

Meeting The One For Me

Meeting The One For Me Chapter 291-George only had one daughter, Wanda. As such, he had extremely high expectations for her.

He had arranged many courses for her when she was very young, giving her all his love but also placing significant pressure on her.

Wanda wouldn't have been misled by Wilfred otherwise. The young girl believed her uncle who offered her an excuse to relax.

George wouldn't treat his two little great-grandchildren the same way he did with Wanda; he only hoped they could grow up happily, safely, and peacefully.

After escorting George upstairs, Audrey heard from Paige that Wanda had taken sleeping pills and gone to bed early today. She quietly went upstairs and pushed open Wanda's door to take a peek inside.

The night lamp outlined Wanda's sleeping profile. Audrey's eyes became moist, and she gently closed the door again.

Unbeknownst to Audrey, Paige was silently standing behind her.

Seeing Audrey's expression, Paige smiled. "I knew you'd be here. Don't worry.

Wanda has been doing well lately. Now with Dallas, Lily, and you by her side, Wanda will be even better in the future." Paige raised Wanda when she was still very young. Looking at Audrey now was like looking at a young Wanda.

How could Paige not feel affection?

Paige was holding the pajamas she had prepared for Audrey. She smiled and said, "I've already prepared the bathwater for you. Wanda personally chose these pajamas a while back "They've been washed and are ready to wear. Your toiletries and everyday clothes were chosen by Wanda, Dallas, and Lily together." "Thank you!" Audrey expressed her gratitude.

Seeing Audrey's appreciative expression, Paige's smile broadened.

“Although George doesn’t say it outright, I know that he actually hoped you’d live here.

“The incident where Wanda was frightened by the rope was simply an accident.

Wanda really likes you. Blood ties are a mysterious force; just seeing each other makes you feel fond.” Audrey tightly grasped the pajamas, feeling uncertain.

Her situation with Wanda was very special. She wasn’t born to Wanda in the usual way, in the excitement of a typical marriage. Although it happened when she was young, Audrey clearly remembered the hateful look in Wanda’s eyes.

If Wanda remembered the past, she might want Audrey to disappear from this world.

“I’ve watched your programs, Audrey, as well as your speeches in various competitions.” Paige’s eyes also reddened as she spoke.

“I watched your speech when you stood on the podium at the Olympic Games at 13. It was like seeing Wanda at 13, shining brightly!

“You’re definitely Wanda’s child. You’re so much like her not at all like the Yeomans family! You are a part of the Lambert family. Never doubt that.” After Paige finished speaking, she smiled and patted Audrey’s shoulder. She then turned and wiped away her tears before heading downstairs.

Audrey’s room in the residence was next to Ryan’s.

The two little ones had already washed up and changed into clean pajamas, sitting on the carpet in Audrey’s bedroom, playing card games with Ryan.

Ryan’s phone vibrated just then—it was a call from Daniel. He set down the cards in his hands and walked to the window.

“Hello?” “Ryan, the evidence has been found.” Daniel’s voice was heavy.

“Jim wasn’t lying, but the evidence is incomplete. What should we do now?

Should we hand the evidence over to the police, or keep it in our hands for now?” Ryan replied, “Keep the evidence for now.

Meeting The One For Me Chapter 292-“When are you leaving the Lambert family and coming back? My dad’s side is ready. As soon as you come back, we can take Henry down anytime!” Daniel added, “My side is also prepared. The car accident can be arranged immediately as long as you give us a date.” Ryan glanced at the two children still playing, his brows slightly furrowed. “Let’s wait until after I finish the handover at the Lambert Corporation. I’ve waited for so many years, I can wait a little longer.” Just as he finished speaking with Daniel, Audrey opened the door and entered.

“I’ll hang up now.” Ryan ended the call and saw Audrey holding the pajamas.

“Paige prepared them?” “Yes.” Audrey smiled and nodded. “It’s already late, you should rest early too.” “Can’t Daddy sleep with us?” Lily looked up, and her shiny black eyes blinked in confusion. “I want to sleep with Dallas and Daddy in the middle!” “I don’t want to!” Dallas poked Lily’s face with disdain. “Don’t forget, you have to call him Mr. Lambert in this house!” Lily felt a bit aggrieved, rubbing her chubby face. “Okay...” “It’s been a long time since you’ve seen the two children, you should rest early with them.” Ryan put his phone back in his pocket. “I’ll go to the study to check on Mr.

Lambert Senior.” “Okay.” Seeing Ryan leave, Lily immediately hugged Audrey’s leg. “Mommy! Can you help me and Dallas with something?” “What is it?” Audrey asked.

“We want to make pasta for Mr. Lambert Senior. The dough was already prepared today, and we rolled out a long strand with Wandflower.

Initially, Wandflower promised to cook the noodles with us, but she hasn’t been feeling well since this afternoon, so she took medicine to sleep early. The dough is still in the refrigerator,” Dallas said.

Even though it was already this late, this was the children’s heartfelt intention.

Audrey set down the pajamas in her hands and hugged the two children.

“Alright! Mommy will help you!” Ryan sat on the single couch in the study, watching George as he silently looked out the window.

“When you decided to adopt a child, you immediately chose me. The police convinced Professor Lambert to admit that I was his nephew and allowed you to adopt me. You did this to protect me—the Kingston family bloodline—from retaliation.

“So, a month later, I will arrange a car accident to make Ryan quietly disappear from this world, without implicating the Lambert family.” “Ryan, I’ve watched you grow up. As long as you don’t reveal your relationship with the Kingston family, who would know you’re part of their bloodline? You can still be my adopted son.” He continued, “All these years, you’ve taken good care of Audrey, and I’ve seen it all. Why are you unwilling to stay in the Lambert Corporation to help her now?” George sat at his desk and pulled a document from the drawer.

“This is my will. My shares, assets, and some properties both local and abroad, are and into three parts. One for Wanda, one for you, and one for Audrey.

“The antiques, calligraphy, and paintings I own will also be divided into three parts: for you, Audrey, and the two children.” “Give the portion that was originally meant for me to Audrey and the two children,” Ryan said without hesitation.

Seeing Ryan’s determination to leave, George closed his eyes and took a deep breath. “Is it really inevitable?” Ryan rested his elbows on his knees, clasping his hands tightly.

After a moment of silence, he spoke slowly with his head bowed, “I can’t forget the scene of my parents dying in front of me. My mother was trapped by the seatbelt, but she tried her hardest to undo mine. The harder she pulled, the tighter the seatbelt became.” Even now, whenever Ryan closed his eyes, he saw his parents desperately trying to save

Meeting The One For Me Chapter 292

Meeting The One For Me Chapter 292-“When are you leaving the Lambert family and coming back? My dad’s side is ready. As soon as you come back, we can take Henry down anytime!” Daniel added, “My side is also prepared. The car accident can be arranged immediately as long as you give us a date.” Ryan glanced at the two children still playing, his brows slightly furrowed. “Let’s wait until after I finish the handover at the Lambert Corporation. I’ve waited for so many years, I can wait a little longer.” Just as he finished speaking with Daniel, Audrey opened the door and entered.

“I’ll hang up now.” Ryan ended the call and saw Audrey holding the pajamas.

“Paige prepared them?” “Yes.” Audrey smiled and nodded. “It’s already late, you should rest early too.” “Can’t Daddy sleep with us?” Lily looked up, and her shiny black eyes blinked in confusion. “I want to sleep with Dallas and Daddy in the middle!” “I don’t want to!” Dallas poked Lily’s face with disdain. “Don’t forget, you have to call him Mr. Lambert in this house!” Lily felt a bit aggrieved, rubbing her chubby face. “Okay...” “It’s been a long time since you’ve seen the two children, you should rest early with them.” Ryan put his phone back in his pocket. “I’ll go to the study to check on Mr.

Lambert Senior.” “Okay.” Seeing Ryan leave, Lily immediately hugged Audrey’s leg. “Mommy! Can you help me and Dallas with something?” “What is it?” Audrey asked.

“We want to make pasta for Mr. Lambert Senior. The dough was already prepared today, and we rolled out a long strand with Wandflower.

Initially, Wandflower promised to cook the noodles with us, but she hasn’t been feeling well since this afternoon, so she took medicine to sleep early. The dough is still in the refrigerator,” Dallas said.

Even though it was already this late, this was the children’s heartfelt intention.

Audrey set down the pajamas in her hands and hugged the two children.

“Alright! Mommy will help you!” Ryan sat on the single couch in the study, watching George as he silently looked out the window.

“When you decided to adopt a child, you immediately chose me. The police convinced Professor Lambert to admit that I was his nephew and allowed you to adopt me. You did this to protect me—the Kingston family bloodline—from retaliation.

“So, a month later, I will arrange a car accident to make Ryan quietly disappear from this world, without implicating the Lambert family.” “Ryan, I’ve watched you grow up. As long as you don’t reveal your relationship with the Kingston family, who would know you’re part of their bloodline? You can still be my adopted son.” He continued, “All these years, you’ve taken good care of Audrey, and I’ve seen it all. Why are you unwilling to stay in the Lambert Corporation to help her now?” George sat at his desk and pulled a document from the drawer.

“This is my will. My shares, assets, and some properties both local and abroad, are and into three parts. One for Wanda, one for you, and one for Audrey.

“The antiques, calligraphy, and paintings I own will also be divided into three parts: for you, Audrey, and the two children.” “Give the portion that was originally meant for me to Audrey and the two children,” Ryan said without hesitation.

Seeing Ryan’s determination to leave, George closed his eyes and took a deep breath. “Is it really inevitable?” Ryan rested his elbows on his knees, clasping his hands tightly.

After a moment of silence, he spoke slowly with his head bowed, “I can’t forget the scene of my parents dying in front of me. My mother was trapped by the seatbelt, but she tried her hardest to undo mine. The harder she pulled, the tighter the seatbelt became.” Even now, whenever Ryan closed his eyes, he saw his parents desperately trying to save

Meeting The One For Me Chapter 293-“I understand.” George sighed again. “But Ryan, as a father myself... My greatest hope is for my children to live well, not to be burdened by hatred.” Previously, George had been unaware of why Ryan insisted on leaving the Lambert family.

Ryan then confessed his identity to George, explaining the hatred he carried.

Only then did George understand Ryan’s determination.

Ryan intended to seek revenge, but he didn’t want to involve the Lambert family.

That was why he planned to make Ryan disappear from this world through a car accident, returning the Lambert Corporation intact to the Lambert family.

“I’m doing it this way because I don’t want to implicate the Lambert family. And only when Ryan completely disappears can Audrey fully control the Lambert Corporation. The Lambert Corporation might split into factions otherwise.” George leaned on the desk. He hung his head low, sighing and unsure where to begin. advising.

Just then, George looked up after hearing a knock on the door. “Come in.” Audrey came in with a fresh plate of pasta.

Seeing Jerry’s artwork that she had gifted George in the most prominent position on the antique shelf, her eyes filled with even more warmth.

Dallas and Lily said they made this pasta with Mom today, and it was waiting to be cooked for you. But Mom got tired, so the dough ended up in the fridge. The two kids just finished cooking this with me, but they fell asleep right after.” The heavenly aroma of tomatoes and rosemary filled the air.

“You’re all so thoughtful!” George felt a warmth spread in his heart. He glanced at Ryan, still sitting on the couch. “Are you planning to tell Audrey?” Ryan sat up straight and said, “She knows.” George was surprised; he hadn’t expected Audrey to know even before he did.

“You knew that Ryan isn’t the nephew of your fake grandfather?” Audrey glanced at Ryan and nodded. She had known ever since Ryan told her his real Chapter 293 name was Matthew.

“Alright. Since you already know, familiarize yourself with the operations of the Lambert Corporation as soon as possible. My stamina is not as good as it used to be, so you’ll have to prepare yourself,” George said, sighing again.

Anyone would feel heavy–hearted to lose such an outstanding son.

“I will help Audrey take over as soon as possible,” Ryan said.

George looked at Audrey. “Tomorrow, I’ll take you and Audrey to the company to get familiarized immediately. Any questions?” Audrey was already prepared and nodded. “None.” Ryan and Audrey walked out of George’s study together.

Audrey then asked, "How long before you leave the Lambert family?" "At most a month." He walked with Audrey to the bedroom. "So during this time, we'll be spending more time together, and there will be a lot of things to hand over. After I leave, Julian will be under you."

Meeting The One For Me Chapter 294-After escorting Audrey to the bedroom door, Ryan's gaze lingered on the corner Mindful of being in the family residence, he refrained from kissing her and simply said, Rest well. We'll be busy starting tomorrow." Audrey nodded and stepped inside. "Okay then, goodnight. You should rest early too." As soon as she finished speaking, Ryan suddenly pushed her inside and joined her in the room. He seized the back of Audrey's head, kissing her.

The door was open, and they were in Lambert Residence. Audrey's eyes widened in panic, attempting to push him away.

The kiss was brief.

He lowered his head to look at Audrey, whose ears were now bright red, and murmured, Goodnight." "There's surveillance in the hallway!" Audrey's heart raced, fearing being discovered by George.

Since getting Wanda back, surveillance cameras had been installed throughout the corridors.

This was partly because George feared Wanda might disappear again. It was also out of concern for Wanda's mental state in case anything happened.

"The surveillance cameras on the second floor encountered a problem this afternoon. The technician won't be able to fix it until tomorrow." Ryan then stepped out of the bedroom. "See you tomorrow morning."

Audrey held onto the door tightly, nodding. "See you tomorrow morning." Closing the door behind her, Audrey saw the two sleeping children on the bed.

She kissed each of them on the cheek before taking her pajamas and heading to the bathroom to freshen up.

Then she lay down, embracing the two children.

Chapter 294 2/2 The next day, Audrey changed into professional attire. She wore a white blouse with a black collar under a knee-length black fitted dress.

Around her neck was a simple diamond necklace. On her wrist, she wore a leather strap diamond watch, exuding competence and elegance.

With her slender figure, Audrey particularly stood out in high heels, emanating a strong sense of authority.

When Audrey and Ryan appeared together at the entrance of the Lambert Corporation building, it stirred discussions among the employees arriving for work.

Watching the two of them enter the CEO's private elevator, followed by Julian, Yvonne, and Peter, some nosy employees cautiously snapped photos with their phones and shared them in the work group chat.

"Oh my God, who's that next to Mr. Lambert? Did Julian get fired? Did Mr.

Lambert get a new assistant?" "I don't know if you guys saw the news yesterday. It said that Mr. Lambert Senior announced his granddaughter's return at the banquet. It might be his granddaughter!" "But many media outlets also reported that Mr. Lambert brought a woman who's not his fiancée to the banquet yesterday. Maybe that's her." "It might be the same person!" Countless work groups at the Lambert Corporation exploded with excitement because of the photo showing Ryan and Audrey together.

"Latest news! The technical equipment for the Vice Chairman's office, which Julian had arranged, has already been installed. The computers are being tested as well. The staff for the Vice Chairman's secretariat are also in place.

The Vice Chairman is coming!" "It's definitely Mr. Lambert Senior's granddaughter!"

Meeting The One For Me Chapter 295-Noal walked into the building with a cup of coffee and glanced at the work group chat.

His eyebrows raised slightly. He casually took a screenshot and sent it to Lyra before heading toward the elevator.

Meanwhile, Lyra was sitting opposite Nathan. She placed her phone on the table after seeing the screenshot of the group chat.

“Back when you divorced Audrey, you probably didn’t even know she had two children! Audrey, a cunning woman who drugged you and slept with you. Don’t you think she’s hiding the children to compete for the family fortune with you and Ms. Doyle’s children?”

“Not to mention, since she’s your ex–wife, her two children technically aren’t illegitimate. Mr. Franklin, you probably don’t want to cause trouble for Ms. Doyle, do you?” Nathan’s expression remained cold as he stared at Lyra. “So, what do you want me to do with you?” “Those two children must not stay in the Lambert family no matter what. I can help lure them out and hand them over to you. They are your children; you can do whatever you want with them.

“But those two children can never return to the Lambert family.” Lyra smiled.

“After all, you’re the father of the children. Even if you take them away, no one can say anything about it!” Lyra heard that those two children had George and Wanda wrapped around their little fingers. This was especially the case for Wanda, who couldn’t bear to be separated for even a moment.

She specifically inquired with George’s lawyer’s assistant and learned that he had included provisions for those two children in his will, which made Lyra incredibly jealous.

She was George’s blood–related niece, and she got nothing, while the illegitimate children Audrey had given birth to could inherit the Lambert family’s wealth.

George had instructed Wilfred to leave the country, only for Wilfred to be arrested by the police in a hotel shortly afterward.

Lyra didn’t know if this was George’s intention or if Ryan was behind it.

Regardless of Wilfred’s fate, she had to do everything in her power to reclaim what rightfully belonged.

to her.

Nathan was about to respond to Lyra when his phone rang.

Seeing that it was a call from Edmond, Nathan answered, "Hello?" "Mr. Franklin, something terrible has happened! Someone from Evergreen Biotech called to question why two other companies are producing drugs for Alzheimer's disease. using Evergreen Biotech's formula!"

"I checked, and when we retrieved the formula, the two companies were missing from the list!" Edmond's voice trembled as he spoke.

"According to the guarantee we signed during the settlement with Evergreen Biotech a few days ago, we'll have to compensate over three million for failing to fully retrieve the leaked formula!" Nathan stood up abruptly. "Have you contacted Mr. Campbell?" "Mr. Campbell is furious right now and refuses to take any calls. I asked his assistant, and I heard that Mr. Campbell was in a panic, trying to explain to the founder.

"The founder originally didn't want to cooperate with Franklin Corporation, but because Mr. Campbell was willing to give us a chance, they reluctantly agreed to it. Now that we've made a mistake, Mr. Campbell is afraid of losing his job." "I'm heading to Evergreen Biotech now. Let's meet in front of the Evergreen Biotech building." Lyra raised an eyebrow at the mention of Evergreen Biotech.

After ending the call, Nathan looked at Lyra with contempt.

He feared that if he outright refused her, this crazy woman might do something to the two children.

He said, "I have something urgent to attend to right now. We'll talk about this later. Until then, don't you dare do anything to the two children. Trust me, you'll regret it if you do."

Meeting The One For Me Chapter 296-Lyra nodded. "I didn't expect you to care so much about those two children." "Of course, they're my children!" Nathan replied, grabbing his phone and preparing to leave.

"Is there another problem with Evergreen Biotech? I know the person in charge of Evergreen Biotech's Cascadia region, Taylor, and also..." Lyra paused here, and she picked up her coffee cup. "I'm quite familiar with the founder of Evergreen Biotech. I can assist if you need any help. You should know that Taylor was also invited to my uncle's birthday banquet." Hearing

Lyra mention her relationship with the founder of Evergreen Biotech, Nathan's grip on his phone tightened.

But considering the woman before him had malicious intentions, he said, "We'll talk about it if necessary." Lyra watched Nathan's departing figure with a cold smirk.

Anyone would naturally feel close to those who shared their blood—except for George, who was simply confused and couldn't distinguish between family and outsiders.

Lyra picked up her bag and headed outside, dialing Noah's number. "Have you arranged the mid-year report meeting for the board of directors at 10:00 am?"

"Don't worry," Noah replied nonchalantly. "You've spent so much money buying shares from us, totaling exactly ten percent. You can attend! But we agreed, once you secure the position of Chief Financial Officer at Lambert Corporation, you'll give me five percent of shares." Lyra smirked. "Are you still worried I'll break our written agreement?" At 9:00 am, Ryan introduced Audrey during the weekly morning meeting.

Audrey quickly transitioned into work mode. After briefly standing up to introduce herself as Audrey Lambert, she got down to business.

"I've reviewed the market analysis and sales strategies presented by the Electronics Department and the Sales Department last week. There's a point I'd like to address." Sitting to Ryan's right, Audrey spoke at a moderate pace, enunciating clearly.

Based on the analysis from the Marketing Department and the latest research reports, she refuted the sales strategies proposed by the Sales Department.

Audrey proposed a higher budget and requested that the Sales Department collaborate with the Marketing Department to revise the strategy.

She emphasized using emotional appeal as the main focus—along with local collaboration—to launch a Domestic Brands Cultural Festival.

She insisted that all brands under the Lambert Corporation participate and, if possible, involve other domestic brands as well.

“The current enthusiasm for domestic brands is not yet high, but it’s steadily increasing. Leading this wave of joint efforts among domestic brands is the most appropriate for Lambert Corporation. We can create a national trend.” The Director of the Marketing Department responded quickly, “We can have the proposal ready within three days, and our department will contact other traditional domestic brands right after the meeting.” me to my office.

After the meeting adjourned, Ryan stood up and gestured to Audrey. “Come to “Okay,” Audrey replied, handing her belongings to her assistant.

As the Marketing and Sales directors exited the meeting room, they commented, “Ms. Lambert’s market insight is impressive! Ever since she returned from Meplaria and successfully developed her own product, I knew she would lead the trend of domestic manufacturing and brands.

“I mentioned utilizing this trend over dinner before, but you didn’t believe me.” The Sales Director frowned. “I actually quite liked the product—proposed by our Electronics Department. The required budget isn’t too high, but Ms. Lambert just wants to make a big splash as a newcomer! Her enthusiasm is directed mostly at our two departments.” Once inside the office, Audrey watched as Ryan instructed Julian, “Make sure no one comes in.” “Understood!” Julian responded.

As soon as Julian closed the door, Audrey was pulled into Ryan’s embrace as he stood. leaning against the edge of the large desk.

Meeting The One For Me Chapter 297-Audrey could see the intense emotions in Ryan’s eyes; emotions he couldn’t express verbally despite his stern and serious demeanor.

With her hands resting on Ryan’s chest, Audrey felt her ears flush under his intense gaze. “What’s wrong?” she asked.

Ryan tucked Audrey’s stray hair behind her ear, his voice carrying a strong and dangerously possessive tone. “I’m struggling to restrain myself.” “What?” Audrey was a bit confused.

“I can tolerate others admiring you, but I don’t like it when they covet you or challenge you with their gaze.” He could tolerate it before Audrey expressed her feelings for him.

However, after Audrey agreed to continue their marital relationship, and he explicitly told Audrey how possessive and intense his feelings for her were, Audrey did not reject him. Instead, her eyes seemed bright and even joyful.

Ryan was aware that his protective, possessive, and controlling instincts toward Audrey seemed to grow more with each day, especially with Audrey's indulgence.

The wild beast inside him was evolving into an uncontrollable monster.

During the morning meeting just now, the gazes of Lambert Corporation's executives toward Audrey irritated Ryan.

Especially when he saw someone faking respect with a hint of malice in their eyes, he wanted to smash that person's head into the meeting table, making everyone in the conference room unable to disrespect her.

He had even entertained the idea of confining Audrey and possessing her completely. He would have done it if Audrey had rejected him.

He had admitted to Audrey that he harbored an intense and dangerously possessive desire toward her, along with filthy and sacrilegious fantasies.

He had even entertained absurd and terrifying thoughts, such as trapping Audrey so she could only see and hear him—forcing her to love him.

Audrey's clear-eyed gaze met Ryan's, then her arms wrapped around his waist.

She looked up at Ryan with an innocent smile. "But you can't just lock me away and keep me from seeing anyone, can you?" Ryan remained silent, his eyes deeply fixed on Audrey as his fingers ran through her long hair.

Yes, he did have such thoughts. But he knew he couldn't act on them.

He knew that Audrey should shine brightly like a dazzling pearl, not be trapped by his filthy desires.

Loving someone meant being selfless and disregarding irrational possessiveness.

Meeting The One For Me Chapter 298-Though Ryan struggled to control his emotions, he was willing to suppress them as much as possible.

Earlier, Ryan truly wished to eliminate all those who showed interest in Audrey during the meeting.

Their eyes locked. Their proximity was so close that their breaths entwined.

His finger grazed her lips. He slowly lowered his head, intending to kiss her.

Sensing Ryan's intention, Audrey's breath quickened.

As he drew closer, her scalp tingled. And the instant his nose touched hers, her breath seemed to halt.

Her eyelashes trembled incessantly as if electric currents were passing through her.

Ryan lightly kissed Audrey's lips, observing the expression on her fair and lovely face. Between breaths, a faint scent lingered around Audrey, intoxicating and sweet.

He parted Audrey's lips, deepening the kiss, his breath becoming heavier.

Audrey struggled to respond to his passionate kiss with her head tilted back, her eyes misty and the corners reddening from the kiss. Her lips were swollen red and alluring.

Ryan swallowed hard, unable to resist any longer.

He lifted Audrey and sat her on the large desk. He removed his glasses and kissed her roughly, almost losing control as he plundered all her breath, sucking her tongue until it ached.

Audrey's slender arms trembled as she leaned back, exposing her pulsating neck. Her only anchor was Ryan's hand wrapped around her neck, lest she be overwhelmed and land on her back.

She couldn't quite describe it, but she enjoyed being intimate with Ryan—to the point of being somewhat addicted.

Even during meetings, her heart would race involuntarily when their eyes met.

She longed to grasp his strong hand, embrace him, and kiss him.

This was probably just physical attraction.

Chapter 208 It was as if she was driven by a pure desire to be close to Ryan; her heart had an indescribable flutter.

So when Ryan asked her to come to the office, she eagerly followed.

Ryan's intense and undisguised possessiveness made Audrey feel a dizzying, paralyzing sensation. It sent a shiver down her spine.

Even though she knew they were in the office and worried that Julian might enter at any moment, she couldn't resist the temptation to kiss Ryan.

The sense of danger and urgency made her senses even more acute. And because of Ryan's fervent, almost savage kisses, her heart raced incessantly, plunging her into uncontrollable excitement.

Though she was already struggling to cope, she still wanted more and tried even harder to please Ryan.

Just before Audrey was about to lose all strength, Ryan finally released her lips.

Audrey's eyes couldn't focus, and she was gasping large breaths of air.

Ryan's throat rolled, trying his best to fight the urge. Although he now wished he could devour Audrey whole, they were still in the office.

He wiped away the saliva from the corner of Audrey's lips, and his breath was also heavy.

He whispered, "Don't go back to Mr. Lambert Senior's place tonight. Let's go to Autumnvale."

Meeting The One For Me Chapter 299-Audrey could not resist Ryan's persuasion and nodded absentmindedly.

It wasn't until Ryan helped her tidy up her clothes and Julian knocked on the door that Audrey realized what she had just agreed to.

"Mr. Lambert, Ms. Lambert, the mid-year reporting meeting is about to start. It's also been reported that Ms. Lyra has arrived." Julian's eyebrows furrowed slightly. "She was brought in by Mr. Noah, claiming to attend the board meeting." Audrey's current identity was Audrey Lambert, George's granddaughter "There's another matter." Julian spread out the folder on the large desk. "Mr.

Wilfred has already transferred all his shares to Ms. Lyra, and she has obtained ten percent of the shares by targeting other directors and their children. She's fully qualified to participate in today's mid-year reporting meeting." Ryan glanced briefly at the documents and handed them to Audrey.

After Audrey finished reading, she asked, "Has Wilfred been taken to the police station?" "He's already there. The household staff he bribed to poison Mr. Lambert Senior has provided evidence to the police. The Legal Department has also confirmed that the attempted murder case can be pursued.

"I've already sent someone to investigate whom Ms. Lyra has been in contact with among the other directors privately. Still, we couldn't get it done before this mid-year reporting meeting." "No need. Since Lyra is here herself, she must have some plan. We'll see which directors support her later, then we'll know who among them have connections with her." Audrey placed the documents on the large desk and looked at Ryan.

"With Grandpa and Mom's shares combined, they hold more than 57 percent.

She won't be able to stir up much trouble." As soon as she finished speaking, Taylor's call came through.

Audrey answered, "Hello?" "As you expected, Nathan came in person. It seems the two companies weren't on the list given by the casino, but it was their own negligence that caused this.

They hope to resolve it privately." Taylor's voice carried a nonchalant tone.

“Should I play with him a bits “No need. There’s no point wasting time on irrelevant people. Let’s go through the legal procedures directly and have the Legal Department apply for asset preservation.” Audrey’s voice remained calm.

“Prepare the contract for cooperation with the Lambert Corporation.” As long as they applied for asset preservation, freezing and seizing Franklin Group’s liquid assets, they could effectively force Franklin Group into bankruptcy.

“Don’t worry, we’ve already contacted the people from the Lambert Corporation.

Evergreen Biotech is currently reviewing the cooperation project proposal you sent.

“I’ll be going to the Lambert Corporation this afternoon to speak with their people. But remember, boss, we agreed that each of us would do our own part.

Although you’re our founder, you’re currently working at the Lambert Corporation.

“I have to take responsibility for Evergreen Biotech, and I won’t let Lambert Corporation take advantage of us.” Had the Lambert Corporation’s people already contacted Evergreen Biotech?

Audrey remembered that Ryan had suppressed Evergreen Biotech’s intention to cooperate, wanting exclusive rights for collaboration with Evergreen Biotech for the next few years.

Audrey had temporarily put it on hold because she intended to use the Alzheimer’s drug formula to deal with the Franklin Group.

Why did the Lambert Corporation suddenly contact Evergreen Biotech again?

Audrey didn’t say much else over the phone. She simply replied, “Don’t worry, let’s follow the normal procedures.” After ending the call, Julian reminded her, “It’s almost time.” “Let’s go,” Audrey said with a gentle smile.

At George’s birthday banquet yesterday, he introduced Audrey to the other directors, and they all promised to take good care of her.

It remained to be seen which directors would stand by Audrey and who would side with

Meeting The One For Me Chapter 300-Ryan's fingers tapped on the document folder that Julian had given him.

Chester indulged his incompetent son, Noah because he was his only son, Would Chester still indulge him if he knew that this temperamental and incapable Noah was illegitimate?

Inside the conference room, Lyra, who arrived first, greeted the prominent directors under the identity of George's niece.

The directors previously didn't pay much attention to Wilfred, let alone his daughter, but Lyra's possession of ten percent of the shares was a different matter.

Chester was currently reprimanding his son, Noah, on the side. "What gave you the guts to sell two percent of your shares to Lyra?" "Dad, how can you say that? Lyra is a true member of the Lambert family, unlike those two outsiders, Ryan and Audrey. What if Lyra ends up being the heir of the Lambert family in the end?" Noah shrugged with his hands in his pockets, looking like he had everything under control.

"You can support those two fake Lambert family members all you want, but I support the real one. No matter who ascends to the throne in the end, our family will benefit greatly from it." Before Chester could say anything else, Noah saw Ryan and Audrey coming out of the elevator. He hurriedly said, "Dad, I'm going back first! I'm not qualified to attend your executive directors' mid-year reporting meeting." "Come back for dinner tonight!" Chester frowned and shouted after him.

"Got it." Noah made an OK gesture and hurriedly took the elevator down from the other side of the floor.

Seeing Ryan and Audrey entering the conference room, Lyra raised her eyebrows, wearing a confident smile. She appeared nonchalant as she sat at the far end of the long table.

Since George hadn't yet arrived, the central seat was left vacant, and Audrey and Ryan sat on the left side.

Chapter 300 Lyra deliberately glanced provocatively in the direction of Ryan and Audrey as if she wanted them to ask her why she was there.

However, Julian was already standing before the large screen, starting the year's mid-year reporting.

Ryan and Audrey didn't show any intention of questioning Lyra's presence.

"Now, let's begin with this year's mid-year reporting. Over the past six months, with Lambert Corporation's breakthroughs in chips and lithography machines, the annual business revenue of each subsidiary of Lambert Corporation has increased by over 300% compared to last year." Julian stepped aside to reveal the projection screen, which displayed the annual growth of each subsidiary of the Lambert Corporation.

"Among them, the growth rate of the Sheysea subsidiary reached 368%." Audrey and the other directors lowered their heads to examine the detailed information in their hands.

Julian systematically went through the situation of each subsidiary over the past six months, as well as the tasks and goals for the second half of the year. He then started to narrate the situation of each subsidiary.

Although the Lambert Corporation primarily focused on high-end technology such as drones, satellite communications, chips, lithography machines, and electronic products, its subsidiaries were involved in various industries.

Whether it was the pharmaceutical or cultural and film industry, the presence of the Lambert Corporation could be seen everywhere.

Even with Julian's concise overview, it still took over two hours to go through all the subsidiaries' data.

"While it's true that the medical and pharmaceutical sectors have achieved good results in the past six months, considering the overall environment in recent years, the sales performance in this sector seems somewhat inadequate.

“Perhaps, it’s time to consider replacing the person in charge of the medical and pharmaceutical sector,” a director spoke up.

Audrey looked up at the director who spoke.

This director’s name was Wallace Harrington. Audrey had seen his information but didn’t recall seeing him at George’s birthday banquet.

Another director chimed in, setting the stage for Wallace. “It seems Mr.

Harrington already has some ideas?”