

One Night Stand With The Uninvited Wolf President

Chapter 214 Where Did She Go?

Johny sent people to look for Ceres.

However, he found nothing.

He retrieved the relevant information from Ceres's phone and found that Ceres had called Kirs before. He sat in a wheelchair and went directly to find her.

The doctor didn't recommend Johny to move because of the car accident. But Johny was anxious. He had to find Ceres personally, even if he had to sit in a wheelchair.

At the same time, he asked Bob to check the surveillance system.

Arriving at Kirs's villa, he happened to be at home. When he saw Johny sitting in a wheelchair, he revealed a bright smile.

"Mr. Johny, what a rare guest you are. Are you here to cooperate with me?"

Johny stared fiercely at Kirs with spiteful eyes. Although he hadn't had any dealings with Kirs, he had seen this person through.

"Where is Ceres?" Johny asked directly. He didn't want to talk nonsense with Kirs.

Kirs was shocked at first, but then he shrugged his shoulders and said, "Mr. Johny, why are you asking me this question? You should know where your wife is."

But Johny couldn't care about these satirical words.

"People with bright hearts don't do sneaky things. If I can find her, I won't come to you. Ceres had come to you."

Johny said in a very confident tone.

Kirs sat on the sofa with a relaxed and natural look.

"She did come to me and said something to hurt me."

Kirs looked down and smiled bitterly. "Mr. Johny, you don't have to sprinkle salt on my wound, do you?"

Johny kept staring at Kirs coldly.

"I admit that I am not as good as Mr. Johny in flirting women. Even though I tried so hard, she still chose you. I failed." Kirs said and shrugged.

"Did she leave?"

"Of course, she left right after she finished speaking. Otherwise, what else could we do? Moreover, she said that since we can't be lovers, we can't be friends anymore. We will be competitors when we meet again in the future."

Kirs were very honest.

"What time did she come, and when did she leave?"

"She arrived at one o'clock in the afternoon when I was in a video conference. I asked her to wait for a while. After talking for about twenty minutes, she left around two o'clock."

Kirs added, "If you don't believe me, you can search here."

"I don't think it's necessary." Johny turned the wheelchair around.

Johny felt that something was wrong when they reached the door. "She is missing. Aren't you worried?"

Kirs smiled and said in confusion. "She is your wife. Why should I worry? Johny, I think you should understand me."

Johny slightly narrowed his eyes.

It was indeed Kirs's style. Johny left without saying anything.

Johny received a call from Bob when he got back into the car.

"Johny, I found out that Ceres indeed left Kirs's villa. The surveillance of this street in the community showed Ceres leaving. After that, maybe the camera was broken. There was a blind spot in this area. She disappeared."

"Okay, you go on with the investigation."

Johny hung up the phone.

That meant Ceres had indeed left Kirs's villa.

Johny vaguely felt that something was wrong, but he couldn't tell it.

He turned to look at Kirs's villa and ordered the driver to leave.

Ben sat next to Johny and said, "Mr. Johny, I always feel that there is something wrong with Kirs, but he is not flustered at all. Do you believe him?"

"The best liar always tells eighty percent of the truth. Either he is telling the truth or eighty percent. It is difficult for us to judge. Send someone to keep an eye on him."

"Yes."

The driver immediately asked, "Mr. Johny, where are we going?"

"The Winsors."

The person who kidnapped Ceres was probably one of those few people.

Kirs, Henry, or Jack.

Johny wanted to check it one by one.

The car soon arrived at the Winsors. Ever since Johny broke up with the Winsor family, he had never stepped into the Winsors' house.

Jack was amazed when he received news from Colin that Johny had come.

The father and son were facing each other in the study.

Johny had not seen his father for a few years. He did not expect that his father has utterly grey hair and more wrinkles. It had only been four years, but Jack seemed to have aged ten years, even more.

Jack was calmly sitting in front of the desk and reading a book. He did not show any smile because of Johny's arrival.

"What is it?" His tone was also as indifferent as ever.

"Return Ceres to me," Johny replied.

Jack put down the book in his hand and looked up at Johny. "Or is it because of that woman? Johny, can you find another reason to come here except that woman?"

Johny was unwilling to answer Jack's question. "Did you take her away?"

Johny didn't want to waste any more time. The last time, he was unwilling to resign himself to Jack. In the beginning, he was only looking for Ceres himself. It gave Jack so much time to hide Ceres. This time, Johny wouldn't make the same mistake!

"No." Jack lowered his head to continue reading his book.

"I don't want to waste time with you. Ceres doesn't mean anything to you anymore. You have seen your grandson. What else do you want?"

Johny tried to control his emotions.

Recently, many things happened to the Winsor family, and Johny was not willing to make more trouble.

"Yes, I have seen my grandson. What else can I do?" Jack asked.

"It wasn't you?" Johny frowned.

Jack sighed slightly, "People always say that beauties are dangerous. You have been bewitched and go against your father and family for a woman! You don't even get revenge for your mother's death! I really have a good son!"

He had never thought that his son was going against him because of a woman.

Johny turned his wheelchair to the door.

He did not want to argue with his father.

He suddenly stopped when the wheelchair reached the door. "It is not because of a woman. I just want to be independent."

After saying that, he decisively left.

Jack began to cough violently again. It was worse than last time.

He picked up the handkerchief beside him to cover his mouth. Then, some blood appeared on the handkerchief.