

Chapter 370 Peace Is Coming

Roy's POV:

"Thank you, honey. It's thanks to you that I was able to muster the courage!" Amelia threw herself into Morgan's arms and burst into tears.

"Don't thank me, Amelia. I owe you too much." As he hugged his wife tightly, tears welled up in Morgan's eyes.

Witnessing the love between Amelia and Morgan, I couldn't help but smile. "I'm so happy for you two."

Amelia was a kind and smart witch. I felt so sorry for her. Now that we had the antidote in our hands, I felt as though a weight had been lifted off of our shoulders.

"Great! Finally, no more torture!" Cynthia was also very excited. She took my hand and squeezed it, smiling tenderly. "Roy, it's as though God takes kindly to lovers. Maybe we'll also be together forever."

"God is good," I echoed immediately, squeezing her hand back.

"Everyone, we've been here for almost half an hour already. I think it's time for us to leave and let Amelia get some rest. The doctor did say that she needs time to recuperate," Jennifer suggested thoughtfully.

Cynthia and I immediately agreed.

"Okay, we're off. Call me if you need anything," Jennifer said to Amelia with a warm smile. "Rest well!"

"We'll be on our way too. Bye!" I also waved goodbye to Amelia and Morgan.

"Thanks for coming to see me, everyone. I'll do my best to get well as soon as possible so that you won't have to worry about me anymore," Amelia said to us softly, nestled in Morgan's arms.

"Bye, everyone. Thank you for coming to see Amelia. Don't worry. I'll take good care of her," Morgan said, smiling down at her.

Together, everyone filed out of the ward to leave the couple in peace.

As soon as we closed the door behind us, Jennifer shot me a mischievous smile. "Roy, it seems you and Cynthia got together so fast!"

Cynthia's cheeks turned bright red instantly. "Mrs. Jones, stop teasing us!" she said shyly.

Embarrassed, I scratched my head awkwardly. "Well, I've always loved Cynthia, but I never had the courage to pursue her until today. After all, the bitter past was all thanks to my cowardice. I hope I can make it up to you, Cynthia."

"It's never too late to pursue true love. Roy, I hope you'll cherish your relationship from now on," Anthony said wisely.

"Of course, Mr. Jones. I'll never let Cynthia go again."

"Good, good. Anyway, see you two later," Jennifer smiled and waved. "Anthony has a lot on his plate so we really need to get going. I'm sorry we couldn't keep you company longer. Let's meet some other time!"

I nodded. "No need to apologize, Mrs. Jones. We understand. Goodbye and good luck with your work, Mr. Jones!"

"Bye!" Anthony took Jennifer's hand and led her away.

After parting with them, Cynthia and I also walked hand in hand along the path in the royal hospital's courtyard.

I looked up at the blue sky and white clouds passing by, and then smiled at Cynthia. "Honey, the weather is so nice. How about we take a walk in the park? We can enjoy the scenery there."

"Good idea. I've also missed taking walks with you and chatting. It's been years since we've been together like this." Cynthia smiled back at me sweetly.

Her charming smile made my heart skip a beat. I excitedly took her hand and together, we went to the central park.

Jennifer's POV:

Anthony and I went straight to the royal palace. After all, Anthony's schedule was tight. I knew he had an important meeting this afternoon. So we parted when we reached the door to the meeting hall.

"Anthony, I know your work is very important, but you should also take time for yourself. Don't exhaust yourself too much." Before parting with him, I patted Anthony on the shoulder.

"Don't worry, honey. You too should take care of yourself and the child in your belly." Anthony took my hand and kissed it. "Wait for me."

I smiled and nodded, waving at him until he entered the meeting hall and closed the door behind him.

With Anthony gone, I now needed to attend to some matters myself. As the Alpha of Rainbow Pack, I had to spare some time to deal with the pack's local government affairs.

I headed to a small meeting room and used one of the computers to conduct a video call with the elders of the Rainbow Pack. When I was settled and the call connected, all the elders appeared on the screen.

"Thank you for taking time out of your busy schedule to participate in this video conference. Allow me to come straight to the point. Please report the current situation of the pack to me. Elder Tony, let's start with you." I nodded to him politely.

"Okay, Alpha Jennifer." Tony stood up solemnly and relayed his report to me.

When he was done, the next elder quickly stood up and continued the report.

After all the elders finished reporting, I nodded with satisfaction. "Everyone is doing well. I know that during this period of time, you've worked day and night. Thank you all very much for your hard work."

"You're welcome, Alpha Jennifer. After all, managing the pack is our responsibility." The elders all smiled at me kindly.

"There was another important thing I needed to discuss." Thinking of the fight between vampires and werewolves, my tone grew grim. "Elders, please don't let your guard down against the vampires. Although we have won the first battle, we can't afford to underestimate them. I hope you can assign soldiers to patrol the border of the Rainbow Pack twenty-four seven. I don't want to hear about vampires launching sneak attacks on our pack."

"Got it, Alpha Jennifer." Tony patted his chest solemnly. "Please rest assured that we'll do as you say."

I nodded with relief. "Okay, thank you, Elder Tony. It's a critical period of time now. I'll do my best to spare some time to visit the pack to inspect the situation."

After the meeting, I glanced at my phone and saw that Helen had texted me.

It read, "Jennifer! How've you been? Please forward my thanks to Mr. Jones. I wanted to say thank you for giving Daniel the title of Alpha in advance. Now, Daniel can deal with the pack's affairs and take the necessary measures to keep the Black Stone Pack safe."

I hurriedly replied, "No need to thank us, my dear. Only when all the packs have stabilized can Anthony take a breather. This is his duty. We both believe that Daniel would make a fair and excellent Alpha."

It didn't take long before my phone buzzed with Helen's reply. We chatted a little bit, agreeing to meet up after the vampire problem was solved. To be honest, this made me realize how much I missed my friends.

After chatting with Helen, I thought about Skylar. We hadn't talked in days, so I called her.

"Hi, Skylar! It's Jennifer. How've you been? When's your baby due?"

Skylar replied brightly, "Jennifer, I miss you so much! You finally called! I'm due to give birth around next month. Don't worry. Jerome's already contacted the hospital. In fact, I'm going to the hospital in a few days to prepare for labor."

"I'm sorry I can't be there with you, Skylar," I said guiltily. "I've been wanting to call you, but we've been so busy recently. Maybe after you've given birth, Anthony and I will find a way to visit you guys."

Skylar's voice softened. "I know you and Mr. Jones have been busy, so don't worry about me. You should prioritize the interests of the country above anything else. After all, you're the queen now. You can't just leave the royal palace whenever you please. Vampires are still making trouble everywhere."

Hearing this, I felt warm. What a considerate friend!

"Speaking of vampires, Austin has actually led the army to several victories. I think our soldiers will be able to drive the vampires out of our territory once and for all, putting this war to an end." I excitedly told Skylar the good news.

"What?! Really? That's amazing!" Skylar practically shrieked with excitement. "I can't wait!"

Her happiness was infectious. I couldn't help but smile. The chaos was coming to an end and peace was on its way. The peaceful life we all yearned for was near, wasn't it?
