Meeting The One For Me Chapter 151-“I heard Audrey’s voice when I was on the phone with Joseph this morning.

Joseph suddenly hung up. He must’ve been with Audrey!” Nathan felt a strong urge as he recalled Carol’s words today.

Although Nathan didn’t know why he wanted to see Audrey so badly or what he would say to her when he saw her, he still drove to the airport without hesitation.

He wanted to go to Cloudmill.

He had never felt such a strong urge before.

Early the next morning, Joseph hurried toward the laboratory building with a bag strapped across his chest, messy hair, and breakfast in hand.

Surprisingly, he saw Nathan sitting on a bench outside the building.

Joseph’s steps faltered as he stared at Nathan.

“Nathan?” Nathan exuded a cold air—as if he had just spent the night here.

He stood up and looked at Joseph warily. “Where’s Audrey?”

“She left last night.” Nathan pressed further. “Left? Where did she go?” Joseph pursed his lips. “Nathan, is it because of the child? The child is not yours! Since you’re already engaged to Amelia now, please don’t provoke Audrey anymore, okay?” Nathan didn’t say anything and walked down the steps to leave.

“Nathan! I asked Audrey if she regrets being with you!” Nathan looked back at him, his fists clenched.

“She said... you were her redemption; you transformed her from a pitiful person wallowing in self- pity into a resilient person.

“But you... you killed her foster mother and shielded the murderer who killed her sister. She could never be with you again. Your repeated intrusions into her life only bring her pain.” “Is that what she said to you?” Nathan asked.

“The latter... the latter part is what I wanted to say!” Joseph frowned at Nathan.

“Stop bothering her.

Nathan glanced at him, then walked away. “It’s none of your business.” Joseph pursed his lips but ultimately said nothing.

He angrily turned back toward the laboratory. “Says it’s none of my business but keeps coming to me and for what Audrey sat on the sofa in the café, flipping through the photos the private detective handed her.

“When Charles was abroad, he indulged in all sorts of vices. Even after returning from overseas, his behavior hasn’t improved.

“He always brags about his sister Amelia being an international superstar and the savior of Matteo.” The private detective handed Audrey another stack of photos.

Audrey looked at the photo of Charles at a gambling table, her eyes narrowing slightly.

“And what about the Murray Group? Did your people find anything?” Audrey put down the photos. and picked up her coffee cup.

The private detective smiled and handed a folder to Audrey.

Audrey flipped through the folder and smiled faintly. “Not surprising at all. When it comes to Amelia, Nathan—as her admirer—will do his utmost to help her.”

Meeting The One For Me Chapter 152

Meeting The One For Me Chapter 152-“Oh, right!” The private detective pulled a medical record from his bag and placed it on the table.

"This is Nathan's medical record. You should find it interesting. Consider this folder a complimentary gift from me. Thank you, Ms. Yeomans, for your support of our detective agency over the years." After scanning the Murray Group's donation certificate, Audrey opened Nathan's medical record.

It stated that Nathan's memory was gradually returning.

The private detective expected Audrey to react emotionally, but he couldn't discern any emotions from her face.

"Ms. Yeomans, your reaction is quite different from what I expected." Audrey placed the medical record on the coffee table. "In the future, don't meddle in things I haven't asked you to do." "Got it!" The private detective made an OK gesture with his hand and added, "By the way... I did a little digging into your past with Mr. Franklin—the passionate love affair you had when you were young. If Mr. Franklin regains his memories, he might help you deal with the Murray Group." "No need." Audrey smiled. "I can handle things on my own. After all, I intend to seek revenge on Nathan as well." Audrey then grabbed her bag to leave as she said, "This coffee is on you!" Audrey exited the café and bumped into Jacob, who had come to the café with classmates.

Jacob saw Audrey, and his expression shifted. "Well, well, if it isn't Audrey. Just a few days ago, you were flirting with the students at Cloudmill University, and today you're here at the entrance of Sheysea University?"

"Did you get tired of the students at Cloudmill University and came here to make money again?" Audrey was initially going to walk away, but she paused and asked, "We seem to have no connection whatsoever, but since we met at Cloudmill University yesterday, you seem to have a strong animosity toward me." One of Jacob's friends spoke up just then. "Don't you know that Jacob is Mr.

Nathan's cousin? You drugged his cousin, so of course he hates you."
"Cousin?" Audrey raised an eyebrow.

"Why don't you name your price? While what Jacob can offer isn't as substantial as Mr. Nathan, you won't be shortchanged either!" Jacob's friend, leaning on him, looked Audrey up and down.

"Even though so many men have played with you, your looks make up for it.

How about two thousand, Jacob?” “Sure!” Jacob crossed his arms. “Two thousand is nothing. It’s just the cost of one meal out.” “I grew up with Nathan, but I’ve never seen you before,” Audrey remarked.

Just yesterday, Audrey had a phone conversation with the president of Sheysea University.

It’s not that she intended to cancel Jacob’s scholarship. After all, he earned the scholarship using his own abilities.

However, Jacob was also among the financially needy students whom Audrey supported.

The Franklin family would certainly provide support if he were Nathan’s cousin like Joseph.

How could he accept the subsidy if he was rich to begin with?

Audrey didn’t want to investigate why Jacob was pretending to be Nathan’s cousin.

Meeting The One For Me Chapter 153

Meeting The One For Me Chapter 153-Seeing Jacob flaunting his designer clothes and casually mentioning spending two thousand on a meal, Audrey weighed the two options: either Jacob masqueraded as a rich kid using Nathan’s identity, or there were flaws in overseeing financial aid for needy students at Sheysea University. Jacob felt guilty under her scrutinizing gaze and tried to appear calm. “Who are you, anyway? Everyone knows that my cousin’s true love is Amella. You’re just a lowly person living under the Franklin family’s roof. What do you know?” “At the very least, I know that one shouldn’t be superficial and ought to remember where they come from.” “What the hell do you mean?” Jacob was both embarrassed and angry.

He reached out to hit Audrey.

But before his hand could land, it was firmly caught by someone.

Jacob’s friends immediately turned pale.

“Na... Mr. Nathan!” Jacob’s face also turned pale. “Nathan.” Nathan pulled Audrey behind him. With a stern face, he kicked Jacob hard in the abdomen, causing him to fall to his knees.

However, Nathan didn’t stop there; he delivered another kick to Jacob’s face.

Jacob collapsed to the ground, looking up at Nathan with a terrified expression.

He raised his hands instinctively to block his face. “Nathan... I...” Nathan kept his hands in his pockets, his cold and indifferent expression showing signs of irritation. He pressed down on Jacob’s head with his foot and stretched his neck out.

Audrey tightly clenched her bag behind Nathan.

The silhouette of Nathan, fighting for her when he was 16 or 17 years old, dressed in a school uniform, overlapped with the one fighting for her now, dressed in a suit.

Their actions were the same.

Both involved stepping on another’s head with a nonchalant yet irritated neck movement.

Back then, Audrey would walk over to the person being beaten and throw down some money for medical treatment. She would then issue a threat before leaving with Nathan.

Now, Audrey simply stood there in shock.

The Sheysea University students with Jacob saw his bloodied face and quickly pleaded, “Mr. Nathan! Jacob is your cousin! Please show mercy!” “Yeah, Mr. Nathan! Jacob did this for you!” “Mr. Nathan! Even though it’s been a few years, Jacob is just standing up for you.”

Jacob screamed and grabbed Nathan’s foot with both hands.

“Are you supposed to be apologizing to me?” Nathan pressed harder with his foot, glaring down at Jacob.

Jacob realized his mistake and quickly reached out to Audrey, “Ms. Audrey! I’m sorry! It’s all my fault! Ms. Audrey, please save me... The Sheysea

University students with Jacob heard this and began to retreat with widened eyes filled with fear.

Meeting The One For Me Chapter 154

Meeting The One For Me Chapter 154-Since they knew about the incident where Audrey drugged Nathan, they naturally also knew about Nathan's madness toward Audrey before he lost his memory.

Nathan had almost killed someone for Audrey before.

It was said that Nathan almost threw a student from the Sheysea High School rooftop once. That student would have long been dead without Audrey's intervention.

Could it be that Nathan has recovered his memory?

Seeing Audrey remain silent, Nathan continued pressing down with his feet.

"Not sincere enough!" "Ms. Audrey, I'm a despicable scoundrel! I pretended to be Mr. Nathan's cousin, but I'm just a nobody! Please ask Mr. Nathan to spare me. I won't do this again in the future! If you're still unsatisfied, you can kick me a few more times before letting me go! Please!" Jacob had heard that Nathan would fight to kill whenever he got into a scuffle, and no one could persuade him otherwise.

However, when Audrey chimed in with just one sentence, "Nathan, let's go home", Nathan would obediently return with her.

Thus, Jacob desperately pleaded with Audrey as if clutching at a lifeline.

"Louder! Can't hear you!" Nathan showed no mercy.

Jacob felt like his head was about to explode under Nathan's brute force.

"Ms. Audrey! I'm sorry! Please save me! I know I was wrong! I won't ever do this again! Never again!" Jacob shouted hoarsely.

Audrey looked at Nathan's from behind, feeling somewhat dazed.

She couldn't help but wonder... What was he doing?

Was he forcing Jacob to apologize, or was he forcing her to speak up?

During their arguments in the past, he always liked forcing her to speak first.

While she was conflicted, Jacob continued screaming in terror.

“Nathan, that’s enough!” Audrey finally spoke up.

Audrey’s cold and indifferent voice came through, and Nathan clenched his fists.

Eventually, he moved his foot away from Jacob’s head.

“Thank you, Mr. Nathan! Thank you, Ms. Audrey!” Jacob scrambled and fled with his companions feeling like he had been granted a new lease on life.

Audrey gazed at Nathan indifferently as she watched him turn around, Their eyes met.

Looking at Audrey’s face, similar to the one in his memories, Nathan’s breathing became uneven.

His eyes were sunken and bloodshot from days of insufficient rest.

She glanced at Nathan for a while but ultimately said nothing. She then turned around and headed toward the traffic light at the intersection.

Nathan took a few steps forward to chase after her but stopped in his tracks.

6 What could he possibly say to Audrey now even if he did catch up to her?

He hadn’t forgotten what he had done to Audrey when she looked for him after waking up hospital.

after her.

“Audrey!” Nathan called out to her as she was about to cross the road.

She turned back, looking confused.

Nathan walked up to her. “Let’s talk.”

Meeting The One For Me Chapter 155

Meeting The One For Me Chapter 155-“The child is not yours. I’ve told you that before,” Audrey replied bluntly. “I’ve admitted it to you at least twice before.

“Nothing happened between us on the night you were drugged. That incident happened years ago, so stop harping on it! The only thing you should feel guilty about is almost killing the child in my belly years ago.” “Audrey, let’s not argue about the child. I’m really sorry for losing control of my emotions and almost harming the child because of Amelia!” Nathan’s tone carried a hint of coaxing. “But considering the child’s age, it can’t be anyone else but me…” Audrey hesitated for a moment, then smiled.

“Did you forget the time you drugged me at Jacinda Hotel? My child was conceived then. You prepared the drink I had. You should know better than anyone else the consequences that medicine would bring.

“Didn’t you hope I would sleep with someone else at that time? Do you think… I would remain pure for you even when drugged?” He remembered how he gave Audrey the alleged “truth–telling drug” at the time.

He’d forced her to admit in front of so many people that they didn’t have intercourse that night.

He remembered how he strangled Audrey because of Amelia back then.

Nathan felt his heart tightening.

“Audrey, please don’t speak so harshly.” Nathan reached out to grab Audrey.

She dodged Nathan’s hand, turning to the side.

“My child was indeed conceived on the night at Jacinda Hotel. If you don’t believe me, I can cooperate with you for a paternity test. I just hope you won’t appear in front of me after that. It’s disgusting.” Disgusting.

Like a sharp dagger, the word pierced Nathan’s heart.

Nathan once said these words to Audrey, as well.

It was when Audrey had just emerged from a vegetative state, trying her best to make him remember their past, trying to take him to Sheysea High School... He pushed Audrey away and said, "I can go to Sheysea High School with you, but this will be the last time! I hope you won't appear in front of me after that. It's disgusting." He watched Audrey's receding figure get swallowed up by the flow of people crossing the street.

Nathan's eyes were bloodshot, and he clenched his teeth.

It wasn't until his phone rang multiple times that he refocused his attention.

He took out his phone and saw it was a call from Amelia. He wasn't in the mood to answer, so he muted the phone and put it back in his pocket.

He then turned back to the car.

Just as Nathan was about to rev the engine and leave, Audrey's words from earlier suddenly appeared in his mind.

"My child was indeed conceived on the night at Jacinda Hotel. If you don't believe me, I can cooperate with you for a paternity test." The child was conceived on the night at Jacinda Hotel?

No, impossible. Joseph said the child was his!

Nathan realized this belatedly, and his entire body stiffened.

What exactly was that medicine?

Nathan took out his phone and dialed Charles' number.

Soon, Charles answered the call.

A girl's voice coquettishly chimed in on the other end. "Hello, Nathan!" Then came Charles' voice, sounding cheerful. "What's up?"

Meeting The One For Me Chapter 156

Meeting The One For Me Chapter 156-"Why? Nathan, is your friend in need of that medicine?" Charles seemed to have moved to a quieter place. "That medicine is indeed very potent. It can turn a virtuous woman into a lustful one. It takes effect in as little as ten minutes.

“My friend used it to seduce his long–desired goddess. It really gives women something to cry and beg for! There wasn’t even time to take her to the hospital!

But that medicine is hard to come by now since it’s heavily regulated.” Back then, Audrey had waited for the effects to kick in before leaving, and Ryan’s people had sent Charles back.

Could Ryan have stood by and watched Audrey sleep with someone else?

Nathan hung up the phone, breathing heavily as he clutched his phone tightly.

He felt like his heart was about to explode.

He loosened his tie, his throat burning.

Clutching onto the last shred of hope, he dialed Ryan’s number.

He didn’t answer the first time, so Nathan dialed again... and again and again.

He lost count of how many times he called before Ryan finally answered.

“Speak quickly,” Ryan’s deep and commanding voice came from the other end.

when Audra was dr “Mr. Lambert...” Nathan’s voice trembled. “Back at Jacinda Hotel, did you take her to the hospital?” “I didn’t have time.” Nathan was stunned by these words. He clumsily hung up the phone.

He lacked even the courage to ask Ryan about the man Audrey had been with.

That night, he had forced Audrey to drink that medicine.

He had then sent Audrey to another man’s bed.

At the time, Nathan knew that Audrey loved him....

He had stopped her from leaving, insisting that Hugo take her back! He even said it was his last wish.

No wonder Audrey had looked at him with such eyes back then, as if the world was collapsing around her. He even thought Audrey was just being melodramatic.

But how much pain must Audrey have been in at that time?

She said she heard his conversation with Charles at the hospital..

Did she believe that he intended for Audrey to sleep with Hugo so that she would be too ashamed to confront him again?

Nathan closed his eyes, recalling Audrey's smile after he had someone take her back home as his last wish.

That smile was so heartbreaking, the desolation evident in her clear eyes.

That's what she had said at that time.

Thus, she fulfilled his wish.

He gripped the steering wheel tightly, and his chest heaved violently.

Meeting The One For Me Chapter 157

Meeting The One For Me Chapter 157-Nathan immediately turned on his turn signal and followed her into the school.

However, he couldn't find Audrey anywhere once he drove in.

He parked the car and tried calling Joseph to ask for Audrey's whereabouts, but Joseph didn't answer.

Nathan continued dialing as he searched through the university.

Meanwhile, Audrey had already entered the office belonging to the university dean, Harold Wilson.

"I've been trying to get you to come back over the years, but you've always refused. I thought you still cared about what happened back then." Harold placed a glass of water before Audrey and awkwardly pushed up his glasses.

“It was Nathan’s fault, not yours. Back then, you did your best to protect me, including contacting Professor Douglas. I know everything. I’m really grateful to you from the bottom of my heart.” After exchanging pleasantries with Harold, Audrey got straight to the point.

She told him about Jacob, who received financial aid for needy students but was dressed in branded clothing.

“I’m wondering if there might be some oversight in the finance division?” Audrey’s tone was gentle, without any intention of causing trouble or suggesting the discontinuation of financial aid.

“I hope the financial aid is given to those who truly need it; otherwise, there’d be no meaning to it.” When Audrey arranged for Evergreen Biotech to provide this donation, she specifically instructed that the list be kept confidential to protect the dignity of the needy students.

Still, it was inevitable that some people would try to take advantage of it.

“You’re right!” Harold frowned and nodded. “Wait a moment, I’ll have the Deputy Dean, Mr. Ernest come over to discuss the situation. He’s more familiar with information about the aid than I am!” Harold made a phone call, and Clifford soon arrived.

After some initial pleasantries, Clifford began discussing the issue with Jacob.

“As for Jacob, his family situation is indeed quite troubling. His father died in a car accident when he was in junior high school, and his mother left him shortly afterwards. Now it’s just him and his grandmother, making a living by running a scrapyard.” Clifford handed Jacob’s file to Audrey. “Here’s the information on Jacob.” Audrey browsed through the file, her brows furrowing.

“I ran into Jacob at the café today. He claimed to be Nathan’s cousin, wearing branded clothing. He also told me he spends two thousand on just one meal.” Audrey carefully examined Jacob’s photo and handed the file back to Clifford. “I hope you can verify the situation with him.” “The school will thoroughly investigate Jacob. If Jacob is indeed squandering the subsidies, the school will revoke his aid,” came Clifford’s response.

As he finished speaking, a broadcast came over the campus.

at our old spot. If you hear “Audrey, it’s Nathan. I have something to tell you. I’ll be waiting for you at our old this, please come!” Audrey was startled.

Harold looked puzzled. “Is that... Nathan’s voice?” Nathan’s voice came through again in the broadcast.

“Audrey, it’s Nathan. I’ll be waiting for you at our old spot. If you hear this, please come!” “Is that really Nathan?” Harold looked at Audrey. “Has Nathan regained his memory?” Audrey frowned.

Harold was rendered speechless for a moment.

It was widely known that Audrey and Nathan’s love story had been vibrant from high school to university.

However, Nathan then lost his memory and fell in love with someone else.

That said, he’s been acting strangely, plastering Audrey’s photos everywhere and now with the broadcast.

Yes, this was Nathan’s style.

During their most serious arguments back then, Audrey would ignore Nathan for several days.

Meeting The One For Me Chapter 158

Meeting The One For Me Chapter 158-Back then, Audrey was touched by Nathan’s actions.

Now, however, she remained impassive.

After so many years, Nathan had made no progress at all. He was still as immature as ever.

Audrey had no intention of seeing him.

She told Harold, “The main purpose of today’s visit is because Evergreen Biotech mentioned they would provide Sheysea University with a batch of advanced laboratory equipment.

“They have already coordinated with the overseas team, and the equipment will likely be shipped back after the hearing. I wonder if the new laboratory building is ready for installation works?” “Excellent. That’s fantastic news! The new laboratory building is all set, and the equipment can be installed anytime.” Harold nodded with a smile:

“Audrey, please convey my gratitude to the founder of Evergreen Biotech for me. We’ve invited them. several times, but the group’s founder has always been reluctant to come to our school to give a speech. They’re really low profile.” “The laboratories are quite busy recently, so they can’t spare the time.

Audrey did not disclose her identity to Harold.

She simply smiled and stood up. “I’d like to visit the laboratory building. Is that possible?” “Absolutely! Let me accompany you there!” Clifford said with a smile.

“Thank you.” Audrey expressed her gratitude.

After visiting the new biology laboratory with Clifford, she left Sheysea University. She still had no intention of going to the “old spot” Nathan mentioned.

Clifford stood at the school gate, watching Audrey leave.

He muttered, “The love lives of young people are truly complicated. First, he married Audrey, then lost his memory and had Amelia. Now he’s engaged to Amelia and has regained his memory, yet he’s come back to find Audrey again. I really don’t understand...” “Boss, the Franklin Group is really persistent! I was informed that their side has lowered the offer by another 0.1%!” On the other end of the line, Audrey stood by the kitchen sink, waiting for the coffee machine to finish brewing her drink.

She tapped her fingers on the countertop and replied, “Since the Franklin Group is so eager to cooperate with us, let’s not push them too hard on the contract.

Tell them we don’t need them to lower it by another 0.1%.” “Really, Boss?” The voice on the phone sounded incredulous.

“There’s just one condition before signing the contract: we won’t provide financial support for the first batch of drugs. They must produce high-quality medications within one month and prove to Evergreen Biotech that their production capacity and financial chain are sound.

“As long as they can deliver on time and meet the standards with this first batch, we’ll trust them with the large orders to come.” Audrey picked up her coffee and walked toward the living room.

“Remember to specify in the contract that a breach of agreement will result in a hefty penalty. Oh and draft a separate confidentiality agreement for the formula,” she added.

“Got it!” After hanging up, Audrey stood by the window, watching the rain pour over Sheysea City. She silently sipped her coffee.

Naturally, they would need the help of the Murray Group.

A smirk played on Audrey’s lips.

Charles and the Murray Group.

The glass window—stained with rainwater streaks—reflected Audrey’s delicate features and faint smile.

The rain intensified.

Nathan stood under the eaves of the top floor of the Sheysea University laboratory building.

His pants were soaked below the knees, but he still couldn’t see the person he was waiting for.

Meeting The One For Me Chapter 159

Meeting The One For Me Chapter 159-The phone inside Nathan’s suit jacket continued ringing.

His hands, cold and tingling, picked up the phone to glance at the caller ID—Amella.

Finally, he answered, “Hello-” “Nathan, where are you? I’ve been calling you all day.” Amelia bit her lips, her voice choked with emotion.

“I was hit by a prop while filming an advertisement, so the director allowed me to take half a month off to let my foot heal. I was thinking... maybe we could use this time to plan our wedding?” Nathan remained silent on the other end.

Amelia had a bad feeling but composed herself and continued, “You know, Mrs.

Franklin has always hoped we’d get married soon. We’re not getting any younger, and it’s about time we have a child.” “Will your agency allow it?” Nathan asked, watching the downpour of rain.

“I’ll coordinate with Yolanda and the company. In the worst–case scenario, I’ll quit the entertainment industry and be a housewife! Nathan, you know you’re the most important to me.

Nathan felt a mix of emotions.

If Amelia had said this back then, he would have immediately bought a ring and gone to find her ready to propose as soon as possible.

But now... “What’s wrong, Nathan?” Amelia couldn’t hear Nathan’s enthusiastic voice, and she panicked. “Do... Do you not want me anymore?” “It’s not that, you’re overthinking it.” Nathan sighed.

“But...” Tears welled up in Amelia’s eyes. “But I just told you I got hit by a prop and hurt my foot, yet you still haven’t asked me how my foot is.” “I’m sorry. Because the contract with Evergreen Biotech hasn’t been finalized yet, I haven’t slept well for a long time,” Nathan lied to Amelia.

“Where are you now? Have you returned to the hotel?” “I’m at Mythravia Hospital right now. Although the injury isn’t severe, Yolanda is worried...” ” Amelia added, “It’s my fault. I shouldn’t have been suspicious of you, Nathan.

You take care and rest well! The company’s matters are important, and my foot’s not badly injured anyway!” “You take care too.” “Nathan!” Just before hanging up, Amelia urgently told Nathan, “I miss you so much! I love you, and rest well!” After ending the call, Nathan glanced at his watch. It was almost 11:00 PM.

Audrey wouldn’t be coming.

At this moment, Nathan's guilt and regret peaked. He had already wronged Audrey, and now he was treating Amelia like this.

Amelia hadn't done anything wrong. She simply loved him with all her heart.

Nathan pursed his lips, dragging his weary legs downstairs.

He called the driver. "Come pick me up at Sheysea University. We're going to Mythravia." Before Nathan even reached the bottom of the stairs, he received a call from the manager of the Franklin Group.

Meeting The One For Me Chapter 160

Meeting The One For Me Chapter 160-The manager's voice betrayed his excitement. This was indeed a great opportunity, Nathan leaned against the staircase railing, his steps coming to a halt.

"Can we meet the deadline with our current production capacity at Franklin Group?" Nathan asked.

What concerned him even more was whether the Franklin Group's cash flow would be sufficient for raw material procurement if Evergreen Biotech didn't provide financial support.

"With our current production capacity and funds, it's impossible to meet the deadline within a month, but... opportunity seldom knocks twice!" The manager hesitated for a moment.

"We can exploit loopholes in the contract. I've looked at the new contract, and it doesn't explicitly prohibit outsourcing! We can partially outsource... That is, share some of the profits.

"Although it seems like we're giving away some of the profits with the first batch of drugs, as long as we secure the future orders, we'll still make a profit!" "In that case, send me and the legal department a copy of the contract first. We'll review it before making a decision." Nathan remained cautious.

"Alright!" The manager replied.

Audrey sat in the casino's private room, watching news about the contract signing between Evergreen Biotech and Franklin Group.

On the TV screen, Nathan, dressed immaculately, sat at the long table and signed the contract with a smile, shaking hands with the head of Evergreen Biotech's Cascadia region.

Audrey looked through the window, watching Charles win at a gambling table on the ground floor.

A smirk appeared on her lips.

She looked forward to seeing how far Nathan would go to protect Charles for Amelia's sake.

Inside the casino, Charles won again.

The woman clinging to his right arm kissed his cheek, cheering happily.

This caused the long-haired woman on his left arm to feel unhappy, so she picked up her bag and left.

Charles was completely absorbed in the game and didn't even notice when the long-haired woman left.

The woman glanced at the private room where Audrey was sitting before finally walking away.

Charles lost in the next round.

"It's okay, it's okay! Mr. Murray has been winning this whole time. It's normal to lose once in a while!" The woman beside Charles comforted him.

"That's right! Just one round! Let's go again!" Charles rallied.

In the next round, Charles lost yet again.

He won the third round, but his joy was short-lived.

He kept losing from the fourth round all the way to the tenth.

Charles thought it made sense and decided to buy more chips.

But when he handed his card to the staff, they returned it with an embarrassed smile. "Mr. Murray, it appears that your card doesn't have sufficient funds." "How is that possible?" Charles snatched the card back and swapped it for another. "Try this one!" After trying the new card, the staff awkwardly smiled and said, "Sorry, this card also has insufficient funds."
