Clang!

Following that, she grabbed a dinner knife and stabbed it right into the center of the table.

“Why do the two of you have so much bullsh*t coming out of your mouths? And who the hell are you calling a tomboy?”

Phoenix questioned them coldly.

Even her enemies couldn't make her shed a single tear on the battlefield.

What made these ladies think that they could bully her?

Phoenix fiddled with the dinner knife.

The threat was clear. She could send the knife flying straight through the necks of Zara and Yvette at any second.

Zara and Yvette were frightened stiff.

They exchanged a helpless look and laughed weakly. “I mean, we think you're really great too! We're so happy to have you join us!”

They were powerless against Phoenix, so they chose to keep their mouths shut.

The two of them only had the guts to bully those weaker than them, after all.

Chapter 1034

The foreigners snickered as they sized Zara and Yvette up.
If they were lucky, they would get to rob and rape tonight.
The foreign gentlemen, as Zara had once called them, smacked their lips as they checked out their prey.
This would never have happened in Erudia. No matter how lowly they thought Erudia was, they definitely wouldn't be robbed near the airport.
Neither would they need to worry about wandering in a major city at night.
This was the so-called greatness of foreign countries.
Foreigners were 'noble,' and the men were 'gentlemanly.'
However, it clearly wasn't the case at that moment.

“We’ll give you all our money...”

Zara fished out a wad of cash and stuffed it into the hands of the robbers.

“Hehe...”

The foreigners grabbed the money and threw Zara and Yvette onto their shoulders.

The two girls barely stood a chance against the group of burly men.

Soon, they were brought to a dark and secluded place.

It looks like my wish is about to be granted very soon.

There's so much that I don't know about Levi, but he promised to tell me about it on the day of our wedding.

I knew I was right to be patient!

When the Garrisons eventually found out that Levi was still alive and was getting married, the family was shaken to the core.

After all, Levi was the illegitimate son of Tyrone Garrison, the next patriarch of the Garrison family.

Tyrone's appointment ceremony was coming up, but it was greatly affected by the news about Levi.

The Garrisons were anxious because of their failed attempts to assassinate Levi.

Hence, it was harder for them to make another attempt at that point in time.

"If you were made aware of the bastard before, why was I not informed?" roared Kenny, who blamed Edward and the others for not telling him about Levi.

"What's all the fuss about? Calm yourself!" ordered Tyrone coldly.

The servant was about to speak when a woman rushed in from behind. "We're in deep trouble! How are you still in the mood for your calligraphy?"

Dressed in luxurious clothing, the woman was perfectly poised and looked nothing short of royalty.

Although Olivia was old, her charm and graceful demeanor were incomparable.

Olivia was Tyrone's wife and Damien's mother.

As a member of the Garcia family, the second most powerful family in Erudia, she was the only one who was worthy of marrying Tyrone.

"Get the butler over here now!" shouted Tyrone furiously.

Before long, an old man with gray hair arrived at the scene.

Thud!

The butler fell to his knees before Tyrone and Olivia, for he could already guess why he had been summoned.

As a butler, Dexter was in charge of the housekeeping for Tyrone's residence, unlike Edward, whose duty was to protect Tyrone.

Dexter was there when Tyrone fell in love with Emma, and he helped his master with keeping secrets and other things.

Otherwise, the two love birds would have been discovered even earlier.

Dexter liked Emma, so he had persuaded Tyrone not to abandon the woman on multiple occasions.

"I do! Human lives are more important than reputation, and we're talking about my Master's own flesh and blood. No matter how you put it, Master's blood runs in that boy's veins."

Dexter remained headstrong.

"I'll kill you!" roared Olivia before she grabbed a sword in the study and swung it toward Dexter.

The butler shut his eyes and was ready to die when Tyrone shouted, "No!"

Dexter smiled when Tyrone stopped Olivia because he knew his Master well.

Tyrone was by no means a good man.

He was cruel and ruthless, or else he would not have left his own flesh and blood to die in the wild.

Olivia nodded vigorously. "I've heard that he's good. Let's see if he has what it takes to become one of us. I don't believe that he can beat Damien."

"If he remains humble and works hard enough, he'll possibly be able to join my family," mused Tyrone. I believe that he is a capable man. He is my own flesh and blood, after all.

"I don't think so! Levi bows to no one, not even to the Garrison family. He's far too arrogant."

At that moment, Damien returned.

"Not even the Garrison family, you say?"

Tyrone and Olivia were taken aback because the Garrisons were the most powerful family in Erudia.

Anyone who refuses to submit to the Garrisons are either mad or suicidal.

Looking at how confident their son was, Tyrone and Olivia could not be more pleased.

Now that's our son, our pride!

Born a genius with the strongest bloodline, our son has always been a prodigy, and his training only made him stronger.

"Go, my son! Head south. After all these years in Oakland City, it's time for you to unleash your potential," instructed Tyrone, whose life was too precious to be put at risk.

Worried for Tyrone's safety, the Garrisons surrounded the man with thousands of guards no matter where he went.

Olivia nodded in agreement. "It's time for you to see the world and let everyone witness what a true genius is capable of!"

The mother's tone then took a turn. "Nonetheless, we should also make sure that Damien is safe."

"I agree. We'll send only the best to protect him and make sure that nothing bad happens," concurred Tyrone.
