

One Night Stand With The Uninvited Wolf President

Chapter 192 He Had Done So Much for Her

Ceres was trembling!

She could not believe her ears!

It felt like something had exploded on her head!

It is unbelievable!

Although Bob had not finished speaking, she had already vaguely guessed something.

Bob looked at the stunned Ceres and turned his head to one side, "I think you probably guessed that Johnny's mother was killed by an organization named 9. At that time, another killer as famous as George oversaw the task. I just don't know why George was the one who carried out the task later. So, we never found out."

Ceres felt her body cold.

So, it was her father that killed Johnny's mother.

Bob said, "At that time, the people of the Winsors were already infinitely close to the truth, so George hid in prison. As a result, the clues were cut off, so we did not continue to investigate. Otherwise, you might not even have this father."

Ceres was in silence.

Bob continued, "And George is not your biological father. Johnny did not lie about this matter. I inquired about George's medical records in a hospital. He was injured many years ago and lost his fertility. This happened before he met your mother, so George was very clear that you were not his biological daughter."

Ceres closed her eyes in pain. A drop of tears slowly flowed down.

Even if her father knew that she was not his biological daughter, even if he knew that Sally betrayed him, he still raised her alone.

"Johnny found it hard to accept it when he found out about it. You should know how much Johnny wanted to see his mother and how much he hated the murderer who killed his mother. But when the truth surfaced, the first person he thought of was you!

"He didn't tell you the truth because he was worried that you couldn't accept it. You are kind. You couldn't accept that George is a killer. Moreover, you couldn't let go of the fact that George killed his mother. Thus, he could only hide the truth," Bob said, looking at Ceres.

Ceres's tears fell to the ground and resounded.

Bob said, "George chose to commit suicide so that you could stay with Johnny. He knew that only when he died could he completely hide the truth, because the Winsors could not have a murderer's daughter as the mistress, and the Winsors could not allow an enemy's daughter to be the mistress."

Bob took a deep breath, "to be honest, I admire George. For the sake of a non-biological daughter, he has given up everything he has."

Ceres covered her face with her hands.

Ceres recalled every bit of Johnny at that time. He once wanted to make out with her. She was ready, but he stopped.

Thinking that she was the daughter of his enemy, he could not make out with her.

She could not imagine how much pressure Johnny had been under at that time.

Bob said, "Johnny has been helping you find your biological father. He knows that George is the most important person you care about. He knows that no one dotes on you since you were a child, and he hopes to find your biological father. If you can have more people who dote on you, you can get a trace of comfort when you lose George. He thought of everything, just want you to bear less pain.

"Unfortunately, it all backfired on him. You hate him, and he is in pain."

Bob sighed deeply, "But the pain that Johnny has to bear is no less than yours. Ceres, I have to say something that you might not like to hear. He is in more pain than you are. For you, he cannot avenge his mother. From the moment he found out that his mother was assassinated, he made up his mind to take revenge. But the enemy is right in front of him, but he can't do it. You should understand the pain."

Yes, Ceres understood.

When she felt that it was Johnny who killed her father, she experienced how difficult to endure.

The murderer was in front of her, but she couldn't get rid of him. It was more uncomfortable than killing her.

However, at that time, Johnny had to find a way to reduce the pain she had to endure when he bore the same pain. He had to do everything he could to conceal his family and bear the pressure of his family.

How difficult was he at that time?

Bob said, "From the moment you disappeared, he had been frantically looking for you until he found out that it was Jack who did it. He had never been humble in front of Jack, but for you, he had to be humble. Jack requested him to be engaged to Annie. He did it."

Ceres looked at Bob with tears. It turned out that the engagement with Annie was for her.

Bob said, "But Jack went back on his word. He not only didn't hand you over but also put forward other conditions. For you, Johnny broke with the Winsors."

Ceres said, "He broke with them?"

Ceres didn't know anything about the break between Johnny and the Winsors. Until this moment, she thought Johnny was the president of the Winsor Group and the heir of the Winsors.

Bob said, "Yes, he has cut it off with the Winsors. In the past three years, he did not go home and fight against the Winsors everywhere. At that time, the Eagle Group lost the most important chip, and some products that should be listed were not be listed. The Eagle Group also faced a life and death moment. He used such an Eagle Group to fight against the Winsors.

"There was this one time that he did not sleep for four days and four nights. He knew that if he wanted Jack to let you go, he must be strong enough. The Eagle Group must be strong enough.

"Over the past three years, he has never stopped looking for you. Your name is taboo, and none of us dare to mention you in front of him.

"Also, last time, Bill wanted to free Johnny, so he drugged him. That was why everything you saw happened. Johnny hasn't touched a woman in the past few years. He only cares about work."

After learning the truth, Ceres did not feel free.

She just felt that her mind was in a mess, and she couldn't figure it out.

Bob said, "Ceres, Johnny was going to tell you everything, but you didn't give him a chance. I've known him for so many years, but I've never seen him care so much about someone. He loves you. Are you willing to give up a man who doesn't even want his life for you, a man who doesn't even avenge his mother?"

Ceres didn't know how to answer this question.

At this time, the lights in the emergency room went out.

Bob and Ceres looked up. They stood up almost at the same time.

The door of the emergency room opened and Ruby walked out from inside. He was sweating profusely.

Bean-sized sweats soaked his hair and trickled down from his sideburns slowly.

At that moment, Ceres found that her legs were trembling, she did not dare to move forward, did not dare to speak, she was afraid to get a result she did not want to hear.

Bob seemed to see Ceres's hesitation. In fact, as a man, he did not dare to.

He took a deep breath.

Then he asked, "Ruby, how is Johnny?"
