

Chapter 28 Magic

Inside the office, a woman in a tight-fitting professional sheath dress, silently standing by the window, stepping on a pair of champagne-gold thin high-heels, making her calves long and straight.

Her dyed Brunette hair is lustrous and shiny.

The door was pushed open somewhat hastily by her assistant.

"Miss. Linda, the bidding meeting is about to start. The people from the first party are almost here, and the one competing with us this time is the time-honored company in Harbor, the Forbes company."

"Got it."

The woman's voice was lazy, alluring and dangerous.

She looked down and straightened her skirt, and unbuttoned her shirt by two on the way up, revealing her hidden cleavage, before she walked out.

"Mr. Newman, what do you think of Forbes's proposal this time?"

The bidding session had started for a while. A calm and noble man was sitting in the first party's seat looking at the documents in his hand, with praise in his eyes.

This time, the land that Marcus needs is vital to a very important project. So, he must find a trustworthy partner. Forbes is an old company, both its the strength and the leader's bold and careful style of action fit his expectation.

But he has always been a man of stability. Even if this proposal in his hand was perfect, he did not immediately say yes to Forbes' CEO, only, "Let's see how is Dickson, I heard that they hired a new CMO this time."

Marcus casually closed the files in his hand. The host said something to the second party, and then he went back on the stage, "The following is the presentation of the Dickson company."

As he finished, a woman in black professional dress stood up, her beautiful back slowly appearing in the view of the crowd.

Marcus did not pay much attention to the stage. When the woman turned around, and many people around him whispered, he only raised his eyes.

This glance almost made the man's blood freeze instantly!

His eyes couldn't help but widen, staring at the woman who was talking so eloquently on the stage. His brown pupils narrowed violently because of the intense shock, his hand resting on the armrest instantly clenched into a fist, breath halted!

This woman...

Marcus's incredulous gaze fell on her body. Her features were not at all like that person, but her air was similar to Scarlet!

"Who is she?!"

His assistant hurriedly checked when he heard the man's anxious tone, "Mr. Newman, this is the person in charge of the project sent by Dickson this time, named Linda, an Australian, who came to Harbor for the first time."

Marcus stared at the woman on the stage, his heart jumping almost out of his throat!

What's going on...

Her face, obviously and completely different from that woman, but drew him to her. Marcus simply cannot get his eyes away from her!

On the stage, the woman finished her speech, winked seductively at him, and then quickly looked away.

Marcus's whole body was tensed!

"Bring me Dickson's proposal immediately!"

The assistant hurriedly handed it up, only to see the man finish the file in seconds and pick up his pen, and sign his name.

He was dumbfounded for a few seconds, "Mr. Newman? You've decided to give the project to Dickson?"

Reward

Comments