

Overwhelmed 200

Chapter 200 What Can I Do To Make It Up To You

After dinner, Candice stood up and made her way to the kitchen to clean up the tableware. Once she finished, she noticed that Milton was still sitting in the living room.

She kept her distance from him and asked, "Why are you still here? It's getting late."

The clock on the wall displayed that it was nearly ten o'clock.

Milton nonchalantly shrugged his shoulders and replied, "Who said I'm leaving? I'll be crashing at Raul's place tonight."

The corners of Candice's mouth twitched. That meant she would be seeing him more often.
