Chapter 41 Benjamin's Tenderness Is Her Redemption

Madelyn walked out of the villa.

The rain became heavier, and the world seemed cloaked in mist. In the dim street light, the rain was dropping into small puddles on the ground.

Feeling numb, Madelyn walked in high heels through the cold, rainy night. She walked for such a long time that her feet got injured, and blood dripped down her fair-skinned instep.

It was so painful...

Madelyn raised her head slightly and let the cold rain fall on her face.

Loving Daniel had been her sin!

Now all her feelings left for him were nothing but hatred, and she didn't want to spend her whole life paying for what she did. She would rather die with him.

Tears welled up in Madelyn's eyes, but on a cold night, it seemed that no one would notice her crying. She slowly crouched down, letting the rain wash over her body and soul...

A black umbrella was held over her head by a tall figure standing beside her.

Madelyn looked up.

Daniel was no longer bothering her...

Benjamin took Madelyn to his luxurious apartment in the downtown area. He looked at the wet clothes on her and took a black shirt out of the closet and gave it to her. "Take a shower and change your clothes. Wear this for tonight, and I'll have my secretary bring some clothes for you tomorrow morning."

Madelyn was 24 years old and was not ignorant.

She silently took the shirt over and looked up at Benjamin.

However, he brought a bathrobe with him and went to the guest bedroom. Madelyn was surprised but less nervous. At that moment, she had time to look around Benjamin's bedroom.

He preferred modern art characteristic of heavy metal elements and the entire bedroom was decorated in a cold-tone and personal style.

Dark gray furniture.

Black sheets and black curtains.

Madelyn bit her lip and went to the bathroom...When she came out, she was only wearing his shirt.

Benjamin was very tall and was around 6 feet. His shirt was so large that she could wear it as a nightdress. It was loose and comfortable, and the dark color flattered her fair skin tone. The shirt couldn't cover her long and slender legs.

When Benjamin came in to fetch some documents, he saw her wearing his shirt.

His Adam's apple rolled twice.

Chapter 42 Yes, Madelyn Is with Me

Under his gaze, Madelyn's body trembled slightly.

Benjamin handed his phone to her and said, "Give your Mom a call, so she won't be worried! ...Your phone has been turned off all day!"

Madelyn took the phone and thanked him. Then she walked to the window and dialed Camila's number.

Camila was still afraid that she would make compromises with Daniel, so she asked a few more questions!

Madelyn bit her lip, unsure of what to say.

The phone was taken by a slender hand, and Benjamin talked in a gentle tone, "Camila, Madelyn is with me! My surname is Clark, I'm a lawyer named Benjamin Clark."

Madelyn was shocked.

She never expected Benjamin to be willing to tell others about their relationship...did he know what he was doing?

Not only her, but Camila on the other end of the phone was also stunned.

She pinched herself hard to make sure that she wasn't dreaming!

Benjamin continued to talk to Owen on the phone as his other hand moved around her body. Madelyn couldn't stand his touching and teasing, and she lightly bit him as she rested on his shoulder.

Benjamin stared at her, and she could see the burning desires in his eyes.

Suddenly, Owen mentioned Madelyn on the phone.

Benjamin smiled and asked, "Do you want to talk to her? She's with me."

Owen was surprised but then joked, "Benjamin, that's quick. David would be crying at home if he knew."

"He's not that fragile!" Benjamin ended this topic in just a few words.

He quickly finished the conversation and read a few more files which were all related to Samuel's case.

When he was not that busy, he drank the ginger tea up and told Madelyn to go to sleep, for he still had some work to do.

Madelyn didn't insist on sleeping in the guest room. She knew exactly what he wanted!

After entering the master bedroom, Madelyn lifted the light quilt and lay down in bed. In the dim light, her skin looked white as snow against the black sheets.

She was a little nervous, but she didn't know when Benjamin would come back to sleep.

Would he...

Chapter 43 Madelyn Was Actually a Virgin

Madelyn was rather tired.

But she turned and tossed in bed at night, unable to fall asleep at all. Every time she was about to doze off, she would feel herself being held by Benjamin's strong arms. She heard him calling her name softly, "Madelyn..."

And then she woke with a start.

In the dark bedroom, only the moonlight filtered through the cracks of the window curtains, making her feel hazy and unreal.

She sat up and gently stroked her face.

It was not a dream.

She was at Benjamin's house and slept on his bed...

The door of the bedroom was opened slightly. It was Benjamin who came back to sleep after his work was done. He then saw Madelyn sitting on the bed with a dazed look like a poor puppy.

He let go of the idea of turning on the light and went to bed. He sat down and gently stroked her soft long hair, "Why are you still up?"

Madelyn followed his hand and leaned on his shoulder meekly.

"I have arranged it just now. I will go to the detention center tomorrow morning.

She found that he had a big-boned figure covered with thin muscles, which made him look slender instead of too strong.

She put on her shirt hurriedly before he came back.

After a while, as he was back with the medicine box, she was already sitting by the bed. She said softly,
"I'll do it myself."

But he just held her.

He squatted down and bent his knees. And then he held one of her feet and applied the medicine to it gently.

She had a great sense of unease.

In their relationship, she felt that he had no need to be that kind to her, that considerate at least.

He raised his eyes and said, "Just stay still."

He probably guessed her thoughts and said softly, "Well, I hate forcing others. We are equal to each other during the time we are together... Well, the most ideal state is that we both feel delighted."

How coquettish those words were!

Madelyn wanted to ask him how many times he had that kind of relationship. But she just felt bored as she was about to speak it out. Actually, they were not romantically involved at all! He didn't say the truth clearly, but she understood what he meant. He would be kind to her, but their relationship would end up in his feeling of boredom!

She thought that she should be grateful to him for giving her a little self-esteem when she was most awkward.

Chapter 44 Ms. Green, Do You Like It?

Whether it was out of gratitude or Benjamin's own charm, Madelyn just put her arms around his neck and kissed him.

He stared at her and the passion in his look made her feel all hot. She mustered up the courage to ask him, "Shall we move on?"

Suddenly, he leaned over.

He advanced while she retreated... She was forced to lie on her back and she barely supported herself with her hands.

She didn't dare to look at him at all. She lowered her eyes slightly and her long eyelashes cast shadows by the light, like a row of small fans.

He took one of her hands and put it on his good-looking face to make her feel it.

"Ms. Green, do you like it?"

She opened her eyes wide and flushed uncontrollably.

He touched her nose with his and said confidently, "Well, who is taking advantage of the other when we are together? You just look like you really want to have sex with me, don't you?"

"No! I want to sleep now." She slid farther under the covers.

But he looked like he was rather upset.

He couldn't help asking her, "You used to do it all the time for Daniel?"

What he had said was a dagger to her heart.

Actually, she didn't. She often helped her father wear a tie and thus knew how to do it. Daniel... didn't like her touching him at all. He always kept a distance from her.

She defied him in a low voice, "Benjamin, can we just leave his name alone?"

He didn't move on. Instead, he pointed to the paper bag on the bedside table and said, "Paisley sent it here early in the morning. Apart from the clothes, there is also a set of underwear. Why don't you have a try?"

Her face was burning. She didn't dare to think what Paisley's idea was.

Benjamin pinched her face gently, "Are you shy again? Come on, we love each other and the outsiders won't say anything improper."

And then he walked out of the bedroom.

With hot cheeks, she took the clothes to the bathroom and got changed. They fitted well and even the size of the underwear was right. However, as she thought that it was he who offered the size, she felt even more ashamed.

Benjamin was reading the morning financial newspaper and drinking coffee in the huge restaurant.

Besides the work in the law firm, he also had other businesses, but he passed most of them to a professional team to operate, which saved him a lot of energies.

Madelyn came out of the bedroom.

He looked up at her for a long time before saying to her, "It's rather pretty."

Chapter 45 Daniel, I've Changed My Mind

Madelyn also felt that the dress was quite her style. She sat down and complimented Paisley, "Paisley himself has a good eye."

Benjamin didn't reply to her.

Claire, the housekeeper, brought over a Western-style breakfast and said apologetically, "Oh, I didn't know Ms. Green would be here! You'll have to make do today. Please tell me what you like and I will make it for you tomorrow morning."

Madelyn loved Chinese breakfast, but she was at Benjamin's house and his housekeeper worked for him.

She had no reason to give the housekeeper instructions.

She smiled slightly and said, "This is rather nice."

Claire breathed a sigh of relief as she heard that. She felt that Madelyn seemed to be someone easy to get along with. She rubbed her hands and went into the kitchen to work with great dexterity.

Benjamin folded the newspaper.

He looked at Madelyn and found that she was drinking milk with downcast eyes. After all, she came from a middle-class family and ate politely without any affected air.

He thought that she was a joy to behold.

Benjamin came from a better family than others. As he grew up, he was rather popular among countless women because of his appearance and ability. He set the bar rather high and was quite picky. Other men may like those naive little girls who knew little about life to keep them company, which made them satisfied. But Benjamin was not one of them. He would first pay attention to the compatibility if he wanted to have a serious relationship with a woman. He thought that the original family was rather important.

He said to Madelyn, "I'm going to the detention center. Well, just go home and wait for my news. I think you will see him today."

She was rather grateful to him and thanked him softly.

He took his coat and got up, looking quite personable. She changed her shoes and accompanied him to the downstairs.

There was a black luxury car parked.

Paisley was waiting as he stood by the car. Seeing Madelyn, he nodded politely as a way of greeting, "Ms. Green."

Madelyn also gave a nod.

Benjamin opened the car door and got in. As he was good-looking with a perfect demeanor, he looked so elegant and dignified.

Suddenly, what he had said occurred to her mind.

"Madelyn, we are together, but who is taking advantage of the other!"

She couldn't agree more at that time.

She watched as he drove away. When she was about to go upstairs, her phone rang.

It was Daniel.

She still answered the phone after thinking about it. She only said a few words softly, "Daniel, I've changed my mind."

Chapter 46 Darling, Don't Regret It!

Daniel doubted it. "Are you going to abandon your father and Camila? Are you just going to stand by and watch them go to prison?"

Madelyn didn't want to say too much to him.

She just said, "I won't go to your villa anymore. I'll mail the key to you."

Daniel's heart skipped a beat.

What made Madelyn change her mind all of a sudden? He wanted to ask a question, but Madelyn had already hung up.

Daniel dialed his secretary's number with a gloomy face. "I need you to check what's going on with Samuel these days."

The secretary looked into it at once and then called back five minutes later, his voice trembling, "Mr. Campbell, Samuel has changed his lawyer! I'll keep looking here."

"No need!" Daniel hung up.

He wanted to make a personal visit to the detention house. He wanted to see who would have the guts to take on the case without his permission, and what would change.

Daniel quickly opened the car door and drove to the detention house. The wound on his waist had not healed, and the gauze was red with blood, but he did not care.

Daniel felt a strong sense of oppression in front of the compelling Benjamin! From beginning to end,
Daniel did not ask Madelyn anything.

He didn't need to ask. Madelyn was with Benjamin.

When Benjamin's car drove away, Daniel took out his cell phone automatically and dialed Madelyn's number again.

He gritted his teeth. "Madelyn, you are a real piece of work!"

On the other side, Madelyn said calmly, "Daniel... I am just giving you a taste of your own medicine.
What's wrong with that?"

"No! There's nothing wrong with you!" Daniel sneered, "Honey, just don't regret it!"

Madelyn hung up straight away.

At this time, the phone rang twice more. She turned her phone on and saw a message from Benjamin.

The message said, "Your father was transferred to YouHeal Hospital. You can go to visit him with your mom. He will be able to go home once he is healed."

Madelyn read this message a few times.

She read this text message for so long that her own eyes became misty with tears.

Only then did she feel... a sense of the real in her life ... She felt alive.

Chapter 47 The Woman Who Loved You Would Listen to You

Madelyn hung up on Daniel, and he banged angrily on the car.

Madelyn!

Was this the same Madelyn he knew?

Daniel was in a foul mood, and he didn't want to admit that his mood was spoiled by Madelyn.

She was just a woman he couldn't have!

Daniel did not go to the hospital to dress the wound but drove to a club where he used to go to socialize. The club was high-end, and those who could have fun here had high social status.

Daniel got a private room and drank alone in the middle of the day.

The manager came over and had a few drinks with him before asking obligingly, "Mr. Campbell, are you at odds with your girlfriend? Look at you, drown your sorrow in booze so early in the morning. But that's not supposed to happen. I heard that the crown jewel of the Clark family is simply wrapped up in you!"

Daniel leaned back on the leather sofa, lowering his dark eyes. "Wrapped up in me?"

The manager smiled and poured him wine. "A woman will listen to you if she is so in love with you."

Daniel didn't have the heart to get all tangled up with her and soon left the club.

He got into the car and raised his hand to check the time. It was eleven o'clock. It was just about time for him to go to have lunch at the Clarks' mansion. Daniel's face turned gloomy as he thought of meeting Benjamin...

To his surprise, when he arrived at the Clarks' mansion, Benjamin had not yet returned.

Eloise came down from upstairs with her cell phone and said in a sweet girlish voice to her parents, "I don't know what's keeping my brother. He said he would come back for lunch, but now it's going to be three o'clock in the afternoon."

Daniel clenched his fist.

He knew exactly what Benjamin was up to.

But he appeared to be calm and collected as he was playing chess with Alexander.

Eloise sat down next to him and said softly, "Don't be offended by this. My brother didn't mean it."

A faint smile passed across Daniel's old lips. "It's fine."

Alexander was quite pleased with his future son-in-law-to-be. He looked at his darling daughter sideways and said, "You think Daniel is as fussy as you are? How can he run his business if he's like you?"

Daniel put his arm around his fiancée tenderly, "Eloise is very understanding."

Eloise felt sweet. When she was about to say something, she suddenly leaned over Daniel's shoulder and sniffed at him, "Daniel, why do you smell of perfume?"

Chapter 48 Calling in Front of Daniel

Daniel's eyes were twitching.

He thought it must be the perfume from the clubhouse.

He smiled to cover up what he had done. I went to the hospital early in the morning to change my dressing. Maybe it's the nurse's perfume."

Eloise was displeased, fiddling with her nails and giving him attitude. "That nurse must be young and pretty! You must have liked it when she changed your dressing."

Daniel broke into a smile.

He nipped her cheeks, "You sound jealous."

Eloise loved him deeply and was not suspicious at all. She pushed this into the back of her mind when he sweet-talked her. And she leaned on his shoulder, her face glowing with happiness.

Alexander said as he dropped a piece onto the chessboard, "Girls should have a reserved manner!"

How could parents not know about their children? Benjamin warned that Eloise was entirely faithful and simple, and was destined to be under the thumb.

However, Alexander thought it was great for his innocent daughter to have a boyfriend like Daniel, who was a wise tactician.

Daniel easily passed the test, and a smile curled the corners of his mouth.

Just then, Brianna came over and said with a smile, "Since Benjamin is not home yet, why don't we eat first? The maids have already served the food."

At this point, Benjamin tilted his head back and saw Daniel. Their eyes locked.

Benjamin gave a soft laugh.

He said gently to the other side of the phone, "Nothing, I saw an acquaintance! Gotta go... You can buy things later on the way that you can't take with you."

With that, he hung up.

Daniel looked terribly glum!

Eloise woke up just then, came over, and hugged his waist, trying to kiss him, but Daniel was not in the mood. "Your brother is back. Let's go downstairs."

Eloise, being perfectly simple, still noticed he was cold with her, and she was a bit down.

Daniel cheered her up.

Eloise was glad as she went downstairs.

Benjamin sat on the sofa reading a magazine, and Eloise flung herself into his arms. "Brother."

Benjamin pinched her cheeks. "You're so close to me after you've all grown up. What if Daniel gets jealous?"

"He won't." Eloise hugged his arm and said in a baby voice. "Brother, didn't you say last time that you got some projects? It's better to have your own people doing these projects than to have outsiders doing them."

Benjamin raised his eyes to Daniel and smiled meaningfully, "Dad was right when he said that the daughter grew up, she would side with outsiders."

"Brother." Eloise pouted prettily again.

Chapter 49 A Blow to the Man Following Behind

Benjamin quipped but readily agreed.

"I know you are the best." Eloise took Daniel's hand again, signaling him to smooth things over with Benjamin. She always felt that they were not getting along, but she did not know why.

Daniel was to be the son-in-law of the Clark family. The Clark Group was several times larger than the Campbell Group. And the Campbell family could not be compared with the Clark family in terms of contacts.

Madelyn was not really much of a reason for him to fall out with Benjamin.

He said politely, "Benjamin, thank you."

A slight smile broke on Benjamin's lips.

He picked up the magazine again and flipped through it casually. His attitude was apathetic anyhow, and Eloise's pouting didn't help.

At 4:30 p.m., Benjamin got up from the sofa.

"I have work to do. I'm going back."

Brianna and Alexander finally got a chance to see their son and naturally had to keep him for dinner.

"Maybe another time! I really have something to take care of." Benjamin stroked Eloise's head.

Benjamin grunted yes.

He rolled down the window and lit a cigarette with his head down, smoking with his elbow against the window... The man driving behind could see them clearly now.

The traffic moved so slowly that it took them half an hour to get near the apartment.

Benjamin pulled over to the side of the road.

He unbuckled his seatbelt, tilt his head sideways, and said to Madelyn, "There's a home store across the street. You can go over and buy whatever you want. I'm going to the pharmacy there to get some medicine."

As he spoke, he took out a platinum card from his wallet and told Madelyn the password.

"Pay domestic costs with this card."

Madelyn didn't refuse after a moment's hesitation. She got out of the car and walked into the home store. She didn't know the occupants of the building where Benjamin lived often shopped there. She would run into the neighbors if she went shopping here more often.

Benjamin finished half of his cigarette and opened the door.

He walked to the other side of the pharmacy and took two small square boxes directly from the counter.

They were labeled L size.

He took them in his hand, naturally pulled two $20 bills out of his wallet, and handed them to the cashier.

The cashier, a woman in her early 40s, looked up, and her eyes were stuck. When she swiped his card, she felt romantic emotions and positively gagged for Benjamin using the two boxes of this on her...

Chapter 50 Whatever You Wanted

Benjamin returned to the car just as Madelyn finished her shopping.

She got into the car with her purchases.

Benjamin looked at the things in her hand and asked, "What's this large package of stuff?"

"Two sets of slippers for indoor use, and two bathrobes."

Women loved buying things so much. He could not help taking a look at the package even though inside were just the most ordinary household objects.

Benjamin looked askance at it. "Couple's costume?"

Madelyn blushed. "No! I see you've got all those white clothes..."

To ease the awkwardness, she coughed softly, "Did you get your medicine?"

Benjamin's eyes became smoldering.

He looked at her for a long time before slowly taking out two boxes from his trouser pocket and blatantly putting them on the center console... Madelyn wanted to bite her tongue off at the sight of those familiar words.

Why did she ask?

Benjamin did not hold on to this.

With his relationship with Madelyn, there was really no need to be too clingy.

After eating, he went into the study to tend to business.

Madelyn cleaned up the dishes and did some simple cleaning. Then she found Benjamin leaning in the doorway of the study with a mug and looking at her thoughtfully.

He said lazily, "You're quite diligent. I thought I had found a hygiene model back."

Madelyn was not stupid. She knew that he was angry.

She meekly walked up to him, stood on the tips of her toes, and kissed him on the lips. "I'll be back with you when I'm done teaching."

"What's Ms. Green going to do with me?"

He sipped his coffee and asked somewhat uneasily.

Madelyn's face blushed again, and she plucked up the courage to talk dirty, "You can do whatever you want. I'll go along with anything."

Benjamin looked right into her.

He chuckled, "Alright, you go!"

He turned to the study, thinking that was a good thing! A woman who just lay in bed to please a man was not fun at all! Instead, Madelyn gave him something to look forward to!
