Chapter 11

Allison POV

I was flabbergasted when I heard Doctor Linus.
'What is he saying? A powerful high ranked wolf can only do that? If it's true then how did I survive? It is indeed questionable.' I thought.
Doctor Linus patted my head when he saw me lost in some thoughts.
"Don't think too much. We all are moon children. You may get some blessings. That's why you are totally fine. However, it could take your wolf's or your life too."
I smiled at him sadly. I wanted to laugh at myself.
How foolish I was!
Loving someone who did not love you back was undoubtedly a wrong decision.
I made the worst choice to break my heart.
If my mate was someone I did not know then I would think less, but it was the same man I loved.
"Who is he?"
I heard Doctor Linus. I looked at him with my glossy eyes.
"Who is he, Allison? I promise I won't tell anyone.
You can trust me."
I lowered my head. "It's your Alpha Ethan."

He gasped. He could not believe what I had just said to him.

Ethan was the soon to be head Alpha. He was a good friend of Doctor Linus too. Because in any problem, Ethan called Linus to treat him.

A pack doctor's first priority was the head Alpha and the Luna. Since Ethan was the future Alpha, Linus was close to him.

"Are you serious?"

"Y-Yeah." I replied in a lower tone. I knew Linus would not say anything to anyone. He would not let anything out about his future Alpha to others. So I did not need to worry.

I stood up and took the tonic from the table.

He hurriedly looked at me. "I am sorry for what happened to you."

"No need. Thank you. But don't tell anyone else about my wolf, especially your Alpha."

"Okay. But you have to drink the tonic daily after three meals. It's a powerful potion for omegas. You can't have healing power now since your wolf is not responding to you. You are weaker now without her. So this tonic would help you a little."

"Thanks again." I nodded and left the pack hospital.

I went back to my house and saw my parents had just woken up.

They asked me about where I was. I told them I went for a normal check up. They wished for my birthday again to make me feel special every moment. I could not destroy their happiness and did not tell them the truth. I would hide it, hide it forever.

A few days passed and I shut myself in my room.

I did not come out for a long time. My parents told me to go out or go to school but I refused. I wanted to stay alone for a few days.

It was Monday, I was sleeping in my room when I heard a loud ringtone.

I took out my right hand from the blanket and started to search for my phone in the bed.

I found it and grabbed it.

"This loud noise!" I mumbled.

It was Teresa who called me early in the morning to disturb my sleep.

"What? I am sleeping." I said with a sleepy voice. My eyes were closed, still yearning for sleep.

"You have ten minutes."

"For what?"

"To get ready and come downstairs."

I opened my eyes and sat up.

"What the hell!"

"Honey, our semester is coming. Our lovely professors don't know that you are their Beta's daughter. So they dared to warn me to take you back to the school. It's been a week and you have been absent without any application."

I rubbed my eyes. "No. I don't want to go." I muttered but again I had no reason to say them for my absence.

I went to the bathroom and did my morning routine. I wore a loose dress and did a low ponytail. I looked at myself in the mirror.

I wore show glasses to hide my dark circles then went downstairs. I saw my parents were talking to each other. Teresa did not come inside the house yet. She might be in her car outside.

"Mom, Dad."

They turned to me and smiled.

"Finally. You are now going to school." My mother said.

I nodded at them and smiled slightly. They always told me that I have become very quiet nowadays. They had been asking me why I was shutting myself at home. I told them I did not feel well.

I knew what they misunderstood about this. They thought I had a boyfriend and he might have broken up with me. So they started to tell me to move on in life. Though it was not true, their advice really worked well for me.

I went out of my house and saw Teresa waiting for me in her car. I got in the car. She hugged me.

"I missed you so much. How are you feeling now?"

"I am just good."

"Now you are back. We will punish that Ethan. I swear I will kill him."

"Just don't talk about him."

"Okay, I won't." She replied.

I nodded at her and she started her car.

Actually, I told my best friend everything when she came to meet me once at my house. That time she was furious at Ethan. But I took a promise from her that she would not tell anything to Ethan or anyone. I just wanted to forget everything.

We reached our school. I got down and felt somehow good since I came back after a long period.

We entered the hallway and started to go to the locker to take out our things.

However, a hand grabbed my hand and dragged me somewhere.

"Hey! Where are you taking her?" Teresa shouted.

I frowned when I saw who it was.

"What do you want?" I asked.

He stopped walking and turned his head to me. It was a corner where the common room was situated. The room was locked so at this early time no one had come here yet.

"What do you want now, Ryan?" I asked him again.

There was a smug look on his face. As if my question did not reach his ears, he spoke out, "Welcome back, Baby."