"Do you have any idea where your dad would go?"

Harrison should his head.

"No, I am afraid I dont. Dad always kept us in the dark about some things. Well, there are many things that I have learned since taking over. He has a lot of dark secrets. Not even sure my mother knows about them."

He rubbed his temples.

"Is there a spot on your land that he could use to hide out in? Even if it's a cave, A run-down shack. Someplace he thinks no one would find him?"

"Truthfully. Im not sure. I know we have some empty cabins and houses on the outskirts of our borders. They are in no condition to hide out. Most are falling in and rotting from before my grandfather took over. He had moved the pack house and homes farther away from the borders."

"Let's start there. I can see him going off your land. It would be too risky."

"And you are sure he took her? I'm not doubting I wouldn't put it past him."

"Yes. I'm sure. It's his scent at my border. And he is the only one out for her."

He looked down. "I'm sorry. I never realized how far gone he was till he told my brother and me that day about some things he had done. I saw him in a whole other light after that."

There was a knock on the door. I opened it to see Wayne walking in, followed by Elder Luke and Elder Emily.

They both looked at Harrison with raised brows. Then, turning their attention to me.

"Alpha Jaxson. Is there any news?" Elder Luke asked,

"No. I have trackers out. Harley has spoken with the staff in the house. They had picked up on the odd scent, but didn't think anything of it."

"Well, Emily here will help with tracking. If you can point her in the direction she is needed."

"I'll take her," Harley spoke up.

Nodding at her, she leads Elder Emily out of the room.

"Can I ask what you are doing here?" Elder Luke asked Harrison.

"I came to speak with Alpha Jaxson about my father. But I was unaware that his mate had been taken until I reached here. He informed me that my father had a hand in it. I'm here to help."

"Hmm." Elder Luke hummed at him.

I didn't need to waste time. I know Harrison isn't on good ground with a lot of us. I'm still keeping my guard up, but he has been helpful and has given me information on what his father planned and what he has been doing.

"Look. I do not have the time to waste on useless words right now. I need to find my mate, and either you two can help me or stay out of my way."

Both just looked at me.

"Right. I agree with you, Alpha Jaxson. The main focus is Rose." Elder Luke said as he glanced sideways at Harrison.

"Harrison. Why don't you show me where these old pack houses you spoke of are? I can send a group over there and have them search through them."

"Yeah, sure. You have a map?"

I pointed to the one on the wall. Standing up, he walked over, picking up the push pins on the table. He started to put them on the map, marking spots.

"These are all I know of. There may be more out there; I don't know if they are still standing. Like I said they have been empty since before my father was born."

"No this is good. We can start in this area," I point to the closet one on the map,

He was right. It all lined the board, which is odd, I thought, as it makes them an easy target for rogues sitting that close to the line. Maybe that's why his grandfather moved them in farther.

"Wayne, put together three groups." I tell him as I take a picture with my phone and then print it off.

"I will lead one group, and you will lead the other. I want Harley on one as well. Let's have Elder Emliy go with Harley's group."

He nodded as he took one of the copies from me.

"Jaxs, what about your aunt? Roger did have a point. What if she is involved."

I knew he had a point, but something told me she wasn't part of this. It is not her way. She wouldn't enter on her own and I know she won't work with witches, She to proud for that.

"Put Joey on it. He is sneaky enough. He won't need extra men, either. He works better alone."

"What about Roger? We could have him tag along."

"No. I do not trust his daughter. I already dont like that she was standing there earlier. Let him deal with the sweeps around here. That will keep Denise out of this. I do not need to be worrying about what she is doing."

He shook his finger at me. "Good point. Sorry I didnt think about that."

I waved him off. "Let's get this going, Harrison. You are with me."

He gave me a nod,

"I will go with Beta Wayne group."

"Good,"

I didnt need him breathing down Harrison's neck and making him screw up. I need to work fast. The more ground I can cover, the better. The sooner I can find her.

I couldn't help but smile when I recovered the news about Jaxson's little mate missing. Maybe I won't have to make up a plan after all. It seems as if someone else has done the hard work for me.

"What is it that has you smiling so brightly?"

He asked as I walked into the room,

"Oh, nothing big, dear. Just that Jaxson's mate has gone missing, isn't that wonderful?" I chimed at him,

"Well, that is something to smile about."

"Hmm. I have to agree. Now, as long as she stays missing, we can work on the other part of our plan."

"Yes. But I wonder who took her and how? Is someone out there that is thinking the same as us?"

"I'm not sure on that. But it would not surprise me one bit. Jaxson has made plenty of enemies over the years. He didn't earn his reputation by just being an Alpha. We have seen what he can do. This is why we are going this route: to ensure we will not have to fight him."

"I still think you hold me to a low standard. I have always said let me challenge him. One on one. That way, we do not fight the whole pack."

I love his confidence, but he is no match for Jaxson. I have seen that boy rip through a fight and not break a sweat. His wolf is lethal.

I cannot risk losing him.

Walking over to him, I wrap my arms around his neck, kissing his cheek.

"I do not want anything to happen to you. I would be lost if you were to get hurt. This is why we have a pack we need to use it."

Turning his head. "You think I cant take him, is that it?"

"NO! That is not it. I love you to much for you to take that kind of risk, I can't live with out my love."

"Sure." He scoffed at me.

Moving to his front, I straddle his legs. Cupping his cheeks.

"Its not that I dont think you could win. I know you could. But the thought of you hurt in any way scares me. I would be completely lost without you. You know how much I love you. And if you were to leave me, I would die; please love, do not think like that."

His hands grip my hips, pulling me against him.

"I love it when you beg me." He growls. "Maybe I should make you beg more often." He nips at my lips. I cant help but giggle.

With a growl, he lifts me and carries me out of the office. I smile, knowing where he is taking me, and I'm not going to argue.
