

One Night Stand With The Uninvited Wolf President

Chapter 200 Ceres's Biological Father

In City M.

Ceres and Matt stayed in City M for another day. Ceres didn't plan to go back, and Matt was aware of her worries.

At dusk, the sun added a charming light to the mountain.

Ceres and Matt walked in the field.

"Kid, you seem to have something on your mind."

"Mr. Matt, you can call me Ceres," Ceres said politely.

"Okay. Can you tell me what's on your mind?" Matt sat down on the ridge.

"Mr. Matt, have you ever been in a relationship?" Ceres asked.

Matt laughed when he heard that question. "Why are you suddenly asking this? Do you think that if I had never been in love, I'm not qualified to listen to your thoughts?"

"I didn't mean that." Ceres smiled in embarrassment.

Ceres wondered if because Matt and George were good friends, so she trusted Matt very much. She told Matt about how she met and love Johnny.

Hearing that, Matt asked, "Ceres, you told your love story to me without reservation. In exchange, I want to tell you about my romance."

"I'm all ears."

"Before I gave up the old business at the age of twenty-five, I earned a lot of money. I started my global travel plan, spending too much money. There were many women around me. Then one day, I met her. We quickly fell in love and got married within three days."

"We settled down in a manor in France. I loved her very much at that time, but people like me had too many enemies. Many people wanted to kill me. We had to skulk and hide."

"This meant that I had no choice but to hide my identity and all my past from her. I told her that I was in the real estate business. She told me that she was a reporter."

"Most of the time, we gathered from the numbers of less. As a result, we cherished every moment of being with each other. Until I found out that she was a policewoman, a spy."

Hearing that, Ceres's heart clenched.

"She had been a spy by my side for seven years. I thought I hid it well, but she still found out. I thought if I held my tongue and pretended not to see, everything would come right, and I could still live with her."

"Later, I found out that she already knew all, but she didn't reveal me. Thus, we had a harmonious life."

"What happened after that?"

Ceres was eager to know the answer.

She knew that they couldn't hide it for a lifetime.

"After ten years, her superior forced her to move on. I knew her passion for work and her tasks, so I deliberately revealed the evidence to her. Ten days later, we finally fought a battle. We ended up with tragedy."

Matt said those things with a smile.

"And then?"

Matt patted Ceres on her head affectionately. "Nothing special happened later. Later on, as you know, I hid myself from place to place. She was still catching me and I was still running away. It has been more than a decade."

Ceres felt a little sad, but Matt still looked calm and relaxed, as if he enjoyed that kind of life.

"She lied to you and you still love her so much?"

"Ceres, this is a world full of lies. Everyone is lying. I never cared that she lied to me because we didn't match each other from the beginning. Our love is true, and that's enough."

Matt stood up. "Alright, it's time to go home and cook. I will cook a good dish for you!"

Ceres followed behind Matt and fell into deep thought.

She could understand what Matt meant.

Johnny did lie to her, but his love was also true.

In retrospect, her marriage was a lie.

In the evening, Matt and Ceres had a good meal. Matt cooked, and he drank some wine with Ceres.

Although they had known each other for a few days, they were close to each other.

"Ceres, I have to leave here tomorrow morning." Matt picked up his wine cup and said, "Just take this meal as a farewell to me."

"Mr. Matt, where are you going?"

"I don't know either. You know, I'm still running for my life, so I can go everywhere." Matt said as he finished the cup of wine in his gulp.

Ceres didn't ask him to stay. She knew that she couldn't keep him either. After all, he had many enemies.

"My phone number always changes, and it's inconvenient to contact you. This is my email. If you encounter any trouble in the future, you can send me an email." Matt handed a note to Ceres. "Although I am a fugitive, I am powerful."

Ceres kept the note in her phone and burned it.

Matt felt gratified. "It seems that George educated you well."

"Have a nice journey, Mr. Matt." Ceres smiled.

"I will."

Matt took out a piece of paper, "George asked me to find your biological father in case you feel lonely without your father. These are all the information I have investigated about him."

Matt gave the note to Ceres. "If you follow this information, you can find him. If you are unwilling to do it, I can help you."

Ceres stared at the paper on the table. The clue of her biological father was on it.

Ceres thought, 'Who on earth was my biological father?'