Chapter 1301

This was supposed to be a family meeting, but they excluded Aaron and Caitlyn.

They were afraid these two would oppose their course.

Nonetheless, Zoey's words put frowns on everyone's brows.

"What's with you? Everyone agreed! Who do you think you are? You are in no place to betray your whole family."

Meredith and Harry were infuriated at Zoey's relentless resistance.

"It's not that I don't agree with y'all. Morris Group doesn't belong to me, to begin with. It belongs to Levi. Besides, there are also other major shareholders. This is not something I can decide on my own," Zoey retorted.

"Stop giving excuses! The company is still under you even if it belongs to Levi. He's your husband, so you'll have to make a decision for him with his condition now."

Jennie's harsh remarks vexed Forlevia.

"Don't talk to my mom like that!"

Meanwhile, Zoey smirked listening to their remarks. "I know you guys have an ulterior motive, so stop giving me all this bullsh*t about working together as three families for the common good. All of you have your eyes set on Morris Group, isn't it?"

"So what? I admit it. Morris Group is what we want." Henry was not even trying to hide his greed and anger.

“It’s either you work with us, or your daughter will never have a last name on any of her identity documents”

Though it sounded ridiculous on the spot, Zoey knew what they were capable of.

They would do anything they could to coerce her to give up Morris Group.

Likewise, her family knew her soft spot. That was why they used her daughter as their bargaining chip.

“How could you guys do this to me!”

Zoey was exasperated under the pressure.

“Hey, don’t make it sound like we’re bullying you. There’s no way we’re letting a crippled man be in charge of the company.”

“Mommy, I want to take Daddy’s last name.” The girl in Zoey’s arms finally spoke.

She knew they were trying to intimidate her mother, and she would never allow that.

Meredith laughed after hearing the girl’s childish request. “You want to be a Garrison? Sure! You just dug your own grave. Let’s see what the family will do to you.”

Everyone smiled nastily as Meredith spoke.

Despite feeling humiliated by the families, Levi saw this as a blessing in disguise.

He had secretly wished Forlevia could officially be part of his family. It was just that he never told Zoey about it.

She had gone through too much because of him, and he did not want to burden her any further.

That was why he did not object when Forlevia took Zoey's surname.

The three families' actions only fulfilled his wish, but Zoey begged to differ.

"Have you forgotten what the Garrisons said? They said they would do anything to stop Forlevia from using their family name."

She was fully aware that they would go to great lengths to exclude her daughter from the family.

They even tried to kill Levi when he was still a baby.

It was apparent that they would do likewise to Forlevia.

“They don’t have the guts to do that,” Levi said coldly.

The whole family was within his hands, and he could easily do away with whatever rules the family had.

Everyone was stunned by his audacity.

Does he even know what he's saying? The Garrisons have to kneel before him?

He's crippled!

What a dreamer.

Even Zoey felt embarrassed by his reckless statement.

To Zoey, Levi used to be the God of War, but not anymore.

"Ha! You and your threats. Alright then, I'll report this right now. Let's see what they're gonna do to y'all."

Meredith was exasperated seeing Levi's ruthless attitude. She told herself she would do everything she could to put them in their place.

"Do whatever you like."

Levi gave her a nonchalant shrug, seeing that she was burning in anger.

"Yeah! Do whatever you like. No one is gonna change my name this time." Forlevia supported Levi's stance.

On the following day, North Hampton Airport received an overwhelming number of notifications about private jets flying in.

People were coming in from all around the country, especially from Oakland City.

Groups of influential figures flew in on their private planes, and the traffic was heavy at the airport.

Luxury limousines were parked at the pickup area awaiting the arrival of numerous prominent figures.

Lines of extravagant vehicles moved out of the airport to the highway after guests got on.

Never had anyone seen such a lively scene in North Hampton.

All routes were congested as people arrived and left the airport.

The public quickly noticed this unusual scene and started questioning what was happening.

"What's going on in North Hampton?"

"Huh?"

Zoey was dumbfounded by his request.

Is it too late?

What is he talking about?

Zoey could not get her head around what was happening.

Dale denied her help back when she was going through the hardest time, but now, there was a total change in attitude on his side.

Just when Zoey was about to agree to his request, the old man let out a sigh. "It's okay. I know I don't have what it takes to be your godfather. I know you're disappointed in me. It's okay. I'm just here to see how you're doing. I should not covet anything else."

It was true that Dale should not wish for more. He did not dare to.

If Zoey became his god-daughter, this would mean Levi had to address him as his god-father too.

He did not have the guts to do such a thing.

Dale lowered his head and turned to leave, leaving Zoey looking at him, confused.

Levi was the one who wreaked havoc in their lives, so they were thrilled when they found out justice would soon be served on their behalf.

Levi, on the other hand, was surprised to see Bryan and Victoria barging into his house.

After all, they were the least expected guests at his place.

"Levi Garrison, I dare you to meet us at Galaxy International Clubhouse at eight tonight," Bryan challenged with a hint of ridicule in his voice.

"What for?" Levi asked.

"To settle some old score, of course."

Behind him, Victoria looked at Forlevia and shook her head in pity. "What a shame. She'll be losing her life because of her name. Too bad you won't be able to protect her anymore, Levi. You can only watch your wife and daughter die in front of your own eyes. So much for being the God of War."

An arrogant smile curved on Bryan's lips listening to his wife. "Make sure you don't disappoint us tonight, God of War."

With that said, the two turned and left.

Not long after they left, West Sky Lord came to inform Levi about what was going on.

After getting more information, Levi agreed to go over in the evening.

The Garrison family simply could not wait to savor the moment of sweet revenge.

They had been dying to see Levi punished.

"The clan can't do anything to me," Levi said calmly.

That elicited another wave of loud laughter from the Garrisons.

"I thought you're just handicapped. I didn't know you're delusional too!"

"Yeah! There's nothing the clan doesn't dare to do."

Levi swept his gaze across the family as he caressed Forlevia's head. "I'll give everyone here one last chance for Forlevia's sake. Cut this sh*t out before I lose my patience."

Behind Levi, North Sky Lord smirked looking at the gloating crowd. "It'll be too late to apologize then."

"Is he serious? Levi's the one that should be begging for his life now," Joseph retaliated.

Even Ben and Winnie jeered at him. "Do you still remember how the boy vouched to do great things when he grew up? Look at him now."

"Exactly. He even talked about ruling the country, but he can't even command his own body."

Bryan was the first to gasp out loud.

Victoria fell to her knees and started shaking violently at the sight.

As for Ben and Winnie, they stood motionless as if they were struck by thunder.

Joseph almost passed out the moment he saw Levi standing up with his naked eyes.

It never once crossed their mind that Levi was just faking his disability and that he was actually the master of all the prominent families in Erudia.

Their hearts thumped uncontrollably as Levi walked toward them.

It turned out that everyone was gathered here just to celebrate Forlevia's surname-changing.

Things took an unexpected turn, and the Garrison family was having a difficult time snapping back to reality.

They finally understood what Levi meant when he said he was giving them one final chance.

"What is happening? Why are you all bowing down? He's no longer the God of War! Winsor has stripped him of that title!" Ben cried out in disbelief and questioned everyone.

He could accept the fact that Levi was putting up a front to trick them all this while, but that did not change the fact that he was now just a commoner.

“Hurry up. I don’t want to miss out on this. It must be a pleasant sight. The Garrison clan must be teaching Levi and Forlevia a good lesson.”

To their dismay, what they were about to see was not what they anticipated.

About ten people were on their knees pleading for forgiveness.

They were knocking their wounded heads so hard that the ground was already red with blood. Even so, none of them stopped although their flesh was exposed.

Some of them had even fainted on the ground.

Meredith and the others were alarmed to see the ghastly sight.

Their backs turned cold, and they began to quiver.
