

Chapter 68

Sebastian

Star is still holding my hand. She should fucking hate me, all the beating she received because I was a fucking jealous coward.

I had forgotten that sleep over until she started to tell the story. I remember being so jealous of the triplets, especially Alexei. They got to spend time with my lovely cousin.

The day she walked into my cell, she floored me; I had been waiting to be put to death, but she came in and gave me a new life, and since then she has helped me to learn to stand on my own two feet and take responsibility for my actions.

She gave me courage to seek out Juliette, to take back the rejection and beg for her forgiveness. We are taking it slowly, but I am hopeful. Goddess, she is perfect, sweet and kind, but her temper, let's just say I spent a very sore 24 hours icing my balls.

I jump when I hear the door open. The smell of food hits me, and my stomach rumbles. I had been too nervous to eat breakfast this morning.

The triplets walk in, followed by several Omegas. They are all carrying trays and baskets. The boys head to the kitchen. Only Alexei returns. He hugs Star from behind and points to the boxes, "hey gorgeous, what's all this?" She leans back for a kiss, which he very happily gives.

"Seb found some of my parents' things, including my mother's wedding dress." He looks at me, there is a lot of emotion in his eyes, "that was very nice of you Sebastian,” his eyes land on my mate and he smiles, “hey Juliette,”

My mate gives him a smile in return, “hello Alpha Alexei.”

Star smiles at the two of us. “Juliette is Seb’s mate. He wanted to introduce her to us.”

Ace pops his head through the door, “Lunch is ready,” as we walk into the dining room Ace steals Star from Alexei, the later pouts and scowls until Ashton steals her away while Ace is gloating.

They are so happily, Star deserves this, she deserves for everything good this world has to give, and if the rumors are true if someone is after her then I will fight to give it to her.

Food is spread across the table and we are just starting to fill our plates when the sound of male laughter drifts through from the lounge. Ashton jumps up and grabs two more place settings and adds them to the table.

The two men I have seen around the pack walk in. “Ah shit, guys, we didn’t know you had company. We will grab our stuff and head out.”

Star jumps to her feet, “you will not, you’ll sit down and eat, besides there is someone I have been wanting you to meet.”

They sit and Star looks at me, “Sebastian, this is Liam Danvers, my father, and his weird giant of a boyfriend Campbell Lennox, guys this is my cousin Sebastian Fuller.”

Her father? Holy fuck, that one is huge, and they are going to want me dead for what happened to Star. “Actually, I asked the Alpha to change my name, a complete break from the past, so I chose the name of the only person who ever believed in me, so my name is now Sebastian Anderson, I know you will change your name tomorrow but I still would rather be associated with you, Aunt Gem and uncle Alvin.”

Lunch actually goes fairly smoothly. Star's dad asks a few questions, trying to keep away from the subject of the assholes. Star tells them we were talking about her birthday sleepover that I attended, Alexei grins, "I was pissed man, my little Star always fell asleep with her hair on my lap, so I could play with her hair, and along comes this dude comes along and cuddles my bunny. I sulked for days after that."

"Your bunny? When did you ever call me bunny?"

"I used to call you bunny in my head all the time, because every time I called you fairy you would scrunch your cute little nose just like a bunny. Shit, I haven't thought about that in years."

All too quickly, lunch is over and it's time for us to leave. Star walks us to the door, and Juliette thanks my cousin and says she will wait for me outside.

Star hugs me, I stand Rosen for a minute before I sink into her, holding her tight, she whispers in my ear, "it's not too late for us Seb, we are family, maybe not by blood like we thought, but family all the same, I would love it if you and Juliette joined us tomorrow for the wedding, think about it ok, you can sit with Cam."

Nodding, I kiss her cheek. "I don't deserve you, Star, but I am selfish enough to grab everything you will give me. I'll see you tomorrow."

I rush down the stairs to meet Juliette downstairs, but she is waiting on my floor. She walks over and grabs my hand. "Come on, let's go talk in your room."

She sits on my bed and pats the spot besides her, I sit and she takes my hand, playing with my fingers, "Seb, I figure if the Luna can forgive you then so can I," I turn to her and cup her cheeks, leaning in to kiss her, but she stops me with a finger on my lips.

"I swear if you hurt me like that again, it will take more than ice to fix you, got it." I grin, "got it, baby."

She crashes her lips to mine and I groan as the sparks run through my body, I lift her and she straddles me, we are getting hot and heavy, I kiss and suck on her neck, but when I push my hands under her skirt she pulls back, and grabs my hands, “one step at a time Seb we need to spend time together, learn who we are together.”

I grin and kiss her nose, “on that note, will you be my date to the wedding of the century tomorrow? We will be sitting with the family of the Luna,” YES, YES, YES!"

Then she jumps off my lap, kisses me and rushes to the door, “sorry babe, I’ve gotta go shopping.”

Looking at the closed door, I smile. My life is really turning around. I have my cousin back, but more importantly, I have a second chance with my beautiful mate.