.

As a high-ranking officer in Abu Group, Harold was very clear about Yu Tian's identity and status. As soon as he saw Yu Tian, he immediately saluted him in the video.

"Hello, Boss!"

According to Yu Tian's request, everyone called him boss.

As for the title of general, Marshal, and commander, he didn't need it. Yu Tian felt that these titles were too low. Only the title of boss was above all other titles.

Although the title of boss was very common in the eastern countries, even if there was a stall on the street or a few fried dough sticks, people could still call him boss.

"Cough cough..."

Without mentioning anything else, Yu Tian retracted his thoughts and said to Harold, "Tell me, what exactly is the situation?"

"Yes, Boss."

Harold saluted again, then he said, "The thing is, the investigation team did book a room in the hotel that day. "We originally arranged a dormitory for them in the military camp and a dinner party for them. "But after they finished their investigation in the afternoon, they didn't return to the military camp and went straight back to the hotel..." Yu Tian frowned. "Get to the point. Where did they go missing?" "This, it should be in the hotel.

“What do you mean should? When did they go missing?”

“Uh... I don't know...”

Harold was a little embarrassed..

“You don't Know? When the investigation team came to Kenema, didn't you arrange for people to keep an eye on them?”

“Uh, I didn't specially arrange for people to keep an eye on them. “Because that night, all of Kenema was patrolled by our soldiers. Because of the war, the entire Kenema was under a curfew. No residents went out at night, so...”

“In other words, they were in the hotel that night and wouldn’t appear near the battlefield?”

“Should... Yes.

“Should be, should be. Don’t you have a definite answer?”

“UH... ”

“Then when did you find out that they were missing?”

“Uh, this... I only found out this morning.

Harold said with a bitter face, “Because of the war, everyone forgot about those policemen. When the oasis called to ask about the situation this morning, I remembered Kannima and those policemen. So I quickly brought people to the hotel to investigate. We asked the boss and the guests who stayed in the hotel that day...

“Tell us the result.

“They did return to the hotel that evening, but no one saw them after that.”. “The hotel owner didn’t know when they left, and because they had already paid the room fee, the hotel owner didn’t care about this matter... “So, from that evening, they were actually already missing.”

“Uh... you can think of it that way.”

“Alright, you can arrange for people to continue investigating this matter... just let the KANNIMA police station investigate according to normal cases, don’t use the army to disturb the order of Kannima...”

“Yes, Boss.”

Harold saluted again.

Yu Tian sighed and hung up the call.

He didn’t expect Harold to find anything. After all, most of Abu’s men were pirates, it was already good enough to know a few words.

It was still too difficult for them to investigate.

Although Kanimar also had a police station, it was also a group of pirates who couldn’t read.

It wasn’t that there weren’t people who could read at all. It was mainly those who had a little bit of knowledge who went to big cities to make a fortune.

For example, cities like Monizardi.

Kandama might have some talents, but they were not in the police station.

The police station was a group of pirates. They relied on Akka and Akka's gun butts to carry out their official duties and handle cases.

If they really wanted to seriously investigate this case, they would need to send professionals from Manizadi.

In fact, Kandama's current development trend was not bad. Because of the arrival of the mining companies, Kandama had a lot of jobs out of thin air. Although they were low-income coolies, they also gave many poor people a chance to support their families.

Jobs could attract foreign people, increase the income of local people, promote local consumption, and prosper the local market... This was a series of benign effects.

Therefore, attracting investment had always been a matter of great importance to the various official organizations. Even many small countries did not hesitate to use decades of local mining rights in exchange for foreign investment, all of this was to develop themselves faster.

Therefore, the most important thing for Yu Tian now was to maintain law and order in Kannima and make this place more prosperous.

As for the missing policemen in oasis, they were not worth making too much noise in kannima, much less disturbing the people.

However, the missing policemen were, after all, the investigation team sent by Oasis.

Although they were just a few low-ranking policemen, they still represented Oasis'face. Yu Tian still needed to investigate them.

What was worth Yu Tian 's attention was not the missing policemen, but the strange attitude of Oasis.

After thinking for a while, Yu Tian said to Abu, "Let's go to the military camp and ask everyone to have a meeting."

It only took a few minutes to drive from the villa to the military camp.

After arriving at the military camp, General Caro and the others also rushed to the meeting room one after another.

The upper echelons of the ABU group's military were currently in a relatively balanced state. Other than the high-ranking officers under Abu, the few high-ranking officers under big hippopotamus also occupied a lot of positions.

For example, Eddie, Mohammed, and that Alabu.

Eddie took over the north camp and took over the army under Mohammed. Together with some of Abu's recruits, they formed a new army of more than two thousand people.

Mohammed remained in the north camp, but the soldiers under him were replaced by a part of the small pirate groups in the South Camp. The organization was also in a mess, and many of Abu's low-ranking officers were placed there.

Everyone knew the purpose of this reorganization, and they could accept it.

They had already lost the intention to rebel. Now, as long as they could do things well and show their abilities, Yu Tian would still give them the rights that they should have.

The only one left was Abu. His soldiers were not messed up, and they were not mixed with sand.

Yu Tian seemed to have forgotten about him and still let him control his hundreds of men. He only changed his base from the north to the south, staying under the eyes of General Caro.

His hundreds of men were nothing in Yu Tian's eyes.

Because allab did not bring his middle-ranking officers with him at the last meeting, he did not get any benefits from the redistribution of power this time. This made him a little depressed, but the more depressing thing was still to come.

General Caro didn't have a real job, but he was responsible for the management and personnel arrangements of the entire Legion. His position was more important than any military advisor.

The armored forces were almost in the hands of General Caro. Although the officers of the armored forces were mostly Abou's direct descendants, there were still many tiger squad instructors.

The instructors were always in charge of daily training, including the armored force and the troops that were still being reorganized.

Once they entered a state of war, the instructors of the tiger squad would naturally become commanders, and they would have more authority than the officers that were appointed on the surface.

Such an army, even though it was said to be in Abramovich's hands, was actually similar to it being in Yu Tian's hands.

The key was that Abu knew his position very well. Without Yu Tian's heavy support, he would only be a penniless warlord now.

So when Yu Tian said that he was going to have a meeting, Abu immediately notified the higher-ups of the army and gathered in the meeting room of the South Camp.

All the generals participating in the conference knew the significance of this seating arrangement, and their eyes were all focused on Yu Tian. Yu Tian coughed lightly and said slowly, “Recently, we have to prepare for war....

Chapter 1017 - Chapter 1017: Chapter 1016, war preparations

Yu Tian’s first words made everyone nervous.

There was a slight commotion in the meeting room. Yu Tian glanced at everyone with dissatisfaction, and everyone immediately quieted down.

Yu Tian said slowly, “Everyone here is a high-ranking officer in the army. They are all generals. Why Can’t they keep their cool over such a small matter?”

Everyone could not help but curse in their hearts. How could war be a small matter?

Yu Tian paused for a moment before speaking about the missing investigation team. Then, he said, “What do you all think about this matter?”

Everyone fell silent. With their pitiful intelligence, they started to think about the meaning behind Yu Tian's words.

In the end, it was General Caro who spoke first. "That's right. This matter may indeed lead to war. We must prepare for war in advance."

Eddie immediately raised a question. "Only a few small policemen have gone missing. Is it necessary for oasis to launch a war against us?"

General Caro said, "This matter has already been a month or two. Oasis didn't mention it earlier or later. Now, they suddenly ask about our investigation team... Don't you find it strange?"

Mohammed also said, "Shouldn't we first find out where the investigation team went?"

Alabu quickly expressed his presence. "They must have seen the war and sneaked back."

General Kalo shook his head. "Not necessarily. Although the possibility of them sneaking back is very high, it's also possible that they were captured by others.

"Captured? who captured them? They are just a few small police officers. What can they do if they are captured?"

General Caro said, ("It is hard to say. Perhaps it is just for the purpose of kidnapping and extortion, or... they are deliberately stirring up a conflict between us and the Oasis?"

Yu Tian knocked on the table. "There is no need to discuss this matter for the time being. There is no point in guessing. "Let the KANIMAR police station handle the investigation. In addition, send a few elite detectives from the Maniza police station to help... for this matter, ABU, contact the Maniza city government personally. Tell them to take it seriously and make good arrangements.

"Yes, Boss."

Abu, who was sitting in the main seat, did not have the airs of a boss at all.

Yu Tian said again, "This may be a conspiracy by Oasis, or there may be other warlords behind it. "But no matter what's behind this, we just need to be prepared for the war... General Caro, I'll leave these things to you. "

General Caro nodded. "Don't worry, boss. It will definitely be no problem to defend the territory of Maniza Land.

The land of Maniza had always been safe and sound in the hands of the Great Hippo. General Caro felt that it would not be lost in his hands, not to mention that their current strength was much stronger than the Great Hippo.

However, the Great Hippo had occupied the land of Maniza for many years, and the surrounding forces were already used to its existence.

General Abu was a small warlord before, and there was a limit to how strong he was compared to an ordinary pirate gang. Now that he had suddenly seized the territory of the hippo, it was inevitable that the surrounding forces would be jealous.

If oasis appeared and called for the surrounding forces to attack Abu's group, General Karo's side would be a little uncomfortable.

Yu Tian shook his head. "Not only do I want you to defend Maniza, but I also want you to defend Kanima. They are mining there, so it's impossible for them to give up.

"As for Kanimar..."general karo frowned. "We might need some weapons and equipment to support us."

To the east of Kanimar was the sea, and to the north was the coastline that led to Maniza. Due to the north and northwest, there were many mountains. To the west, there was more vegetation, and to the south and southwest, it was basically the Gobi Wilderness.

This was actually an isolated city. If it wasn't for the fact that there were some oases and water sources nearby and that it was close to the sea, allowing fishermen and pirates to find a way to survive, no one would live here.

However, Kannima was actually located on a major transportation route. From the coastline of Kannima, it would only take one day to reach the Maniza land.

In addition, if one wanted to go to the Maniza land from the south, they would either have to drill into the mountains and walk, or take an arc from the west, passing through a few other small and medium-sized cities before reaching the Maniza land.

However, to the merchants, the kannima transportation route was not very valuable.

Commercial activities between the north and the south were either by sea or by land in the west.

There were more oases in the west, and the environment was more comfortable. The transportation conditions were also better than the coastal areas, and there were more small and medium-sized cities. It was convenient to rest and resupply.

Therefore, the greatest value of the kannima transportation route was still in the military.

The army could overcome the bumpiness of the journey. All they needed was time.

Therefore, Kannima could be considered a barrier to the south of the Moniza land, although it would not have much of an impact without this barrier.

However, the two cities were stuck at two exits of the coastline, forming a dumbbell shape.

If they covered each other, at least they would not have to worry about being besieged from all sides. They could also become each other's logistics supply line.

As long as they had enough military strength, it wasn't a bad thing to occupy both cities at the same time.

Yu Tian obviously wanted both sides.

Hence, he asked general caro, “What kind of weapons and equipment do you need?

General Caro said firmly, “Tanks, armored vehicles... more rpgs. ”

There was basically no navy in the F * Ck land. If they were to start a war, the army basically wouldn't consider taking the sea route.

Not to mention the logistical supplies, the ammunition and supplies that they carried could be used by the army for a few days. The main reason was that the army that came by the sea could not even bring a single military vehicle, and their combat strength would be greatly reduced.

Their mobility and assault ability were even more so. According to the nature of the Damadi army, this type of army would usually collapse if they encountered an armored force.

Therefore, General Caro only wanted one kind of army, and that was the armored forces.

The other armies were all supporting the armored forces, so the armored forces could carry the entire battlefield.

Of course, if there was a suitable terrain and enough rpgs, the infantry was not completely unable to fight.

The main reason was that the army of the people of the people of the people of the people of the people of the people of the people of the people of the people of the people of the people of the people of the people of the people of the people of the people of the People's Republic of China did not necessarily have the will to fight desperately. In terms of fighting will, they might not even be comparable to the pirates.

General Caro needed more tanks and armored vehicles. If Yu Tian could not replenish them, he could only split the existing armored troops into two parts and station them in Maniza and Kanimar respectively.

This was not impossible. At least, the strength of both cities would not be weaker than the great hippo.

However, facing the siege of the surrounding forces, such a small number of armored troops seemed to be a little insufficient..

To Yu Tian, the problems that could be solved with money were all minor problems.

Tanks and armored vehicles were not a problem. As long as these things cost a little money, they could be sent to godforsaken land very quickly. There were as many of them as he wanted.

The key problem was the people driving the tanks.

Yu Tian asked again, ‘(How is the training of your armored forces going?’

“The training is almost complete. Their driving and shooting are not a problem. The main thing is their formation and coordination proficiency. “However, the current command is mainly based on our instructors. They can still display the powerful strength of the armored forces on the battlefield. ” “How many tanks and armored vehicles do you need?”

“The armored soldiers that we originally trained are over-allocated. In addition to the armored soldiers that surrendered to the great hippo... you can have 200 more tanks without a problem. “As for the armored vehicles, it’s up to you. In any case, the more the better. I can replace all those broken military vehicles.

“Your appetite is quite big... but it doesn’t matter, it won’t cost a few hundred million.

Yu Tian chuckled twice, then, he announced, “Alright, everyone, go back and tidy up the army and prepare for a possible war. General Caro, arrange for the movement of the army. Kanimar is equally important to us... meeting adjourned.”

After announcing the end of the meeting, the other generals returned to their own camps. Only General Karo and general Abu stayed behind.

Yu Tian first called Uncle Long and asked him to arrange for “Delivery. ”

About 300 tanks and armored vehicles would be sent over first, ensuring that there would be at least 100 tanks and 100 armored vehicles in both Maniza and Kanimar.

Actually, this number could be even more, but too many of them would easily cause international influence, so it was better to keep a low profile and control the number of armored troops.

If he was not worried about the international impact, Yu Tian would have already started using armed helicopters.

Although Maniza had a port, it did not have a dedicated military port.

The movement of these equipment was too loud. Yu Tian was worried that someone would find out the origin of the goods and find out that Donglong company was also involved, so he decided to secretly accept the equipment.

In addition, a port was being built near Kenema.

The port did not need to consider the possibility of docking warships or many cargo ships for the time being, because Yu Tian would not form a navy for the time being, and Kenema could not develop import and export trade for the time being.

Its main function was to provide iron ore for the mining companies to export. In a short time, it only needed to let one or two large ships dock and load and unload the goods.

Therefore, it was a small private dock. Other than the mining companies, no one else would be able to use it.

Unfortunately, the small dock had not been completed yet. The equipment that Uncle Long had sent over could only be used to land on the beach.

After agreeing on the arrival time of the tanks, General Karo was going to arrange for the armored soldiers to receive the goods. The majority of this army would be stationed at Khannema, and a small portion of them would drive the tanks back to Maniza.

In addition, he was going to arrange for other troops to be stationed in khannema.

Yu Tian had chosen the ragtag army under Muhammad, along with the hundreds of people from Arab.

These two forces were actually the most useless force in the current army of the Abu Group.

The army that Muhammad had originally led was considered new recruits in the army of the Great Hippo. Although the level of their business was slightly lower, their discipline was still passable.

The army that he was leading now was the army that was assembled by the dozens of small pirate forces in the South Camp. It was called the “Scattered sand army” for short.

Although they had undergone reorganization and tiger squad training, because they had trained for too long, their previous habits were deeply ingrained. Their current appearance was still the same as before. They basically did not have any sense of discipline and teamwork.

Perhaps their individual qualities were higher, but on the battlefield, they were all fighting in small groups. Everyone relied on their own abilities and fought their own battles.

Such an army was not too much of a problem for street battles and small-scale battles, but a group battle would definitely be a scam.

General Abu did not quite understand. “Boss, wouldn’t it be a little unreliable to send these random troops to Kanmud City? If the oasis army really came, would they be able to withstand it?”

Yu Tian smiled. “Aren’t there still armored troops? They’re just going there to play support. Besides, I’ll be going to Kanimar for a while, so there won’t be any problems.”

General Abu was even more confused. “As for Kanimar... Don’t we need General Caro to personally take charge? Uh, what I mean is, although the boss is also very powerful, general caro is more familiar with the armored troops...

Yu Tian smiled. “I know what you mean. General Karo indeed knows more about battlefield command than I do... but that’s why we should let General Karo take charge of Maniza.”

“But, isn’t the oasis army coming from the South?”

“Yes, but the oasis might not be the one that is really going to make a big move against us. “Kanmud doesn’t have much economic value. Taking down kanmud might even be a loss-making business, at least in the short term...”

Other than rich people like Yu Tian, no one was interested in investing in kannima. Even if it was mining, there were places that were more suitable than Kannima.

That was why kannima, that Godforsaken Place, had always been occupied by General Abu.

Yu Tian pointed at the military map on the table. “The truly valuable place is still the Maniza land. There will be many people who want to make a move on this port. For example, this...”

The location he was referring to was another port in the northern part of Damadi, SHERIMBE port.

General Abu was stunned for a moment. “Boss, are you saying that the big macaque will attack us?”

The big macaque was the biggest warlord in the northern part of Damadi, and it was much stronger than the Big Hippo.

The reason why the two warlords in the northern part of Damadi were able to live peacefully was that the two ports were quite far apart, and it didn't seem like water from a well would bother the river.

The other reason was that there were many small warlords between the two forces. Although these small warlords weren't strong, they were as difficult to deal with as flies.

The most annoying thing about flies was that it was very difficult to hit them.

Without any benefits, no one had the interest to deal with these small warlords.

If they weren't strong enough and occupied the two ports in the north at the same time, it would be the same as making the two ports into enclaves.

There would be some problems in the communication between the people on both sides. For example, if the people on this side wanted to go to that side for a meeting, they could only take the boat.

If they took the land route, they might be robbed by some blind little pirate.

They would be wiped out on the way and not even their bodies could be found. Therefore, unless they were powerful enough to control the entire northern part of the F * CK, it was better not to drag the two pieces of fat meat into their own bowl..

Chapter 1019: Chapter 1,018, the only choice

From the looks of it, the big macaque should not have any intentions of touching the land of Maniza.

General Abu was a little confused. ‘(Big macaque, he shouldn’t have stretched his hand out so far, right?’

“That might not be the case.

Yu Tian used his hand to draw a circle on the map. “What if they come over together?”

General Abu was stunned. “It can’t be that serious, right? The entire north came to attack me? I don’t think I’ve offended so many people, right? Why didn’t they fight against the Hippo in the past?”

Yu Tian sighed. “(The pattern in the past was formed after a long period of time, and everyone is already used to it. But now... a man is not guilty, but a man with wealth is guilty. You suddenly took down such a big advantage of the Maniza land, and they will definitely be jealous of you hands. “There will always be a master here. What is there to be jealous about?” So many of them came together... could it be that they are here to help the macaque monkey fight for territory?”

“Of course not. The macaque monkey can make a promise in advance and give the Maniza Land’s benefits to them. “. “If the oasis side came out and called for this matter to become well-known and everyone agreed with it, those small warlords who had no guts would be even more tempted.”

“Tempted? What’s the use of being tempted? What benefits can the big macaque give them? It’s just a port with so many people...

“That’s not a problem you have to worry about. The so-called ‘blinded by greed’ ... those small warlords were already having a hard time. Now that there’s such a chance to make a fortune and so many people are bolstering each other’s courage, why can’t they give it a try?”

“Why are they so stupid? Are they just going to work for the big macaque for Nothing?”

“It’s not considered stupid. I think the big macaque will give them some benefits after the event. Otherwise, the big macaque wouldn’t be able to control the port of Maniza.”

“Ma... egg...”

General Abu didn't know what to say. He could only say indignantly, “These little hooligans actually dare to come and snatch my territory.

Yu Tian smiled and said, “Your territory was originally snatched. It's normal for everyone to snatch it...”

General Abu scratched his head. “I have some friendship with those little pirates in the north. I think I can convince some of them to join my camp... “And then? You will give them some of the benefits of the port of Maniza?”

“UH. ”

General Abu did not know how to answer. The Maniza was nominally his, but in reality, it should be Yu Tian's.

Yu Tian did not say that he would give away the benefits of the MANIZA, so he did not have the right to give away the things here.

Yu Tian said calmly, “The Maniza must be controlled by me. No one else can think about it. ”

Only by controlling Maniza land would the ABU group have the possibility to develop and become self-sufficient in the future.

At that time, Yu Tian would not need to rely on the East Dragon Group's blood transfusion. He could even feed the East Dragon Group.

In addition, by controlling such a large city, Yu Tian would have enough troops to use in the future. Only with the army could he deal with the Sneaky Clone Society.

This ultimate goal was the most important thing.

“So, we only have one choice. If someone from the north dares to come and snatch our territory, we will fight back fiercely. There is no room for compromise or negotiation.”

Yu Tian slapped the table and set the tone for this matter.

General Abu Sighed. “Let's fight. With your support, boss, I think it won't be a problem to take down the entire F * cking country. ”

Yu Tian laughed. “It won't be that bad. I don't need the whole of Manizadi. This place is too hot to handle... however, as long as we can finish this battle, the small warlords around will accept this reality. They will tacitly acknowledge you as the new owner of Manizadi Port and won't dare to come and harass you in the future.

General Abu rubbed his palms and smiled embarrassedly. “The new owner of this place should be you. I just...

Yu Tian said, “You’re my agent, and you’re also the owner of this place. “There are some things that I make decisions because I don’t want to see you fail when you’re just starting out. You ‘ll be eliminated by others and end up like the Big Hippo...”

General Abu nodded repeatedly. “I know, I know. Boss’s arrangements will Yu Tian patted Abu’s shoulder in relief. “It’s good that you understand. When the situation stabilizes in the future, I won’t interfere in the management of the Maniza Land. “You can be arrogant in your territory and play with as many black girls as you want...

“Uh, actually, I still prefer white girls...”

“That’s your problem. I Won’t interfere with your hobbies. “. “But you have to remember that in our territory, the people of the eastern country are my guests. They should all enjoy the treatment of super citizens. “Even if there are those who committed crimes, they should be handed over to me for execution...

Yu Tian was very concerned about his identity as an easterner. In such an important strategic meeting, he would not forget to mention such a small matter.

In the end, Yu Tian and general caro confirmed the military deployment and defense arrangements and hurriedly ended the meeting.

Following that, the north and south military camps in Moniza began to prepare for the expedition.

Although the journey from Moniza to Khanima was not considered an expedition, there were still many trivial matters to deal with in the military deployment and defense.

For example, giving those old pirates a half-day off and letting them go back to say goodbye to their old lovers.

This trip would take a long time, and they might not be able to return for a few months. The old lovers would have to pack a few boiled eggs or stuff a photo in the old pirates 'pockets..

Or it could be a pure vacation to let the Army relax and let the old bachelors spend all their money.

The Pirates had a lot of shit to do, but they didn't need to worry about things like ammunition and supplies.

Whether it was Maniza or Kanimar, they all had ample reserves.

If morale wasn't taken into account, they could pull the team out of the barracks that day and head straight for Kanimar.

Yu Tian gave these pirate troops a day's rest, which was set for the third day after the meeting.

But on the second day, Yu Tian encountered something that made his balls ache.

Uncle Long suddenly informed him that an important guest had come to visit him, and told him to quickly go to the port of Manizadi to receive him.

When he received Uncle Long's call, Yu Tian was still sleeping in his bed.

However, Uncle Long told him that the guest was about to arrive at the port.

Yu Tian did not know what other important guests were more important than tanks and armored vehicles, but Uncle Long's tone was extremely cautious, and he had to treat them with caution..

Yu Tian got up as quickly as he could, took a quick shower, and changed into a business suit that could heat a dog to death.

Then, he took the Big Guy and Cass 'mouse team and rushed to the port port as fast as he could.

As Uncle Long had said that the identity of this guest was very important, Yu Tian had specially instructed the city hall of Manizadi to prepare a luxurious limousine for him.

This was a vehicle that the city hall had specially used to receive important guests. Although this place was poor, in some aspects, it was more fastidious about appearance than some developed countries.

Since it was about appearance, it was naturally impossible for it to be as monotonous as a limousine.

After the city hall of Maniza knew that Yu Tian was going to receive an important guest, it was very considerate to send a motorbike team of traffic police as an escort, specifically responsible for clearing the way for Yu Tian 's team.

However, there were no traffic police or criminal police officers in this place. In any case, these police officers were armed men who were carrying heavy firepower. They were not much different from the military.

When Yu Tian arrived at the port, the motorcade of the police and the limousine arrived just in time.

In addition, some officials of the port management department and the customs also lined up at the exit of the port to welcome him.

Yu Tian hurriedly asked if there were any cruise ships entering the port, and the manager replied, “In this half an hour, not to mention cruise ships entering the port, there aren’t even any cargo ships.

Then, Yu Tian led the team into the office building of the Port Management Department.

Although Uncle Long said that the honored guest was about to arrive at the port, this “Right away” could mean more than half an hour, or even more than an hour.

Therefore, there was still plenty of time, and there was no need for Yu Tian to lead the team outside to be exposed to the sun.

Yu Tian was very curious about the identity of the honored guest Uncle Long mentioned. He actually had to personally receive him and receive him with care.

Although Yu Tian was only acting as a businessman in the F * * King horse country, he looked like a wealthy man with a little ability and was not very impressive.

However, if it was a big event, his status was equal to the presidents of the superpowers. He even pulled them together for a meeting before he retired.

He was a big shot who could influence the world.

Therefore, the guests who deserved his grand reception must be of high status and status.

Without considering the practice of reciprocal diplomacy, even if the guest he received was not the president, he should be an important figure in some countries and organizations.

As the leader of the axe gang, he was not even qualified to run beside the team and shout, “Move aside, move aside.”

Then, what was the identity of this guest?

How did he know that Yu Tian was in the land of Maniza, and why did he suddenly visit the land of Maniza?

A big shot like him was definitely qualified to be on the news. However, his visit was so low-key and secretive. What was he up to?

Could it be that a superpower also wanted to secretly come to the land of Maniza?

Yu Tian sat in the office building at the port and began to let his imagination run wild.

After waiting for about half an hour, the staff of the Management Office finally ran into the lounge and reported respectfully, “Mr. Yu, a ship has entered the port. ”

Yu Tianteng immediately got up from his chair and waved his hand. “The doors upstairs and downstairs are... open for business! ”

The passenger terminal was not big, just a small corner next to the fishing terminal.

Because there were very few passenger ships in Mani Zadi, not to mention ocean-going cruise ships from abroad, such ships had almost never appeared in Mani Zadi.

Occasionally, businessmen from other ports in Tamar appeared at this passenger terminal, and the ships they drove were their own small yachts or converted fishing boats.

If foreign guests wanted to visit Maniza, there were no international cruise ships to take.

They were either like the heads of major powers, who came out to visit in their own warships. But those big ships could only dock at the cargo terminal, and the depth of the passenger terminal here was ashamed to say that it was not enough.

The other way of transportation was to first take a plane to the oasis, and then rent a small boat from land or sea. This way of transportation was much more low-key.

If it was a visit from a big shot, arriving in this way would feel like a secret trip.

However, to travel in secret, it was best to find a way to board a freighter and arrive at the port together with the freighter.

This was because if they were to transit from the oasis, they would leave some identity information at the Immigration Control Office.

Yu Tian was getting more and more confused as to who this so-called VIP was.

Fortunately, he would meet this VIP soon, and his mysterious identity would be revealed soon.

When Yu Tian led the team to the dock, a small yacht was docked with the help of the staff.

It was a luxury yacht, but it was a little old.

Although the paint and decorations on its surface were relatively new, from the model, one could tell that it was one of the obsolete products that had been discontinued a long time ago.

However, this kind of situation was also considered normal, because it was not a good thing to be too ostentatious in a place like F * * King Ma Tei.

If one did not have a certain level of strength, flaunting one's wealth was equivalent to courting death. It was better to just use some cheap second-hand goods.

In fact, this yacht was not considered small. If one did not consider the comfort of the yacht and purely used it to carry the army, it would not be a problem for one to two hundred people to fill it up.

Only when it reached a certain level could it run far enough.

Yu Tian patiently waited for the yacht to dock. At this moment, the passengers on the yacht finally walked onto the deck.

There were a few men in suits of various skin colors. One look and one could tell that they were bodyguards.

There was also a woman wearing a pair of huge black sunglasses.

Yu Tian took a closer look. F * ck, wasn't this Chu Qing?

This, this, this... This was the VIP that Uncle Long had mentioned?

Alright, this was indeed a VIP. At least in Yu Tian's heart, this VIP was much more important than the president of some Big Country.

However, why did Chu Qing come to the F * cking Happy Valley?

Yu Tian was extremely depressed. How did Chu Qing know that I was in the F * cking Happy Valley?

That's right, uncle long must have betrayed me.

However, the F * cking happy valley was such a lousy place. Usually, there were wars and violent conflicts. Now that there was a possibility of war coming soon, it was really not a suitable time for Chu Qing to come to the F * cking Happy Valley.

Chu Qing had traveled thousands of miles to come to this godforsaken place to see him. It was impossible for him to send Chu Qing back immediately.

In the current situation, he could only entertain her for a few days and then find an opportunity to persuade Chu Qing to leave..

The yacht was docked properly and the ladder was lowered. Chu Qing and her bodyguards finally set foot on the godforsaken land.

After meeting, Chu Qing first sighed about the weather, then changed the topic. “Why are you here? This seems to be the poorest country in the world, right? Is there any other fun place?”

Yu Tian smiled apologetically. “It’s not to the extent of being the best in the world... I’m here to do some small business...”

“Aren’t you retired? What business do you still have?”

“You’re already retired, so just travel well. What kind of business do you still have... are you short of money to spend?”

“No, I’m mainly... I feel that the lives of the people of Ma Tei are really too difficult, so I decided to help them with the local economic development...”

“Nonsense.

Chu Qing was amused. She used the small hammer to hammer Yu Tian’s chest and said, “Hurry up and bring me home. I need to shower and change my clothes. My body is covered in sweat and it’s sticky. It’s so uncomfortable.

“Okay.

Yu Tian was about to instruct the team to set off when a few figures came up to him. Someone even shouted, “Miss Chu, aren’t you going to introduce your friend?”

Yu Tian turned his head and saw a middle-aged white man in a suit not far away with a few black bodyguards behind him.

“This is the owner of the yacht I’m on...”

Chu Qing explained to Yu Tian in a low voice, “The traffic here is not convenient, so I contacted a customer and asked him to help me find a friend here to rent a yacht...”

Yu Tian nodded. It was indeed not convenient to travel here. Not only was the traffic inconvenient, but everything else was inconvenient.

If it was just an ordinary tourist, after getting off the plane in the oasis, they would basically only be able to move around in the area of the oasis.

If they wanted to go to other cities, especially those outside the capital circle, it was equivalent to risking their own lives.

Most Damien people were very warm to foreigners. The moment they saw foreigners, they were as happy as if they saw a mobile cash machine.

If Chu Qing wanted to come to Maniza by land, she basically had to organize an armed convoy. She also had to greet the big shots in various territories along the way. Otherwise, she would become a missing person before she could walk far.

It was slightly better to come from the sea. The locals generally knew how to avoid those pirates.

Pirates generally would not be active in the coastal areas of Damadi. At most, there were only a few fishermen there.

Even if they encountered pirates occasionally, they would not attack the locals. This was because the locals knew more about the pirate forces, and it was easy for them to take revenge on the pirates.

Therefore, Chu Qing needed to rent a yacht locally to send her from the oasis to Maniza.

However, the Chu family’s business did not reach to Tamar directly, and there were no Tamar people among their business partners and customers.

Therefore, this matter had been going on for a while. Finally, through a customer, they managed to contact a merchant in the Chu family who did business in the Chu family. Only then did they solve the traffic problem of Chu Qing’s visit.

The middle-aged white man walked up to Yu Tian with a smile and extended his palm to Yu Tian in a gentlemanly manner. "Hello, my name is Peter. Nice to meet you.

Yu Tian also extended his hand very naturally and shook Peter's hand. "My name is Yu Tian. Thank you very much for sending my friend safely to the land of Maniza.

Although this was just a polite remark, Yu Tian was very sincere in his thanks.

It was not easy to rent a private yacht in the F * * King Land. It was also not easy to reach the various ports safely. If Chu Qing really got into an accident on the way, Yu Tian would be anxious to death.

Peter laughed, "You're welcome. This is what I should do. After all, Miss Chu paid a high price...

Chu Qing said helplessly, "This time, the ticket cost five million.

Five Million was not a big deal to Yu Tian and Chu Qing, but to many businessmen, it was already a big deal.

One had to know that a single deal with the pirates in the Godforsaken area might not be able to get that much ransom.

As for the ship tickets, five million was definitely a sky-high price.

Generally speaking, renting a luxury yacht in a peaceful country would only cost a few hundred thousand a day.

But in the Godforsaken area, the cost increased tenfold, but the quality of the yacht decreased tenfold.

However, this fee was understandable.

Yu Tian smiled indifferently and said to Peter, "I still have to thank you. To me, Chu Qing's safe arrival is the most important thing."

Peter also smiled. He glanced at the large number of bodyguards following behind Yu Tian, then changed the topic and started chatting with Yu Tian. "Mr. Yu is also an Easterner, right? is he doing business here in the F * * King Horse

"Yes, he's doing a little business... "

"What kind of business does Mr. Yu Do?"

"He does a little of everything, mainly importing some clothing..."

Among the cheap goods that the easterners exported to poor countries, clothing was a very common item.

Therefore, the identity of an Easterner's clothing merchant was not strange.

Yu Tian was not in the mood to continue chatting with Peter. Chu Qing was still waiting to go home to take a bath and rest. He also had a lot of things to rearrange.

However, Peter took the initiative to come over and get close to him, so it was not appropriate for him to reject Peter.

Although Peter sent Chu Qing over for a business deal, without the help and contact of friends, it would not be easy to find the person who accepted the deal.

Yu Tian could only continue to accompany Peter and say some nonsense. Then, he said, "Mr. Peter, do you plan to return to the oasis immediately, or do you have something to deal with in Maniza?"

"Oh, I plan to stay in Maniza for two days..."

Peter smiled brightly. "Because I think I have found a new goal in my life. Miss Chu Qing is a very excellent woman, and I'm going to pursue her..."

Yu Tian almost cursed.

What outstanding woman? You only need to be a chauffeur to send her off, and you already know that she's outstanding?

You must have taken a fancy to her because she's rich, right?

Yu Tian was also very impressed by the brazenness of Westerners. There was no need for them to be shy or reserved when they took a fancy to a woman.

They could just confess their feelings directly and then openly pick up girls.

The easterners were much more frustrated in this aspect.

Peter looked at Yu Tian's expression and asked curiously, "Mr.. Yu seems a little unhappy? Is Miss Chu Qing your girlfriend?"

Translator: 549690339

Yu Tian wanted to answer Peter, but Chu Qing interrupted him, "Yes, I'm Yu Tian's girlfriend. "

Yu Tian could only smile and agree, "Yes, Chu Qing is my girlfriend."

It was obvious that Chu Qing was not interested in foreigners, and she did not want to be bothered by foreigners.

However, Peter was not self-aware. He still said in a gentlemanly manner, "It's alright. I can be a spare tire. Before you two get married, I think I still have a chance."

Amazing. You even know what a spare tire is.

However, if you want to be a spare tire, you have to return the five million ticket money first.

If you are not a good dog licking, how can you have a chance to be a spare tire? You Westerners are too stingy.

Yu Tian secretly complained in his heart. Chu Qing continued, "I'm sorry, Mr. Peter. I don't think you have much of a chance. Yu Tian and I are going to be engaged soon. "

"Oh, it's okay. If you are engaged, I can prepare a small gift for you. But before you are engaged, I think I still have a chance... "

Peter was not discouraged and continued shamelessly, "I wonder if Ms. Chu Qing has the time to be my tour guide. I'm also very interested in visiting Maniza for a few days.

Chu Qing rolled her eyes. "Tour guide? I'm a foreigner. This is my first time visiting Maniza.

Peter laughed. "Isn't your boyfriend doing business in Maniza? He must be very familiar with this place...

Well, an Easterner could never be rude to a guest.

Since a friend came and had good wine, he would let you experience the drinking capacity of a F * cking pirate.

Yu Tian waved his hand. "No problem. We welcome you to Maniza as a guest. Let me arrange a hotel for you first. Let's have lunch together. "

Peter smiled. "Thank you for your hospitality. The easterners are indeed a warm and hospitable people... I'll let the bodyguards handle the procedures for the docking of the ships.

"There's no need to go through so much trouble. I'll get someone to go through the procedures for you. We'll set off now. I'll send you to the hotel first.

Yu Tian casually called over the management staff of the dock and told them about the docking of the yacht.

When they left the customs building, Peter was surprised by the fleet of cars outside. This ostentation was obviously not something that an ordinary small businessman could have.

Although a limousine was not a very expensive thing, and even ordinary businessmen could afford it, those who dared to drive a luxury car in the middle of the city were all people who had a very good relationship with the local warlords.

In addition to the motorcade that the local authorities used to display their ostentatious display, this further proved that Yu Tian was very popular in the local area.

Peter began to think about how he could further communicate with Yu Tian.

Pursuing Chu Qing was actually an excuse. Although Chu Qing was beautiful, Peter, a middle-aged man, did not have any thoughts on the opposite sex. If they wanted a beautiful woman, they only needed to spend money to solve the problem.

What he really cared about was how to make more friends and earn more money. Only then would he have the ability to spend money and drink and buy more beautiful women.

So, his attention was now on Yu Tian.

Peter also knew about the recent situation in Maniza. He knew that Maniza had just changed its master. The new ruler was called Abu.

The person who could make a name for himself in Maniza must have a very good relationship with general Abu.

General Abu was a newly risen warlord. The resources of a new warlord could not be compared to the resources of an old warlord like the Big Hippo. Therefore, this was the time when he welcomed businessmen and investors the most.

Peter began to wonder if he could make use of this opportunity to expand his business.

Because of the sudden appearance of a large number of bodyguards, the vehicles Yu Tian brought were not enough.

Therefore, Yu Tian could only call Chu Qing and Peter into the car to blow on the air conditioner. Then, he asked the city government to quickly transfer a few cars over for him to use temporarily.

In fact, Yu Tian did not really want to transfer the resources of the city government because he did not want the army to interfere with the operation of the city and disrupt the original order and rhythm of the city.

However, it was slightly further away from the military camp now. Moreover, the military camp was busy with the expedition. Yu Tian did not want to cause trouble for them, so he could only leave this matter to the city government.

The city government did not dare to refuse Yu Tian's request and immediately agreed to send a car.

It did not take long for them to arrive from the city government, so the bodyguards stood by the roadside and waited.

Peter began to ask Yu Tian about his business and his relationship with Abu's camp.

Yu Tian was a little absent-minded. While he was making up nonsense, he casually looked at the street scene outside the car window.

The streets of Maniza were very spacious. Because the economy was relatively backward, compared to the cities of big countries, there were fewer cars here.

Especially at the port, aside from freight cars, there were basically no private cars passing by.

But this was not absolute. Yu Tian just happened to see a broken private car driving towards the port.

The bodyguards by the roadside immediately perked up.

Bodyguards seemed to be leisurely, but mentally, they needed to maintain a high level of vigilance at all times.

Although many bodyguards would never encounter any accidents in their lives, they would at most act as security guards and maintain order.

However, once something happened, it would be a fatal event.

In a place like F * ck, the probability of an accident was even higher. No matter how nervous one was, it was not excessive.

The bodyguards that Chu Qing brought were hired by an international well-known security company.

She had originally planned to bring along her family's bodyguards in the country, but the bodyguards in the country were not used to the environment of a war-torn country like F*ck, and they could not even use guns well.

So in the end, she still spent money to hire a team of bodyguards outside.

The bodyguards around Peter were all from Malaysia, and they were all bodyguards that he had hired locally in Oasis.

The local bodyguards were mostly retired soldiers. In terms of personal qualities, they were not as good as the professional bodyguards of international companies, but they were more familiar with the local area, and the prices were very cheap.

This behavior was not strange, because there was only one target worth paying attention to on the entire street.

Therefore, including the police officers of the motorbike team, they also focused their attention on the broken car.

This feeling of everyone paying attention was definitely enough to make the scalps of ordinary people go numb.

The broken car continued to approach Yu Tian and the others unhurriedly, as if it felt that as long as it wasn't embarrassed, it would be the others who would be embarrassed.

Cass 'mouse team suddenly moved..

The mouse team's actions were a little abrupt. They suddenly pulled out their guns and surrounded the broken car.

Some of the mouse team members were sitting in the car. They also started the car and blocked the middle of the street.

The mouse team members did not drive military vehicles. There were no heavy machine guns in the car. They were worried that they would scare the civilians in the city.

However, their vehicles were loaded with heavy weapons. Some of the soldiers picked up their weapons without any explanation. Other than the AKKA rifles and light machine guns, some people took out the RPGs from the back seats of the vehicles.

The bodyguards usually carried pistols because it was easier to carry them. However, it was not uncommon to carry a rifle on the streets in the middle of the city.

These policemen and Peter's local bodyguards were all carrying Aya.

The actions of the mouse team surprised the policemen and other bodyguards, because they did not find anything unusual about the broken car.

However, the mouse team had already taken action, and they immediately became nervous. They took out their guns and surrounded the broken car vigilantly.

"Stop the car! "

The broken car seemed to hesitate for a moment, and even gently pressed the brakes.

However, the car did not stop there. Instead, after a slight pause, it suddenly stepped on the accelerator and began to accelerate.

"Fire!

Cass ordered without hesitation.

The mouse squad members had long had the impulse to fire and were prepared. Before Cass could say the word "C' En", chaotic gunshots rang out.

At the beginning, only the rat squad fired. Half of them used pistols, Aya and light machine guns. RPG did not fire, so the overall firepower was not dense.

But then, the policemen in the convoy were stunned for a moment, and Aya in their hands also rang out.

The policemen probably knew Yu Tian's identity. Although they did not know much, they also knew that he was a high-ranking member of the Abu Group, an important figure by the side of General Abu.

Forget about law and order. It was already the most orderly behavior for them not to send the army into the city.

Yu Tian's bodyguards had already opened fire, so the police naturally wouldn't watch from the side.

They also began to shoot without any scruples. Whatever happened, Yu Tian 's bodyguards would definitely be able to handle it.

As for the bodyguards that Chu Qing and Peter brought, they were a little hesitant. Shoot? Or Not?

Exchanging fire in the city was not a small matter.

Although the policemen beside them were also firing, they were still Policemen and had an official status. If anything really happened, the city government would take the blame for them.

However, these bodyguards were all self-employed. If anything really happened, the authorities would place the blame on them. Their boss would be helpless and could only sell them.

Therefore, these bodyguards could only watch the show in embarrassment.

However, this did not affect the overall situation. The target of the mouse squad was just an ordinary civilian vehicle. A light machine gun was enough to turn it into a sieve.

Shooting was a long story, but in fact, it was only a few seconds. It was about the time when a bullet from a handgun would quickly miss.

Cass immediately shouted, "Stop shooting! Stop shooting! "

Actually, it didn't matter if he shouted or not. The Bullets in everyone's guns had basically been emptied, and they were busy changing their magazines.

As for the broken car, it was now riddled with holes. It couldn't be any more broken.

There were people in the car, but they should be called corpses now.

Everyone was still on alert. No one immediately moved in front of the broken car.

The scene was silent.

There were a few freight cars in the distance. They were so scared that they stood at the corner of the street and didn't dare to move.

Chu Qing was a little stunned. The closed car doors and windows couldn't block the sound of gunfire, nor could they give her any sense of security.

When the mouse squad opened fire just now, she had already hidden in Yu Tian's arms. She was still a little scared.

Yu Tian took the opportunity to teach her, “F * Ck this place... It’s just like this. It’s not very safe to fight and kill all day long. “Actually, it’s not a good choice for you to come here for a vacation. I think you should stay here for two days. HMM, it’s better to return to China as soon as possible...”

He did not expect Chu Qing to not fall for his trick at all. She was originally extremely nervous, after hearing what he said, she suddenly came back to her senses. “Is that so? Is there a war every day? This is a beautiful scenery. I have to get used to it...”

Yu Tian was stunned. What beautiful scenery? was this used to describe a F * * King Horse? No matter how beautiful a F * * King horse was, it was not worthy for an Easterner to gloat over it, right?

Forget it. Yu Tian shook his head.

It was a good thing that Chu Qing could remain calm. He didn’t want Chu Qing to be traumatized by this trip.

He still had to deal with this accident. He needed to figure out what had happened.

So Yu Tian opened the door and got out of the car.

Chu Qing didn’t want to be outdone. Perhaps because Yu Tian was there, she mustered up her courage and got out of the car.

Then, Peter followed the two of them out of the car.

Peter’s performance was much better than Chu Qing’s. After all, he had been in hell for many years and had more or less seen some firefights. He did not seem to be too flustered in the face of such a situation.

What he was more curious about was what had happened just now.

“Check this car.

As soon as Yu Tian got out of the car, Cass had already given the order to his team members.

Yu Tian did not need to personally arrange this kind of thing.

The police officers at the side were not idle. Under the command of their captain, a few people also quickly surrounded the broken car.

The people in the car could not be any more dead. Under normal circumstances, there would not be any danger.

The reason why everyone was so careful was mainly to guard against time bombs and the like.

However, after a simple inspection, the fear of explosives was basically eliminated.

If it was a suicide bomb attack, they didn't need to hide the bomb too well. They could just put it in the car and start it.

However, someone still looked under the car and confirmed that there were no bombs or the like.

"Clear!

"The three attackers are all dead!

"They are armed!

"They are indeed some people who are up to no good... " "They must be trying to assassinate the Boss!

In fact, it was very normal to bring weapons out of the house.

It was a little difficult to identify the people in the car as armed people who were up to no good.

But the rat squad wouldn't care..

The mouse squad could be considered Yu Tian's personal bodyguard squad because there weren't many suitable positions for them to play in these battlefields.

Just like how it was impossible to use special forces to fight positional warfare, Yu Tian wouldn't throw the mouse squad into a proper battlefield.

Using a team of killersprofessional, but in fact, it had some adva

The biggest disadvantage of killers compared to bodyguards was that they were not good at taking bullets for their bosses. They did not develop the habit of taking bullets for their employers in the first place.

But there were advantages.

Killers were especially sensitive to killing intent. Those who wanted to attack their employers were their peers.

Just like thieves could easily find another thief in a crowd, they could easily find other killers in the crowd.

Some of the killer's behavior patterns, in their eyes, were almost no secrets, and even every step of the action was within their expectations.

So before the other bodyguards and police reacted, they stopped the broken car.

They didn't need any evidence or deductions, as long as they were suspicious, they could take action against the other party.

In order to stop the other party in vain, they could determine the other party's identity and purpose.

Then, they didn't need to confirm anything. They could just beat the other party to a pulp.

In a situation like this, they didn't need to explain to anyone. They didn't need to care about the laws and regulations.

The city government of Maniza didn't dare to ask them to explain, and Abu didn't care about such things either.

The mouse squad dragged out the bodies of the militants in the car and threw them on the road.

These bodies were all black, and judging from their attire, they should also be from Guatemala.

Their weapons were all Akkad, which was the most popular weapon in Guatemala. There was nothing special about it.

It was basically impossible to determine their origins just from this information.

So, the next step was the police's job to verify the identities of the dead.

No matter what, the MANIZA police station was definitely better at this than the military, and also better than the mouse squad and other foreigners.

Soon, more than a dozen police cars arrived near the dock. The police chief personally led the team, leading dozens of police officers in fear and trepidation.

The assassination of the head of the military was a major incident. Even the police station felt that their strength was not enough to investigate this kind of case.

Yu Tian only glanced at the corpses and did not pay too much attention to it.

As an assassin, he would not have too much information that would reveal his identity.

Even if the police were able to verify their identities, they would only be bandits and pirates who could not be traced back to their background.

There was not much point in obsessing over their identities. There were other ways to find the mastermind behind them. They did not even need to care about evidence.

If they were really after him, the mastermind would be two forces.

If it wasn't the people from the oasis, then it would be the macaques from the port of SHERIMBE. Among them, the oasis was more likely.

This was Yu Tian 's intuition.

The police began to collect the bodies and collect evidence at the scene. The city government's vehicles finally arrived.

Yu Tian didn't stay here, nor did he put too much pressure on the police chief. He gave a few friendly instructions to the police chief and left the port with his team.

He first found a good hotel and sent Peter there. Then, he brought Chu Qing back to his super-invincible villa with a sea view in a hurry.

They walked faster and did not stay in the hotel for too long. Therefore, they did not give the assassin a chance to act. They returned to the villa very smoothly.

The security around the villa was even tighter. Even if Yu Tian did not like it, there were still elite guards sent by general Abu around the villa.

Everyone in the Abu Group was very concerned about Yu Tian's safety. If something happened to Yu Tian, their military group would lose their backing. At a time like this, when the tall tree was in the wind., it was very difficult for them to withstand the siege from the entire country.

Chu Qing was a little surprised by the tight security around the villa.

"You're doing quite well in the F * * King City. The police are very polite to you. Even the Army is your bodyguard? What have you done in the F * * King City?"

"UH, just a small business."

"Nonsense.

Chu Qing did not believe him at all, but she did not continue to probe further.

The second floor was his private space, while the first floor was left to the Big Guy and Cass 'mouse team.

In terms of the arrangements for the villa, he was similar to Cui Zhengzhi, the arms dealer of the Clone Society. There were no outsiders in the villa, they were all his own bodyguards.

In fact, he was even more thorough than Cui Zhengzhi. His villa did not even have any part-time workers or cleaners, all the housework was done by the mouse team.

Hence, the villa was a little messy.

It was not that Yu Tian was worried that any secrets in the villa would be leaked, nor was it that he was worried about his own safety. The main reason was that he did not like outsiders appearing in his private space.

For example, on the entire second floor, outsiders could only appear in the living room at most. Other places were all forbidden to enter.

This wasn't considered a strange habit. Many big shots had their own restricted areas, and outsiders were forbidden to enter.

Chu Qing's identity was obviously different. She wasn't an outsider. If Yu Tian dared to restrict her from entering the second floor, she would probably peel off her skin.

Yu Tian waited patiently.

Finally, Chu Qing's voice rang out, "Yu Tian, help me take my clothes and look in my luggage.

"Oh, what clothes do you want to take?"

"Anything. Just home clothes will do.

Yu Tian opened Chu Qing's luggage and found two pajamas. Then, he sent them into Chu Qing's room.

Hearing the door open, Chu Qing said again, "Put your clothes on the bed. " "Okay.

Yu Tian casually threw the clothes away and sat down on the chair next to him.

He was thinking about how to arrange Chu Qing's schedule. If he could make her happy for two days, he would hurry back to the country.

The main reason was that Yu Tian was about to leave for Kanimar. He really didn't have time to accompany Chu Qing on her sightseeing tour in MANIZA.

He couldn't possibly bring her to Kanimar, right? That place might become the front line of the war.

However, the situation in Maniza didn't seem to be much better.

If there was really a war, this side would also be affected. However, they wouldn't usually attack the city..

The bathroom door faced the bed, and Chu Qing saw the pajamas on the bed at a glance.

So she walked briskly to the bed, casually untied the towel and threw it on the bed, then picked up the pajamas, gently shook it open, and turned around..

Yu Tian sat on the chair behind Chu Qing, dumbfounded.

The two of them looked at each other, and Chu Qing immediately screamed, running into the bathroom while clutching her pajamas.

Yu Tian was also at a loss. He was stunned for a while, then quickly got up and left Chu Qing's bedroom.

A few minutes later, Chu Qing finally walked out of the room with a murderous aura, and began to search the entire room for Yu Tian.

She searched around the second floor but did not find Yu Tian. She was a little puzzled.

When she reached the first floor, Chu Qing saw Yu Tian sitting on the sofa in the hall on the first floor. However, Yu Tian wasn’t the only person on the first floor. There were also the Big Guy, Cass, and a group of bodyguards.

Chu Qing didn’t know how to vent her immense killing intent. Now that everyone was watching, if she were to casually use her powers in this living room, she might hurt the innocent.

She could only temporarily suppress her killing intent and said to Yu Tian with a straight face, “Why are you eating lunch so early?”

“Oh, I just thought that you might not have eaten breakfast. After all, it’s not very convenient to eat on a yacht.

“I’ve eaten breakfast. Pm going to rest now. Come up with me.” “Are you going to rest? That’s good. I’m going out to do something. ” “Come up with me first.

“This... isn’t very good. You ‘re going to rest, yet I’m going to go to your room with you...

“You still know that this isn’t a good idea? Then why did you just... ”

“It was a misunderstanding just now. I didn’t see anything... I didn’t even see clearly whether you were on the front or the back. ”

“On the front or the back... you bastard!”

She bared her fangs and brandished her claws as she pounced on Yu Tian.

Yu Tian was shocked. Fortunately, he had practiced a few moves before. He hurriedly did a backflip and forcefully jumped from the sofa to the back.

Chu Qing missed and fell on the sofa.

Yu Tian suddenly felt that his qinggong, which he had been training hard for many days, seemed to have made a great breakthrough. He could even do such a ridiculous movement.

The bodyguards beside him were also stunned. From the perspective of a professional, Yu Tian's movement was really beyond their understanding.

The backflip was not difficult, but the problem was that it was illogical to complete the backflip while sitting.

How much explosive force did he need to use his legs to ignore the angle and center of gravity to complete this strange action?

Chu Qing did not notice this detail. She climbed up from the sofa and continued to chase after Yu Tian.

Yu Tian once again used his qinggong. This time, he felt something. His entire body moved forward and he teleported to the entrance of the villa.

"I really have something to do. Chu Qing, go back to your room and rest. I will come back later to pick you up for dinner..."

By the time Chu Qing chased him to the door, Yu Tian was already left with only his back.

Yu Tian suddenly became interested. Taking advantage of the fact that he felt like he was practicing Qinggong, he simply started practicing.

He jumped out of the courtyard of the villa like a flea and circled around the outside half a circle. He went to the back of the villa and jumped all the way to the beach.

Behind the villa was a mess of rocks. Among the rocks, there was a man-made path that led down to the beach.

Of course, Yu Tian would not take the path. He began to jump up and down in the mess of rocks.

After a long while, the Big Guy, Cass, and the others finally came looking for him.

Yu Tian was in the mood to practice, and he had no intention of going out.

He sent all the bodyguards back to the villa, and left them near the beach to continue his practice.

This jump lasted for almost two hours. Yu Tian realized that he didn't feel tired at all, but his stomach was really hungry.

He remembered that he hadn't eaten breakfast either, so he started to run from the beach to the villa again.

When he returned to the villa, Chu Qing was indeed sleeping.

Yu Tian hurriedly took a shower and then woke Chu Qing up outside Chu Qing's door. He ran to the first floor again as if he was running for his life.

When Chu Qing appeared again, she had already returned to her normal state. The two of them brought their bodyguards and started to set off for the city.

They first rushed to the hotel and called Peter. Then, they came out to look for a restaurant.

Yu Tian was not familiar with Mani Zadi, and he did not know what kind of special restaurant there was.

However, he had seen a restaurant by the beach on the way. It seemed to be a good restaurant. Moreover, this restaurant was adjacent to the beach, and it had a very tropical beach style.

Yu Tian did not dwell on this matter for too long. He immediately made a choice.

The group of people quickly arrived at the restaurant by the beach.

Their team was huge. Including the bodyguards, there were more than twenty people.

There were not many customers in the restaurant. There was more than enough room for these twenty people to sit down.

They each found a good seat and sat down. The menu was delivered to them one by one.

Yu Tian flipped through the menu a few times and suddenly lost his appetite.

The food here was still local food. It was basically the same as the food he usually ate at banquets.

It was not that the local food was terrible. It was just that their cooking method was too monotonous. There were only a few flavors here and there.

Yu Tian had stayed in this f * cking place for so long. He was already tired of the taste that had hardly changed.

When he could, Yu Tian usually cooked by himself.

He would buy some seasoning for Chinese food, then buy some beef, mutton, and vegetables, and make some stir-fries himself.

This kind of diet was obviously much richer.

But now that he came to eat outside, he could only make do with it.

Although he didn't have any favorite dishes, Yu Tian's empty stomach still needed enough food to fill it.

Some roasted beef and mutton, along with some rice and vegetables, could still solve the problem.

He randomly ordered a few dishes and put down the menu.

Peter was similar to Yu Tian, and he didn't have any special interests in the local delicacies.

He picked up the menu and looked at it for a while, but he found that there was curry rice here.

"It's been a long time since I've eaten food from curry country. I'll have a curry rice..."

Peter also quickly finished ordering.

Chu Qing was the only one left. She was full of curiosity about the food here, so she followed the domestic ordering habit and took down half of the menu in one go.

What followed was a long wait..

Foreign restaurants did not pay attention to the speed of delivery, except for those fast food restaurants.

Generally speaking, most delicious food required a certain amount of cooking time.

Moreover, in order to ensure that the freshest ingredients could be used, many of the foods were made from scratch and would not be pre-processed into semi-finished products.

These things could not be delayed for too long in Chinese restaurants because the kitchen in Chinese restaurants was fully staffed. Everyone had their own processes and dishes to be responsible for.

It was different in foreign restaurants. Their biggest problem was that they did not have enough manpower because the labor cost was too high.

Especially in some small restaurants, most of the time, a single chef would handle all the processes from beginning to end. After finishing one dish, they would go to prepare the next one.

After such a series of operations, the customers outside were already hungry.

When the chef finally served, the customers couldn't wait any longer. Even if it was a piece of dog shit, they would still be able to taste it.

This was the reason why there were people who ate such a thing as looking up at the stars.

But there were also people who served quickly, such as curry rice.

Peter wasn't the only one who ordered curry rice. There were also a few other local bodyguards. They also needed a change of taste.

The steaming curry rice was quickly delivered to Peter.

Yu Tian had no interest in this sticky mass of food. He didn't even like the strange smell.

Peter was also smelt by the pungent smell and couldn't help but frown. This damn thing didn't seem to be the same as the curry rice he had eaten before.

Perhaps, this was a super-enhanced curry.

"Pah! What kind of dog Sh * t Is This! Is this something that humans eat!"

The Big Guy also ordered the curry rice. Originally, he wanted to change the taste, but he didn't expect to taste SH * t the first time he ate it.

He immediately threw down the spoon and started cursing.

The cursing immediately alerted the restaurant manager. He hurriedly ran out and ran to the Big Guy's dining table. He asked politely, "Excuse me, sir, is there anything you are not satisfied with?"

The Big Guy pointed at the big plate of sticky food and said, "I am here to eat, and you are actually giving me shit to eat. Call your chef out and let him explain to me what the hell this is.

The restaurant manager wiped away his cold sweat and said, "Please don't be angry, sir. This is our restaurant's specialty curry rice. It is made by a senior chef hired from Curry Country. It may not suit your taste. I will immediately change the food for you.

"No! I want to see this damn chef! Call the chef out immediately! I just want to see who dares to feed us shit!"

"Okay customer, please wait a moment. Pll call the chef out immediately."

The restaurant manager did not dare to be negligent. Yu Tian's group of customers looked like they were not to be trifled with. He did not want his restaurant to be destroyed.

Although the Maniza di empire was a relatively orderly city, it was not a peaceful country.

It was not like there had not been cases of some extremely vicious people running into the city to cause trouble. It was even possible for them to get into a firefight if things got out of hand.

The restaurant manager left in a hurry.

Peter used a spoon to pull the food in front of him. He immediately lost the courage to try it.

"It seems that I should eat something like steak. The smell of this curry rice is too strange. I don't know what kind of strange ingredients are in it, will it make people allergic..."

The meaning of the word Curry was originally to use a lot of seasonings to put together and boil it into a pot of sticky sauce.

Just like the meaning of curry country, it was also a pot of a country that was made up of many ethnic groups and humans.

Curry was not considered a dish. It could only be considered a seasoning sauce. After mixing it with rice, it became the main dish of the curry people. Yu Tian's stomach turned when he saw this big bowl of sticky things, let alone eating it.

The chef soon appeared in the restaurant. This was indeed an authentic curry person. His skin color, facial features, and stubble all had curry characteristics.

“Did you make this pile of Dog Sh * t?”

Before the Curry chef could speak, the Big Guy stood up and began to question him.

Yu Tian did not stop the Big Guy's behavior. With their identities, they did not need to have any scruples to cause trouble in Maniza.

However, Yu Tian felt that the big guy's motive was not so simple.

The Big Guy was usually not a bad-tempered fool. He would not cause trouble for the boss just because of a piece of food that did not suit his taste.

Changing the dish and eating it quietly was the normal operation of a bodyguard.

The situation was a little strange. Yu Tian decided to wait and see what the Big Guy wanted to do.

The Curry Chef's face was already red. No chef liked to be called Dog Sh * t by others.

However, his skin color was very dark, so it was not obvious that his face was red.

He argued angrily, “This is not dog SH * t, this is my specially made curry rice. You Can't insult a high-level chef with superb culinary skills like this! Even if it doesn't suit your taste, you...”

The Big Guy suddenly stepped forward and grabbed chef curry's collar, “It's simply Stinky!

“You don't know what food is, what cooking is!”

“You Curry people don't have any cooking skills! ” ! “Your so-called cooking skill is to boil a big pot of dog shit and then mix it with a pile of damn rice. This is something that even an idiot can do.”. “And you, an idiot, can't even boil a pot of dog shit. What on Earth is in your damn dog shit! ”

“I just added some unique spices into it. This is my secret recipe, this is the essence of my cooking...”

“F * Ck your essence.

Although the big guy looked fierce, his punch was not heavy.

However, this curry chef only had his nose bleeding from the punch. He looked a little embarrassed.

"Oh my God, my nose is bleeding. Let Go of me quickly. I want to go to the hospital..."

The Big Guy gave him another slap. "You still want to go to the hospital? Your Dog Sh * t has already poisoned me. I haven't even gone to the hospital yet, and you want to go to the hospital?"

Curry chef was shocked. "That's impossible. These are all normal foods. I've tasted them myself. It's impossible for them to be poisoned.

The big guy said angrily, "Do you think everyone is as immune to poison as you curry people? I'm already sick now.. You have to take responsibility for this!

I Have 108 Older Sisters #Chapter 1031 - Chapter 1031: Chapter 1,030, extra soldiers - Read I Have 108 Older Sisters Chapter 1031 - Chapter 1031: Chapter 1,030, extra soldiers

Translator: 549690339

Previously, there were less than 1,000 new soldiers left in the camp. Adding the army that Yu Tian brought over this time, the total should be around 5,000 to 6,000.

But now, the number of soldiers had reached 8,000. Where did these soldiers come from?

The number of soldiers that were left in the camp was not enough. In order to maintain order in the camp and create the illusion that there were enough soldiers, Yu Tian even specially asked Faraday to bring the pirates over, they put on their military uniforms and pretended to be Abu's army.

He did not expect that in just two months, the number of soldiers here would actually reach 3,000.

Although the KANNIMA military camp had been recruiting new soldiers, the number of people that could be recruited in the vicinity had almost been recruited during the first wave of conscription.

Even if there were still some fish that escaped the net and were hesitant, the number would not be too many.

To be able to add another 100 people in this period of time was already considered to have done a good job in recruiting soldiers.

“What’s with the extra 2,000 people? Where did you recruit the soldiers?”

“Fishermen?”

Yu Tian immediately understood. These two thousand people were probably pirates who came to make a living.

Pirates could be considered experienced fighters, but Yu Tian did not feel that they were more useful than ordinary people.

As long as ordinary people received training and fought two battles on the battlefield, their combat skills were not much worse than pirates.

As a whole, the discipline of the collective was more important than the skills of the individual.

Therefore, the new recruits that went through training would usually have more combat strength than the pirate gangs. Yu Tian did not want to have too many pirate armies under his command.

Especially for people like allab and the scattered sand corps under Muhammad.

For things like armies, the more the better.

Yu Tian's main force was the armored forces. In a country like Guatemala, the armored forces were enough to wipe out everything.

Purely increasing the number of infantrymen did not mean much to him.

On the contrary, this kind of trash army would waste his rations and increase all sorts of military expenses.

Yu Tian brought the scattered sand corps and Abu to Kannima because he wanted to deplete some of these pirate armies and reorganize them.

However, when he arrived at Khannima, he realized that he had two thousand more pirates under him.

Yu Tian had a headache.

Harold was still feeling proud, but he didn't forget another thing.

"Boss, General Faraday has helped a lot with the recruitment this time. Many of the new recruits who came to us were introduced by him..."

"Faraday... general? Not Bad..."

Yu Tian was a little surprised that Faraday had called himself a general after only two months.

However, no matter what kind of general he was, Yu Tian did not need to take this identity too seriously.

He rubbed his forehead and asked, "Where is Faraday now?"

Harold quickly said, "He is at the camp of the Kanimar Army, helping US train new recruits.

Yu Tian sighed and said, "Call Faraday over. I want to talk to this old friend."

"Yes, Boss."

He had just said a few good words to Faraday in front of Yu Tian. Of course, Faraday would thank him properly.

Not long after, Faraday came to the villa happily. "Reporting to boss. Faraday is reporting to you! "

Faraday still gave a military salute to Yu Tian.

Yu Tian still met Faraday in the living room. He let Faraday, his old friend, sit down on the sofa, and asked the bodyguards of the mouse squad to serve Faraday tea, then he asked slowly, "Faraday, are you planning to join my army?"

Faraday scratched his head. "Well, actually, I really want to join Boss's army, but I don't think the army is suitable for me. I think I can do something else for boss."

“Something else? What kind of thing?”

“Oh? You know how to investigate cases?”

Yu Tian was suddenly interested. “Do you have any clues about that case?”

Faraday smiled mysteriously. “I do have some clues.

“Oh, tell me, what’s the situation?”

“Actually, the few policemen from the investigation team didn’t stay in that hotel that night.”

“How do you know?”

“After they returned to the hotel, they came out not long after. Someone saw them on the way.

“Oh, so they didn’t disappear in the hotel, but walked out on their own... ”

Yu Tian originally thought that Sheriff Mach and the others had heard the sound of gunfire in the direction of the military camp in the middle of the night and were frightened, so they sneaked out.

Or perhaps someone had sneaked into the hotel and attacked them, kidnapping them.

But now it seemed that they had left long ago.

He was a little puzzled. “Since they left the hotel openly, why didn’t the hotel owner know about it? Is there something wrong with the hotel owner?”

“There’s nothing wrong with the hotel owner. He has been running this hotel locally for a few years. I’m more familiar with him. ”

Faraday explained, “Boss, you don’t know much about the situation of the small hotels here. The hotel owner is not like those regular large hotels where there are people waiting at the reception desk at all times. “This kind of small hotel doesn’t have a reception desk and only has a registration office.

Sometimes, there are no people around...”

Yu Tian immediately understood that this kind of small hotel should be similar to that kind of family hotel.

After the guest checked in, it was similar to renting a room for himself. The boss wouldn't care about him at all.

Moreover, the accommodations in this place were quite different from the habits of the eastern countries. There was no concept of a room deposit because there was nothing valuable in the room.

Therefore, the guests here paid the room fee, slept, and left the next day.

If they wanted to continue staying here, they would continue to look for the hotel owner and pay the room fee, or pay the room fee for a few days at a time.

Therefore, it was basically unreliable to rely on the hotel owner to learn about the activities of the guests.

The hotel owner basically did not know when the guests returned to the hotel and when they went out unless they happened to meet.

Yu Tian rubbed his forehead and asked again, "Then, what did you find out? Where did Sheriff Mach and the others go?"

Faraday said solemnly, "I'm still investigating this matter. I think there must be spies from the oasis in Kannima City. Mach's exquisite Cinderella and the others must have gone out because of those spies...."

Translator: 549690339

After Faraday gave his deduction, he smiled sheepishly again.

"Boss, I heard that this case has been handed over to a few police officers from Maniza to investigate. Are we only providing them with some cooperation?"

Yu Tian smiled. "The police officers from Maniza are professional detectives, but they are not as familiar with the situation in Maniza as the locals. That's why we need some cooperation from the local police..."

Faraday said embarrassedly, "Rather than wasting time to cooperate with them, it's better for us to investigate on our own. It's much more efficient this way. "

Yu Tian smiled and said, "The great people of the East have a saying. No matter if it's a black cat or a white cat, it's a good cat if it can catch a mouse. You can continue to investigate on your own as long as you can investigate this matter clearly. "Whether you investigate on your own or provide cooperation to them, the results of the investigation are all thanks to you. "

Faraday said, "The main thing is that this investigation of mine is a little unjustified..."

Yu Tian said, "How do you want to be justified?"

Faraday said, "I want to be a police chief. After all, there aren't many people in the CANTAMA police station to begin with.

"Alright, you go and investigate the case first. If you really find out the results, then the police chief will be yours.

Kanknima police station was originally made up by some of Abu's veterans. Moreover, in a poor place like Kanknima, there wasn't much money to be made. The position of police chief wasn't worth much.

Yu Tian didn't mind giving up the position of police chief. That way, at least the police station would have a greater sense of presence than before.

If Faraday was very interested in this position and could handle the police matters well, it would save Yu Tian from having to use the army to interfere in these put)11C security matters.

Faraday was beaming with joy. Kanima was not as unbearable as Yu Tian had imagined.

Perhaps Kanima had indeed been poor in the past, but after Yu Tian opened the mine here, the population of this place immediately began to surge.

A police chief would be a very valuable position.

After secretly laughing for a while, Faraday suddenly thought of something and hurriedly said to Yu Tian, "Boss, do you still remember the cave by the sea?"

("What Cave?"

"It's the cave where a few foreign tourists went missing. "

"Oh, that cave... What's wrong with that cave?"

"Didn't we find ancient ruins down there before? "Faraday chuckled and said, "We found some things down there last month..."

Yu Tian patted his head and said, "Are you still exploring that cave?"

Faraday said, "Yes, but because I didn't have enough funds, I didn't leave many people in the cave... There were only about a dozen people."

Yu Tian nodded. "Why? Did you find anything good in the cave?"

Faraday said, "We found something... like gemstones or some kind of ore... Yu Tian sighed, "Then find someone to appraise it,"

Faraday laughed dryly, "It's just an unprofessional appraiser, so I wanted to wait for you to come over to handle this matter..."

Yu Tian said helplessly, "Send the ore over, I'll get someone to send it to the mine to appraise it."

The mineral exploration team had long been withdrawn, but there were still some professionals in the mine, so identifying the ore was not a big problem.

After sending Faraday away, Yu Tian began to reorganize the Army with Mohammed and Harold.

The army of more than 8,000 people was a little too much, and the newly joined pirates did not have much combat power, so Yu Tian decided to streamline it.

The first thing was to clear out the few people from the pirate village in Faraday.

These pirates had originally come to fill in the gaps, and there were even children among them.

Who would have thought that they would all be integrated into the army and receive a month's pay.

These old and young pirates were cleared out, and there were a few hundred of them. They were almost all the men in the surrounding pirate villages.

Yu Tian kicked these people out of the military camp and stripped them of their status as soldiers.

However, Yu Tian was not someone who would burn the bridge after crossing the river. After all, Faraday had brought these pirates along and contributed to the safety of Kanmud.

Therefore, these pirates were all integrated into the KHANNIMA police station.

Of course, Khannima did not need hundreds of police officers. However, the mines near Khannima had such a need. They did not even have security guards.

Therefore, these hundreds of pirate police officers were basically sent to the mines as security guards.

It was not reasonable to use the government police officers to work as security guards for the private mines.

However, regardless of whether it was the mines or the police station, they were all Yu Tian's businesses. They were all paid by Yu Tian's wages. There was no such thing as taking advantage of others.

In addition, there were more than a thousand foreign pirates in the military camp. Their situation was slightly better than Faraday's people.

These more than a thousand pirates were all young and strong men. Because they arrived late, they were separated from the other recruits and formed a separate recruit unit. Currently, they were still undergoing basic formation training.

This was much more convenient. Yu Tian could find an opportunity to send them to the battlefield to be refined.

It was not that they had to die, but after going through the baptism of a large-scale battlefield, these pirates might learn discipline and cooperation, and learn to strictly carry out orders.

For the next two days, the officers in Kanimar were dealing with military matters.

Oasis might have been after Abu, but it wasn't that fast.

They might have wanted to seize the best opportunity for Abu to gain a foothold, but it wasn't easy to unify the thoughts of the warlords and pirates.

Yu Tian accompanied Chu Qing on a day of sightseeing in KANKNIMA, but there was nothing worth visiting in Kanknima. After a day of sightseeing, Chu Qing no longer had the interest to go out shopping.

The next day, people from the mining company came looking for her.

The person in charge of the mining company was an Easterner, his name was Zhang Junjie.

He was a peripheral member of the Donglong Company and was in charge of some of the normal businesses of the DONGLONG company.

For example, the mining company was basically run legally and did not have any connection with the DONGLONG company on the surface.

Zhang Junjie was not handsome. He was even bald because he was middle-aged.

However, as a professional businessman, he was very familiar with mining.

When he saw Yu Tian, Zhang Junjie said very seriously, “Boss Yu, can we talk in private?”

Zhang Junjie knew Yu Tian’s identity, but he still addressed Yu Tian as Boss Yu on the surface.

Yu Tian’s heart stirred, and he immediately brought Zhang Junjie to the study..

Translator: 549690339

As soon as he entered the study, Zhang Junjie couldn’t wait to ask, “Boss, where did you find those ores?”

“In a cave by the sea. Why? Is this ore very valuable?”

“It’s not a matter of whether it’s valuable or not... boss, do you know what kind of ore it is?”

“What is it?”

“Uranium ore! ”

“Uranium ore...”

Yu Tian sighed. F * CK, uranium ore was produced in the first place. This was not a very rare thing, and it was not worth being particularly excited about.

Most people knew about uranium 235, which was used to produce nuclear weapons and nuclear fuel.

However, the uranium content in uranium ores was usually very low, usually less than 0.1% . Among the extracted natural uranium, the content of uranium-235 was basically less than 1% .

The content was still a small matter, mainly because it was very difficult to purify.

Because there were two other kinds of uranium in natural uranium, namely uranium-234 and uranium-238, and the content of uranium-238 was usually more than 99% .

These kinds of uranium were all the same element, but the weight was slightly less than a few neutrons. This kind of ridiculous difference required very advanced separation technology and a huge amount of energy to get uranium-235 out.

Many countries did not have this kind of separation and purification technology at all, so even if they found uranium ore, they could only sell it for money.

There were many kinds of profitable businesses, but Yu Tian was not very interested in this uranium ore.

Because these ores were discovered in Faraday's underground, it was difficult to even get mining equipment in that place. It was basically impossible to extract them on a large scale.

Seeing Yu Tian's lack of interest..., Zhang Junjie immediately became anxious. "Boss, this uranium ore is not the uranium ore you imagined. The uranium content of this uranium ore is very high, just like it has been purified... No, it should be almost equivalent to enriched uranium. Just digging a few tons of stones back is enough to produce a lot of nuclear bombs.

"The content is very high... does that mean it is very valuable?"

Yu Tian was a little tempted. If the mining volume was not very large, he could consider doing something along the way.

"It's not a matter of whether it's valuable or not, boss..."

Zhang Junjie quickly moved closer to Yu Tian's ear and said, "Our Donglong Company... has refining technology.

"Oh? You're not joking, right?"

Yu Tian was a little surprised. Many countries did not have the ability to refine uranium, but an underground organization like Donglong company could actually do such a thing.

Zhang Junjie said again, "How can I joke with you like that... Actually, refining technology is not difficult. It's just a matter of spending a little more money.

Now, some organizations can even build their own small nuclear facilities..."

Yu Tian's heart was moved again. Previously, there was also a small nuclear generator on demon island. This meant that nuclear technology had long fallen into the hands of those underground organizations and had spread widely.

If they could create nuclear facilities, they could naturally create nuclear bombs. These underground organizations seemed to be going to heaven.

If they could create a few nuclear bombs, then no one would dare to do anything to these underground organizations.

They would be even more arrogant than some of the world's top-ranked powers. After all, many of the economic powers did not have nuclear weapons.

"We have to dig. We have to dig. We have to dig up all these things and send them back to the eastern countries.

Yu Tian quickly made a decision. How valuable these resources were was still a small matter. If they fell into the hands of other organizations, the consequences would be serious.

He immediately called Faraday over.

"Do you still have those ores in your hands?"

"No." Faraday spread his hands. "They were all sent to the mine.

Yu Tian asked again, "Did you send all the ores that you dug to the mine? Do your men still have them?"

Faraday said, "(No, they just brought some samples up from the cave. There are still a lot of ores in the cave. They just thought that this ore was more beautiful and thought that it might be a valuable gem, so they dug some and brought it back.

"Very good, this matter must be kept confidential. This ore is very valuable.". "Put down the other things in your hands now and go to the cave to keep an eye on it personally. Not even a single ore dross can be taken away by others. I want all the ores there!

"Yes, Boss!"

Faraday saluted happily and then said with an embarrassed smile, "Well, boss... how valuable is this ore?"

Yu Tian said with a straight face, "You don't need to know so much. In short... just treat it as a gold mine.

Faraday said excitedly, "Then wouldn't I Be Rich?"

Yu Tian said, "Yes, you're going to be rich. You Don't have to go to the sea to rob anymore. Keep an eye on this gold mine, and your bonus will be endless. It's much more profitable than your robbery and kidnapping.

Faraday quickly said, "Boss, don't worry. I'll keep an eye on our gold mine. I'll bring people back to the village now.

Yu Tian pointed at Zhang Junjie beside him. "This is boss Zhang from the mine. He'll bring people to be in charge of the mining work. "You have to cooperate with him well and be responsible for the safety of the mine... Also, get your people ready to be miners.

There were many miners in the mine, but they were only mining ordinary iron ore.

But Yu Tian was worried about handing the uranium mine to the existing miners in the mine.

Their origins were too complicated. Not only were there local people from Kanimar, but there were also many people who came from other places to look for food.

For such a confidential matter, Yu Tian could only hand it over to Faraday and the hundreds of pirates. At least, they were more willing to tie their interests with Yu Tian.

Faraday did not waste any time. He did not even have time to take care of the matter of being the police chief.

He brought the few hundred pirate policemen back to the pirate village where he used to live. Then, he returned to the familiar cave entrance and camped there.

The way the pirates camped was relatively simple. They parked the pirate ships near the cave entrance and started to wait for mining.

As long as the entrance was sealed, Faraday would not have to worry about someone stealing his gold mines from here.

Without his people leading the way, it was impossible for others to find the location of the gold mines.

The next day, Zhang Junjie brought a few technical workers from the eastern countries and rushed to the vicinity of the pirate village in a low-key manner.

The mining work was not difficult because the uranium content of this uranium ore was very high. Hence, a piece of rock that was dug out was considered a piece of rock. It was enough to use manpower to mine and transport it.

However, there was still a lot of equipment that needed to be prepared. Zhang Junjie used a truck to pull two carts.

Other than some manpower mining tools, the rest were mainly protective equipment.

Uranium ore had radiation. The radiation in the mine was even greater than the radiation from the highly enriched uranium that was purified. If they did not want to let these pirates dig alive, protective equipment was necessary..

Translator: 549690339

Faraday did not quite understand these protective equipment. He had kept the ores in his pocket and nothing had happened to him. Now that he was using tools to mine, could it be that he was poisoned?

Zhang Junjie did not explain how dangerous the mine was or how much radiation was released from the thousands of ores. He only said that it was a safety policy at work. Anyway, all the miners involved in mining had to follow the company's rules, they had to wear protective clothing.

The Pirates felt a little awkward, but the temperature in the mine was low to begin with. They did not feel uncomfortable after wearing protective clothing, so they quietly accepted it.

As Kannima did not look like there was going to be a war recently, Yu Tian rushed to the vicinity of the pirate village while he was free.

After all, this was the first day of mining. As the boss, he should also appear at the scene.

There was no opening ceremony, and there were no guests. The mining operation this time was very low-key and very secretive.

When Yu Tian rushed to the cave entrance, Zhang Junjie had already personally led the technical workers down into the cave.

Yu Tian was helpless and could only wait outside the cave.

But this time, he did not have to live on the cliff top. Although there were some wooden huts built on top, it was not as comfortable as staying in his armored car.

He and Chu Qing stayed in the armored car for the whole day.

At night, Zhang Junjie finally came out of the cave.

Yu Tian saw Zhang Junjie and found that he seemed to be in a daze. So he called Zhang Junjie into his car and asked Zhang Junjie what was going on down there.

Zhang Junjie didn't know how to answer, so he simply took out his phone and let Yu Tian see the video he took in the cave.

It could not be said that it looked like it. It was actually a large square, similar to a man-made square. The ground was very flat, but there were no modern building materials such as cement.

The uranium ores Lilac Lhang J unJ1e nau snowgrapneu were even stranger.

Uranium ores were usually more beautiful and eye-catching. The colors would also vary according to the composition of the ore. This could not be said to be strange.

The main reason was that the uranium ores that Zhang Junjie had photographed were actually very neat. They were arranged in a very regular way. In that huge space, they formed more than ten very neat circles.

Zhang Junjie’s expression was complicated as he said, “Yes, natural ores can not be so neat... these things are man-made. I feel that they are like nuclear reactors.

Yu Tian was puzzled, “Nuclear reactors? That’s impossible. This should be an ancient ruin, just like the imperial tombs... how did the ancient people know how to build nuclear reactors?”

Zhang Junjie said solemnly, “Of course the ancients didn’t know how to build a nuclear reactor, but... maybe there were even more ancient times? “I think that this may be a relic of an ancient civilization, a civilization that is more advanced than ours...”

Yu Tian was stunned. “What you said is a little too close to the truth. An ancient civilization? This should be something from science fiction, right?”

Zhang Junjie said, “Science fiction... may not be something that is not real. If you have read the science fiction novels of the last century, you will find that some of the things that they imagined have already been realized in this era... for example, cell phones.

Yu Tian said, “It is still very easy to imagine things like cell phones. When you use a landline phone, there is already a radio. A science fiction novelist with a richer imagination can indeed associate things like cell phones.”

Zhang Junjie shook his head. “Maybe, but the ancient civilization was really not just the imagination of a novelist. According to the records of the Mayans, Earth had experienced five civilizations. But the time span recorded by the Mayans was only a few million years. “Earth has a history of 4.6 billion years. How many civilizations could there be in between?”

Yu Tian shook his head. "These things have no basis. The records of the Mayan civilization may not be true... What does these things have to do with the uranium mines underground? "It can't prove that these uranium mines were created by another civilization, right? "Perhaps the ancient people thought these ores were beautiful, so they piled them up as decorations?"

Zhang Junjie said, "I have a way to verify it. We'll know when the verification results are out.

"How do you verify it? Have you discovered any technological creations of the ancient civilization?"

"No, but I can verify whether the thing they built is a nuclear reactor. If it really is a nuclear reactor, then it must be an advanced civilization."

"Then how do we verify it? Should we ask the nuclear experts to come over and take a look?"

"Not for the time being. I have a simple method. I have taken some samples from those ore piles. I can test their uranium-235 content."

"What do you mean?"

"If their uranium-235 content is very low and exceeds the normal uranium ore content range, then it proves that this pile of uranium ore has undergone a nuclear reaction. Then they are a nuclear reactor..."

"Didn't Faraday's sample say that the uranium 235 content is very high?"

"That should be a nuclear reactor that hasn't been activated yet, because its content is so high that it also exceeds the normal uranium ore range..." Zhang Junjie sighed. "Actually, there is already a precedent for this kind of situation..."

Yu Tian was stunned. "Precedent? What precedent? Could there be some place that has already confirmed the existence of an ancient civilization?"

"Even if all sorts of strange things and miraculous phenomena happen in this world, there will still be experts who will jump out and give a reasonable explanation, forcefully categorizing these phenomena as natural phenomena.

Yu Tian said helplessly, ("If that's the case, all scientific explanations can be forcefully explained. They can all be fake, and there can be other answers.

Zhang Junjie said, "When I say forced explanations, there must be something that can 't be explained scientifically... have you heard about the ancient nuclear reactor?"

Yu Tian shook his head. "I haven't paid attention to this kind of news."

"So... actually, that matter isn't considered news. Many people know about it. That incident happened more than 50 years ago, and the cause of the incident also began with a batch of uranium ore..."

Zhang Junjie began to describe the incident in detail.

In 1972, a nuclear plant in an old colonial country discovered a situation that shocked the authorities..

Translator: 549690339

The matter itself was not complicated. A nuclear plant purchased a batch of uranium ore raw materials and found that the content of uranium-235 in this batch of raw materials was ridiculously low.

The uranium ore obtained by the nuclear plant, uranium-235, was far below this standard. It was like used slag and nuclear waste.

This matter immediately shocked the authorities, because it was very likely that someone had extracted uranium 235 from the uranium ore.

Everyone knew that uranium ore was one of the main raw materials used to make nuclear weapons, which was an important resource that had to be controlled by the state.

Once the uranium ore was stolen by some underground organization and uranium 235 was extracted, it could pose a great threat to the security of the entire world.

Therefore, the authorities immediately began to investigate the origin of this batch of uranium ore.

As a result, the authorities discovered another situation. Most of the uranium ore purchased in the past two years had very low uranium-235 content.

The authorities immediately panicked. In the past two years, so much uranium ore had been refined and taken away. If it was used by criminals to create nuclear weapons, it would be enough to destroy the world.

This was a big deal. For this matter, who knew how many people had been caught and thrown into jail.

However, if the investigation continued, the authorities would not be able to find any trace of the criminals stealing and extracting uranium ore.

From the mining of the ore to the delivery of the nuclear plant, there was no oversight in the process. There was no possibility of it being stolen.

This result made the authorities even more nervous, because it could mean that the forces behind the scenes were extremely powerful. They were so powerful that they could control the investigation team and even the entire production and processing of the uranium ore, it was so powerful that the authorities could not find anything.

However, there was another possibility, which was that there was something wrong with the uranium ore itself.

Therefore, the authorities immediately sent an investigation team to the production site to conduct an on-site investigation.

This matter alarmed many countries at the time. After all, uranium ore was a matter of world security. Everyone sent a scientific team to personally investigate.

The investigators finally rushed to the place where the uranium ore was produced, Hei Zhou, and began to investigate the raw ores that were produced.

Finally, the investigation came to a conclusion that everyone was relieved. The uranium ore was already in such a low state before it was mined.

While they were relieved, the experts began to feel strange because the result did not conform to the known laws of nature.

They continued their investigation and finally dug out more than a dozen ancient nuclear reactors.

They were called nuclear reactors because the experts found that the uranium ore had already started a nuclear reaction 2 billion years ago and the reaction time had lasted for hundreds of thousands of years.

How could there be a nuclear reactor 2 billion years ago?

This result aroused great interest and interest in the scientific community, the investigation team began to carry out more detailed investigations and studies in the local.

The results of the research shocked the scientific community, they found that the structure of these nuclear reactors is unusual reasonable, even more advanced than the human nuclear technology at that time.

What surprised them more was that there was no problem of nuclear waste proliferation in these nuclear reactors.

When mankind used nuclear energy, the most painful thing was to preserve and treat the nuclear waste to avoid environmental pollution.

The waste water from a nuclear power plant flowing into the sea could affect the ecological environment of the whole world. This was a very serious matter.

Of course, in Yu Tian 's era, there were already very good technical means to deal with nuclear waste, and even more advanced small-scale nuclear energy facilities had been developed.

But at that time, these nuclear reactors that had been excavated still shocked the entire world.

With a strict scientific attitude, scientists believed that this kind of nuclear reactor should be a product of nature. It was absolutely impossible for it to be something made by ancient people.

Because according to the scientific community, the Earth's core was also a huge nuclear reactor, and nuclear reactions were carried out all the time.

So it was not strange for a naturally formed nuclear reactor to appear on the surface. After all, there was already a precedent, and there was one more precedent.

In short, the scientific community explained it this way, but many people did not believe it.

To form such a stable nuclear reactor, even if humans did it themselves, it would still be extremely difficult.

The structure of those man-made nuclear reactors could not achieve such a perfect balance, and they would continue to operate for hundreds of thousands of years.

Was Nature so awesome?

No wonder so many scientists suddenly began to study theology in their later years.

According to one scientist, the more knowledge he knew, the more he discovered that there were countless coincidences, countless wonderful and unbelievable rules in nature.

Therefore, many scientists believed that only gods and creators could build nature so perfectly.

Of course, there were also some who did not believe in this. They thought that this was the remains of a prehistoric civilization.

Humans had already found evidence that Earth had experienced five mass extinctions. Many people thought that there must be a high-level human civilization among them.

In fact, some people had actually found evidence of the existence of a prehistoric civilization, such as the ruins of some ancient city at the bottom of the sea, or the traces left behind by the nuclear war at Curry River 5,000 years ago..

Therefore, some people used this matter to deny the theory of evolution, because the emergence of certain civilizations was earlier than the so-called ape-man era in the theory of evolution.

When it came to the theory of evolution, this topic was even more off-topic. Yu Tian and Zhang Junjie also stopped talking about it.

Just by talking about these strange nuclear reactors discovered by humans, Zhang Junjie was certain that they were not the product of nature.

This conclusion had been confirmed by some scientists in recent years. These nuclear reactors were man -made.

The scientific community did not reveal the specific evidence and evidence for the time being. The reason was unknown.

Zhang Junjie believed that these nuclear reactors discovered in the cave were either something left behind by prehistoric civilizations or aliens.

However, when it came to aliens, there was no scientific basis for this matter. It was purely a conjecture.

Zhang Junjie believed that the prehistoric civilization was more likely.

Yu Tian suddenly had a headache. He originally only wanted to dig up the uranium ore, but he did not expect that a civilization relic would be involved now.

If he did not care about this matter, he felt that it was irresponsible for the scientific progress of mankind.

If he were to ignore it, Yu Tian doubted that the Donglong Company could organize a reliable research team of scientists.

If he were to really conduct research on the things underground, it would probably be another world -shaking matter.

When that time came, wouldn't the things he was doing in the F * Ck be done in broad daylight?

Translator: 549690339

Yu Tian pondered for a while and then asked Zhang Junjie, "Do you think the uranium ore below can still be mined?"

"Of course not."

Zhang Junjie shook his head repeatedly. Most of the uranium ore below has already exhausted its energy. Even if it's excavated, there won't be much that can be used. We don't need to destroy these ancient civilization relics. They have very high scientific research value...

Yu Tian sighed. "You should first examine these uranium ores to see if it's really as you said. The uranium-235 inside has basically been used up."

"What if that's really the case?"

"Then... we'll talk about it when the time comes."

Yu Tian was a little helpless. He could only call Faraday over and announce that they were temporarily done for the day.

The reason was simple. The technicians had to carry out further tests on the samples they brought up.

This was not a strange thing. Mining was a very complicated and troublesome process. It was not something that could be done in a day or two immediately. Then, they would immediately pick up the shovel and start working.

So, for the next two days, Faraday brought people to live the life of a fisherman near the cave. They guarded the cave while waiting for the next official start of work.

Yu Tianze and Zhang Junjie returned to the mine and began to examine the uranium ore samples they had brought.

The results came out very quickly. As expected, most of the uranium ore had a low uranium 235 content to the point that it was almost non-existent.

This illogical phenomenon seemed to confirm Zhang Junjie's guess. The uranium ore underground was very likely a relic left behind by a high-level civilization in ancient times.

Yu Tian began to have a headache.

There was no need to talk about mining. Although there were still a few useful uranium ores that could be mined, it was not of much significance.

The important thing was the civilization relic below. The value of this thing could be big or small.

Perhaps this relic could only provide some historical research value, but it was also possible that there was some amazing high-level technology hidden in the relic that would be of great help to the scientific progress of this era.

Yu Tian could only contact uncle long and ask him to organize a group of scientists to come over.

Uncle Long also had a headache. The donglong company indeed had some researchers, but they mainly carried out the development and research of small-scale weapons and equipment, and the scientific aspects involved were very limited.

The scope of the civilization relic might be very large, and the scientific research force needed was not something that an underground organization could provide.

Yu Tian pondered for a moment and said to uncle long, "How about this, you contact the higher-ups of the eastern country and get them to participate in this matter.

Uncle Long hesitated for a moment. "This... will it work? If the country participates in these matters, they will take the dominant position in turn. At that time, our Eastern Dragon Company might not be able to reap any benefits.

Yu Tian said, "There's nothing that can't be done. After all, we are Eastern people. As the saying goes, 'don't let the good water flow to outsiders'. Letting the eastern country reap the benefits is better than letting other countries reap the benefits... the main reason is that we don't have the ability to independently conduct such scientific investigations, so we can only cooperate with the country."

"Alright, I'll immediately contact my friends in China.

After hanging up the phone, Uncle Long went to contact the country to arrange a scientific expedition team while Yu Tian went back to the pirate village.

After finding Faraday, Yu Tian went straight to the point.

“The mining plan has been terminated. Arrange a few people to watch the entrance of the cave nearby... Hmm, let’s stay on the top of the cliff for the time being. We left some houses there previously.”

Faraday was a little surprised. “Terminated? What’s going on? Are there any problems with his samples?”

Yu Tian said, “Yes, the reserves of these minerals are very low. There’s no mining value.

“Oh.

Faraday was a little disappointed and a little puzzled. “Since there’s no mining value, why are we still guarding here?”

Yu Tian said, “Although this mine has no value in mining, this underground space is still very valuable for research. I have already contacted the scientific expedition team. “So you still have to take care of this place and not let anyone go in to cause damage. ”

“Is it very valuable for research?”

Faraday smiled sheepishly and said, “That is still quite valuable. I have reported to you before that there were cultural relics found below...”

Yu Tian said helplessly, “The bottles and jars that you obtained previously didn’t have any research value. Only these mines have research value... in short, you have to manage the people who have been to this mine well. You Can’t let them go out without permission and leak the location of this place.”

Faraday scratched his head. “Is it that serious?”

Yu Tian said, “Of course it’s serious. In short, just do as I say.”

Faraday hesitated for a moment. “Then... how much can the research in this cave be worth?”

(‘If it’s worth...

Yu Tian said with a headache, “It’s not a matter of money. However, in view of your major scientific discovery this time, I will give you a bonus. The follow-up may require you to cooperate with the scientific investigation team. At that time, those who participate will receive a generous salary...”

Faraday could not help but rub his hands together. “This bonus... how much is

Yu Tian stretched out a palm. "One million." Faraday was instantly overjoyed. "That much... five million?"

Faraday blinked. "One million? This is... Alright, one million is already not bad. "

Yu Tian smiled and patted his shoulder. "Do your best. Take care of those people under you. Don't let them leak the news. "When the scientific team comes, you can still get a good job. It's much more comfortable than skipping work.

"Okay, I will get people to keep an eye on those kids. Everyone who has been to the mine will stay here and wait for the work of the scientific team... However, I still have to bring the others back to Kannima to continue investigating the case.

"Are you going back to Kannima? Then who do you plan to arrange to stay

"Let Abdullah stay here. He is the guy who was almost wiped out by General Abu. He is now with me. I let him be my second brother...

"Your second brother... "

Yu Tian sighed. He still had some impression of Abdullah.

He was originally a pirate who was stronger than Faraday. However, because of the missing members of the Clone Society, his village and men were almost completely destroyed by General Abu.

Normally, it would not be difficult for him to recruit soldiers and make a comeback.

However, he felt that it was more promising to beg for a living from Yu Tian. Faraday and Yu Tian seemed to have a very good relationship, so he willingly became Faraday's second brother..

Translator: 549690339

The task left for Abdullah was actually a very good job.

Working for the scientific expedition team was not as dangerous as being a pirate. The income was also much higher than those ordinary jobs. It was much easier than being absent from work.

Although the pirates were all desperadoes, they could not find a livelihood. They were forced to go to the sea to earn money desperately.

As long as they had a normal job that could guarantee the life of their whole family, who would risk their lives.

There were forty to fifty pirates who stayed, all of whom claimed to have been to the mine.

Some of them might not have been to the mine, but they knew the route to the mine and had been close to other forks and areas nearby.

Since they could voluntarily stay near the cave, it saved them a lot of time to worry about the leak.

The next few days were peaceful. The bored Khannema army built some simple sentry posts outside the city.

The city used to be unguarded because no one would think about attacking them.

But now that there was a mine to the west of Khannema, the KHANNEMA Army not only had to build a line of defense, but they also had to move it further west.

Similarly, to the south and southwest, the outpost was also needed to provide early warning.

These simple outposts were not difficult to build, mainly living huts and some simple fortifications.

Because the main role was to provide early warning, the outpost did not need to occupy any defensive position there was no such terrain in the Great Gobi.

They only needed to stand high and see far, and then they could quickly send an alarm to their superiors and drive their cars to escape.

There were about a dozen or twenty such sentry posts, and nearly a hundred soldiers took turns to guard them.

The soldiers formed teams of three to five people, and each team had a military vehicle with two to three days' worth of food and water. They were scattered in the Gobi Desert and the wilderness around Khannima.

In this way, Kannima would not be completely impregnable. At the very least, it would not be completely clueless when it was ambushed.

After another week, there was finally news from Uncle Long.

The Eastern kingdom had decided to send experts over to investigate the situation. This was only the preliminary investigation. They needed to confirm whether this so-called "Ancient technological relic" had any value for research.

After confirming that it was necessary to conduct research on this relic, the Eastern kingdom would officially send a large group of experts over to conduct a long-term research on this place.

This vanguard team arrived very quickly. That night, they arrived at the beach near the pirate village. Under the cover of the night, they flew to the beach in a military helicopter.

This proved that the warships of the eastern country had already arrived at the nearby waters. In recent years, the warships of the eastern country had often carried out escort missions in the nearby waters, so this kind of thing could not be considered strange.

There were only five people in the vanguard team. All of them were young and strong. There was not a single old man.

Yu Tian sighed in his heart. The talent pool of the eastern country was indeed getting bigger and bigger. The scientific research team was also getting younger and younger.

The leader was a middle-aged man. He shook hands with Yu Tian very seriously. "Mr. Yu, thank you for your trust and support for the country.

Yu Tian was not quite used to this kind of situation. He could only smile and say, "We are all family members, so we can't talk about this... I still don't know how much research value is in this. "

The middle-aged man said solemnly, "There is definitely value in research. The main purpose of US coming here is to determine the scale of the investigation, as well as the personnel and plans that might be needed.

Yu Tian nodded. He did not know much about these things, so he could only provide guidance and cooperation. The rest was up to the researchers.

After a simple exchange of pleasantries and greetings, the five experts immediately decided to enter the cave for the expedition. They did not even have the intention to rest.

Anyway, the cave was pitch black. There was no difference between day and night.

The ones who were slightly more laborious were Abdullah's group of pirates. They woke up in the middle of the night yawning and began to lead the expedition team.

Yu Tian did not enter the cave, but he accompanied them near the beach to prevent any accidents from happening.

The expedition team stayed in the cave for a day and two nights. They did not exit the cave until the morning of the third day.

Yu Tian heaved a sigh of relief and then went to inquire about the investigation.

Yu Tian did not need to understand the scientific conclusions. He did not understand them anyway. He just wanted to know if there was any scientific value in the cave.

(‘Very valuable, “the middle-aged man said solemnly. “Mr. Yu, you have made a great contribution to the motherland this time. On behalf of the country, I thank you. ”

Yu Tian suddenly felt a little embarrassed. It was rare for him to do something for the eastern country, and he was always thanked like this. The patriotism of these people really made him feel ashamed.

He could only say, “You’re exaggerating. This is just a small matter... What are your plans next? Is there anything that I can help you with?”

“We can complete the scientific research work ourselves. The main thing is that we still need Mr. Yu to provide cooperation and support for the confidentiality work... Mr. Yu should be able to understand that the strength of our country is not suitable to appear on this side of F * * K.

“I understand. Leave the matters on this side of the country to me. I’ll settle whatever needs you guys have.

“Thank you very much. Actually, the higher-ups of the country have some understanding of Mr. Yu’s Donglong Company.”. “Donglong Company is very powerful. The main members of the management team are all Easterners. We have had all kinds of contact and cooperation with the country. We have great confidence in donglong company’s position and ability...”

“Donglong Company will fully support the scientific research of our motherland.

Yu Tian expressed his stance.

Donglong company was not considered an illegal organization. Although there were many illegal acts in private, they generally had a very friendly attitude toward each country.

Yu Tian was even more so personally. He had dealings with the higher-ups of those big countries on the surface.

Although the leaders of these big countries had changed a lot over the years, Yu Tian still had a certain degree of fame and influence in the higher-ups of these big countries.

The cooperation this time was quickly confirmed.

The eastern country would set up a scientific research team and secretly enter this cave to carry out scientific research. The donglong company would also have a few professional scientific researchers participate in the investigation and research of this historical site.

The equipment, equipment, and funding needed were all taken care of by the Dongfang nation. As for the other work that needed to be done locally, Yu Tian would be in charge of it.

The most important part of the entire scientific investigation was to keep it a secret. The Dongfang nation and the DONGLONG company would work together to swallow all the benefits in this historical site.

This could also be considered as the Dongfang people taking all the benefits for themselves.

While Kanima was still calm, a huge project was secretly started..

After a simple topographic survey, the team decided to open up a more hidden entrance.

The new entrance was in the small mountain forest behind the cliff. From there, they would dig a tunnel that directly connected to the cave.

Because the terrain in front of the cave was upward, after finding the correct location, they did not the cave.

The task of finding the location was a so very simple. He could just use a computer to do 3D mapping. In an era of unusually advanced technology, drawing a map and building a model was already many times easier than in ancient times.

Opening a cave in the mountain could actually be done to a very secretive degree. One could even find a few folk archaeologists from the Eastern countries and then take a few Luoyang shovels to complete a passage down.

However, these "Folk archaeologists" were more difficult to find because they did not like to go to jail, so they kept their identities very secret.

Therefore, the eastern country could only find a professional drilling equipment. Taking advantage of the night, they transported it to the coast with a large group of scientific researchers and then sent it to the small forest behind the cliff.

The scientific team's researchers first went down to investigate the cave, while the digging was left to Yu Tian.

In order to keep it as secret as possible, the digging of the cave naturally had to be done during the day and at night.

There was no one around the pirate village, and Yu Tian had the pirates set up a few miles around the area to be on guard, so when it was time to dig at night, even if there was some noise, there was no need to worry about being noticed by outsiders.

The entrance of the passage was relatively hidden, and the passage was not too big. Basically, it could only provide access for people.

The matter of transporting large equipment and instruments did not need to be considered. There were many places in the cave that were not spacious. No matter how spacious the artificial passage was, it was impossible for large equipment and instruments to be sent underground.

After the new entrance was opened, it was much more convenient for people to go in and out as well as to transport materials. At least, they did not need to use pirate ships to transport them.

It was only a few steps from the beach to the entrance of the cave. Using the ship to transport materials was also a very tedious task.

The remaining dozens of pirates became porters, helping the expedition team transport all kinds of daily necessities.

The distance from the ground to the mine was very far, and it would take a long time to transport basic daily necessities. There were already dozens of people working on the expedition team. In addition to the dozens of guards of the eastern country, they needed a lot of food, drink, and toilet every day, so they could only rely on the pirates to use manpower to transport them back and forth.

Yu Tian did not need to worry about the safety of the expedition team.

Recently, the eastern country's warships had started to appear more and more frequently in the waters around Tahiti.

In name, they were escorting merchant ships to guard against pirates.

However, Yu Tian knew that their actual purpose was to prevent any accidents from happening on the expedition team. They could provide support at any time.

Unfortunately, it was impossible for the eastern country's army to join the Civil War in Damadi. Otherwise, Yu Tian's side would have saved a lot of trouble, and no one would dare to have any designs on the Abu Group.

After the expedition team's matters were settled, Yu Tian sent Chu Qing back to the country. He let her leave on the warship that sent the expedition team over and return to the country directly.

There was really nothing worth visiting in Damadi. Chu Qing stayed here all day and had nothing to do. She might as well return to the country and do her own things.

After sending Chu Qing away, the situation in the F * CK was still the same.

Yu Tian was a little puzzled. Did the oasis not plan to take action against Abu Group? Did the big macaque just let the maniza land be occupied by Abu, this new force?

At this time, the Faraday investigation suddenly had another clue.

After Faraday went from house to house, he finally made an important discovery.

That evening, someone saw Sergeant Mach and the others entering a residential building.

However, since Sergeant Mach and the others were wearing casual clothes, the witnesses could not confirm their identities. They could only say that they were suspects.

Moreover, the witnesses could not confirm which residential building they had entered.

The witnesses only knew that they had entered an alley, and this alley happened to be a dead end. There were only a few residential buildings inside.

At that time, it was close to nightfall. After Sheriff Ma he and the others entered the alley, they did not come out again. At least, the witnesses did not see them come out.

Then it was nightfall. After nightfall, the new recruits of Kannima began to patrol the streets.

The residents of Kannima basically did not have the habit of going out at night. Therefore, when it was dark, there were basically no pedestrians on the streets. Anyone who appeared on the streets would appear very conspicuous.

If Sheriff Mach and the others wanted to leave the alley at night, it was basically impossible for them not to be discovered by the patrolling soldiers.

Therefore, Faraday was sure that Sheriff Mach and the others had stayed in one of the houses in the alley that night and never returned to the hotel, so the hotel didn't know their whereabouts.

As for the exact time and method of their disappearance, it was still uncertain.

So Faraday immediately led a group of pirates in green army uniforms into the alley and began to search.

At this time, more than two months had passed since the incident. Of course, there wouldn't be any significant results from the search, and Faraday didn't expect to find Sheriff Mach's group.

However, they also had a great harvest. One of the houses in the alley had already been emptied.

This was obviously the biggest suspect.

Whether Sheriff Mach and the others had left on their own or were controlled by others, it was all related to this house.

There were merchants coming and going every day in Kenema. Although a small war broke out that day, the Abu Group won a big victory and didn't do anything to restrict the movement of the residents of Kenema.

It was not difficult for Chief Ma He and the others to leave Kannima, even if they were kidnapped and taken away.

In addition, the people of the Abu Group were busy accepting the fruits of their victory. They had long forgotten about Chief Ma He and the others, so they had more freedom of movement.

This investigation result was still of some value to Yu Tian. It could basically be used to report to Oasis, proving that the disappearance of Chief Ma He and the others had nothing to do with them.

Khanima did not restrict the freedom of Mach and the others, nor did it do anything to them.

They ran around Khanima City and eventually got lost. It had nothing to do with the Abu Group..

Translator: 549690339

The results of the investigation were quickly transmitted to the oasis.

There was not much physical evidence in this kind of investigation, only some witness testimony.

But it did not matter. Evidence was not the most important thing. The important thing was that everyone knew what was going on.

If Sheriff Mach and the others went missing without a clear reason, Yu Tian might have to find an excuse with a guilty conscience.

However, this matter was obviously chief ma he and the others 'own problem. They had walked into an inexplicable house and disappeared without a clear explanation. This had nothing to do with the Abu Group.

The problem was the missing residents of Kannima. Yu Tian thought that the residents should be the Oasis'intelligence personnel, or perhaps they had something to do with the Kronin Society.

Therefore, Faraday also found out the information about the missing family and handed it over to the oasis authorities.

There was no need to explain anything else. He didn't even need to explain the identity of the missing family.

Yu Tian felt that the oasis authorities should know what was going on. All he needed to do was wait quietly for the oasis authorities' response.

However, Oasis did not give any response or explanation, and it seemed that they were not going to make a fuss about this matter.

After waiting for a few more days, Oasis suddenly made a move.

This time, it was not a small one. Oasis directly announced on the television news that Abu Group was a group of armed pirates who had attacked and occupied the cities of Manizadi and Kandama, they had brought great chaos to the Dama region, and the people had no way to live.

This meant that they were going to start a war.

According to international practice, there had to be an excuse before they started a war. This was called having a reason for starting a war.

Fighting without a declaration was a despicable act. It was not something that a country's regime should do.

After announcing the various crimes of the other party, they would openly send troops to crusade. This scale was usually not small.

On the day after the news broke, the warlords in the oasis and the entire South started to move.

The armies from all sides began to assemble with great momentum.

Following closely was the north. The big macaques from the northern port of serin also moved.

The big macaques, together with a group of small warlords and pirates from the north, also began to assemble. They said that they were responding to the call of the capital to recover the lost land in the land of Moniza and to give the local residents a bright future.

There was no need to say any excuses. In any case, the whole of the F * CKING country had mobilized and were ready to launch a war against the Abu Group.

If they did not move, they would just do as they were told. The moment they moved, the two cities of Maniza and Kannima suddenly felt like they were being attacked from all sides.

The Abu Group naturally held a meeting of all the high-level officials. Since everyone was in two cities, they were too lazy to run around. They simply held a simple video conference.

In order to prevent the enemy from monitoring the video conference, Yu Tian did not show his face during the meeting. He only gave a little voice-over.

The people who showed their faces in the video were general Odin of the armored forces, as well as the commanders of the three infantry teams, Muhammad, Harold, and Alabu.

The main fighting force was of course the armored forces, but the actual commander of the armored forces, Colonel Snoopy, also did not show his face.

On the side of Moniza, it was Abu and Eddie who showed up, and General Caro also hid outside the screen.

The black skin on the screen made this matter look like a bloody civil war.

There was not much practical content in the battle meeting. After all, the ABU group had been preparing for this war for a long time, and the arrangements in various aspects had been completely settled. They were just waiting to start a war with the enemy.

Therefore, the main purpose of the meeting was to cheer everyone on.

General Abu displayed a rare heroic spirit, in the video conference, he said loudly, "War is all about money! "I'm sorry, but I'm Rich Now! "Our god of wealth is very optimistic about our development. I have plenty of investment on hand. If the equipment and troops are not enough, we still have plenty of support..."

The God of wealth was, of course, referring to Yu Tian. These high-level personnel all knew what to do.

As for the sufficient support that Abu had mentioned, it was already quietly in place.

After Oasis announced the news of the Declaration of war, Yu Tian had already contacted several mercenary groups from before. "Loyal and reliable guardians" , "Bring Death and peace" , and the "Mad, Calm Hyena. ".

The names of these three mercenary groups are a little complicated, but it's easier to call them simply "Guardians, " "Death squad, "and "Hyenas.".

The three mercenary groups were happy to provide services to their regular customers, and Yu Tian was not only fairly paid, but also provided them with a great deal of extra arms and ammunition.

The mercenaries usually brought their own weapons and ammunition, but it also depended on the situation.

As the saying went, once a cannon fired, it would be worth ten thousand taels of gold.

The amount of ammunition consumed here was likely to reach an astronomical figure. It was definitely not something an ordinary mercenary group could afford.

Thus, the generous Yu Tian did not need these mercenary groups to make any requests. He took the initiative to open up his own ammunition warehouse to them.

Yu Tian's use of the mercenary groups was also very reasonable.

He did not ask the mercenary groups to use their lives to block the front line. Instead, he placed them at the back of his own army and equipped them with cannons.

Compared to the local pirate army, the biggest advantage of mercenaries was not their infantry combat skills, but their use and mastery of various weapons.

If there were enough tanks and armored vehicles, Yu Tian could turn the mercenaries into armored units.

These mercenaries were all versatile. Even if they were not professional tank soldiers, they had relatively skilled tank driving and control skills. The armored units they formed., their combat strength would definitely not be inferior to those new recruits who had just finished their training.

However, Yu Tian's armored forces were enough for now. What he lacked was artillery.

In fact, Yu Tian was also a big artillery soldier and a heavy tank soldier.

Although he had never participated in these large-scale wars, he had a deep impression of the iron tide of the war era.

In his opinion, the army should use artillery and steel to crush the enemy and beat them to a pulp.

This concept of war was outdated, but it didn't seem to be too outdated when used in Damadi.

Manizadi and Kannima each had more than 200 armored troops, which was already a very powerful force.

In addition to the various cannons Yu Tian had prepared, their combat strength was even more extraordinary.

If they were to be thrown on the battlefield of the last century, this was also a strength that only a large country could possess.

Next was the deployment of the army.

Before the start of the war, they naturally had to carry out a round of reconnaissance on the other party. As the saying goes, know yourself and know your enemy, and you will not be defeated in a hundred battles..

Translator: 549690339

Scouting was actually a very simple matter.

Yu Tian handed this matter over to uncle long because Donglong company had its own satellite a satellite rented from the Eastern kingdom.

With the help of the satellite, the enemy's troop movements were basically impossible to hide.

Of course, the oasis side might have felt that this kind of thing could not be concealed, so they gathered their troops generously and prepared for a tough battle with the Abu Group.

The oasis side was obviously stronger.

First was the number of infantrymen. After gathering the forces of various small warlords and pirates, the number of infantrymen had already exceeded 20,000, three times that of the Kannima side.

But this was only a small matter. The real strength of the oasis side was the armored forces.

The strength of their armored forces was not in the number, but in the quality.

The Oasis Government Army did not have many tanks, only a few dozen.

However, their tanks were the mainstream military weapons of modern times. They were not the same as the old ones of the last century like Kannima.

Whether it was in terms of defense, firepower, or even the quality of the tank soldiers, the oasis army was much stronger than the Kannima Army.

If they fought head-on, Yu Tian felt that their armored forces had no chance of winning.

In addition, Oasis still had more than a dozen armed helicopters.

The threat of the armed helicopters depended on how they were used.

If they were to come to the battlefield of Kannima City, Yu Tian really did not care much.

Even such a Professional and Powerful helicopter force from Drettv country could be defeated in the middle of nowhere. Oasis's Little Air Force could not cause psychological pressure to the army of Kannima.

Even the army of Kannima was very confident and interested in taking down a few helicopters. They felt that their military career would not be perfect if they did not take down a few helicopters.

Fortunately, there was no air force in this land. In the past, when the country was unified, they even got some fighter jets. However, after the collapse of the government, the whole country was plunged into war and there was nothing left.

In addition, there was the situation of the enemy in the north.

The armored strength of the big macaque was not much different from that of the Maniza land. However, there were many warlords gathered in the maniza land, with a total strength of 40,000 to 50,000 people.

Such an army could not be said to be completely harmless. If there were too many rabble, it could also cause a lot of trouble for the Maniza Land.

Because the terrain in the north of the Maniza land was more complicated, there were many mountains and forests. It was very suitable for those small warlords and small pirates to sneak attack and cause trouble.

However, Yu Tian did not need to worry about the defense of Maniza. There was a retired soldier, General Caro, there.

As long as there was no situation where they underestimated the enemy and advanced rashly, a strict defense would only be a competition of consumption. This type of war pattern was not a big problem.

Yu Tian's attention was mainly on Kanimia.

There were two places that Kanimia needed to defend. One was the city area and the military camp, and the other was the mine.

Logically speaking, the civil war in Damadi should not have destroyed the city and the enterprise, because the enemy was not here to plunder and destroy. What they wanted was to occupy this territory and take the city and the mine for themselves. The destroyed city and the mine were of no value to them.

According to this train of thought, there was actually no need to defend a certain place for the rest of the day. It didn't matter even if he abandoned Kanimia and ran off to play guerilla warfare.

The enemy wouldn't destroy this place anyway. As long as he obtained the final victory, the city and the mine would still belong to him.

However, this was obviously not appropriate, because there wasn't any suitable soil near Kanimia for guerilla warfare. Moreover, the Abu Group wasn't some small warlord or bandit. They weren't as nimble and stealthy as the guerrillas.

The Abu Group now had an army of nearly 20,000 people. It could be considered a super large-scale force in F * Ck.

If an army of this scale were to be pulled out to fight guerilla warfare in such a barren and narrow area, not to mention being able to hide their tracks, even eating would be a big problem that could not be solved.

In addition, the bitter guerrillas were not what Yu Tian needed. His ultimate goal was to create a sufficiently strong military force that could be used to deal with the Sneaky Clone Society in the future.

Therefore, Yu Tian had to let the Abu group occupy this territory openly.

No matter how fierce the enemy's approach was, he had to push the enemy back so that they wouldn't dare to attack again.

This was considered from a strategic point of view.

Next was the specific defense tactics, which had already been discussed in the meeting.

Their supplies were stored in the barracks, and the barracks blocked the passage to the land of Maniza. This was all their logistical support, so they could not lose Kanima.

If they lost Kanima, they could only retreat quickly to the land of Maniza. Otherwise, if they were blocked in the south, the Kanima Front would only become a group of vagrants.

However, Kannima was a place with no danger to defend. Apart from a mountain range that stretched for hundreds of miles behind them, it could provide a territory for the losers to fight in guerrilla warfare.

This kind of defense was more troublesome.

General Karo suggested that the army should be placed in the city, including supplies.

The advantage of doing so was that it could avoid the enemy's artillery fire. The oasis side would definitely not blindly fire at the city.

Naturally, they could not give up the barracks, so they also had to set up defensive fortifications.

Therefore, Kanima had been busy building various fortifications to deal with the war recently.

Too complex fortifications took a lot of time, and the amount of work was also large.

The construction force that Kanima could organize was not enough, and the number of fortifications that could be built could not be much.

Yu Tian's main task now was to dig a large number of trenches.

Digging trenches was a very ancient mode of war. In the previous world wars, trenches were used to earn a living. The confrontation between the two sides was enough to last for a few years.

Even in modern times, the trenching and fortifying mode of war was not completely extinct. Especially in the war between the poor, fortifying was the most cost-effective method.

The biggest problem on the side of Kannima was that the nearby Gobi wasteland was mostly hard soil, so digging trenches was more laborious.

However, the conditions in this era were much better than in the last century, so digging trenches did not require soldiers to do it manually.

With the help of the excavators from Blushedt, the area around Kannima was covered with crisscrossing trenches. In addition to the various bunkers and fortifications, the defense of the Kannima area seemed to be impregnable.

In such an environment, it was impossible to deploy armored troops. Although there was no problem for vehicles to pass through, it was impossible for them to charge in formation.

Therefore, the armored troops of Kanima were thrown into the wild by Yu Tian and hidden away.

For the time being, the armored troops would not become the main characters of the battlefield because Yu Tian's side did not have much chance of winning. Only by placing them in the wild would they be able to find an opportunity to play their role..

Another place that needed to be defended was the mine.

The mine was to the west of Kannima. To be exact, it was in the mountains to the northwest.

These mines and the mountains behind Kannima belonged to the same mountain range. However, due to the difficulty of the mountain road, the communication between the two sides still needed to go through the transportation on the Gobi Desert in the wilderness.

The defense of the mine was easier. The only problem was the replenishment of supplies.

The entire mine's food and water came from Kannima. Now that they were in a state of war, the transportation would definitely be affected.

Originally, Kannima had a strong armored force and could completely control the area around Kannima and the mines.

However, he did not want the armored force to go head-to-head with the oasis. He could only let the armored force hide. The traffic control of this area was equivalent to being in the hands of the enemy, kenema and the mine might also be separated.

Kenema was still better. There was still the access to Maniza, and Maniza had a port. There was no need to worry about cutting off the logistics supplies.

The mine would be troublesome. He could only stockpile a batch of supplies first.

These supplies were mainly food, weapons, and ammunition. As he did not know how long the war would last, he would stack as many supplies as he could.

These two small cities were in the west and southwest of Kannima, about 100 kilometers apart.

Between them and Kannima was the Gobi Desert. The middle was basically a no man's land, without any villages.

If they were to launch a surprise attack on khanima, it would only take about two hours.

There were no signs of a large-scale military buildup on the south side of Khanima. There were only a few small warlords that were mainly infantry.

The environment on the south side was slightly better than the Gobi Desert because there were more and more oases and habitable villages near the coast.

However, the terrain in the south was slightly more complicated, and the roads were not easy to walk on. It was not suitable for large-scale military operations.

The nearest city in the south was also a few hundred kilometers away from Khanima. The troops from this direction could only be stationed in the small villages along the way. The number could not be too large, otherwise, replenishing food and water would be a problem.

However, this small warlord force could not be ignored, because the cave where the expedition team was working was in this direction.

If these troops approached Kanimar and wandered around aimlessly, they might find people moving around the cave and vehicles transporting food and water, which would become a big problem.

Therefore, Yu Tian sent out his trump card in this direction the death God mercenary group.

In terms of the combat ability of a small-scale army, the death god mercenary group was naturally much more powerful than Kanmud's army.

A mercenary army of more than a hundred people faced over a thousand pirate armies.

Their mission was to stop and harass the enemy, making it impossible for them to advance along this coastline.

This kind of mission wasn't difficult for the death god mercenary group, but if they really couldn't resist it, Yu Tian would still have a backup plan.

A few days later, the pirate corps on the coastline set out first, approaching Kandama at a leisurely pace.

The start of this war would start with the death god mercenary group.

Yu Tian was originally supposed to be commanding in Kandama, but Kandama was currently in a defensive position and didn't have any special military operations.

Thus, Yu Tian decided to follow the death god mercenary group and set off, preparing to personally take down the opening shot.

Yu Tian wanted to personally go to war, so Cass and the mouse squad naturally started to pack up their stuff and prepared to set off together with Yu Tian. However, Yu Tian didn't have the intention of bringing along these assassin bodyguards.

This time, they were going to the battlefield, so bringing along these bodyguards and assassins wouldn't be of much use. The value they could display might not even be as good as an ordinary mercenary.

It wasn't that the bodyguards' combat strength was inferior to those ordinary mercenaries. It was mainly because the action patterns they were used to didn't have much of an effect on the battlefield.

On the battlefield, they used heavy weapons above the Aya level, while the bodyguards were mostly used to using pistols.

On the battlefield, most of the time, it was shooting, shooting, shooting... in addition to all kinds of heavy weapons and heavy firepower.

However, the bodyguards were better at stealth, stealth, sneak attack, assassination... This kind of covert and low-key killing method.

If a hundred enemy soldiers attacked or charged at them, the small mercenary army would be more reasonable than these assassin bodyguards.

It might be good to let the killers fight in the city, but on the battlefield, it was a waste of resources.

Just like the military could not send the special forces who spent a lot of money to fight on the battlefield, this was a huge waste of human resources.

On the battlefield, weapons had no eyes. Yu Tian did not want these killers to die on the battlefield, so he ordered Cass and the mouse team to stay in Kannima.

Yu Tian also gave them a mission to protect the main generals of Kanima.

However, the actual commander of the entire Kanima Army was Yu Tian himself and the instructor of the Tiger Squad, Colonel Snoopy.

However, Colonel Snoopy was more familiar with the armored forces. At this time, he had already left Kanimar with general Odin and the armored forces.

Therefore, the overall situation of the battlefield was still under Yu Tian's personal control.

Yu Tian was now going to personally participate in the battle at the front line. The temporary command was handed over to Harold, with Muhammad as a support.

The task of the mouse squad was to protect these two important figures of the military. They didn't want them to be assassinated in the middle of the war.

There was still a possibility.

In addition, there was Alabu in the upper echelons of the KANIMA military.

Alabu had a few hundred pirate troops under him, and he was also a high-ranking officer.

In Yu Tian's eyes, allab was not worth mentioning at all.

He originally wanted to send allab to the coastline as a consumable, but because allab's pirate troops were too weak, Yu Tian could not bring them out.

He could only let Allab stay in khannima to eat and temporarily participate in the defense work around Khannima.

Using trash troops as a consumable was also a very troublesome matter.

Although allab's pirate troops were all dead, it did not matter. It had little effect on Yu Tian's overall strength..

However, losing a battle would affect the morale of both sides.

The enemy's morale would soar, while the enemy's side would feel the same way.

On the battlefield, the vanguard troops were usually the strongest troops, or if they could not compare to the strongest, they would choose one of the strongest troops.

Allab's army was not even ranked in the list, so he could only stay in the defense system of Kannima to make up the numbers.

It did not mean that Abu's army was useless. During the previous reorganization and training, Yu Tian found that Abu's army had one advantage they could run very well.

No matter the terrain and environment, mountains, forests, Gobi, desert... Abu's army could come and go freely, and they arrived on time like a courier company.

Their ability to move depended on their two legs. Even if Yu Tian did not provide them with sufficient vehicles, they could still keep up with the pace of the army's movements.

This kind of mobility reminded Yu Tian of the seniors of his motherland.

For the sake of countless seniors, Yu Tian temporarily let go of Abu Ghraib's army. He did not assign them any dangerous missions, nor did he forcefully pull them to the front line to fight.

Returning to the topic, Yu Tian left the mouse squad in Kundima City. He followed the death god mercenary group and headed toward the coastline, preparing to launch the first attack and start the war.

He only brought a big guy with him.

The Big Guy was not the assassin bodyguard of the mouse squad. He was a genetic warrior.

Genetic warriors had some very special benefits on the battlefield. For example, the big guy was especially resistant to being beaten up.

Normal bullets would definitely not be able to do anything to him. There might still be a chance to get rid of him with a heavy machine gun, but it also depended on the shooting distance and other specific circumstances.

There was another type of genetic warrior, and that was the two bodyguards beside Cui Zhengzhi.

Those two bodyguards had already been killed by Yu Tian, but their physiological characteristics were indeed ridiculous.

They basically had no vital organs, and would not lose blood due to injuries, resulting in death.

Yu Tian did not know where their limits were. In short, according to his personal experience, some small wounds could not do anything to those genetic warriors.

However, using internal energy to destroy the organs in their bodies was still considered a more effective method.

The reason why the Clone Society developed genetic warriors was definitely due to their practical use on the battlefield.

This proved that the scheme of the clone society was definitely not small.

The underground organizations usually did some illegal business and earned some money. Who would think about matters on the battlefield?

These were not things that Yu Tian needed to think about right now. Right now, he only needed to think about fighting a good war and consolidating the influence of the Abu Group.

Bringing along the large genetic warrior, Yu Tian set off together with the death god mercenary group.

The Death God mercenary group had over 100 people. They pulled over 20 military transport vehicles and quickly arrived at a small village in the south.

This place was still dozens of kilometers away from Faraday's original pirate village. For the scientific research teams in the cave, it was an absolutely safe distance.

The Death God mercenary group's mission was to block the enemy's advance route, block the enemy outside the pirate village, and even beat the enemy back.

When they arrived at this nameless village, it was probably lunchtime.

The village was empty, leaving behind only a few dilapidated wooden houses.

In fact, it was basically the same situation in the villages around Kannima. In recent times, almost all the pirates and fishermen had gone to Kannima's mine to become miners.

Miners were not a particularly high-income group, but the income standard of the Dongfang mining company was among the best in the world. Their salary was definitely higher than that of a fisherman.

With a stable income, these fishermen no longer had any interest in being pirates, so they all left their original villages and moved to live near Kannima and the mine.

The Death God mercenary group brought enough dry food, but not much water.

According to normal living conditions, people would die if they didn't eat for seven days, and people would die if they didn't drink water for three days.

Therefore, water was more urgent and important than food.

The benefits of a village were that even if there was a water source nearby, this place wouldn't be able to become a settlement.

The first mission of the death God mercenary group was to bury the pot to make rice and look for a water source.

After a long time, they finally found a source of water in the crevices of the nearby rocks.

However, this ridiculous amount of water was a little anxious to supply more than 100 people with water.

One could imagine how troublesome it was for the enemy to march along the coastline.

The mercenary group needed to inspect the surrounding terrain and set up sniper positions and strategies, but this was all after lunch.

This pace was a bit slow, but Yu Tian wasn't in a hurry.

War was in the story, and perhaps it was just a passing thing. But after personally participating in it, they realized that it was a trivial and trivial process.

Take the death god mercenary group for example. Although they were already a mature mid-sized mercenary group, there were still many problems in the group.

The biggest problem was their cooks.

Their diet was basically the same as pig food. There was no problem with their cooking skills.

In comparison, looking up at the stars was considered a skill. It was just that the taste was worse.

The Death God mercenary group's members were all black. The other two mercenary groups were the same. This was to make it easier for them to move around in this F * cking country.

The variety of food for black people might be relatively rich, but it could also be extremely simple.

For their lunch, they would use a few bags of unknown flour and rice flour, or something like corn flour, and put it in a pot with water. Then, they would boil it and boil it into a pot of paste.

This thing was not like steamed bread or steamed buns, nor was it like porridge or rice soup. It felt like a chopped dough.

Yu Tian took the spoon and forcefully dried half of the bowl. He felt that it was bland and tasteless.

This kind of food could only be used to satisfy hunger. It did not taste good, nor was it nutritious.

It could not be said that it was completely tasteless. This thing still had a little sweetness. Just like white rice being chewed in the mouth, it could more or less produce a little maltose to convert into ordinary sugar.

This could also be considered as having sugar, which could provide energy for human activities, but other nutrients didn't need to be considered.

As for short-term military rations, this kind of food was still barely passable, but long-term consumption was definitely not enough.

However, the people of the death god mercenary group were already used to it..

After eating their lunch slowly, the death god mercenary group finally got back to work.

They grumbled about the bad traditional food while looking for a suitable position for sniping.

Yu Tian wasn't able to get involved in such matters and wasn't too familiar with it.

Based on the information from the satellite, the enemy troops had just started their journey and would take some time to arrive.

The Death God mercenary group still had plenty of time to set up their defenses.

Every mercenary group had their own specialties, such as the hyena mercenary group's mortar attack.

The reason why the death God mercenary group was chosen as the first sniper team was because they were good at sniping, especially laying landmines.

Laying landmines was not a complicated job. The main thing was the speed of laying landmines and understanding the enemy's mentality.

The Death God mercenary group was already on the battlefield, so they naturally had their own experience in laying landmines.

They burped while digging up the entire village and the nearby roads.

Although they brought a lot of landmines and Yu Tian could let them squander freely, they still had to make the most of every single one of them.

They used real and fake mines to create a lot of booby traps and fake mines to confuse the enemy's judgment.

The entire village, as well as the passageways around the village, had been mined, and the range had reached a few kilometers.

The truck full of mines that they had dragged over was not enough to control such a large area.

But with all kinds of booby traps, fake mines, and some firepower, it was difficult to move within a few kilometers.

The leader of the death God mercenary group, codenamed Death God.

He found a spot on a nearby hill to observe and command, then invited Yu Tian to wait for good news.

The Death God mercenary group finished setting up their defenses and waited for the enemy to come.

They waited until evening, when the enemy's convoy slowly appeared.

The convoy was not huge, only a few military vehicles and a few transport vehicles.

This was probably the enemy's vanguard, with a total of only a hundred people.

With such a force scale, even if the death god mercenary group forcefully attacked, they still had the strength to wipe them out completely.

However, that wasn't necessary, because it would cause some unnecessary losses.

Using the current conditions and arrangements to cause the greatest blow and losses to the enemy was the wisest action.

The Death God mercenary group didn't move, waiting for the enemy to come and step on the mines.

Unfortunately, the enemy didn't obediently come to their door. They stopped several miles away from the village.

Then, the enemy began to slowly form a team, turning the army into a few small teams. Then, they spread out in all directions and sneakily approached the village.

Yu Tian was on the high ground holding a telescope when he saw this situation. He immediately understood.

The enemy probably had some perfect investigative methods. Perhaps it was a satellite or something else.

In short, the enemy had already discovered the whereabouts of their small unit and knew that they had already arrived at the village. They had set up a defensive position here.

There was no hope of an ambush. This was a serious attack.

The forces of both sides were about the same, but the equipment of the death god Army was naturally better.

In addition, the death god Army waited for the enemy to be exhausted. They hid in the positions and traps that they had already set up. Facing such a simple attack, there was no pressure at all.

The first shot was fired by the sniper of the death god mercenary group. His target was the enemy's commander.

A creature like the commander would naturally not charge too far forward on the battlefield. However, the sniper of the death god mercenary group was eager to make a contribution. He took the sniper rifle and circled to the side of the enemy. In the gaps of the enemy's defense.., he fired forcefully.

Yu Tian saw through the binoculars that the enemy commander's head had been shattered by this shot. He was definitely dead.

Professional snipers were not to be underestimated on the battlefield.

Therefore, the mercenaries of the death god mercenary group were all hiding like rats.

As professional mercenaries, they naturally knew how terrifying snipers were. They also knew that the enemy's army definitely did not lack snipers.

Before this battle was fully launched, everyone was sneaking around. On the quiet battlefield, no one wanted to provoke the snipers.

The enemy's army fell into a short period of chaos, and all the pushing operations were temporarily halted.

Losing their commander was a huge problem.

The organization of the pirate army wasn't that strict. They didn't have such a detailed military rank, nor did they have a hierarchy of command systems.

Once the leader was killed, their command system was immediately paralyzed.

Right now, the most important thing for them was to choose a leader.

Although this situation was a little absurd, in the eyes of the pirates, it was a crucial matter.

A snake without a leader couldn't do it. They had to confirm a leader and who would be in charge of the next operation.

Most importantly, they also had to identify the purpose of the battle and their own benefits.

The Pirate Army was different from the official army. They did not have their own beliefs. The purpose of the battle was to obtain benefits.

These benefits were summed up in the word "Money. "Whether it was to plunder resources or occupy cities, the ultimate purpose of the pirate army was to make money.

The reason why they participated in this large-scale event of the bloody civil war was because their boss had negotiated with the oasis government. After the war, they would all get benefits.

But now that their boss was dead, did the terms they had previously negotiated still count?

The one who had negotiated with the oasis government was their boss. The rest of them did not know the details of these terms.

Now that their boss was dead, the rest of them had to contact the oasis government to understand the benefits of their group going into battle.

The enemy pirate corps retreated anxiously and began to discuss who should contact the oasis government and how to understand the conditions that they had previously negotiated with the oasis government.

This ridiculous matter delayed them for more than an hour, and they finally confirmed their new boss.

During the process of confirming the new boss, they heard a few gunshots from the convoy.

Yu Tian couldn't see what was happening behind the convoy, but he could guess that a pirate who wanted to fight for the boss position had been killed.

After confirming the new boss, the pirates began to contact oasis officials.

First, they contacted the Combat Command Center to report what had happened on their side the boss had been killed.

Then, they make their offer.

This war is too dangerous. We want more..

Translator: 549690339

In fact, the pirates weren't too sure what the benefits were. They weren't even sure what the benefits were before.

But no matter what, they had a new boss. The conditions they had previously agreed upon were none of their business. The new boss could revoke all the agreements without any scruples.

The new boss proposed new conditions.

First of all, the military expenditure for this expedition was still one million.

This condition was what their boss had told them before. As long as they sent troops to participate in the war, they would have a basic guarantee of one million.

The oasis officials could guarantee this money.

Secondly, the casualties in the battle and various losses and losses had to be counted separately.

The pension for a person's life could not be less than ten thousand international coins. The ammunition and weapons that were lost had to be replenished at a level not lower than the original standard.

If the items could not be replenished, the compensation must be more than twice the current price.

Wait.

The new boss had many conditions, and the oasis negotiators readily agreed.

These conditions were fine as long as they could fight well.

The new boss was satisfied and secretly delighted.

Little did he know that the oasis negotiators were even more surprised than him.

This was because the new conditions proposed by the pirates were much lower than the conditions proposed by their previous boss.

The previous boss had asked for three million in military expenses, which was just the normal income of being a pirate.

If they kidnapped a cargo ship or a group of hostages at sea, their income would be around several million.

Participating in a war was even more dangerous, and the probability of death was much higher than being a pirate, so three million in basic military expenses was not excessive at all.

However, no one had expected that the new boss would actually take the initiative to lower the price for himself.

Including the compensation for post-war pensions and various supplies, the requirements of the new boss were a level lower than before.

This could only be said that the new boss had no experience, nor did he have the broad vision of being a boss.

In short, after this negotiation, both sides felt very happy and satisfied.

But at this time, the sky had already darkened.

The new boss looked at the village and the battlefield in front of him. He was confused and didn't know what to do.

The scenery in his field of vision was blurry, and he couldn't make an attack strategy suitable for the night.

The attack plan that the old boss made was suitable for the day, so he couldn't use it at night.

Therefore, the new boss could only decide to retreat and find a safe place to sleep.

After the Sun Rose Tomorrow, they would attack according to the original plan.

This was a wise decision, and Yu Tian and the others were dumbfounded.

Yu Tian originally thought that this group of pirate vanguards should be the Kings of the Pirate Corps, but he did not expect it to be just a bronze.

After the snipers killed their boss, these people actually retreated without a single shot.

What kind of operation was this? Playing hard to get? Delaying tactics? Luring the enemy deep? Luring the snake out of its hole?

Death God mercenary group's leader, Death God, also didn't know what to say.

Death God scratched his bald head and muttered, "Looks like we'll have to temporarily call a truce today. The enemy has no intention of attacking for the time being.

"Hehe..."

Yu Tian laughed helplessly, then, he said, "In the eyes of US Easterners, there is no such thing as a truce on the battlefield. Fighting is not going to work, and soldiers are not workers either. "From the moment the war started, we would not have time to rest. It would be a luxury to close our eyes for a while.

"Then what you mean is..."

"It seems that the other party isn't good at night battles, and they won't even be on guard at night. We must seize this opportunity to counterattack. Grim Reaper, bring your teammates and we'll follow!

Yu Tian made a decisive decision.

He didn't know where the enemy would retreat to rest. However, night raids had always been the eastern country's classic way of fighting, so he decided to catch up with the enemy and let the enemy taste the power of an eastern military commander like him.

The most important test of night raids was the quality of the soldiers. Without strong faith and the will to win, the army could only lose a complete mess in the night raids.

This had little to do with the soldiers' combat ability on the battlefield.

Because the biggest problem of night raids was that the soldiers could not understand the situation on the battlefield. After being suddenly attacked and falling into a chaotic battle, they could only fight in small groups.

In such a situation, one could not count on the command of a high-ranking officer. Once the attack started, it meant that the communication was basically cut off, and even the high-ranking officers had been wiped out.

The organization and structure of the army could not be counted on. The soldiers that could be gathered together were a unit, and the highest-ranking officer was the commander.

At this time, the soldiers mostly thought about escaping, and they basically did not have any thoughts of resisting.

Unless they knew that they really couldn't escape.

What they were most afraid of was that after resisting for a period of time, they would realize that their army's momentum was gone. They might even be wiped out completely.

No army could maintain their fighting strength under such chaos and panic, except for the Eastern countries and a few other countries.

The eastern countries' army was certainly extraordinary. They were the most powerful light infantry on Earth.

With their faith and strong fighting will, they could easily carry out night raids and all kinds of roundabout ways of fighting.

Under the situation where both sides were intertwined and chaotic, only the eastern countries 'army continued to carry out the previous battle plan. Even if only a few of them gathered together, they could still form an effective battle team.

Of course, Yu Tian did not expect the death god mercenary group to display the combat strength of the Eastern Army. However, as long as the method of launching a sneak attack was suitable, the small teams on their side would have a clear battle goal, and the overall chance of winning was still very high.

Most importantly, the combat strength of the enemy pirate army was too terrible.

Yu Tian believed that as soon as the night raid started, the enemy would immediately fall into complete chaos and flee. “Death, bring your soldiers. Let’s Go!

Yu Tian was full of confidence.

[illegible]

If Yu Tian died on the battlefield, it would be more troublesome for the death god mercenary group to get the war reward. They would also have to go to the East Dragon Company to explain that this ridiculous situation was not their responsibility.

In addition, the death god mercenary group leader felt that Yu Tian's participation in the operation would ruin their night attack plan.

Mercenaries could accept difficult and dangerous missions, but they could not accept employers interfering with their mission. That would easily lead to their mission failure.

However, after Yu Tian and the big guy showed their strength, the death god mercenary group leader had nothing to say.

If he didn't consider Yu Tian's identity as the employer, he would definitely be more suitable to be a scout.

However, for safety reasons, the death god leader still gave two heavy bulletproof vests to Yu Tian and the big guy.

The bulletproof vests were very strong, the only drawback was that they were too bulky.

However, this bulkiness did not affect Yu Tian and the big guy at all. Their performance was even more relaxed than an ordinary person wearing a cotton-padded jacket.

The two reconnaissance vehicles set off first, and the death god mercenary group's main force fell a few kilometers behind them.

This kind of tracking had to be careful, because they could not be sure if the enemy would suddenly ambush them on the road.

Even if there was no ambush, it was possible to leave some guards on the road.

Especially when they were close to the enemy's base, there would definitely be some sentries nearby.

Fortunately, the death god mercenary group had night vision goggles. This kind of equipment was definitely not something that the pirate army could have.

With the advantage of high-tech equipment, the probability of being ambushed and discovered by the enemy was much lower.

The reconnaissance team followed very carefully. Not only did they fall behind, but they also carefully observed their surroundings along the way.

However, this situation did not last long. They soon entered the very empty Gobi Desert.

The enemy chose a retreat route that was far from the coastline. It was equivalent to taking an arc inland.

Because the terrain near the coastline was more complicated, and there were many mountain forests around it, it was not suitable for vehicles to move quickly.

The areas further away from the coastline were mainly the Gobi desert terrain, so the vehicles were much faster.

After entering the Open Gobi Desert, the reconnaissance team did not have to worry about the possibility of an ambush from the enemy.

It was impossible for an ambush in this terrain to surround them, which was a very meaningless thing.

Of course, it was also easier to expose the reconnaissance team on the Open Gobi Desert, so they could only fall further away.

The enemy couldn't see them from their field of vision, because they still hadn't turned on their headlights. At most, the enemy could only detect the abnormality from the sound of the moving vehicles.

If they were far enough away, the enemy couldn't hear any sound at all, so there was no chance for them to find them.

From the way the enemy chose to retreat, they actually didn't need to stay at their current position. Instead, they could directly head towards Khanima from the Gobi Desert.

The reason why they came to the village where the death God mercenary group was stationed was naturally because they had discovered the death god mercenary group's movements and location. That was why they deliberately came around to take the fight.

This also proved that the enemy did have some kind of reconnaissance method, and they were very clear about the movements of the troops in Khanima.

Yu Tian felt that this was a very troublesome matter. He did not know what kind of investigative method the enemy used, and whether it would pose a threat to the armored forces that he had hidden.

If the armored forces were discovered by the enemy, perhaps a dozen armed helicopters could launch a sneak attack and cripple them.

Yu Tian couldn't worry about it now. He could only trust in Snoopy's ability.

What he needed to do now was to fight the battle in front of him well.

The enemy had deliberately circled around to challenge the death god mercenary group. Perhaps they wanted to make a good start.

Of course, it was also possible that they felt that it was easy to deal with a small unit and that they could make a fortune.

After all, they were a pirate army. Such a small-scale conflict was more suitable for them than a big battlefield.

Unfortunately, their boss was killed before the battle had even begun.

The Pirates felt that this was just an accident. Their boss was just unlucky.

The sniper who killed their boss was indeed good at shooting, but who didn't have a few snipers?

This was just a reconnaissance operation before the war. The death of their boss was just a small mistake. It wasn't a big deal, and it didn't affect their overall strength too much. All they needed was a new boss.

The Pirates didn't realize that they had encountered a mercenary army, and their strength was much stronger than theirs.

Therefore, they did not show any dejection. On the way back, they were jubilant. Some people even opened the bottle of wine in the car, and the people in the car happily drank the wine.

There was no alcohol detection here.

After circling around the Gobi Desert, the small group of pirates finally went back to the village near the sea.

The reconnaissance team stopped far away.

Because they had already seen the enemy's sentry, they set up a bonfire on the hillside by the road and happily drank and chatted with each other.

They probably didn't think that the army of Kannima would take the initiative to attack them, so they were unscrupulous and didn't have the slightest vigilance. Even standing guard was like a joke.

However, it was also possible that this was just their sentry, and there should be other hidden sentry nearby..

Translator: 549690339

It was a very common operation to add sentries in the open and in the dark.

If they wanted to launch a sneak attack, they first had to ensure that they could quietly kill the sentries so that they could not give any warning.

Secondly, they also had to find the hidden sentries and secretly kill them.

If they did not get rid of the hidden sentries, there was no point in killing the sentries in the open. The enemy could still receive the warning.

That was why these sentries were so unscrupulous, drinking and having fun without worry.

They only needed to contact the hidden sentries from time to time to confirm the safety of the hidden sentries.

As long as the hidden sentries were not killed, they were safe. The enemy would not be interested in them.

The reconnaissance team stopped the car. Yu Tian and the big guy also rushed to their side and stopped the car.

"Next, we have to walk.

The one who spoke was chief sniper. He was the sniper who had killed the enemy commander.

According to the death God mercenary group's leader, he was the number one sniper in the death god mercenary group.

At the same time, chief sniper was also the commander of this scout team.

This was a little strange. An ace sniper was put into the scout team and even became the commander.

It must be known that snipers generally would not take up the position of Commander, unless the death God mercenary group was jealous of their lack of talent.

However, it was impossible for a medium-sized mercenary group with more than a hundred people not to be able to find a few professional scouts.

Regarding this matter, chief sniper's explanation was that he wanted to earn more money.

The Death God mercenary group leader actually tacitly agreed to this matter. He often assigned some dangerous and important tasks to chief sniper, which would allow chief sniper to receive more bonuses.

It was said that chief sniper had a wife with cancer at home and was receiving long-term treatment in a developed country.

After understanding this situation, Yu Tian also felt that there was nothing wrong with chief sniper working so hard.

Letting a sniper act as a scout was a little strange, but in fact, chief sniper's military qualities were still very good.

Yu Tian had noticed the chief sniper just now. At that time, the sky had not completely darkened, and the enemy was still preparing to retreat. He saw the hero who had killed the enemy commander.

The chief sniper was a little older, already in his forties.

However, because he was too dark and belonged to the fighter plane among the black people, there was no way to tell his age from the degree of aging of his skin.

Yu Tian noticed that the reason why he was older was that he had a large beard.

Did Old Black have a beard?

Of course, he had to grow a beard. After all, Old Black was also a type of human, although the degree of evolution was somewhat different.

However, in Yu Tian's impression, black people basically did not have a beard.

The large beard of chief sniper was really a little unusual. It gave him a more discerning and more experienced feeling.

Chief Sniper, who was in his forties, was still agile and had a lot of battlefield experience.

He immediately explained his actions to Yu Tian.

“We have to go there on foot. The noise of the vehicles is too loud, and it’s easy for the enemy to find us... If you don’t want to walk, Boss, you can wait for us here. ”

Chief sniper was very respectful and polite to Yu Tian. He was much more polite than the other members of the death god mercenary group.

This was because the status of rich people in his heart was not ordinary. A few expenses from a rich person would be enough to pay for his wife’s treatment for a very long time.

This made Yu Tian very emotional.

It was not uncommon for couples to have such a deep relationship. It was even very common in eastern countries.

However, this kind of situation was rarely seen among the old black men.

According to the tradition of the old black men, after having sex with a wife and giving birth to a few children, the men should have disappeared. If they could leave their blood relatives behind, then wives were even less valuable.

Chief sniper was able to desperately earn money to treat his wife’s cancer. This was something worthy of praise in the eastern countries.

Yu Tian felt that he had met a lover.

If it was possible, after this war, Yu Tian would find a time to personally deal with chief sniper’s wife’s cancer problem.

Now was not the time to talk about these things.

Yu Tian patted chief sniper’s shoulder. “Don’t mind me. Follow your plan. My bodyguards and I will definitely not drag you down. ”

Yu Tian was not familiar with these battlefield operations, so he would not raise any objections to chief sniper’s operational arrangements.

He would basically follow chief sniper’s command unless he encountered some special circumstances.

The other members of the reconnaissance team nodded repeatedly. They had already seen Yu Tian’s strength just now, so they did not have the slightest doubt about Yu Tian’s mobility.

As long as Yu Tian was willing to work hard, these tasks of the reconnaissance soldiers would not be difficult for him.

Chief sniper smiled at Yu Tian in an ingratiating manner. "Then boss, we need to walk close to the forest in front of us, and then quietly look for the hidden sentries that the enemy has set up over there..."

"No problem, I'll go with you.

"We have to keep quiet throughout the entire journey, and we can only communicate through hand gestures... are you familiar with military hand gestures?"

"Yes, no problem, I've specialized in catching up."

"That's great, boss, we're going to start the March... have you brought any equipment? Do you want me to carry your gun for you? Oh, do you want to drink some water first, or go to the toilet..."

Yu Tian felt like his balls were aching. He suddenly felt like he had brought a nanny to the battlefield.

This was even more excessive than bringing a bodyguard to the battlefield.

Yu Tian could only remind him seriously, "Umm, ah Wei Wei... Comrade number one sniper, you just need to do your own thing well. I can follow your actions, you don't have to worry.

"Okay, then we'll lead the way in front."

After the chief sniper finished his formalities, he did not say any more nonsense and put his mind back to the battlefield.

He waved his hand, and the few teammates around him immediately scattered a little.

Under the night sky, everyone's figures were blurry.

The scout team's formation could not be too scattered, or they would not be able to see each other at all.

That way, forget about hand signals, even if the voice was a little low, they would not know what the other party was talking about.

The team began to move forward quietly. Their positions were always in each other's sight, ensuring that they could easily identify each other. The lead sniper actually became the vanguard himself, boldly walking at the front of the team.

However, because he had the advantage of night vision, he was not too worried about his own safety.

The road ahead was wide, but the ground was uneven.

The group did not dare to turn on the lights, so they walked with some difficulty.

Especially the team members who did not have night vision, their steps were even more sluggish.

The village where the enemy was stationed was a small village by the sea.

Translator: 549690339

The view on the hillside was even farther. For the reconnaissance team with night vision equipment, it was more suitable to observe the enemy's camp.

At the same time, the enemy's hidden sentries should also be hidden on these hillside.

Because there was no hiding place near the road at the bottom of the mountain, those hidden sentries could only be hidden in the reefs on the left or on the hillside on the right

The sniper had already observed the reefs near the sea, so the possibility of hiding people there was not high.

As long as they climbed up the hill, they could look down from above and see the situation of the reefs clearly.

These hills were not high, at most they could only be considered low hills.

There were not many trees on the hill. They could only be considered some plants.

After bypassing the bonfires of the sentries from afar, Yu Tian and his group finally climbed up a hill behind the enemy.

After climbing up the hill, everyone could not help but crouch down.

Then, the chief sniper began to use the night vision device to observe the surrounding movements.

The position of the hidden sentry had to be able to monitor the situation of the open sentry.

It was impossible for the enemy to secretly kill the open sentry. The hidden sentry still had no idea.

'I'nererore, cmer smper aetermmea tnat tne position or tne nidden sentry was not too far away. It should be on the nearby hills.

The night vision device also had the function of binoculars, but it was not very useful now.

"Two people.

The chief sniper reported to Yu Tian in a low voice and pointed to a direction for Yu Tian. "They are hiding under a tree on the opposite hill.

Yu Tian looked in this direction. Sure enough, it was very easy to find two enemy sentries under a tree.

These two sentries just swaggered under the tree to rest, as if they were not worried about being discovered.

However, the surrounding environment was a little dark at the moment. They could not see anyone from a few meters away. If they did not get closer, it would be very difficult to discover the existence of these two hidden sentries.

These two hidden sentries believed that as long as they kept quiet, there was no possibility of them being exposed.

Furthermore, they did not drink or smoke. This was already considered very dedicated to their work.

Yu Tian put down the night vision device and said to sniper, "Just continue to give the order. You Don't have to report everything to me. "

Sniper agreed and then said to Yu Tian, "Then... Let's go to the hill next to the beach and see if there are any enemies hiding there.

Although sniper thought that there could not be people hiding in the reefs on the beach, he still had to confirm it with his own eyes to be safe.

Therefore, everyone quietly began to climb down the slope and slowly climbed to the top of the mountain next to them.

The top of the mountain next to them was closer to the roadside, so it was much more convenient to observe the situation around the beach. After carefully observing for a while, the chief sniper was a little surprised.

There were actually people in the reefs on the beach.

There were also two sentries on the other side. They sat quietly in the reefs and occasionally poked their heads out to take a look at the hillside.

This job was relatively easy. They spent most of their time resting as long as they did not fall asleep.

From their position, they could see the bonfire lit by the naked sentries and the situation of the soldiers by the bonfire.

If the position of the naked sentries was taken down by the enemy, they would definitely be able to discover it and alert them in time.

The chief sniper sighed. "This time, we have another mission.

Yu Tian said, "Why, is it troublesome to have hidden sentries in both positions?"

Chief sniper said, "It is a little troublesome... to complete a perfect sneak attack, the best way is to attack these few sentries at the same time. After killing all of them, we will immediately launch a sneak attack. This way, the possibility of being discovered by the enemy will be smaller, leaving them less time to react.

Yu Tian said, "Two hidden sentries and one open sentry. It shouldn't be too troublesome to get rid of them at the same time, right?"

Chief sniper hesitated for a moment. "There's still not enough manpower... I have to get the people behind me to come up and support.

Yu Tian said, "How is there not enough manpower? "We have a total of seven people now. You guys go and get rid of the hidden sentries on both sides. Leave those open sentry posts to me... professional mercenaries like you should have no problem getting rid of the same number of pirates as you, right?"

“Uh, about that...”

Chief sniper didn't know what to say.

There were two hidden sentries in the reef and on the hillside. Chief sniper and his reconnaissance team had a total of five people.

One on one, the reconnaissance team had one more person.

If they couldn't take care of the two hidden sentries like this, chief sniper and his partners really didn't have the face to continue.

However, chief sniper was most worried about the open sentry.

Although the hidden sentry was well hidden, it wouldn't attract attention when it was killed.

The success rate of this kind of operation would be higher, and the pressure would be lower.

Although the open sentry was exposed to the enemy's eyes, it would be easier to be noticed by their own people if anything happened.

Especially when there was a bright bonfire there. It would be more troublesome to sneak up on them, and a fight near the bonfire would be even more eye-catching.

More importantly, there were a little more people there. There were a total of five enemy soldiers.

Yu Tian and the big guy only had two people. According to the sniper's own experience, it was impossible for two people to defeat five enemies in an instant.

It was not a question of whether two people could defeat five people. It was because the other party was a sentry. When they encountered a situation, they would immediately fire a warning shot.

Even if two people could kill all five people in the end, as long as the other party fired a shot, the operation would be considered a failure.

If they wanted to avoid failure, they had to have enough people to kill all five sentry in one go.

The sniper did not really believe in Yu Tian's ability, but it was not convenient for him to say it out loud.

He hesitated for a moment, then he said, "Actually, it's best to wait for the reinforcements to come. "After all, this is a war. There can't be any mistakes... even if we fight one-on-one, we can't guarantee the success of the operation. It's also possible for the enemy to find an opportunity to fire. "Therefore, it's best if we have sufficient manpower and even have an advantage in numbers..."

Yu Tianyi was amused. "There's no need to go through so much trouble. Since your team only has five people, let's use five people to complete the mission. There's no need to waste time... it's just a few sentry posts. I can help with them by myself.

Chief sniper smiled sheepishly. "There's no need to waste time... anyway, it's not the time to take action yet. We still have to scout the enemy's camp... That's our main task."

"That's right..."

Translator: 549690339

This was a small scout team. Their main mission was to scout the enemy camp.

For example, how many troops were there, how they were stationed, what defense measures they had, and if there were any dangerous weapons.

As for the job of searching, it did not have to be done by the small scout team. The reason why the leader was interested in searching was naturally to earn more money.

Within the death god mercenary group, there were still some bonus systems. The more dangerous the mission, the more important it was, and the more money they could get.

This was a very reasonable thing to do.

However, making money was something that should be done within one's capabilities. They could not risk their lives just to earn money and mess up the mission.

It was impossible for a five-man scouting team to take down three sentry posts. It was also impossible to deal with nine sentry posts.

In chief sniper's heart, he did not count Yu Tian and the big guy as part of their combat team.

He made up his mind to wait for the follow-up team to come up before he considered taking action to touch the sentry posts.

He would first complete the task of scouting and get the bounty first.

Thus, the Scouting team continued to scout ahead.

This was a very complicated process. They had to constantly search for the highlands, climb up, observe the possible hiding places, and try to find all the possible hidden sentries.

After searching for more than an hour, Yu Tian and the others finally reached the vicinity of the enemy's village.

They found two more enemy hidden sentries along the way, two people in each position.

The last hidden sentry post was less than a kilometer away from the village, so it had lost the value of early warning and the meaning of hidden sentry posts.

Such a hidden sentry post should be used to maintain contact with the hidden sentry in front of them.

This was probably because the quality of their communication equipment was not very good, and the signal could not be received from too far away, so they could only leave a few people in the middle responsible for relaying messages.

In short, no matter what they were used for, the chief sniper had given up on the idea of touching the sentry posts.

They definitely did not have enough people to attack five sentry posts at the same time.

It was impossible for such sentry posts to touch one by one, because they did not know the frequency of the enemy's contact.

If a certain amount of time passed and the enemies behind could not contact the sentry posts in front, it would definitely trigger a chain reaction and alarm the entire army.

Therefore, it was impossible for the chief sniper to take action to touch the Sentry. He could only go back and discuss it.

On a small hill nearby, the chief sniper finally began his final investigation, investigating the situation of the enemy's temporary base.

This was a small fishing village by the sea. There were probably less than twenty broken wooden huts.

These huts were not gathered together. Instead, they were far apart from each other, forming a long line along the beach.

The village was not suitable for the army, because the terrain was very narrow, like a long corridor.

One side of the village was a forest, and the other side was directly adjacent to the beach.

If they were ambushed in such a position and were blocked at both ends, the outcome would not be good.

They might even have to swim home from the sea.

It was relatively convenient to go into the sea here, and there was a beach not far away.

On the beach, there were some broken wooden racks for drying fishing nets, but there was not a single fishing net, and there were no small fishing boats on the beach.

This meant that the fishermen in the village had probably moved away long ago and went to the mine in Kannima to look for food, leaving only an empty village.

There was a relatively flat road in the village that connected the twenty or so small huts and the traffic in the north and south directions.

There were all kinds of vehicles parked on the side of the road. The soldiers also gathered in groups of two or three and lit dozens of large and small bonfires.

At this time, it had only been two or three hours since dark. It was not very late, so there were still many soldiers who had not fallen asleep.

The soldiers who were awake mostly gathered around the bonfire to chat, chat, and eat and drink.

It seemed that this pirate army didn't have any rules that forced the soldiers to sleep, nor did they have any other rules.

Of course, the bonfire wasn't for warmth, but for cooking and lighting.

If the camp was dark, anything could cause chaos, forming the legendary camp whistle.

Besides some soldiers who were chatting and farting around the bonfire, there were also some patrols on night duty, carrying Aya around.

This meant that although the pirate army wasn't very formal, they still arranged sentries and patrolling personnel at night. It was more or less like a formal army.

At the same time, there were sentries on the outskirts of the village, and they built simple machine gun positions and fortifications. This made it even more like a formal army.

What surprised Yu Tian was that there were hidden sentries on the hills near the camp of this army.

That was no longer considered a hidden sentry, nor was it an open sentry.

There were a few high points, and each high point was placed with a dozen soldiers, a heavy machine gun, and a large number of ammunition boxes.

These were all firing positions.

These firing positions were arranged along the roads of the village. There were one every one to two hundred meters, and the firepower could cover almost every corner of the village.

If the enemy launched a surprise attack on the camp, they would have to endure the heavy machine gun fire from the moment they entered the camp. The deeper they went into the camp, the more heavy machine gun fire they would face, and they would even be sandwiched between the front and the back.

This was a little F * * king fierce.

Yu Tian was a little doubtful if this was still the pirate army. They even had to arrange so many tricks for a temporary camp.

Shouldn't the pirate army just lie on the ground and wait for the enemy to ambush them and then be killed without leaving a single piece of armor behind?

Yu Tian sighed. It seemed that he had taken it for granted.

Although the pirate army was trash, they were still made up of humans.

As a human, they had some brains. How could they be so stupid as to expose their necks to be slaughtered by others.

It seemed that tonight's sneak attack was still a little troublesome.

The enemy soldiers numbered around a thousand, which was basically the same as the information obtained from the satellite.

There was nothing particularly threatening in terms of weapons. There were only two old-fashioned armored personnel carriers mixed together with the ordinary military vehicles.

This was a typical F * cking pirate army. The most powerful weapon was the Akagar RPG.

Normally, they wouldn't be willing to use these things, but when the time came, they still had to use them.

Normally, it wasn't too difficult for the death god mercenary group to fight against this pirate army of around a thousand people.

However, if they forcefully launched an attack from the enemy's prepared position, they would definitely suffer a small loss. That wouldn't be worth it..

While Yu Tian was deep in thought, the investigation officially ended.

Chief sniper left two of his teammates behind and had them continue to monitor the movements of the village while he returned with Yu Tian and the others, preparing to send the information back to the death god regiment commander.

Actually, there was a more convenient way to transmit the information. After all, this wasn't ancient times. They could completely send the information back through satellite phones or other network communication tools.

That was the most efficient way, but it was slightly less safe.

Because they did not know if the enemy was monitoring the nearby wireless communication signals, the most appropriate way was for the scouts to go back.

In addition, it was still early, so they had the time to go back and have a meeting with the commander of the Grim Reaper Regiment.

Because the night raid would definitely be carried out in the dead of night, when the enemy was trapped like a ghost. There were at least three to four hours before this time.

The speed of their return was much faster than when they came.

When they came, they took the mountain road. When they came back, they basically walked along the wide road.

When they approached the first sentry post of the enemy, they took a detour from the nearby mountain.

Soon, they returned to the side of their military vehicle.

There were already a few other mercenaries waiting for them by the military vehicle. It was also a military vehicle, a small team of five people.

Yu Tian felt that it was a little strange. Normally, it was more comfortable to sit three people in a military vehicle.

It was a little difficult to sit four people, but it was very crowded to sit five people.

Why did the death God mercenary group always have a vehicle with five people?

“Because five people is a complete team,” chief sniper explained, “We usually have five people driving black together, commonly known as five black.”

“UH... it’s indeed five black.” Yu Tian could only express his admiration for this explanation. “If I’m not wrong, your position in the five-person team should be ADC?”

“No, no, no...” chief sniper said, “Although I look more like an ADC, my position is actually in the wilderness. Some adcs are actually very suitable for the wilderness.”

Yu Tian could only continue to admire him.

Next, they had to continue to return. The Death God mercenary group’s main convoy was still two kilometers away from them.

This position was already very far away from the enemy, so it didn’t matter if the convoy turned on a little light.

“This location isn’t easy to find...”

Yu Tian also stretched out his hand and tapped on the electronic map. "I think their terrain is very suitable for catching a turtle in a jar. "If we control the high-point firepower position, it will be a massacre to the enemy's camp. "If we block the two ends of this road, they won't even be able to escape."

The Grim Reaper commander shook his head. "This terrain seems to be very disadvantageous to them, but in fact, it's also very disadvantageous to our sneak attack."

"What do you mean? Is it because of the sentry post they placed in front?" ("This is also one of the reasons. Their sentry post is too far away..." The commander of the death God squad began to explain.

It was not a difficult thing to touch the enemy's sentry post.

From ancient times until now in the history of war, touching the sentry post was a very common operation.

However, after touching the sentry post, it was impossible for the enemy not to notice it. It just depended on how long it took them to react.

The enemy's sentry post was still a few kilometers away from the camp. After the enemy's sentry post was gone, they needed to spend about half an hour to slowly approach the enemy's camp.

After reaching the vicinity of the camp, they had to start setting up their formation, including surrounding the enemy, setting up a defensive position, allocating firepower... and so on.

This usually took less than half an hour to complete.

Even if the death god mercenary group didn't have many people and had already decided on a plan of attack, it would still take at least ten minutes for the mercenaries to enter their respective positions and prepare for an attack.

The time added up to almost an hour.

Within this hour, the enemy wouldn't be able to communicate with the sentry in front of them?

According to the habits of the death god mercenary group leader, they had to communicate with each other once every ten minutes at most. For example, they had to type a secret signal on their headset or walkie-talkie to prove that their sentry had not been touched by the enemy.

Even if the enemy did not communicate with them every ten minutes, it could not be more than half an hour.

There were too many things that could happen in half an hour. The enemy could even touch them right under their noses.

Therefore, the time left for the death god mercenary group to set up an attack formation was definitely not enough.

According to their previous plan, they should have immediately rushed over with their military vehicles after they had gotten rid of the enemy's sentry post and launched an attack on the enemy within a few minutes.

To be more precise, this method should be called a surprise attack.

The previous sneaky method should be called a surprise attack.

A sneak attack could not hide from the enemy because the convoy would make a lot of noise when it was approaching the enemy camp. Even a bunch of pigs would be alarmed.

Therefore, the sneak attack did not have the intention of hiding from the enemy. Instead, it was to catch the enemy off guard and prevent the enemy from making timely responses and arrangements.

It was just like how General Caro used his armored troops to attack the Big Hippo.

However, the worst thing was that the enemy's unlucky terrain not only restricted them, but also caused the death god mercenary group to encounter obstacles in their surprise attack.

The Death God mercenary group only had a dozen or so fast assault vehicles. The rest were transport vehicles.

Although everyone could fire collectively on the vehicles, they were not armored troops after all, so their assault ability was not that strong.

It was very likely that they would be intercepted by a heavy machine gun.

If it was an open and very empty terrain, their convoy could still circle around the enemy's camp and fire.

While maneuvering, they would tilt their ammunition to the side.

This would definitely cause huge casualties to the enemy.

However, the enemy's camp was indeed a place where no one could move, so this kind of assault method would not work at all.

In the absence of armored troops, if they wanted to launch an ambush on this kind of terrain, they would need a considerable number of troops.

The first wave of attacks needed to gather enough strength and then inexorably charge into the enemy's camp, quickly disrupting the enemy's command and organization.

The Death God mercenary group of about a hundred people was too little.

The enemy seemed to have taken advantage of their lack of manpower to boldly build their camp in such a dead end.

They were not even worried that they would be surrounded by the death god mercenaries. If they did not have enough troops, the encirclement would not last long.

It was a joke to surround all of you by yourself. It would not work here..

Translator: 549690339

Under the current circumstances, the death god mercenary group was not suitable for a sudden attack. That would only sink them into a deep swamp.

They could only launch a sneak attack with more than 100 people. They could only launch an attack after they had obtained a favorable terrain.

Only then would they be able to cause the greatest casualties to the enemy in the first place.

If they achieved a great result in the first step, causing enough casualties to the enemy, or destroying the enemy's command system, then the following battle would be much easier.

They might be able to strangle the enemy to death in this alley with just these 100-odd men, and they might even have the chance to annihilate the enemy.

If the first wave of attacks were not ruthless enough, and the enemy quickly counterattacked after regaining their senses, these 100-odd men would not be able to withstand it.

Not to mention blocking the enemy in this village, even their own firepower would not be able to withstand it. They could only think of a way to retreat.

Therefore, it was very important to have sufficient time to set up.

Yu Tian pondered for a moment and said, "Actually, the enemy's sentry posts are not many, and they are not densely distributed. We can completely go around to the enemy's camp without the sentry posts knowing. "

"Hide from those sentry posts? How can we hide from them?"

"Just like a reconnaissance team, we will walk through those mountainous areas and reach the vicinity of the village where they are stationed.

Death God's regiment commander said with a wry smile, "This is not realistic... We have more than a hundred people, and not all of us have night vision goggles. Marching in the dark like this will easily cause chaos. Moreover, with so many people marching together, the commotion will be very big. Just the sound of so many footsteps together will be enough to attract the attention of those sentries."

Yu Tian frowned, "Then... Let's go a little further. The enemy is in our direction, and there are only five sentries in total, and they are all arranged on the side of the road. We can completely go around to... here, and then walk through the mountains, directly arriving at their camp. "

Yu Tian drew a line on the map.

This was a right-angle line. The Death God mercenary group didn't go to the beach, but continued to advance on the Gobi Desert.

Then, they reached the horizon of the small seaside village and made a 90-degree turn, passing through the mountains and arriving at the enemy's camp.

The Death God mercenary group leader sighed, "This route of yours isn't impossible, but... if we walk into the mountains, we definitely won't be able to carry heavy weapons, and we won't be able to carry too much ammunition."

Without heavy weapons and sufficient ammunition, they definitely wouldn't be able to cause a large amount of damage to the enemy, let alone resist the enemy's counterattack.

A hundred people fighting a thousand people definitely wouldn't be able to be done in a few minutes.

This time, the problem came back.

If they drove, they would definitely be discovered by the sentry posts, so they could only kill the sentry posts first.

However, after killing the sentry posts, they could not race because the noise of the race was too loud.

They could only slow down and slowly drive the motorcade over.

It was best not to have any violent bumps during this process, lest this ragged motorcade let out a clattering sound of metal colliding at the same time and directly scare the enemy awake.

However, once the speed slowed down, the enemy would realize that the sentry post had lost contact, and then quickly get up, enter the position, and enter the defensive state.

It wasn't good to drive fast, but it wasn't good to drive slow.

All of this was because the enemy had chosen such an unlucky campsite.

Just like Ma Su guarding the street pavilion back then, there were both advantages and disadvantages to guarding it, mainly depending on the conditions of both sides.

The current conditions of the death god mercenary group were too poor, and they didn't have any battle methods to choose from.

Yu Tian frowned again and thought for a while.

"Actually... It's not that the matter of heavy weapons and ammunition can't be solved... have you heard of... no guns, no cannons, the enemy is building for us..."

"Stop singing, I know what you mean. I've read the Great War theory of the Eastern kingdom... but what does this have to do with our current situation?"

"Of course it has to do with it!"

Yu Tian enlarged the electronic map a little and then pointed at the points marked by the sniper, "There are several enemy firing positions here. There are heavy machine guns, RPGs, and sufficient ammunition..."

"You want to steal their firing points? Is... is that possible?"

The Death God captain had a headache. He stared at the map for a while, then he said, "Let's not talk about how difficult it is to take down a single firepower point. Even if you can successfully sneak attack a single firepower point and control it... but there are five such firepower points. Can you take down all five of them intact?"

Yu Tian said, "Just tell me, if we take down these five firepower points, will the weapons and ammunition on them be enough?"

Chief sniper interrupted at this time, "That's definitely enough. With these five fire points, we basically don't need to bring any heavy weapons, including the massive amount of ammunition consumed by the heavy machine guns. We don't need to bring any."

Death God's regiment commander sighed, "These five fire points... there should be more than ten people in each fire point, right? This is a fire position. It's much more difficult than taking down a sentry post."

"It's just that there are a little more people, and the area is a little larger. "

"That's already very difficult, such a position is not something that two people can touch with a dagger..."

Of course, ambushing a position was much more difficult than taking down a sentry post, at least he would have to deal with a lot more enemies.

Basically, there was no possibility of quietly taking down an entire position on the battlefield, unless the enemy was asleep.

To take down an entire position, there would definitely be an exchange of fire, and it would take some time.

The larger the position, the more enemies there would be, and the longer it would take.

Even if it was a sneak attack, there would eventually be enemies who would seize the opportunity to shoot, especially if the enemy had a reason to shoot to warn.

Once a position fired, all the enemies would be alarmed.

Then, it would be an all-out battle. The enemy soldiers would surround and attack from all directions.

At this time, the position had not been taken down, so they would not be able to fully stop the surrounding enemies who were swarming over.

If the surrounding positions were not taken down, they would not be able to effectively support and cover each other with fire.

In short, this was a very bad situation.

Especially when the enemy and our forces were vastly different, this kind of chaotic situation was even more disadvantageous to the death god mercenary group..
