Chapter 1421

Looking at his attackers, Levi let out a smirk.

"To be honest, I have no idea how strong I am after my transformation. Coincidentally, you can help me find out! I hope that I will survive. In fact, I am looking forward to striking terror into your hearts!"

After giving his swarming enemies another look, Levi charged at them fearlessly waving his banner in hand.

When Prince William saw the scene from afar, he shook his head. "I don't understand why he chose to come. Even though I expected it, I still don't get it. What do you think?"

He looked toward Kuro Dragon.

Kuro Dragon laughed, "That's the result of brainwashing. Ever since they were young, it was ingrained in them to fight and die for Erudia."

"Honestly, men are no different from machines."

Even though Kuro Dragon was an Erudian, he could never comprehend the sense of duty and pride one had to their nation.

That was the reason why he had betrayed Erudia.

"Haha, what a bunch of idiots…" Prince William sneered.

From their perspective, Erudia didn't need to send anyone. Isn't it all just about pride?

Is pride worth anything?

Harboring their last hope, everyone remained watchful while keeping tabs on what was ahead of them.

At the foot of Mount Drago, Levi was besieged by countless fighters.

The encirclement was six men thick and the number of people kept increasing without any sign of stopping.

What a strategy!

"Charge!"

The coalition fought like madmen. Their bloodshot eyes did not even blink as they barge toward Levi.

Their hatred for Levi was simply overwhelming, to the extent that they were willing to sacrifice their lives in order to get him killed.

Their intimidating actions goaded Levi.

As a result, an intense rage burned within him, setting his fighting spirit ablaze.

His eyes held contempt and fury.

"Kill!" Levi shouted as he waved the banner representing Erudia and charged forward mercilessly.

Right then, the snipers and archers ambushing in the dark began to take action.

They smeared fuel on the arrows.

As long as it hit the banner, it would burn it down without a doubt.

The snipers were getting their firearms ready, aiming at the banner.

Observing the movements around him, the vigilant Levi halted all of a sudden.

Swoosh!

Swoosh!

At that instant, multiple gunshots and arrows were released from various directions, piercing through the bodies of Levi's enemies.

Blood gushed out from their wounds as they fell onto the ground. The scene was as gory as it could be.

It turned out that their shootings were all calculated beforehand, based on the speed of Levi's movement.

With Levi stopping abruptly, their predictions were disrupted adversely, leading the weapons to shoot at their own people instead.

"What an amateur!" Levi scoffed.

Subsequently, the bevy of snipers and archers tried to aim at either Levi or the banner, but to no avail.

First, with too many people besieging him, they could not seize the perfect opportunity to attack him.

Even though one punch from Levi could send an entire building quaking and kill countless of people, he felt so handicapped with the crowd refusing to move a muscle.

There was no way for him to barge in because the entrance was way too narrow.

There was no gap in between for him to even crawl through.

On the other hand, more and more fighters started gathering behind him, trapping him in the middle.

"There are already a hundred thousand people in the rear. No matter how fearless the Crown King is, he will never be able to reach Mount Drago. Either way, Erudia will have to admit defeat." Kuro Dragon smiled wickedly.

Raising his glass of red wine, Prince William uttered, "Let's witness how he will be consumed alive."

Right then, a hundred thousand top-notch fighters had taken their place and were ready to fight Levi.

It was a dead-end ahead, with no way to retreat.

Unless Levi could emerge from this crowd unharmed and take another route to get to the peak of Mount Drago, there was practically no other way for him to win this battle.

Levi was at a downright disadvantage, be it in terms of time or other factors.

As a matter of fact, that narrow tunnel was the shortest route to get to the peak.

"Ah?"

"What?"

The next moment, a series of exclamations were heard from the crowd.

Many wondered what that sword was made of. When it was drawn out, it radiated an air of soul-crushing might.

Everyone felt a cold chill down their spines. The murderous intent in the air was super intense, filling their hearts with horror.

"It's such a great sword!" Levi gently touched the blade of the Dragon Sword.

"I think I got it! The best solution is to knock everyone down," remarked Levi as he swung the sword in the air.

With the other party already having everything plotted, all other obvious methods are useless now. The key problem is the number of people on their end.

"Aren't you afraid of death?"

"Surrender now and hand over the Erudian banner in order to stay alive!"

"Is it worth it to do this for the Erudians? Why are you sacrificing yourself meaninglessly?"

"You know deep down that your chance of surviving this is slim. Why are you so stubborn? Just admit defeat."

"Even the God of War has betrayed Erudia, you can surely do the same!"

Meanwhile, the crowd tried their best to persuade Levi to raise the white flag.

Smiling, Levi declared, "The concept of conceding to my opponents has never crossed my mind. In fact, I'll not yield!"

Levi took on hundreds of thousands as he went on a killing spree.

None was spared.

Though the Erudian banner was flying high and the Dragon Sword was still as shiny as ever, Levi began to feel worn out and drained.

With tattered clothes and soot on his face, Levi looked completely disheveled.

Covered in blood, no one knew if it was his or someone else's.

Clank!

Ramming his sword into the ground, he needed a rest.

He was not God; he was only human.

"Haha, did you see that? He's exhausted."

"The Crown King isn't immortal. He can grow weary and die too."

"Hurry up and attack him! I don't think he can hold on any longer," Prince William shouted.

Levi's signs of fatigue were good news to his enemies.

They had been waiting for this moment since forever because Levi always showed himself as an unbeatable war machine.

It's a golden opportunity to finish him off when he's weak.

Levi was shocked.

It must be the grandest gathering of warriors, with that many God class and Ultimate class warriors at one site.

Warriors seemed to have become a dime a dozen.

"You have put in a lot of effort to make sure we will perish!" he jested.

He might not know what else they were up to, but one thing he was positive about was that The Avengers had roped in all the top warriors of Bayview.

He would not be concerned if he was not already badly injured. Apparently, The Avengers had it all planned out. That was their evil plan – to reveal the trump card after draining Levi. They were out for the kill.

This had captured the attention and concern of all at Erudia.

And that was the ultimate test for the Crown King.

No one could imagine the combined power of hundreds of Ultimate class warriors. What made it worse was that Levi was already badly injured.

"Please hang on. You have to hang on!"

"Erudia cannot fall, and you cannot fall! We have to keep the flag flying high!"

The Erudians had their hearts in the mouth, extremely worried for Levi.

On the other hand, the enemies' cheers broke the silence.

Levi had suffered the biggest loss of his lifetime.

"It pained me to kill such an impressive peer!" the head warrior sighed.

He wanted to spare Levi's life and had tried his best to persuade Levi to surrender, as he admired Levi's skills and had high regard for him. After all, Levi was a rare talent.

With his fearsome abilities, Levi would be an awesome addition to their team if he had agreed to join them.

However, the next moment, he froze, and his smile faded.

He literally felt a chill down his back, as if something cold had entered his body.

Looking down, he saw a sword protruding through his body.

It was a golden sword, and fresh blood was flowing down its blade.

Am I stabbed?

When did Crown King came up behind me?

Shouldn't he be buried in that crater, like what we had all seen?

Although he managed to fight off the crowd, he had sustained serious injuries.

He was bathed in blood—both his and that of his foes.

Cough, cough, cough…

He could not stop coughing, and with every cough, more blood oozed out of the corner of his mouth.

The fierce fighting had even broken the indestructible Dragon Sword in two.

This… this… this…

Five hundred Ultimate class warriors defeated? And it was by one man?

How is that possible? Is he even human?

Disbelief was written all over Prince William's face. He was about to break down in despair.

He knew that unbelievable man was only a human, a common Erudian. Even if it was not Levi, another Erudian would have risen up to the challenge. That was the spirit of the Erudians.

He had not been defeated, and he could still fight on! The Erudian banner could still fly high!

The God class warriors rushed in for the kill.

Broken sword in hand, Levi moved toward them fearlessly.

Zap! Zap! Zap!

Boom! Boom! Boom!

Like an awakened beast, an unstoppable Levi charged into the enemies.

Those God class warriors were no match for him, and soon, many were down on the ground, injured or dead.

The warriors were caught off-guard by Levi's ferocious counter-attack. But despite the earlier massive loss, they quickly recovered, adjusted their formation, and trapped him again.
