Chapter 361 The price of being handsome

After discovering the king's Cape, it had an additional tag of an exclusive divine artifact compared to the other divine artifacts.

Zhang Shan was very confused about this. He did not know what the word "exclusive" meant.

However, he didn't dwell on this issue. It was fine as long as it was a divine artifact.

although the king's cape was a divine weapon, it was a little less interesting than the other divine weapons.

This godly item didn't even have a special effect. Fortunately, the king's Cape still gave a considerable amount of HP.

a level 30 cape could increase 300000 hp. it was an extremely ridiculous amount.

If Zhang Shan were to wear this King's Cape, wouldn't his HP be over 300000?

He had more health than the Panda bear.

Even Zhang Shan did not want to bully them. There was no comparison at all.

Currently, the most tanky player was probably little Secretary Feng Yun, who was equipped with a God-grade shield.

He didn't know if his HP had exceeded 100000.

Compared to Zhang Shan's 300000 HP, it was a far cry.

As for the other fragile professions, they were even more pitiful. Those with better equipment might have more than 20000 HP.

As for the normal players, they probably only had around 10000 HP.

This difference was simply unbearable to look at.

Zhang Shan felt that he had the potential to become a BOSS. He had high attack and health, and his attack speed was fast.

If they didn't bring out the team that they used to fight the BOSS, they probably wouldn't be able to kill him.

When Zhang Shan obtained the king's Cape, he was elated. The other Chu players were also elated.

After winning the World War, they would immediately receive a week's worth of double experience. How could they not be happy?

It was said that new world was a difficult game to play. The difficult part was that it took a long time to level up and it was difficult to get good equipment.

Now that he had a week's worth of double exp, wouldn't leveling up be much easier?

As for the equipment, as long as you were ahead in level, you could get your hands on it.

Besides, after they won the kingdom war, no one would dare to look down on the Chu Kingdom anymore.

Their Chu country would also become one of the strongest countries in the game.

it was easier to enjoy the shade by leaning against a big tree. it would be easier to play in the future if his own faction was strong.

Just as everyone was immersed in joy, wind and cloud blade suddenly asked Zhang Shan.

“Brother Liu Guan, where’s your divine weapon? didn’t the system announcement say that the divine weapon was given to you? Why can’t I see it on the equipment ranking?”

What? was the king’s cape not on the equipment ranking? That shouldn’t be the case. No matter what, it was still a divine artifact.

The game’s best equipment wasn’t on the equipment ranking? this didn’t make sense, did it?

Zhang Shan quickly opened the equipment ranking list to check. Indeed, he did not see the king’s Cape.

‘F * ck, what’s going on? is this a fake divine artifact?’

Zhang Shan hurriedly changed into the king’s Cape and checked the equipment ranking again. There was still nothing.

Why was this so? Could it be that cloaks were like special items and were not considered equipment, which was why they were not on the equipment list?

Zhang Shan looked at his own attributes. After changing into the king’s Cape, his health had indeed increased.

It had increased to 336000 HP, which was equivalent to the HP of a mini-boss.

the king’s cape gave him 300000 hp, and his godly power passively increased all his attributes by 10%.

This meant that it gave him an additional 30000 HP.

He only had around five to six thousand HP.

As a fragile class, if they didn’t have equipment to support their health, they would have so little health.

After Zhang Shan put on the king’s Cape, it caused the other players around him to exclaim.

“F * ck, what kind of equipment is this six-barreled boss? could it be fashion? Isn’t he too handsome?”

“he’s so handsome.”

“What is this? why does it look like a dragon robe?”

hearing everyone’s exclamations, zhang shan finally noticed the outer appearance of the king’s cape.

in the beginning, he was only paying attention to the attributes of the king’s cape.

He really didn't mind. Equipment was good as long as the attributes were good. He wasn't some female player.

There were no special requirements for the appearance of the equipment.

From the looks of it, this King's Cape was indeed very handsome. It was completely bright yellow.

The two Golden Dragon shadows moved around the surface of the cloak.

This King's Cape, even if it didn't add any attributes, it could probably be sold for a high price.

No wonder everyone thought that it was a piece of fashion. However, were there any fashion items in the game?

It seemed that there were no fashion shows yet.

...

Seeing everyone's excitement and shock, Zhang Shan no longer hid anything. He displayed the attributes of the king's Cape for everyone to see.

"ASIBA, it really is a dragon robe."

"isn't that so? the king's cape is a dragon robe."

f * ck, are you guys focusing on the wrong point? the point is that this King's Cape is a God equipment Cape. It can increase 300000 HP. It's simply unimaginable.

f * ck, I only looked at the name of the equipment and didn't have time to look at its attributes. It's a 300000 hp increase. How can others play with it? "

f * ck, even if the six-barreled boss wants to die now, he can't die, right? he has more than 300000 HP, who can kill him? "

"So cloaks also have divine weapons. I thought that the best cloak would be purple."

it's hard to say. This King's Cape can't be a special case, right? otherwise, why isn't there even an orange Cape? "

"It's very likely to be a special case. Otherwise, how could it be an exclusive artifact?"

I really want a Cape like this. If I had 300000 HP, I wouldn't be able to play freely in the game.

"In your dreams."

this doesn't make any sense. With my attack power of over 3000, I can't kill Big Boss six-barreled just by standing there and letting me hit him.

what's so unscientific about it? even if the six-barreled boss didn't have this King's Cape, you wouldn't be able to kill him.

"Haha, I was just joking."

Zhang Shan kept adjusting his view, looking at his appearance after wearing the king's Cape.

He was so handsome. Although he looked ordinary, his cloak was really powerful.

With this appearance, he could probably make a movie, right?

However, after wearing the king's Cape, although he looked very handsome, it was a little too eye-catching.

If they were in a chaotic battle, he would be the target of a concentrated fire with his body exposed.

In the future, even if he wanted to hide among the others and launch a sneaky sneak attack, he would not be able to do it.

If others were in a crowd, they would be able to spot him at a glance.

Was this the price?

Fortunately, the king's Cape could heal him enough, so he could still hold on under normal circumstances.

Even if it was a high-level skill or a scroll, it would probably be difficult to kill him instantly.

A minute after they destroyed the Black Dragon statue, the World War map closed, and everyone returned to the capital.

Everyone returned to the city and went back to their homes.

No one would be stupid enough to use the teleportation Hall to return to the city, as that would cost another 100 gold coins.

even if it was someone with a lot of money like Zhang Shan, they would still return to Dangyang city.

Chapter 362 selling cloaks

After returning to Dangyang city, Zhang Shan teleported to the NPC store and sold the trash in his backpack.

Speaking of which, a 1000-slot backpack was really cool. After the World War, he actually picked up hundreds of pieces of trash equipment.

There was still a lot of trash that had been picked up by others because of time constraints.

Otherwise, he could have picked up even more.

One had to know that in this country war, Zhang Shan had defeated at least 100000 Qin players.

When a player was not red-named, the chances of them dropping equipment were not high.

However, he had defeated so many people. Even if the probability was only 1%, he would have gotten more than 1000 pieces of equipment.

Although trash equipment was not valuable, when there were a lot of them, their value would still be considerable.

Zhang Shan cleared up all the rubbish and sold them. He actually earned more than 6000 gold coins, which was considered a small profit.

Moreover, the equipment he picked up was not all trash. There were two red equipment among them.

He didn't know which unlucky Qin players had dropped it, but there were also about ten orange equipment.

if they were to be put up for auction later, they would probably be sold for tens of thousands of gold coins.

Zhang Shan realized that after he became stronger in the game, earning money was really easy.

Whether it was killing monsters or bosses, or killing people in a melee, he could always make a small profit.

After selling all the trash equipment, Zhang Shan teleported to the auction house and hung up the orange and two red equipment that he had picked up during the World War.

In addition, he could also sell the priest cloak that he had just changed out of.

this level 20 cape had been with him for a long time.

Originally, he had planned to wait until he reached level 40 before changing to a new cloak. Who would have thought that there would be such an unexpected gain from the World War?

if he could get his hands on a divine cloak, he would not have to worry about cloaks in the future.

From now on, the most top-grade divine cloak would bid farewell to the title of 'fragile skin' forever.

He was no longer an ordinary little hunter, but a Hunter who was as strong as a horse. He asked if others were afraid.

After putting up the sacrificial cloak for auction, Zhang Shan hesitated for a long time. He was not sure how much he could sell this cloak for.

From the start of the game until now, no one had heard of a trade for a purple cape.

This was because purple cloaks were simply too rare, and there were only a few of them in total.

Although the priest Cape was only a level 20 equipment, it was not suitable for the current mainstream players.

However, there were also many rich players who had just joined the game.

As long as they had good equipment, he believed that they would not be stingy with their money.

Thinking of this, Zhang Shan decisively made a black-hearted move. He set the starting price of the priest Cape at one gold coin, and the buyout price at one million gold coins.

The auction would last for 24 hours to see if there were any rich bosses who would make a move.

After settling all of this, Zhang Shan planned to directly teleport to the beast King.

After the World War was over, it was time to continue farming monsters, even though it was during the period of double experience.

It would only start after midnight, and it was only past eleven.

There was still an hour to go before the double time.

However, even without the double experience, he still had to farm monsters.

zhang shan took a look at the team information. the five people in the team were still there. why were these guys not offline yet?

Could it be that he was also planning to take advantage of the double experience to try his luck?

“Are you guys still going to farm monsters?”

Zhang Shan asked in the team channel.

” go on, i’ll get the double experience later. i’ll give it a try. ”

Wind cloud blade replied without hesitation.

“Go.”

This was the answer of ‘heart moves with me’. The big boss of the brush, even if he did not answer, Zhang Shan knew that he would not let go of this week’s double experience.

“I’ll go to beast King Valley to farm for a while and then go offline to sleep. I’m still using the game helmet, so it’s not suitable for me to work for long periods of time.”

Boss Wu said helplessly. He also wanted to try, but the conditions didn’t allow it.

Of course, the game helmet was just an excuse. After all, boss Wu had a family.

how could he be like single men like them who could play games day and night?

even if he didn’t have to take care of the baby, he still had to hand in the mission on time.

A little fairy replied naughtily.

“little goblin, are you also planning to work all night to farm monsters? Be careful not to age your skin, hehe.”

“Hmph, I’m an ageless beauty, I’m not afraid.”

Zhang Shan facepalmed. If he had not seen her in person, he would have really thought that she was a cute little girl. She was clearly an older young woman, but she was actually acting cute here.

At night, the monster-killing team lacked boss Wu, the Taoist support, and the attack blessing.

This reduced their damage output by a lot, but it wasn't a big problem. They could continue farming and not pull people in for the time being.

"Let's go and farm some monsters. You guys run slowly, I'll teleport to beast King Valley First."

After Zhang Shan finished speaking, he was about to use the positioning ball to teleport. At this time, wind and cloud blade hurriedly called out to him.

"Wait a minute, brother Liu Guan, don't you have the divine cloak now? Then the cloak you prepared before must be useless. Can you sell it to me?"

"Okay, I'll go to the warehouse and take it out."

He had been keeping a level 40 purple cape in his inventory. It was the first time they had killed a golden ant.

Originally, he had planned to wait until he reached level 40 before putting it on. However, now that he had the king's Cape, the ant Queen's Cape was obviously no longer useful.

selling it to wind and cloud blade was, of course, a good idea.

Zhang Shan did not ask about the price. He believed that blade of wind and cloud would understand. This was a purple cape.

moreover, it was a level 40 purple cape, so everyone would be able to use it very soon.

This was a hot item, and it would not do if the money was not enough.

...

"What's this? does Guan Zi have another purple cloak? Sell it to me,"

Upon hearing wind cloud blade's words, a little fairy, who was not sure if it was intentional, immediately joined the competition.

"I said it first,"

Windcloud blade was powerless to retort. It was truly troublesome to have a woman in the party.

there's no rule that says it first, so it's yours. Besides, the equipment's name is the ant Queen's Cape, so it's obviously a female equipment. Do you want to change your gender? " zhang shan did not want to say anything and let the two of them fight.

Speaking of which, were there different types of equipment in this new world? I don't think so.

"Then what should we do? there's only one cloak."

Windcloud blade was helpless. If he had known earlier, he would not have asked Zhang Shan in the party channel. He had miscalculated.

"Why don't we roll for it?"

A little fairy said after thinking for a while. She really wanted to get a suitable cloak.

However, good capes were too rare. Not to mention purple capes, even blue capes were hard to find. They could be sold at a high price in the auction house.

The cloak she was wearing was a level 30 blue cloak, which she had spent 200000 gold coins to get. now that zhang shan had a level 40 purple cape for sale, wouldn't he be able to win?

Chapter 363 i don't want to work hard anymore a fairy really wanted this purple cape, even though it was a level 40 cape and she couldn't use it right now.

However, it was never wrong to prepare in advance.

However, the problem was that this was a question that wind and cloud blade had asked first. It did not seem very kind of her to interfere by the side.

Who cares? she was a woman anyway. It was okay to be unreasonable sometimes.

Besides, wasn't rolling the fairest way? Therefore, one of the fairies suggested this seemingly fair method.

I'm not rolling. I'll let you have it. Brother Liu Guan, don't be tempted by her beauty. That's just a useless skin. You must sell it for a high price, or you'll lose out.

Wind and cloud blade was speechless. Of course, he wanted Zhang Shan to sell him the cloak.

However, it would be boring to fight with a woman, so he gave up. Anyway, there was still some time before he reached level 40. He hoped that he could get more purple cloaks in the future.

When he chose to give up, wind and cloud blade did not forget to tease.

Upon hearing that Windcloud blade had withdrawn from the competition, one of the lesser Goblin hearts was elated.

She did not take it to heart at all. Besides, she would not take Zhang Shan's cloak for free. He would be valuable too.

brother Butler, I'll wait for you at the warehouse. Give me the cloak.

Zhang Shan was a little depressed. Wind and cloud blade was such a scammer. Why did he give up on him?

The two of them could compete, and the one with the higher price would get it. That was pretty good.

Also, a little fairy actually said something about rolling? This was a little ridiculous.

Zhang Shan, the person involved, had not even said anything, and the two of them had already come to an agreement. The ant Queen's cloak would belong to the little fairy.

Of course, even though he was depressed, Zhang Shan would not say anything. It did not matter who he sold it to, as long as he paid.

As for the price, it was negotiable. He wouldn't cheat his own people.

Zhang Shan teleported to the warehouse and saw a little fairy waiting there.

brother Guan, take out your cloak. Let me see if it's pretty.

Zhang Shan was speechless. A woman's brain was indeed wired differently. Wasn't a cloak only needed to increase health points?

She even had to see if she was beautiful? Could it be that she didn't want a cloak that wasn't pretty?

However, with the principle of 'speak less and suffer a small loss', Zhang Shan only complained in his heart and did not say it out loud.

Zhang Shan took out the Queen ant cloak from the warehouse and traded it to the little fairy.

haha, this Cape looks so pretty. It's a pity that you can only equip it at level 40.

a little goblin said happily after receiving the cloak that zhang shan had traded to her.

in fact, the cloak was quite beautiful. it was a golden cloak.

its appearance should be similar to that of the big golden ant. as for what effect it would have on a player, he had no idea.

However, this was not the main point. The main point was that the little demon had not paid yet.

zhang shan looked at her quietly and did not say anything.

A little fairy held the Queen ant cloak in her hand and looked at it for a long time before she remembered that she had not paid for it.

She said, a little embarrassed.

Oh, I haven't paid you yet. How much do I have to pay you? "

This time, Zhang Shan asked. Purple cloaks were indeed very rare. They would definitely be sold at a high price, but exactly how high would it be?

he didn't know either. there was no record of this item being traded.

As for its valuation, how should he put it? although the purple cloak was very good, it could not be compared to spiritual weapons, divine weapons, and ultimate skill books.

After all, those items could be used by players for a long time. No matter how good the purple cloak was, it would be out of use after a few months.

After all, purple capes did not increase in level with players.

Players would have to change their cloaks almost every 10 levels, or at most 20.

However, it should be able to be sold for one or two million gold coins.

The level 20 priest Cape that he had just changed out of was something that he wanted to sell for a million gold coins.

regardless of whether the deal could be made, at least zhang shan had this hope.

Meanwhile, the ant Queen's Cape was a level 40 equipment, and it was currently in high demand.

Although everyone was still a long way from level 40, those rich big shots would usually prepare equipment in advance.

If this cloak were to be put up for auction, it should be able to sell for 2000000 gold coins.

"how about two million gold coins?"

Zhang Shan also did not want to trick the little demon. After all, she had found him a house, and Zhang Shan had even freeloaded two meals over at her place.

I'll give her a friendly price. Two million gold coins is definitely not expensive for this cloak.

ah, that's so expensive. Can I pay for your meal? I'll take care of your meals in the future. How about 10 gold coins per meal? "

A little fairy said jokingly.

"i can't live this long."

Zhang Shan had no strength to complain. 10 gold coins for a meal, he would have to eat 200000 meals for 2000000 gold coins to be able to afford it.

...

How long would it take? could he live that long?

haha, I'm just joking. I've transferred the money to you. Check the email yourself.

After a little fairy finished speaking, she went to look at her queen ant cloak.

however, she didn't have to look at it all the time. she still had to farm monsters later. she couldn't possibly bring an equipment that she couldn't wear to farm monsters.

I want to reach level 40 as soon as possible. I won't waste a single minute of this week's double time. I'll see brother Butler later, I'm going to beast King Valley.

After one of the demon speakers finished speaking, it teleported to the teleportation Hall and prepared to run to beast King Valley.

zhang shan saw this situation and could not help but shake his head.

but then again, it looked like a piece of top-tier equipment, but he couldn't wear it because of his level.

This way, he would have more motivation to farm monsters. He used to be like this too.

Opening the mail, he checked the two million gold that had just been transferred to his account. Zhang Shan's net worth had increased by a little.

It wasn't good to have too much money. He was a little numb to it. He felt that it wasn't money, but just a number.

Moreover, he felt like he didn't want to fight anymore. Whether it was farming monsters or fighting bosses, he wasn't as enthusiastic as before.

Did he become lazy because he had money?

That's not right. Even if it's not for money, it's for the sake of having fun in the game.

He still had to work hard. If he didn't advance, he would fall behind.

It was the same when playing games. If he didn't work hard, no matter how many divine weapons he had, no matter how talented he was, he would still be able to win.

At the same time, he would also be surpassed by others. By then, he would be beaten to the ground every day, and there would be no gaming experience left.

Just like the domineering King, he liked to cause trouble when he had nothing to do, but now he was almost autistic.

Zhang Shan did not want to be like the domineering King one day and be beaten down from the peak.

He set off to beast King Valley and worked hard to kill monsters and level up.

Chapter 364-skill: bold and ambitious

When he teleported to beast King Valley, the surroundings were quiet. The World War had just ended, and it would take half an hour for those guys from the Guild to arrive.

In the entire beast King Valley, other than Zhang Shan, there were only a few dozen guild members guarding the passageway.

Beast King Valley was a monster-farming spot. To the wind cloud Guild, it was too important.

If they didn't have this grinding spot, how could they level up faster than others?

It was important to note that the later the game, the harder it was to level up.

Without the beast King Valley as a farming spot, Zhang Shan would not be able to reach level 33.

He probably hadn't even reached level 32.

As for the others, if it was not for the fact that they had snatched the map of beast King Valley from a Dragon in the West Mountain, they would not have been able to escape.

The others in their Guild might have just reached level 30.

Hence, even if it was a country war, Feng Yun realm would still arrange for people to defend to prevent others from taking advantage of the country war.

They would secretly snatch this farming spot.

Even though he was the only one farming, the speed at which his experience was increasing was not slow at all.

To be honest, after getting the ejection skill, when Zhang Shan was solo-ing.

their leveling speed was much faster than when they were in a party of five.

however, he didn't choose to go solo. instead, he still formed a team with a few of his friends.

he wasn't a lone wolf player, so having a few more friends to play with would make him happier.

as for the small difference in experience, he didn't have to worry about it at all.

moreover, as long as he didn't slack off, he didn't have to worry about his leveling speed.

Other than Mr. Wu, the other members of the team were also very good at killing monsters.

It was only because Zhang Shan was too abnormal that it appeared that he was the one who was helping others to level up.

Zhang Shan was quietly farming monsters alone, while the others were still running around in the Heaven's Gate map.

Although everyone had a Mount now, The Map of Heaven's Gate was huge.

The distance between beast King Valley and Heaven's Gate pass was extremely far, even if they were riding the fastest hero Mount.

It would take about half an hour to run from Heaven's Gate to here.

Zhang Shan was the most convenient. With the positioning Pearl, it saved him the time of running.

while zhang shan was farming monsters, the others were running away while bragging in the guild channel.

f * ck, why are there players from the state of Qin everywhere in the Heaven's Gate map? I just met a group of newbies from the state of Qin who wanted to come up and kill me, but I swept them all away, hehe.

no way. I ran into them too. But fortunately, they're all rookies. They're not a threat.

"Have these Qin players gone crazy? Why are you all randomly killing people on The Map of Heaven's Gate?"

"Aren't they only targeting us? Don't tell me it's going to kill anyone it sees?"

"Yes, I just saw some Wei players get killed."

"F * ck, they're really crazy."

where's the domineering King? did he organize this? "

I don't know. I didn't see the tyrant king.

why are you still looking for the domineering King? I heard that he was beaten until he became autistic. When he left the World War map, he went offline.

“Haha, is this true? It can’t be a rumor, right?”

it’s true. On the National channel of the state of Qin, many players are scolding him for being a coward.

no way. The little heart of the domineering King is really fragile. Hehe.

if that Subjugator isn’t here, why are these Qin players still killing indiscriminately in the Heaven’s Gate map? ”

“What else can it be? They’re about to have their experience and drop rates halved. What else can they do other than kill?”

that’s true. If the drop rate is halved, many normal players might not even be able to earn back the money they spent on repairing their equipment and buying supplies.

yeah, they won’t be able to play for the next week. Other than going online to kill people, they really can’t do anything else.

f * ck, isn’t that this week? even The Map of Heaven’s Gate isn’t safe.

“What are we afraid of? isn’t it good to focus on killing monsters for double experience? Let them kill as they please.”

that makes sense. Apart from repairing my equipment, I don’t plan on leaving beast King Valley this week.

“F * cking heaven and earth, hehe.”

“I’m also feeling sorry for the Qin players.”

haha, the tyrant king has really screwed them over. If it weren’t for the fact that the tyrant king is so brutal, we might have ended up in a draw at most.

that’s right. Our luck in this country war is pretty good. We met a barbarian as our opponent.

” sigh, it’s a pity that we only have one chance like this. if there’s another country war, it won’t be so easy. ”

why are you so worried? the players of Chu have double experience points for a week compared to the players of other countries. Our average level is probably one level higher than the players of other countries. We have a huge advantage. Who can defeat us in the world War? ”

“You’re right. If there’s a Kingdom war, it should be the others who are worried.”

Zhang Shan was farming monsters while looking at the Guild members, boasting with confidence.

However, they were right. After a week of double experience, the overall strength of the players in Chu would be much stronger than that of the players in other countries.

An extra week of double time meant that, in theory, he would be able to kill monsters for an extra week. moreover, because the duration was doubled, everyone would be more active in killing monsters.

Like Zhang Shan, there were definitely many Chu country players who planned to work for an entire week.

Even though it was double the time for a week, for normal players, they would only level up one more level than others.

However, when placed in the entire national camp, the gap was too great.

If everyone was one level higher than the people from other countries, what kind of concept was that? a level didn't seem like much, just a few more attribute points.

However, it also depended on the person. Many people might be just one level lower and be able to update their equipment.

Out of more than 30 million players in a country, it would be ridiculous to have tens of thousands of players with better equipment than others.

As Zhang Shan was watching his guild members brag, he suddenly saw a system notification.

[system notification: your passive King talent has been activated by killing Forest Tiger. You have obtained the passive skill Tiger's courage and ambition.]

Haha, he got another passive skill. He had just won the World War, and now he had a passive skill. What a good sign.

Zhang Shan quickly checked the skill panel to see how this Tiger's courage and ambition skill was.

even though zhang shan knew in his heart that this kind of passive skill that increased attack power.

No matter how strong it was on a monster, it would increase by 10% in his hands.

He had already obtained a few similar passive skills, and they were all added in this way.

but even so, he still had to take a look.

[Tiger's courage and ambition (passive): increase attack power by 10%.]

It was simple and clear, without any surprises or surprises.

However, Zhang Shan was already very satisfied. As long as it was a passive skill, he would like it. Furthermore, it was a passive skill that increased attack power.

Chapter 365 Who else is there?

He had obtained another passive skill, and it was a passive skill that increased his attack power.

Zhang Shan was very happy.

He had been eyeing the Tiger's courage and ambition passive skill for a long time, and it took him so long to get it.

However, it was fine as long as he could respawn it. He still planned to keep respawning here until he reached level 50.

From the looks of it, after this week's double experience, he could consider looking for a farming spot.

Although the monsters in the beast King Valley gave a lot of experience, they were no longer suitable for him to farm.

Zhang Shan's current attack power was a little too high.

One shot wouldn't kill him, but two shots would deal a lot of damage. It wasn't worth it.

However, it was still too early to think about this. At the very least, he would have to farm for the double experience for this week.

He didn't want to waste time searching for monsters on the map.

He hoped that he would be able to level up to level 40 after he finished the double experience for the week.

His two divine artifacts would be able to be unsealed again, and his strength would increase greatly.

At that time, he could just roam around the Heaven's Gate map, take on bosses, and find a place to farm monsters.

The Tiger's courage and ambition passive skill, to Zhang Shan, could only be considered a regular passive.

He had already obtained three of these passive skills, and this was the fourth.

However, it was still very good to be able to increase his attack power by 10%. His current attack power had reached 14000.

An increase of 10% was equivalent to an increase of 1400 attack power, which was not inferior to a level 30 RED Weapon.

Other people had worked so hard to get a weapon, but in the end, it was not even as good as a passive skill that Zhang Shan had casually obtained.

If other people knew about this, they would probably be angered to death.

He had gotten a skill for nothing, and his strength had increased again. Zhang Shan checked his attributes to see how strong he was now.

Checking attributes:

[character: Bodhisattva of six tubes]

[occupation: Hunter]

[equipment: aruge's hand cannon, Skyhawk king's ring, King's Cape, maidas 'hand, extreme wind boots, violet-gold necklace, violet-gold ring: Kasaya]

Looking at his character's attributes, Zhang Shan was very satisfied. He was really too strong.

Because of the king's Cape, his HP had reached a terrifying 336000. It was simply too much.

His attack power had also officially broken through 15000, and this was just pure attack power.

When he was farming monsters, he also had the title of nemesis of the demons, which could increase his damage by an additional 10%.

In addition, whether it was farming monsters, fighting bosses, or fighting other people.

Boss Wu would always give him an attack blessing, which would increase his attack power by 20%.

In this way, when he was killing monsters or fighting bosses, his theoretical damage output could reach nearly 20000.

This number was too exaggerated. It should be known that the current average player's attack power might only be two to three thousand.

Even the Guild's big shots only had around 4000 attack power.

Even Windcloud blade, who was equipped with the legendary axe, only had a little over 7000 attack power.

And when Zhang Shan was at full health, his theoretical damage to the monster could actually reach close to 20000.

this was to make others feel despair.

Needless to say, compared to other players, Zhang Shan had the advantage of attack speed. Furthermore, special effects such as critical hits were also more and stronger than others.

zhang shan felt that he was walking further and further on the path of invincibility.

the reason why he was so strong, other than having two more divine weapons than others, was mainly because of those skills.

Especially those passive skills that were acquired through talent.

Looking closely at the skills section, one would realize that Zhang Shan had not learned many skills from the skills book.

Other than the initial headshot skill, he had only learned seven other skills.

The number of skills was definitely not a lot, at least compared to those rich big shots.

There were definitely many others who had learned more skills than him.

But Zhang Shan still had other skills.

Not to mention the Guild skills, this was the advantage of the wind and cloud Guild. The four guild skills were invincible.

Most guilds might not even have a single Guild skill yet.

The wind and cloud Guild actually had four guild skills. One must know that all the Guild skills only added up to nine.

It had only been three months since the game started, but they had already acquired nearly half of the Guild's skills.

It had to be said that their luck was indeed very good.

There were also the passive skills that Zhang Shan had obtained through his talent. There were actually as many as 11 of them.

Just these 11 skills alone would be enough to defeat most of the players in the game.

Who in the game could have 11 skills? Not many people would have it. After all, learning skills required skill points.

who would have so many skill points? he couldn't just level up all his skills once.

Out of the 11 skills, three of them were related to critical hits. Moreover, the heavy strike and knock-back skills dealt five times the damage.

There were as many as four that were related to attack power, which gave him a full forty percent increase in attack power.

furthermore, divine power was passive, and it increased all attributes by 10%. it was simply terrifyingly powerful.

The other passive skills were also the essence. For example, the passive rebirth, which directly gave one more life than others, was simply a bug skill.

For example, although the chance of stunning a passive was not high, it could often be very effective at critical moments.

It was fun to knock someone out with one shot.

there were also magic resistance and mad demon passive, which were also very good.

There was no need to talk about passive magic resistance, but the 10% reduction in magic damage was more and more obvious as the game progressed.

Mad demon's passive was even more so. To Zhang Shan, what he wanted was attack speed. Furthermore, mad demon's passive increased his attack speed by 20%, which was very satisfying.

Seeing how strong he was, Zhang Shan only wanted to shout, " who else? "

Chapter 366 Double experience

Seeing such strong attributes and skills, even Zhang Shan was a little envious of himself. Too strong, hehe.

However, he should not be too complacent. He still needed more passive skills and to become stronger. sooner or later, he would be able to challenge a demon god alone, and not like what he was doing now. everyone had not even seen the demonic god's appearance before dying in the light outside the city.

However, Zhang Shan took a look at his 336000 HP. He felt that when he was free, he would be able to do so.

He could try to walk out of the capital and have some fun. With such a high HP, the demon God's all-map skills should not be able to kill him in seconds.

Of course, he was just thinking about it. He didn't plan to try it out for now.

It was completely unnecessary. If he really died, it would be a huge loss.

Slowly, the others arrived at the beast King Valley one after another, and their five-man monster-killing team had gathered again.

Even though the double experience period had not started yet, everyone was still happily farming.

Winning the First World War in the game was enough to make everyone excited for a few days.

sigh, time really passes so slowly. Why isn't it time for the double experience points? "

Windcloud blade said in a bored tone as he brandished his God-tier battle axe and hacked at the Tiger monster in front of him.

"almost there, in about 20 minutes."

"what's the rush? i'm just afraid that you'll be nauseated after killing monsters for a week."

"how is that possible? if i could get double exp every day, i would be able to grind for a month and reach level 50."

yeah, i'm really looking forward to the double experience. I wonder if there are any other ways to get the double experience other than the World War.

don't think about it for the time being. This game doesn't want players to level up too quickly. It's already surprising that the World War can reward double experience for a week.

yeah, it's too difficult to level up in this game. If we were to farm monsters normally, I don't know how long it would take for us to reach level 100.

"i'm afraid it'll take a year or two?"

i'm afraid it's not just that. We've been playing for three months, and we've only reached level 30. We'll need more and more experience to level up later, so our leveling speed is frighteningly slow.

it should be okay. Although the experience required later on is more, everyone's equipment is better, so we can farm faster. Moreover, the experience for high-level monsters is more.

you're right. There are also maps like beast King Valley where farming monsters gives more experience.

yes, there should be similar maps or similar mechanisms in the future.

don't think too much. Keep playing and work hard to kill monsters. It's fine as long as you don't fall behind.

Everyone chatted as they killed monsters, and time passed by midnight.

Zhang Shan suddenly realized that the experience points given by each monster had become more than 500.

Previously, when they were killing monsters, each monster only gave them around 200 exp.

a tiger monster usually only gave around 1000 experience points.

In addition to the Guild's mutual aid skill, there was an additional 20% experience.

the experience from each tiger monster was divided among everyone, which was around 200 experience.

now, each monster gave more than 500 exp. it was double the exp, and it was so good.

haha, the double experience is here. Take off.

Windcloud blade let out a series of strange cries, becoming even more motivated to farm monsters.

this experience is so good. Usually, when I look at my experience bar, it doesn't move at all. But now, I can clearly feel it growing.

"Haha, I think I'll be able to level up in two hours at most."

"What the f * ck, is it that exaggerated?"

"of course. we're already close to 20000000 experience to level up. we've been grinding so fast. do you think we won't be able to grind 20000000 experience in two hours? "

it's a little difficult. It'll take at least three to four hours.

"I don't know. I'll just farm them."

Zhang Shan looked at his experience bar. He was about to reach level 34 soon. Double experience was indeed awesome.

He needed 90 million experience to level up, but he had already leveled up quite a bit.

He was less than 10000000 experience points away from level 34, and now the double experience had increased so quickly.

He should be able to reach that level in about an hour.

Other than boss Wu, the other members of their team were all strong fighters.

Their farming speed was extremely fast. With two shots from Zhang Shan, 12 Tiger monsters fell to the ground.

In addition, the others were also farming monsters very fiercely. Windcloud blade had the splash effect of the divine weapon axe.

A few axes could cut down a large area.

Heart follows me was similar. Spellblades 'skills seemed to be specially designed for farming monsters.

Various AoE skills were used alternately and could be completely connected. The whole process was AoE skills killing monsters.

The little fairy's skills were a little weaker. She only had one split arrow, which was an AoE skill.

On the other hand, split arrow should have a cooldown of more than 10 seconds. In comparison, her grinding efficiency would be much lower.

...

However, he was not weak.

only boss wu didn't have any group attack skills.

He could only use the lightning strike skill and slowly fight the monsters one by one. It was only a bonus.

However, the attack blessing that he added was still very important to everyone.

Although to Zhang Shan, if he was just farming Tiger monsters, it would be the same whether or not he had the attack blessing.

In any case, he could kill the Tiger monster with two shots. Even with the attack blessing, he could not kill it in one shot.

To him, the attack blessing buff was dispensable when he was farming monsters here.

However, for the other three, the 20% increase in attack power from attack blessing was very important.

At the very least, they would be able to take down the monsters with less damage, which would increase their efficiency in farming monsters.

The time had just passed 1 am, and Zhang Shan had already reached level 34. The speed of leveling up was faster than he had expected.

Boss Wu said to everyone.

why don't you find another Taoist priest to add to my status? I'm going offline now. It's very late and I need to sleep.

Everyone knew about boss Wu's situation.

A person with a family couldn't be like them and play however they wanted.

There were bound to be some restrictions, but that was something that could not be helped.

it's fine. You should go to sleep first. Just come online earlier tomorrow. We can slowly grind. It doesn't matter if you lose a few hours of status.

"Yes. Old Wu, go to sleep. Remember to come online early tomorrow, okay?"

After boss Wu went offline, they didn't form any other Taoist classes, even though they had the Taoist's attack blessing.

Their grinding efficiency would increase significantly, but at the same time, they would have one more person to share the EXP with.

In general, without boss Wu, their leveling speed would be affected, but it wasn't a big impact.

There was no need to gather more people.

Moreover, this was a long-term game, and a stable monster-killing team was still very important.

Now that the double exp buff was in effect, it wasn't convenient to hire a priest in the Guild.

After all, everyone had to take advantage of the double exp to level up.

Chapter 367 -no more happiness

With the double experience, everyone was particularly enthusiastic. Their experience rose quickly and they felt great.

After Zhang Shan reached level 34, he needed 100 million experience points to level up again.

If it was any other time, Zhang Shan might have felt a headache.

Even though they were farming quickly, 100000000 experience points was not something that could be easily obtained.

However, it was now the double exp period, and the experience bar was still growing at a speed visible to the naked eye.

It was to the point that Zhang Shan had the illusion that the speed of his experience growth was not just doubled, but more than twice the usual speed.

Of course, the system would not be wrong. If it said that it would double the experience, it would double it. There was no way it would give them more experience.

However, the experience they gained in a single unit of time was indeed twice as much as usual.

This might be because everyone especially cherished the double time, so they farmed faster and worked harder than usual.

Although their equipment and skills were the same as before, their attitude towards killing monsters had changed. They had become more focused.

In the past, when he was farming monsters, he would occasionally be a bystander. However, this was definitely not the case now. Now, farming monsters was the most important thing, and everything else had to be put aside.

After a night of killing monsters, except for Mr. Wu, who had gone offline, the others had all leveled up.

His level was right behind Zhang Shan.

in the morning, boss wu came online and continued to join the monster-killing team.

As time slowly passed and morning arrived, the number of online players also increased.

Almost all the members of the wind and cloud Guild were farming monsters in beast King Valley. Even the defense of the passage entrance was usually arranged by Feng Yun realm with dozens of people.

Now, there was no need to guard at all. Just one person was enough to stand guard there. If there were really blind people who came to find trouble, they would just fight their way out.

Right now, everyone in the Guild was confident. They could even win the World War, so why would they be afraid of harassment?

He didn't need to worry about it at all. He just needed to let someone look at the entrance of the passage as a token of appreciation. There was no need to be too serious.

Besides, after the war between the nations and the previous battles, everyone in the game knew how powerful the wind and cloud Guild was.

no one would come over and harass them after they had eaten their fill.

Even if he was a domineering King, he probably wouldn't come looking for trouble.

Although they had lost the country war, they had not done anything else in the past week other than killing people.

However, killing people was not suicide. If they came to beast King Valley, they would be suicide.

Therefore, everyone was at ease and boldly farming monsters, completely ignoring the chaotic world outside.

in addition to the wind and cloud guild, the other players of chu were also in a similar situation. they all found their own places to farm monsters if they felt that it was not safe to stay in the heaven's gate map.

They stayed in the map outside of their own city and farmed, even though the monsters there gave less experience than The Map of Heaven's Gate.

However, now that he had double experience, it would be much faster than usual.

On the other hand, the ordinary players from other countries were in a worse state. They did not have a farming spot like beast King Valley and could only stay in the Heaven's Gate map.

He randomly found a place to farm monsters, but when it was daytime, most of the players in the state of Qin were online.

Although they lost the World War and had a one-week system penalty, most of them were still online.

As for the one-week holiday, that was just a joke.

After these Qin players came online, they could not go and farm monsters. It was still okay to reduce their experience by half, and they could just use it as if it was a day.

However, if the drop-rate was reduced by half, it would truly be a terrible situation. The gains from grinding monsters were not even as much as the cost. The more monsters they grinded, the more losses they would suffer.

Since they couldn't farm monsters, they could only stir up trouble when they came online.

The entire Heaven's Gate map was filled with Qin players wandering around.

They followed the principle that if I can't play, then no one can play comfortably. They killed almost everyone they saw.

No matter which country they were from, as long as there was a chance to beat them, they would kill them.

The entire Map of Heaven's Gate was in a mess.

However, this had nothing to do with Zhang Shan and the rest. They stayed in the beast King Valley to farm monsters, and it was very safe.

Time passed by slowly. Among the five of them, only boss Wu would go offline to sleep for a few hours every day.

The others would only log off for a short while when they were eating.

although they were all using gaming pods, it would not be a problem even if they did not eat for half a month.

However, as an instinct, everyone would still eat three meals a day on time when it was mealtime.

For the past few days, Zhang Shan had been eating at the little fairy's house. At first, he was a little embarrassed.

However, after a few more times, he felt that his skin had become a little thicker.

Eating from other people's houses had almost become a habit.

But there was no other way. Zhang Shan did not hire a cook. When he wanted to eat, he could only order delivery.

He wasn't worried about the takeaway being unhygienic. He had been eating it for so many years anyway.

But if he ordered delivery, waiting for delivery would delay him.

Boss Wu hadn't moved in yet, so they had no place to eat.

And every time it was mealtime, the little fairy would call him. Zhang Shan did not act coy and went to her house to eat every day.

They farmed in the beast King Valley for seven days in a row. In these seven days, no one else had returned to the city.

Every time they ran out of supplies or durability, they would ask Zhang Shan to help them run a trip.

He would let Zhang Shan help them to bring back their equipment that was about to run out of durability for maintenance. Then, he would help them bring back their supplies.

anyway, zhang shan had the positioning pearl. a round trip was very fast, and it was basically no trouble.

If they were to run on their own, it would take at least half an hour, and they might even be cut down on the road.

In these seven days, the entire Heaven's Gate map was in chaos, and the Qin players were killing like crazy.

They were not organized and had formed groups of three to five. They moved freely in The Map of Heaven's Gate and killed whoever they could.

The people from the other countries did not hold back either. They attacked one after another, and everyone's eyes were red from killing.

After all, it was not necessarily a bad thing to kill many people. Who knows, they might even be able to start another country war.

After seven days of double experience, Zhang Shan was about to reach level 40.

He was still a few million experience away from level 40, but seven days had passed.

...

The double exp was already gone, and it would probably take another day or two for him to get these tens of millions of exp.

However, it didn't matter. One or two days wouldn't make a difference.

phew, the double experience is gone. I'm going offline to sleep. I'll come back tomorrow night.

It was just past midnight, and as the double exp buff ended, everyone's passion for killing monsters also disappeared.

to be honest, after not sleeping for seven consecutive days, zhang shan was also feeling very tired.

Even though the gaming pod's effects were great, that was only relative to the gaming helmet.

Now, Zhang Shan felt really tired. He had to have a good sleep.

Chapter 368 Wandering alone

It was just past 12 o'clock. As the double experience had ended, everyone went offline at the speed of light.

The entire beast King Valley was empty in an instant. If it was not for Feng Yun realm's special arrangements, there might not even be a guard at the gate.

After Zhang Shan went offline, he casually washed up and quickly entered Dreamland.

He didn't set an alarm and planned to sleep until he woke up naturally.

However, when Zhang Shan woke up the next day, he realized that it was only seven in the morning. He had not slept till the sun was up like he had imagined.

Had he already gotten used to the rhythm of the game? he woke up after a few hours of sleep and didn't feel sleepy at all.

The game was indeed a wondrous place. He thought about how his alarm would ring a few times every morning when he was at work.

He didn't even want to get out of bed. He was actually more active in playing games than he used to be at work.

It was really strange. Perhaps this was a form of pleasure or a sense of achievement.

After casually eating some dry rations, Zhang Shan went online and appeared in the beast King Valley.

at this moment, the beast king valley was still very quiet. only a few guild members were farming monsters.

The others probably hadn't gotten up yet. After all, they had been working hard for seven days. Even if they were made of iron, they would probably be exhausted.

However, their efforts in the past seven days had been worth it.

Right now, on the level ranking board, almost all of them were players from Chu country, and it was even more so for their wind cloud Guild.

In the top 10 of the level rankings, the wind and cloud Guild occupied seven places.

zhang shan's five-man team was undoubtedly the most efficient at killing monsters. no one could compare to them.

Except for boss Wu, who didn't make it into the top ten because he spent a few hours less than others every day.

Zhang Shan and the other three immediately dominated the top four.

In addition, everyone had been farming for such a long time, and some good things had also been obtained.

Although it was said that the experience was doubled, it did not mean that it would drop twice.

however, with so many people grinding together for seven whole days, they still managed to get some things.

The other items had nothing to do with Zhang Shan. However, there were guild members who had managed to obtain engineering blueprints in these seven days. They had obtained two in one go.

They were all Level 3 blueprints, just what Zhang Shan needed.

in the previous monster siege event, he had obtained a six-barrel fire god cannon construction blueprint from a treasure chest.

As it was a level 4 blueprint, only a level 4 master engineer could learn to craft it.

Zhang Shan's current engineering level was still a level 3 engineer. He still needed 200 proficiency points to be promoted to a level 4 master engineer.

He had never been able to learn the six-barrel Vulcan Cannon's construction blueprint.

He wouldn't have been able to make such a fire god cannon.

Although the six-barrel Vulcan machine gun was only a type of defensive equipment, it was still very difficult for them.

It was useless. They didn't have a city to defend now, so they had no use for it.

However, this thing looked very powerful. Zhang Shan really wanted to make it first.

he wanted to see what the actual product looked like and what the specific application scenario was.

After all, the map was not very detailed.

The people in the Guild also knew that Zhang Shan was collecting engineering blueprints, so they sold the two level 3 blueprints to him.

Now that he had everything ready, he only needed to collect a wave of materials before he could start to become a level 4 master engineer.

However, there was no rush. He could take it slowly.

However, what should he do now? the others were not online yet, so it was boring for him to kill monsters alone.

Why not go out and have some fun?

Thinking of this, Zhang Shan rode on the red Hare and rushed out of the beast King Valley, running towards the depths of The Map of Heaven's Gate.

He was only a few million experience points away from level 40.

his strength would definitely undergo an earth-shaking change. after all, he had three divine artifacts.

Divine artifacts would be unsealed every 10 levels, and when they reached level 40, they would be unsealed again.

Then wouldn't he be super awesome?

However, he really didn't want to farm any more monsters now. He had been farming for seven days and seven nights.

It made people want to vomit.

After Zhang Shan ran out of the beast King Valley, he ran all the way into the depths of the map. He planned to look for level 60 monsters.

the heaven's gate map had been open for a long time, but no one had ever seen a level 60 monster here.

This didn't make sense.

could it be that in such a large map, the monsters 'level cap was really level 50?

Zhang Shan didn't believe that the game was designed like this. It must be because everyone had not run far enough.

This time, he planned to run into the map, and if he really couldn't, he would run to the other side of the map to take a look.

of course, this was just a joke.

The Map of Heaven's Gate was larger than he had imagined, and he had to run all the way from here to the end.

Even if he ran at full speed, it would take him ten days to half a month to get there.

The Map of Heaven's Gate was ridiculously large.

Moreover, the deeper he went into the map, the more monsters there would be. By then, he would have to get off the horse and clear the monsters.

Otherwise, he wouldn't be able to run.

Zhang Shan continued to advance. It was still early, and there were not many players online.

Although the players from all over the world had been killing like crazy in the Heaven's Gate map for the past few days ...

However, there were only a few people around. As Zhang Shan continued to move forward, no one came to find trouble with him.

However, even if someone came to find trouble, he was not afraid.

With his invincible attributes and skills, anyone who came to find trouble with him would be courting death.

He was looking forward to something more exciting.

...

However, he didn't. He ran all the way forward, and apart from the occasional few players, he didn't see anything.

He rarely saw people.

when the others saw zhang shan galloping away on his horse, they were all on high alert.

However, Zhang Shan did not look for trouble with others. This was not because he was noble.

it was just that he was not interested. there was no point in killing players who were not on the same level.

With Zhang Shan's current strength, he did not care about the majority of the players.

Only an iron-headed kid like the domineering King would arouse his desire to beat someone up.

As for the other players, as long as they were not seeking death, Zhang Shan could not be bothered with them.

zhang shan was alone, running wildly through the heaven's gate map. he only wanted to look for higher level monsters.

He also wanted to see if he could get one or two bosses since he was so strong now.

it might not be interesting to fight a red boss alone, but bosses below the red level ...

To him, it was a free experience and equipment.

As for killing, Zhang Shan had no interest at all.

Of course, although Zhang Shan was not interested in killing people now, and there were not many players in the map.

However, there would always be blind people who didn't know how the word 'death' was written.

seeing zhang shan running around the map alone, they wanted to come up and play.

Towards such a person, Zhang Shan would not be polite.

He could end the battle with two casual shots and continue moving forward.

After obtaining the launch skill and the king's Cape, Zhang Shan was now powerful in all aspects.

He didn't have any shortcomings. As long as he wasn't surrounded by thousands of people, he wouldn't care too much.

As for the players who occasionally blocked their way, they were usually a few people, at most dozens of them.

This number of people, to the current Zhang Shan, was completely uninterested.

He could end the battle with a few casual shots.

Chapter 369 Long you, the corpse King

As Zhang Shan advanced, he really did find two bosses, one orange and one purple.

He didn't need to spend much effort to kill the BOSS.

Although these two trash bosses didn't drop anything good for him.

However, the experience was solid, giving him close to 10 million experience. In this case, he was even closer to level 40.

Perhaps, he wouldn't even need to farm monsters anymore. He would just need to find a few more mini bosses to fight.

He would be able to level up.

However, at the moment, leveling up was not Zhang Shan's main goal. He only wanted to find out where the level 50 monsters were.

Of course, this could not be rushed. If it was so easy, the Heaven's Gate map would have been open for so long that other players would have found it long ago.

He planned to keep running forward for a day or two. He didn't believe that the monsters on the map would not change.

after zhang shan had been running for an hour or two, the others had also come online.

When wind and cloud blade came online, he did not see Zhang Shan farming monsters. He thought that he was not online.

However, after checking his friend's information, he realized that Zhang Shan was online and asked him.

"Brother Liu Guan, where have you been? Aren't you going to farm monsters?"

"i'm not going to brush anymore. i'm tired of it. i'm out for a walk."

"f * ck, f * cking badass people are so capricious. i also want to go out and have some fun, but after thinking about my level, i think i'd better kill monsters and get to level 40 early to change my equipment. "

"you guys go ahead. i'll go look for the monster map and see if there are any big bosses. " haha, that's possible. Remember to inform us when you find the big BOSS. Everyone, go and have a go.

Zhang Shan was just saying it casually. There were indeed many bosses in the Heaven's Gate map.

However, that only applied to orange and purple bosses. As for red bosses, there weren't many of them.

If he went out of his way to look for it, he might not be able to find it even after a few days.

As for stronger real-name bosses, they were even harder to find.

In the entire game, there were probably less than ten real-name bosses that had been defeated so far.

For people like Zhang Shan who wanted to fight, they could not find it, but others might have.

However, real-name bosses were extremely powerful, and not many people in the game could defeat them.

Even if the big guilds sent out all their members, they might not necessarily be able to handle it.

Most importantly, the bosses in this game didn't spawn at a fixed time.

If you saw the BOSS but didn't fight it or couldn't beat it, you wouldn't be able to find it the next time you came.

Therefore, it was impossible to save the BOSS and wait until he became stronger to fight it.

when they found a BOSS, they would either kill it on the spot or wait for the BOSS to appear and kill it.

As for saving it for another fight, he didn't even want to think about it.

Furthermore, after a BOSS was killed, it would not spawn at the same location again.

In the beginning, Zhang Shan and the rest had blown up the son of the beast God, nakaris, in the beast King Valley.

It had been a long time, and they had been farming monsters in the beast King Valley.

However, he didn't see nakaris respawn.

he didn't know if the real name BOSS would disappear after one hit, or if it had respawned elsewhere.

Anyway, they had never seen each other again.

zhang shan moved forward quickly. he ran all the way until night time. the monsters he saw were still all level 50.

Higher level monsters could not be seen at all.

ASIBA, you're not really going to run for a few days, are you?

however, zhang shan had been running around for an entire day. it was not as if he had not found anything. he had not found the big BOSS.

However, he had killed quite a few orange and purple bosses, although they did not drop anything valuable.

However, it allowed Zhang Shan's experience bar to increase by a huge amount.

Now, he was only 10 million experience away from level 40. He only needed to fight one or two more mini-bosses.

He could reach level 40.

Zhang Shan felt that he did not need to farm monsters in the future. He could just ride his horse around the map every day.

The experience gained from killing bosses was not slower than killing monsters. In fact, it was even faster.

Furthermore, no matter how trashy the BOSS's loot was, it was still a hundred times better than killing small monsters.

of course, the only disadvantage was that the rewards from killing bosses were not stable.

Although there were many bosses in Heaven's Gate, it did not mean that Zhang Shan could find bosses to fight every day.

Moreover, it was very annoying to keep running around the map to find bosses. It was better to run around occasionally to adjust his mood.

After searching for an entire day, Zhang Shan still did not see any higher level monsters.

However, he didn't give up and continued to search.

...

Suddenly, he found a dark path ahead.

Eh? Where did this lead to?

zhang shan followed the dark path and ran forward.

soon, he entered a gray map. at the same time, he received a system notification:

You have entered Death Valley.

What? Could this place be a farming spot like beast King Valley?

However, this farming spot was completely worthless.

He had run for an entire day to get here, so one could imagine how far this place was from Heaven's Gate pass.

No matter how good the grinding spot was, no one would come here to farm monsters. It was simply too far.

They had to run for an entire day to reach the farming point. Who could bear that? there were no supply points nearby.

If they farmed monsters here, how were they going to replenish their supplies and repair their equipment?

...

He couldn't just spend an entire day running, farming, and then going back to repair his equipment.

this didn't make sense at all.

Therefore, although he found a good place, it was of no value.

But even so, Zhang Shan still planned to look around carefully.

It wasn't suitable to farm monsters here, but if there was a BOSS to fight, it would be worth it.

As this was an independent map that no one had discovered before, there should be a Big Boss here, right?

Just like when they first found the beast King, they found the son of the beast God, nakaris, there.

Perhaps there would be a similar BOSS in this farming spot.

Zhang Shan planned to look carefully. Anyway, he was just wandering around aimlessly, and it was fine to waste some time.

After Zhang Shan entered death, he realized that the place was filled with level 50 zombie monsters.

He had tried to fight it before, and the monster's experience was the same as the Tiger monster in beast King Valley, and it also did not have the Holy demon's protection.

However, these zombies seemed to have a lot of HP. They were also level 50 monsters.

Zhang Shan could not be killed with two shots. He had to be shot four times.

He killed another one and checked its attributes.

[demonized flesh zombie: level 50, attack 2400, health points 50000, skill: carrion pile (passive)]

[carrion pile (passive): greatly increases health points.]

F * ck, the level 50 Tiger only had 23000 HP, but the zombie monster here had 50000 HP.

Was it because of the passive skill carrion pile? this passive skill was so strong that it directly made these zombies ...

It had more than double the HP of a monster of the same level.

However, even though this passive skill was not bad, Zhang Shan did not seem to be lacking in health.

After equipping the king's Cape, his HP had reached 336000.

However, it was just a game. Who would be too free of being too tanky? everyone was afraid that they didn't have enough blood.

No matter what class you played, as long as it didn't affect your damage output, the tankier you were, the better.

This passive skill was not bad. He could try to see if he could get it.

Although these zombies were not easy to fight and had twice as much HP as the Tiger monsters, they were not easy to deal with.

Even Zhang Shan needed four shots to kill it, unlike the Tiger monster in the beast King Valley, where he only needed two shots.

However, for the sake of this passive skill, rotten meat pile, Zhang Shan planned to come back and farm it again in the future.

Next time, he would ask boss Wu to come and farm with him.

Three shots were enough to kill the zombie monster. This way, they could farm faster.

However, there was no hurry. It all depended on fate if one wanted to farm passive skills. If one was lucky, they could farm a passive skill by randomly killing a few monsters.

When they were unlucky, they would be able to obtain a passive skill after grinding for a month or two.

This matter could not be rushed.

Let's look around first and see if there's a big boss here.

Perhaps the boss's passive skill would be activated after the boss was defeated.

After these few months of experience, Zhang Shan could already confirm that the BOSS's passive skills were easier to farm.

Just like item drop, there was a chance that monsters would drop top-tier equipment.

However, the chances of that happening were extremely low. In comparison, bosses had a higher chance of dropping good items.

The higher the level of the BOSS, the higher the chance of dropping good items.

Zhang Shan realized that his passive king talent was the same. The more powerful the BOSS's passive skill was, the more powerful it was.

Sometimes, he could get a passive skill just by fighting a BOSS.

It was much easier than farming passive skills from the monsters.

Zhang Shan held on to the attitude of giving it a try. He rode the red hare and ran around the death valley.

He had only run a few steps when he saw a golden zombie standing there in a daze not far away.

F*ck, could that be the big boss?

Zhang Shan carefully got off his horse and approached. He was a little far away just now, and he did not see the monster's name.

He couldn't be sure if this was a big Boss or just a normal orange boss.

As he slowly approached, he observed the Golden zombie from a distance.

Haha, it really was a boss with a real name.

The golden zombie had a name.

The demonized zombie king long you.

The name was simple and clear.

However, as long as it had a name, it was definitely a boss with a real name.

Although he had discovered the big BOSS, Zhang Shan did not dare to act rashly. He knew the power of a real-name BOSS.

If he dared to hit her, he would not be able to escape.

But what could he do? This place was too far away from Beast King Valley, almost a day's journey.

If they didn't test out the BOSS's attributes and skills, how were they going to get people to fight it?

They couldn't possibly have all 100000 players in the Guild run all the way here to fight this BOSS, right?

In fact, it would be fine even if everyone ran together for a day.

The only thing they were afraid of was that this corpse King Long you was ridiculously strong. Even if their entire Guild attacked him together, they would not be able to defeat him.

That would be nonsense. He had to test out the attributes and skills of the corpse King Dragon right first.

Therefore, Zhang Shan observed from afar and thought of ways to test out long you's attributes and skills.

He couldn't just do it by brute force, he could outrun a real-name BOSS even on a horse.

the strength of a real name BOSS was all-round.

Its speed was also ridiculously fast, almost the same as teleportation.

He had to think of a way.

Chapter 370 A fixed target?

Although he had discovered a BOSS with a real name, Zhang Shan was helpless.

He knew how powerful a real-name BOSS was.

No matter how good his equipment and skills were, it was impossible to defeat him in a one-on-one fight at this stage, unless there was a BUG.

However, if they didn't attack the BOSS, it would be a waste of their resources.

If Zhang Shan couldn't win alone, he could call for others. At most, he could call the entire Guild over.

If all of them attacked together, they should be able to win.

However, there was a problem. He had yet to test out the BOSS's attributes and skills.

Facing an unknown BOSS, how could he get people to fight it?

They didn't know how many players and what kind of lineup they would need to take down this BOSS.

He couldn't really make everyone run over, right?

the distance from here to the beast king valley was too far.

He had run all day to get here.

If he were to gather the entire Guild, it would probably take a day and a night.

After all, most of the Guild members were still riding white horses, and their speed was much slower than Zhang Shan's Red Hare.

Moreover, during this one day and one night, it was inevitable that some people would have something to do in the middle and need to go offline.

As a result, it wasn't easy to pull everyone in the Guild here. Or rather, it wasn't realistic at all.

It was best to test out the BOSS's attributes and skills first, and then formulate a targeted lineup.

It would be best if only a few hundred players were needed to defeat this BOSS.

But how should he try? Zhang Shan could not help but scratch his head.

Forget it, I'll observe first.

Zhang Shan thought for a long time, but he could not think of a way. A real name BOSS was indeed not to be trifled with.

Under normal circumstances, as long as he attacked once, he would not be able to escape.

In a situation where there was really no other way, Zhang Shan could only observe for a while more. There might be some loopholes.

Thinking of this, he rode the red hares and circled around the Zombie King from a distance.

He still couldn't find any feasible method, and there wasn't any favorable terrain around him that he could rely on.

There was no terrain like the one he had used to trap the wild boar King in the novice village.

The entire Death Valley map was empty except for the zombie monsters that filled the ground.

There was nothing to cover him. Even if he wanted to find a place to cover himself, he couldn't find it.

If Zhang Shan did not feel indignant, was there no chance of him taking advantage of the situation?

Did he really have to directly call the entire Guild over?

If that was the case, he would probably not be able to sleep for another two days.

He had to keep an eye on the boss before anyone else arrived.

As long as he went offline, he would not even know where the boss was when he came back online.

It would probably take a day and a night for everyone to arrive, including the time it would take to fight the boss.

Also, in today's time, he might really not sleep for two days.

Zhang Shan was a little speechless. He had only been working for a week. Did he have to work hard for another two days?

this was a little too much. he was not a liver king.

However, it was impossible for him to give up.

A rare species like a real-name BOSS was simply an existence that could be encountered but not sought.

Almost every one of them would drop something good, which was at least a spiritual weapon.

If they were lucky, they might even drop multiple pieces.

For such a good thing, not to mention not sleeping for two days, even if he had to work for a week, it would not be troublesome.

For such a BOSS, Zhang Shan would not be satisfied if he did not kill it.

What the f * ck, why don't we just go all out?

After all, he had two lives. After the Zombie King killed his first life, he wouldn't guard his corpse, right?

As long as the Zombie King was a little further away when he was resurrected, he would still have a chance to escape.

Thinking of this, Zhang Shan made up his mind. He did not care anymore. He was going to be a barbarian.

Zhang Shan got down from his horse and slowly approached the demonized Zombie King. He did not know the aggro range of this boss or how wide it was.

He could only approach carefully and slowly.

When he got closer, he noticed a strange phenomenon.

This demonized Zombie King Long you seemed to be different from the other bosses.

When no one was attacking it, the other bosses would sway back and forth without any reason.

...

But this Zombie King didn't. It had been standing there like a fool.

It was completely like a wooden stake.

Just now, as Zhang Shan did not dare to get too close and was a little far from the Zombie King, he did not notice this problem.

Could it be that the Zombie King was a fixed target?

Just standing there and letting people hit him? There was no such good thing.

Zhang Shan could not believe it.

maybe it was because it was a zombie monster, so it wasn't very active?

Zhang Shan had all sorts of guesses, but he could not figure out what was going on.

he took a step closer to the zombie king, only to discover that both of the zombie king's feet were stuck in the ground.

Only half of his body was exposed. No wonder he couldn't move.

Haha, could it be that he was going to have a burst of luck and encounter a real name BOSS that couldn't move?

...

Would there really be such a good thing? Zhang Shan could not believe it.

However, he couldn't care less. He would know once he tried.

When he was within firing range, Zhang Shan looked at the Zombie King and then turned back to look at the escape route.

Although there was a slight possibility that the Zombie King could not move, it was still a very powerful zombie.

however, zhang shan felt that the possibility of this was not high. the game producers did not make sense to let the players take such a big advantage, right?

Therefore, he had to be careful of his escape route, even though he would definitely not be able to outrun the real name BOSS.

However, it was always good to run as far as possible.

After carefully considering for a long time, Zhang Shan fired a shot at the Zombie King, then turned around and ran.

He turned his head too quickly and didn't even have time to check the Zombie King's attributes.

F * ck, did he just waste his time? Zhang Shan was depressed as he ran.

He was so nervous that he didn't even check the attributes of the Zombie King.

zhang shan had just taken two steps when he heard the sound of wind behind him. he guessed that the zombie king had caught up.

the zombie king's feet were stuck in the ground. how could he run so fast?

the sound of breathing behind him was a little scary.

Zhang Shan did not even dare to look back. He ran forward with all his might, even though he did not think that he could outrun the Zombie King.

However, if they ran as far as possible, perhaps a miracle would appear.

However, after he continued to run forward for a while, Zhang Shan felt that the back had suddenly become very quiet.

There didn't seem to be anything chasing him.

Could it be that the Zombie King didn't chase after him anymore, and he managed to survive?

Zhang Shan was a little uncertain. He turned back to look as he ran.

What the hell? The Zombie King didn't chase after them, and stayed in its original place.

Zhang Shan was very confused. Since the Zombie King did not chase after him, what was the sound behind him just now?

It felt like they had encountered a supernatural event.

If he didn't know that he was in a game, he would have been scared to death.

Moreover, the death Valley map looked rather scary. There were disgusting zombie monsters everywhere, and the sky was gray.

Coupled with the strange things that had happened just now, it was really scary.

However, it was a good thing that the Zombie King didn't chase after them.

No matter what the reason was, at least one thing could be confirmed now: the Zombie King's range of activity was not too large.

Otherwise, he would have definitely fallen to the ground just now.

It seemed like there was a chance. He should go back and try again. He shouldn't die.

Thinking of this, Zhang Shan continued to approach the Zombie King. After firing a shot, he quickly checked his attributes, turned around, and ran.

This time, it was the same as before. As Zhang Shan ran, he could hear the continuous whooshing behind him.

What the hell was this?

Zhang Shan ran as he turned back to take a look.

He wouldn't have known if he hadn't looked, but he laughed when he saw it.

Hahaha, the Zombie King didn't chase after them. Instead, it stood in place and kept waving its fists.

No wonder he had been hearing the whooshing sounds behind him.

it turned out that the zombie king was punching. it couldn't move at all, so it could only stay in place and keep waving its fists.

It was as if he wanted to attack Zhang Shan.

After Zhang Shan had run far away, the Zombie King finally stopped waving his fists.

Was this Zombie King an idiot?

The place where Zhang Shan fired his gun was more than 50 yards away from the Zombie King. Could his fist hit that far?

Could it be that it wanted to use its fist to compete with Zhang Shan's hand cannon in terms of attack range?

This boss's setting was so funny.

Zhang Shan saw that the Zombie King could not move, and immediately stopped running. At the same time, he could not help but be overjoyed.

This Zombie King was really a fixed target. Even such a good thing had come to Zhang Shan.

he could not believe his eyes.

Although it was unbelievable, Zhang Shan did not directly attack the Zombie King.

He quickly checked the attributes of the boss that he had just intercepted.

he wanted to take a look at the BOSS's attributes and skills so that he could have a better idea of what to do.

zombie king long you (red): Level 50, attack 24000, hp 500 million.

Skill 1, King of corpses fist, skill 2, carrion pile (passive), skill 3, earth absorption (passive), skill 4, return to the past.

[corpse King fist: Zombie King Long you is skilled in peerless fist techniques. One punch can hit a target 50 yards away and deal 5x the damage.]

[carrion pile (passive): greatly increases health points.]

[earth absorption (passive): when the zombie king dragon steps on the ground with its right foot, it will automatically absorb the life energy from the ground and quickly recover its hp.]

[return to the past: the Zombie King Dragon has mastered part of the temporal rule, and can return to the state it was in three minutes ago.]

Looking at the Zombie King's attributes and skills, Zhang Shan could not help but sigh. This BOSS was really weird.

Needless to say, its attributes were very high, and its health points were ridiculously high.

The real name bosses that Zhang Shan and the others had fought before only had 200 million HP at most.

Up until now, he had never seen a boss with more than 300 million HP.

The Zombie King's HP had reached a terrifying 500 million. This was too much.

of course, no matter how high the zombie king's health was, zhang shan could understand. after all, it had a passive skill that increased its health limit.

It wasn't strange for him to have more blood, but it was outrageous.

But what the hell were these skills of the Zombie King?

The first skill was a fist technique.

However, the Zombie King's fist could actually hit a target 50 yards away.

This was too unbelievable.

Was this a f * cking long-ranged monster or a close-combat monster?

it must be known that among the current players, only a small number of hunters had learned the eagle eye skill.

as for the other ranged classes, their attack range hadn't even reached 50 yards.

This corpse King fist skill, other than having a very strange attack range, also had a ridiculously high damage.

As the boss's first minor skill, it actually had five times the damage. It was simply ridiculous.

As for the two passive skills, it was also a bit strange. Or rather, these two passive skills were too well matched.

One greatly increases health points, while the other increases health recovery speed.

Originally, the boss only had a total of four skills, and two of them were passive skills.

This was already very strange, but these two passive skills could still be matched so well.

this was a little too much.

Zhang Shan also did not know how much faster the Zombie King's recovery speed had increased with the earth drain.

The BOSS's HP recovery speed was extremely fast.

It was possible that the damage dealt would not be as fast as the BOSS's HP recovery speed, and players with slightly inferior equipment would not be able to deal as much damage.

There was no way to suppress the BOSS's HP recovery speed.

Zhang Shan was very confident in his damage output ability.

With his berserk damage output, there was no BOSS that had a recovery speed that he could not suppress.

However, he was not so sure when he was facing the Zombie King Long you.

If the damage he dealt was not as fast as the Zombie's HP recovery, then what was the point of fighting?

Even if it was a wooden stake, it was a wooden stake that he could not kill. He still had to call people over.

Forget it, I'll try it first. If it really doesn't work, isn't he about to reach rank 40?

At most, he would just stay next to the Zombie King and farm to level 40 first, waiting for his divine weapon to be unsealed.

His damage output ability would be greatly enhanced.

If he still couldn't handle it, then he had no choice but to call people over to help him destroy the Zombie King.

In any case, he was determined to defeat the Zombie King.

He would give it a try first. He was only a few million experience away from level 40.

however, he was not in a hurry. he wanted to see if he could defeat the zombie king long you before he leveled up.

Thinking of this, Zhang Shan slowly approached the Zombie King. When he was close to the Zombie King's maximum attack range ...

Zhang Shan began to attack, firing one shot after another, the bullets flying non-stop towards the Zombie King Long you.

After he started to attack, the Zombie King waved his fists, and his fists fiercely hit Zhang Shan like the wind.

Zhang Shan felt that the air in front of him was about to explode, but fortunately, his attack range was far enough.

Although the Zombie King's attack looked scary, it did not cause any damage to Zhang Shan.

on the other hand, zhang shan continued to fire his bullets and deal damage to the zombie king.

Lines of damage appeared above the BOSS 'head.

Although he did not have boss Wu's attack blessing, Zhang Shan's current attack power had already exceeded 15000.

In addition to the title of nemesis of the demons, it could also increase the damage by an additional 10%.

The damage he dealt on the Zombie King's Head was around 10000 with each shot.

the damage is too low. I'm afraid it won't work. Zhang Shan muttered to himself as he attacked.
