

Out of My Way, I'm Becoming a Billionaire Chapter 9

Chapter 9 Mr. Terran Likes Being a Stand-in Father and Taking Advantage of His Ex-wife

Playing Harmonia arched an eyebrow in sarcasm. "If you want to play around and treat this budding game then you're being unprofessional Please leave me out of it"

The once gentle and demure Hama had transformed into a sharp and elegant blade

"Don't tell me you're here to tidsalom's tone was as cold as ice

"We obvious? You can't tell Terran

Harmonia voce remained just as gentle as before as if nothing had changed even though the truth waeverything had changed between them

"Hmph, you're overestimating your

"In your eyes, is having the support Marsh Corporation overestimating onese?"

"So, are you with Mentor

for now

Harmonia smiled and dismissed the distasteful question

"City

Nus City is full of people with the Marsh sumame Don't think that just because you share the same name you can build a relationship with Hector He didn't get to where he is today by being

kund

Absalom's eyes were dark. His gae locked onto her delicate face

“Mr Terrain, are you giving me a warning now? On what grounds? As an ex-husband?”

Her words left the members of Teman Construction behind them

utterly shocked! It turned out that this stunning woman was none other than Mr. Terrain’s formerly unfavored ex-wife!

+25 BONUS

Harmonia’s words were sharp. “I never thought that you’d not only enjoy being a stand-in father, but you’d also enjoy taking advantage of your ex-wife.”

Her gaze landed on her wrist, which was being held by Absalom.

Absalom released her wrist. As she had brought up Luna, the look in his eyes underwent a noticeable change.

“Harmonia, I can explain.”

“Explain my foot!” Harmonia thought.

“The bidding has begun.” Harmonia ignored him and turned to address her team.

Absalom’s hand hung awkwardly in the air. He withdrew his hand stiffly.

The bidding session began. As the representative of the client appeared, Harmonia fixed her gaze on a man who appeared to be around forty years old.

So, he was the owner of the Emyrean Tower?

To be in ssession of the Emyrean Tower implied that he was sly influential. He was likely connected to the most nous and long-standing family in the upper echelons of society!

The man briefly introduced himself. “Hello, everyone. I’m Dominic Weber.”

Then, the two bidding representatives took their turns based on a drawing. Terran Construction went first, and Marshtown Studio followed.

This restoration of the Empyrean Tower had garnered significant attention. Once successful, the position of the winning bidder in the construction industry would be nothing short of prestigious!

Terran Construction took this bid extremely seriously, with Absalom personally leading the team.

Their proposal, presented on a large screen, came with an almost two-hour-long explanation. It was meticulously detailed.

Applause erupted from the audience. Everyone believed that Terran Construction had this bid in the bag.

Absalom shared this confidence. He was certain of their success!

He descended from the stage with composure. He saw Harmonia, who was getting ready to go on stage, walking toward him.

As they passed each other, Absalom whispered, "Harmonia, when the bidding session is over, wait for me."

Absalom knew that Harmonia knew nothing about construction, so he thought that even if she lost, he intended to involve Marshtown Studio in the project. He could discuss the specifics with her once the bidding session was over.

However, Harmonia acted as though she had not heard him. She proceeded up to the stage without even giving him a glance.

He snorted and thought to himself. "What was I thinking? I'm being ridiculous!"

Harmonia stood firm on the stage.

From her perspective, while Terran Construction was undoubtedly a dominant and senior player in the industry, their proposal was not flawless.

The large screen flickered as she presented her proposal, which was entirely different from that of Terran Construction, in front of everyone.