

Our Billion 481

Chapter 481-Ivan was facing immense pressure. He had to please the rich woman, secure the project, and reinstate their company's status. If the project was called off and the scandals got out of control, he would definitely be ruined.

That was why Catelyn could see Ivan's team putting in long hours, and working deep into the night or the weekend was common for them.

What was scary was that Ivan's temper got worse. He would often scream at his team.

Jolene was a very patient person but had been crying a few times because of Ivan.

cause She secretly vented about it to Catelyn.

Catalyn took the opportunity to ask about Ivan's direction for the design. Jolene was coincidentally not happy to work with him, and she spilled everything to her.

After that, she was a little stunned. "Kitty, are you thinking of messing this project up?" "No." Catelyn shook her head firmly.

Jolene patted her chest. "Great, I still need to earn a living from this project." "I want to remove Ivan completely from the VSA Group!" Jolene's jaw was unhinged.

In the afternoon, Catelyn carried the documents to the printing room. Amy was also carrying a stack of documents into the room. Amy glared at her, but could not do anything because of William's warning.

Catelyn photocopied the documents and pretended not to have seen Amy. At that very moment, she received Jolene's call.

“Yes? The documents?” “I have passed it to you, did you not receive it?” “They need it urgently? Okay, I will be back.” Then, Catelyn organized her documents and placed them next to the photocopy machine. She looked at Amy hesitantly but still left the room in a hurry.

Amy was unimpressed by Catelyn’s gesture, as though anyone would be interested in her documents.

Wait, her documents?

Amy looked around and made sure no one was around and flipped open the documents in curiosity.

When her gaze fell upon one of the pages, she could not move away anymore... She secretly stuck a sticker on the surveillance camera to cover up the camera lens and then used her phone to take photos of the documents.

When Catelyn and Jolene returned to the room, Amy walked away smugly in her high heel shoes, grinning.

She even deliberately brushed against Catelyn’s elbow as she left. Jolene quickly supported her and glared at Amy. Amy did not look at her but walked away happily. As soon as she left, Jolene frowned and said, “Kitty, will this work?” “Amy and Ivan are both in hot waters, and they need to secure the project to secure their status. I am giving them a shortcut. They will be useful,” Catelyn said calmly.

William rehired her because of Ivan. Of course, she had to thank them for it.

She needed to let them understand that the Americans were not easy people!

Soon, it was the weekend.

Cedrick wanted to bring the two babies for horse riding at the royal turf club, but unfortunately, one of the ponies fell ill and had to be treated. Cedrick decided to postpone it to the following weekend or the one after that.

The two babies glared at him unhappily.

“Big Demon is lying to kids! He is a bad person!” Miles complained to Catelyn.

He had deliberately put on his cowboy outfit, and was told at the last minute that it was called off...

Chapter 482-Even if they could not ride the pony, they could still pat it or take some photos with it.

Ollie had also prepared for a long time for this, only to be disappointed.

Even if his sons were complaining about him, Cedrick was still adamant.

“This was unexpected. I did not call it off, I only postponed it.” His dark eyes swept past Catelyn’s belly.

Pregnant women had a generally weaker immunity than normal people, and he could not afford to have her get any infection.

Catelyn knew that her sons were looking forward to riding the ponies and turned to ask Cedrick gently, “Miles and Ollie both have changed into their gears. They are really looking forward to going to the turf club. As a father, you should be a role model to them and keep to your promise...” Cedrick looked at his son’s handsome coat.

He was wearing a pair of denim jeans. There was a star pattern on his chest, in the middle of which was a superhero’s symbol. He looked extra adorable when pouting.

Even though Catelyn was not wearing denim today, she was wearing a blue jacket as well.

Coincidentally, Cedrick himself was wearing a blue suit.

They were all matching each other.

"I am coincidentally free today. I could bring you all to go shopping," he said egotistically.

Miles immediately declined and made a cross with his hands. "I wanna ride ponies!" Ollie was unhappy too. He had the same long face as Miles, except he did not point his finger at Cedrick and call him a liar.

Cedrick ignored their opinions and dragged Catelyn to the car park. If Catelyn leaves, the two kids will have to follow.

Catelyn was nailed to the ground and would not budge, Cedrick did not dare to tug her into the car as he would before but merely raised his eyebrows and asked, "You don't want to?" "We don't need to buy anything." "Who said you don't?" Cedrick's eyes swept past Catelyn's flat belly again and said, "You need pregnancy clothes, supplements, and many more unless you want the child in your uterus to be malnourished." "Child?" Miles caught the keyword and froze. "What child?" Ollie widened his big eyes too. "Mummy, are you pregnant with Father's child again?" Nonetheless, they were not back together yet!

ere Catelyn's face blushed. "No, I am not..." "I know you don't want to tell them about it, but the fact is that you are pregnant." Cedrick 'exposed' Catelyn's 'white lie' and took one glance at Miles and Ollie from the corner of his eyes.

He seemed to have found a way to fight the two kids.

"Understand? Catelyn will be having a new baby, and both of you will no longer be the youngest babies at home. Please don't use your age as an excuse anymore. You could no longer use your fawning as a weapon." Miles and Ollie were both frozen in their spots.

ws ever.

They turned to get verification from Catelyn as though they had just heard the worst news ever. Miles' eyes were even red and watery, as though he was on the brink of breaking into tears. Is Mummy going to have another baby?

Ollie and Big Demon were both enough trouble to him. Would he become the baby that nobody wanted?

Cedrick saw the kids in shock and depressed and was very satisfied with the outcome.

So as Finally, he was not the only person to be affected by the news of Catelyn being pregnant.

"Cedrick Mason, don't you freak the children out!" Catelyn was totally confused by what Cedrick had done.

She furiously stared at Cedrick, squatted before the kids, and consoled carefully, "Don't you listen to your daddy. I am not pregnant, and I will not be having a new baby! I will still be your Mummy..." "Why would you have babies together?" Miles obviously did not buy Catelyn's explanation. His wounded gaze was fixated on Catelyn's belly.

Chapter 483-Before Catelyn could say anything, the little one asked stubbornly again, "Will I be abandoned when the new baby is born?" "Of course not! You and Ollie will be my favorite babies, and I am really not pregnant..." Ollie did not believe in Catelyn's claims and pointed his little finger at her belly, his eyes glittering with hope. "Will the baby be our baby sister? Can I touch it?" Catelyn was speechless.

Everyone really thought she was pregnant!

She took one hostile look at the culprit.

Cedrick was, however, unbothered by it. He was even whistling.

"In two months' time, you will not be able to hide your bulging belly anymore. So can you go shopping with me?" Catelyn was speechless.

The lie was repeated so many times that Cedrick thought it was true and even used it against her two babies.

It was as though she had dug a hole and buried herself alive.

At Riverdale Mall.

Mason Group not only had a subsidiary in Franche, but also expanded into the luxury retail malls.

Cedrick brought the three of them along and went straight to the mother and baby store.

In fact, Cedrick was just making an excuse to take her shopping. Of course, he would not want to see her pregnant with George's kid!

So, he simply picked out a few pieces of clothing, signed the bill, filled in their address to send the goods to, and then brought the three of them to another mall next door.

He had not properly given her a present since they had arrived at Franche.

He had seen her clothes in her wardrobe, and they were all cheap clothing from online boutiques.

On the other hand, the two babies were usually relatively luxuriously spoiled.

This was the first time that the four of them went out to the mall like a proper family. Before this, they were either sneaking around in secret, or either of them could be seen at each time.

Cedrick and Catelyn were walking in a line, with Ollie and Miles between them.

Miles proactively held onto Catelyn's hand. His palm wrapped around her index finger tightly, like a needy little baby.

On the contrary, Cedrick was tugging at Ollie's hand forcefully, contrasting with Catelyn's lovely interaction with Miles.

They all attracted a lot of attention from the passersby in the mall.

Perhaps Miles was mindful that Catelyn was pregnant, so he was not as playful as he usually was.

Ollie did not say anything but would peek at Catelyn's belly every now and then.

When exactly did Father stuff a baby into Mummy's belly?

"Look! That man is so hot!" "Don't dream about it. He already has two sons..." "The two kids are so adorable. I wish I could pinch their little cheeks." In the corner, a pair of young ladies were talking about them.

Ollie pursed his lips upon hearing this and looked at the young ladies unhappily.

He would not simply let people pinch his cheeks!

Unexpectedly, the girl was even more excited seeing his expression, "Oh my God, did you see the little guy's expression? He looks so cool! The girl looks very young. Could she be the sister of the twins? I might stand a chance?" Cedrick's cold gaze fell upon the girl immediately.

The girl was taken aback by the hostile look and hugged her chest exaggeratedly. Her pupils constricted, but she shouted, "Oh my God, I am in love!"

Chapter 484-Catelyn thought Cedrick looked annoying too.

Why was he so captivating to have attracted so much attention?

Miles did not want to be seen anywhere near Cedrick too. Miles got loose from Catelyn's hand when they passed by a jewelry shop and excused himself to the toilet.

Ollie wanted to go too, so he followed.

Catelyn wanted to accompany the two of them, but Cedrick stopped her.

“Let me go with them. You can stay here and rest,” the man said sternly and pulled out a black card from his wallet and passed it to her.

Catelyn pushed the card back. “I don’t want it. Plus, why did you threaten Ollie and Miles? You already knew Miles is sensitive about it...” “I was just telling the truth, or are you not pregnant? So you will not have a baby younger than them?” Cedrick ignored her and stuffed the card into her hand.

No matter what he did, she would reject him.

“Let me know if you see anything that suits my sons. I will buy all of them.” Catelyn was speechless.

Catelyn snickered, thinking to splurge using his card then!

Cedrick brought the two little ones to the restroom, and Catelyn went to the jeweler right opposite.

She was only there because the jewelry was expensive, She could also buy some gemstones for home decoration.

The sales associate at the jewelry store saw that Catelyn, who was dressed humbly, only asked her if she needed anything out of courtesy.

Catelyn scanned around the store.

“Show me your best gemstones in store, please.” The sales associate was slightly taken aback to see how confident Catelyn was.

She smiled and brought Catelyn to the designated waiting area and took out a few precious gemstones together with another sales associate.

These were all rare and precious gemstones collected from all over the world.

Catelyn picked up a tourmaline bracelet and tried it on.

It was so pure and clear. The color was so saturated, contrasting with each other.

When she turned to take a look at the price tag, her impulse to purchase the bracelet vanished.

It would normally be around seven to eight thousand dollars in her home country, but the price tag suggested at least ten-fold here in Franche.

She calmed down and decided to return this tourmaline bracelet. Suddenly, she heard a high-pitched woman's voice. "Catelyn, why are you here?" Amy, followed by a few sidekicks behind her, strode into the shop smugly.

She subconsciously took a look at her surroundings. She made sure Edwin and George were not in the vicinity before grinning at Catelyn.

"Miss, you have to be careful. She is a pathetic little slum from the west. She does not have any money! Don't you tarnish the beautiful tourmaline..." The sales associate seemed to have a subtle change in her expression after hearing Amy's remarks.

"Miss, are you going to purchase this tourmaline bracelet? If not, please remove it." Catelyn was even wearing a thin layer of disposable gloves on her hand to prevent her sweat from tarnishing the gemstones. The sales associate was suddenly grateful that she had made a good decision to have Catelyn put on the gloves beforehand.

"Hey, why do I find this top you are wearing a little familiar?" Amy's sidekick appeared and pointed at Catelyn's clothes, pretending to be surprised. "I remember now!! saw it at the roadside market, five dollars for one, fifteen for three, the quality is really bad. I could not even use it as a rug!" Amy shrieked,

“There are five dollars clothes? It is even less than what I would normally give to a beggar! Catelyn, as your colleague, I genuinely suggest you upgrade your taste...

Chapter 485-Catelyn listened to the both of them insulting her, responding to each other in such seamless synchrony, her face spasming She was planning to ignore them, but they were too excited, and she felt that she had to say something.

“My taste might not be the most outstanding, but I am much better than the gold diggers. By the way, I forgot to ask you, did you delete all the videos with Ivan online?” Amy choked and immediately looked dangerous.

She walked in front of Catelyn and hunched slightly, lowering her mouth to Catelyn’s ear.

“Don’t you be too condescending about it. Even if the videos have all been exposed, the company will protect Uncle Ivan and me. Once this issue passes, the director and Uncle Ivan will not let you get away with it!” “Are you done?” Catelyn looked at her lazily. “I will go to the bathroom. You take your time.” She took out the tourmaline and placed it back in the tray.

She saw the sales associate’s judging expression, but she would not buy it even if she had the money.

If she made her purchase, she would be contributing to her sales performance!

However, as soon as Catelyn reached the exit of the jewelry store, the store alarm rang.

The red lights above the door were shining in bright red light.

The sales associates were alerted. This meant that someone attempted to bring the gemstones out of the store without paying for them!

“Quick, someone is stealing!” The sales associate called the security guard.

Catelyn and a few other customers were detained.

A few other customers were starting to grumble about the situation. Amy and her sidekick suddenly appeared and pointed their fingers at Catelyn. "It's her! I saw with my own eyes that when she reached the door, the alarm sounded! She is the thief!" "Don't you simply accuse her for it. She may be poor, but she has dignity." Amy covered her mouth and laughed.

Even though it sounded like she was defending Catelyn, her tone made it sound like Catelyn was the suspicious one.

Soon, they examined the rest of the customers, the items on them were all paid for.

Everyone's gaze fell upon Catelyn.

"I did not steal, and I am not a thief," Catelyn said and then took a glance at the alarm.

"Perhaps the alarm is faulty, or I have a bracelet myself that the security system wrongly identified?" "Impossible. Our security alarm will only react to specified items," The sales associate denied, "Madam, to prove your innocence, please hand over your handbag, and follow us to the changing room for a thorough examination." Catelyn was about to nod but realized her bag's zipper was loose.

A shining diamond ring was placed in her bag.

Catelyn realized she had fallen into their trap again.

She moved her hand back so that no one could see the item in her bag.

"Are you suspecting me because I am foreign? Let me repeat it one more time. I did not steal. Get your manager here. I demand to take a look at the surveillance footage." The sales associate frowned, "The manager is out for the examination. Madam, please do not force us to take forceful action." "She is guilty. Otherwise, why would she not allow you to examine her bag..." Amy was over the moon. She wanted to see how else Catelyn could get out of it!

She could not lay a finger on her in the office, but they were out at the mall now.

Even if something happened to Catelyn, William could not blame Amy for it.

The two security guards walked to Catelyn. Catelyn was about to take her black card out to threaten them when the manager came back.

Chapter 486-The manager was an American too. When he saw Catelyn, he was slightly surprised.

“Manager, this lady right here is suspected of having stolen something from our store but refuses to hand her bag over for an examination,” the sales associate complained.

Amy was happily onlooking, waiting for the drama.

“Did you just say she stole something?” The manager looked at Catelyn in disbelief.

He looked up and down at Catelyn and did not say anything.

“She is a thief!” Amy saw that the manager did not make any instructions, so she said angrily, “Please search her immediately, make her pay for it!” ‘Men are trash. They could not even move their gaze away once they saw a beautiful woman,’ she thought.

The manager frowned even more. After a few minutes, he walked to the alarm and then fumbled around it for a bit. He then announced to everyone, “This lady here is a woman of class. She will not steal. It is our alarm that is faulty. Madam, you may leave now.” Catelyn was taken aback by what the manager said too.

She was a woman of class?

She was just one foreign woman in France. There was nothing classy about her.

Amy widened her eyes too and blurted out at the manager, “Are you simping for her? Is that why you turn a blind eye? Your alarm is fully functioning. Everyone else could leave, and the alarm did not make a sound, except for her! Where is your boss? Aren't you afraid that your boss will blame it on you?" The manager clenched his jaw, then said, "Miss, please be respectful." Catelyn could tell that the way he looked at her was not a lusty gaze. Instead, it was somewhat respectful.

She tried her best to recall but was certain that she had not met him before.

Could he be someone that her father knew before?

Perhaps he recognized her as Miss Clark?

No matter what, Catelyn decided to leave the place and will return the jewelry when she had the chance.

Catelyn nodded at the manager. Then the manager sent her out respectfully.

Amy gritted her teeth. She had already put the diamond ring in her bag... "She must have stolen the jewelry!" Then, Amy dashed to Catelyn.

Catelyn did not expect Amy to do this, and her handbag was pulled away when she was off guard.

Her items were all scattered on the floor, and a diamond ring was shining brightly in everyone's eyes. Everyone was shocked.

The sales associates and security guards all looked at Catelyn and the manager oddly.

The manager was still saying that this woman did not steal!

Then what was going on with this diamond ring?

"This man is so scandalous to have a double standard for pretty ladies. He indulged Catelyn in stealing a diamond ring from their own store..." Amy's sidekick deliberately said it loudly.

Amy picked up the diamond ring from the pile of personal items and said smugly, "I said this woman is a thief." "We should never let a thief get away easily!" "Call 911..." "Manager, this is out of the line. Did you wish to compensate for the diamond ring when we close by the end of the day?" The manager and Catelyn had become everyone's center of attention now.

However, the manager was much calmer than Catelyn. He said, "Are you done?"

I believe Miss Clark would not steal the diamond ring because..." Amy snickered. "Because of what? Don't tell me that you wanted to say this store belonged to her. I would be laughing!" However, as soon as she said that, a calm man's voice said, "You're right, this store is hers."

Chapter 487-The voice was not loud but was enough for everyone at the scene to have heard it.

Everyone fell silent.

Cedrick, with the two little boys next to him, were all pouting. They had the same 'cool' look.

"Ced... Cedrick?" Amy and her sidekick were shocked to see his familiar face.

Amy immediately went forward with a smile and did not even have time to think about what he had just said.

"Why are you here? It's such a coincidence. My name is Amy, and I work at the VSA Group. We met one time by the beach the other day. Not sure if you still remember me?" Cedrick seemed not to have seen her and walked straight to Catelyn.

Her items were all scattered on the floor.

Cedrick frowned and then kneeled before Catelyn.

He picked up the lipstick, mirror, and other personal items from the ground.

Catelyn was a little taken aback by his actions.

“Let me pick it up.” She was subtly blushing from ear to ear and wanted to pick her things up herself.

Cedrick looked up into her eyes, and his deep gaze could drown just anyone.

Even the cold, sharp lines on his face appeared to be gentle.

“Don’t sweat it.” His voice was sexy and magnetic, enough to stun Catelyn.

The two babies saw Cedrick’s hypocritical action, and exchanged looks with each other, then went forward to help out too.

Their tiny hands were agile and could pick up the items from the ground swiftly.

Amy had not recovered from being ignored by Cedrick and then saw Cedrick with his sons all kneeling beside Catelyn.

They did not realize how humble they seemed, so she was suddenly crossed.

She could not help but wonder, what exactly was so good about this low and humble American woman?

Why did all the American men just stick right up for her whenever they saw her?

“Cedrick, this is a local French brand. Even if you would like to play favoritism, you should at least do your homework! What is so good about her? She has a flat body, short legs, and bad fashion sense. Don’t you think I am much prettier than she is?” In other words, please just fling her away, and come to me.

Haha... The sales associate and the store manager were all laughing lightly.

Not sure if they were laughing at Amy for her oblivion or for her ridiculous logic.

Cedrick was still looking indifferent. He kept the items one by one and then stood up.

"Check if there's anything missing." He passed the bag to Catelyn, and he even dusted off the dirt on the bag.

"Okay," Catelyn responded and took the bag.

Miles looked at Amy, full of disdain.

It's this evil aunt again.

She wanted to snatch their spot when they first met, and now she was making it difficult for Mummy.

Miles sighed and said, "I regretted not having brought my single-lens reflex camera today." "Why?" Ollie asked.

"Because the phone camera pixels are not enough to show how evil this aunt is!" Miles smirked. Amy then realized she was once again fooled by this pair of twins.

Chapter 488-"You... You guys!" The manager looked at Cedrick, then took a bow and came by with some documents in his hand.

"Cedrick, I have communicated with our store owner, and he is willing to sell this store. Now, the store belongs to Miss Clark." His voice was shaking as though afraid to annoy Cedrick.

Earlier, when he was looking around, he saw Cedrick with a pair of twins and a woman.

He was from Sapphire City himself and had heard about the grand wedding two months ago.

Rumors had it that a mysterious woman crashed the wedding, breaking the two families up.

When he saw the four of them appearing at the mall together, there was almost no doubt... That Catelyn was the biological mother of the twins.

She had such a prestigious identity and could easily move mountains with her fingers. Why would she need to steal?

es Cedrick glanced at the agreement, and his cold gaze swept past Amy too. "This store now belongs to Catelyn. Did she need to steal her own belongings? Miss Amy, do you think it's better for me to check the surveillance footage or get the police to investigate this?" Amy looked displeased.

"No way. When you were on the beach, Catelyn was lying right before you. You hated her." The manager then recognized that Amy was the woman in the viral video from a few days ago.

"No wonder you had your scandalous video exposed. These two babies called Miss Clark Mummy and Cedrick daddy. Isn't it obvious to you what their relationship is? You are not only racist but also blind, I guess!" Amy was indeed oblivious to the fact that Cedrick and the twins were related.

She was always of the impression that the Americans all look the same.

The sales associate then quickly checked the surveillance footage and realized it was Amy who stole the ring and stuffed it into Catelyn's bag.

When the truth was uncovered, Amy panicked. Beads of sweat started forming on her forehead.

She could not be sent to jail. She needed to rely on Ivan and climb the corporate ladder to become a renowned designer.

“Ced... Cedrick, I am sorry, I am wrong, I really am sorry.” Amy froze for a few seconds and suddenly kneeled before Cedrick like a mad person. “I was wrong to have framed Miss Clark. Please forgive me this one time...” Cedrick had to suppress his urge to kick Amy right in her face.

“Kitty, how do you wish to handle her?” The man’s voice was so soft and gentle and he even deliberately lowered his voice to sound seductive and affectionate at the same time.

It was rare for Catelyn to hear him address her with such an intimate nickname.

She pinched her palm to make sure she was not dreaming.

Catelyn was not dumb to forgive Amy.

“Let me see...” Amy could no longer process the thought that the man behind Catelyn was, in fact, Cedrick. Her brain was fried, and she was busy begging for Catelyn’s mercy.

“Kitty, please forgive me this one time. I will not do this again. You exposed my video, and I was attacked by the entire internet. Please don’t send me to jail...” Tsk, as if Catelyn did not end up tragic when framed by Amy?

If it was her that was kneeling today, Catelyn believed that Amy would only make her worse.

However, the two babies were here today, and Catelyn did not want them to have a bad impression of her.

Just when she was pondering, Miles suddenly voiced out, his dark eyes glittering, “Mummy, I would like to play a game with the evil aunt.”

Chapter 489-Five minutes later, the jewelry store was surrounded by spectators.

Amy was holding a thin piece of paper in her mouth and was dancing at the door of the jewelry store. She mumbled, "Hello, everyone, I am a gorilla." Amy danced for half a minute and banged her chest non-stop. She seemed to be exhausted already.

Miles was holding his arms behind his back and commented, "Such a horrible dance. Even the actual gorilla can dance better than you." Amy felt the urge to cry.

She was surrounded by so many people. Some of them had even watched her video before and started to take their phones out to record her.

From time to time, these people even burst into laughter.

Miles held his chin up as though he was kind enough to be merciful. He waved his hand and said, "That's enough. It's such a horrible sight to have kids watching your dance. Now you need to do a half squat. I want to play another game with you." Amy was reluctant.

There were a few security guards standing behind her, and she had no choice but to follow Miles' demand.

Her legs were shaking, and her butt was held high in the air.

The paper was turning transparent in her mouth, and just when she almost could not hold it anymore... Miles smirked devilishly and found a drawing board to hang around Amy's neck, with an amusing drawing on top. It was a poop emoji.

Miles successfully pranked Amy, and many people uploaded the video to all social media platforms.

Miles fawned at Catelyn, "Mummy, evil aunt is so evil, I pranked her. How is it?" Catelyn rubbed his head. Such a childish way to punish her. Perhaps Miles could be the only one to come up with such a way.

'I hope you stay a child, happy and energetic.' Cedrick thought the punishment was too light, but he saw Miles was having a lot of fun, so he indulged him.

"Enough?" The man glimpsed at the kid.

"I refuse to talk to Big Demon." Miles turned and ran away to Catelyn.

Cedrick was used to being ignored by Miles. He raised his eyebrows and said, "Let me bring you guys shopping for some clothes." "I don't need it." Miles was still arrogant and then looked up to ask Catelyn.

"Mummy, is Miles handsome in this fit?" Catelyn brushed the bridge of his nose and said, "Of course, you are the most handsome baby." Miles threw Cedrick a shady look.

"Did you hear it? I am naturally handsome, unlike someone who needs to be dressed up to look good." Ollie was amused. "However, we resemble daddy a lot. We are miniature versions of him..." Based on this logic, if Cedrick were only handsome after dressing up, they would be the same.

Miles widened his eyes, refusing to buy into this idea. "Ollie, you are a traitor!" How could he forget that Big Demon stuffed a baby into mummy's belly?

They were no longer mummy's only babies... Ollie scratched his head, feeling torn on whose side he should take.

"Let's go get some customized horse riding fit, we could wear it when we go horse riding next week." He diverted the conversation smartly.

Miles' eyes lit up, but he held Catelyn's hand and said hesitantly, "They are going to cost an arm and a leg." "Don't fret. Father has a black card, and we can buy a lot of things with it," Ollie consoled.

Miles held his hands on his waist and then looked at Cedrick. "Is this to compensate for what you did?" "What did I do?" "You hide a baby in Mummy's belly behind our back!"

Chapter 490-Miles was puffing his cheeks. He highly disapproved of Cedrick's actions.

Cedrick's handsome face was a little dull, and he regretted slightly having told the two kids about Catelyn's pregnancy.

If it were his own child, he would gladly be happy to hear about it anytime.

The point was that the child was George's.

Miles and Ollie had been talking about it all the time to remind him about it.

Catelyn could sense the tension in the atmosphere.

However, it was pointless for her to explain herself now. Obviously, no one would believe her.

"Right, you are their daddy. You should get them some presents. Let's go make some horse riding outfits." Catelyn smiled lightly and bent to pick Miles up.

Nonetheless, as soon as she was leaning forward, a strong arm swooped past her and picked Miles up right away.

Miles wrapped his hands around Cedrick's neck under reflex.

'His skull is so hard... Miles pouted and thought while sitting on Cedrick's arm.

Cedrick's height was 188cm, so when Miles sat on his elbow, his eye level was much higher than his usual one.

non ev wa It felt as though he was looking down on everyone from where he was sitting. A feeling of pride and arrogance suddenly surfaced.

Cedrick used his other hand to scoop Ollie up too. The two babies were each sitting on his two arms. It should be rather difficult to carry the two of them at the same time, but Cedrick's tall and big figure made the two little ones seem tiny and fluffy.

Ollie's pink little lips were half opened and closed as soon as he was scooped up. He was slightly taken aback.

His father had never held him this way before.

Would he always be carrying them?

His lips were curved up in anticipation. His little head was brushing against Cedrick's shoulder and neck, and his heart was pounding fast.

Miles took one look at Ollie, full of contempt, as though suggesting that he had no personal principles.

He suddenly had an idea, pointed at Cedrick's neck, and said, "I wanna ride here!" Cedrick looked at the little one coldly. "You don't even want to call me father.

Why would you want to ride here?" Miles twisted his fingers, hesitated, and said, "You are not my father unless Mummy forgives you! You did not even have a marriage certificate with my mom. Our family does not have your name in it..." Cedrick opened his lips slightly and said, "It is easy to add me into your family." His casual remark made Catelyn slightly stunned.

When Cedrick looked up, Catelyn did not manage to look away, and her gaze locked right onto his dark eyes. They looked like two pools, so deep that she could not see the bottom, and she could not read what was on his mind either.

There was an invisible pressure. Catelyn then looked away hastily.

"There's a tailor right in front. Let's go." She wanted to leave in a hurry, but Cedrick's big figure moved agilely and blocked right in front of her.

"I am not kidding." His gaze was intense, and he was serious about it.

Catelyn could not hide away. She stood before this tall man with the two babies in his arms and asked, "What is this? A proposal?" "You can assume so." Cedrick's eyes glittered slightly, and he was looking at Catelyn intensely, as though afraid to miss out on one slightest change in her facial expression. His grip on the two babies subconsciously tightened too, making them very uncomfortable.