

Chapter 364 Bracelet

"My wife was the reason why Everett is living a cursed life."

Delilah gasped. "Cursed? I thought the Lycan rank was itself a cursed rank because I heard about them from my grandmother."

"That is a different story. I am telling you how it started."

Delilah nodded her head to find out further.

"Six years ago, a girl named Safica came to my wife to learn about witches. She said that she was very interested in learning witchcraft."

My wife was the lead witch who helped the Alpha King a lot to rule the kingdom. When she heard that a werewolf was interested in our magic, she could not decline the beautiful girl.

She started to teach her many things and in a few days, Safica became a favorite of my wife.

When my wife heard that her mate was Prince Everett she was worried at first.

She did not like Lycans because they were the wildest creatures of the moon goddess.

It was not like she always stayed in the forest but Everett had never stopped her before, so it was easy for her to come here anytime.

This forest is much bigger than anyone thinks. So wizards and witches took some space to practice their magic daily.

One day, she went to meet Safica and she also wanted to talk to Everett to go back to the palace since Safica was his mate and she could make a family with him.

But what she saw was something horrible.

A giant wolf was killing Safica. My wife did not need time to understand who he was.

She cursed him that next time, whenever he shifted, he would have to bear the consequences. She cursed and casted some spells. Everett's wolf fell to the ground and his whole body was shaking.

I was with her. I tried to stop my wife but she did not listen to me.

She cursed him without knowing the whole truth."

Delilah was speechless. She could not let out a word.

"The whole truth was, Everett's mate was a spy of Maverick. She was his woman, one of his women I can say.

He sent her to kill Everett and unfortunately, she almost succeeded. She used the killer potion that she made with the help of my wife.

In fact, she came to my wife to learn about that killer potion. Because she knew no one could kill a Lycan. No other wolf had the power except a lead witch."

"What happened after that? What happened to Everett?" She asked him desperately.

"He was a powerful Lycan. He shifted back but when he shifted the next time, everyone in the forest heard his sorrowful howl. The pain he had to bear every time he shifted was intolerable. But he was innocent in that matter.

After a few days, he came to my wife and killed her. He caged me in this forest and told me to pay for my wife."

Delilah stared at him. "Are you angry at him? What am I asking, of course you are. He killed your wife."

"No. I am not. It's true that I loved my wife a lot. But we witches and wizards have some rules. If Everett had not killed my wife, she still would have died. It's a rule of the Moon Goddess. She would have died by an unknown curse by the moon goddess. Because my wife had committed a forbidden sin. She cursed an innocent person."

"Why did Everett cage you here?"

"Because my wife said something else to him too."

"What?"

"She said to Everett that he could not mark anyone else until he became the king."

"The king?"

"Yeah, my wife already sent the killer potion to Maverick and told him that whenever Everett comes to attack him, just use it on him."

"H-How could y-your wife do that?"

"Actually she was very infuriated at Everett that he killed his own mate. She thought he was a sinner and arranged everything to kill him."

Now Delilah became angry at the man's dead wife. How could she do that?

Firstly, she cursed the person who did not do anything.

Secondly, she did not stop there. She went to Maverick and gave him the potion to kill Everett!

How cruel!

"I am paying for that. It's my redemption for what my wife did to Prince Everett."

Delilah was silent. She was so upset that she did not know what to say.

'Each and everyone did bad with him. But at the end of the day, everyone called him bad.'

The man saw her expression. He could guess what she was thinking.

"I know you are furious at my wife. But she lost her life for what she did and I am working for Everett too."

Delilah nodded and looked away from him.

She was thinking about what she should do now. Should she go back to her pack or stay in the forest? How could she stay there alone? She was not Everett.

She did not want to talk to Everett either. He should have believed her. Though he had to face many things, but she was not his ex-mate Safica. She was Delilah who only loved him.

"You can go back to him."

He spoke out and Delilah looked at him.

"What do you mean?"

"You can go back to Everett."

Delilah shook her head. "No, I know I have nowhere to go. But I can not go back to him. He told me to get out."

"But he was angry at that time. Maybe he realized his mistake."

"No, he told me that he doesn't like me. Since I am an abandoned Omega again, I have to live like one."

Delilah stood up and was about to walk to the pack. The man stopped her.

"But your necklace is saying something else."

Delilah paused and turned to him.

"What?"

"The necklace in your neck, that's my necklace. I made it for him. It is a very powerful necklace. This necklace is full of my power. I created it for Everett to hide his scent from others. But he used the less powerful one and gave you this.

You said he told you to get out of his house but he didn't take it back from you.

That means he cares for you. You have a unique scent and he did not want you to be in danger no matter even if you betrayed him."

Delilah felt her heart move.

'Does he really care for me?'

She thought for a moment and said,

"I am going to the village to stay. But not in his house. I also have some self respect. I know he had to suffer many things but my life was not an easy one either."

Delilah started to walk toward the way she came from.

"Wait, my child."

She heard him. Though she knew he was a middle aged man but his young appearance made it awkward to hear 'Child' from his mouth.

Delilah turned around. "Yes?"

"I have something for you."

He took out a bracelet.

"It is the bracelet I made for his woman. I never gave it to him. But I made it for his woman's safety. Because I know someday she would be in danger because of him."

Delilah looked surprised. "A bracelet? You are like a jewelry seller." She chuckled but realized what she had just said.

"I am sorry."

The man laughed after hearing her. "Don't apologize to me. You will get the higher authority soon. Apologies don't suit you."

Delilah did not understand what he was saying but she made her way to him.

He put the bracelet on her hand.

"This candlestick is not simple. It will protect you whenever any male wolf tries to get close to you to harm you."

Hearing him, Delilah looked at the bracelet carefully. There was a tiny candlestick hanging from the bracelet.

She could not believe that a small candlestick would protect her. But she nodded at him and smiled.

"Thank you."

Delilah turned around and headed the straight way.

After walking for a while, she crossed the boundary that she had crossed before.

She walked the whole day. She was feeling lonely.

Her legs were tired from walking for two days long.

She wanted to have some food, she wanted to have some rest.

When it was night, she saw the lights. She understood that it was from the wooden house, she was close to the house.

She stopped for a moment but then started to walk again. She did not want to go back to the wooden house.

The owner did not trust her again. So there was no reason to go there.

Her steps halted when she saw Everett standing beside a tree.

As if her whole world was stopped, she looked into his eyes. He was still the same Everett. She felt like she had not seen him for a long time.

She saw him frowning at her when he looked at her.

"Why are you here?"
