

Chapter 38 Disappearance

For a moment, she actually felt that this woman is Scarlet.

They both had an extremely similar stubbornness and arrogance, and just now, this familiar feeling returned.

Lily was so shocked by her own thoughts that she shook her head off!

How is this possible?! That woman has been lost for a year or two!

She froze in place in dismay until the man's tired voice sounded slowly behind her, completely jerking her back to reality.

"Lily, let's break off the engagement."

"What? Marcus, do you know what you're saying?!"

"I'm very aware of that."

Looking at the man's eyes, for no reason, Lily instantly panicked.

"No! No way! I won't! I don't want to break up. Marcus, you can't do this to me. You were the one who personally proposed to me in the hospital! I did nothing wrong! You can't just say that!"

The woman's tears were like a broken pearl necklace crackling downward, and she held the man's arm, refusing to let go.

Marcus closed his eyes in annoyance. "Let go."

"Why? How can you do this to me? What exactly did I do wrong? It's you who's cheating on me!"

"Lily White!"

Marcus's face suddenly changed, his eyes flashing with anger, "You want to marry me? Yes, as long as you pay back the kidney you owe me."

Hearing this, Lily's face blanched.

Lily's eyes widened in dismay and shock. When did he figure it out?

Marcus looked at the woman's reaction and did not feel the least bit surprised. "You should know that I hate people lying to me or betraying me. Lily, you'd better do what I said. Tell you the truth, I already bought your father's company last week, if you don't want your parents to suffer any blow, then stop harassing me."

After that, the woman's face was paler. She knew that it was useless to stay here, but the resentment in her heart had nowhere to vent, somehow that woman's face suddenly emerged before her eyes.

"Marcus, the reason you kept that woman around just now is because of Scarlet?!"

Seeing the man's expression change, Lily laughed. "How come you don't you understand? Scarlet has long been dead! She's dead! She's dead! Do you know that she is dead! She is not her! Even if they look alike, she can never be Scarlet!"

"Shut the hell up!"

Like a sharp blade viciously stabbed in his heart, Marcus' chest was in a sharp pain!

During this time, Marcus knew better than anyone else that he saw the shadow of Scarlet in this woman.

He understood better than anyone that she was just a stand-in to comfort himself.

"Get out of here! Get out now! Get the hell out of here!"

Lily looked at the man with scarlet eyes, scared and shivering, and cried as she drove out of the house.

That night, Marcus once again got drunk.

That night, he once again dreamed of the woman who lived thoroughly in the depths of his memory.

In his dream, she was holding the hand of a small girl. Marcus watched the mother and daughter drifting away, gradually disappearing at
