

Chapter 263 I Can Pursue You

Everyone was looking at the young handsome man.

Delta Henry and Gamma Jack went to receive the man and shook their hands with him and his men.

"Alpha Blaze, please come." Henry said and let them inside.

Lina was shocked to look at the man. She could not understand how she should react. She ignored him and looked away.

Arvan looked at Blaze. He was amazed that Lina rejected this man. She came to him and chose him. Not bad.

The young man was none other than Blaze Viotto. The head Alpha of the Blue Moon Pack. He was very handsome, not more handsome than Alpha Arvan. But he never tried to reject his mate. A few years ago, he was soon to be Alpha that time, he found his mate. His mate was beautiful, but when she realized he was her mate, she rejected him and told him that she had someone who was the most powerful Alpha than anyone else. She wanted to be that Alpha's Luna, not his.

Blaze was a very calm man but he could see through people. He was not a True blood Alpha but he was one of the strongest Alpha overall. It was not like everyone was True blood, but all the pack was ruled by Alphas. After that rejection, he became the head Alpha of the Blue Moon pack. Nobody had seen any woman with him after his rejection incident. But people said that he was searching for a chosen mate.

Blaze made his way to Arvan. They shook hands. "Welcome to my pack, Alpha Blaze." Arvan said.

"Nice pack, Alpha Arvan." Blaze said and his eyes fell on the woman beside Arvan.

Arvan saw that and grabbed Lina's waist and smirked.

"Hope you will enjoy the ball party." Arvan said and called Liam.

Liam came to them. "Alpha Blaze, how are you?" Liam shook hands with Blaze.

"Good. How are you?" He asked back.

"I am fine. We are glad that you have come here." Liam said.

Blaze nodded at him. He turned to his officials who were talking with Henry and Jack. Blaze was about to turn around when his eyes fell on a woman in a gorgeous black gown. His eyes frowned at her.

Rose was sitting on the bar side. She saw the man going to talk with Arvan. She saw how Arvan shook his hand with the man and then put his hand on Lina's waist. He pulled Lina by her waist and smirked as if he was proud of his girlfriend and his future Luna.

Rose sighed and shook her head. Then she looked away and continued to drink and pulled out her phone from her bag and watched the newsfeed on social media.

Meanwhile, Blaze excused Arvan and went to the bar side. He sat there and ordered a drink. He was an elegant man. Every woman was looking at two men at the ball party. If the first one was Arvan black, then the second one was him, Blaze Viotto.

"Sir, your drink." The waiter said while slightly pushing his glass toward him. Blaze nodded at him and took the glass.

He was drinking and looking around. The Crismon Red pack was his rival pack. He never came here before, but today he came because he thought rivalry was not good with Arvan Black.

Arvan took away his mate; he could take away something else from him. He was very smart when it came to the master plan. But when he got here he noticed that Arvan had come here with Lina. That meant he was really going to make that woman his Luna. The way he pulled Lina by her waist and showed his possessiveness towards her, it proved that he liked her a lot.

Blaze shook his head while drinking.

Suddenly, his eyes fell on the woman again. It was the woman in the black dress he had looked at before.

Blaze looked at her carefully. He was observing her. She was beautiful. The black dress suited her pure skin. It was not showing her many body parts. The dress did not have a low neck and its collar was not lower to show her cleavage. It was a sleeveless dress but not a backless dress like what his ex mate wore today.

'Who is she? She looks very gorgeous without showing more skin.' Blaze thought. He was observing her and gulping his drink.

Liam noticed Blaze and went to Arvan. Arvan was talking with some Alphas when he heard Liam.

"Dude, your Lina's ex mate is after your ex mate." Liam whispered and laughed. Lina stood beside Arvan. So she could hear clearly what Liam whispered.

Arvan frowned at Liam and looked at the side where Blaze was sitting. He saw Blaze was looking at Rose. Rose was busy waving and making a thumbs up to her witch friend who was dancing with a man and wasn't aware of anything or she was doing this knowingly. Who knows?

Arvan looked coldly at Liam and said, "I don't care."

Arvan remembered what Elias told him about the consequences. He remembered about that every day. But he was Arvan Black. He didn't care about it, did not believe in it either. If he believed, he wouldn't reject her at first. That two weeks he told himself that everything would be okay if he stayed away from Rose. So he should not care about anything.

Some Alphas looked at Arvan and said, "Everyone is dancing but the Alpha of the Crismon Red pack has not danced yet, please Alpha fascinate us by dancing with your soon to be Luna."

Arvan didn't like to dance. But other people started to cheer for him, so he took Lina's hand and went to the place where everyone was dancing. There was no stage in the ball room. It was a ball party, and dancing was the main arrangement there. So people were dancing in the middle of the hall.

Arvan started to dance with Lina. Lina was blushing, she was happy when Arvan took her to dance. She looked up at Arvan happily but saw that he was not looking at her but somewhere else. She looked at the side where Arvan was looking. Her eyes were glowing, it was Rose. His boyfriend was looking at his ex mate.

Rose was drinking soft drinks that the waiters offered here and there to every guest. She didn't move from her place. She knew no one there except her friends.

She saw Arvan and Lina were dancing. From where she was sitting, she could see them clearly. They were very close, his one hand on Lina's waist and another one attached to her hand. He was very handsome and nobody could compare his look. He was like a King who was dancing with his Queen.

Rose was sipping her drink and looking at her phone when she saw black leather shoes come in front of her. She looked up from her phone and her jaw dropped.

Blaze smiled at Rose and asked, "Are you busy?"

Rose immediately regulated herself. "No."

Blaze nodded and moved beside her. He sat beside her seat and ordered another drink.

Rose was nervous. A man came to her and sat beside her. Of course, she would be nervous.

"Are you from this pack?" Blaze asked while sipping on his drink.

Rose twirled her seat to him and looked at him. She nodded at him. "Yes. And you are?" She asked him.

Blaze smiled at him. Was this woman really naive or did she act naive? She didn't know who he was? At least now every woman knew who he was.

"I am a guest. I am not from this pack actually." Blaze said.

Rose knew that he was not from this pack but she didn't ask more about his pack.

When Blaze saw that she was silent he told her, "You are very beautiful, Rose."

Rose was looking in front of her. But when she heard her name from his mouth her eyes widened. She turned her to him. "H-How do you know my name?"

Blaze looked at her face in detail. She was a pure beauty. Fair skin, glowing cheeks, beautiful eyes, and her silky black-brown hair. She put make up on her face but didn't cake her face with make up like other women.

"When I feel interested in anything, no matter what, I always find my way for it."

When Lina rejected him, he never tried to convince her. Because he never interested in her. But when he liked something, he always did his best to achieve it. He was a hard working man after all.

He smirked at Rose.

Rose started to blush when she heard his words. 'Interested in me? Really? Are his eyes okay? Maybe this man is crazy. Otherwise, why would he come here and sit beside me? I was here for more than half an hour alone, nobody came to me but this guy.'

"What is your name?" She asked.

"You can call me, Blaze." He smiled.

Rose nodded and glanced at Alice and Delilah. They were having fun while dancing.

"Umm, I don't have a partner, will you dance with me?" Blaze asked and offered his hand to her.

Rose glimpsed at his hand and then at him.

"Please don't say no to me. They said if the first woman you asked for a ball dance rejected you then you would stay single for the whole year." Blaze said and blinked.

Hearing that, Rose could not control her laugh. "Nice joke." Then she put her right hand over his palm. He grabbed it. They stood up and went to the dance floor.

Arvan and Lina were dancing just beside them. Rose didn't look at them and started dancing with Blaze.

She put her left hand on his shoulder and her right hand on his hand. Blaze's one hand was on her waist and the other one was with her right hand.

They were dancing merrily. Blaze was a nice man. He was talking about her pack, which was really beautiful and how he always wanted to come but did not get time to come. They were talking and softly laughing while dancing.

Arvan looked at them and got angry. He was observing them for the last few minutes. How Blaze went to Rose and they started to talk, how they came here to dance together.

While dancing, every couple got close to each other and people came close like a rose closing its petals.

Arvan was very near to them. He could clearly listen to them while dancing.

"Rose, do you have any mate?" Blaze asked.

Arvan was feeling nervous for the first time. He didn't realize that he felt hope inside.

"No." He heard Rose's reply and frowned.

But what Blaze told her after then, made him furious.

"LOOKS LIKE I CAN PURSUE YOU WITHOUT ANY PROBLEM THEN."
