

One Night Stand With The Uninvited Wolf President

Chapter 147 The Last Time She Believed Him

Johnny got up in the morning and came to the door of Ceres' room. He wanted to enter, but in the end, he took back his hand.

He didn't sleep all night.

He knew Ceres well, and Ceres must haven't slept either.

"Ceres, I know you're angry with me. I shouldn't have pretended to be a vegetable and bodyguard without telling you. I really don't have time and energy to talk to you about these things now. I'm doing something very important, which is related to whether you can be the hostess of the Winsors."

Johnny's voice was hoarse and humble.

"I have promised you that I will marry you in the future. I will let you enter the Winsors aboveboard and become the hostess of the Winsors. I will make it. Ceres, please trust me for the last time. When this matter is finished, let's have a talk, okay?"

There was no sound inside, but Johnny knew that Ceres must be listening to him.

"I know you didn't sleep, and I didn't sleep either. Yesterday, you asked me what I thought of you. I treated you as my woman, my wife, and my life."

Johnny took a deep breath and said, "I will come back to apologize to you after I solve all the problems. Have a good sleep now. Don't go to work today. Have a good rest."

There was still no response from inside until Johnny finished his words.

Johnny knew that Ceres was a sensible person and she would understand him.

So he went straight to the company. There were still a lot of things waiting for him to do.

Indeed, Ceres didn't sleep. She kept her eyes open until dawn. All she could think about was the moment when Johnny was with her. Sometimes she would feel that those moments were real.

She remembered every word Johnny said, but she didn't know whether she should believe it or not.

Maybe she should believe him for the last time. Didn't he say that? He wanted her to be the hostess of the Winsors, which meant that he still cared about her.

The cock jumped onto the bed. Ceres sat up and held the cock in her arms, "Cock, do you think I should trust him again?"

The cock giggled.

Ceres smiled, "Then I'll trust him again."

'This is the last time.'

Ceres told herself in her heart.

He asked her to wait, so she waited. She wanted to hear what he wanted to say after he finished everything.

Ceres was too tired to eat anything these days, so she fell asleep in bed.

At noon, Sofia asked her to have lunch. After lunch, she felt sleepy again, so she slept for a few hours. At last, she was woken up by the ringtone of her mobile phone.

With her eyes closed, Ceres took out her phone and turned it on, only to find that Mary had sent her a video!

When she opened the video, she was startled!

That was the video of Johnny and a mixed-blood girl. They were sitting on a high-end European-style sofa, which should be in the Winsors.

The two of them sat there quietly at the beginning, but later the girl directly sat on Johnny's laps. Because of the distance, the girl's back was against the camera, blocking Johnny's face. Ceres didn't know what they were doing.

But it looked like they were kissing!

The video was short and ended here!

Johnny and a mixed-blood girl?

Ceres clicked on the video again. There was no photoshop trace, so it was a real video. It really happened!

Mary sent her another WeChat message soon.

"Her name is Annie. She is the child of a Chinese descendant of Augsta and a descendant of an aristocratic family of Augsta. She is popular in Augsta. She can play the piano and is proficient in eight languages. She is the wife chosen by Jack personally for Johnny, and also the future hostess of the Winsors."

Every word was imprinted on her heart.

"What you saw was two people in the Winsors. It seems that Johnny is also very satisfied with Annie. They can't wait to see each other for the first time. Annie also fell in love with Johnny at the first sight. They are really a perfect match."

"Ceres, it's said that the IQ of women in love is zero. I always think you are very smart. But why are you so stupid when you are in love? You even eagerly wait for Johnny to marry you. Don't you know what kind of situation you are in? How dare you dream of marrying here as the hostess?"

"Stop dreaming. Just wake up. After all, men are all for their careers. Even if Johnny doesn't like Annie, he will definitely marry Annie. Because Annie's family is very famous in Augsta, and it can help the Winsors expand in Augsta. You can imagine the following video, and I won't send it to you."

Ceres covered her mouth to stop herself from crying.

Why did Johnny do this to her?

She knew that Mary must have made it up, but it was the truth that Johnny met Annie!

He told her that he would marry her as long as she waited and felt at ease. At the same time, he went to meet the so-called princess. How ridiculous!

Ceres felt that she was so ridiculous!

Mary was right. The IQ of a woman in love was zero. She had long known that it was impossible for her and Johnny to be together. Why did she still believe him!

At this moment, Ceres finally believed Mary's words.

In men's eyes, career was the most important thing.

For his career, Johnny could lie in bed for three years and live in a vegetative state for three years; For the sake of his career, Johnny could continue to live in a wheelchair and accept all the people to call him disabled.

So, there was nothing Johnny couldn't do for his career.

Ceres' heart was as painful as wrung by knife.

Mary was right. She was too stupid to believe what the man said. She lost all her judgment!

In City M prison.

George was sitting on the bed in his cell. He had maintained this posture for several hours, and his eyes were like an eagle staring straight ahead.

He recalled his whole life and didn't know how to describe it.

He was trained to be a killer when he was very young. When he reached adulthood, he began to carry out tasks, his hands stained with blood.

However, the appearance of Sally changed his fate. He wanted to stop and live a normal life, so he stopped and went to a small village.

But who would have thought that Sally would run away and leave a girl who was not his daughter?

When he first saw Ceres, he saw her snow-white skin and red lips. She smiled at him, and his heart melted at that moment.