

One Night Stand With The Uninvited Wolf President

Chapter 237 Why Are You in My Bed?

The sea breeze blew against the curtains, bringing with it a slightly salty smell.

The sunlight shone into the room.

Nyla slowly opened her eyes and stretched out her body.

Nyla suddenly heard something. She held her breath and listened carefully. It was from the bathroom. She sat up abruptly and saw Bob coming out of the bathroom. He was wearing a bathrobe, and his hair was still wet.

"Why are you here?" Nyla subconsciously looked at herself in the quilt.

Nyla was dressed.

Nyla was relaxed.

"Don't worry. I'm not interested in the drunkard."

Bob couldn't stop Nyla. She was drunk, and she was acting crazy. Nyla had the worst behavior after drunk that Bob had ever seen. As for how crazy Nyla was, Bob rather forgets it. It was insane.

Nyla wrapped herself in the quilt, "Even if I wasted, you should let me go back to my room by myself. Why did you sleep in the same room with me? Is it because I have a good figure?"

"You were the one who kept staying in my room and almost raped me!" Bob snorted coldly.

"I..."

Although Nyla does not know what did she do when she was drunk, her friends have told her several times, Nyla thought that she might have tried to rape Bob.

"Then can you go out now?" Nyla glared at Bob.

"I said twice. This is my room."

Nyla lifted the quilt and got off the bed, escaping.

Looking at how Nyla rushed out, Bob sighed deeply.

Last night, Bob did have been turned on. He didn't know if it was because he was uncomfortable while seeing Nyla shed tears because of Johnny and Ceres. Or because of Nyla's body.

For the first time, Bob had that urge in these years.

It was just that when Nyla hugged him and called out Johnny's name, Bob stopped.

In another room.

Johnny held Ceres in his arms and looked at her flushed little face. He could not help but smile.

Last night was perfect.

For the first time, Johnny knew that Ceres could be so crazy, and Johnny was exhausted!

Johnny gently kissed Ceres's forehead and then slowly pulled out his arm. He took out a knife from the drawer and gently cut it on his finger. He lifted the quilt and dripped the blood under Ceres. Then Johnny covered the quilt again.

In Ceres's memory, this was the first time she had done it. Johnny had to fake it.

Ceres woke up after a while. When she opened her eyes, she saw Johnny sleeping beside her. Ceres widened her eyes then screamed.

This scream cut through the tranquility of the entire island, and Nyla, who was taking a bath, was also frightened, and she hurried to speed up.

"Why are you in my bed?" Ceres asked.

"Last night was our first night. I didn't hurt you, did I?" Johnny asked with a roguish smile.

"The first night?" Only then did Ceres feel the pain, "You bastard!"

Ceres slapped Johnny in the face. Johnny seemed to have expected this and didn't dodge.

"You shameless and vulgar man!" Ceres said.

"When it comes to being shameless and vulgar, who can compare to Kirs? Using the excuse of the company's vacation to lure you to the island, isn't he just want to sleep with you?" Johnny said.

Johnny's words reminded Ceres of what had happened last night. Kirs had proposed to her last night, and then there was a power outage in her room. She could only go to Kirs's room. They drank together, and then she could not remember anything after that.

"Let me help you recall. You must have eaten or drunk what Kirs gave you and then fell unconscious. That thing drugged you and made you fall asleep first, and then you would be turned on.

"I rescued you from Kirs's clutches. You were still sleeping soundly. However, when you were on my island, you became horny."

Ceres was just about to say something when Johnny said, "I didn't do it on purpose. It was you who kept calling my name. To ease your pain, I..."

Johnny winked at Ceres with a smirk.

"It can't be! This is not possible!" Ceres said.

Ceres was unwilling to believe a single word. She did not believe that Kirs was such a person, much less that she had been drugged. Ceres also did not believe that she would call out Johnny's name in that state.

"There's a video as proof," Johnny took out his mobile phone and showed Ceres the video that Ceres had been calling Johnny's name since he brought Ceres here last night.

Johnny felt lucky that he filmed it.

Ceres looked at herself in the video. Her face was as red as a ripe tomato, and her eyes were blurred as she called Johnny's name. Ceres wondered if that was her!

Ceres snatched the phone and turned off the video.

"I won't lie to you, and I won't take advantage of you. I saved you. How are you going to thank me?" Johnny smiled.

Ceres suddenly glared fiercely at Johnny, "It's you? You must have drugged me! Then you violated me and framed Kirs!"

"I have witnesses. Get up first," Johnny shrugged.

Johnny said as he walked out, leaving Ceres behind.

When Ceres got out of bed, she felt that her legs were trembling. It seemed that they did...

At that moment, Ceres suddenly felt as if a bolt of lightning had flashed through her brain.

'Why was this feeling so familiar? I was still a virgin, but why did I have such a familiar feeling, as if I had experienced it long ago.' Ceres thought.

When Ceres saw the redness beneath her, her thoughts were pulled back again. Last night was indeed her first night.

Johnny sat on the sofa with a swagger. Nyla and Bob were all there.

Seeing the hickeys on Johnny's neck, Nyla couldn't help but tease, "Well. How crazy was last night! Four years, Johnny. Don't tell me you compensated yourself the lost four years?"

Johnny ignored Nyla.

Bob couldn't help but glance at Nyla. Nyla was cried badly last night. Today, Nyla could even make a joke as if nothing had happened.

Bob didn't know if Nyla was sad or not.

Ceres came down from upstairs after taking a shower. She was very surprised when seeing Nyla, who hurriedly told Ceres what had happened last night.

Nyla and Ceres were besties. Ceres had no reason not to believe Nyla, and she knew that Nyla liked Johnny. Nyla would not send Ceres to Johnny.

So, what Nyla said was credible.

However, Ceres still refused to believe that Kirs was such a person.

Nyla went behind Ceres and suddenly took out a needle and pricked Ceres's neck!