

Meeting The One For Me Chapter 201

Meeting The One For Me Chapter 201-Ryan started to button up his shirt after the call ended.

His facial features held a pair of deep eyes, high nose bridge, and defining jaw while a cigarette hung from the corner of his mouth. All of these, combined with the actions of his slender fingers that were buttoning his shirt, were a combination strong enough to make one's heart flutter.

Audrey's heart began to pound rapidly yet again.

Clearing her throat, she turned and headed to the open kitchen to brew a cup of coffee for herself.

When he disposed of the cigarette and walked over from the balcony, she offered, "I'm making coffee. Want some?" "Coffee at this late hour?" He placed his phone on the dining table before making his way to the counter.

"The results obtained from several experiments were incorrect, but we couldn't figure out what the cause was yet. I'm going to burn the midnight oil to watch the experiment recordings tonight," she explained.

With her hands on the coffee machine, she recalled Ryan talking over the phone. "Did something happen within the company?" "No. I left my pajamas in my bedroom. I thought you were resting, so I called Julian to bring me a set of pajamas." The newly changed shirt and slacks on him reminded her of something. "It's late, though. You don't have to trouble him to get 'em. I can take 'em for you." Just as she was about to walk past him, he suddenly grabbed her wrist.

"Hmm?" She looked back at him with a questioning look.

Ryan stared at her hair and reached out to touch them. "You didn't dry your hair?" "I received a call from a colleague as soon as I finished bathing, so I got busy watching the recordings..." TShe smiled as she touched her half-dried hair.

“I’ll go take the pajamas for you first. Then—Ryan!” She shrieked as he lifted her onto the counter.

“There’s nothing to rush for that. Let’s dry your hair first. Stay here.” He rolled up his sleeves.

He then took out a hair dryer from the cabinet by the sink familiarly, as if he had been staying here for a long time. Then, he dried her hair for her.

With Audrey sitting on the counter, it made it just the right height for him to dry her hair. His fingers ruffled through her hair gently until her hair was dry.

This left a lingering scent of the aromatic coffee mixed with Audrey’s hair shampoo in the kitchen.

She jumped off the counter with one hand. “I’ll take the pajamas for you.” “Thanks.” Like a lamb running away from a wolf, she ran out of the open kitchen.

By the time she took out his pajamas from the wardrobe in the bedroom, Ryan was already standing by the door.

Her fingers tightened subconsciously as she held onto his clothes before handing them over to him. “Here.”

He reached out to yank her into his embrace by her wrist and dug his fingers into her hair.

“Ryan...” Audrey’s voice trembled..

“M—Matthew?” She called with uncertainty.

“Yes, Audrey.” He dipped his head to kiss her.

As he led her into the bedroom, her clumsy steps followed his.

Meeting The One For Me Chapter 202-Ryan hooked the bedroom door with his leg and pinned Audrey against the wall.

His burning body pinned against hers and caged her so that she couldn’t escape.

He turned off the lights, and while the room turned dark, her senses heightened.

His heavy breathing rang in her ears and her heart beat against her chest fiercely.

She felt the veins bulging along his arms underneath the clothes.

As much as his body temperature could send her burning, his tongue was arousingly scorching.

He was like a beast pounding on his prey.

Ryan's rough kiss was too much for Audrey to take in.

She was getting lightheaded due to the lack of oxygen, losing the reason and the strength to shove him away.

While her head was pumped by the massive adrenaline rush because of the kiss, he carried her and threw her onto the bed.

The loss of gravity knocked some senses into her.

Propping herself with her elbows, she looked at the man kneeling on one knee on the bed while undoing his buttons.

She grabbed onto the bedsheet as she breathed heavily. "Ryan, we should stop here. We shouldn't make the same mistake again." He hovered over her, with one of his arms planted on the bed to support his weight.

Again, he leaned in and kissed her, silencing her as he smoothly removed his shirt.

Her body was shaking and she couldn't keep up with the kiss, giving out as she lay on the bed.

With little to no strength in her to push him away, she was forced to welcome the fierce kiss.

As though on fire, she lost both her reasoning and morality to lust, succumbing to her primal instincts.

Ryan wrapped her arms around his neck.

“Audrey, can we do it?” His lips were brushing her ears. His ragged breathing was burning her skin and it made her toes curl.

“B–But this is not right. W–We-” “This is okay. We’re legally married.” Ryan cupped her cheeks and began devouring her with kisses again.

The doorbell rang, pulling Audrey’s senses back to her.

Embarrassment washed over her in a heartbeat, and she frantically pushed him away. “G -Get the door!” He was frowning and his lips pressed into a thin line. He had forgotten to tell Julian not to come.

In fact, Ryan couldn’t care less about opening the door at all.

“It must be Julian. He brought you your pajamas.” Her heart was still palpitating, and she pushed him again. “Hurry, get the door!” He got up reluctantly.

While he picked his shirt up, she scurried to the door and tidied herself up before opening the door for Julian.

“Ms. Yeomans.” He handed the paper bag to her. “Here’s Mr. Lambert’s pajamas.” “Thank you. Sorry for making you run an errand this late into the night.” She flashed him a smile.

The displeasure in Ryan’s eyes sent a chill down Julian’s spine.

Then, something struck him—he had come at a bad time.

Hastily, he rushed to press the elevator button before closing his eyes. He hated his stupidity so much.

He should’ve known better to leave the paper bag by the door and send a text message to Ryan.

Just why did he have to ring the doorbell!

Meeting The One For Me Chapter 203-Julian hoped that Ryan wouldn't deduct his bonus out of anger.

After closing the door, Audrey placed the pajamas on the couch and avoided Ryan's gaze. "I have to watch the experiment recordings, so you should rest up," she prompted softly.

"Audrey." He held a cigarette between his lips and lit it. "How about straightening things out between us first?" She clutched the hem of her clothes.

Ryan had always been straightforward about his feelings for her, but what about her?

Did she like him?

Important notice: Dear readers, Please bookmark our new site: to continue reading the Novels. Thank you.Recommend: Clean Your Brower Cache now to access missing chapters.

She did. However, George wouldn't like the idea of them getting together.

She mustered enough courage to look at him. "We can secure a date for a divorce." That didn't anger him. He sat on the restarm of the couch and pulled her in front of him with the same hand that was pinching the cigarette.

"Ask yourself. Do you really dislike my kisses and having sex with me?" He asked slowly. "I can feel that... you yearn for me. It means that you at least like me, doesn't it?" "I admit it." Clenching her fists, she raised her head to meet his eyes. "I like you." Even if it was a subtle brush by the skin, a mere eye-to-eye contact, or his hand around her wrist, they made her heart beat wildly all the same.

Not even Nathan had given her such feelings in the past.

Her yearnings for him seemed to only grow over time. His gazes, actions, and scent were too much for her to rein her urges in.

Such a feeling was unfamiliar yet thrilling to her.

Was it love? She wasn't sure about that, but she did know that she liked him.

In fact, her feelings for him were more like desire.

It was embarrassing for Audrey, who had only dated once, to admit that, but that was the truth.

“But our relationship is too complicated. Will Mr. Lambert Senior let us be together? If we get together, how will the outsiders see the Lambert family? I care about this more than anything, more than my life.” Her eyes were welling up with tears.

“I won’t be one of the Lambert family soon. After all these years, Lambert Corporation will be able to stand on its footing. This is my way of thanking them for raising me up.” He lowered his gaze as his finger caressed her wrist. “When you can officially take over the Lambert family, I’ll be able to return to my family.” “Your family? I thought you didn’t have anyone.” Audrey was baffled.

“You have a family? Does Mr. Lambert Senior know about this?” He inhaled the cigarette. Noticing her frown, he pulled the ashtray on the table to discard his cigarette.

Chuckling lightly, he revealed, “I have a family. You, Lily, and Dallas are my family.” “I mean your real family.”

Her balled fists became clammy at his blunt remarks.

Meeting The One For Me Chapter 204-Audrey noticed that Ryan was acting out of character today.

Teetering between nervousness and embarrassment, she raised her head to look him in the eyes. “Are you going to leave the Lambert family soon? Is that why you’re asking this?”

Hearing that, he let out a low chuckle. “As I said, you’re smart.” “Where will you go?” The question was asked before she knew it.

He embraced her closer to him. “Why? You can’t let go of me?” She placed her hand on his chest, creating a space between them. She asked concernedly, “When will you leave? Does Mr. Lambert Senior know about this?”

Did you talk to him?" "There will be an announcement at his birthday party this month. I will leave after the party ends, and yes, he knows." "You can't leave!" She grabbed his shirt. "Lambert Corporation still needs you.

A—And you're closer to him than I am. I can tell that he cares for you dearly!" Memories from four years ago suddenly struck Audrey. It was when Ryan brought her back to the villa in Sheysea City.

When she headed downstairs to get water, Ryan was speaking to George over the phone.

Ryan had revealed to George that she was the true member of the Lambert family.

"Are you doing this because of me? Are you trying to return my family to me because I share the same blood as them? I've never desired Lambert Corporation. Not even once!" She explained anxiously.

In the face of her anxiety, he couldn't help but plant a peck on her lips.

He said in a whisper, "It's the other way around. I want to return your family and Lambert Corporation to you because I want to leave." Before this, George disagreed with the idea of Audrey—one of the Lamberts—returning to the Yeomans family.

Now, Audrey wasn't the only family George had. He also had Dallas and Lily.

Ryan could finally leave with peace of mind.

"What happens after that? Will you still keep in touch with the Lambert family and Mr. Lambert Senior?" Audrey asked.

"I won't cut ties with the Lambert family after I leave. Your stance is important in this." Ryan wore a meaningful smile. "What happens after this depends on how you're going to deal with our relationship." She dropped her gaze downward, unable to look at him. Her heart was pounding fast.

“I love you, Audrey...” His thumb caressed the nape of her neck and he kissed her again, lightly this time.

Resting his forehead against hers, he confessed softly, “You have all the time to consider this before the birthday party. If you decide to break up, we can divorce. If you’re willing to be with me...” Unable to hold himself in, he locked her lips with his again and hugged her tightly.

The rest remained unsaid. He secured her head by holding the back of her head and kissed her until her tongue went numb.

If Audrey’s feelings gave her enough reasons to stay with him forever, he wouldn’t hide his overflowing love and admiration for her.

“R–Ryan.” She did her best to mask her quivering voice and wore a composed expression. But that didn’t do a thing to scare him..

“You want it?” He pushed a strand of hair away from the corner of her lips.

Again, he captured her rosy lips.

“Do you want to have sex with me?” His voice was hoarse.

Audrey’s heart was threatening to jump out of her chest. She was on the verge of losing her mind and her breathing was ragged.

It didn’t take long before her primal instincts prevailed over her rationality, Wrapping her arms around Ryan’s neck, she initiated a kiss herself this time.

“Yes...”

He swept her up off her feet and headed to the bedroom.

The next day, Audrey woke up in waves of soreness. Even lifting her arms were made impossible.

The curtains were drawn.

She checked the time on her phone. It was almost 11:00 am, calls.

and she missed dozens of Audrey grabbed a robe and put it on, sliding her feet into the slippers.

As soon as she stood up, her knees gave out, and she flopped back on the bed.

Meeting The One For Me Chapter 205-Audrey had a flashback of the wild memories from the night before. Ryan had carried her to the shower to clean themselves up, yet... They ended up doing it again.

It wasn't until she almost fainted that they finally stopped.

She covered her face as soon as she discovered how wild she could be.

Her phone vibrated, and she took a glimpse at it.

It was a call from Ryan.

Important notice: Dear readers, Please bookmark our new site: to continue reading the Novels. Thank you.Recommend: Clean Your Brower Cache now to access missing chapters.

Biting her swollen lip, she answered the phone, "Hello-" As soon as she said that word, she covered her mouth.

She didn't expect her voice to come off this hoarsely!

Ryan's gentle voice resounded from the other side of the line. "You're up. Taken your breakfast yet?" Audrey cleared her throat. "No..." It didn't sound any better. Dipping her head to her hands, she couldn't help but think about the previous night.

She tried her best to stop herself from reminiscing about the flashbacks. But his voice kept reminding her of it.

Her brain was going frenzy.

"I bought lozenges for you this morning. They're on the dining table. What's your plan for today?" The question seemed intentional for some reason.

Initially, she wanted to say that she would buy a gift for George.

But she changed her mind because of her voice. "Stay at home." "Watching experiment recordings?" She hummed as an acknowledgment.

“Okay, remember to have breakfast and... the lozenges,” Ryan reminded.

Again, she hummed in response.

After ending the call, she flopped onto the bed and pulled the blanket over her face.

If only she could bury herself in a hole... Still embarrassed, she remembered the time when they had sex at the hotel.

That was how she got pregnant with Dallas and Lily.

Then, she recalled that they didn’t use protection because there was no condom at home.

Hurriedly, she got up to order a fast delivery of birth control pills.

After breakfast, she contacted Taylor.

“You can hear them out and later claim that you’re not the decision–maker. Say that you have to refer to the founder before making a call,” Audrey informed.

“Got it.” The call with Taylor ended, and Audrey used another phone to call Shawn back.

Meeting The One For Me Chapter 206-Today was the delivery day. Nathan should be on hot bricks.

“It’s alright. You can meet them. Name a high figure. If they keep asking who you sold the formula to, just say that you gave it to your boss and that you’ll find out for them.

“Since they’re in a rush, you can demand a commission. You can demand however much you want. The money is yours.” Her tone was a tad playful.

The mention of getting a commission made Shawn smile. “Okay. I’ll do as you say.” A favor could only be done with a reward in return, and Audrey was very well aware of that.

"I'll send you a name list a while later. You can buy some time before giving it to them. Tell them that your boss had sold the formula to the companies on the list," she instructed.

"Okay. Don't worry, Ms. Yeomans." After terminating the call, she sent a name list to him and took a birth control pill.

Considering how her legs still felt like soft and weak, she figured that going outdoors was impossible today. She sat on the mat in the living room and watched all the experiment recordings.

Whenever it came to work, she would be engrossed in it.

Even when Ryan returned home at 6:00 pm, Audrey still remained in that sitting posture.

He wore slippers and took his coat off. Walking toward the couch, he stroked her head.

That surprised her. "Since when were you back home?" The word "home" coming from her elicited a smile from him.

He seated himself on the couch and planted a kiss on her forehead. "You didn't take the lozenges?" She cleared her throat. "I forgot." "What about lunch?" He asked again.

"I forgot about that too..." He looked at the recording for a brief moment. Based on the logo of the laboratory, the laboratory belonged to Evergreen Biotech.

No questions were asked, and he simply unbuttoned the cuffs and took his watch off. "You can continue your work for a while before we have dinner." "Dine out?" He flashed a smile and stood up. "Nope. We'll eat at home." Ryan washed his hands and wore the apron in the kitchen. Seeing this, Audrey couldn't help the smile on her face.

She refocused her attention to the recordings to observe how Jessica executed the experiment.

Until she smelled something nice, Audrey got up on her feet.

Due to the long hours of sitting with her legs crossed, her legs were paralyzed by a little numbness. She took a moment for herself before striding to the dining room.

Ryan made four dishes including soup. When Audrey was going to scoop rice for themselves, he already came out from the kitchen with two plates of rice.

“Wash your hands,” he prompted.

She sat on the mat in the living room to have a video call with Dallas and Lily.

“Mommy, Mr. Lambert Senior seems to be very angry today,” whispered Lily.

Baffled, Audrey asked, “Did something happen?” This was the first time she heard that George was livid from the kids.

Audrey’s stomach clenched as she turned to look in Ryan’s direction—the balcony.

Did he tell George about his plan to leave the Lambert family? Was that why George was all riled up?

“How’s Wandflower doing?” she asked.

Meeting The One For Me Chapter 207-Dallas narrated clearly, “Wandflower was worried that we might get scared, so she took us out for ice cream.

“Paige has worked here for so many years, but this is her first time seeing him this angry. Of course, aside from when Wandflower got into trouble.” Dallas leaned closely to the phone. “He skipped dinner too, and only drank some porridge when Wandflower and I brought it to him.” Audrey’s grip tightened around her phone. Uneasiness was shrouding around her like a cloak.

She reminded the kids, “Better behave these days. Don’t anger Mr. Lambert Senior, okay?”

“Don’t worry, Mommy. I’ll be a good girl!” Lily promised.

“Alright, you guys should go to bed now. Good night!” The video call ended, and Audrey looked at Ryan with pursed lips. He was still on the phone.

It took him a while before he noticed her gaze. He cast his gaze in her direction and wrapped up the call immediately.

“What’s the matter?” Ryan slid the door close.

“Did you tell Mr. Lambert Senior that you’re going to leave the family today?” Audrey questioned.

He sat behind her. Propping his elbow on his knees, he leaned toward her. “I’d have to tell him sooner or later, but I haven’t told him about us. Don’t worry.” “He’s... very livid.” “Yeah. After his birthday party, I’ll announce my departure from the family and the company,” he responded.

She spun around and met his eyes.

Her head was a mess and she felt uneasy. “Are you... going to Mythravia?” He caressed her cheek gently. “I will be away for some time, to return to my actual home.

There’s something I have to deal with.” “What about Lambert Corporation?”
2/2 His smile reached his eyes. “I will make sure everything is well-prepared. Plus, I’ll make Evergreen Biotech a formidable existence to Meplaria. I have faith in you. You’ll be able to manage Lambert Corporation well.” His finger traced its way to the corner of her lips as the silence sanked it. “As for our relationship, I need an answer before his birthday party.” “Are you not going to come back if I choose to divorce?” Her hunch kept telling her that this question was closely related to his future plans, which George was infuriated about.

Ryan’s deep eyes didn’t leave her for a second, and it was stirred with obsession.

His piercing gaze sent a chill down her spine.

A dangerous air seemed to be looming over him when he wasn't wearing glasses. Like the top predator, he was ready to hunt her down at any moment.

His fingers dug into her hair and his other hand squeezed her arm. With one pull from him, the kneeling Audrey fell into his embrace.

She pressed Ryan's legs for support as she looked at him. Her heart rate went wild.

"Do you wish for me to return? Or, like what Mr. Lambert Senior wants, to stay out of your lives for once and for all after leaving?" His voice was deep.

The expressionless man didn't like succumbing to his lustful desires. But when it came to Audrey, the beast in him had its eyes only on her, so obsessive that its character was twisted to some point.

As though cast by magic, he had a strong sense of possession over her.

After the frenzy point.

He desperately wished to chain her by his side forever, devouring her all day and night.

However, he was aware that she didn't like him back then. There was a long way for him to go.

Furthermore, before they slept together, he had gotten in touch with his biological father's former subordinate.

Ryan didn't want to expose Audrey to danger.

four After George sent Audrey away her.

No matter how much she cried and begged, he didn't let her go.

Like a greedy python from the profound depths of a forest, he devoured her and wanted more and more from her.

He couldn't bring himself to let her go anymore.

Thus, he was offering this last chance to her.

Returning to the Kingston family meant being exposed to more danger, and Ryan knew that.

If Audrey wanted a divorce, he would do anything in his power to rein in the beast in him.

Next, he would return to the world he belonged to, disappearing from their lives.

If Audrey was willing to stay with him, he wouldn't give her the chance to leave his side ever again.

What if it meant dragging her into an abyss? He wouldn't let her go either.

Meeting The One For Me Chapter 208-After the intimate night they shared four years ago, Ryan's desire for Audrey peaked at a frenzy point.

He desperately wished to chain her by his side forever, devouring her all day and night.

However, he was aware that she didn't like him back then. There was a long way for him to go.

Furthermore, before they slept together, he had gotten in touch with his biological father's former subordinate.

Ryan didn't want to expose Audrey to danger.

After George sent Audrey away four years ago, it took everything in Ryan to keep his rationality intact. He rebuilt a wall in his heart and restrained himself from looking for her.

Last night, when she wrapped her arms around his neck and confessed that she wanted more of him, he almost lost his mind.

No matter how much she cried and begged, he didn't let her go.

Like a greedy python from the profound depths of a forest, he devoured her and wanted more and more from her.

He couldn't bring himself to let her go anymore.

Thus, he was offering this last chance to her.

Returning to the Kingston family meant being exposed to more danger, and Ryan knew that.

If Audrey wanted a divorce, he would do anything in his power to rein in the beast in him.

There'd be necessary arrangements to ensure Audrey's and the kids' future well-being before he cut ties with them.

Next, he would return to the world he belonged to, disappearing from their lives.

If Audrey was willing to stay with him, he wouldn't give her the chance to leave his side ever again.

What if it meant dragging her into an abyss? He wouldn't let her go either.

Never.

Back to the present, Ryan's shrewd eyes were so forceful that she began to tear up.

"I'm scared... I'm scared that it'll hurt Mr. Lambert Senior and her." drawing closer to her.

Noticing his intention, she held her breath.

"Do you like me?" His lips brushed across hers, giving her a layer of goosebumps.

She reached out to shove him away, but he grabbed her hands and coiled them around him.

Her body inclined backward to avoid his advances, but he held her shoulders to cage her in his arms.

His lips crashed hers, sucking them. “Do you like how I kiss you?” Before she could answer, his tongue slid through her teeth into her mouth.

Holding the back of her head, he deepened the kiss.

Audrey thought that she was losing her soul to those fierce smooches.

Ryan’s lustful desire for her was never a whim. It was always there, driving him insane all the time.

Something in him screamed to cover her innocent eyes with his necktie. He wanted her to see how crazy he was for her.

He also wanted to tie her hands so that she couldn’t resist.

He didn’t want to miss the sight of her taking in his advances with her eyes shut.

Lecherous imaginations filled his head to the brim.

Forcefully, he pushed her onto himself. Veins across his arms, neck, and forehead popped over his skin.

A pitiless abyss was stirring in his eyes—a sign of him slowly losing his mind.

Before she was out of breath, Ryan finally spared her. He was panting heavily from the kiss.

Audrey, nestling in his arms, held his shoulders while taking deep breaths for air.

Dizziness swirled in her head as she heard his heavy breathing. Her eyelids fluttered like a butterfly.

Somehow, she felt that the man in front of her was a completely different person from the gentleman she knew.

His gaze was everything she needed to tell that he wanted to swallow her whole.

She had all the reasons to believe that she’d die in bed if she confessed to him right now.

His lustful eyes stared at her for a moment before he kissed her again while holding the back of her head.

Meeting The One For Me Chapter 209-Audrey suddenly lost the pull of gravity.

Ryan lifted and settled her onto his lap, pushing her closer to himself. Their lips didn't leave each other for even a second.

Something began to bulge against her butt. Feeling uneasy, she held his shoulders so that she could support herself instead of saddling on his lap.

She dodged his lips.

Her cheeks were flushed red and she couldn't calm down her heart.

Important notice: Dear readers, Please bookmark our new site: to continue reading the Novels. Thank you.Recommend: Clean Your Brower Cache now to access missing chapters.

Avoiding his gaze, she cleared her throat. "I—I still have work." He didn't respond to that. His adam's apple rolled and he tucked her hair strands behind her burning ears.

He planted a kiss over her ear, an attempt to break through her resistance.

In fact, no one knew how uneasy Ryan was.

Something in him believed that Audrey would choose to divorce in the end.

If that was the case, he wouldn't want to miss any opportunity to quench his desire now.

That was why he didn't give a fig about anything else other than plastering himself to her.

"Ryan..." Her fingers curled as they clung onto his shirt.

Her eyes were pooling with tears, and her choking voice tickled his chest. "I'm kinda scared of you." "Why?" His throat felt rough, as if they were sandpaper.

With her heart sprinting, she tried to ignore the embarrassment. "You're too fierce. I think... I'll die tonight." That was enough to make the walls of his rationality crumble.

Again, he kissed her deeply and hugged her tightly.

"I'll be very gentle," he murmured against her lips.

Hands lifting her butt, he cradled her to the bedroom without stopping the storm of kisses.

The door slammed shut and there began another sleepless night for the couple, Audrey woke up at noon the next day again.

Ryan wanted to sleep with her in his arms, but there were far too many things to settle because he was going to leave Lambert Corporation after the birthday party.

Last night, she did experience a gentle ministrations from him for the first time.

However, the gentleness was way too grinding and became a torture for her.

She touched her hurting lips and got up from bed.

Noticing a memo from Ryan atop the bedside table, she reached out to take it.

"I might be back late today. Remember to have your meals and don't stay up late tonight." Audrey fetched her phone to check the messages from Shawn..

Following that, she headed to the open kitchen to drink water.

Meeting The One For Me Chapter 210-Audrey replayed the experiment recordings again and again.

Jessica's hands were steady. She could carry out the experiments almost exactly the same as her previous attempts.

However, there were still problems with the data. Thus, Audrey had reasons to suspect that it had something to do with the apparatuses.

Audrey was determined to go outdoors today no matter what. There was only a week left before George's birthday party, and getting him a present was quite an urgent matter. Since he had all kinds of mystical collections, sincerity mattered the most.

A few days ago, she was on the phone with Jerry March, a prominent potter. He was going to release a new work these few days.

Important notice: Dear readers, Please bookmark our new site: to continue reading the Novels. Thank you. Recommend: Clean Your Brower Cache now to access missing chapters.

George loved pottery, so she decided to drop by Jerry's pottery studio to try her luck and see if his new collection was out or not.

As soon as she got changed, the doorbell rang.

Audrey went to check the surveillance footage. To her surprise, it was George and Edward!

Instinctively, she looked back to check the living room. It would be bad if Ryan had left his belongings there.

Her eyes scanned every corner. After making sure that there was nothing that belonged to him, she primped her hair and opened the door.

"Hi, Mr. Lambert Senior." She turned sideways to make way for George.

Yet, he stood at the doorstep, not intending to enter the house. "Sorry for stopping by without a call beforehand. Are you busy?" "No. Don't be sorry. It's fine." Audrey grinned. "Come on in." "I'll stay and wait for you here, sir." Edward smiled.

She nodded and grabbed a pair of new male slippers for George.

When he took a seat on the couch, she asked, "Anything you'd like for a drink? I don't have your favorite peppermint tea, though. How about ginger tea?" Thauts 210 U He seemed surprised that she still remembered his favorite. A smile beamed on his face." Sure. Thank you." As he watched her head to the kitchen to make tea for him, the fury in him slowly subsided. He was actually still angry at Ryan, but George cast his attention to Audrey's house.

It wasn't a huge place, but it was clean and tidy. It was enough for her to live alone.

His gaze landed on a button beside the desk and he paused momentarily.

Holding his cane, he headed over to pick it up.

A button from a male's shirt.

George gazed at Audrey, who was busy in the kitchen.

"Is she dating someone?" he wondered.

He placed it on the table with both his hands placed on top of the cane. A crease deepened between his brows.

If Audrey had a boyfriend...

"Thank you," he said.
