

Physician Wife 1201

Chapter 1201: Do You Think I Am Stupid?

"Now that you're finally surrounded by many grandchildren, don't you feel sad and reluctant to kick us out the door at all?"

"I know that my mother and youngest aunt have disappointed you, but they were also afraid that Lil Rui wouldn't be able to take on the role of chairman, so they said some hurtful words in their agitation when they were in the hospital and hurt your feelings. I'm sure that after knowing their real identities, my mother and youngest aunt already know how wrong they were previously. As parents who aren't related by blood, you've already treated them so well. As your adopted daughters, they'll definitely be filial to you in the future and repay you for raising them."

"If Lil Rui manages the company well, as the only heir of the Leng family, it's natural for him to be the chairman of the company. Grandpa, Grandma, my mom and aunt didn't know who they were before, so they overstepped their boundaries and tried to get Uncle to sell them his shares. Now that they know who they are, they must know that they're wrong. Since you've decided to transfer the shares to Lil Rui, we won't say anything. We just hope that Grandpa and Grandma won't chase us away! We still want to repay you with our filial piety!"

Wang Jie, Wang Chen, Wang Qifeng, and Wang Yutong nodded and looked at the two Leng elders with a sincere expression.

However, Grandpa Leng smiled.

"When they thought we were related by blood, they were already wishing for us to die. Now that we're not even related anymore, you're saying they want to be filial to us? Do you think the Leng family is stupid?"

Pei Jiaxiang, "..."

Leng Qirui did not want to talk to this group of people anymore. He ordered, "Get security to chase them out."

"Yes."

"Dad! Can't you see that you're hurting us this way? You know what's going on with the Pei family right now. If I don't have the support of the Leng family, what's stopping those people from looking down at our family's Jiaxiang? In the future, there will also be problems with him inheriting the Pei family's wealth! If you really want to cut ties with us, can't you wait until Jiaxiang inherits the Pei family's shares before disowning us?"

The old master was truly angered by Wang Jie's words.

"What does it have to do with us if people look down on you?"

"Dad—!!!" Wang Jie stomped her feet and started to panic.

"That's enough. Lil Rui still has a meeting to tend to. Please leave! As for the problems that you're about to face, they're all yours. It has nothing to do with us!"

Old Master Leng was a stubborn man. When it came down to decisions that he had already made, it was hard for others to change his mind unless Grandma Leng or Leng Qirui tried to persuade him.

The two sisters and their children were extremely anxious when they saw that the old master and old madam were completely unmoved.

“Dad! Even if Big Sister doesn’t do well in the Pei family in the future, at least they can continue to live well. However, Lil Feng and Lil Tong don’t come from any impressive backgrounds. Now, both of their arms are handicapped, and my shares have been taken away. My position as the vice president has also been taken away. If even you and Mom don’t care about us, are you trying to force us to our deaths?”

“Didn’t you hear what Grandpa said? The problem you’re about to face has nothing to do with us anymore. Force you to death? Did I force you to sell your shares? When you were vice president, did I force you to resign? You two heartless ingrates, what right do you have to say that my grandfather forced your hands?”

“Leng Qirui, shut up! How dare you lecture me?”

Chapter 1202: Dou? Mud?

Wang Qifeng was already extremely envious and jealous of Leng Qirui. He even collaborated with Ye Hai and tried to kill him. Seeing that the gap between their identities and backgrounds was getting closer and closer, how could he accept Leng Qirui speaking to him in such a superior tone?

However, the more Wang Qifeng hated something, the more Leng Qirui chose to spite him in the same way. “I dare to do so because Grandpa and Grandma had already transferred their 60% shares to me. Now, I’m the true leader of Leng Group. In the future, Grandpa and Grandma’s lives depend on me, so it’s useless even if you beg them! You have to beg me!”

Grandma Leng nodded immediately. “We’ll have to rely on Lil Rui to pay for our living expenses in the future.”

Wang Jie, “...”

Wang Chen, “...”

Wang Qifeng, “...”

Wang Yutong said, “Grandma, you’ve crossed a line! How can you treat us like this? If you treat my mother like this, what will happen to my brother and me? Are you really so heartless to not care about us anymore? The ones who said the wrong things at the hospital were my mother and auntie, not us. Why must we suffer with them too?”

Leng Qirui replied, “Wang Yutong, you’re weird! Grandma only adopted your mother, not you guys. Your mother is the one who ruined your future life, so what does it have to do with Grandma? Grandma took your mother in and her responsibility should’ve ended when she reached 18 years old. However, your mother is already in her forties, so there’s no reason for Grandma to continue caring for you guys! If you think they crossed a line, you can go to the court and sue them. If the court decides that my grandparents should continue paying for you and your mother, I’ll pay for your child support fees!

However, before we get the court's verdict, please take note that your surname is Wang, and you have nothing to do with our Leng family in the future. So, you should stop going to the Leng family to disturb my grandparents anymore. Of course, pestering will nearly be impossible because I'll get the security personnel to chase you out."

Leng Qirui was a weird existence in the Leng family since the beginning of time.

He was constantly getting lectured by his father, hated by Ye Hai, viewed as a thorn in her aunts' side, and abhorred by his cousins...

Therefore, to protect himself, Leng Qirui vowed never to say anything good about the people who mistreated him. He could treat them in the coldness of winter as though they were his enemies. Therefore, now that he had full control over the shares, Wang Jie and Wang Chen could do nothing to him at all.

Leng Qirui ordered them to leave, and the security guards arrived too. No matter how much regret, hatred, and unwillingness Wang Jie and Wang Chen had, they did not have the chance to express themselves before getting dragged out by the shoulders.

After everyone left, Leng Qirui put away his arrogant demeanor and straightened himself.

Shifting into a serious mode, Young Brother Leng radiated the aura of a business powerhouse. That aura that made people respect him triggered the 17 company executives to sit up straight immediately. They were also extremely shocked.

Did they not mention that Leng Qirui was nothing but a Dou who could not achieve great things no matter how much help he was given? Did they not say that he was a pile of mud that could not stick even when forcefully thrown at the wall?

Was this the aura Dou should have?

Was this the aura a useless pile of mud should have?

Not only did he have 100% control of Leng Group, but he also had Selina on his side—Selina, with her ultimate identity. From what everyone could see, Leng Group's future was limitless.

Leng Qirui did not know much about the employees in the company, but fortunately, the director of the Human Resources Department stayed behind. He introduced the remaining people's current field and expertise to Leng Qirui.

Chapter 1203: Working Together

Some of the senior executives, who were capable but were unable to showcase their talents due to nepotism among the sub-branches of the Leng family, received the best adjustments during this meeting.

It did not matter why these people had suddenly decided to turn against Leng Jinchen. Even if it was because of benefits, it could be said that they had good foresight.

In business investment, foresight was also a crucial skill to have.

After reallocating the remaining senior executives, the vacant positions would be decided upon by the CEO, Luo Cheng, and the director of the Human Resources Department. Their current job was to joint-select the vice president and other executives from Leng Group's talent pool.

All that was left were the things that had to be dealt with in the next two days.

"Chairman, we've already secured the land at Eastern Gaoke yesterday. The original plan was to build another branch of Meimei Department Store there. Should we proceed with the original plan?"

"Land Plot A?" Leng Qirui looked at the two marks on his computer. This was the plot of land that Leng Group had recently spent a lot of money on.

"Yes."

"This is a piece of commercial land. The two floors below can be used for super large supermarkets, and the floors above will be office buildings. After they're built, don't sell them. Rent them out instead."

As soon as Leng Qirui finished speaking, not only did the expressions of the company's new executives change, but even the expression of the new CEO, Luo Cheng, changed.

"Chairman, ever since Tianheng Holdings entered the country two years ago, consumers nowadays are very fond of top-tier brands. As a result, our Meimei Department Store has gotten quite popular and it is currently one of the main sources of Leng Group's revenues. Eastern Gaoke lacks big malls that carry top-tier brands. If we build a branch of Meimei Department Store there, my business will surely bloom. As for this matter, it was the old chairman who made that decision in the first place."

Grandpa Leng was currently sitting in the meeting room and listening to the contents of the meeting. When he heard his name, Grandpa Leng spoke up before he could say anything.

"My grandson is the current chairman, so do what my grandson says! After all, the old chairman is nothing but old, and he won't be able to keep up with the times. Since we've given the company to our grandson, we should listen and work in accordance to the new chairman's plan!"

Grandma Leng did not stand on ceremony with Grandpa Leng, but Grandpa Leng nodded obediently. "That's right! It's the young people's world now. You must do your part and work together with your chairman, do you hear me?"

The company's higher-ups, "..."

Although they had Miss Selina as the company's backer, yet who could explain this premonition that this company was heading to its doom?

After his grandparents had finished speaking, Leng Qirui explained, "The reason why I suggested to change the plan to build Meimei Department Store to an office building is that Nangong Nuannuan informed me two days ago that the center of the city in the eastern part of the city will be relocated. By the time that happens, administrative service centers would be relocated to this area instead, and that place would become a new business center.

"Therefore, building an office building there was better than building a first-rate mall there. The office building can be kept there as Leng Group's premium asset permanently, and it'll rise in value as the city develops.

“Also, although Meimei Department Store was indeed a very lucrative part of Leng Group, you have to know that the world was constantly changing. Earning money today doesn’t mean that they will still be earning money tomorrow. Like the powerful NJY Company from a few years ago. In the beginning, everyone would go crazy over every new phone they put out. However, they did not know how to adapt and kept producing bricks for phones. That was how they were completely defeated by PG Company afterward.”

Chapter 1204: Introduce Them To You

“Similarly, the rich-fair-skinned-and-beautiful ladies like to show off their wealth by buying things from top-notch brands. However, in the international market, the prices of these products are nearly 50% cheaper than those in our country. After the trend passes, do you think Meimei Department Store—that has no way of competing in terms of price—will still be able to earn as much money as it does now?” Leng Qirui continued.

The higher-ups were silent.

Even Grandpa Leng started mulling over what Leng Qirui said.

Leng Qirui continued, “Therefore, not only do we have to stop expanding Meimei Department Store, but we also have to think of a way to completely transform it in the next five years. My initial idea is to slowly introduce experience-based products into the seven Meimei Department Store under Leng Group’s jurisdiction since their layouts were huge and spacious in their attempt to mimic Tianheng Holdings. By gradually increasing our popularity among consumers, we can slowly transform the kind of specialty products they provide.”

“Chairman, what specifically do you mean by saying ‘introduce experience-based products’?”

“All kinds of experiences. Personally, though, I suggest that we focus on children’s experiences. For example, large-scale toy superstores, impressive bookstores, arcade centers, sports-related activities like indoor exploration, or collaborative activities with another brand. We can also create a children’s ball pit and let children play to their hearts’ content. In this world, only parents have selfless love for their children. Every parent, even if they can’t bear to spend money, will do their best for their children. In the future, we’ll have to unearth this limit in everyone. That’s our vision.

“Tianheng Holdings is a foreign company. Their import prices are different from ours. Compared to Tianheng Holdings, Meimei Department Store has no competitiveness other than giving people a sense of atmospheric luxury.”

Selina could not help but interrupt. “I can introduce you to our suppliers.”

Leng Qirui glanced at Selina and asked in a manly tone, “Does Meimei Department Store belong to Leng Group or Tianheng Holdings?”

Selina, “...”

The company’s higher-ups were speechless. Internally, they thought, ‘Chairman, if you don’t want their suppliers, you can introduce them to us! We want those contact!’

Grandpa Leng and Grandma Leng looked at each other and exchanged glances of pure joy at seeing their grandson's growth.

They had always believed that their precious Lil Rui did not belong with the mediocre.

How horrible could their only grandson be?

"Anyway, I've wanted to bring this up to my grandpa when he was still the chairman of Leng Group. Since I'm the one in charge now, you should start looking for ways to achieve this. Think of a way to transform Meimei Department Store, a high-end mall, into a more general store where everyone will want to come in and have their experiences enriched."

"Yes."

All the higher-ups, including Grandpa Leng and Grandma Leng, were shocked after hearing Leng Qirui's words.

Although Leng Qirui's idea was to reform Meimei Department Store from its fundamentals, everyone could not help but be convinced that his logic was sound.

Compared to high-end shopping malls that only a few would visit, turning Meimei into more general shopping malls would give Meimei a more competitive edge.

After solving their issues with staff and pinpointing the fundamentals of Meimei Department Store's existence, Leng Qirui proposed the third reform plan that he had long wanted to propose to his grandfather.

"You've all seen the third on the agenda that I want to talk about today. From now on, Leng Group will venture into the third type of market—e-commerce."

Chapter 1205: New Idea

"Some time ago, I read a piece of news. It said that pomelos were very popular and sold very well in the market last year. Thus, the farmers realized there were prospects in planting pomelos, so fruit farmers all over the country began to grow pomelos. With everyone planting pomelos, pomelos were suddenly very unmarketable.

"There was a village where everyone in the village grew pomelos. Eventually, none of their pomelos were sold. When the pomelos were ripe, they had to plant the fruits and vegetables for the next season. Without another choice, the villagers could only pile the pomelos on the village's basketball court. Directly, this led to pomelos piling up in every shared facility in the village. Within a radius of two acres, the piled pomelos reached up to 20 meters high. No one bought any of them even if they cost only 20 cents each. The pomelos at the bottom were all rotten, and no one dealt with them. The entire shared space became a rotting junkyard."

The CEO, Luo Cheng, asked, "Chairman, are you saying that we have to interact with these fruit farmers in the future and get our hands on some first-hand products? However, we are a large corporation, and we're limited in both manpower and resources. These unsellable fruits are usually found in remote areas. After contacting them, we still have to arrange our own transportation to transport the goods. Adding these into our cost, we might as well go to a second-hand wholesale agent to get the goods.

These agents have been working with the company for years and are trustworthy. Secondly, they've always been fair with their prices. For us to spend so much time looking for these fruit farmers, we might as well spend more time looking for our next piece of empty land and strive to get our hands on it."

Leng Qirui shook his head. "Everyone knows that EQ Company has achieved massive success in the market with their cryptocurrency. If they can gain people's attention by letting them exchange virtual goods with the company's virtual currency, think about what we can do. What if we let people use real money to exchange for real items through our online platforms?"

"Let's use the fruit farmers from that village as an example. If they sign up as a member on our company's online platform, they can set up their virtual shop there. They can put up pictures of the fruits in their village and then label the prices properly. Will there be anyone who can resist buying pomelo that costs 20 cents each? After all, the pomelo we eat outside costs around several dozen bucks each!"

Everyone in the middle and upper management, "..."

One look and they could tell that Leng Qirui was someone who had never suffered before! How could a pomelo cost several dozen bucks? He must have gotten cheated, right?

However...

His method sounded really feasible too!

"The pomelo is just an idea that suddenly occurred to me after I read the news. It's only one potential aspect. Think about it. If most of the businesses in Camino registered themselves on our platform, and most of the people buy things from our platform, not only will everyone get to buy items at a cheap price, but we can also hire people whose job was to deliver those items to their doorsteps. I reckon that we don't need to invest a large amount of money into marketing before everyone starts spreading the good news. Soon enough, countless people will sign up as members on our platform and shop from there."

"Chairman, personally, I think that your suggestion is very refreshing and very good too, but... as you know, be it fruit farmers or manufacturers, they're the ones who produce the goods. They normally sell to wholesalers. It might be difficult for them to sell their products to their customers one by one."

Chapter 1206: Unfamiliar Word

"Before discussing other things, let's talk about the issues of transportation. Should the primary manufacturers be in charge of transporting the goods or should the buyers be in charge of that? Why do I feel like we're missing something in between there?" a higher-up said.

"That's right, so I've decided to set up another company for logistics."

The upper executives all frowned. Luo Cheng was the only one who beamed.

After all, he had lived in Sab for a long time. Progress in logistics over there was more well-developed, so he understood what his chairman was referring to.

However, to the higher executives of Leng Group, or to most people in Camino, the term 'logistics' was still an unfamiliar concept.

If Nangong Nuannuan was here, she would be very surprised.

That was because Leng Qirui's current ideas and suggestions were exactly the same as the insightful and powerful Mister M that would appear in Camino many years later.

However, after she was reborn, the life of many people in this world changed drastically.

Leng Qirui was a good example.

In her previous life, Ye Hai's men would have killed him in Jiang District. Without Leng Qirui, a man who grew up in a family of extremely powerful geniuses in business, many other ambitious people would rise to power later.

In this lifetime, Leng Qirui was still alive, and he was going to bring the Leng Group to greater heights. It would be completely different from what happened in the previous world.

Since 'logistics' had yet to form a substantial idea in everyone's mind, Leng Qirui shared his thoughts with everyone.

After all, Leng Qirui was the heir of a second-tier wealthy family who received the best training from the Leng family. Although Leng Qirui was only 18 years old, he had been abroad a lot. Although Leng Qirui was indeed a flunkie, he was an observant and intelligent flunkie. Furthermore, he was born to be extraordinary in the field of business. Back when he was abroad, he had been very interested in foreign logistics, so he consulted professionals to improve his understanding. Now that he had to explain this concept to others, his words flowed as smooth as the river too.

Although everyone agreed with what the chairman said, some of them still had different ideas.

"Chairman, I understand what you mean and know the purpose of the logistics company. Transportation will be more convenient with a logistics company. However, there is still a problem.

"For example, I'm a customer, and I want to buy pomelos from a remote mountain area. Although I really want those cheap pomelos because the merchandise is only 20 cents, the cost of transportation is extremely high after my purchase. We need someone to bring his pomelos out of the village, and a dedicated car to transport his things to the city he's in. If the buyer and seller are in a more remote place, far away from the station we set up, do we have to pay dozens or even hundreds of yuan for something that is only 20 cents?

"Without any subsidies, the manpower, fuel, and transportation fees in between would probably be more than several dozen yuan. With the transportation costing more than a few dozens added to the item that costs 20 cents, this thing would still have to be sold at the price of a few dozen, or we'll lose money. However, if we sell it for several dozen yuan, others might as well go to the market and buy it from second-hand, third-hand, or even fourth-hand merchants. It will be much cheaper too.

"Also, if we'll have to arrange transport for something as tiny as a single pomelo especially, the speed of transportation will definitely be very slow. It's still fine since pomelos don't turn bad easily, but if it's something that expires quickly, it might already have turned bad before buyers get their hands on the items they purchased. “

Chapter 1207: Feasibility

All the higher-ups nodded. Although this was a good suggestion, it was not feasible.

Leng Qirui was very patient with the higher-ups who gave suggestions out of their genuine concern for the company. He continued to say, “Although logistics are more well-developed overseas than our country, they haven’t perfected it yet. Since our Leng Group has chosen to venture into this field, we must ensure that our ‘logistics’ become as convenient and fast as possible. Other than choosing not to set up stations in certain extremely remote villages and towns temporarily, I request that the stations that are set up by our logistics company reach far and wide into every district and village in the country. There must also be at least three people manning each station.

“Think about it. If there’s an employee from Leng Group’s logistics company to every village in the country, they can be in charge of collecting goods or delivering them. Other workers at the stations will be in charge of the flow of transportation—put those that are allowed to fly on a plane while putting those that can’t be flown in through the high-speed rail or train. We will then purchase our own transport vehicles dedicated only to the transportation of goods. Doing all these will allow us to control the speed at which the goods reach our clients, no matter where they shop from. Everyone will be able to get their hands on the goods within 3-5 days.

“If you’re a buyer, you can buy anything you like online without stepping out of the confines of your home. Not only will it be cheap, but the shop will also deliver it to your doorstep. Will you choose to buy the items from a physical store or will you prefer to shop for them online? There were all kinds of taxes in physical stores. Physical stores will have to pay their rental too, along with the employees who have to look after the store. There are all the hidden costs behind businesses that often lead to the price increase of the same item several times higher. However, this won’t exist in online shopping. If you were a customer, would you be willing to buy things in a physical store in the future, or would you be willing to shop online for something cheap and convenient?

“As for the transportation fee you mentioned, it does require users to pay for it themselves, but it isn’t much. I think the transportation fee for each buyer shouldn’t be more than 15 yuan. The best price is between 10 to 12 yuan.”

“However, if I’m from the south, and I want to buy something from a remote area in the north, the transportation cost will cost more than 15 yuan! Then, what are we going to do with the difference in transportation fees? Furthermore, we’ve been going on and on about transportation fees, but what about labor? Don’t tell me the workers’ salaries are not included in our transportation costs? If we follow your plan and station employees specializing in logistics in every village, the labor costs will be huge, Chairman!” Another executive voiced her doubts.

Leng Qirui shook his head. “You should attempt to think out of the box. If we only transport one pomelo from one place to another, the transportation cost is 100 yuan. What if 10 people from the same place have taken a fancy to these pomelos through our platform? At the very least, the initial cost of the 100 yuan transportation fee, which is the transportation cost from the village to the town, will be split among the 10 registered buyers along with the primary cost of the pomelos. Meanwhile, the remaining cost of their pomelos will arise from transporting the pomelos from town to the consumers. However, once we reach the town, there must be other people who buy various things other than the 10 pomelos. If there are 30 buyers, we can just split the cost of the transportation from the town to the city among the buyers, right? Once we're in the city, if 100 people from various villages purchase various things from each town, there must be packages that are heading to the same city, right? If many packages head to a different city at the same time, isn't the transportation cost divided again?"

Chapter 1208: Prodigal

"When the packages arrive in the designated cities, won't there be many parcels from other cities that will be transported to this city to split the costs of those parcels traveling to another secondary city? Similarly, if this continues... How much do you think the actual transportation costs? I dare say that as long as there are more people shopping online, charging 12 yuan per person is more than enough to foot the transportation bill while also letting us reap a huge profit.

"When we fully implement this model, we can also create a VIP channel. As long as we raise the payment from 12 yuan to 20 or 30 yuan, we can ensure that the goods arrive within 24 to 48 hours. That way, even if we have to transport some items in a very short time, it will be enough."

All the higher-ups were shocked. They were silent for a long time as they lapsed into a silent agitation.

Grandpa Leng was also very excited.

As a successful businessman who had dabbled in business for 50 years, he subconsciously felt that his grandson's idea was amazing. If he handled it well, the grandson of the Leng family might open up a new era in the economy of Camino.

It depended on whether he could turn his ideas into reality.

Grandma Leng and Selina, on the other hand, looked very pleased with themselves.

After all, these two worshipped Leng Qirui blindly.

Even during Leng Qirui's most rebellious period, Grandma Leng thought that her grandson was the best. Therefore, she thought that what Leng Qirui said was very normal. After all, Leng Qirui was her grandson, and he was definitely different from other businessmen.

As for Selina, she was more blind. Although she was the vice president of so many companies, she had never really attended any board meetings or any business decisions. Even if she joined any, it would be for fun.

This time was the first time she had truly listened to the decisions made by the meeting after following Leng Qirui out.

Hearing that, Selina's admiration for her Young Brother Leng rose to a whole new level.

What a prodigal businessman!

It was no wonder that he could win every game he played. Every time, he could organize a team and maximize everyone's role according to their strength.

“Of course, whether it’s the online shops or logistics companies, we’ll only lose money at the start. After all, the merchants won’t know how useful our platform will be in the future. If we keep asking them to pay, they’ll probably think that even a station fee that costs 1000 bucks is expensive.

“Therefore, in the early stages, what the employees of the marketing department have to do is to allow merchants to sign up on our website unconditionally and set up virtual shops on our website. Then, through our platform, they can sell things online.

“As for logistics, there won’t be many buyers in the beginning, so we have to shoulder both personnel and transportation costs.

“However, as you can imagine, when everyone knows about this platform and familiarizes themselves with it in one or two years, will the merchants choose to leave when there are so many consumers around? As more and more merchants sign up, and as more and more consumers rely on this platform, we’ll have successfully monopolized the market.

“Everyone here is a senior executive of our company, so you should be able to understand what it means for a company to monopolize the market.

Therefore, doing business at a loss for a year or two is a process of laying down stepping stones for our future by slowly accumulating trust. “

Chapter 1209: Eternal Support

“During this process, as long as we can remain neither arrogant nor rash and fight on with our heads down, I believe Leng Group will win the race against various companies in two years. Even if other companies mimic our business model, they’ll never have such a strong foundation and so much trust like we do.”

After Leng Qirui finished speaking, there was a brief silence before a round of enthusiastic applause exploded. The CEO, Luo Cheng, took the lead as everyone got to their feet with overwhelming excitement pouring out of their passionate eyes.

Five years later, Leng Qirui brought Leng Group to great heights and become the richest family in Camino. The Leng family was a small family that could not overpower the Four Dominant Families in the military and political world, but they relied on their massive wealth to be recognized as one of Camino’s Five Dominant Families. By then, the higher executives of Leng Group would often recall this scene from time to time—

Their chairman’s face was swollen, bruised, and swollen. His hands and feet were wrapped up in casts, and he was not even neatly dressed. However, when he gave them such a refreshing business idea at the meeting, they stood up in excitement to show their utmost respect and gratitude to an eighteen-year-old young man.

The 17 people in the conference room, together with their new chairman, would release a tsunami in the business world that took the entire Camino by storm in the next five years. They would stand at the top of the world with their subversive innovation.

While the Leng family went through great changes, Nuannuan was not waiting around either.

Previously, she caught a few villagers from the Liu Village and she needed to study the bugs in their heads. To her, the bugs were an existence that surpassed human knowledge, so she must figure out the principles behind these bugs and what allowed them to manipulate human bodies and consciousness. Furthermore, there were two patients at home that she had to take care of, so she felt so busy she was about to become a spinning top.

After breakfast, both Chi Yang and Feng Shengxuan vomited because they could not stand the image of their fans fantasizing about them.

Especially since Feng Shengxuan had stomach cancer, vomiting would cause serious damage to the stomach, so he almost fainted from the pain.

Nuannuan had been waiting for Big Brother Chi Yang to go head to Eagle together after dinner to study the bugs in the brains of the bugged people. That was before she heard Feng Shengxuan groaning in pain in the bathroom.

Nuannuan rushed to the bathroom and saw Feng Shengxuan vomiting blood.

There was no way Feng Shengxuan could keep up the charm that he had when arguing with Chi Yang. His face was as pale as a sheet of paper. When Nuannuan rushed in, he was afraid that she would see the blood, so he quickly turned on the tap and turned his back to her.

However, Nuannuan always had a keen sense of smell, so she immediately went around to stand before him. She saw the thick blood clinging onto the corner of his lips, and his face was pale.

Feng Shengxuan looked embarrassed and at a loss. Then, his eyes dimmed immediately.

Even though he had purposely turned himself into a stomach cancer patient as an excuse to pester Nuannuan, he merely wanted to spend time with Nuannuan so that she could give him medical treatment every day. He never intended to appear in front of her in this pitiful state when his illness acted up.

He had always been the little girl's support. Even if she no longer needed him as her support after she grew up, he wanted to give her his eternal support.

Chapter 1210: Nuannuan, It Hurts

Feng Shengxuan kept improving himself and continued to expand his power and influence so that he could satisfy her requests whenever she needed them.

However, at this moment, not only had his little girl stopped relying on him, he even became her burden.

However, Feng Shengxuan's expression changed soon enough. He now looked extremely pitiful.

"Nuannuan, it hurts."

Nuannuan knew that Feng Shengxuan must be very upset and unhappy with his currently distressed and sickly appearance. Therefore, she chose not to escalate the situation by expressing her shock and sympathy for his illness. Instead, she asked, "Are you done vomiting?"

"Mm." Feng Shengxuan nodded and sat down beside the toilet weakly.

Then, Nuannuan reached out to wash away the blood that he vomited. She held his arm and said, "Spitting blood is normal. Due to the tumor in your stomach, the surface layer of the tumor will get damaged when you vomit, thus causing it to bleed. After the tumor is removed, you'll get better."

Feng Shengxuan knew that Nuannuan told him this on purpose so that he would not feel bad. There was a rising sense of warmth in his heart.

This was why he doted on his girl so much.

This was because he was a poisonous bug that thrived in the dark, but whenever he was close to Nuannuan, he could feel the sunlight radiating from her.

"Mm."

Looking at how obedient Feng Shengxuan was now, and thinking about how Big Sis Yue cried to her and told her that Feng Shengxuan was willing to do anything to meet her, Nuannuan could not help but ridicule him. "Oh, now you'll say 'mm', huh? Why didn't you follow what I told you to do before I left? You promised me with all the intentions to break the promise anyway!"

Feng Shengxuan, "... He lowered his head, not daring to speak.

Putting aside the fact that it was undeniably his fault, even if he did well, Feng Shengxuan would never dare to talk back to Nuannuan.

He did not know when this started, but he had always been timid in front of Nuannuan.

"Let's go. I'll help you back to your room and perform another acupuncture on you."

"All right." Feng Shengxuan nodded happily.

After all, he had to take off his clothes during acupuncture.

Best Actor Feng was very confident in his own figure.

In addition, even though he had been feeling unwell recently, he had not neglected his workouts. That was why he was sure that Nuannuan would be satisfied to see his body figure.

When Nuannuan lifted Feng Shengxuan out, they bumped into Chi Yang, who had also coincidentally come out of the bathroom after vomiting.

Seeing this, Feng Shengxuan immediately withdrew his sickly posture and tried to make it look like he was fine by leaning closer to Nuannuan in a languid manner.

He wanted to show Chi Yang how close Nuannuan had always been to him.

Before leaving the bathroom, Feng Shengxuan made sure to clean his mouth, so Chi Yang definitely did not know that he had just vomited blood.

Meanwhile, Feng Shengxuan also believed that Nuannuan would not tell such an embarrassing incident about himself to the rest of the family.

However, when Feng Shengxuan leaned on Nuannuan and attempted to make his gesture look intimate, Chi Yang, Second Uncle Chi, and Old Master Chi asked in unison, “You vomited blood?”

Feng Shengxuan, “...!!!”

“Big Brother Chi Yang, I need to bring Big Bro up to perform another acupuncture on him. If you’re busy, you can leave first. I’ll see you at Eagle’s headquarters later.”

“Will it still be an hour?”

Nuannuan nodded.

“One hour is fine. I’ll wait for you, then we’ll leave together.”

Nuannuan could not be happier to hear that. A sweet smile appeared on her face as she nodded.

“Okay.”

Feng Shengxuan secretly glared at Chi Yang and thought, ‘...Stupid third wheel! Why can’t you just get lost?!’
