

Our Billion 1241

Chapter 1241-The weekend was coming soon.

Edwin took the two children to Atherton Manor in advance, so Catelyn and Cedrick had to leave from Atherton Manor, which was quite close to the amusement park anyway.

However, the next morning, while Catelyn was still sleeping, she heard a noise coming downstairs...

She changed her clothes and went downstairs, seeing that Harry and Edwin were quarreling, while Sharon was holding Puffy in her arms and listening to their quarrel. Sharon panicked at their quarreling, hid behind Edwin, hung her head, and dared not look up...

Even if the sound of their quarrel scared Puffy, she just coaxed Puffy gently.

Harry sneered and stared at Edwin, "Are they the woman and the kid you brought back from the countryside? You even can accept this kind of woman, but why do you always refuse to accept the marriage I have arranged for you?"

Edwin had not spoken to Harry for a long time. When he brought Sharon and Puffy back, he just simply told Harry this matter.

"You are so loud. You are scaring my daughter," Edwin said calmly.

Harry was furious, "Your daughter? I won't admit her. She's not your daughter!

Look at her mother. She's so vulgar!"

He couldn't help adding in his heart, 'A widow from the countryside, and she is illiterate. If people know that she is the mistress of the Atherton family, they will certainly laugh at the Atherton family.' "They are my woman and child, and I don't need you to admit them."

But you are my son. We are related by blood, and you can't undo that." Seeing that his tough attitude didn't work, Harry slowed down and spoke softly.

In order to show that he was weak, he covered his mouth with one hand and coughed lowly, "Eddy, Miss Lane really likes you very much. Why don't you do me a favor and meet her? You can let Puffy be your daughter. As for Sharon, if you really feel guilty, you can give her a sum of money so that she can live happily for the rest of her life..."

Edwin was unmoved and just said lightly, "I'm going to get marriage certificates with Sharon to register Puffy."

"You... You're gonna piss me off, aren't you?"

Edwin looked at Harry's angry face and asked, "Are you reminding me that you are strong and I should be more disobedient?"

Harry originally just wanted to pretend to be weak, but after he heard Edwin's words, he was so angry that he could not breathe easily. He covered his chest with one hand and lay on the sofa. He almost fainted.

The bodyguards who followed Harry hurriedly gathered around and examined Harry's body.

Sharon looked at Edwin's face secretly. 'He doesn't seem to be joking at all.

Does he really want to marry me? He is also interested in me?' Sharon could not help feeling a little elated.

In fact, she was the most beautiful woman in her village, and many men in her village wanted to marry her.

Later, she often did farm work, so her skin became rough and darkened.

Sharon thought, 'As long as I take good care of my skin for a while, I'm sure I can regain my beauty...' Edwin ordered someone to carry Harry away. Then he turned around and saw Sharon's shy expression. Suddenly, he felt irrationally irritable.

"Change your clothes. I will take Puffy and Kitty out to play later."

"Ah?" Sharon was quite happy to hear the first sentence, and soon she turned a little unhappy and suggested, "Puffy is so little. She can't adapt to the outside environment. How about I go with you without Puffy?"

Chapter 1242-Edwin looked up and down at Sharon, "Do you have any misunderstandings about yourself?"

Sharon did not quite understand Edwin's words, so she looked at him blankly.

"There are a lot of young and beautiful girls in Eclipse Entertainment. I wouldn't have brought you if it wasn't a family reunion. What is yours is yours, and if it is not yours, you shall never expect it."

Edwin's ruthless words made the shyness on Sharon's face dissipate instantly.

She felt a little sad, a little aggrieved, and a little embarrassed, thinking, 'Am I really that bad?' Sharon suddenly had a vicious thought in her mind, 'If Puffy gets sick, then we can't go out, right?' Soon she shook her head again.

Although she really wanted to get Edwin's love, she had feelings for Puffy after staying with Puffy for such a long time.

Catelyn and Cedrick with their children, Miles and Ollie, and Edwin and Sharon with Puffy went to the amusement park. As it was the weekend, there were many people in the amusement park.

Edwin had shares of this amusement park, so they took the VIP pass.

Puffy was too young to play or ride anything but just watch.

Although the sun was not bright today, Sharon still held a sunshade.

When others went to play a game or take a ride, she went to a nearby restaurant or other places with air conditioners and coaxed Puffy, so she could not have any fun but just plaintively looked through the window at the others having fun.

Sharon said unhappily, I really don't know why Mr. Atherton took you out. I can't have any fun. If you get a sunburn or feel sick, I even will be scolded."

When she was in the countryside, she often watched TV and saw characters in idol dramas playing in the amusement park together.

She thought it was romantic and felt envious.

Today she was finally standing in an amusement park, but she couldn't enjoy herself.

Thinking about this, she poked Puffy's soft little face with some dissatisfaction, "It's all your fault, little troublemaker."

"Waah." Puffy seemed to perceive Sharon's dislike of her, pursed her lips, and cried in a low voice. Seeing this, Sharon hurriedly hugged Puffy because she was afraid that she would be punished again if Mr. Atherton saw Puffy crying.

At the same time, two four-year-old kids, Miles and Ollie, were very excited even if they were precocious.

They wanted to ride the roller coaster, but the staff explicitly told them that only those over the age of twelve could ride, and Catelyn also refused for fear of danger.

Therefore, Miles and Ollie found Edwin and pleaded.

Edwin held their hands and walked into the security line," Let's go. I will take you to ride the roller coaster."

"Edwin, stop! They can't ride the roller coaster. It's dangerous!" Catelyn shouted.

She used to bring Miles and Ollie here, but they only played games or took rides suitable for them.

Edwin replied lazily, "I'll keep an eye on them. It's okay. Don't worry."

'No, it's too dangerous."

"Mommy, we really want to ride the roller coaster." Miles and Ollie leaned on each side of Edwin's shoulders, looking at Catelyn pitifully.

Catelyn still wanted to say no, but her hand hanging on the side of her leg was gently held by Cedrick.

Her back was slightly stiff. She turned around and met his gentle but playful gaze, "It's okay. I'm sure the boys will play it safe, and we'll go with them."

Catelyn stared at the winding roller coaster, and her leg felt weak. Then she showed a particularly embarrassed expression, "Can... Can I not go? I don't want to ride the roller coaster."

Chapter 1243-Cedrick found a trace of horror hidden in Catelyn's eyes, so his smile deepened, "Are you afraid of riding a roller coaster? N "No." Catelyn didn't admit that, but then she clenched her fist stubbornly and pretended to be relaxed, saying, "Okay, I'll go. I also enjoy the adrenaline rush!"

Just as she finished speaking, there was a roar above her head because a roller coaster passed by her position. The air seemed to be torn, and there was a whistling sound, accompanied by the screams of the women.

Catelyn's legs became weaker. 'Why did I pretend to be relaxed and agree to ride the roller coaster?' Cedrick saw Catelyn's nervous appearance and felt she was very cute. He took her into his arms and rubbed her hair, 'It'll be fine. I'll sit next to you. Hold me if you are afraid.'

Hearing this, Catelyn felt warm, but then she thought, 'If I hold him, I can't hold on to the guard bar. What if I fall?' Catelyn and Cedrick sat in the first row, while Miles, Ollie, and Edwin sat in the second row.

The roller coaster began to creep upward. Although Catelyn was nervous, she still reminded Miles and Ollie, "Hold on to the guard bar during the ride. If you are afraid, close your eyes and don't look at anything. This will only take two or three minutes at most."

However, Miles and Ollie were excited to experience what was coming, and there was no fear on their faces, "Mommy, are you scared?"

"Uh... A little."

"Hahaha, Mommy, you are afraid of roller coasters! No wonder I was only allowed to go for the rides suitable for children." Miles laughed loudly.

Catelyn had no time to say anything because the roller coaster had climbed to the top of the track and was about to fall. Her body went numb, and her heart beat faster.

As she dived, she felt a strong sense of weightlessness.

When Cedrick heard Catelyn's piercing scream, he couldn't help smiling and holding her little hand.

Instead of feeling safe, Catelyn held his hand tightly.

When they arrived at the station, Cedrick's hand was about to be deformed, but he was happy.

Catelyn came down from the carriage, and her legs were so weak that she thought she was walking on cotton.

Meanwhile, her throat ached because of shouting.

No one felt uncomfortable except for her.

Even Miles and Ollie looked at Catelyn with a trace of playfulness and “disdain.”

“Mommy, you’re too weak!” Miles rolled his eyes.

Catelyn stopped pretending and plunged herself into Cedrick’s arms, ‘Til never ride a roller coaster again! If they want to ride again, you go with them...”

Edwin laughed, “Did you hear that? If you two want to ride a roller coaster, you can come to me.”

Miles blew Edwin a kiss, “Uncle, well done!”

As they were about to leave, a staff member stopped them and gave them some photos, which were taken while they were riding the roller coaster together.

Miles and Ollie jumped up and wanted to grab the photos, saying that they wanted to see them.

Catelyn could imagine how nervous she was all that time, so she didn’t look at them. At this moment, there was a sudden sharp pain in her heart, which made her bend over and press her chest...

“What’s the matter?” Cedrick held her and asked.

“Jennie...” Catelyn’s face turned pale. She struggled to spit out the sentence, “I feel like there’s something wrong with Jennie...”

Chapter 1244-Cedrick frowned, "Jennie must be fine. You just got off the roller coaster, and you haven't fully recovered from the thrills of the ride."

"No..." Catelyn shook her head stubbornly and insisted, "It's telepathy. I can feel Jennie is very uncomfortable now. She must be suffering..."

And then she thought, 'But her mom, her dad, and her brothers are having a good time in the amusement park.' At the same time, Sharon was dying of anxiety in a restaurant.

Just now, she took Puffy to the independent nursing room, but Puffy suddenly refused to take breast milk, so she prepared a bottle of formula for her, and Puffy still refused to drink it.

Moreover, Puffy sobbed, and the color of her mouth was abnormal- it was somewhat white.

Sharon originally wanted to coax Puffy again to let her quiet down, but Edwin called her at this moment, saying that they had finished playing and asking her to send him her location, where they could have lunch.

Sharon had no choice but to tell Edwin her location. After hanging up the phone, she coaxed Puffy constantly and wished she would soon be fine, but it didn't happen.

Until Edwin, Catelyn, and the others came over, Puffy was still crying, and her cries were much louder than before.

Catelyn was originally very worried about Jennie, so her heart tightened when she heard Puffy crying.

Puffy was listless with half-closed eyes and an aggrieved face, and she was out of breath because of crying.

Sharon was helpless and sad. She walked to Edwin and said, "I... I'm sorry, Mr.

Atherton. Puffy refused to take milk, and she threw up everything she had eaten before she went out in the morning.”

Puffy usually took milk every two hours, but now it was way past the time when she was supposed to be nursing.

She not only refused to eat but also threw up.

This was definitely not a good sign!

Hearing this, Catelyn strode over and asked, “What’s going on?”

Looking at Sharon, Edwin flew into a rage and snatched Puffy from her arms.

Puffy blinked her big black eyes, but they were not as bright as before.

“I told you to keep an eye on her. Have you been lazy?”

“I stayed in front of the stroller all the time, and I really haven’t taken a step away from her...” Sharon could not bear Edwin’s anger, trembling, “I knew it was hot and shiny After all, Puffy was his daughter, and he must want Puffy to be fine.

Chapter 1245-On the way back, Catelyn became more and more heartwrenching as she listened to Puffy’s crying.

“May I hold her?”

Edwin stared at Catelyn. Two seconds later, he released his hand and handed Puffy to Catelyn carefully, “Be gentle. She is still vomiting.”

"Puffy, I know you feel bad. Just bear with it a little longer, and you'll be home soon. After the doctor's treatment, you'll be comfortable soon." Catelyn hugged Puffy and coaxed her gently.

She suddenly thought of her lost daughter, 'Is she feeling the same way? That's why I have telepathy. Now many people care about and take care of Puffy. If Jennie is sick, will those who kidnapped her take her to see a doctor? What if she suffers from after-effects?' An indescribable heartache was spreading...

Catelyn bowed her head and kissed Puffy's forehead, taking her as Jennie for the time being.

"You must be fine, and wait for mom to save you." She seemed to be comforting Puffy, but it was more like she was talking to Jennie.

Hearing her words, Edwin felt his heart seemed to be stuffed with something, but in the end, he just urged Cedrick, "Drive faster."

Cedrick was speechless, 'Am I a driver?' When they arrived at Atherton Manor, the doctor was ready.

After the examination, the conclusion was surprising.

"Miss Puffy accidentally ingested a chemical. Her stomach and intestines are not fully developed, and she has poor resistance, so she vomited and lost her appetite."

After a pause, the doctor repeatedly stressed to Edwin, "Mr. Atherton, Miss Puffy is really very weak. Next time if you want to go out with her, please take at least one medical worker with you."

Edwin's eyes sank, "It's my fault. I shouldn't take her out."

"Why did she ingest a chemical?" Catelyn didn't agree. After all, Puffy couldn't stay at home all the time. She uttered in a cold tone, "Puffy is so young that she can't get it by herself!"

The next moment, everyone's gazes fell on Sharon.

Sharon's back broke out in cold sweat.

"No, it's not me. I haven't given any chemicals to Puffy. I don't know that stuff!"

She hurriedly waved her hand and explained in fear.

The doctor examined the baby bottle and other baby items brought by Sharon during today's trip and did not find anything unusual.

"So strange. How did Miss Puffy ingest a chemical?"

Suddenly, Catelyn's eyes flashed, and then she stared at Sharon, "Have you taken any medicine recently?"

"Medicine? I'm healthy. I didn't take any medicine." Sharon blurted out.

Edwin asked, "The maids said that you bought a large number of supplements, health products, as well as skincare products. Where are those things? Did the doctor check those things?"

When Sharon heard this, her face turned white.

She remembered that when she went shopping, she bought several bottles of skin toner at the roadside stall. The vendor said that it could tighten her skin, shrink the pores, and take weight off her face.

When Kelly saw those bottles at that time, she reminded her that they were illegal products, but Sharon ignored her words and thought that Kelly was jealous of her.

When she went out in the morning, she secretly dabbed a little on her neck to attract Edwin's attention...

She said in her heart, 'Puffy might accidentally touch it, but that's really only a little bit!'

Chapter 1246-Edwin asked Kelly to give all the things that Sharon had bought to the doctor for examination.

Catelyn glanced at those skin care products and health care products, which were all top brands and cost tens of thousands of dollars.

Only a few skin toners in crystal bottles had no names, so she didn't know what brands they were.

Sharon was extremely frightened and explained in panic, "I was also afraid that the bad ingredients in these things would hurt Puffy. I specially asked the salespeople, and they said that it was best to take these health care products just after giving birth because it could also enhance the baby's resistance."

While examining, the doctor sighed, "Most health care products contain hormones, so they are not suitable for pregnant women..."

Kelly cared about Puffy and said unhappily, "The salespeople can say that the dead things are alive to sell their products. If you really care about Miss Puffy, you should let the doctor examine them! You didn't do that, so now Miss Puffy feels so uncomfortable. Do you think you can bear the consequence?"

"I'm her mother. Would I hurt her? It really has nothing to do with me..." Sharon didn't want to admit that it was her fault, and then she couldn't help saying in her heart, 'It's acceptable that Edwin and Catelyn blamed me. Yet, now Kelly, just a maid, also blames me. Who is she?' However, what the doctor said next completely silenced Sharon.

"Mr. Atherton, I found it. The skin toner is the culprit of Miss Puffy's vomiting!"

Edwin took over the skin toner from the doctor.

The label on the bottle was not even marked with ingredients.

"Sharon, you just said it had nothing to do with you, right?"

“I...”

“Bang!” Edwin suddenly backhanded the skin toner on the ground and stared at Sharon coldly.

Although Catelyn was very angry with Sharon, she cared more about Puffy. She quickly held Puffy in her arms and covered Puffy’s little ears for fear that the sound would frighten Puffy.

Being looked at like this, Sharon felt cold and trembled, which made her about to fall...

The doctor gave an injection to Puffy, so soon she cried loudly.

Catelyn coaxed Puffy and found that a few crystal teardrops were hanging on Puffy’s beautiful eyelashes...

Finally, Puffy leaned against Catelyn’s arms and fell asleep, but her breathing was a little weak.

Edwin’s temples beat quickly, and he said to Catelyn, “Take care of Puffy for a while.”

“Okay.” Catelyn looked at Sharon with a sneer and went to the living room with Puffy.

Miles and Ollie came together and blew air at Puffy.

Edwin turned to Sharon and ordered, “Come up with me. I have something to say to you.”

Sharon trembled and walked slowly as if her legs seemed to be tied to thousands of pounds of things, but she still had to follow him to the second floor.

The bedroom door closed.

As soon as Sharon stepped into the bedroom, she felt a cold wind sweeping across her face. Then her neck was pinched instantly. Edwin pressed her against the wall and said in an extremely cold tone, "Sharon, you are courting death!"

During this period of time, he saw all of Sharon's changes.

He raised her monthly allowance from twenty thousand to two hundred thousand, but sometimes it wasn't enough.

He originally thought that he could give her what she wanted as long as she treated Puffy sincerely and didn't ask too much.

However, it was clear that he underestimated Sharon's vanity and ambition.

"Don't... Please... Forgive me..." Sharon's whole body was shaking. She tried her best to grab Edwin's wrist. Due to being pinched, she breathed hard, her eyeballs slowly protruded, her face turned red, and her eyelids turned outward.

She started hallucinating from the lack of oxygen and was about to faint.

Chapter 1247-Just when Sharon thought she would suffocate to death, Edwin let go of her.

Sharon fell to the ground awkwardly, and her expensive and delicate skirt turned upward so that flesh-colored stockings could be seen clearly, she touched her neck and coughed desperately as if she was about to cough out her lungs...

Edwin sat back on the sofa gracefully, "Do you still remember what you promised me?"

Sharon knelt down at Edwin's feet, shaking subconsciously.

"I... I dare not forget a word. You asked me to take good care of Miss Puffy and play her mother in front of outsiders. In return for this, you said you would give me twenty thousand a month and raise my daughter who lived in the countryside."

She was originally a peasant woman in the countryside near Sapphire City, but her husband suddenly died in an accident, and she was pregnant at that time.

Edwin saw her when he went to the suburbs to see the investment land.

She had just given birth to her daughter, with no one to take care of her and no source of income. She was so weak that she fainted at Edwin's feet at that time.

Edwin was rarely kind-hearted and sent her to the hospital for an examination.

Later, he found that she was in good health and had plenty of breast milk, so he asked her to follow him to the manor.

"Is this how you take care of Puffy? If anything happens to Puffy, you and your daughter will not have tomorrow!"

"I... I know I was wrong. Don't hurt my daughter." Sharon was so scared that she repeatedly kowtowed to Edwin for mercy. She loved her daughter. Everytime she held Puffy, she always thought of her daughter.

"Reflect on yourself. After an hour, take a bath and go down to breast-feed."

After saying that, Edwin opened the door and left.

Sharon seemed to be drained of all her strength, lying on the ground.

At this time, Edwin was standing in the corridor on the second floor. He saw that Cedrick was trying to hold Puffy with a straight face and that Catelyn was teaching him.

“No, the baby’s spine is not fully developed. Your hands should go up a little bit...” Catelyn said seriously.

For the first time, Cedrick had a discordant gesture, moving his hands stiffly.

He was afraid that he would wake up Puffy if he used too much force, or he would hold Puffy unsteadily if he used too less. ‘She is so little and so fragile.’ “Cedrick, you are so stupid. You make Puffy uncomfortable.” Seeing Cedrick’s awkward gesture, Catelyn rolled her eyes and then showed him how to hold Puffy. “Yes, raise this hand a little bit. You see, now Puffy is not feeling uncomfortable.”

Puffy was probably tired, so she slept soundly.

Although Cedrick held Puffy stiffly, his heart turned soft when he saw her white and tender face.

Feeling warm, he even automatically ignored that Catelyn had said he was stupid in front of his sons.

“She seems to be a little heavier than some time ago.”

Catelyn was very satisfied with Cedrick’s patience, “Yeah, as long as she gets enough sleep, she will grow quickly.”

Cedrick looked at Puffy carefully.

Her curved eyebrows, her high nose, her beautiful red mouth, and her face shape...

Suddenly, he turned around to stare at Catelyn and then looked at Puffy again.

Finally, his gaze fell on Catelyn’s face.

Catelyn asked in confusion, “Is my face dirty?”

"Close your eyes," Cedrick said.

"Ah?"

"Come on. Close them!" Cedrick ordered.

Chapter 1248-"So strange," Catelyn mumbled, but then she closed her eyes obediently.

Cedrick picked up Puffy, put her sweet-sleeping little face close to Catelyn's face, and compared them carefully. 'They are so much alike. Especially Puffy's eyebrows and mouth are really Catelyn's miniature version.

Cedrick suddenly felt that the little girl in his arms became very heavy.

"Can I open my eyes now?" Catelyn heard that Cedrick didn't do anything, so she subconsciously asked.

After waiting a few seconds, Catelyn still didn't hear any sound.

Catelyn slowly opened her eyes. She saw Cedrick holding up Puffy. The warm golden sunshine passed through the glass window and fell on Puffy's little body, which made her sacred.

"Have you noticed that Puffy looks like you?" There was more earnestness and tenderness in Cedrick's eyes.

Catelyn did not understand Cedrick's words, but she still nodded instinctively, "She is my niece. Shouldn't she be so much like me?"

"Sharon is her mother. Do you think Puffy looks like her?" Cedrick asked. The doubts in his words were obvious.

However, Catelyn still didn't think much about it and murmured, "From the first day I saw Puffy, I wondered why she was nothing like Sharon. I guess the genes of the Atherton family are too strong."

Cedrick glanced at her and did not know what to say.

On the second floor, Edwin watched the scene of Catelyn's family surrounding Puffy silently.

Therefore, he saw the change in Cedrick's eyes.

Cedrick returned Puffy to Catelyn, put one hand into his pocket, and then turned around. Inadvertently, he met Edwin's gaze. After two seconds, they both looked away.

Cedrick went straight to the living room and called Eason.

"Investigate Sharon's background, especially what happened during her affair with Edwin, including the details of her giving birth. The more detailed, the better." Eason was confused and asked, "Mr. Mason, are you also helping Miss Winters?"

Cedrick frowned and was a little expectant, "What do you mean?"

"Two days ago, Mrs. Mason also told me to collect evidence of Mr. Atherton's affair with Sharon." Eason was honest and continued, "Mrs. Mason said that Mr.

Atherton had gone too far this time and that she must teach him a lesson. She asked me to find some evidence, preferably video, and give them to Miss Winters to help her ask for property compensation."

Cedrick touched his forehead. Just now, he actually thought that Catelyn had realized something...

"Investigate Sharon Collins in detail quickly."

“Okay.” Eason said and then added, “By the way, that killer’s phone has been unlocked, and I found a lot of things.”

“I see. I’ll go back to Mason Estate later.”

Upstairs, Edwin saw Cedrick was seriously calling someone and looking at Puffy from time to time.

Edwin thought, ‘The secret is about to be revealed. It doesn’t matter. I don’t want to hide it from Kitty all the time.’ He stepped into the study, turned on the computer, and opened the website where Catelyn promised to give a big reward to anyone who helped her to find her daughter.

He arranged for a lot of people to keep an eye on this website every day. Once they found that an IP could be Joanne’s, they locked it down immediately.

Chapter 1249-Over the past half a month, they had locked down a lot of IPs, but none of them was Joanne’s.

It was like she was destined to leave and never come back.

When Catelyn knew that there was a clue to help her to find her daughter, she was anxious and didn’t want to wait. After telling Kelly to take good care of Puffy, she hurried back to Mason Estate with Cedrick.

Miles and Ollie were more worried about Puffy, so they stayed at Atherton Manor.

By the time Catelyn and Cedrick arrived at Mason Estate, Eason was already waiting for them with a group of technicians.

‘Mr. Mason, this is that killer’s phone...” Eason handed the decrypted phone to Cedrick, “Although that killer refused to say anything, he was very cautious so that we had a chance. He was afraid that Mr. Denson would kill him, so he saved evidence every time Mr. Denson arranged for him to kill someone else.

He has killed a lot of people in just a few years.”

Cedrick scanned the names on the screen.

Many people were senior executives of the Mason Group, and they were all loyal to the Mason family.

In the past few years, they died strangely in a variety of unexpected ways, including drowning in his own pool because of leg cramps, being killed in an explosion caused by a gas leak, being killed in a car accident, and falling off the cliff while climbing a mountain...

Everyone thought their deaths were accidents, but in fact, they were the results of Mr. Denson's orders.

"It seems that the mysterious Mr. Denson really hates the Mason family."

Cedrick sneered and found a clue on the phone about the murder in France last year, 'This Mr.

Denson has planned many things.' "Although there are many clues on the phone, they are scattered and of little use. Now we still can't know Mr. Denson's real identity..." Eason heaved a long sigh of frustration.

That killer was so nervous about his cell phone, and the encryption was military grade, so Eason thought there must be some important clues, but he didn't expect...

The only thing on the phone was a list of people he had killed.

"Not necessarily." A trace of coldness flashed in Cedrick's eyes, "Perhaps the most inconspicuous place is the most important place."

Eason was at a loss, "But we have checked all the documents that should be checked..."

"What about the call records?" Cedrick asked.

Eason saw the light. They just thought that the evidence must be a certain document or a certain video, so they ignored some details.

“That day, I had an appointment with Ezekiel in the afternoon, and the news was also known to others temporarily on the same day. When Mr. Denson arranged for this killer to hunt down Ezekiel, they must be in a hurry, so maybe there are clues in the call records.”

Cedrick looked at the killer’s call records while speaking.

There were all numbers and no names.

Catelyn’s gaze also fell on these phone numbers, “If the killer really received the task temporarily, according to the time, it should be after we negotiated with Ezekiel...”

In addition, Eason and the technology department also screened out many phone numbers, so there were just a few phone numbers.

None of these phone numbers could be found on the Internet, nor did they know to whom they belonged.

If they called the wrong number, Mr. Denson would know they had found something.

In that case, if they wanted to find any clues again, they needed to rearrange...

Catelyn was in deep anxiety and worry. After all, her daughter was in this Mr.

Denson’s hands, and this was the closest time for them to find Mr. Denson.

All of a sudden, she suddenly thought of Ezekiel and immediately said to Eason, “Show me Ezekiel’s call records. Let’s compare and see if we can lock a certain phone number.”

When Ezekiel was hunted after he had been released from prison, his first reaction must be Mr. Denson wanted to kill him.

Cedrick could directly kill him in prison, and there was no need for Cedrick to release him before killing him.

Chapter 1250-In order to survive, Ezekiel definitely had contacted Mr. Denson for negotiation.

He should have found a way to contact Mr. Denson or some people close to Mr.

Denson.

According to the later results, the negotiation must have failed, so Ezekiel had no choice but to come to Catelyn for help. In this case, Mr. Denson was afraid that Ezekiel would give Catelyn some clues against him, so he arranged for the killer to take Ezekiel's life downtown.

Eason immediately did exactly as Catelyn had said. After a while, they found two identical phone numbers in that killer's and Ezekiel's call records!

One of the phone numbers was called shortly after Ezekiel got out of prison.

The other one was called twenty minutes before Ezekiel's car accident.

Catelyn pointed to the latest call record, "Could it be this?"

Cedrick turned Ezekiel's mobile phone, and his eyes gradually became cold.

Then he dialed that phone number and asked someone in the technical department to track the phone number.

“Beep...” Waiting for the call to be connected, Catelyn was so nervous that her heart jumped to her throat, “What if this number is not Mr. Denson’s? Do you remember that Ezekiel said that he had asked a private investigator to look into Mr. Denson?”

Take a gamble.” Cedrick knew what Catelyn was worried about, so he gently held her hand to comfort her, “He is in the dark, and we are in the light. We need to know who he is. We can’t be so passive forever.”

What he feared most was that his daughter was in that guy’s hands.

Now his daughter was probably safe, so he had nothing to worry about.

Suddenly, the call was connected...

Catelyn held her breath for a moment.

The other party did not speak but waited silently for a few seconds.

The news of Ezekiel’s death was not only blocked by the police but also was broadcasted on TV, so the person on the other end of the phone knew very well that the caller must not be Ezekiel.

Cedrick did not take the initiative to open his mouth but urged Eason to track the location quickly.

A few seconds later, the person realized that he could no longer be quiet like this, “Who are you? Using Ezekiel’s phone to call me. What do you want to do?”

A thick male voice came, and Cedrick could tell that the voice was a little bit tentative. He was sure that he had not heard it before. Soon he thought maybe the person used a silencer.

“I’m just a nobody. Don’t waste your time on me, but... before Ezekiel died, he asked someone to do an investigation about your identity. I think you should be very interested in it, right?”

"I don't know what you're talking about." The other party said coldly and was about to hang up the phone.

Cedrick was not in a hurry and said calmly to stop him, "It seems that Ezekiel has investigated the wrong person. I think you don't mind if I post the investigation report on the Internet, right?"

The other party was suddenly silent for a moment, and then he asked in a deep tone, "Do you think I will be afraid of you?"

"You haven't forgotten all that murder twenty years ago, have you? You have killed so many people. Even if I just expose one of them, you will have no chance of survival." Cedrick was not sure of this guy's identity, so he deliberately tricked him with known information.

In order to make this guy believe in him more, he put a condition, "Twenty million dollars in cash with no consecutive numbers, and put them in my designated place three days later. I will give you the investigation report.

Otherwise, you will bear the consequences."

The person did not refute the murder twenty years ago and just coldly sneered, "Who are you? How dare you threaten me?"

'This man is probably Mr. Denson!' Cedrick's eyes were cold.

"Ezekiel asked me to do an investigation, but you killed him before I gave him the report and received the money. Someone should pay for this, right? N At this time, Eason gave the OK sign to Cedrick, telling him that he had found the location.

Cedrick began to get tough and continued to say, "I'll call you again at the same time three days later. Get the money ready. It's your last chance!"

After saying that, Cedrick hung up the phone directly.

“Where is the location?” Cedrick asked Eason.

Eason turned the laptop screen in his hand. A red triangle symbol bounced on the satellite map, “It is at a government-owned residence in Sapphire City.”

‘A government-owned residence?’
