

Overwhelmed 96

Chapter 96 Scandal

The abrupt typhoon brought gloomy skies and heavy rain to Ploville throughout the whole of the weekend.

The rain pounded against the glass in torrents and the brisk wind whipped back and forth for what seemed like an eternity.

The storm, however, had subsided by Monday morning.

It had just begun to dawn.

The loud ring of Candice's phone jolted her awake. Finally, after much fumbling, she retrieved her cell phone from the bedside table.

It was a call from Bettina. The clock had not yet struck six.