

Only Fuel 70

Chapter 70

Calix yawned and walked out of the dorm, he didn't have enough sleep because he kept thinking about Kimberly. He was anxious that Kimberly would ask him about the prizes, perhaps Kimberly wanted the prizes, not the money. It would only be a problem if that happened.

Calix could not return the Xvox and it would be humiliating to ask Morg about it. He was changing sleeping positions because he couldn't sleep thinking about this problem. Particularly, he was starting to think about Kimberly's appearance instead of the problem.

Calix could say that Kimberly is a young gorgeous woman. Particularly her tits and ass, she is stacked on that aspects. He believed that guys would gather around her because of her beauty alone. On top of that, she was rich so she was the main target of the studs who hunt money.

"It will be sad if she chose a guy who has a pretty face but cold-hearted, or money-grubber. I can see that she is a good person so I want her to be happy."

It was quite ironic that he was wishing Kimberly a happy life despite only meeting her twice. Well, it was better to think positively about someone than curse them and hate them.

Except for Young Master Chen, Calix didn't hate anyone so much that he wanted them dead. He didn't even hate Marianne that much, he forgot about her since she graduated and he only remembered her once when Scarlett asked about the scars he had on the shoulder.

Anyway, back to the story. Calix has a positive impression of Kimberly.

He reached the mansion and he was welcomed by the maids. Calix tried to smile all the time, he was trying to act friendly so that people would have a good impression of him. He was carrying a backpack where the phones were.

Surprisingly the maids welcomed him warmly, Calix sensed something odd. This was different when girls looked at him with lust, he felt like the maids were showing their good sides because they were expecting something.

'What is happening? Last time some of them sneered at me, but now they are all beaming with smiles.'

He didn't know that the maids were gossiping about Kimberly and her endless inquire about Calix. The maids could see that Kimberly has an interest in Calix. Of course they wanted to look good in front of Kimberly's possible partner.

"You can wait here, Sir Calix. Lady Kimberly will show up with a few minutes."

The maids gave him sweet lemonade, bowed, and left the room.

"Ah so it's lemon juice this time, I guess they are changing their drinks every day because last time they gave me tea. As expected of rich people."

Calix smiled and drank the lemonade, he tasted the refreshing taste of sweet honey and sour lemon. It was a simple combination but quite fantastic to drink.

After a few minutes of waiting, the door opened and Calix widened his eyes in surprise. Kimberly was so beautiful that it took his breath away. He became stiff and his eyes didn't leave Kimberly.

Kimberly was wearing a simple dress and highlighted her mature curves, she put light makeup. Calix realized that he was going to talk to a Goddess. He thought that Scarlett was the only Goddess of his life but it seemed like his opinion was going to change after seeing Kimberly.

Was he seeing an illusion or not? Nothing major changed on her but Calix felt that something changed inside him. Perhaps his heart unconsciously opened itself for Kimberly.

Calix swallowed the saliva stuck in his throat, he became thirsty despite drinking a lemonade.

"Good morning, Mister Calix."

Kimberly smiled, she was wearing circular frame glasses and her hair was braided. Calix forced his wide-open mouth and smiled, he could feel that his heart was beating faster.

'What is this feeling...?'

Calix never experienced the term "love at first sight". His love for Scarlett was built by the time and moments they experienced together. This was different from how he imagined this meeting would start.

"Um, sir Calix does my face have dirt... You keep looking at me."

"Ah, my bad I'm sorry."

"N- No it's fine."

Kimberly hid her blushing by biting her lip, it was fortunate that she was wearing glasses, or else she would definitely pounce on him and attack him. Still, she was feeling hot whenever Calix glanced at her. She could see that Calix was starting to see her as a woman.

"Now, ehem, we didn't have a proper conversation last time because you fainted. (Perhaps that's the reason why you just realized now that I'm quite a beauty, fufu.)"

She was elated to see that Calix had reactions. It was a good choice to listen to her maids, the maids helped her to lift up her natural beauty without using heavy makeup nor expensive dresses. The maids said that her beauty was best for an innocent and well behave type of woman (who has great curves, a mature body that can make a man gulp in hunger).

Kimberly didn't know what they meant but she decided to trust them. She was quite a bummer about fashion. In fact, she had low self-esteem because she was always wearing glasses like a geek. Yet he didn't want to act dumb too so she preferred the glasses-persona against the dumb one. She didn't believe that she was beautiful, however, now that she was seeing Calix's reactions, it seemed like she had an appeal as a woman.

"Ah, I'm sorry about that."

Calix bowed his head, he caused them a problem when he fainted last time. He started looking into his bag and put an envelope on the table together with the pair of phones.

"Please accept this as my compensation for what I've done."

He firmly said, he decided to bow his head until Kimberly would accept his compensation. It sounds pathetic but this was his only way to make her agree and let the Xvox alone.

"I will pay for all the inconvenience that I've done here in your mansion and the Game Center."

"Eh?"

Kimberly cutely tilted her head, like a cat who was confused while hunting laser light.