

Meeting The One For Me

Meeting The One For Me Chapter 51-“Yeomans spread rumors to force abandoned daughter to marry a cripple for a wedding gift of 30 thousand dollars.” Viewership numbers of the “Looking For Family” program had risen quite steadily. When Ian invited Audrey onstage, the ratings skyrocketed.

On the screen, Audrey gripped the microphone and spoke slowly, “I heard what the Yeomanses said when I was backstage earlier. Mrs. Yeomans said she had been kind to the so-called daughter-in-law she bought for 30 thousand dollars.

“She claimed to have fed my biological mother when she was unwell, but she didn’t mention that Wayne had beaten my mother so badly that she was unable to feed herself.” at home, and Dad ever laid a finger on her! Audrey, you can’t be so unconscionable as to slander Dad!” along with faceless photos of a wretched body covered in scars.

Audrey explained, “This is the injury report that Mr. Lambert asked the hospital to issue after my mother escaped from Sayeno Town before she died.” Red lines marked the key points of the injury report.

“Big and small, new and old injuries were visible. There were 28 fractures around the body, and small pieces of the skull were also missing.” Audrey continued, “This picture was taken by the police. This is where my mother was imprisoned by the Yeomans family.” She looked up at the big screen.

The damp and moldy basement had been photographed when the police filed a case years ago. Inside stood a blood-stained bed and iron chains, as well as bloody marks when Wanda had scratched the walls. It was a gruesome sight to behold.

Audrey divulged, “My mother was abducted to Sayeno Town when she was 16 years old. She gave birth to me at 17. During her imprisonment, she was continuously forced to conceive and give birth.

“Whenever the baby was a girl, the midwife in Sayeno Town would throw her onto the floor or scald her to death with boiling water. She did this before me and my mother every time, without exception.

Because of this, my mother lost her mind.” According to the story that the Lambert family had fashioned for Wanda, she had been abducted at the age of 16. But in fact, Wanda had been abducted when she was 15 and had given birth to her first child, Audrey, by 16.

“My mother was trapped in a living hell for over ten years until the end of her life.” Audrey clutched the microphone tightly.

“Everyone in the Yeomans family is a devil who tortured my mother in hell. That of my mother!

“The evidence of sin itself is innocent, but sin is sin. If we still have a conscience, we should never disturb the victim’s father, Mr. Lambert, for the rest of our lives, whatever reason there may be. Unless the so-called family reunion comes with ulterior motives, such as coveting Mr. Lambert’s property.” Daphne watched as Audrey calmly recounted the past on the screen. She looked at Audrey with disbelief as she spooned food onto her plate.

“Before the recording of today’s program, Mr. Turner suggested that I hand over the phone recording to the production team without revealing my identity so as not to cause trouble in the future.

“But I know if I hadn’t shown up, the Yeomanses would disclose my information and spread false sexual rumors about me after the program is broadcast.

crazy, four committed suicide, and seven died in childbirth.

“Ever since I can remember, whenever my mother went into labor, I was taken to the basement of her imprisonment, then beaten and abused.

“The Yeomanses believe a daughter’s misery could scare any girl from wanting to be born into the Yeomans family. The burns on my body are from that time.”

Meeting The One For Me Chapter 52-Audrey unzipped her jacket, revealing her thin, bony body in a vest. “The only reason I survived was so I could scare other girls who were born.” Nobody could imagine that Audrey had so many hideous scars on her body under such a beautiful face.

Keyboard warriors, who had seen Audrey’s nude photos and mocked her as a masochist and bitch, fell silent.

The photos on the big screen changed again, showing a little girl with a dirty face, brittle hair, and at skinny body full of terrible injuries. However, her eyes were bright.

The scars on Audrey’s body and the fresh, bloody wounds on the little girl in the photo created a huge visual impact.

“This was me when I escaped Sayeno Town with my mother.” Audrey glanced at the screen.

She continued calmly, “At the time, because my mother had given birth to girls consecutively, the Yeomanses started inserting steel needles into my body when my mother was pregnant for the ninth and last time.

“There were a total of 29 steel needles in my body by the time I escaped. The Yeomanses reckoned this was the only way to deter female fetuses.” Audrey’s words sent a shiver down the audience’s spine. She calmly zipped up her down jacket.

“Ridiculously, although he was a buyer of human trafficking and an abuser of abducted women, Wayne was safe and sound! He went to jail for killing six newborn baby girls but was released after only seven years in prison.

“More than ten years later, the maximum sentence for a buyer in human trafficking today is only three years. For the purchase and sale of protected animals, the buyer and seller are jointly sentenced, starting from ten years, and a maximum life sentence. Even for parrots, the buyer and seller are jointly sentenced!

“When it comes to human trafficking, buyers and sellers are typical joint offenders. How can a buyer “It’s and the longest-term abuser be let off with such a light sentence?” Audrey added loudly because there’s been a custom of buying and selling people in our country for decades!” “On today’s program, I hope to call attention to the unreasonable sentences regarding human trafficking.” Audrey’s eyes were calm as she finally said what she’d wanted to say most.

“To crack down on human trafficking, we must first curb the buyers. The market for sellers thrives because the penalty for buyers is too light! Only by raising the buyer penalty to an intimidating level can human trafficking be reduced! If there is no demand, there won’t be crime!” “Well said!” Daphne cheered. She stood up with damp eyes, clapping vigorously.

She turned to look at Audrey, who had a smile on her face. She never knew her colleague was such a mentally strong person.

So this was why Audrey had to go on the program!

The restaurant’s guests also applauded.

Azure smiled, her eyes brimming with tears. She stroked Harper’s head and squeezed Audrey’s shoulder.

The camera swept across the audience in the studio. Everyone was teary as they applauded thunderously.

If she was as brave and strong as Audrey, her mother could rest in peace!
about her.

“Looking For Family” was not over yet.

While she was in the coma for two years, Audrey had the same dream. In her dream, she wanted to return to the past to save her mother and take her away from Sayeno Town.

Even if that meant she wouldn’t have been born, all she wanted was to save her mother.

Meeting The One For Me Chapter 53-It was because she loved her mother very, very much.

Even though my mother has passed away, I want to tell her I’m living a good life now. Although she th me, Aunt Anne takes good care of me and gives me motherly love like a biological mother. I’m content!

“I hope my mother can forget me in her afterlife. By forgetting me, she can forget everything in that living hell and remember only the memory of a beautiful world.” This was what she wanted to say to her mother. Audrey bowed and wiped off her tears, then handed the microphone back to the staff.

“Audrey, you ingrate! I should have smashed you to death when you were born!” Donna rushed toward Audrey with a vicious look but was stopped by the staff.

With a solemn expression, Ian held the microphone and spoke in front of the camera, “No demand, no crime! I admire Ms. Yeomans’s courage.

“After I received the information and learned the whole story today, I went to meet Ms. Yeomans in the dressing room.

“She told me she chose to stand on this stage today because her power alone was too meager. She hoped to call attention to the unreasonable sentences of human trafficking through this program. If the sentencing can be changed, it will certainly greatly reduce the occurrence of human trafficking!” The Yeomanses who were stopped by the staff struggled and wriggled, trying to fight. Constant swearing rang out.

Ian stood in the center of the screen, making his statement for this episode.

In the restaurant, fellow seniors all turned to look at Audrey and Harper.

The usually emotional Daphne couldn’t hold back her tears. “Audrey, boo—hoo...” Before she could utter “What a pitiful experience you had,” Justin covered her mouth.

He quickly served some meat to Audrey and Harper. “You two sisters should eat more! Look how thin you are.” “That’s right, you’re too thin!” “This is delicious! Audrey, Harper, here, eat more meat.” Everyone picked up their utensils and put dishes on Audrey’s and Harper’s plates.

“Thank you.” Audrey smiled.

By the time Audrey and Harper emerged from the shower back in the dormitory, the trending topics on Twitter had been dominated by this program.

“Trafficking reality is scarier than in the movies.”

“Human trafficking buyer’s sentences.”

Harper raised the phone in front of Audrey for her to see.

Meeting The One For Me Chapter 54-Audrey's eyes were moist when she saw the topic trending. After all, she had appeared on "Looking For Family" just to increase the sentencing of trafficking buyers with the program's influence.

Meanwhile, videos of Audrey's speech calling attention to human trafficking every time she won an award in recent years surfaced on the Internet.

Someone had also dug out all the news on her donation of every winning prize to the fund for searching for abductees since junior high school.

This also proved that she wasn't putting on a show.

Ravioli: "Human trafficking buyer's sentences." "It's likely because her mother has been through it that she wants to give a hand to others in the same boat, no matter how difficult it is!" FlowerCat: "Trafficking buyers should be given heavier sentences. No demand, no crime!" "I cried my heart out! This lady has been working to call attention to human trafficking since she was young!" BitterCow: "Human trafficking buyer's sentences." "This young lady insists on calling attention to human trafficking, probably because she wishes to save her mother!

"Maybe she has thought countless times that if the buyer's sentences could have been increased back then, her mother might not have been abducted, leaving her family in tears!" CloudHeaven: "Trafficking buyers should be given heavier sentences. No demand, no crime!" "Everybody, please attach the topic when you forward it. Let's boost the subject so that more people can see it!" FreeOrangeThousand Postage: "Trafficking buyers should be given heavier sentences. No demand, no crime!" "Oh my, her acceptance speech for the first gold medal in the Olympic Games was to call attention to human trafficking. What a peerless beauty, pitiful yet strong!" The Yeomanses also received tons of criticism.

LyingFlat: "Shocking recording! Coveting grandfather's property in the name of looking for mother." "Fuck, what a calculating family! After killing someone else's daughter, they even covet her family property. How could there be such filthy swine?" CrazyYou: "Spread rumors to force abandoned daughter to marry a cripple for a wedding gift of 30 Chart thousand dollars." 2/2
"Nowadays the Internet is so developed that one can be angered without even leaving home! What kind of monsters are those in Sayeno Town?' Right now, anyone who dared attack Audrey with the scandal at Sheysea University again would soon be silenced by netizens who were angry with the Yeomanses.

LittleGirlBigLove: "Sheysea University's Audrey drugged a man to sleep with her." "I don't believe a young lady like her would do such a thing as drugging a man to sleep with her!"

"The man has already issued a letter of apology. Why do so many people still not believe the rumors and insist on twisting it into a conspiracy?"

man who gets hurt?

"Whenever sexual rumors are spread, or a scandal occurs, why is it always the wom Harper hugged Audrey. Seeing tears in Audrey's eyes, she signed to Audrey.

Audrey nodded. "Yes!" In the early morning, George sat on the couch in his study at the Lambert Residence, watching the program on his tablet.

Despite turning the tablet's volume low, he could clearly hear every word Audrey uttered.

After a while, George removed his glasses and covered his eyes.

Although he was unwilling to admit it, he realized Audrey had hyped this program for the sake of saving more women like Wanda!

Thud! Thud!

Meeting The One For Me Chapter 55-Hearing the knock on the door, George locked the tablet screen and put on his glasses. "What's the matter?" "Mr. Lambert, it's getting late. You should rest." Paige opened the study door a crack, reminding quietly, "Tomorrow morning, Dr. Hoffman will come over to do a checkup for you and Ryan." "Okay, I heard you." George turned to tell Paige, "Good night!" Nathan was also sleepless tonight.

He had been discharged from the hospital and returned to the Franklin Residence.

He knew that the second episode of “Looking For Family” was broadcasting tonight and that Audrey had gone on the program.

During the broadcast of the program, he had been video chatting with Amelia, accompanying her to memorize her script.

After Amelia switched off the lights and went to bed, Nathan couldn't help but click on the video.

He didn't expect Audrey to say such words on the second episode of the program.

Nathan saw videos of Audrey's award-winning speeches during school in the trending topics and comments section.

In the videos, the young face with a high ponytail in his memory was full of vitality as she called attention to human trafficking and called for an increase in the buyer's sentence.

Both her native and foreign speeches were eloquent. Audrey shone on the podium, sonorous and firm.

Nathan finally understood why Audrey had such a big reaction when he had called her “Autrey” that day and had said she was a rapist's child. It turned out to be a wound in her heart that couldn't be healed in her life.

Her biological mother had been trafficked and had died due to trafficking. That was why she had been working hard all these years to increase the sentence for buyers of human trafficking.

On the screen, with red eyes, Audrey held the microphone and continued, “Even though my mother has passed away, I want to tell her I'm living a good life now.”

Although she is not with me, Aunt Anne takes good care of me and gives me motherly love like a biological mother.” Nathan unconsciously retracted his legs from the coffee table as he stared intently at the screen.

Did Anne give her the same love as a... biological mother?

He thought of the slap Audrey had given him at the morgue that day, which had made his ears ring.

So, was he considered... to have indirectly killed Audrey's other mother?

A mother's significance was different from that of an aunt.

Nathan fidgeted with his phone, feeling distressed.

His anger over Audrey slapping him and pushing Amelia dissipated.

Biting the cigarette irritably, Nathan lazily leaned against the wall.

Meeting The One For Me Chapter 57-As far as Nathan could remember, he had never apologized to anyone. Even if Audrey answered the call, what was he supposed to say?

Meanwhile, Ryan had already boarded the private jet with the Lambert Corporation's main executives.

He browsed through the program clips and trending topics on the Internet.

Seeing the trend turn positive, he was relieved.

After handing the tablet to Julian, Ryan glanced at his watch.

It was time for a brief company meeting.

Ryan picked up the documents, walking toward the back as he instructed Julian, "Get someone to keep an eye on the Internet and be ready to control the trend at any time." "Rest assured, I've told the secretarial department to keep an eye on the matter before departure." Julian followed Ryan. "They will post the videos of Audrey's award-winning speech at intervals." Among the acceptance speeches, many of the competitions were not made public in the media. But Julian would send someone to the scene every time and film the whole process for Ryan.

Over time, he kept a collection of videos of How's every ear Julian thought Ryan's concern for Audrey had exceeded that for an orphaned relative.

As the person who had worked for Ryan for the longest time, he knew well that Ryan was not the over-sympathetic type.

He even had the absurd illusion that Ryan's care for Audrey was more like a man's for a woman.

It almost seemed like Ryan had a crush on Audrey yet dared not confess openly, protecting her quietly and helping her secretly.

If Audrey weren't blood-related to Ryan, Julian would have asked him about this.

On Saturday, Audrey took Harper to Cloudmill Museum and several scenic spots.

Her seniors invited Harper to the laboratory, claiming to cultivate her passion for biology so as to recruit a member for the future biological field.

Before Audrey and Harper returned to Eastville on Sunday afternoon, Daphne brought the news that Harper could transfer to Cloudmill Junior High School next semester.

With her excellent test scores, Harper qualified for the top class. Still, considering her special condition, she would be assigned to the ordinary class for a start.

According to the system of Cloudmill Junior High School, classes would be rearranged based on students' results after the midterm exam. By then, Harper would be reassigned to a class.

Audrey thought of discussing with Diego about staying with Harper at home during this period and then coming to Cloudmill with her when the semester began.

The problem was that all the experimental data in her hand was not allowed to be taken out of the laboratory. Before drying her hair after a shower, Harper sat Audrey down on the bed.

"I can go to school and cook meals myself. I used to take care of myself when Mom was not around."

"During this time, I'll call and message you every day. Don't worry about me. I'm independent." Harper smiled.

Audrey never doubted her ability to live independently.

Meeting The One For Me Chapter 56-Audrey gave a thousand dollars to Eda, asking her to help take care of Harper for half a month.

Eda agreed to help but refused to accept the money. "Harper is a good girl. She always helps things upstairs and also cleans the house for me at Christmas.

me carry "I'm happy to look after her. Please don't worry about the money. It's no trouble to cook a meal for two. Besides, with her company, an old lady like me won't be lonely!" "Mrs. Hughes, I know you are kind, but this is a token of my appreciation." Audrey put the money in Eda's hand. "Please accept it." In the end, Eda could only accept it.

Before leaving for the airport on Tuesday morning, Audrey repeatedly reminded Harper, "Remember to call me every day. Don't forget to check the gas and door locks before leaving the house and going to bed every day." With a schoolbag on her back, Harper nodded obediently and opened the taxi door for Audrey.

"I'm leaving. Ask Mrs. Hughes to call me if you need anything." Harper signed with a smile. "Don't worry." As soon as the plane landed, Audrey received a text message from Harper.

She tirelessly reminded Harper to stay safe and eat well before taking the airport bus back to Cloudmill University.

Once she reached the school, Audrey headed straight to the laboratory to check the data without even returning to her dormitory.

Coming over with a glass of water, Daphne saw Audrey frown at the data on the screen and asked, "What's wrong?" "I think the data generated by the computer doesn't match that of our three practical experiments in the past three years." Audrey turned around and said, "I'll run it again with a quantum computer." "It's already nine o'clock!" Daphne quickly said, "The quantum computer will likely run it until tomorrow morning. Not to mention, you can't leave once it starts..." "It's okay!" Audrey sorted out the experimental data and records at hand with a smile, rising with a heavy pile of files in her arms. "The sooner the data comes out, the earlier we can tackle the problem." Looking at Audrey's hastily leaving figure, Daphne couldn't help but sigh. "Audrey is so energetic!" "It's not that she's energetic. It's because her adoptive mother died suddenly.

"When her sister was around before, she acted tough to deal with things at home. Now that she suddenly relaxed, she'd dwell on grief if she didn't find something to do." Azure stood in front of the water dispenser. "When my grandmother passed away, I had to keep myself occupied. Once I had time off, I'd feel depressed!" "Then, after Audrey is done checking the data, let's find some more work for her lest she be idle!" Daphne said.

"But I heard the old geezer talking on the phone this afternoon. It seems Joseph won't come to the laboratory until after Christmas." Daphne curled her lips.

Audrey stayed in the laboratory all night without returning to the dormitory. At dawn, she saw Harper's message with an emoticon, saying she was going to school.

Looking at the data printing, Audrey put her phone on the printer and rubbed the back of her neck in tiredness.

Meeting The One For Me Chapter 58-Suddenly, several messages popped up in the WhatsApp group chat. Audrey opened her phone and took a look. It was the laboratory group chat.

Justin sent good news to the group. "I'm going to be a dad! Don't sleep! Get up and congratulate me!" AzureSky responded, "You're the dad, not us. Don't go crazy in the group early in the morning!" WannaSleep wrote, "Oh, Daphne is pregnant! Congrats to Daphne and Justin! When will the wedding be held? We're waiting for the banquet!" WannaRest sent, "Congrats to Justin and Daphne!" HandsomeJustin answered, "We'll take half a day off to get a certificate today.

"I'll invite you all to the banquet!" Audrey wrote, "Congrats to Justin and Daphne!" After replying to the message, she suddenly thought of that night with Ryan in Sheysea City.

Her heartbeat was a little fast. Although she was drugged, she clearly remembered every detail of her time with him.

They didn't take contraceptive measures.

After sleeping with him, she had been a mess. Due to her lack of experience, she didn't take emergency contraceptive pills.

Only the sound of the printer printing sounded in the room. She leaned against the printer and fell into a panic.

She believed it shouldn't be that easy to get pregnant.

It wasn't her menstrual period yet. Once her menstrual period arrived as scheduled, she should be fine.

This week, she had been running data and occasionally glanced at pop-up news. Ryan, the CEO of Lambert Corporation, and his team were discussing chip cooperation ventures overseas.

In these years, atomic chips had dominated Cascadia's technological development. As Cascadia couldn't make up for this shortage, Ryan led the team to discuss chip cooperation.

In the news photos, he was in a slim suit, sitting in the conference room. The Cascadia flag and Lambert Corporation's logo flag were before him.

He calmly looked at the foreigners opposite while listening carefully to his team executives with a dignified temperament.

His facial features and powerful aura made him prominent in the conference room.

She looked through the comments below. Some people analyzed the cooperation's impact on the country's development if it succeeded, while others were pessimistic.

For some people, on the contrary, the focus was on his appearance.

KeepSecret: "Don't be too ridiculous! Being a CEO or a star, of course he must choose the former!" SugarCandies: "Wow! I announce that he's my new hubby! He's so handsome!" YummyFish: "Oh dear! He fits the suit and those gold-rimmed glasses, and his height is well- proportioned! He fits my aesthetic so well!"

he locked her phone screen and pondered. Her menstrual period hadn't come yet.

Meeting The One For Me Chapter 59-It was New Year's day in Cloudmill, so Diego gave everyone a holiday.

Without Anne, Audrey and Harper spent the time together. After burying Anne's ashes, they packed up their things and headed to Cloudmill before school started.

Audrey put the house on to Harper's living expenses.

rent with an agency. Although the rent was low, it could subsidize part of Harper was happy about transferring to a new school. She wasn't reluctant to leave her previous school but felt a vague relief.

When she sent Harper to the Cloudmill Junior High School dormitory, she felt relieved as Harper roommates were good girls.

Remembering that her menstrual period had gotten delayed for almost a month, she bought a pregnancy test kit on the way back to her dormitory.

As it was her first time using it, she studied for a long time before finding the correct way.

Five minutes later, she was startled when she saw the two bars. She turned pale.

She was pregnant after a one-night stand!

She didn't believe the fact and bought a few more pregnancy test kits. It was the same result.

She stared at the pregnancy test kits in the sink. They were all showing parallel bars. She leaned against the sink while clenching her hands.

It seemed Ryan was still overseas. Even if he were in Cascadia, it would still be useless if she told him. She still had to have an abortion.

Suddenly, her phone vibrated. Seeing it was Daphne, she picked it up. "Hello, Daphne." "Audrey, a newbie is coming to our lab soon! The old geezer asked me to call you so he can introduce him to us!" Daphne said.

She called Diego old geezer, probably because she had known him since childhood.

"Okay, I'll be right over." After hanging up the phone, Audrey threw the pregnancy test kits into the trash can, put on her coat, and went out.

Diego was already introducing Joseph to everyone when she arrived at the laboratory. Seeing her come in, he told Joseph, "She's Audrey Yeomans." Joseph turned to look at her, feeling that she looked familiar. But he couldn't remember where he had seen her before. He smiled and reached out. "Hello, I'm Joseph Gough.

He knew almost everyone else in the laboratory as he met them before during competitions. He always had meals with the Cascadia team and became familiar with them.

She greeted him, "Hello,"

During this period, she was popular on the internet. It was normal if he felt her familiar. So, she didn't take it seriously and smiled.

"But I think you're hitting on Audrey! You must know she is single!" Justin seemed to be very familiar with Joseph and slung an arm around his shoulders. He smiled and told her, "Audrey, he is single too!" Joseph blushed when he heard that. He nudged Justin. "Don't talk nonsense!"

Since Daphne was pregnant, she was in charge of organizing data. She was no longer allowed to enter the laboratory.

Meeting The One For Me Chapter 60-"That's not it. After my parents married overseas, they didn't have contact with relatives and friends. I went back to Sheysea City to meet some relatives. They were too enthusiastic, so I couldn't come until now." Joseph smiled while scratching his head. "My cousin asked me to help him make a book of genes for his girlfriend." "The handsome guy who drove you here just now is probably not your cousin, right?" Azure's eyes lit 1. up.

“Nope. He’s my cousin,” he said with a smile.

“What a pity!” She sighed. “He is handsome. But he has a girlfriend!” “Really? He’s handsome?” Daphne leaned over curiously.

“Does he have anything to do with you? You’re pregnant!” Justin rolled his eyes at her.

Hearing the word pregnant, Audrey subconsciously stroked her belly, looking pale.

“Get in the lab! Let’s start work!” Justin put on his white coat and saw her pale face, so he asked, “Are you feeling uncomfortable? You can go back and rest. Don’t force yourself!” Everyone knew her well. She wouldn’t say anything when she was ill.

She smiled. “I’m fine. I sent Harper to school today. I was too busy preparing things last night and didn’t rest well. I’ll have a cup of coffee later.” After spending half a day in the laboratory, she had no appetite for lunch and sat at the entrance. She had closed her eyes and was thinking about what to do next.

Feeling someone sit down beside her, she opened her eyes.

Joseph smiled and handed her a bottle of milk. “You have been sitting here without eating. Drink some milk!” She took the milk and said, “Thank you. You can head in first. I’ll be there in a moment.” “That’s fine. I’m waiting for my cousin! I left my laptop in his car. He’s bringing it to me.” He had fair skin and curly hair, like a handsome man from a comic. And he looked good when he smiled.

Soon, they heard the sound of tires screech, and a black SUV stopped at the entrance.

The passenger door opened, and black boots appeared.

Nathan got out of the car, his injured arm was hanging in front of his chest.

Then, he raised the laptop. “Joseph!” Audrey subconsciously tightened her hands. He also saw her.

She was stunned as she never knew that Joseph was his cousin.

In all her years at Franklin Residence, she had never seen Joseph.

Since Anne's death, she lost her original love for Nathan and even regretted it.

She regretted ever falling in love with him and bringing him to Eastville.

After watching the video, she knew he did want to save Anne before the car hit her. But she still couldn't forgive him.

202 "Over here!" Joseph sat upright and waved to him as if he had no intention of getting up and going to get it.

for your "I'm going back to the lab first." She stood up and said, "Thank you for the milk." At first, she thought that after this accident, she would never meet Nathan again.
