

Passive Skills 351

Chapter 351-all within range are noobs

The attributes of the divine beast statue, Bai Ze, were found by the players of the state of Qin. At the same time, it was made into a video collection by the operators and uploaded to the forum.

All the players who saw the attributes of the divine beast statue were stunned.

With 100 billion HP, how could he kill it?

Zhang Shan and the other fifty people were fighting the boss of the extreme difficulty instance.

His HP was less than 100 million, but he seemed to have been fighting for about ten minutes.

If it was calculated normally, if 50 people were to fight the divine beast statue, wouldn't it take 10000 minutes?

Moreover, the divine beast statue also had a damage reduction skill, which reduced the damage effect by half.

In other words, the time it would take for players to destroy the statue would double. 50 players would take 20000 minutes to destroy it?

The World War would last for four hours, and it was only 200 minutes in total. 20000 minutes? what was he going to do?

Of course, there were more than 50 people fighting the statue.

Because the statue of the divine beast would not attack, everyone did not have to consider the problem of standing, and they could attack as they wished.

with the mythological beast statue as the center, anyone within a 50-yard radius could attack the statue.

in that case, there would be more than 10000 players standing densely together, and they would be able to attack the divine beast statue at the same time.

If there were more than 10000 people who could attack the divine beast statue at the same time ...

In theory, he should be able to destroy the statue in about 100 minutes.

Of course, this was only in theory. It might be faster.

It was also possible that he was constantly harassed by the other party and couldn't focus on the statue.

if that was the case, there would definitely be more times when he wanted it.

In short, just this divine beast statue alone was very difficult to deal with.

Not to mention, they had to deal with so many players. The difficulty of this world War was a little difficult.

The Qin players who had attacked the baize statue were quickly defeated.

Moreover, he had been knocked down several times, and he didn't even dare to revive on the spot.

The Chu players quickly strengthened the defense around the baize statue.

He didn't want to be secretly beaten up by the other party again.

However, with the hundreds of billions of HP of the baize statue, even if the players of Qin secretly played for half a year, they would probably not be able to destroy the statue.

However, it was best not to let the players from the state of Qin get close to the baize statue. Once they got close to the statue, they felt like they were about to lose the World War.

After testing out the baize statue's attributes, the players from the state of Qin did not try to get close to the statue.

They also knew that in order to destroy the statue with hundreds of billions of HP, they had to completely occupy the statue platform.

He had to chase all the Chu players off the platform first.

Otherwise, they wouldn't have been able to attack the statue so easily.

If they couldn't deal damage steadily, they wouldn't be able to destroy the statue even at the end of the world War.

after being resurrected a few more times by the support, he was still lying on the ground.

Zhang Shan kept staring at him.

As long as he was still lying within Zhang Shan's shooting range, the domineering King would not be able to get up. He would fall the moment he got up.

f * ck, six-pipe Bodhisattva is a shameless thing. He's targeting boss.

continue resurrecting boss. Let's see if he'll fight faster or if we resurrect faster.

let's not. The cooldown for the resurrection skill is still very precious. Don't waste it.

"in order to save boss, how can you say it's a waste?"

"what i'm saying is, we have to chase six-barreled bodhisattva away first before resurrecting boss. wouldn't that save us a lot of trouble?"

"How? The six-barreled Bodhisattva was like a nail, nailed there and not moving at all."

"Don't worry. When we surround him from the other directions, six-barreled Bodhisattva will have to run away."

As Zhang Shan fired, he was not observing the situation.

Overall, on this platform, the Qin players still had a slight advantage.

Although their advantage wasn't obvious, they were still pushing forward on the whole, and they did make some progress.

Other than the direction that Zhang Shan was blocking, the Qin players in the other directions had more or less pushed forward.

As a result, Zhang Shan's group's position slowly formed a prominent group.

If this continued, it would be easy to be surrounded.

For the sake of safety, they could only retreat. But Zhang Shan obviously did not want to retreat.

If he were to retreat, he would no longer be able to guard the fallen domineering King.

Besides, everyone was fighting for every inch of land on the platform. How could he retreat?

Even if they all fell to the ground, they could not take a step back.

He couldn't retreat, so if he didn't want to be surrounded, he had to think of a way.

...

They also had to suppress the Qin players on both sides.

Thinking of this, Zhang Shan turned his gun from time to time and fired to the left and right.

The supports who were preparing to revive Subjugator saw Zhang Shan change his target.

Thinking that the chance to resurrect the tyrant king had come, he quickly rushed forward and revived him.

however, the domineering king, who had stood up again, didn't even take a step.

He was once again beaten to the ground by Zhang Shan.

Although he had shifted his firepower to the two sides, how could Zhang Shan possibly let go of domineering King?

His first goal was to hold on to Subjugator and prevent him from resurrecting.

When the Chu country's players counterattacked, he would let the others continue to defend.

As long as their Chu country had the upper hand, the journey of the tyrannical King could be said to be over.

he would just lie on the ground. zhang shan would not give him the chance to stand up.

...

The Qin players had clearly seen through Zhang Shan's intentions. This group of people could not help but be angry.

this six-barreled Bodhisattva is too arrogant. He wants to guard our boss's corpse by himself? "

" i can't take this anymore. send some people over and clear out the people on six-barreled bodhisattva's side. " quickly send reinforcements. Boss has fallen to the ground. He's being spawn camped.

A few players from the state of Qin shouted in the state of Qin's national channel.

Previously, when the domineering King was continuously beaten to the ground by Zhang Shan, it was only seen by the surrounding Qin players.

the qin players in other places didn't even know.

The battlefield was so chaotic, who would care about this.

However, when someone called it on the National channel, all the players in the state of Qin knew about it.

It turned out that Subjugator had fallen to the ground again, and was being spawn camped.

this was a little ridiculous. everyone thought that the domineering king was quite powerful.

Why did he always fall to the ground at critical moments? he was even worse than a rookie. It was really strange.

However, this was also normal. In Zhang Shan's eyes, the domineering King was not much stronger than a normal rookie.

It was just a matter of one or two more shots. With his current attack speed, one or two more shots wouldn't even take a second.

It did not take much effort to defeat the tyrant king. All he had to do was to bring him into Zhang Shan's shooting range.

Chapter 352 Let's guard the corpse together

Although the Qin players were still pushing forward, the bosses of the three major guilds in Chu had yet to release the scroll.

did they really not manage to buy any scrolls? This shouldn't be the case.

Although scrolls did not drop often and were rarely seen, they were not even sold in the auction house.

However, the fact that the domineering King was able to take out ten scrolls in one go meant that the three major guilds of Chu country should have at least five scrolls in total, right?

However, they had not seen any of them use any scrolls at all.

Zhang Shan was very puzzled. If he had the scroll, if he did not use it now, when would he need to use it?

could it be that the three monks had no water to drink?

because they were all part of the three major guilds, they were all counting on the others to make the first move? Why not save the scrolls that he had?

It was very possible.

this was the disadvantage of chu country's situation. the strength of the three major guilds was almost the same.

the wind and cloud guild might be slightly stronger, but although the wind and cloud guild was strong, their performance was not strong.

Therefore, in the eyes of others, the three major guilds of Chu country were evenly matched.

When there are external enemies, we must unite against them.

However, someone had to make the first move to break this stalemate.

"Are we just going to be in a stalemate like this? Think of a way to beat them down."

Zhang Shan asked in the Guild channel. He wanted to ask those big bosses if they had any plans.

brother Liu Guan, don't panic. The kingdom war has only started less than an hour ago. There are still three more hours. Take it slow.

yes, don't worry. We just need to hold the fort.

"We'll launch a counterattack when the people below the stage are almost done fighting."

Zhang Shan saw that in the Guild channel, after everyone had said so much, Feng Yun realm finally gave a definite answer.

It turned out that they wanted to wait until the tens of thousands of people below the stage were done fighting. No wonder they were not anxious.

Zhang Shan looked below the stage. Of the tens of millions of Qin players, at least half of them were still alive.

Out of the original 8 million players of Chu State, there were more than 3 to 4 million people who were still alive.

The two sides fought for nearly half an hour, and only about half of them were killed.

Feng Yun realm actually wanted to wait until they were all exhausted. There was still a long way to go. After all, at the start, the situation was chaotic and people would die faster.

In the end, the situation stabilized and everyone died too easily.

Zhang Shan felt that this would not do. It was too slow. He had to speed up the pace, so he said in the Guild channel.

are there any experts who can come over to my side to provide some support? I'm currently guarding the corpse of Subjugator. It's not convenient for me to move even if I want to.

zhang shan looked at the situation on the platform. it was not a good idea to continue in this stalemate.

He wanted to launch a wave of counterattacks. With his damage output, as long as some powerful players cooperated with him, he would be able to deal damage.

He could totally force the Qin players to retreat.

However, the domineering King was lying on the ground. Zhang Shan could not leave. If he were to take a step forward ...

Didn't he just revive on the spot, stand up, and run away?

Zhang Shan did not want him to get up. He felt that it would be better to let domineering King lie on the ground.

"f * ck! did six-barreled boss defeat the domineering king again?"

"the subjugator is so pitiful. he's fallen again, and his corpse is being guarded. hehe."

"haha, i'll do it. another wave of brothers, let's go and guard subjugator's corpse. we'll guard it until the kingdom war is over and he won't have any fun."

when the guild members heard that subjugator had fallen to the ground, they only needed to guard his corpse.

a large group of people became excited. originally, they were still on the platform, competing with the players from the state of qin.

this time, all of them were rushing towards zhang shan.

Zhang Shan saw that there were more and more people on his side.

In an instant, they went all out and pushed forward bravely, forcing the Qin players to retreat.

The domineering King, who was lying on the ground, could tell that the situation was not good.

If he allowed Zhang Shan to push forward, he would be lying in the middle of a group of Chu country players.

In that case, they would definitely be guarded tightly and would never be able to revive again.

at the thought of this, subjugator became very anxious. he chose to resurrect on the spot without any hesitation.

However, just as he stood up, Zhang Shan's bullet flew over and quickly knocked him to the ground.

After falling to the ground, Subjugator resurrected on the spot without any hesitation.

Haha, rich people.

Of course, Zhang Shan would not hold back. He continued to fire at the domineering King. He still remembered, do you think i'm afraid of your money? If you have the ability, get up six times.

Subjugator resurrected three times on the spot, but was defeated by Zhang Shan each time. He knew that he had no chance.

Zhang Shan had been keeping a close eye on him, not giving him any chance to escape. As long as he stood up, Zhang Shan's bullet would arrive. He was even more punctual than a certain Feng express delivery.

...

Subjugator had resurrected on the spot once before, and now he had resurrected on the spot three times.

If he wanted to resurrect on the spot, he would have to spend 10 million gold coins.

Although tyrant king was rich, he couldn't spend it like this. The point was that it wouldn't have any effect.

Even if he spent 10 million gold coins to resurrect on the spot for the fifth time, he still could not escape Zhang Shan's bullets.

In the beginning, there were still many Qin players who were protecting Subjugator.

however, as zhang shan pushed forward, the people who were originally protecting him all fell to the ground.

haha, I see the domineering King. Brothers, let's not do anything else in today's world War. We just need to guard him well. Hehe.

not bad. Guard the domineering King well and make sure he doesn't have any fun.

zhang shan led a group of chu players and pushed forward, forcing the qin players to retreat.

Domineering King, who had been lying in front of him, was now lying behind him.

This time, he had nowhere to run. Behind Zhang Shan were all Chu country players. At this moment, Zhang Shan did not need to keep an eye on him.

...

As long as the domineering King dared to stand up, the group of Chu players would beat him to a pulp.

Zhang Shan's counterattack was noticed by the Qin players in other directions.

Originally, they were the ones pushing forward. How did it become the Chu players who were pushing forward? this didn't make sense.

quickly send reinforcements. We can't hold on any longer. Six-barreled Bodhisattva is too powerful. Boss is still trapped inside.

f * ck! The tyrant king has been down for so long, and he still hasn't stood up? "

" get up my ass. how can someone who's being stared at by six-guan bodhisattva get up? "

" how is this even a basic wave? boss is already being spawn camped. can this country war still continue? " stop talking nonsense. Send reinforcements quickly. Beat back six-barreled Bodhisattva and save boss.

save my ass. Subjugator is just a rookie. Why does he die so quickly every time? if someone has to save him every time, what's the point of us playing? "

where did this idiot come from? after the World War, we'll kill him and send him back to the novice village.

Chapter 353 The kingdom war can be lost, but the domineering King must die although there were people causing trouble, most of the qin players were still very united.

As soon as they said that they were going to save Subjugator, players from all over the country of Qin started to rush over.

With Zhang Shan as the center, the surrounding area was in chaos. In the beginning, there were still many Chu country players following behind Zhang Shan.

However, as the Qin players swarmed in from all directions, the Chu players around Zhang Shan could not hold on much longer.

They were beaten to the ground one after another. There were simply too many of them, and in order to save the domineering King, they were going all out.

someone come and help! These Qin players have gone crazy! They're charging forward with no regard for their lives! We can't let them rescue the tyrant king!

f * ck, I was wondering why the pressure was so much less all of a sudden. It turns out that the Qin players have all gone to your side.

I'm coming. Guard Subjugator well and don't let him revive.

"The kingdom war can be lost, but the domineering King must die."

"Brother, don't. We can't lose the World War."

"Haha, I was just joking."

The Chu players were also coming over to help. A large group of people from both sides started a chaotic battle around Zhang Shan.

As more and more players from Chu country came over to help, Zhang Shan's pressure was also relieved.

Zhang Shan held the hand cannon, and the bullets were fired continuously. The Qin players fell to the ground one by one.

However, they continued to charge forward, one after another, as if they would not stop until they saved the domineering King.

&Nbsp; there had originally been chaotic fighting all around the platform, but gradually, the fighting in other places had calmed down.

The main fighting force of both sides were all concentrated near Zhang Shan, fighting for the position where the domineering King had fallen.

The players of Chu were also going all out.

Even if he was resurrected, there was nothing special about him.

His combat strength alone would not be able to turn the tide of the battle.

However, no one would let the Qin players have their way.

If the enemy wants to do something, we have to destroy it. That's the logic.

Both parties gathered in this area, and more and more people gathered. Zhang Shan kept firing, and each shot hit 12 targets. It was so satisfying.

A large number of Qin players fell to the ground. After some of them fell, they quickly resurrected on the spot and stood up.

However, in front of Zhang Shan, there was no point in reviving on the spot.

even if zhang shan did not go out of his way to attack him, he would not be able to avoid the catapults 'damage after he resurrected.

In front of Zhang Shan, the corpses on the ground were stacked to an exaggerated extent.

The Qin players still didn't give up.

Zhang Shan felt that they must have gone crazy.

Based on the current situation, it was impossible for the Qin country to win the kingdom war. Even if they managed to revive the domineering King, it would be of no use.

The battle below the platform was about to be decided, even though the Qin players had the advantage in numbers.

they had already suppressed the chu players below the platform, but they didn't have many people left.

Of the tens of millions of Qin players that the domineering King had brought over, there were less than a million left.

Right now, there were even more people fighting for control of the platform than there were people fighting off the platform.

There were less than two million players from both sides who had rushed up to the platform.

however, at this point, the people below the platform had basically all died. there were still hundreds of thousands of people on the platform.

The main thing was that the players who rushed onto the platform, regardless of whether they were from Qin or Chu, were all in the same state.

they were all relatively elite or rich players. after they fell, they would choose to revive on the spot.

However, the players below the platform were different. After they fell to the ground, they could no longer see the support coming to revive them. Basically, they all chose to return to the city and leave the World War map.

Therefore, after fighting for so long, the number of players fighting for the platform had been decreasing, but at a much slower rate than those below the platform.

The outcome of the kingdom war still depended on the people standing on the platform.

zhang shan felt that he had tried his best, but these qin players seemed to be endless.

After defeating one group, another group would come. After defeating one, another would be revived. It was simply a group of undead armies.

At this moment, countless meteors suddenly fell from the sky, smashing towards the group of Qin players.

This was a little fairy casting the wrath of the stars. After waiting for so long, she finally used it.

Zhang Shan had thought that she would have to wait a little longer.

Now, he had used a big move.

Countless Qin players fell to the ground. They were standing so closely together.

The number of people that had fallen was very exaggerated. Zhang Shan felt that this move might have knocked down twenty to thirty thousand people.

Taking advantage of the power of the big move, the players of Chu bravely advanced and forced the players of Qin to retreat.

the remaining qin players wanted to organize another wave of counterattacks. however, as freedom king released a scroll, they were stopped.

They had completely collapsed.

...

Countless Qin players were defeated, and the remaining people were chased off the platform.

On the entire platform of the divine beast statue in Chu State, only the players of Chu State and the corpses on the ground were left.

The surviving Qin players were all chased out.

“What do we do now?”

A group of Qin players who were chased off the platform were very unwilling. They had once been at an advantage on the divine beast statue platform.

However, for some reason, it didn't turn into a victory in the end.

“what else can we do? We can forget about winning the kingdom war. Right now, we can only think about how we can defend our own divine beast statues.”

“Don't worry about that. The divine beast statue has such a high HP that the players of Chu can't kill it.”
that's hard to say. Let's make some arrangements.

“If we leave, what will happen to boss? He's still on the platform. If we don't rush up, he definitely won't have a chance to revive.”

Even at this moment, there were still players from the state of Qin who were still talking about the domineering King. It had to be said that this guy was quite something.

...

“What kind of situation is this? can they still control the domineering King? what we should be thinking about now is how to not lose the kingdom war.”

that’s right. There’s no need to think about winning the country war now. Let’s go back and defend. Let’s try to end it in a draw.

there are still about three hours before the kingdom war ends. It won’t be easy to drag this out.

“What’s there to be afraid of? if we can’t destroy the Chu statue, they can’t destroy our statue either.”

you’re right. We still have two million people at the altar. In terms of numbers, we still have a big advantage.

don’t talk to me about numbers. When we really fight, those people won’t be of any use.

At this moment, Subjugator, who was lying on the platform, was extremely depressed.

To him, this country war was over.

no matter what the result was, he couldn’t participate in it anymore. a group of chu players surrounded him and guarded his corpse.

Apart from resurrecting in the city and leaving the World War map, he had no other choice.

Chapter 354-the Wheel of Fortune turns

When the tyrant king thought of his tragic country war journey, he couldn’t help but cry.

He really didn’t want to go back just like that. What could he do if he went back now? he couldn’t go back and farm monsters, right? The kingdom war had not ended.

As the leader of the gang, he was actually farming monsters at home. Wasn’t that a little too much?

But what could he do if he didn’t go back? if he lay here, he would never have the chance to revive and run away again.

Thinking of this, Subjugator decided to play dead. He would just lie there until an hour later, when the system would resurrect him.

Otherwise, he would not have left. It was too embarrassing.

even though the tyrant king was on the ground, he was still very concerned about the progress of the kingdom war.

Although their attack had been repelled by the Chu country, it was almost impossible for them to win the kingdom war.

However, even if he couldn't win the country war, he should at least end it in a draw. If he was suppressed by the players of Chu, he would feel even worse.

Thinking of the punishment for losing the World War, the Conqueror King couldn't help but shiver.

If the experience and loot for a week were halved, and the transaction fee would double, then what was the point of playing?

Hence, they could not lose the country war.

Even though he couldn't do anything, he could still command others.

Thinking up to this point, Subjugator spoke in the Guild channel.

"those who are still alive, go back and prepare to defend. we must guard our divine beast statues."

Subjugator did not say anything in the country of Qin's national channel. He felt a little embarrassed.

He was afraid that he would attract a group of ridicule.

It was very awkward for a person lying on the ground to command a living person to fight.

It was much better to speak in the Guild channel. At least no one in the Guild would mock him.

"Don't worry, boss. We won't lose the kingdom war. We still have a lot of people left. It won't be a problem to guard the divine beast statue."

"That's right. There aren't many players left in Chu. I suspect that they don't have the time to attack us."

"No matter what, it's not wrong for us to go back and defend earlier."

"Yes, they've retreated."

After the Qin players were chased off the platform, not long after, they chose to remove the altar from Chu.

under the leadership of the domineering aura guild, the remaining players from the state of qin did not even reach a million.

They retreated to the altar of Qin together.

Even though Subjugator had fallen, there were still quite a number of players left in the Guild.

He could still lead the Qin players.

Seeing the Qin players retreat, Zhang Shan was very happy. At least they would not lose this world War.

After this wave of Qin players retreated, it would be impossible for them to organize another attack.

Next, it would be up to the Chu country. They might even have a chance to destroy the divine beast statue of the Qin country.

If they could destroy the other party's divine beast statue and win the country war, then they would have earned a lot.

That was double the experience for a week, not to mention that the divine beast statue would definitely drop a divine weapon.

wasn't the reason why he moved early on so that he could gain double experience after winning the world war?

now, he was finally one step closer to achieving his goal.

As the players of Qin retreated, the players of Chu did not just stand by and watch. Everyone chased after them.

Other than Feng Yun realm who brought a small number of people to guard the platform to prevent the Qin players from ambushing his own divine beast statue, there was no one else.

The remaining Chu players chased after the Qin players, and they would defeat a few of them if they had the chance.

At this time, Zhang Shan had already regrouped with the other four members of the team. The previous battle had been too chaotic.

Although they were in the same team and could see the approximate location of their teammates, there were people everywhere.

They couldn't run over to meet up with their teammates when they saw their positions.

Now that the players from the state of Qin had retreated, everyone was chasing after them. Their five-man team had also slowly gathered together.

haha, brother Liu Guan, don't just focus on killing Subjugator. Don't make him cry.

After the party had gathered, Windcloud blade said jokingly.

"Who told him to show his face? if he had been hiding at the back, I wouldn't have been able to kill him, right?"

that makes sense. He can only blame himself for being too wild. He always thinks that I'm the number one in the world and no one can kill him. Hehe.

after killing the tyrant king, the effect was very obvious. After the tyrant king fell to the ground, the order of the Qin players was thrown into chaos. Otherwise, it would not have been so easy for us to force them to retreat.

A little fairy said, carefully analyzing the situation.

when the players from the state of qin had rushed over to rescue the domineering king, she had used the wrath of the stars, instantly killing many people, which had given her a great feeling.

that's right. If there's a chance in the future, we'll have to focus on Subjugator. Killing him will make it easier for us to win the team battle.

today, the kingdom war is stable. I just don't know if we can destroy the statue of the kingdom protector beast of the kingdom of Qin.

“that’s hard to say. after all, they still have two to three million people left. we have much more people, but there are too few experts.”

...

what’s there to be afraid of? they’re all rookies. I can knock them down with one arrow.

you’re right. They’re all rookies. Let’s kill them and destroy their Black Dragon statues. Haha.

They chased after the Qin players all the way.

He would be able to catch up very quickly. Zhang Shan dismounted and attacked continuously, knocking down the Qin players who were left behind.

He then continued to Mount his horse and gave chase, killing many people along the way.

Many of the Chu players did the same thing, chasing and killing the Qin players.

the qin players also knew that if this continued, the people behind them would all be killed.

However, they had no choice. It was like this when they were escaping. They had to sacrifice a portion of their people in order to escape.

When they were close to the Qin altar, the Qin players who stayed behind went up to help.

The two million Qin players in formation looked very powerful.

Including the Qin players who had retreated, there were a total of two hundred to a few hundred thousand people.

...

compared to the number of people from chu state, they were much more numerous.

One must know that although Zhang Shan and the rest had been chasing the Qin players all the way, they did not have many people.

all the players of chu state added together might not even have 500000 people.

This was to boost morale. The side with fewer people would still chase the side with more people, killing until the other party had no more temper.

Of course, most of the elite players from Chu State were still there.

Although a large number of players had fallen, most of them chose to resurrect on the spot.

especially when they won in the end, most of the people who had fallen chose to resurrect on the spot.

however, the players from the state of qin could not. even if they resurrected on the spot, it would be useless.

feng yun realm was still waiting there with his men. those who dared to resurrect would be giving money to the system. resurrecting once would cost a lot of gold.

He didn’t even dare to casually revive the tyrant king, let alone the other players from the state of Qin.

Some of the Qin players who had fallen had already chosen to return to the city to revive when they had retreated after losing.

Staying in the country war map was a waste of time.

chapter 355-not lost yet, there's still a fight

When the two million or so people left to guard the state of Qin saw the players from the state of Qin running back in a sorry state, they quickly ran out to help the retreating players.

They relied on their numbers, two million or so, to form a large defensive formation to block the Chu players who were chasing them.

However, the Chu players who were chasing after them did not stop at all. Instead, they crashed into the formation of the other party.

What a joke, they had all seen the formation of tens of millions of people just now.

Right now, this formation of over two million people was nothing.

Not to mention that the surviving Chu players were mostly elites, while the Qin players were all rookies.

A group of noobs wanting to use their advantage in numbers to scare them away was probably thinking too much.

Zhang Shan did not stop either. He raised his hand cannon and continuously fired at the Qin players.

These Qin players who stayed behind were even worse. They might be the weakest group of people who participated in the world War.

It was because these people were too noob that the domineering King had arranged for them to stay behind.

In the first place, the tyrant king didn't count on these people to do anything.

However, most of the people who had followed the tyrant king to attack the Chu state's divine beast statue had already died.

The remaining hundreds of thousands of people couldn't deal with the Chu country players. Therefore, they could only count on this group of noobs who stayed behind to guard the city.

After Zhang Shan and the rest crashed into the other party's defensive formation, they swept through the entire way. The formation of two million people was like paper.

It couldn't stop their advance at all.

especially on zhang shan's side, because he had shot 12 people in one shot, the damage was really too high.

the qin players did not know how to defend against zhang shan's firepower.

Some of the Qin players were too lazy to even struggle, and after they fell to the ground, they immediately left the World War map.

To them, this country war was a game that they had no experience of.

In the beginning, the others went to fight while they stayed behind.

By the time they lost, they would be unable to defend any longer. What was the point of playing? there was no gaming experience at all.

Zhang Shan's side was advancing valiantly, but in other directions, the progress was not as fast.

Although the defenders were noobs, there were still many of them.

The others did not have the same firepower as Zhang Shan. They could only slowly push forward.

Sometimes, he would be knocked down by the Qin players.

the dragon king of the east sea was leading his guild and charging forward, but he was too fast.

He had left the team and was killed by a group of Qin noobs.

He was so angry that he vomited blood. Just now on the platform, both sides were fighting a battle of elite players.

he didn't even fall to the ground. he didn't expect that he would fall to the ground when facing a group of rookies.

The Dragon King of the East Sea was so angry that he chose to resurrect on the spot and took out a scroll.

A rain of fire fell from the sky, instantly clearing a path for him.

zhang shan kept firing while watching the dragon king of the east sea from afar. he had even used the scroll.

He said to wind and cloud blade unhappily.

what the hell is this Dragon King of the eastern sea doing? he didn't even use a scroll on the platform when it was so dangerous. Now he's just crushing the rookies, and he's still using a scroll. Isn't it a waste? "

Zhang Shan could not understand this person. Wasn't this pure squandering?

"Dragon King of the East Sea, you must be considering your contribution to the World War, right? Didn't the announcement say that the divine weapon that was dropped after destroying the divine beast statue would be automatically distributed to the player who contributed the most? Now that there's a chance to win the World War, he's using the scrolls to earn contribution points, right?"

"Is that so? That would be such a waste."

Zhang Shan felt that the Dragon King of the East Sea was being too optimistic. Did he think that contribution points could be increased by using a few scrolls?

&Nbsp; moreover, the country war contribution points didn't say that it had to be calculated by head count.

With the actions of the Dragon King of the East Sea, where did he put Zhang Shan? did he think that he could compete with Zhang Shan in the number of kills by relying on the damage of the scrolls? He was probably thinking too much.

when zhang shan was dealing damage normally, he could fire 12 shots in one shot, more than two shots per second.

If Zhang Shan were to continue killing for an hour, he could probably kill a hundred thousand people.

How many scrolls would the Dragon King of the East Sea need to kill so many people to achieve the effect?

the Dragon King of the East Sea is so stupid. They're still thinking about snatching the contribution points when the six-barreled boss is here. How childish, hehe.

A little fairy echoed. She followed Zhang Shan and saw his terrifying damage effect.

This killing efficiency was even more ridiculous than her ultimate skill. The Dragon King of the East Sea wanted to use scrolls to compete for contribution points.

you have to understand others. People who haven't seen brother Liu Guan's terrifying damage output won't know how strong he is.

that's right. Even if I saw it with my own eyes, I still wouldn't believe it, let alone those who have never seen it before. Brother six-Guard's ejection skill is really too exaggerated.

haha, it's not bad. Quickly clear out the players from the state of Qin and then destroy the Black Dragon statue.

I wonder if the Black Dragon statue has 100 billion HP like the baize statue? "

"It should be the same, right?"

that's a little difficult. With 100 billion HP, even if tens of thousands of people fight together, it'll take more than an hour to finish it, right? " what's there to worry about? as long as we clear out all the Qin people, it'll be very fast to break the statue. No matter how much blood it has, it's still a wooden stake. There are many people, so it doesn't need to be too strenuous.

...

the problem is that it's impossible for everyone to hit the statue at the same time. The place is only so big. I don't think many people can hit the statue, right? "

"I don't care about that. Let's kill first."

the five of them charged through the players from the state of qin, followed by a large group of wind and cloud guild members.

Slowly, the Qin players 'defense was on the verge of collapse, and they could not hold on any longer.

Zhang Shan and the rest quickly broke through. After the Dragon King of the East Sea used one scroll, he used a second one, directly crushing the Qin players.

Seeing such a situation, a player from the state of Qin said pessimistically.

"It's over, we're going to lose the kingdom war."

"Don't panic. We haven't lost yet. We still have to fight."

yes, we still have a chance. Let's retreat to the platform first. It's easier to guard there.

"Just now, the Chu players were much weaker than us. If they could defend, it doesn't make sense that we can't."

...

"Retreat quickly, let's go to the platform to defend."

A group of Qin players quickly ran to the platform where the Black Dragon statue was. They had been defending there before.

However, in order to receive the retreating Qin players, they ran down from the platform.

He had originally thought that it would not be easy to beat up hundreds of thousands of people with two to three million people.

Who knew that they would be so weak? they couldn't even withstand one wave and were about to collapse.

Chapter 356 A mental breakdown

The players from the state of Qin retreated all the way to the platform of the statue.

There was only one path to the platform. As long as they blocked this path, Zhang Shan and the rest would not be able to go up.

However, this passage was very wide, enough to allow hundreds of people to pass side by side. It was not so easy to guard.

If not, they would not have allowed Subjugator to use five scrolls to clear the path.

As the players from the state of Qin continuously fell to the ground, there were only about a million players left alive.

As for the attacking side, there were only 300000 to 400000 players left.

Many of the Chu players had also fallen, and many of them had already fallen to the ground before.

He had already been resurrected once.

It was impossible to resurrect on the spot now, as the first resurrection cost 1000 gold coins.

Many players could afford this.

However, the second resurrection would cost 10000 gold coins.

This was a little expensive. To be honest, not many players could afford this.

However, although Zhang Shan and the rest were few in number, their attacks were still very fierce, not giving the Qin players a chance to catch their breath.

Even Feng Yun realm rushed over to join in the attack after arranging the defense on his side.

The entire country war had entered a small climax.

The operators' collection of videos was also constantly being updated, especially the collection of videos about Zhang Shan. One by one, they were constantly being updated.

It was like he was doing a live broadcast from his perspective.

At this moment, Zhang Shan did not know. He was still firing non-stop. The bullets swept across and he advanced step by step.

If Zhang Shan had known that the operators were using him for a live broadcast, he would have asked them for some fees.

Countless players were watching the video highlights of the game and discussing the game heatedly.

One of the topics that everyone was most interested in was Zhang Shan's catapulting skill.

This ejection skill of his was really too powerful.

With this skill, Zhang Shan's group battle ability had increased by nearly ten times. It was simply ridiculous.

The problem was that no one had ever seen such a skill before. No one knew what it was.

"Why does the damage dealt by six tube Bodhisattva jump back and forth? Is there any expert who can come out and explain?"

"Young man, do you have countless question marks in your head? But I just won't tell you, haha."

"Upstairs, don't act all high and mighty. Be careful of getting struck by lightning."

that's right. Why are you pretending? it's fine if you don't know. What's so strange about it? no one knows anyway.

who says I don't know? the damage bounce of the six-barreled Bodhisattva must be a special effect of some equipment.

"What's the point of guessing? we need evidence."

because it can't be a skill. If it is, why doesn't anyone else have it? "

"You're talking nonsense. There are so many skills that others don't have."

that's right. Let's not talk about others. Six-barreled Bodhisattva alone has a few skills that others don't have.

"that's right. even now, no one knows what kind of skill his immunity to crowd control is. "

"He also has a two-life mechanism. I wonder if it's a skill?"

if this ejection damage is a skill, then the Hunter class would be so cool. AoE attacks would be so cool.

"Don't worry. Even if it's a skill, it's a very rare skill. Most people can't get their hands on such a skill book."

sigh, it's said that the country war depends on the number of people, but I don't think that's necessarily the case. A few hundred people like six-pipe Bodhisattva can win the country war.

f * ck, brother, you're really daring. You actually want to have a few hundred of such perverted people. Then, are the others still playing? " you're right. The six-barreled Bodhisattva is already enough to break the balance of the game. If a group of such perverts comes, we might as well delete our accounts.

Zhang Shan didn't know that he was exploding with popularity on the forum.

Although he had been very popular in the past, this time, he was really so popular that he exploded.

however, he didn't have the time to care about these things. right now, he was only thinking about how to hit the opponent's platform and how to destroy the black dragon statue.

As they continued to rush towards the platform, the remaining players from Qin were stuck in a dead end.

moreover, the ones blocking the way were not the newbies from before, but the elite players who had returned from the altar in chu.

As for the noobs who stayed behind, most of them had already fallen to the ground. The remaining ones could only follow behind the elite players and do nothing.

The remaining 230000 elite players from the state of Qin had blocked the path to the platform.

Although Zhang Shan's attacks were very fierce, it was not possible to rely on him alone.

If the others could not rush up, it would be useless no matter how fast he fought.

at this moment, feng yun realm ran over and threw out two scrolls.

They quickly defeated the Qin players blocking their way and rushed up to the platform.

However, even though they had rushed up to the platform, there were still many Qin players left.

...

He couldn't attack the Black Dragon statue now. He had to clear out all the Qin players on the platform.

all in all, in this country war, the qin players had lost.

Feng Yun realm's two scrolls had defeated the last elite players of Qin country.

Although there were still some elites among the remaining Qin players, they were no longer a threat.

what the f * ck is this country war about? he's been getting beaten up all this time, and in the end, he even lost the country war.

it's all Subjugator's fault. He's giving us blind commands. If we had just stayed here, we wouldn't have lost.

don't even mention Subjugator. That weakling has been lying on the ground and commanding the entire time. What kind of skill can he possibly have? "

what domineering King? he's clearly the fallen king.

f * ck, I'm done playing. I'll rest for a week and come online next week. Baibai.

"Offline? what's the point of playing?"

Faced with an irreversible situation, the remaining Qin players 'mentality had already collapsed.

...

Everyone was cursing at the tyrant king. They weren't blaming the tyrant king for starting the country war.

Everyone liked country Wars, but they had to win.

Originally, the overall strength of the Qin players was much higher than the Chu players.

In the end, they still couldn't beat it, so it could only be a problem with the monster commander.

If everyone was like the players of Chu State and guarded the altar, they would definitely not lose the World War.

Of course, as normal players, these people were only speaking after the fact.

if the tyrannical king had held them back at the start and told them to defend instead of attacking chu's sacrificial altar ...

He would probably be scolded as a fool.

If he had the advantage and didn't attack, wouldn't he be stupid?

In short, if they lost, the domineering King would be the one to take the blame. He couldn't run away.

And this time, the pot was very big and very black.

The Overlord King might not even be able to carry it. After all, losing the World War would have a huge impact.

this wasn't like the previous free-for-all, where losing a level was the worst thing that could happen.

This was the system's punishment that would last for a week.

Chapter 357 Focus fire on the Black Dragon statue

When the players from Chu State rushed up to the platform, there were still many players from Qin State on it.

In fact, they might even be as many as the players of Chu State. However, they had long lost their fighting spirit.

Facing the ferocious attacks of the Chu players, many of the Qin players fell to the ground.

When the Qin players who fell to the ground saw that there was no hope of victory, they directly chose to return to the city to revive.

they didn't plan to revive on the spot and fight again.

there were even a few qin players who were facing the ferocious attacks of the chu players.

he chose to go offline and leave the world war map.

As the World War map could only be entered once, players would go offline in the world War map.

When he logged into the game again, he was already outside. This was a way to avoid battle.

Not long after the World War started, there were players who had already discovered this mechanism.

although the remaining qin players tried their best to resist, they had lost.

Their efforts were meaningless. Not long after, there were not many Qin players left on the platform.

"come on, take down the rest of the qin players and we'll go fight the statue."

haha, we're actually going to win. The state of Qin isn't that strong after all.

"tyrant king trash. he looks pretty strong, but he's just a paper tiger."

"it's too early to say that we'll win. the divine beast statue has hundreds of billions of hp. we might not even be able to destroy it."

are you kidding me? there are still two hours before the world War ends. It would be a miracle if we still can't destroy the divine beast statue in such a long time.

don't worry, we'll definitely be able to kill them. With tens of thousands of people attacking at the same time, it's useless no matter how much health they have.

you're right. Anyway, the divine beast statue won't attack. It's just a wooden stake. It's easy to deal with.

Not long after, all the players from Chu State rushed up to the platform, and the players from Qin State on the platform were slowly cleaned up.

In the final battle, the Chu players also suffered heavy losses. Currently, there were less than 100000 people still alive.

This was even after many people chose to resurrect on the spot after falling to the ground.

Their numbers would be even smaller.

The Qin players were basically all wiped out, and they were all under the platform of the statue.

There were still tens of thousands of Qin players who survived.

However, most of these people were rookies, and only a few could barely be called experts.

facing the 100,000 elite players of Chu, they did not dare to rush up.

However, these people weren't willing to leave the World War map, so they just surrounded the platform and didn't leave.

They wanted to wait for the players of Chu State to start attacking the Black Dragon statue before they came up to harass it.

Unfortunately, the high-spirited players of Chu didn't put these people in their eyes.

After clearing the players from the state of Qin on the platform, everyone excitedly started to attack the Black Dragon statue.

However, there were too many players from Chu State who had survived, and not everyone could attack the Black Dragon statue.

After all, the space was only so big, and the position to attack was limited. Zhang Shan had long taken the lead and occupied an attacking position.

he started to attack the black dragon statue and checked its attributes.

Although the Black Dragon statue and the baize statue in Chu State looked different, their attributes were exactly the same.

They both had 100 billion HP and a damage-reducing divine position skill.

After Zhang Shan started his attack, he went all out. His bullets left a trail of fire.

He quickly attacked the Black Dragon statue.

As the divine beast statue had a powerful damage reduction skill, the damage was reduced by half.

Zhang Shan's damage with each shot was only slightly more than 8000, and there was only one enemy on the platform.

His ejection skill was also useless, as he had no target to eject to.

Thus, he could only attack the Black Dragon statue one by one.

Zhang Shan and a large group of people attacked the Black Dragon statue for a few minutes, but they did not even take down a single HP bar.

The Black Dragon statue's HP was still 100%.

In other words, they still had not taken out 1% of the Black Dragon statue's HP.

'ASIBA, this is too exaggerated. Is everyone's damage too weak?'

If this continued, they might really not be able to destroy it by the time the World War ended.

He looked at the time. There were still two hours and a few minutes before the world War ended.

logically speaking, there was plenty of time, but he was afraid that everyone was not doing their best.

those with low damage, make way. Give up the output position and let the big shots hit the divine beast statue.

that's right, your support only dealt tens of thousands of damage after half a day. Don't take up space.

everyone, Let's cooperate. It's good for everyone to destroy the divine beast statue. Won't a week of double experience be good if we win the country war? "

...

Under the mobilization of all the players, some of the Chu players with low damage output were killed.

They backed out of the attack line and stood on the side to watch the battle, allowing those with strong damage output to attack.

Although everyone wanted to try and hit the divine beast statue, the place was only so big.

Furthermore, time was limited, so he had to make sure that the statue was destroyed first.

After the attack formation was adjusted, everyone's damage output had significantly increased.

Not long after, the Black Dragon statue's HP finally dropped by one percent.

Zhang Shan looked at the time. They had been fighting for about three minutes and had only lost 1% of their health.

'This won't do, right? at this rate, we'll only be able to reduce 40% at most by the end of the world War. That's still far from it.'

However, they were slow at the start, probably because their offensive lineup was not strong.

In the beginning, there were a lot of punks mixed in to make up the numbers, but the fight should get faster and faster.

The divine beast statue had high HP and a divine position skill that reduced damage by half.

...

It was also immune to magic, so it would only take damage from normal attacks.

This greatly reduced the mages 'damage output, and the witch doctor's curse skills were useless.

Therefore, after attacking for a while, most of the mages stopped attacking.

He gave the attacking position to the physical damage output.

The final attack formation was basically made up of strength and agility-type players, who were attacking the divine beast statue.

Even a berserk fire mage like Feng Yun realm was immune to the Black Dragon statue's magic.

He couldn't deal much damage, so it was better to retreat to the side and let others hit him.

Zhang Shan looked around at the Chu players who could attack the Black Dragon statue.

There were about 10000 people, and these 10000 people were basically the elite players of Chu State.

Everyone's equipment was not bad, except for people like Zhang Shan, who had a strong output.

Wind and cloud blade was also brandishing his divine weapon battleaxe. He stood in front of the Black Dragon statue and slashed continuously.

It was the same for the others, each of them dealing at least 2000 damage.

More than 3000. One had to know that the divine beast statue had a skill that reduced damage by half.

Even so, they were still able to deal around 2000 to 3000 damage. It was clear that these players were not weak.

Chapter 358 The Chu country is invincible

When Zhang Shan and the rest started to focus fire on the Black Dragon statue, the newbie Qin players below the stage could no longer sit still.

Although they were noobs, they couldn't just watch as the Chu players attacked the statue of their country's Guardian beast.

It was unknown who shouted, but the tens of thousands of Qin players were left.

they charged towards the platform with all their might, trying to disrupt zhang shan and the rest from attacking the divine beast statue.

however, all of this was in vain.

Zhang Shan and the rest did not move at all. They continued to attack the Black Dragon statue as usual.

In any case, other than them, there were also tens of thousands of Chu players watching the battle on the platform.

their time was precious. although they still had plenty of time, the black dragon statue was so meaty.

it would be a joke if he didn't destroy the black dragon statue in the end.

Facing the players from the state of Qin, the people who were watching the battle from the side finally found some fun.

He couldn't hit the statue, but he could kill a few people.

Under Feng Yun realm's lead, the group of Chu country players did not wait for the noobs to rush up.

Instead, they charged down first and slashed at the surviving Qin players.

It didn't take long for them to clear out these people.

Currently, in the entire world War map, most of the players who were still alive were gathered here.

In other places, even if there were some scattered soldiers, they would not be able to do much.

The Qin players in the country war map had already lost their scale.

To them, the country war was already over.

as for the outcome of the country war, whether it would be a draw or a loss, it would depend on whether zhang shan and his group were strong enough to attack the black dragon statue.

Of course, they were hoping that Zhang Shan and the rest could not destroy the statue. It would be best if they could drag it out until the end of the world War and not destroy the Black Dragon statue.

However, the Qin players' thoughts would not be realized.

With the adjustment of the attack formation, Zhang Shan and the rest fought faster and faster. In the beginning, they only managed to deal 1% of their health after three minutes.

Now, it had taken ten minutes to hit 10%, and the speed of the damage output was still increasing.

At the start, Zhang Shan had been a little worried that he would not be able to break the statue.

However, he was not worried anymore. Zhang Shan estimated that in less than an hour, this group of people would be able to destroy the Black Dragon statue.

To Zhang Shan, the time that followed was both rubbish time and full of anticipation.

It was trash time because the outcome of the country war was already expected.

There were only a few players left in the Qin country. Facing such a powerful lineup, they could no longer harass them.

Zhang Shan and the rest could focus on attacking the Black Dragon statue.

Of course, he was looking forward to the divine artifact and who it would end up in.

The game producers were really good at this.

The God equipment was given by the system, and the players who contributed the most during the World War were the ones.

Who had contributed the most? there was no contribution list.

No one knew.

Zhang Shan felt that his contribution was definitely the greatest. In terms of the number of kills, he had knocked down at least 100000 people today.

There was probably no one who could beat him in this aspect, other than the defeated Subjugator, as he had used a total of ten scrolls.

It was possible that he had more kills than he did, but the domineering King was a loser. No matter how many he killed, it was useless.

there was no need to mention the damage to the black dragon statue. it was the damage done to him alone.

It was equivalent to more than ten or twenty people.

It must be known that not only was Zhang Shan's attack power two to three times that of others, his attack speed was also two to three times that of others.

Zhang Shan's equipment had always been better than others. Just the attack speed of the agility attribute alone was more than others.

Moreover, he had a few strong points that increased his attack speed.

Maedas' hand increased attack speed by 50%, and a passive skill called [battle intent] also increased attack speed by 50%.

Moreover, he also had mad demon passive, which also increased his attack speed by 20%.

There were also some equipment special effects that increased attack speed.

All in all, his attack speed was more than twice as fast as the average agility-type profession.

Compared to other professions, it was much faster, at least two to three times.

Such high attack power, such fast attack speed, plus his critical hit passive and special effects.

The damage dealt was terrifyingly high.

Even wind and cloud blade, who was also holding a divine weapon, probably did not even have a quarter of Zhang Shan's sustained damage output.

Not to mention the other players, many of them could not even deal one-tenth of Zhang Shan's damage.

If the damage to the Black Dragon statue was used to calculate the country war contribution, Zhang Shan felt that he was in the bag.

...

This unknown divine weapon was something that no one could snatch away.

However, he didn't have the final say in this matter. The system had the final say.

It was the same for the other top players. They also believed that they had a chance of being assigned to a divine artifact.

For example, the Dragon King of the East Sea had killed many players from the state of Qin when he started the chaotic battle.

Although it was not as ridiculous as Zhang Shan's, who had killed more than 100000 people, he had still knocked down a few thousand people.

Furthermore, he had used scrolls continuously and defeated another 20000 to 30000 players. Of course, he felt that he had a chance.

There were many people like him. After all, many people would think that good things might fall on their heads.

After all, the announcement did not mention how the contribution was calculated.

Although Zhang Shan was a little worried, he had no control over these things.

There was no point in thinking too much. He should focus on fighting the Black Dragon.

On Zhang Shan's side, while they were still attacking the Black Dragon statue, the domineering King finally could not hold on any longer and chose to return to the city to revive.

...

Although the players of Chu country were mostly concentrated on attacking the Black Dragon statue, the Black Dragon statue was still a huge threat to them.

however, there were still some players from chu country who stayed behind to guard the place where the domineering king had fallen.

Camping the corpse of the boss of the second-ranked Guild was a very honorable thing.

Although they weren't the ones who beat him up, being able to participate in guarding the corpse was also a very honorable thing.

Therefore, even though these people were guarding there with nothing to do, they insisted on not leaving.

It was only when Subjugator could not hold on any longer and chose to resurrect back in the city that everyone rejoiced.

haha, this domineering King doesn't have any backbone. If it were me, I would stand up and fight.

" what's he going to do? i heard that subjugator has already resurrected four times. if he resurrects again, he'll have to spend 10 million gold coins. he's not willing to do that. "

what an old fox. He's rich anyway, so what's wrong with spending some money to resurrect on the spot?
"

they're so rich, and they're so stingy. They deserve to lose the World War.

" i didn't think that the qin country would be so domineering and arrogant under the leadership of the domineering king. now, they're completely out of the question. if they lose the world war, their popularity will probably drop very quickly. " of course, who can withstand a week of system punishment? if you can lose once, you can lose a second time. In the future, there will definitely be a lot less new players who choose the Qin camp.

"Haha, in that case, our Chu country is going to rise up?"

“Brother, don’t you know how to talk? is our Chu country going to rise again? We’re already very powerful.”

“You’re right, the Chu country is invincible.”

Chapter 359 The kingdom war is dangerous, you need to be careful when starting it when subjugator chose to resurrect in the city, zhang shan and the rest were still attacking the black dragon statue.

Even though they were getting faster and faster, this was a long-term and arduous project.

The divine beast statue’s 100 billion HP was no joke. Fortunately, the statue would not attack players.

If not, all country Wars would probably end in a draw.

If the statue with 100 billion HP could still attack players like other bosses, then ...

Who could withstand that? even the Panda bear would be killed in one move.

The game producers had probably considered this problem, so they set the divine beast statue to be a statue. It could not attack and could only be beaten.

After defeating the other party, they would then use their damage output to destroy the divine beast statue and win the World War.

Even though this was difficult, it was still something that the current players could do.

As Zhang Shan and the rest entered the time of fighting the Black Dragon, the First World War in the New World would take a long time to end.

But for the other players, it was already coming to an end.

The operator was still making a collection of videos. Every time the Black Dragon statue lost 1% of its health, the operator would update a video.

Everyone looked at the progress of the Chu players ‘attack on the Black Dragon statue. There was no longer any suspense in this world War.

Unless the server crashed, Qin would lose without a doubt.

Of course, a server crash was just a joke. It was impossible.

It was already 2058, and technology had advanced to a new level. It had been many years since a server crash had been heard.

Not to mention, new world was a game developed and operated by the officials, so the logistics support was very stable.

It was impossible for the server to crash.

what the players were concerned about now was whether the national camp they had chosen was the right one.

In the past, everyone had thought that it was the same no matter which country they chose.

Each country had three sub-cities and one capital city, and the monster map was similar.

However, after this kingdom war, everyone would have to think about it carefully.

If their country's camp was too weak and lost a few country Wars, how could they play in the future?

losing once was almost equivalent to playing one week less than others, and the key was that it was particularly annoying.

as for the stronger countries, after winning the world war, they would receive a week of double experience.

They could develop faster, and as time passed, they would slowly pull apart from others.

This was especially true for the top players. If they won the World War, they would have the chance to obtain a divine weapon.

It was a fatal temptation.

It was a pity that this game had not yet released the treason mechanism. When the country's camp left the novice village, it had already been chosen and could not be changed.

The weak countries could only think of ways to try not to trigger a country war with others, but this was inevitable.

There was a saying that if one wanted to see if a war would break out between the two countries, one had to see if one side wanted to fight.

As long as one side wanted to fight, war would be inevitable, because the side that didn't want to fight had no right to speak.

As for the strong countries, they had to do everything they could to start a country war as soon as possible.

Therefore, there would definitely be more country Wars in the future. As for which countries it would take place.

that would depend on the players' hard work and the system's arrangements. after all, there was no transparent mechanism for the triggering of the world war. everything was decided by the system.

in the forums, everyone was discussing the kingdom war. however, no one was paying attention to the kingdom war between qin and chu.

There was no longer any suspense in this country war, and there was nothing to discuss.

Everyone was discussing how they would play after exiting the World War system.

this game is a little difficult to play. Our state of Zheng is so weak. Won't we still be beaten up every day in the future? will our experience points be halved every day? "

" that's right. our country is not strong. if we get beaten up every day, what's the point of playing? "

why are you so worried? it's still not certain who's stronger.

upstairs, you're right. The Qin State looked so powerful, but in the end, they were still pulled down by the Chu State.

I really don't understand what's going on in this world War. There are clearly more players from the kingdom of Qin, and the domineering aura Guild is so strong. Why didn't they win? "

why else? it's just that the domineering King is too arrogant. Even the system can't stand it.

"Haha, it's fine if the system can't stand it."

how should I put this? the state of Qin is indeed very strong, but the state of Chu isn't weak either. The three major guilds in the state of Chu are all stronger than the last. Although they're not as strong as Guild Subjugator, the gap isn't that big.

"the key is that the players of chu country know how to play, unlike the domineering king, who charges forward at the start and then uses up all his strength. what's left is just to be beaten up."

that's right. If the domineering King didn't bring his men to charge at them from the start, they would've slowly fought with the players from Chu. It's impossible for them to lose.

"the problem is that the tyrant king is aiming for the winning country war. to him, even a draw is unacceptable. otherwise, with over ten million people guarding the black dragon statue, chu country will be the one to take the lead."

that's why I say that people should know their own limits. The domineering King couldn't recognize himself, so he lost a good country war.

"In that case, it doesn't mean that weak countries like US can't play? If we encounter a Kingdom war, we will defend to the death until the kingdom war ends. At the very least, it will be a draw, right? we won't lose out."

"That's wishful thinking, but the premise is that they can hold on to it."

...

how could they not be able to defend? look at how Subjugator used ten scrolls and still failed to charge forward. This means that they still have the advantage in defense.

you're right. As long as the organization is good, we can still defend the relatively weaker countries.

the main thing is that they can't be too brutal. If they were to be brutal in the world War, there would be no way for them to win. Subjugator is just too brutal. If he had chosen to retreat when he could not charge forward, they would not have lost.

there's no point in using this World War as a reference. The domineering King is just a barbarian, and he didn't achieve the desired effect.

I hope that when it's our country's turn to fight a country war, those big shots won't be too brutal. They'll just defend steadily and survive one wave of tribulations.

f * ck, brother above, don't be so pessimistic. Which country are you from? are you that weak? "

we're from the state of zhao. Are we strong? " sigh, I realized that without a World War, it's hard to tell who's stronger or weaker. In the past, I thought that a country with a big Guild would definitely be strong, but it seems like that's not the case.

that's right. A United Country with many elite players is truly powerful. Even the big guilds are useless in a World War.

that's only natural. No matter how strong a Guild is, there are only a few people. It's not even enough to guard the platform. It's still far from being able to influence the outcome of the World War.

perhaps the advantages of a large guild will only be revealed when the Guild levels up and has more members.

...

it's still too early to think about that. It'll take a few months for the Guild to level up. It'll be even more difficult in the future.

haha, that's for the best. Only US casual players will have a place to live.

On the forums, the players were no longer full of anticipation for the future world War as they were at the beginning.

Country Wars were dangerous, so they had to be careful.

Even if they thought that they were from a strong national camp, they would definitely win.

After all, no one knew if their own country was really strong. After all, they had never fought.

Chapter 360 King's Cape

as the qin players were all forced back, the world war had entered a state of garbage.

Zhang Shan and a large group of people were attacking the Black Dragon statue with great difficulty.

He looked at the statue's HP, which was slowly decreasing. After fighting for more than half an hour, he had only managed to get half of its HP.

This wasn't a country war, this was a game.

If this were in reality, many people would not be able to hold on.

f * ck, it's so boring to kill them. Those Qin players are really too much. Why can't they take a fight? it's good to have some more exciting work.

Wind and cloud blade said smugly as he brandished his divine weapon battle axe and continuously attacked the Black Dragon statue.

"F * ck, you can even cut statues for fun? What do we do, the mages who are watching the battle from the outside?"

who let you guys watch the battle? you guys can go back and farm monsters. Don't worry, leave the World War to us. We'll definitely kill the Black Dragon.

are you kidding me? what if there's still a group of Qin players hiding in some corner and not being discovered? wouldn't you guys be screwed if we leave? "

"Don't worry, it won't flip over. Those Qin players are all noobs. I can cut them down with one axe."

"You can continue to be smug."

haha, one needs to be happy to the fullest in life. What's wrong with being smug a little? "

it's so easy to say. I really didn't expect to win the country war.

"is it easy? I think it's not easy. At the beginning, I thought we wouldn't be able to hold on. " how can we not defend it? the few big shots still have the scrolls in their hands.

the domineering King is really a hammer. He gave us a country war for free, hehe.

"He should be crying in the toilet now."

"Is there anyone who can go and find out if Subjugator is still online? Have you gone offline?"

he should have gone offline. If it were me, I would be too ashamed to stay in the game.

"what's there to be ashamed of? it's normal to lose and win in games."

the key point is that the domineering King is playing too wildly in this world War. Otherwise, it would be very difficult for us to win. At most, we would be able to fight a draw.

"It's normal for him to be arrogant."

haha, being arrogant is the norm for the domineering King. Everyone will get used to it in the future.

I think we should be more sneaky after the World War. I'm afraid that the Qin players will go crazy. If they lose the World War, they will be punished by the system. We have double experience. I'm afraid that they have nothing to do and will come online to cause trouble.

" what's there to be afraid of? just let them do whatever they want. we just have to focus on killing monsters. " haha, you're right. If they have the ability to tear down the capital of Chu country, I can't be bothered with them. I just want to kill monsters for a week.

that's right. This week's worth is equivalent to half a month's worth of normal grinding. Don't waste it.

In the midst of everyone's joy, the Black Dragon statue's health bar was finally almost empty.

This time, Zhang Shan didn't control the Panda bear, but rushed up to kill it.

There was no need for that. The statue would not drop anything else anyway.

Only one divine weapon was dropped, and it was distributed by the system.

Moreover, although the Panda ball's attack power was very high, its attack speed was terrifyingly slow.

Zhang Shan did not even summon it out. If he did, he would have wasted an attacking position.

in fact, all the hunters on the scene, except for the little wild wolves of the wind and cloud cannon, were killed.

It was a pet with a buff aura. The other people's pets had not been summoned.

No matter how strong a pet was, in terms of damage output, it definitely could not compare to a player.

Wouldn't it be better to have one more player to deal damage?

After the Black Dragon statue's HP was empty, Zhang Shan continued to attack fiercely. The effects of critical hits appeared one after another.

suddenly, he fired a shot, dealing five times the damage.

The Black Dragon statue turned into a pile of loose sand and disappeared before everyone's eyes.

&Lt; system announcement: Chu country's player has won this world War. Starting from midnight tomorrow, Chu country's player will enjoy the double experience effect, which will last for one week.
&Gt;

Players from the state of Qin have lost in the world War. For the next week, their experience and item drop rates will be halved, and their transaction fees will be doubled.

according to the system's calculations, the six-pipe bodhisattva of chu state had the highest contribution in this country war.

[ the system has automatically assigned the divine weapon dropped by the Black Dragon statue to six-barreled Bodhisattva. ]

Following that, Zhang Shan received a system prompt.

[ system notification: as you have contributed the most in this world War, the system will distribute the divine equipment that was dropped during the World War to you. ]

[ system notification: you have obtained a God equipment, the king's Cape. ] zhang shan quickly opened his backpack, wanting to see where the divine weapon was. in the end, he did not see it in his backpack.

damn it, didn't you say you would give me a divine artifact? where is it?

Zhang Shan suddenly recalled that the things given by the system were usually sent through mail.

He quickly checked his system mail and saw an unread one. He opened it.

...

After checking the mail, a cloak appeared in his bag.

Zhang Shan finally saw the new divine weapon in his backpack.

[King's Cape (exclusive godly equipment): increases HP by 300000. Level (sealed): currently level 30. The godly equipment will gradually be unsealed as the player's level increases. It will be unsealed once every 10 levels.]

[durability: never worn out. Bound to player six-barreled Bodhisattva, can not be dropped.]

Holy sh * t, it really was a Cape. Zhang Shan was shocked when he saw the system notification.

he had thought that it was just a cloak, and that it might be a piece of clothing. how could a cloak have a divine weapon?

He didn't even have an orange Cape, let alone a divine weapon.

At the current stage, a purple cloak was already extremely impressive, and a divine cloak was simply out of his reach.

zhang shan had always thought that the highest grade of a cloak was purple. there should not be any higher grade cloaks.

After all, the purple cloak was already very strong.

The health of the players would explode.

...

He didn't think that he would directly get a divine cloak. This was simply ridiculous.

But then again, this King's Cape was a divine weapon.

It didn't seem to be up to standard. A level 30 purple cape could heal over 30000 HP.

According to this calculation, a level 30 red cloak should be able to heal around 100000 HP.

There were even spiritual weapons on top of it, not to mention a high-level item like a divine weapon, yet it only added 300000 HP.

It didn't have any other attributes or special effects, which made it a little boring. At least it should have a Holy attack special effect.

However, it didn't. There was only one attribute, which was that it only added health points.

However, this health points was indeed quite a lot. With 300000 health, Zhang Shan felt that after equipping this King's Cape, he could challenge the demon God.

With this amount of HP, the demon God shouldn't be able to kill him in seconds.

However, what did this exclusive artifact mean?

Was it a divine artifact that belonged to him? or was there another understanding?

Zhang Shan could not figure it out.

Perhaps all the divine weapons obtained in the world War would have this suffix, right?