

One Night Stand With The Uninvited Wolf President

Chapter 314 Go and Have a Baby

"What are you talking about? You're very welcome. Just say it."

Matt looked at Ceres lovingly.

"A little while ago, Johny and I were preparing for the wedding. I was suddenly kidnapped, but the other party did nothing. When I woke up, I found myself in a warehouse. Nothing happened to me and this matter was left unsettled."

Ceres continued, "So I was wondering if you could help me find out who kidnapped me. What did they want? Although this matter is over, I am still ill at ease."

Matt nodded, "With Johny's protection, they were still able to kidnap you. They must be very experienced. I'll go and check it out."

"Please!"

"Don't be polite." Matt looked at the ugly red blotches on Ceres's face and sighed. "Sorry to see your face like that. If your father knows, he will definitely blame me. Girl, don't worry. I will find the antidote for you."

Ceres nodded.

Although she was almost sure that Jamie wouldn't leave her any way out, there was still a trace of hope rising in her heart.

No girl wanted to spend their life like this.

They didn't talk much. Matt sent Ceres to the hotel and then left.

Standing before Johny's room, Ceres raised her hands several times but didn't knock at the door.

Just as Ceres was hesitating, the door suddenly opened, giving Ceres a fright.

Johny stood at the door. A trace of surprise flashed through his eyes, and then he returned to his former coldness.

Ceres gave a silly smile.

She didn't expect Johny to turn around and directly go in. He didn't even get his nice on!

Ceres immediately followed and closed the door. Johny sat on the sofa. Ceres was very observant and handed Johny the glass of water on the coffee table.

Johny took the glass, took a sip of water, and then put it down.

Ceres misunderstood Johny and even lost her temper with him. Feeling sorry, she directly sat down next to Johny and wrapped her arms around him.

"Don't be angry, okay?"

"No." Johny kept a straight face.

Ceres was discouraged. She pursed her lips, "I apologized! Just give me a chance. Besides, if you can be less overbearing and unreasonable, I won't..."

"Fine, I am overbearing and unreasonable. Then why did you come back to me?" Johny interrupted Ceres.

"No, no, no," Ceres shook her hands, "I didn't mean it that way. You are wise and mighty. You did everything for me. I am ungrateful and don't know what's good for me."

"Your Majesty, please forgive me!" Ceres shook Johny's arm.

Ceres's way of addressing him brought Johny back to his old days.

"Alright, I'll forgive you this time. Just this once."

Johny lifted Ceres's leg. "Have you recovered? Does it still hurt?"

"Long live Your Majesty!" Ceres leaned against Johny's shoulder.

Johny couldn't help but laugh.

Ceres also seemed to return to the past.

"I'm asking you. Do you still feel pain?"

"No. I just feel itchy sometimes."

"That's because the wound is healing. It will be fine once the new flesh grows." Johny looked at the wound and felt relieved.

Ceres nestled in Johny's arms and suddenly sighed. It turned out that it was like this when she was in love.

Suddenly, she left Johny's arms. "Why didn't you look for me after that day? What if I am bullied by Caleb? Wouldn't you be worried about me at all?"

"I met Matt."

Johnny knew that Matt had come to Country M. He happened to know Matt's whereabouts. In fact, Johny also knew that Ceres and Matt had returned to their hometown. Everything was under his control. It was just that he didn't say it.

He found Matt's whereabouts and knew that Matt was going to the Bullock's. He knew Matt would see Ceres there, so he waited in the hotel for news.

However, what he did not expect was that Ceres was completely out of control. It was a little thrilling, but things still extended as planned.

"So you already know it, and you also know why I misunderstood you?" Ceres glanced at him.

"Yes."

Johny didn't know at that time, but after he thought it over, he figured it out. Only George could make Ceres like this.

Since Matt was here, there was no need to explain.

However, Ceres felt bad, as if she was controlled by this man no matter what happened.

"Do you have anything to say?"

"Curses." Ceres was not in a good mood.

"Do you dare?"

Ceres pursed her lips and shook her head. She just comforted him! How dared she curse him now?

"No."

"Then you don't have other words to say."

"Yes."

Johny stood up and picked Ceres up. "Hey, hey, hey, what are you doing?"

Looking at the little woman in his arms, Johny walked towards the bedroom step by step without a smile, "Time to have a baby."

"What?"

It was until then that Ceres remembered Johnny's grand goal of giving birth to four children.

"I'll find you something to do so that you won't think too much!"

Johny realized that if a woman was pregnant, she would focus more on the child. And as a result, she might not care so much about the past.

He was wrong. He should have worked hard.

"No way!"

Ceres kicked her leg. If there weren't so many things happening, she wouldn't mind being pregnant. But she had many things to deal with now. It was just not the right time.

Johny wouldn't let her get away with it easily.

He threw her on the bed and took off his clothes in almost one go. Ceres resisted a few times before giving up.

Then they had sex.

Johny lay in bed, one hand behind his head and the other holding his phone.

Ceres had already cursed him a thousand times.

"Alright, put on your clothes after you've done with cursing. Don't catch a cold."

Ceres got up and lay down again after casually putting on a set of clothes.

"Go to sleep. I still have some emails to reply to." Johny continued.

"Am I a piece of clothing? You throw me away after you are done with me? Ceres said as she pulled away the cover and prepared to get out of bed.

Johny reached out and pulled her back. "Where are you going?"