

Chapter 42 Prosecution

"Yes."

Her voice drifted a bit. She had thought that when this moment came, she would be happy and satisfied, but until her assistant left, Scarlet's heart was still as calm as a dead pool.

Scarlet felt that things were going completely different from what she had thought.

Shouldn't he be angry and furious, choking her and wanting to strangle her to death?

Why he was so calm?

What's wrong?

A week later, in court.

Marcus was charged with the crime of infringement of business secrets.

Just like the things he once did to her, now Scarlet is returning all to him.

How she was desperate and helpless back then, now, this man is also experiencing it.

Scarlet tilted her head and took a deep breath.

As the dust settles, finally came the moment of repayment.

But she was stunned and shocked. She had thought Marcus would hire the best lawyers in the city, using all his connections to get rid of it and when the man calmly and surely said "I plead guilty", Scarlet was in a trance, her head suddenly buzzing.

Like an electric shock, she froze in the plaintiff's seat.

"I plead guilty."

He frankly and calmly admitted all the crime, and his men at the court instantly exploded, even Dickson's people were jaw-dropped.

With this man's status, it is not impossible to win this lawsuit.

But to admit it would be to burn the bridge himself.

Scarlet met his eyes, and she did not see any panic or fear.

There was only calm and free.

It was as if... he never cared about the outcome from the beginning.

Scarlet held the glass of water and gulped it down, but the cold liquid could not cool the panic in her heart.

Just a moment ago, she personally sent Marcus to prison.

The man who had cheated on her and hurt her finally fell to hell!

But Scarlet was not happy, not a single bit.

When Marcus walked toward her, Scarlet had been out of her mind for a long time.

It was only when the man's low, magnetic voice rang out softly that she drew back in surprise.

"Scarlet."

Marcus just called her name tenderly.

His tenderness completely evoked the deepest memories in Scarlet's mind.

Scarlet drifted a bit, looking at the man, but pursed her lips and did not speak.

Marcus suddenly laughed.

"I've put you in jail before, and what I owe you, I'll definitely pay it back. Just don't find a stepfather for our children after I am imprisoned."

One sentence, however, made the woman's eyes widen.

He smiled bitterly, and the self-deprecation between his eyebrows intensified, "I never touched any woman during all those years you were in jail. So, you must wait for me, with the children."

When he is released from prison, he will definitely win this woman back.

No matter what method is used.

Scarlet's heart almost jumped out of her chest, she averted her eyes, forcing herself to calm down, and said, "Marcus Newman, they are not yours."

"Scarlet, are you going to keep lying to me?"

"..."

"I've already checked it out a long time ago. We have a daughter, Daisy."

Hearing this, Scarlet's body jerked fiercely!
